Goes Before Lobby Hunters Again at His Own Request.

Says He Meant to Bring About Just What Occurred.

Senator Nelson Has Sharp Clash With Senator Reed.

Washington, July 8.—An end to the Wall Street features of the lobby investigation was in sight when the senate committee resumed its hearing today. David Lamar had asked permission to make a final statement, explaining Edward Lauterbach's charges yesterday that Lamar had assured him Senator Stone and Speaker Clark were anxious for a "peaceful understanding" with Morgan and Steel interests.

A half dozen men prominently identified with wool manufacturing industries in the United States and several connected with campaigns for a change or the retention of the sugar tariff were on hand again today to be examined as to their "lobbying" activities. The wool tariff witnesses included William Whitman, Thomas O. Marvin, Winthrop L. Marvin, all of Boston, and S. W. McClintock of Salt Lake City.

Lamar took the stand at his own request to make a statement taking up the recital of the motives back of his relations with Edward Lauterbach.

"I realize perfectly that my life and character are on trial before this committee," he began. He argued that his testimony and Lauterbach's had shown they were not engaged in any effort to get money from J. P. Morgan & Co. or other interests.

Tells His Motives.

"I'll tell you what my motive was," said Lamar. "It was either to force these men to recognize the injustice of their attitude toward Lauterbach and myself, or force them to come out into the open with the charges of blackmail they had circulated in New York for years against both of us. Ledyard and his associates had ruined

DESPONDENT PAIR SWALLOW POISON

Former Princeton Student and His Bride May Recover.

Englewood, N. J., July 8.—Physicians were hopeful today for the ultimate recovery of John L. Peltrowitz and a young woman he says is his bride, both of whom are suffering from a slow poison taken yesterday with suicidal intent. They were despondent because the young man's father had cut off his allowance, and were fearful of separation.

The girl bride says she was Barbara M. Ackerman of Baltimore before her marriage, and her statement was borne out by her sister, Mrs. C. T. Metz of Brooklyn, who visited her early today.

Peltrowitz said today that his father was a "traveling merchant." He would not say where he lived. Relatives of the girl say Peltrowitz was formerly a student at Princeton.

ESCANABA LAWYER IS KILLED BY MOTOR

Car Loses Wheel and John Cumminsky Is Crushed to Death.

Marinette, Wis., July 8.—John Cumminsky, 45 years old, a prominent attorney of Escanaba, was killed early today near Nadeau, Mich., and N. C. Spencer, his partner, was badly hurt, in a motor car accident.

They were on their way from Menominee to Escanaba. While the car was going around a curve, it skidded, the left rear wheel came off and the car went into the ditch. Cummisky was caught under the wreckage and instantly killed. Spencer will recover.

BEMIDJI'S SITE BEING EXAMINED

Commission to Locate New Normal Visit Beltrami County Seat.

Bemidji, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At noon today the commission that is to name the city in which the new normal school is to be located completed an eighteen-mile trip around the shore line of Lake Bemidji and after a hearty lunch proceeded in autos to view the $50,000 site offered by Bemidji to the senate for the new school. In addition the commission is spending the afternoon visiting farms in this vicinity.

To Hear Bemidji Arguments.

Tonight at the Commercial club the commission will listen to arguments in favor of Bemidji made by Bemidji citizens. The commission arrived this morning. It is headed by State Superintendent C. G. Schulz and its other members are Senator Ole Sageng of Dalton, Representative W. W. Brown of St. James, Attorney S. B. Wilson of Mankato and James M. Ferguson of Duluth.

The commission will remain in Bemidji tonight and go to Cass Lake tomorrow. A written petition has been received by the commission from Erskine asking that the new school be located there.

HEAD OF CUBAN POLICE WILL DIE OF WOUNDS

BIG REVENUE FROM TAXES

Majority of One for Underwood-Simmons Measure Assured.

Washington, July 8.—Total yearly revenues of the corporation tax and the income tax section of the new tariff bill, as revised by the senate, were estimated today at $106,625,000 by the commissioner of internal revenue, in statistics prepared for Chairman Simmons of the finance committee.

The corporation tax is expected to yield $37,000,000 and the income tax $69,625,000. As the income tax cannot operate for the first two months of this year, the total revenue for 1913 will be decreased to $95,000,000.

These estimates are higher than those for the bill as it passed the house

Majority Favor Bill.

Forty-seven Democratic senators stood up in the party caucus one by one late yesterday and declared their intention to vote for the Underwood-Simmons tariff revision bill as finally approved by the caucus a few minutes previously

Two senators, Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana, said they would not make such promises because of the proposal to place sugar on the free list in 1916. Senators Hitchcock of Nebraska and Culberson of Texas were absent, but both are known to be in favor of the bill. This gives the Democrats forty-nine votes for the bill, or a slender majority of one, with the vote of the vice president to fall back on in an emergency.

An absolutely binding resolution was not adopted, the poll by individuals

CUBAN OFFICIALS IN PISTOL DUEL IN STREET

Chief of Police Shot and Governor and Two Legislators Arrested.

Havana, Cuba, July 8.—Gen. Armando Riva, chief of the Cuban national police, still was alive today, but the surgeons declared there was no hope of his recovery from bullet wounds he received last evening during a pistol fight on the Prado.

Order has been maintained, although partisan excitement runs high.

Bail was refused to Gen. Ernesto Asbert, governor of Havana province; Senator Vidal Morales, and Representative Arias, who were arrested for participating in the fighting, which was brought about in consequence of a raid by Gen. Riva on the Asbert club on Saturday night, when many members were taken into custody for gambling.

Gen. Asbert says he did not fire during the affray, and that Representative Arias fired only when he had been assaulted by Gen. Riva. Many witnesses, however, assert that all three of the arrested men fired repeatedly.

Gen. Asbert and Representative Arias were consigned to the city prison by the magistrate on the charge of murder, and Senator Morales remains under detention.

ROOSEVELT ON HIS WAY TO ARIZONA.

Chicago, July 8.—Theodore Roosevelt, accompanied by his sons, Archibald and Quentin, spent an hour in Chicago today before proceeding on his trip to Arizona. The vacation party was met by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who expressed regret that he could not go along.

The colonel's first stop will be at Deming, N. M. He plans to visit the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and to study the habits of the Hopi Indians.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE WILL INVESTIGATE THE PITTSBURG BANK'S CASE

$8,000 REGISTERED MAIL STOLEN FROM POUCHES IN REGINA

SHOT NEARLY HIT WILSON

Coolness of Summer Home Tempts Him to Stay There.

Norfolk, Va., July 8.—The yacht Mayflower, with President Wilson on board, came near being struck by a projectile last Thursday while proceeding up the Potomac to Washington, according to reports received here. The shell was fired from the Indian Head proving grounds and is said to have fallen close to the Mayflower. It was fired, reports say, from a twelve-inch gun that was being tested.

The president is said not to have lost his composure. He is quoted as saying, however, that the testing of guns in the Potomac was dangerous to navigation.

Yacht's Officers Silent.

Washington, July 8.—Confirmation of the narrow escape of the president's yacht Mayflower from a twelve-inch shell fired from the proving grounds at Indian Head could not be had here. Officers of the yacht were silent on the subject. Numerous complaints of the firing have been received in the past from captains of vessels, but to date no accidents have occurred.

Finds Relief From Heat.

Cornish, N. H., July 8.—The cheerful glow of wood fires in the summer White House last night brought cozy warmth from the autumn-like breezes that swept the surrounding hills, and President Wilson was so delighted with the sudden drop in temperature that he was considering the possibility of extending his stay until Thursday.

The president decided definitely that he would not go back today. He set no exact day for his return, but there appeared little doubt that it would be in a day or two.

Serious Mismanagement Is Charged By Treasury Official.

Pittsburg Banking Circles Quiet and Free From Alarm.

Washington, July 8.—John Skelton Williams, assistant secretary of the treasury, who represented Secretary McAdoo at the closing of the Pittsburg First-Second National bank, today declared that the institution had been "seriously mismanaged and the extent of the mismanagement would be determined by the department of justice."

It developed today that the treasury department yesterday offered the solvent Pittsburg banks $5,000,000 of government deposits to meet any emergency, but that the offer was declined because the banks were in a position to meet the situation.

The entire capital and surplus of the First-Second, amounting to $5,500,000, probably has been wiped out, but officers of the bank have assured the government that depositors will be paid in full or nearly in full.

Look Into Discrepancy.

United States Attorney Jordan at Pittsburg and a special agent of the department of justice probably will make the contemplated inquiry. Officials now are giving particular attention to the discrepancy between the sworn report of the bank to the comptroller of the currency on June 4 and the financial statement published in the Pittsburg newspapers. The report to the comptroller showed nearly $2,000,000 in rediscounts or borrowed money, but that item was omitted from the published statement. The national bank act required the publication of the statement in the form submitted to the comptroller.

Treasury officials today reiterated

WOMAN DRUGGED AND ROBBED ON TRAIN

Mrs. Janas Says Over $2,000 Was Taken From Her.

Huntington, W. Va., July 8.—Mrs. A. C. Janas, wife of a wealthy tailor of this city, informed the police last night that she had been robbed of over $2,000 on a Chesapeake & Ohio railroad train en route to Cincinnati. Maintaining she was drugged, Mrs. Janas says she found herself at a hotel at Maysville, Ky., and alleges she was abducted and robbed. She alleges that she was offered candy by a passenger, and partook of it, and seemed to lose consciousness, and found herself, when she reached a normal state, at a Kentucky hotel.

The police are investigating.

RICH CONTRACTOR FOUND MURDERED IN REGINA HOTEL ROOM

Regina, Sask., July 8.—John T. Scott, a wealthy and prominent contractor here and son of John Scott, president of a large grain company at Montreal, was found dead in his bed at a local hotel here today. The police are seeking two companions who last were seen with Scott last night. Before coming to this city, Scott was a contractor for several years in Cleveland, Ohio.

MAKES DASH FOR LIBERTY

Chief Troyer Wings Fugitive and Again Places Him in Custody.

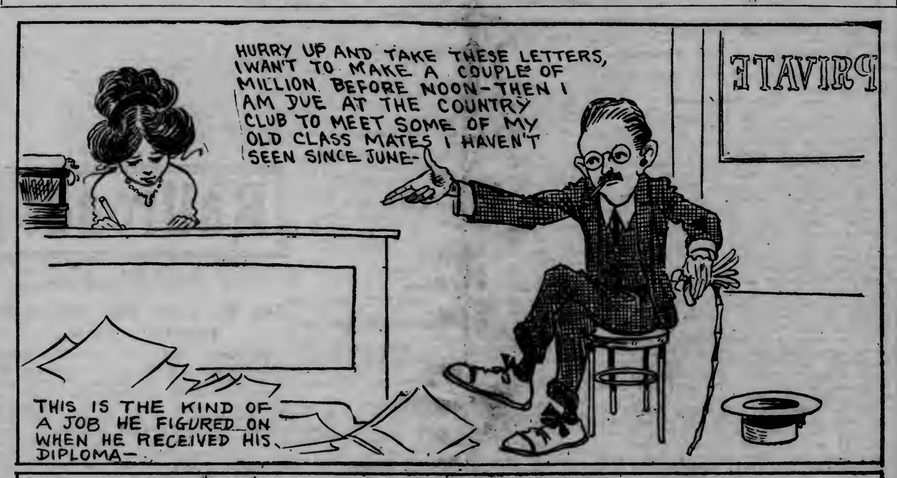

George Harrison, brought up in municipal court this morning on the charge of taking part in the swindle game which cost Adolph and Arthur Hoffman of Pine City $158 during June, made a spectacular dash for liberty shortly after 11 o'clock. He was captured by Chief Troyer near Lake avenue and Michigan street only after the head of the police department had fired two shots at the fugitive, one of them going through his coat sleeve.

Harrison was brought up at 10 o'clock for a hearing, but owing to a technicality in the complaint made against the prisoner, Edward Kenney, his attorney, asked for a dismissal. Chief Troyer then went downstairs to make out a new complaint previous to arraigning him on the new charge. While the chief was downstairs making the new complaint the courtroom was nearly empty, only the court officers and several spectators being in the room. Just as the chief returned to the court and placed the new complaint in the hands of Walter Richeson, deputy clerk, declaring at the same time that Harrison would be rearrested and rearraigned to make sure that a dismissal would be impossible, the prisoner jumped out of his seat and made a dash for the door. There was no one on guard and in a moment Harrison was downstairs and out on the street.

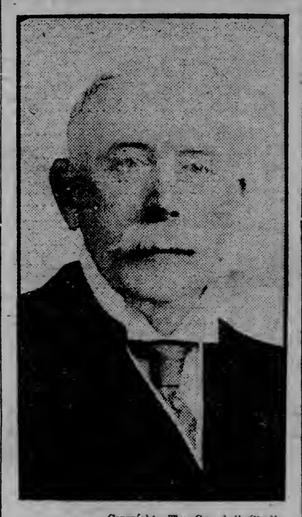

Chief Troyer saw Harrison dash out of the room and he immediately ran after him, at the same time yelling to one of the officers to obtain an automobile. Harrison was about a half block away when the chief reached the sidewalk in front of the municipal court building, but the head of the po-

RAILROAD MEN WOULD STRIKE

Ninety-Four Per Cent Favor Action—Managers Are Notified.

Erie Road Refuses to Consider Possible Wage Advance.

Union Leaders Will Hold Another Conference on Situation.

New York, July 8.—Ninety-four per cent of the members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and of the Order of Railway Conductors out of 76,683 participants in a strike vote in the wage dispute with the Eastern railroads, are in favor of a strike.

These figures were announced today at a joint meeting of union representatives and a committee of railroad managers.

When the conference convened, the Erie railroad announced that it had withdrawn from the proceedings on the ground that it would be unable to meet any advance which might result. This practically institutes a strike.

It was conceded before the meeting that the vote would be overwhelmingly for a strike. This does not mean that a walkout will follow, however. The unions hope to force arbitration under the Erdman act, as was the case in the firemen's demands. To this proposal the roads violently object, and it is not known what middle ground can be reached unless congress promptly amends the Erdman law, increasing the board to six members. Both sides have indorsed such a bill as superior to the present board of three, which places heavy responsibility on the shoulders of the third, or neutral, member.

Union Leaders to Meet.

After the unions had submitted the result of the strike vote and reiterated their demands, the conference adjourned. President A. B. Garretson, for the conductors, and W. G. Lee, for the trainmen, then announced that a conference of union heads from all the roads involved would be held here on Saturday, at which the strike vote would be confirmed and a course of action adopted. The result will be reported to the railroads on Monday.

With reference to the Erie, Mr. Lee said that that road's withdrawal would not necessarily mean that a strike would be directed against it.

"We are dealing with all the roads as a unit," he said, and if the Erie's action precipitated a strike it would not be against the Erie alone, but against all the roads."

MORE THAN YEAR'S WORK TO BE DONE

Will Be One of Largest and Most Modern in Country.

President Farrell Says 1,200 Men Are Now Being Employed.

New Model Town Will Be Credit to City of Duluth.

Twenty million dollars will have been spent before the United States Steel corporation finishes its developments in Duluth.

James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, made this statement this afternoon on his return from Hibbing and Coleraine and an inspection of the big steel plant, now building at Gary. Because of extensions of original plans it will be a year before parts of the Gary plants are completed and a year and a half for others.

"Duluth is an ideal location for a steel plant," said President Farrell, "and the natural advantages of location were an important factor in the decision of the United States Steel corporation to build here.

1,200 Men at Work.

"The plant at Gary will be one of the largest and most modern in the country. The works of the Minnesota Steel company are nearing completion and some 1,200 men are employed in finishing the buildings. The machinery is beginning to arrive and is being assembled. Even at the rapid rate at which the work is progressing it will take at least a year to complete some departments and perhaps six months longer to finish others.

"The original plans have been extended to include larger units. Aside from this a cement plant with a capacity of 40,000 barrels of cement per day is being built at a cost of nearly $2,000,000.

"These additions were decided upon as a result of my visit here two years ago.

"A new town will be built on the property of the company and will be one of the most modern in the country. It will be a credit to Duluth as well as to the United States Steel corporation.

"With the building of the Minnesota Steel company's plants, the cement plants and the new steel ore dock of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, the United States Steel corporation is expending upwards of $20,000,000 at Duluth.

"Work is proceeding without interruption, showing the corporation's confidence in the future and particularly with respect to the potentialities of the great Northwest."

President Farrell as well as the other members of the party were much impressed by the delightful climate of Duluth. He said weather conditions here were unsurpassable for summer holiday seekers.

With Mr. Farrell on the trip to the range were his brother William H. Farrell of Hartford, Conn., J. A. Hatfield, president of the American Bridge company and J. Robertson Dunn, a prominent vessel owner of Liverpool, England. Their wives accompanied them.

Duluth officials of the corporation who also made the trip were W. J. Olcott, president, and John McLean, vice president of the Oliver Mining company; W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern; George L. Reis, vice president of the Minnesota Steel company, and K. C. Hoxie, chief engineer.

As soon as the special train arrived at the Union station at 2:30 o'clock the party entered four automobiles and took the boulevard drive. They were expected to return at 5 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock this evening President Farrell will be tendered a banquet at the Country club. Covers will be laid for forty-eight persons who will occupy four tables. Guests for the most part will include officials of the United States Steel corporation and their wives.

President Farrell and party will return to Cleveland tomorrow morning on the steamship James A. Farrell, of the Pittsburg fleet. The boat is loading ore at the Missabe dock but the cargo will be on tonight. The Farrell will anchor in the bay to await the arrival of the distinguished visitors.

ILLINOIS SUFFRAGE LAW TO BE TESTED

Lawyer Says He Has Already Been Retained in the Case.

Chicago, July 8.—According to John E. Hogan, a lawyer of Taylorville, Ill., who was in this city today, the first test of the new woman's suffrage law of Illinois will be had next Tuesday at Mount Auburn, Christian county, when there will be a special election to choose a successor to the late Mayor D. P. Windsor, who was shot and killed by Editor F. P. Slater.

Down state politicians, Mr. Hogan said, are particularly anxious to have the constitutionality of the law tested before the April elections, at which local option will be the principal issue. He explained that he had been retained to start the fight, but did not divulge the names of his clients. It is planned, he said, to challenge the vote of a woman friendly to the arrangement, to get the case before the supreme court by October and to obtain a decision by December.

JUNE WAS BUSY MONTH AT THE COUNTY POOR FARM

June, 1913, was a big month for the St. Louis county poor farm. According to the monthly report of Dr. C. J. Woolway, medical superintendent of the farm, relief and medical attendance were extended to 208 persons at the three institutions conducted by the county poor commission. The daily average was 145.

April of the current year holds the record for the number of cases handled, 222 people receiving aid at the poor farm during that month. In March there were 214 cases. With the coming of warmer weather, however, there has been a falling off in the number of applicants for relief.

During the past month, there were seventy-nine patients in the county hospital of whom thirty-seven were discharged and six were classed as inmates of the almshouse. Of those discharged, three were sent to St. Luke's hospital for operations. Two of the three have returned to the farm to convalesce.

In the almshouse proper, there were ninety-one inmates, a large number of whom received treatment for minor ailments. Twelve were in the hospital section of the main house for the greater part of the month. One of the inmates discharged was sent to St. Luke's hospital for an operation during the month but he has returned to the farm.

In all there were eleven deaths at the poor farm during June, five among the hospital cases and six at the tuberculosis sanitarium. At the latter institution there were thirty-eight patients during the month, six of whom were discharged and six died.

Total population, three institutions, June 1, 152, divided as follows: Inmates, 84; hospital cases, 38; tuberculosis patients, 30.

Total population at the end of the month in three institutions, 144, divided as follows: Inmates, 87; hospital cases, 31; tuberculosis patients, 26.

VOSE PIANOS

Emerson told the truth about the triumph of merit when he wrote the little sermonette about the world wearing a beaten track to the door of the preacher, author or mouse trap maker who did their work BETTER than their neighbors.

Sixty-one years ago James W. Vose proved this truth. 70,000 families have come to the house of VOSE because they knew where to get the best pianos.

Today VOSE is to the piano world what Shakespeare is in the world of drama. What Edison is in this age of electricity.

There's only one reason for VOSE supremacy. It is as Emerson said: VOSE "builded better than his neighbors."

You have not put yourself in a position to compare and contrast pianos until you know the VOSE. This is our invitation. Please call and let us show you.

ROMANCE IN HOSPITAL

Cupid Did His Work Well Under Shelter of St. Luke's.

Nurse Will Be Bride of One of Duluth's "Confirmed Bachelors."

Romance, the alchemy of whose wonders works 'neath the softened rays of the moon, or whose charmed touch is applied in the paths where the steps of man tarry perhaps but a moment from the tumult of this busy world, has touched a very well known citizen of this city with the indelible mark left by the sting of the arrow of Cupid.

W. H. McKay, owner of the McKay hotel of Duluth, today announced his engagement to Miss Nina McLeod of Minneapolis, the engagement coming as the culmination of a romance the scene of which was laid in St. Luke's hospital.

Mr. McKay was lying dangerously near the point of death. Friends and even mere acquaintances were deeply concerned in the outcome of the fight with the Grim Reaper. It was through this ordeal that the girl whom Mr. McKay has asked to become his wife, nursed the patient with tender care and solicitude.

They say some men are confirmed bachelors. Who knows? Perhaps the right time, the right place and the right girl never were in proper propinquity. Romance is a thing past understanding; it weaves its golden meshes of love when few suspect.

When the patient recovered from the illness that came so near resulting seriously, he did not forget the young woman whose tender regard had played its part. The romance thus auspiciously begun ripened into true love.

The wedding will take place in the very near future and will be held in Minneapolis, the home of the parents of the bride to be.

Attendants at St. Luke's, that home of many spectres of sorrow and pain, are pleased beyond mere expression over the culmination of a romance that grew under their perhaps suspecting eyes. Those who labor in the service of the ill learn to be observant—and love comes infrequent.

After a wedding trip it is expected that the future home of the happy couple will be at the McKay hotel.

CIVIL CASES IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

A jury calendar was called in municipal court this morning before Judge Windom, the first case being that of Mike Balta of Chisholm against the Great Northern railroad, the plaintiff suing for $500 damages as the result of an accident on March 22, 1912, when his wagon was struck by a freight engine.

The other cases on the present calendar are: Cameron vs. Cunliff, Wagner vs. Smith, Varicak vs. Great Northern Railroad company, and Dixon vs. New St. Louis Hotel company.

Sentenced to Chair.

Columbus, Ohio, July 8.—Judge E. B. Kinkead has sentenced Leslie Humphreys to the electric chair at the Ohio penitentiary on Oct. 23. Judge Kinkead found Humphreys guilty of murder in the first degree in killing Samuel E. Kelly of Berkeley, W. Va., in the perpetration of a robbery. Humphreys was tried without a jury, by agreement.

COURT TERM IS OPENED

Judge Morris Presides at July Term in Federal Court.

Preliminary Hearing on Street Railway Franchise Scheduled.

In Federal court this morning Judge Morris spent the time reading the calendar for the July term. T. E. Collins was appointed foreman of the jury.

Of the cases on the present calendar the following were ordered continued to the next term of court:

C. C. Charles F. Ruggles and Land, Log & Lumber company, vs. Thomas Smart, Nels Laitved, John Goodman, J. H. Crouch, Thomas Johnson, George Kirk, George Cochrane, Wes Wright, James Miller, William Kennedy, John Daucher, Frank Freeman, George Astrander, Conrad Lajombe, Thomas Sloan, William Blakely, Joseph McTagart and John Streetar.

George H. Crosby and E. B. Pierce, trustees for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company vs. Joseph W. Reynolds.

John P. Galbraith, as trustees of the estate of William De Wenter and Michael Fuchs, co-partners as De Wenter & Fuchs, bankrupt vs. F. A. Patrick & Co., a corporation.

Frank Urban vs. Whitney Bros. & Co.

George Ojorsky vs. Minnesota & Ontario Power company.

Frank De Benedet vs. Minnesota & Ontario Power company.

George Kangas vs. The Foundation company.

Stephen Proch vs. The Pennngton Mining company.

One Case Dismissed.

Only one case was dismissed, that of Sadie Matthews against the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company. In the case of Joseph D. McGilligan versus the same railroad company the plaintiff was ordered to put up a bond of $300 for the costs. The case of D. W. Owens versus the Canadian Northern Railroad company was withdrawn, settlement having been made out of court. All the other law cases will come up for trial during the present term, the first two being scheduled for this afternoon. They are: The United States of American versus the Minnesota & International Railway company, number 263, and the United States of American versus the same railroad, number 276.

In the cases not before the jury, two were continued and two passed. John Jenswold, attorney for John Wedin against the Pittsburg Coal company introduced a motion to remand the case to the district court.

Of the four chancery cases scheduled all were ordered heard, the one of the Central Trust Company of New York against the City of Duluth being set for July 24. The case is the one brought by the trust company to enjoin the city from attacking the franchise of the Duluth Street Railway company. This case promises to be the most important of the term. Davis, Kellogg & Severance, Francis W. Sullivan and H. A. Carmichael, former city attorney, will appear for the city of Duluth and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell and Joline, Larkin & Rathbun for the trust company.

Judge Morris passed on the bankruptcy case of Jacob Hill, alleged bankrupt, and ordered for trial the case of Frank A. Neffew, alleged bankrupt.

The complete list of cases to be disposed of during the present term is as follows:

PURE MILK IS THE RULE

Few complaints are being received of sour or impure milk this summer, according to Milk Inspector Gust Hedman.

During the warm weather he states that much of the attention of his branch of the health department is devoted to seeing that dairymen cool their milk properly and handle it in a suitable manner in clean receptacles. He says that in the majority of instances the bacteria count has shown less than 100,000 per cubic centimeter, a very satisfactory average. A few bad cases have been encountered, he explains, which brings the average for the whole city for June to 220,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

He expresses the belief that the ice cream conditions are improving, although it is more difficult to handle. One firm which showed the unusually high count of 11,000,000 bacteria is now installing a new pasteurizing outfit with a steam boiler, which is expected to remedy the situation. The firm which showed the second high count, 5,000,000, is making inquiries relative to the installation of a new outfit.

The local dairies are continuing to make improvements. The inspector's report for June shows that five new milk houses were erected last month. Sixty-five visits were made to dairies and ten milk samples out of eighty-five were found below the standard. Ten samples of ice cream were taken and fifty-five milk licenses were issued. The average butter fat for the month scored 3.95 per cent, above the requirement of the state law, which calls for 3.5 per cent.

Railroads

COSTS ON RAILROADS.

Two Big Lines Must Remunerate State for Expenses.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—The state will collect approximately $15,000 in costs from the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads as result of supreme court on rates. Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith has announced that special assistants had been chosen to look after this part of the re-arrangements of the rates. On the other hand, the state must pay the statutory cost of the Minneapolis & St. Louis but it is not expected that this will be heavy.

The mandate in the rate case is expected here from Washington some time next week.

WILL LECTURE ON HANDLING EXPLOSIVES.

James L. Taylor of New York, assistant to the chief inspector of the bureau of explosives of the American Railway association, will give a lecture in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium this evening on the safe transportation of explosives and inflammable and compressed gases. He was invited here by officials of railroads which have their terminals in Duluth. This traffic problem is now controlled by Federal regulation with which railroad employes are supposed to familiarize themselves. The lecture was arranged for the benefit of shippers as well as railroad men.

L. & N. EARNINGS ARE INCREASED.

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Gross earnings of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company for the fiscal year, ending June 30, exceeded gross earnings of the preceding year by more than $3,250,000, according to a statement issued by Charles Hayden, the company's controller. Gross receipts from operation from July 1, 1912, to June 30, 1913, were $53,467,771, as compared with $53,211,748 for the preceding corresponding period.

NEW SOUTH SHORE LAND COMMISSIONER.

Marquette, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. J. A. Jeffrey, professor of soils at the Michigan Agricultural college, has been named to succeed E. W. McPherran as land commissioner for the South Shore railway.

Merger Decree Entered.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 8.—The decree of the United States circuit judges, sitting as the District court of Utah, dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, was entered of record in the United States district court here yesterday. The way now is open for trustees appointed by the court to carry out the disposition of the $126,000,000 Southern Pacific stock owned by the Union Pacific Railroad company. The decree was entered at a special session of the district court.

Identity of Mysterious Woman Arrested in St. Paul Established.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—The identity of the woman of mystery, who Sunday baffled all efforts of the police to ascertain her name and purpose of her visit to St. Paul, was cleared Monday when Oliver Long, secretary of the board of control, examined certain records kept in his office and found that her name was Mrs. Hilda Lindgren, living in Duluth, and whose 21-month-old son was being cared for at the state hospital for crippled and deformed children at Phalen Park.

The woman yesterday visited the child, whom, heartsick, she had come to St. Paul to see.

She is a Finn, cannot speak English and was unable to make known her wants at Central station.

HATCH HITS OUT FROM THE SHOULDER IN OPEN LETTER

Says Commissioner Visited Office But Three Times in Last Month.

News Tribune Employe Threatened to "Run Him Out of Town."

In a statement issued today S. R. Hatch, the deposed manager of the water and light department, charges directly and by reference:

That Commissioner Leonidas Merritt has visited the department not more than two or three times in the last month and then only to plead the request or complaint of some person after it had been refused by the manager.

That no other member of the city commission has visited the department at any time, although legislating for it.

That the commissioner has asked for the creation of positions for relatives and friends at salaries not commensurate with the importance of the position.

That Mr. Merritt gave orders to subordinates in the department without consulting the manager.

That Mr. Merritt requested special privileges in violation of the rules of the department.

That Mr. Hatch twice proffered his resignation to Mr. Merritt and that it was refused both times, and no indication was given to Mr. Hatch that his services were not wanted.

That a member of the editorial staff of the News Tribune appeared at Mr. Hatch's office while he was assistant manager and endeavored to force a reduction on his bills on the plea that he had driven others out of town and might do the same by him.

That after Mr. Hatch had refused to grant a discount of $27 on the bills of the News Tribune on the sixteenth of the month Mr. Merritt had granted the discount over his head.

Mr. Hatch states in his statement that he holds no resentment and his statement is not issued in passion, but is intended solely to acquaint the public with the condition of affairs in the department. He says that he has always endeavored to work in harmony with the commissioner and the other city departments. He says the inaccordance of ideas is more seeming than real through the failure of the commissioner and the commission as a whole to become familiar with the work of the department "instead of getting his or its information second hand from those bringing complaints and criticisms and from those seeking favors."

Statement in Full.

Mr. Hatch's statement follows:

July 7, 1913.

"To the Citizens of Duluth:

"The commissioner of public utilities, Mr. Merritt, has seen fit to request my resignation as manager of the water and light department, and I have complied with his request, and will close my relations with the city of Duluth as soon as I can fully acquaint Mr. Merritt's new appointee with his new duties and feel assured that I am leaving affairs as well as possible under the circumstances. I feel that it may be well in the interests of the department that I make some statement of the conditions that have existed, and some of the things that have happened since the affairs of the department have been placed in the hands of Mr. Merritt and which have led up to his present action.

Resigned Twice.

"Relative to Mr. Merritt's action, I have nothing to say save this, that since I had twice before proffered him my resignation in favor of anyone whom he might prefer, and he as plainly and definitely assured me it was not desired, it would seem to have been only the part of courtesy to have informed me in some way as to his change of mind, and before formally requesting my resignation and immediately giving out such fact for publication, have given me opportunity to vindicate my course in the matter.

"It has been inferred and stated that my attitude and that of the department toward the new form of government and the new order of things has been antagonistic. As a matter of fact, however, that has not been my disposition in the matter. None more than I have desired to work in harmony with all other city departments, or believed in such harmony and co-operation. I believe such harmony and co-operation to be a matter of give and take, however, after all interests are duly considered, and not of unconsidered conformity by any one department.

"From the first, both under the board, and later under the commission, my one thought has been the interest of the department and the community which owns it, my one desire to conserve its interests as best I might, and my actions have been governed accordingly. If my ideas have not always been in accord with those of the commissioner, and they have not, it has been with no sense whatever of antagonism either to himself or any others. As the official in immediate charge of the affairs of the department, it was my duty to the department and to the community to work in its interests, and such has been the sole governing motive of all of my actions.

Wanted Board Retained.

"It is true that I argued for the retention of the board, for I believed then, even as I do now, that it would have been in the interests of all concerned to retain it, at least for a period, or until a new scheme for the control of the affairs of the department could have been well worked out. In so doing I believed I was doing only my duty, and what it was right for me to do, further it was at the commissioner's own instance that I did so. Later, after he had decided to dispense with the board, so far as I was concerned the matter was entirely dropped, and I immediately set about to carry on the affairs and business of the department as best I might under the new regime.

"It is true also that I advised the retention of the engineering division of the department, arguing strongly against its coalescense with the engineering department at the city hall, stating plainly my reasons therefor. I contended for the adoption, so far as the water and light department is concerned, of a method whereby its bills might be met more promptly than had been possible in the past; I contended strongly against the business papers and records of the department being taken from its files and filed in the city hall, where they could not be readily referred to in the course of everyday business. It is true that I contended against the creation of positions in the department for the commissioner's relatives and friends, except as the needs of the department demanded, or in paying salaries not commensurate with such positions. It is true that I contended against granting requests or privileges where such could not be done without discriminating against other patrons of the department, or which would tend to vitiate the integrity of the plants. And it is also true that I objected to Mr. Merritt's giving orders to members of the department holding subordinate positions under me, without first calling the matter to my attention.

"But if I have done these things, they have always been done in a uniformly courteous and respectful manner, and full explanations for my reasons therefor have always been given. Since I had been placed in immediate charge of these plants and the business of the department, I have taken it as my duty, imposed by the office while I was in charge, to keep them intact, to conserve their integrity, and to handle the affairs of the department in as businesslike, efficient, and economical a manner as possible, for therein lies the basis for the best service the department is capable of giving to the people of the community whose plant it is, and for whom it was established and is being operated.

"If doing my duty as it has been given me to see it; if contending for what I believe to be for the best interests of the plants placed under my control, and what I have believed to be in the best interests of all; if asking to be allowed to appear before the council and be heard in the interests of the department, before ordinances and rules were passed which might seriously affect the workings of the department, and to place before such body matters of large import affecting the interests of all the community, is insubordination, as hinted by the commissioner, then, and then only, have I been guilty of insubordination.

Second-Hand Information.

"It seems and has seemed to me, however, that these feelings of difference, this inaccordance of ideas between the commissioner and myself and, perhaps, the council, are more seeming than real. Had the commissioner, or the council as a whole, taken the trouble to investigate the department and become familiar with its work, its endeavors, its needs, and what its management was trying to accomplish, instead of getting his or its information second-hand from those bringing complaints and criticisms and from those seeking favors, the whys and wherefors of the various things contended for would readily have been appreciated, if not, perhaps, accorded with, and they would readily have realized that a great deal that has appeared, perhaps, as antagonism, has been anything but just that.

"The magnitude of the department, the extremely varied character of its operations and activities, and the fact that it differs from the other city departments in being a commercial institution, self-supporting and complete within itself, would seem to preclude its not being given all due consideration and study, yet no member of the council, save the commissioner of public utilities, has visited its offices since their installation into office April 14 last. The commissioner of public utilities, although he has been provided with a desk and repeatedly invited and requested to occupy it at least a part of each day and become acquainted with the affairs and viewpoint of the department, has seen fit not to appear at the water and light department more than two or three times during the last month, and then only without a full knowledge of the facts, to present the request or plead the complaint of some person whose request or complaint the department had not been able to grant.

"To really legislate intelligently for such a department and to pass justly upon its work, its methods, and the attitude of its members, it would seem that a closer study of it, a more intimate knowledge of its workings, and a closer contact with its members than has up to the present time pertained, is not only desirable, but must be had by both council and commissioner, if the department itself and the community at large are not to suffer.

"It has been stated by the commissioner that it has been impossible to get work done. In answer thereto let it be said that whatever the commissioner has called for has been forthcoming even at the putting aside of current and more essential work for the time being. The department is essentially an operating department, and all its force save perhaps a portion of the engineering division of the department, is engaged upon the regular work of operation that must be met from day to day, for the business of the department must be attended to, and operating staffs are not usually over—but undermanned, and the water and light department is no exception. When work, other than the regular work of the department, involving large outlay in time and energy is required or requested, some provision for carrying it out and completing it when wanted, should be made at the same time that it is requested.

"The commissioner has indicated his desire that a new schedule of rates be made and put into effect. The matter of the probable inequableness of the rates as between the gas and water divisions of the business, and as between the various classes of consumers was first pointed out to Mr. Merritt by the writer, with the added statement that their study and adjustment was a part of a comprehensive scheme of work for the reorganization of the department, which I had already outlined and was at work upon, as indicated in my annual report. After carefully explaining the work such a study and adjustment of the rates would involve, and pointing out that while the present rates might and probably would be found to be in some measure inequable, yet such inequableness was not sufficient, considered in any way, to make it essential work as compared with a great deal of other work which the department had on hand to do, and which was far more pressing than the matter of rates. I was surprised to learn that one of his reasons for requesting my resignation had been that I had been expected to accomplish such adjustment in the last two or three weeks' time, and without any mention or provision being made for employing additional help to effect the same.

News Tribune's Attacks.

"Articles have appeared repeatedly in a certain one of the daily papers of the city, attacking the department and myself. It seems needless to say that little that is truth has been stated and that little has been twisted and warped. I have permitted them to remain unanswered, deeming them to need no answer; further, I have felt that it was not my place to do so, since an investigation as to the truth by the paper itself, had it desired the truth, or a word from the commissioner would have precluded their being published. Why such attacks have been made and continued upon me personally, I am at a loss to understand, unless it be to forward some ulterior purpose. It may possibly be due to resentiment upon the part of one of the editorial staff who appeared in my office at one time while I was assistant manager, because I would not be frightened into arbitrarily reducing his bills upon his informing me that he had run certain other parties who had incurred his dislike, out of town, through his position upon the staff of the paper, and insinuating that he would do the same by me if I did not comply with his requests. Or perhaps it may have been in some measure due to the fact that I would not grant discount which amounted to around $27 upon the paper's bills presented for payment on the sixteenth of the month, when they should have been paid upon the twelfth or before, and where there was no valid excuse for their not having been so paid. The paper did later receive such discount, however, over my head, at the behest of the commissioner, after I had explained the whole matter to him, his ground for so doing being, as he said, that unless he allowed it, it would probably be taken out of the pay of the office boy or clerk who forgot to mail the letter containing the checks.

"Be these things as they may, they are apart from the crux of the whole matter, in which the people should be and will be vitally interested, and that is the question of the proper management of the plants. It seems to me, and has so seemed in the past, that the policies, and the control of the management of so large and important a municipally owned department, or business, and one affecting so many people and interests, should not be in the hands of one man alone, especially if that man is subject to political influences, but should rather be under the control of a body of men, whether that body be the council itself, or an independent body of men.

"The execution of such policies may be and should be safely left to one man. Whether that one man be the commissioner himself or a manager, the exigencies of the case, and the multiplicity of the duties of the commissioner will determine. In any case, it would seem that the man in direct charge should have his duties, his powers, and the limitations of his power, defined by ordinance, as they are not at present.

"The foregoing remarks, which are not made either in passion or resentment, are commended to all fair-minded people of the community for their consideration. Concerning myself, my connection with the department has been upon the whole pleasant to me, and while under different circumstances I should have been glad to have remained with the department, until all the work I have elsewhere outlined for accomplishment, could have been effected, yet under the present conditions of seeming inaccordance of ideas between the commissioner and myself, the added responsibilities of the position, and the lessened powers to meet them, I am very glad to be relieved of the responsibility the management imposes.

"Very respectfully,

"S. R. HATCH."

their confidence that the general banking condition in Pittsburg and the entire country was sound and strong and that the failure of the First-Second National bank was simply the collapse of a weak spot due, as they phrased it, to "unsound banking."

Quiet in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—Financial Pittsburg showed little outward evidence today of yesterday's crash in banking circles involving the failure of the First-Second National bank, with $32,000,000 of deposits, the First National bank of McKeesport, an allied institution, and the appointment of receivers for the American Water Works & Guarantee company, the largest concern of its kind in the country, and for the banking house of J. S. & W. S. Kuhn, Inc.

J. S. and W. S. Kuhn this morning resigned as president and vice president, respectively, of the Pittsburg Bank for Savings, at which a run is being directed. The following officers were elected to take charge of the bank: W. J. Jones, president; L. M. Plumer, vice president; A. N. Voegtley, secretary-treasurer.

The run on the savings institution that was started by the failures yesterday was resumed this morning, possibly in a somewhat larger magnitude, but the same method as adopted yesterday was pursued today. All depositors were paid $50 at once and notice of thirty, sixty and ninety days for larger amounts were required.

Has Millions on Hand.

With the assurance of several millions in cash and quick assets on hand, the run on this bank is not looked upon as likely to result seriously. In fact, bankers with no immediate connections with the Kuhn institutions assert that the Pittsburg Bank for Savings will weather the situation and make all payments as demanded, under the conditions imposed, with the result that at the expiration of the time of notice for withdrawal of the larger amounts, the public confidence will be restored.

About the First-Second National bank this morning large groups of foreigners were gathered, copying from the doors of the foreign banking department the notice of the closing by the government, which had been posted in sixteen different languages.

A meeting of the clearing house association is called for later in the day at which each member has been urged to be present. No intimation has been given of the purpose of the meeting, but some statement is expected regarding the closing of the First-Second bank.

Formal Action Taken.

McKeesport, Pa., July 8.—The First National Bank of McKeesport, controlled by J. S. & W. S. Kuhn, which was closed by the directors yesterday, today was formally closed by order of the comptroller of the currency at Washington.

being substituted, and that poll was put only on the ground of personal promise and was not made binding. A resolution was adopted, however, declaring the Underwood-Simmons bill a party measure and urging its undivided support without amendment, unless such should be submitted by the committee.

Senator Newlands of Nevada cast the only vote against this resolution, but Senators Shafroth of Colorado, Ransdell and Thornton did not vote.

Adopt Resolution.

The resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That the tariff bill agreed to by this conference in its amended form is declared to be a party measure and we urge its undivided support as a duty by Democratic senators without amendment. Provided, however, that the conference of the finance committee may, after reference or otherwise, propose amendments to the bill.

Senator Kern, chairman of the caucus, Mr. Simmons of the finance committee, who have fought for the measure, and other administration leaders, expressed satisfaction over the outcome and declared that enough votes were personally pledged to assure the passage of the measure with free wool and free sugar included.

Before final action on the bill, the caucus gave concessions to the senators from wool growing states by abolishing an amendment making effective a provision for free raw wool on Dec. 1, 1913, and the rates on manufactures of wool, Jan. 1, 1914.

lice department made after the fugitive.

Opens Fire.

When Harrison reached First avenue east he turned down the avenue to Michigan street and then turned again to the west. By this time Chief Troyer had pulled out his revolver, and just as he also turned on Michigan street he fired at Harrison. The chief shot wild the first time just to scare the fugitive, but upon seeing that the prisoner refused to stop, he shot again and this time the bullet went through Harrison's coat sleeve, just grazing the man's left arm. It was then that Harrison slackened in his dash and the chief was soon upon him, bringing him immediately back to the courtroom.

Two of the officers had jumped into an automobile in front of the building and also made the chase, but the chief had already captured him, before the men in the machine could prove of any assistance.

Upon being brought back to the court, Harrison was rearraigned on the new charge. By agreement between Mr. Kenney and Harry Faher White, third assistant county attorney, who is conducting the case for the state, the hearing was postponed until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Adolph and Arthur Hoffman, the two complaining witnesses, claim that they were each swindled out of all their money on different occasions in the very same manner. It was when they met at their home in Pine City two weeks ago and discussed their losses that they realized they were swindled by the old trick of matching coins. They then decided to return to Duluth and report the matter to the police and find the crooks.

Last Tuesday afternoon Arthur was walking about the streets when he thought he saw one of the men who swindled him. He walked up to the stranger and told him to come to the station. The accosted one pulled out a knife and escaped.

Arthur then told what happened to his brother Adolph and the latter went down to the foot of Fifth avenue west in the hope of again locating the man. While down there he saw Harrison and he immediately notified Officers Ricketts and Monahan, who arrested the man. Harrison was arraigned last Wednesday morning and asked for a hearing, which was set for this morning. The examination is being conducted before Judge Cutting.

Harrison gives his age as 23 years and his business as that of an advertising solicitor. He has lived in Duluth several years. His bail was this morning fixed at $1,500.

many men, and I was determined they should not ruin me."

Lamar said he knew Lewis Cass Ledyard was trying to "trip him" when he began telephoning in the name of Representative Palmer, and then determined to fix up a "game" and lead Ledyard "to force the financial people into the open."

As Lamar proceeded with his statement his voice shook with emotion.

Always Agreed.

Lamar's choice of adjectives in speaking of various Wall Street men led senators to interrupt his statement frequently. Whenever the committee disapproved of something he said, Lamar immediately agreed with the objector, to the great amusement of the audience. The committee finally decided to hold Lamar strictly to answering questions. He testified he had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone had authorized him to make certain representations to the Morgan firm, and had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone said he represented Speaker Clark. Lauterbach had testified yesterday that all his information about Senator Stone and Speaker Clark had come from Lamar.

Under a sharp fire of questions, Lamar insisted that his only object was to bring about "just such a situation as this investigation."

"The Villain of Wall Street."

"I am the one villain in Wall Street," said Lamar bitterly. "All the rest are actuated by the highest motives and possess the highest ideals!"

Lamar declared the whole thing was "a major Wall Street operation traveling on parallel lines" and insisted he was "after" Ledyard, Cravath, Evarts, Lovett and "the Morgan, steel trust, Union Pacific and other interests" and wanted to force them to an open attack.

"It was a favorite method of mine for producing an explosion when I wanted one," he added.

"The Vicarious Sacrifice."

In his testimony yesterday Lauterbach pleaded that he had been the innocent victim and "vicarious sacrifice" in negotiations that have involved the Morgan firm, the Steel interests, New York attorneys, members of congress and men of lesser prominence.

Lauterbach sat all day under a searching fire of questions from senators on the lobby committee. He admitted, voluntarily or under demand of his questioners, most of the facts alleged by Ledyard, but he declared that throughout the negotiations between Ledyard and himself and between himself and members or representatives of the Morgan firm, he had been the innocent victim of those who had concealed facts or made misrepresentations to him.

The witness admitted his long association with Lamar and said it had been an honorable combination and a profitable one for him. He told of talking over with Lamar the Steel trust investigation and of seeing the proposed resolution and admitted urging Lamar to withhold it until he could see J. P. Morgan and others, and urge them to authorize him to prevent its introduction.

"Insult and Outrage."

Throughout the entire proceeding he declared there was no thought of reward on his part. He raised himself in the witness chair and shouted "No," with vehement emphasis when Senator Reed suggested that there had been effort "to shake down" the Morgan and Steel trust interests.

"That insinuation is an insult and outrage," he exclaimed.

At the night session Chairman Overman asked Lauterbach how he explained his statement yesterday that he knew of no telephone impersonations until Representative Palmer testified before the committee a few days ago, in view of his testimony before the committee on June 18 that he had heard of telephone impersonations of Representative Riordan. The witness insisted he meant yesterday afternoon that he had not heard of anyone impersonating Palmer.

Bursting through the fire of rapid questions, Lauterbach delivered an eloquent description of his course in the affair.

"It was a roaring farce for Lamar and Ledyard, and everyone—except for me, to whom it was a deep tragedy," said he. "I was known as a corporation lawyer and had gained the confidence of great financial men. I wish now I had attended to business of a smaller degree. I wish I had become a criminal lawyer—perhaps I am a criminal lawyer if we heed the suggestions made around this table."

Nelson in Wrangle.

Senator Reed and Senator Nelson got into a sharp wrangle about the treatment of the witness. Senator Nelson declared the witness was being bullyragged, and that he insisted upon the examination being conducted in decent order.

"I resent that remark," said Senator Reed.

"I don't care if you do," Senator Nelson retorted.

"Once I took occasion to be overly nice to you," Senator Reed said, "and I have been sorry for it ever since."

Lauterbach told the committee Lamar had excused his course "fairly satisfactorily" to him. He said Lamar had told him he acted as he did so that Ledyard and the other conspirators against Lauterbach and himself might be publicly exposed.

CONTEST FOR EVERY OFFICE AMONG ELKS

Leach's Supporters Claim Certain Victory for Him.

Rochester, N.Y., July 8.—With contests for nearly every office, from grand exalted ruler to grand trustee, the first business session of the forty-eighth annual reunion of the grand lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, opened this morning. Election of officers and the submission of reports were the chief business of the day.

Supporters of Edward Leach of New York, candidate of the "regulars," claimed a victory this morning with at least 1,000 votes margin. They did not concede more than 600 to J. Cookman Boyd of Baltimore, the "insurgent" candidate. A hot fight for grand trustee is being waged between Samuel V. Perrott of Indianapolis, and J. D. Jones of Scranton, Pa., and it may prove the closest contest in the list.

Every train entering the city brought more delegates today. The program, outside of the business section, included band concerts, a ball game and a roastfest. Tonight an electrical and floral parade of floats, with fireworks, will be held.

ARMY AVIATOR IS KILLED IN TEXAS

First Lieut. Call's Aeroplane Collapses During Flight.

Houston, Tex., July 8.—Lieut. Loren H. Call of the United States aviation corps was killed early today by the collapse and fall of his aeroplane north of Texas City. He had started his flight from the aviation field in the second army division mobilization camp.

The accident occurred several miles from the troop camp. First information was that the machine was completely wrecked and that the officer was dead when found. Lieut. Call was regarded as one of the best army aviators. Yesterday he made a 25-mile flight in 25 minutes.

Lieut. Call was born in Missouri, June 30, 1888, and was appointed a second lieutenant in the coast artillery from Kansas Sept. 25, 1909. He was promoted to first lieutenant July 1, 1911.

TOURISTS ARE FLOCKING IN

North American Late and 400 Passengers Remain on Board.

The sight of two big passenger vessels tied to one dock, was furnished Duluthians today.

The North American arrived from Chicago at 10 o'clock on its second trip of the season. She tied up at the northern end of the Northern Pacific's No. 4 dock at the foot of Sixth avenue. An hour later the Hamonic, the new Canadian passenger carrier, came in and took the lower half of the wharf.

The North American was due at 6 o'clock and should have been on her way back three hours later. The stop here was limited to the time required for necessary business. Passengers had no opportunity to see the city and while enough carryalls, coaches and motor cars to make up a circus parade waited for fares they waited in vain. Th fact that the boat has been late on its two first trips is advanced as another argument why the North American should be given a longer layover in Duluth. The schedule calls for only three hours here, from 6 to 9 a. m., and this affords virtually no time for sightseeing. Business men declare that it puts Duluth in the class of Mackinac, the Soo and other small places where the boat touches, notwithstanding that this is the end of the trip.

The North American had a big passenger list, more than 400 persons making the trip. If it continues to grow in popularity there is little doubt but that the full capacity, 520 persons, will soon be reached. There are 520 staterooms and not a person who has not a room will be carried.

The Hamonic also had a big list. Those who came up on her enjoyed a sightseeing trip about the city.

STEAMERS OUT OF MUD AT THE SOO.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 8.—The steamer Peters, which was blown ashore on Crab island, Sunday morning, was released yesterday. After making slight repairs at Detour, the Peters proceeded to Superior.

After lightening 1,500 tons of ore cargo, the steamer Henry B. Smith was pulled off the mud bank where she had been aground. The steamer was undamaged.

VETERAN MARINE MAN HIT BY MOTOR CAR.

Friends of Capt. Frederick L. R. Pope, United States inspector of hulls at Buffalo were shocked to learn that he is suffering serious injuries from being run down by an automobile. He was struck while about to board a street car. Capt. Pope is 80 years old and has been in the government service at Buffalo for twenty-five years. He sailed fresh and salt waters for many years and is known to hundreds of marine men.

TALK ABOUT SCHOOL WORK

Teachers Hear Papers Read at Meeting in Salt Lake City.

Rural School Conditions Are Roundly Denounced By Speaker.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 8.—Various educational problems were discussed in four papers read before the general session of the National Educational association here this morning. At the same time the American Association of Collegiate Registrars met and discussed administrative work in colleges. The teachers were prepared to spend the afternoon at Saltair, on the lake.

President Edward T. Fairchild, in his address, recommended a radical reorganization report of the committee of health problems, which charged that more attention was given to cattle than children.

President Fairchield recommended the selection of an advisory council of three persons, two of whom serve for a term of years. The third member had been the president of the association ex-officio. He declared this reorganization of management to be necessary because the association lacks continuity of action.

Scores Rural Schools.

"In many sections of the country the average rural schoolhouse, in relation to its purpose, is not as well kept or as healthful as a good stable, dairy barn, pig pen or chicken house," declared Dr. Thomas D. Wood of Columbia university, before the national council of education.

"Observation of rural schoolhouses in different parts of the country," he said, "shows that many violate most or all the principles of sanitation, and their existence is a disgrace to any civilized community."

Dr. R. W. Corwin, University of Colorado, made the joint report with Dr. Wood on "health problems in education."

In supplementing Dr. Wood's report, he said:

"What more could be expected of a movement that creates a cabinet department for animals, but fails to recognize one for man; that appropriates millions for brute herdity and little or nothing for human eugenics?"

Most Children Diseased.

Dr. Corwin gave figures on physical and mental diseases that caused a lively discussion. He declared that 15,000,000 out of 20,000,000 school children in the United States are diseased. He attacked not only the sanitation of schools, but surrounding conditions.

"A cesspool of degradation exists under the shades of Princeton, and similar conditions exist in other states," he said. "If for the next 100 years our school would discontinue all higher and aesthetic education and devote all their energies to improving the human stock, at the end of the century we would find the people not only 100 years older, but 200 per cent better, stronger, wiser."

Th national council meeting preceded the opening of the general sessions. The Panama-Pacific exposition presented an invitation to hold the international congress of education at San Francisco in 1915, under the auspices of the National Educational association, and the board of directors recommended that the active members authorize the new board to fix the place of meeting for 1915.

NO MARKET FOR BONDS

School Board Unable to Place Its Securities at Par.

All Bids for $200,000 Issue Rejected—Economy the Slogan.

The school board, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, rejected all bids for the $200,000 bond issue as forecasted in The Herald.

All bids were too low, as each of the four submitted amounted to an offer to take the bonds at a discount, in other words paying 91½ per cent, making the bonds on a full basis a 5½ per cent bond instead of the 4½ authorized. The board will meet again on July 21 in regular session, and may take further action at that time, but it is not expected that another effort to sell the bonds will take place until the bond market will have improved materially.

In the meantime some action toward selling the bonds to the sinking fund may be taken if it is found legal.

In a discussion of the situation yesterday afternoon the board decided to retrench in the expense list in every possible way until there shall have been a recovery of better financial conditions, and a good many repairs to schools which were to have been made this vacation, will go over.

ICE TRUST FIGHTS FOR LOW PRICES.

New York, July 8.—War between wholesale ice dealers has created a situation without precedent in New York—that of the so-called ice trust fighting for lower prices. The company—the Knickerbocker—is selling ice wholesale at $4 a ton; competitors are charging $5 and $6. As a result the Knickerbocker is swamped with demands and faces a shortage. It says it will not raise its price, and the president has issued a statement appealing to the other companies to reduce their wholesale rate to attract the business the Knickerbocker cannot handle. The other dealers have so far refused to come down.

WASHBOARD AS A PADDLE

Sailors Drifting Out Into Lake When Rescued By Canoeists.

With only a scull paddle and a washboard to serve as oars, three lake sailors found themselves powerless to prevent the big 80-foot yawl boat in which they were riding from being carried by the swift current which sweeps through the ship canal to the open water of Lake Superior last evening.

Drifting helplessly and with only a night of experience and exposure in prospect, the sailors hailed two canoes which had ventured out through the ship canal shortly after the yawl boat had been carried out. Each canoe carried two men.

The small craft pulled up to the yawl boat and when the predicament of the sailors was learned, the rescue was started. It was a hard pull for the canoes against the strong current but progress was made nevertheless and after a half hour of effort, the yawl boat was brought back into the harbor.

The canoeists who figured in the rescue were R. B. Loring, A. W. Johnson, E. L. Johnson and Emil Nelson, all of 101 East Fourth street. The sailors were from the steamer St. Clair which lay anchored in the Duluth harbor. Their names were not learned.

Charles McNamara of Eveleth Has Good Word for Management.

Charles McNamara of Eveleth, one of the Minnesota delegation which visited the field of Gettysburg last week, was in Duluth yesterday on his way home. Mr. McNamara experienced no ill effects from the heat and the camp life, but on the other hand enjoyed it immensely.

"There were many men there who should not have attempted the trip for they were not in physical condition, but men in good physical condition who did not overexert themselves did not suffer any ill effects," said Mr. McNamara.

"It was a great reunion and an inspiring sight—the enemies of fifty years ago in camp on the field where they fought so bitterly. There were no evidences of the ill-feeling of the war remaining. The Blue and the Gray met as men, American citizens, and enjoyed the companionship.

"I do not believe the criticism of the conduct of the camp is just. It was a tremendous task, caring for and feeding thousands of men. There was plenty of food, good cots and good, clean blankets and though some of us missed our pillows, we didn't mind it so much. I want to say that the Pennsylvania constabulary handled the situation beautifully. It is a fine body of men, the finest I have ever seen, and I sat for hours in the shade of a tree watching them handle the traffic in true soldierly fashion."

Mr. McNamara was a regular in the army at the time of the war, being a member of Company G, First battalion, United States infantry.

FIVE YOUNG MEN ARE DROWNED.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 8.—It is now certain that five young men, members of prominent families of Niagara Falls and La Salle, N. Y., were drowned in Lake Erie Sunday evening when a sudden gale overturned the canoes in which they were paddling down the lake. The dead are:

REGINALD McMAHON.
ALBERT KAYNER.
THOMAS BROPHY.
EDWARD REICHERT, all of Niagara Falls.
CARL D. GOODRICH of La Salle.

They ranged in age from 17 to 22 years.

The party, comprising ten young men in five canoes, left Niagara Falls, Ont., on July 2, following the Welland river and Welland canal to Lake Erie. Early Sunday evening they started for Crescent Beach and were caught by the gale. Cottagers sighted the canoes battling with the waves and several rowboats put out to the rescue.

CAPT. SCOTT'S WIDOW TO RECEIVE $42,500

London, July 8.—The committee of the Mansion House Scott fund, which now amounts to £75,000 ($375,000), has decided to appropriate £34,000 for the relief of the families of those who lost their lives in the polar expedition. Lady Scott will receive £8,500; her son Porter, £5,200; Capt. Scott's mother and two sisters, £6,000; Mrs. Wilson, the widow of Dr. Edward A. Wilson, £8,500; Mrs. Bowers, widow of Lieut. H. R. Bowers, and her two daughters, £4,500; Mrs. Evans, widow of Petty Officer Evans, and her three children, £1,250. Several minor sums will also be awarded to others connected with the expedition.

Out of the fund, additional sums will be alloted as follows:

For the publication of the scientific results of the expedition, £17,500; future polar research, £10,000; to make good a deficiency in the cost of the expedition, £5,100; for a memorial to the dead, £1,700.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; TWO WOMEN KILLED.

Walt Hill, Neb., July 8.—Two women were killed and a woman and man seriously hurt when an automobile containing William Denspass, his wife and two daughters, was struck by a Burlington passenger train, at a crossing near here. Mrs. Denspass and her daughter, Ethel, aged 25, were killed; Mr. Danspass and his daughter, Hazel, seriously injured, the latter suffering from a fractured skull. The family resides at Lake Park, Iowa.

HAS SOLVED WIRELESS LONG DISTANCE 'PHONE.

Paris, July 8.—The problem of the long distance wireless telephone, it is announced, has been solved in a practical manner by Prof. Arsene d'Arsonval of the College of France. The details have not yet been made public, but the Journal says the professor has now merely to put the finishing touches on a transmitter which will be ready in October.

To Help Nature Shed a Bad Complexion

(From The Family Physician.)

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the beautifying qualities of mercolized wax. Perhaps nothing discovered within recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm, without detaining one indoors, and at such small expense. The principal reason for its wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding, or "curing" complexion defects, it removes them. The wax actually takes off the aged, faded, sallow, freckled or blotchy cuticle, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience. It is Nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded because of deficient circulation or nerve tone, mercolized wax, comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercolized wax, get an ounce of it at the drug store, use at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning.

Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is remarkably and instantaneously effective.

A stay of execution was granted in which to prepare a motion for new trial.

New Way to Correct Baggy Cheeks and Chin

(From Herald of Health.)

Sagging cheeks and double chin are regarded as forerunners of old age. With a little care these hated signs may be corrected. The skin loosening is due to failing nutrition of underlying tissues, causing their shrinkage. The natural thing to do is to nourish and build up the underlying tissues.

An effective treatment is to coat the face with a perfectly harmless substance known as parafied plastoid jelly, which hardens into a mask and brings a good supply of rich, nourishing blood to the surface. The mask "draws in" the flabby muscles, holding them firm and taut, and rests them mercifully. A noticeable rejuvenation appears at once and permanent benefits accrue with each application. Parafied plastoid jelly, obtainable at any drugstore, is inexpensive, the package being so ample that each treatment costs but a few cents. Keep it on from fifteen minutes to an hour. When the jelly is removed (with cold water), the face looks years younger, due principally to the rested and refreshed muscles underneath resulting in a more youthful contour and a healthy, roselike color.

MORALS AND THE PRICE OF LAND

How High Farm Values Affect Rural Communities.

By FRED EASTMAN

Secretary, Matinecock Neighborhood Association, Locust Valley, N. Y. Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.

The proposition is: If the price of land in any rural community be raised without a corresponding rise in the income derived from the land, the morals of the community suffer.

Let the year be 1900. Let the land be any typical agricultural township in the United States. It is valued at an average of $20 an acre, and the typical farm including, of course, improvements, is worth about $5,000 and yields all-told 8 to 10 per cent interest. The population consists of about 200 families of strictly American stock, 90 per cent of whom have resided in the community fifteen years or more. There are five or six one-room schools in the township, and six or seven churches. The average enrollment in the schools is thirty-five, the average membership of the churches sixty.

The social life of the community, while crude, is not sluggish. However conservative in methods of farming and of education, there is yet a spirit of pride and of friendly co-operation. Telephones have not yet been introduced, so there is still a good bit of visiting among families. The roads are so poor that there is little travel on them between town and country, and the recreations of the young people are confined to the neighborhood. These recreations consist of the games at school, a little baseball, an occasional spelling bee and singing school, and frequent log rollings, husking bees and square dances. The old folks share in these sports and have a few of their own besides such as quilting bees and barn raisings. It is worth noting that nearly all these recreations combine work with pleasure and represent a form of co-operation possible only in a stable population among families that have known each other for a considerable length of time.

It is possible for a young man in this community to save enough money to buy a small farm by the time he is 23 or 24, or if he has not saved enough he can usually borrow enough to make the purchase. On such prospects a young man can afford to marry. The average age of marriage in this township is 19 for the woman and 23 for the man.

Now suppose the price of land be doubled without the farmer's income being doubled; that is, double his capital without increasing his interest. Important results follow.

The age of marriage is raised. A young man who can afford to buy land at $20 an acre finds it more difficult to purchase at $40. He will have to save longer, and his girl will have to wait for him, if she marries him at all. Whereas, when land was $20 an acre they might have "set up for themselves" when he was 23 and she was 19, now they must wait until he is about 25 and she 22. In other words, the period between the arrival of their social instincts and their marriage, the temptation period, is lengthened. This condition results in a lowering of the moral standards along sexual lines. The percentage of young people who can keep themselves clean through a temptation period of five years is naturally larger than the percentage who can keep themselves clean through a temptation period of eight years.

Stagnation follows in the whole social life of the community, especially as expressed in its institutions. Raising the price of land without proportionately raising the income derived from it increases the farmer's capital and his taxes, but decreases his interest. A $5,000 farm that yields a $5,000 income is a 10 per cent investment, but a $10,000 farm that yields a $500 income is only a 5 per cent investment. When this condition prevails the natural tendency of the farmer is to sell, to convert the capital into cash and put it where it will bring a larger interest. When he sells he moves, and when he moves he and his family go out of the country school, the country church and the community life altogether. It makes for a shifting and decreasing rural population which is poor soil for schools and churches and community institutions of any sort.

Not only does the attendance and enrollment or membership of these institutions drop, often to a fraction of their former number, but there is less money to support them. Schools and churches are supported on profits. When the farmer's interest is decreased his profits are decreased. With the decline of these institutions goes the decline of community spirit, witnessed in the passing of community recreations, community gatherings and community pride. The spelling bees, the singing schools, the husking and quilting bees, the square dances, the log rollings and the barn raisings become things of the past.

Those healthful sports that graced
the peaceful scene,
Lived in each look and brightened all the green,
These far departing seek a kinder shore,
And rural mirth and manners are no

This very thing has taken place in the United States in the last twelve years, and the condition described is the condition prevailing in the average township today. Farm land has increased 108 per cent in price, and the farmer's income has not increased in proportion. The average age of marriage has risen throughout the great majority of our rural districts. Social life is in a stagnant condition. Over a third of our counties show a decrease in their rural population. The enrollment in the average one-room country school is about half what it was ten years ago; the membership of the country churches has been steadily decreasing. The old forms of recreation have passtd away.

The facts are not propounded for the benefit of the "pessimists club," but rather to point to certain underlying economic causes of rural decay, and to suggest to those of us who are working for the repair of rural life that we endeavor first to remove these economic causes. If the farming population is to be a settled population, if it is to hold its young men on the farm, it must be made possible for these young men to procure land of their own at an early age, and the income of the farmer must be made to keep pace with the rise in the price of his land. Either his production must be increased, or the price that he receives for his crops, or both.

The morals of the community demand it.

More than 100 countries, colonies and dependencies are included in the list of world communities to which the products of the United States are distributed.

RED LARGE PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Festered and Came to Head. Scratching Made Sores. Caused Disfigurement. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face Now Clear.

1413 E. Genessee Ave., Saginaw, Mich. — "Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me of a very bad disease of the face without leaving a scar. Pimples broke out all over my face, red and large. They festered and came to a head. They itched and burned and caused me to scratch them and make sores. They said they were seed warts. At night I was restless from itching. When the barber would shave me my face would bleed terribly. Then scabs would form afterwards, then they would drop off and the so-called seed warts would come back again. They were on my face for about nine months and the trouble caused disfigurement while it lasted.

"One day I read in the paper of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I received a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it was so much value to me that I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment at the drug store. In about ten days my face began to heal up. I kept on using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a very short time after, the scabs dropped off the red spots where they were vanished also. My face is now clear of the warts and not a scar is left." (Signed) LeRoy C. O'Brien, May 12, 1913.

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

MILLER WAS ON THE JOB

Busy Seeing That Veterans From This State Were Cared For.

Capt. Thomas H. Pressnell, clerk of the United States court, who returned last evening from Gettysburg, where he attended the semi-centennial celebration of the battle of Gettysburg, has nothing but praise for the entire management. He also commends Congressman Clarence B. Miller of this city, who was the only one of the Minnesota members of the house or senate who attended the functions.

Capt. Pressnell was a member of the Minnesota commission and with the others had charge of the entire state delegation. He was also placed in charge of all the members of the Gopher state delegation, who were taken sick while at Gettysburg. There were but eight cases taken care of and these were slight breakdowns, not one of them being at all serious.

"The Minnesota delegation," said

CAPT. THOMAS H. PRESSNELL.

Capt. Pressnell in discussing the trip this morning, "was well taken care of during the entire week. We arrived at Gettysburg nine hours late, coming into the historic town at 9 o'clock the evening of June 30. We had no trouble at all in getting tents and we were well supplied with comforts during our stay at the famous battleground.

"It was certainly impressive to see these 60,000 old soldiers camped on this great field and for the first time meeting together on the battlefield as friends. Nothing in my life has ever impressed me more, not even the battles themselves.

Too much credit can not be given Congressman Miller, who was the only Minnesota member of the house or senate to come up to Gettysburg and look after us boys. He motored up in his machine and spent the entire week watching out for the members in the Minnesota party. He took us all around in machines and saw at all times that we were enjoying ourselves.

"The food was splendid, the tent accommodations good and the programs most enjoyable. The only objection was the extreme heat and that wasn't so very bad when you consider that we didn't have time to even think of that."

PLANNING FOR EXPOSITION

General Committee for Industrial Show Will Be Organized.

Civic Organizations Invited to Participate in Meeting Next Week.

At a meeting to be held next Tuesday noon at the Commercial club, a general committee to take charge of the second annual industrial exposition and home products dinner to be held in September will be organized.

Every civic organization in the city is expected to send representatives to the meeting. The Duluth Rotary club has appointed a committee of ten to take charge of the work of arousing interest among other organizations and laying the preliminary plans for the exposition. The agricultural committee of the Commercial club has undertaken the arrangements for the agricultural and livestock exposition to be held in connection.

Plans made thus far have been hazy and preliminary, but from next Tuesday the work is expected to go forward rapidly. Long preparation is necessary for an exposition of the kind, and the men interested intend that plenty of time shall be taken, so that the arrangements may be complete.

The exposition will be staged this year at the Curling club. The additional room which the big building gives will afford an opportunity for expansion which was denied last year. Building on the experience of last year, the committee will be able to make the exposition more complete and more attractive to the public.

In the coming exposition agriculture will have its proper place as one of the important industries affecting Duluth. The agricultural committee of the Commercial club is making plans for a comprehensive exhibit of agricultural products and a display of pure-bred Guernsey cattle that will show Duluth's position in the dairy industry.

Gettysburg, S. D., "Wet."

Gettysburg, S. D., July 8.—After meeting in secret session the city council voted to grant saloon licenses to W. H. Clark and H. E. French. This action lets out three men who have been conducting saloons and gives the licenses to owners of buildings where two of the saloons have been conducted.

LONSDALE BUILDING

PREPARE FOR PERRY CRUISE

Reconstructed Frigate Will Be Manned By Naval Militia.

History-Making Incidents of 100 Years Ago Are Re-enacted.

Erie, Pa., July 8.—Officers in charge of the reconstructed Niagara, Commodore Perry's flagship, tied to the dock here for the week given over to the observance of the centennial anniversary of the Battle of Put-in-Bay, today prepared to stretch sails and add the finishing touches that will make the old brig seaworthy for the voyage around the Great Lakes which is to begin next Saturday night when the fleet sails for Cleveland.

The rigging has been reproduced so that historically it is correct. The sails are of flax and the rope hemp, both of which are said to have disappeared from the Great Lakes shipping more than half a century ago. Not a particle of metal, except the armament, is above the decks, and the bowsprit is lashed in position instead of being bolted down.

Manned by Naval Militia.

The project to man the Niagara with old-time fresh water seamen was abandoned today, and it was decided by the officers in charge to place three petty officers on board and give them a crew of ten men from the naval militia.

During all the waking hours of the celebration, the gangplank has been burdened with a constant stream of curious sightseers. Today carpenters began the construction of broader landing stages.

Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, impersonated by Ludwig Meyer, a local business man, left Fort Anthony Wayne at the Pennsylvania Soldiers' and Sailors' home last evening at 6 o'clock and, driving over the route followed by the hero of Put-In-Bay, entered Erie an hour later. The city was ablaze with light in commemoration of the centennial celebration of the famous victory, one of a series of similar events to be held at ports on the Great Lakes. The program as carried out was designed to recall scenes enacted while Perry and his men were building their ships in Erie harbor.

The procession was met in the outskirts of the city by civic organizations and escorted to Perry square, where, before a great crowd, the freedom of Erie was formally presented to the distinguished guest.

Ammunition Arrives.

Earlier in the day Perry Square was the scene of another notable event when the Conestoga wagon, a reproduction of the wagon which carried ammunition to Perry's squadron a century ago, arrived after a 500-mile drive from Philadelphia. The arrival of the wagon, with its accompanying guard of United States cavalrymen from Fort Meyer, Va., was timed to correspond with that of the original first load of ammunition, and the route was the same as that covered 100 years ago. At the point on the harbor front where the rebuilt Niagara, Perry's old fighter, lies moored to the dock, the guard was received by a detail of naval militia from the training ships.

The wagon was driven to the side of the old ship, and the old-time kegs were passed from the wagon to the dock amid the cheers of the crowd. The national color were run up to the masthead and the ceremony was completed by the firing of a commodore's salute of thirteen guns from the naval training ship Wolverine, lying alongside the Niagara.

NO TOWELS OR SOAP IN MEAT MARKETS

Some Butchers Have No Regard for Rules of Cleanliness.

About 60 per cent of the butchers in the city have done away with the soap and towels with which their shops were formerly provided, according to the monthly report of Meat Inspector Leo Bernhardt.

"A corner of their apron or an old greasy rag is good enough," says the inspector's statement to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health.

He finds that the conditions in a few of the retail markets are good. The conditions in the others will be detailed when the scorings are completed. This is now being done. The intention of the inspector is to publish the standings of each individual shop in order that the public may know the ratings of those who supply them with their meat.

Bernhardt remarks that the condition of the veal which is coming to the city from the country has improved considerably. During June he found but six overheated veal out of 497 received, despite the hot weather. The total veal, mutton, pork, lard and poultry condemned during the month was 1,366 pounds.

Superior

Report on Recall.

A total of $10.75 has been spent so far in furthering the recall of Mayor Konkel, according to a statement filed by the Socialists yesterday. The statement was filed by Emil Olson, who signed as secretary of the citizens' committee in charge of getting out the petition. The itemized bills include hall rent, bills and printing as the principal expense.

Want Car Service.

Billings Park people intend asking the city to take immediate action to strengthen the Twenty-first street bridge over the railroad tracks so that the street railway company may operate its large double truck cars. It is claimed that the large crowds visiting the park demand this service and that it is up to the city to provide the material for strengthening the bridge.

Merchants Arrested.

H. S. Leveroos, of the Floan & Leveroos clothing company, Axel Grant, a grocer; and G. Skavores, pleaded guilty yesterday to employing labor longer than the limit allowed by the state law. The complaints were sworn to by Miss E. O. Lundberg, special factory inspector. Each was fined $25 and costs and sentence was suspended on recommendation of the plaintiff. The former two had employed boys at hours later than 6 o'clock, while the last named had employed a girl longer than forty-eight hours in one week.

Boy Injured.

Clarence Olson, 10 years old, was run down by a laundry wagon while riding on a bicycle last evening on Fifth street and Hughitt avenue. The boy sustained a fractured rib and a sprained ankle. The wagon was owned by the Zenith City dye works. The boy was removed to his home, 1211 Baxter avenue. It is said the driver of the rig did not stop to ascertain the extent of the boy's injuries.

Will Go to Camp.

Company 1, Third regiment, W. N. G., of Superior, and the Tenth Separate battalion will go into camp at Camp Douglas Saturday. The local company will leave here Friday evening. Capt. Rossiter and Lieutenants Fluegal and Clemmens will be in charge of the company.

BAKERS SLEPT IN THEIR KITCHENS

Bakery Inspector Reports Violation of Sanitary Regulations.

The monthly report of Bakery Inspector J. Pratts states that he found two establishments where the proprietors were using their kitchens for bedrooms, sleeping in them every night.

At another place he said that a married couple and a 2-weeks-old baby slept in a room used as a pantry. He explained that in each instance conditions were remedied when attention was called to the fact that the law was being violated.

He recommends that the building at 20 Sixth avenue west, used as a restaurant and lodging house, be condemned because of its dilapidated condition. He visited the poor farm and found the institution in very satisfactory shape.

The report details a large number of visits to hotels, restaurants, bakeries, basements, lodging houses, stores, soda fountains, etc.

POLICE ASKED TO FIND MISSING MEN.

Chief Troyer this morning received requests from Mrs. Mary A. Ploof of Hancock, Mich., to locate her son, oy, and from the chief of police at Cloquet to locate Gust Suninen.

Roy Ploof left his home at Hancock on June 21 in company with James Belling and has not been heard from since. His mother is very anxious to hear from him or to learn of his whereabouts. The boy is 21 years old.

Suninen, who is 44 years old, disappeared on July 4 and his whereabouts are unknown by his relatives at Cloquet. It is believed that he came to Duluth.

Laborer Killed By Train.

Beach, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Greek laborer, unidentified, was killed on a Northern Pacific work train near here yesterday. He fell between two cars, being ground under the wheels. Both legs were several and he was internally injured, dying two hours later.

Woman's Realm

The home of Mrs. Z. D. Scott, 2125 East First street was the scene of a pretty informal tea this afternoon when the Young Matrons of the First Baptist church were hostesses to the other members of the congregation and their friends in compliment to Mrs. R. E. Sayles. Clusters of pink peonies were used in the living rooms and in the dining room bouquets of white peonies were used and the centerpiece was a basket of white roses.

Mrs. Vern Culbertson, chairman of the arrangements committee assisted about the rooms and Mrs. Charles Reed presided in the dining room.

During the afternoon Mrs. Mary Nelson gave a group of readings, Mrs. O. B. Carmen and Miss Flora Gibson sang groups of vocal solos with Mrs. Clara B. Morton as their accompanist.

LITTLE PRINCESS OF ROUMANIA MAY BE MARRIED TO ENGLISH PRINCE

PRINCESS MARIE OF ROUMANIA.

Princess Marie is the second daughter of the heir to the throne of Roumania. She was 13 years old in January. Like her elder sister, Elizabeth, who was a bridesmaid for Victoria Luise, she is both pretty and picturesque. And like all her family she delights in being photographed. It has been reported that the British royal family had under consideration a match between her and one of the young princes—possibly the prince of Wales himself.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Motion Pictures.
EMPRESS—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Amusement Notes.

Can you imagine an actress without a fad, a hobby or a foible? Well, here is one who has neither a fad, a hobby or a foible—Frances Starr—a dainty bit of femininity that physically would never disclose the colossal storehouse of mental and temperamental force she possesses, and which she reveals in her most exacting dual role in "The Case of Becky"—the fascinating drama she will appear in for the first time here at the Lyceum theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Miss Starr is a modest, retiring, domesticated little home body, who loves her home, her books and her friends with a devotion that almost approaches idolatry. She has no pet parrots, dogs or Angora cats; does not revel in any of the tantrums known as the eccentricities of genius, and is as amenable to managerial dictates as the proverbial schoolgirl.

FRANCES STARR

Born in Albany, N. Y., Frances Grant Starr has been earning her own livelihood since she was 16, and in her few years since then she has made marvelous progress in the chosen profession.

In a recent interview she said: "I have no villa in France. I own no farm in the Berkshires or orange grove in California, as I have never had enough money to buy one, and no one has ever been kind enough to present me with one. When my theatrical labors are over I go with my family, mother and sister, to a modest little summer resort and rent a cottage, where I do the housework for the family. I love to do this as a medium of recreation from the conventional hotel life I have to exist in for nine months in the year.

"I am a comparatively good cook; can make a bed with the alacrity of a professional chambermaid, and am expert with the sweeping broom.

"Yes, I have one childish habit that has remained with me since a babe—I love to lie on the floor and read—in fact, a greater portion of my study is done in this fashion. Whenever Mr. Belasco submits a new play to me, down I flop to read the lines."

"The Aeroplane Bride" is entertaining Empress theater patrons this first half of the week. It is full of funny situations and has some very bright comedy lines. The laughs are many and hearty. The comedy in the hands of Mark Lea is well taken care of. His line of songs and funny sayings is the hit of the piece. His songs and parodies between the first and second acts are very good. Mr. Cunningham has a good voice which he uses to good advantage in his song number, "Does the Girl You Leave Behind Wish You Back Again?" Among the other song hits there are "Why Don't the Band Play Dixie," "Hold Up Rag," "Snookey Ookums," "Bumble Bee" and many others. The chorus is a hard working one, having many intricate dances and marches.

Arthur Clamage, who is starring in "The Girl From Luxemburg," will be seen at the Empress for three days commencing Thursday matinee. Flattering accounts and glowing tales of brilliant success come wherever this big tabloid musical comedy has been presented. Something more than the average attractiveness must account for so pronounced a success, and the fame of Arthur Clamage, the star of the organization, assisted by Arthur Uttry and Vivian Francis and an exceptionally clever company with a remarkable aggregation of chorus girls.

BANKERS DUE THURSDAY

Advance Guard of Delegates May Arrive in City Wednesday.

The advance guard of the bankers of the state who will come to Duluth to attend the annual convention of the state association this week will begin to arrive tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night. It is not expected, however, that a great many will reach here before Thursday morning, for on that day the convention will open. Much entertainment has been arranged for the visitors, both by the convention committees and by the local committee. The convention will meet all day Thursday and on Friday morning and the rest of the time will be spent in pleasure seeking. Besides the affairs programmed, many things are being planned for the women of the party.

The Duluth committee consists of W. G. Hegardt, J. W. Lyder, Jr., H. S. Macgregor and David Williams. This committee has arranged an extensive program and it is likely that there will be parts filled in by impromptu features. On Thursday evening the boulevard drive in autos will be given, following which the visitors will be taken to the main house of the Duluth Boat club, where they will be entertained boating and dancing. On the next day they will be taken in a special train to the new steel plant, and after they will have inspected that immense industry a buffet luncheon will be given at the Spirit lake branch of the boat club, and the return trip to the city proper will be made on the steamer Columbia.

Visit to Ranges.

It is also announced in the program of the association that if a sufficient number of the bankers wish to visit the iron ranges on Saturday a special train will be engaged. Information is also given as to side trips possible to Isle Royale and lower lake points. It is believed that many of the visitors will take in some of these trips. The program for the convention follows:

Thursday Morning.

Invocation, Rev. C. N. Thorp, pastor Pilgrim Congregational church, Duluth.

Address of welcome, Mayor W. I. Prince.

Response, J. S. Pomeror of Minneapolis, vice president.

Address, "The Elements and Results in Minnesota Agricultural Development," Frank M. Murphy, Wheaton, president of the West Central Development association.

Address, "Co-operation, the Key to Success in Road Improvement," W. G. Eden, Central Trust company, Chicago.

Friday Morning.

Address, "Currency Legislation," Congressman W. S. Hammond, Second district, Minnesota.

Report of committee on resolutions.

Report of committee on nominations.

Election and installation of officers.

Unfinished business and new business.

NEW FLYING BOAT ARRIVES FOR LARK

Exhibition Will Be Feature of Carnival Friday and Saturday.

A new flying machine has arrived from St. Louis to take the place in the Lake o' the Lark of the boat which was damaged last Saturday, and the flying exhibitions will continue to be one of the main features of the Lark o' the Lake performances.

The boat which was damaged is the one especially designed for W. D. Jones of Duluth. The engine was saved intact, as were also the wings and most of the fixtures. Parts of the hull, however, will have to be repaired, and Hugh Robinson, the professional aviator who was here last week, left Sunday night for St. Louis to rush on the necessary materials for replacing. These will arrive toward the end of the week, and the boat will be re-assembled here.

The committee is not the least discouraged because of the accident to the boat. As one member pointed out this morning, the wind Saturday was too high and fickle for successful flying, and it was only Robinson's desire not to disappoint the crowd which led him to make the attempt. When the sudden puff of wind came he was only a short distance above the surface of the bay, and before the controls could operate one wing caught the water and spun the boat around subjecting it to an unusual twisting strain. Neither the aviator nor his mechanic was seriously hurt, and they were on hand in the evening supervising the rescue of the boat. The accident was an extraordinary one and of a sort fraught with little danger to the boat's occupants, though damaging the boat itself.

The new boat is of a different type, being known as a hydroplane. J. Weymer, the professional aviator who will operate it, has also arrived and it at the Holland.

Red Lake County Prizes.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., July 8.—The premium list of the Red Lake County Agricultural society for the third annual fair to be held in this city Sept. 24, 25 and 26 is out. More than $3,000 in cash prizes are offered, to encourage the growing of corn. Special prizes of more than $200 in cash are offered for the best fifteen acres of dent corn grown in the county this year.

HERALD EXCURSIONS

The next Herald excursion will be an all-day outing along the South Shore tomorrow, leaving Duluth at 9:30 a. m. and returning at 7:30 p. m.

The steamer Plowboy will make the trip and the people of Duluth are offered a splendid opportunity to take an eighty-mile ride on Lake Superior at a small cost. Basket lunches may be taken, or the excursionists may obtain refreshments on the boat. A three-hour stop will be made at Port Wing, one of the prettiest spots in the vicinity of Duluth.

Tickets must be obtained at The Herald office and there has been a heavy demand today. Those who failed to secure tickets today may do so tomorrow morning before the boat leaves. The fare for the round trip is $1.

Killed at Edmonton.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert Loftus of Grand Forks was killed yesterday in Edmonton, Alta., a falling derrick striking him and breaking his back. Loftus had been in Edmonton only a few days. His wife and child reside here.

MRS. S. S. SANDS.

S. S. Sands, the son of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt by her first husband, was killed in an auto accident on Long Island recently. He has been but a short time married to Gertrude Sheldon, the pretty daughter of George R. Sheldon, who now joins the list of wealthy widows in New York.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Tact a Valuable Asset, Especially to Women.

How many people possess it, in reasonable measure? I mean that subtle, intangible quality in the human make-up known as tact.

Undoubtedly this elusive trait, which many persons even fail to recognize as existing, is one of the largest elements in the sum total of human happiness.

Every woman who does not possess this quality should make a special effort to cultivate it. Some persons are naturally tactful, while others seem to be naturally crude and blunt. But a little thoughtfulness and introspection will wear off the rough edges.

What a refreshing thing it is to come in contact with a woman of consummate tact! Such a woman, in her home, among her friends, at social gatherings and wherever she may be among other persons, is always sure to have just the right word at the right time to clear up a misunderstanding, to dissipate an embarrassing situation or to soothe someone's wounded feelings, no matter whether she be involved directly, or whether it be third parties concerned.

Such a woman is a blessing and an angel of light. Nor is she necessarily a spineless, vapid creature, without a mind or opinions of her own. It is one thing to be strong of mind and will, and to entertain positive, logical opinions upon many subjects, and quite another thing to be able to express those opinions forcefully and at the same time without offense to others.

I have seen persons who went about wearing their opinions upon their sleeve, and expressing them, on the slightest provocation, in an intolerant, supercilious manner which gives offense to others. The person of tact can differ with another, and be agreeable about it, to us a paradox.

Women, I believe, are more tactful than men, as a rule. Men naturally are more blunt, and are less easily injured in their feelings. A tactful man is one who is generally welcome anywhere.

The possession of this trait, in a certain degree, is necessary before one can command much respect in any recognized circle of society; and yet it is surprising how many so-called cultured, refined persons are almost totally lacking in this regard. To my mind, there can be no true culture or refinement where a large measure of that finer feeling which makes one tactful does not exist.

A USELESS FIGHT THAT CAN ONLY DELAY PROSPERITY.

The result of the Democratic senate caucus is that enough votes are in hand to pass the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill without any amendments.

Everybody knows that the bill is going to pass as it stands. Nobody knows that better than the Republican minority.

Yet that minority, led by such standpatters as Senators Smoot, La Follette and Penrose, plans a prolonged fight for amendments and against the bill itself.

This fight will not be for the country's good, but for political purposes. It means nothing but delay. And the nation's business, waiting to adjust itself to the new conditions created by the bill, fearful of nothing so much as undue delay, must look on impotently at a political hippodrome staged for an unworthy purpose.

Whatever individual opinion may be about the bill itself, the country outside of politics is a unit that the quicker it is passed the better. The queer combination of reactionary-standpatters and progressive-standpatters arrayed against the bill is defying that united sentiment.

Perhaps it sees political good in its attitude, but it is hard to see where it comes in.

The senate has ninety-six members. A majority is forty-nine. There are fifty-one Democrats. Two alleged Democrats, the senators from Louisiana, probably will vote against the bill because of free sugar. The rest are either pledged to support the bill and oppose all amendments or are known to stand that way. Then there is Vice President Marshall in reserve to break a tie, if necessary.

The end of it is a matter of time only, and how much time depends wholly on the success of the La Follette-Penrose-Smoot filibuster.

If the erstwhile Balkan allies try half as hard to win battles as they do to convince the world that they have won them, there must be some corking fighting going on over there.

WORK FOR AN ANIMAL TRAINER.

"The Duluth Herald," says the Superior Telegram, "suggests the training of chickens so that they will eat the bugs instead of digging the seeds up or destroying the vegetation. That opens a wide field for the activities of expert trainers."

How wide a field is illustrated by this additional suggestion, which The Herald offers to any enterprising scientist who believes that he can burbank the fauna of the garden as Luther Burbank has burbanked its flora:

The world would be grateful for a cutworm trained to attack the weeds and leave the vegetables alone.

Unpopular greeting in Washington these days: "Good morning, have you been Mulhalled yet?

THAT MAN MANN.

Congressman Mann of Illinois is the minority leader in the house of representatives. As such, it is his duty to defend the Republican party whenever it is attacked, and to throw mud at the Democratic party, at the majority in congress, and at the administration, whenever he can find any to throw.

And if he is unable to find mud, his duty as he conceives it is to make mud and throw it.

That will account for some of the remarks he has made about the administration, remarks that otherwise would be unaccountable.

Apparently the Mulhall revelations form a coat which fits the Republican party, for Minority Leader Mann promptly put it on. He is full of indignation about these reports, and he said the other day that "it is a serious thing to have charges of this character printed by unscrupulous newspapers."

His indignation, as the Chicago Tribune points out, is over the revelation, and not over the things revealed. He would not be fitted for Republican floor leader if he were so thin-skinned as to worry over the things revealed.

The Tribune, by the way, is one of the "unscrupulous newspapers" to which Mr. Mann referred, and the Tribune, in reply, has drawn Mr. Mann's picture to a high degree of exactness:

> Mr. Mann is a gentleman of precise attainments. He would know exactly how many pins were in a paper of pins, but he might be in doubt whether to use them as railroad spikes or bayonets. He is a marvel of minutia. Like a Gulliver with a head full of small, precise information, he wanders through a Brobdingnag of big ideas and sees only the buttons on the shoes. He could tell the number of seeds distributed by the government in any one year or any ten years; he would know whether two cents more or two cents less had been appropriated for Peace river in 1909 than in 1911; he would know the cubic air space of the hall of the house of representatives, the amount of grass seed sown on the White House lawn, the ruling of the speaker in any case at any time, the number of pages in any book in the Congressional library.
> In Lilliput Mr. Mann is a giant. He is useful. Once in a while it is helpful to good legislation or hurtful to bad legislation to have an acerb gentleman spring to his feet with instant and devastating information as to the number of seeds in a watermelon. Mr. Mann never fails in this, as, on the other hand, he never fails to reveal that anything which has to do with other than a paper of pins is totally incomprehensible to him.
> Thus his instinct is to think—and with Mr. Mann to think is to talk—that the crime against respectability and decency was the publication of facts relating to what men in congress have done—not the doing of the things. • • •
> If he were merely Mr. Mann, a paragraph might describe him as a dunderhead and answer his felicitous comment on the Mulhall exposure; but Mr. Mann is the leader of the Republican party in the house of representatives, and he expresses the sanctimonious horror of men who shudder at the revelation and not at the thing revealed.

The most significant thing about the incident is that Mr. Mann, the only living authorized official spokesman for the Grand Old Party, found in the Mulhall exposure of a shameless lobby material for a coat which he promptly put on the party for which he speaks.

Those who are inclined to sneer at the national medical service are respectfully invited to stand up and tell offhand how long it is since New Orleans came up with a yellow fever story.

ARE THESE THE BEST BUSINESS METHODS?

The city commission yesterday voted to grade and pave a complete thoroughfare from the downtown section to West Duluth.

This was needed, and the commission is doing the right thing to provide it. It has been delayed long enough.

But the way it was done is pretty certain to create some criticism, and the commission must expect it.

Action was taken on a project involving the expenditure of two or three hundred thousand dollars, of which the city itself must pay sixty to seventy-five thousand dollars, apparently without the commission being in the possession of the detailed facts which most business men consider essential before embarking upon an important enterprise.

The commission had before it, it seems, only estimates on brick and sandstone pavements, the most expensive kinds. It had no estimates on concrete, a durable and comparatively inexpensive material that is growing in favor for street work, nor on any other material. It seems not to have had before it even the details as to assessments, etc., which the charter requires it to have.

Perhaps it will come out all right in the end. After having committed itself to the project, the commission can get the details it lacked yesterday, and it can call for bids on other materials than those for which it had estimates.

But usually it is better for a business body to have all available information in its possession before committing itself to a new and important and costly project.

In view of the fact that Commissioner Hicken announced yesterday that it will be necessary to levy the full amount of taxes allowed by law in order to get through next year, it would seem that the commission would do well to exercise at least as much thoroughness and attention to detail in the expenditure of public money as it does in devising liquor ordinances to do what had already been accomplished.

Chairman Simmons thinks the new tariff bill may become the law by Sept. 1. If it's to be that long it's just as well that they left dog days on the free list.

THE NEW NORMAL SCHOOL.

The Menagha Journal and the Duluth News Tribune have discovered a mare's nest.

The Journal declares that the commission to locate the proposed new state normal school was "packed" by Lieutenant Governor Burnquist and Speaker Rines in the interest of Thief River Falls, and the News Tribune, while hypocritically expressing its disbelief in the story, with too palpable cunning threatens a scandal if the commission carries out the compact and picks Thief River Falls.

The Thief River Falls News-Press charges that the Menagha Journal story and the News Tribune follow-up are "the handiwork of some one personally interested." The purpose, it believes, is to scare the commission and thus put Thief River Falls out of the running.

How it may be as to this The Herald does not know; but it would advise the commission to pay no attention whatever to such absurd tactics, and to locate the new normal school where it chooses without regard to anything but the best interests of the state. If it finds that the proper place is Thief River Falls, it should choose that site. And if it determines that Cass Lake or Bemidji or any other community is the right spot, it should locate the school there.

The story that the commission was "packed" by a "deal" in behalf of Thief River Falls is utterly ridiculous. In the first place, neither Lieutenant Governor Burnquist nor Speaker Rines are men likely to lend their aid to anything of the kind. In the second place, the men they picked for the commission are not the ones they would have chosen if they had had underhanded work to carry out. There is no man in the state less suitable for such an enterprise than Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton, who is one of the three men chosen by the presiding officers; and it is hard to imagine State Superintendent Schulz or Representative W. W. Brown lending their aid to such a fraud upon the state.

Whatever the motives of those who have sprung this story, The Herald does not believe a word of it, and does not believe that the commission should or will pay the slightest attention to it.

The new normal school should not be located in the interest of any community whatever, but in the interest of the whole state and its common concern in an efficient and effective public school system.

The Madison Wisconsin State Journal spends about seven inches, double-column, telling its readers what to do in hot weather. But it missed the shortest and most effective advice of all—"Come to Duluth."

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

STRETCHING A POINT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Evidently it was the purpose of President Wilson in his speech July 4 not to mention the name of our beloved Lincoln, who fifty years ago stood on the same ground with the thousands of dead and dying lying about him, and with words from a bleeding heart and soul he bound up the nation's wounds and soothed the sorrowing hearts of his people. It is a sad commentary on the nation's strength and on the loyalty and patriotism of a people who for fifty years have enjoyed the greatest prosperity and stands at the head as a nation of the nations of the world, to presume for a moment that to mention the name of Abraham Lincoln would detract in the least from the purpose of the reunion of the blue and the gray on the historic battlefield of Gettysburg.

God pity a nation and its people who cannot endure the name of one who, above all other men, has given to posterity a united nation and a united, prosperous people. It would have been befitting if our president could have read that masterpiece that Lincoln uttered fifty years ago.

ALBERT D. TOMLINSON.

Ashland, Wis., July 6.

The conclusion that President Wilson intended or perpetrated any affront to the memory of Lincoln is exceedingly far-fetched. Indeed, so all-pervading is the thought of Lincoln in connection with Gettysburg and the war that to mention his name were almost superfluous.—The Editor.

JULY 4 DECORATIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly advise me of the proper way to install decorations for the Fourth of July in the line of stars and stripes in the order of bunting. Should the stars be in the top or the red, white and blue? Yours very truly,

GUST JOHNSON.

Keewatin, Minn., July 4.

The editor knows of no prescribed method of decoration, and can find record of none. If any army or navy officers know of an established custom covering this point, The Herald would be glad to hear from them.—The Editor.

THAT EXTENSION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Whenever mention is made of the Duluth Street Railway company extending its line to the steel plant, the reason offered for not doing so is that the new fill at Eighty-third avenue west is not yet completed. We must admit that the work on this fill has dragged very slowly, but it will surprise a great many to know that the fill will be completed within two weeks. Why has not the street railway company begun the extension of its line? Will it be built this year? What is the matter with our commission? Cannot they order this line extended this year? At Sandwich, Ont., the site of the W. S. corporation's new car lines have been extended, and the construction of the plant has not yet begun. Hasten the day when Duluth has a street car franchise with which results can be obtained.

C. B. ANDREWS.

Duluth, July 7.

The Discomfited Lobby

By Sanford.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For a few days after President Wilson called public attention to the insidious lobby that is, or was, here to "Aldrichize" the Democratic tariff bill of 1913 as the Democratic tariff bill of nineteen years earlier was "Gormanized," the open enemies of the administration in the opposition parties in congress, and its secret enemies in the Democratic party, in congress and out of congress, were horrified. They assumed that the president had "insulted" congress, indicted senators and representatives at the bar of public opinion. The truth is the president took especial pains to exonerate congress and all he designed, all he did, was to rid congress of as precious a set of harpies as has lobbied at this capital since the palmy days of Credit-Mobilier and Pacific Mail—also Southern Pacific.

The investigation has had a very wholesome effect. It is told in Gath and whispered in Askelon that certain senators not on the Democratic side are bewildered and in a state of tribulation. The disclosures are so startling that these great men are not so certain that it will be advisable to vote against any tariff bill that provides free sugar three years hence. The senators, representatives and camp followers who scoffed when mention was first made of the insidious lobby are going about with faces as long as grocers' bills in these days of high tariff and extortionate prices. They even hired a lawyer, my fine friend, John W. Yerkes, to stop the disclosures. A very able jurist is Mr. Yerkes, but his skill availed not. The story came out—several of them—and the senator who votes against the Democratic tariff will have a heap of explaining to do, and as a general proposition the statesman who explains is lost.

Mr. Oxnard, the great sugar magnate, told of the enormous sums expended to defeat Cuban reciprocity in the Fifty-eighth congress. The lobby, then as now, declared that that measure would utterly destroy the sugar industry of our country. But Teddy was then in the saddle and in the floodtide of his unprecedented popularity, and he jammed the bill through both houses of the Fifty-eighth congress and our sugar industries—cane and beet—have prospered since that time as they never had before.

Then Mr. Oxnard told of a beet sugar concern that cost $5,000,000 and was capitalized at $20,000,000—a flood of water amounting to 75 per cent. That is what protection is for—to force the people to pay dividends on corporation stocks that cost nothing but the printing of the "securities." That is what all this row is about. That is why the lobby is here. That is why the sugar industry goes through its grand and spectacular stunt of dying—vide one of William Alden Smith's tariff speeches—every time a movement is on foot to relieve the people of taxes that swell the exactions of monopoly. So far as the morality of it is concerned water in the stock of a corporation is as wicked as the uttering of a counterfeit bank note. Had the law taken counsel of conscience and put these two things on the same footing there would never have been half the outcry against corporate aggression we have had the past thirty years. Watered stock is nothing in the world but highway robbery that is not provided for in the criminal laws.

Again it is disclosed that the sugar lobby usurped the franking privilege. They are a thrifty set and in a single case they saved $16,000 in the way of postage. They prepared speeches for certain solons and they were sent out under frank. They wrote the tariff plank of the G. O. P. platform of 1912. They made that staid and respectable and ponderous publication, the Congressional Record, an illustrated paper to exploit the sugar industry. They claimed to have the active assistance of Vice President Sherman and Speaker Cannon in their efforts to obtain control of a great newspaper, the leading Republican organ of the Mississippi valley.

And they burned their books. That is a plea of guilty. It was disclosed that certain items of expense were placed under the head of "miscellaneous" because of "these multitudes of investigating committees now on deck in governmental affairs," and they avowed this sort of political and moral ethics: "Not more than one man ought to know everything." Thus there seems to have been lacking that element of honor among them that is the boasted virtue of certain criminal classes.

"Burn this letter"—these are the words that cost James G. Blaine the office of president of the United States. He made them a P. S. to a letter that no high-minded man could have penned. It was a stubborn fact that no argument, however specious and ingenious, could evade. Not even the brilliant eloquence of Bob Ingersoll could dispel the suspicion that the "man from Maine" was not an honest man:

"Like an armed warrior, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the hills of the American congress and threw his shining lance full and fair against the brazen foreheads of the defamers of his country and the maligners of his honor."

Sometimes I think Bob had Ben Hill in his mind and then it would seem that Proctor Knott was the particular "traitor" he was alluding to. Either would fit according to the then prevailing ideas of treason and traitors in superloyal circles.

But some years later, if gossip can be depended on, Bob changed his mind about "plumed knights" and things. Garfield was president and Blaine was Garfield's boss. Ingersoll desired recognition. But he was a "Pagan" and Garfield was a preacher. Blaine was a candidate for president. A shrewd politician, he knew he could never reach that great place if he outraged the Methodist Church North. That sect was the backbone of the G. O. P. and it feared Bob Ingersoll as much, or nearly as much, as it hated Jeff Davis. Thus it was out of the question for Blaine to invite into the public councils a pagan that had made all sorts of ribald and blasphemous fun of the Methodist church, and so the "plumed knight" gave the orator who dubbed him so a cold potato.

I have quoted what Ingersoll thought of Blaine in 1876. Here is what Ben Hill said of the plumed knight to his beard in the United States senate, shaking his scornful finger at him the while, not long after 1876:

"He has a tongue that never tires, an ambition that never sleeps, a cheek that never blanches, and a conscience that never hesitates."

And the country agreed with Hill and rejected Ingersoll's estimate of the plumed knight, who wrote, "Burn this letter."

And the lobby of 1913 itself has vindicated the estimate of itself held and published by the Democratic president of the United States.

Getting the News

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Imagine yourself a stranger, all alone in London, trying to get a job on a newspaper. And even if you got the job, consider the task of starting out in that town, alone and penniless, and undertaking to search out the news of the day.

Billy Van Benschoten is the man who found himself in need of a job in London. To add to his little annoyances, he was extremely homesick for these United States. But his proximate need was to get the price of mere food. Later on he hoped to save up enough to pay his way across the ocean blue to his own, his native land. Van Benschoten is now the Washington correspondent for the Detroit Free Press, but at the time he needed a job in London he was a lad just out of college, whose newspaper experience had been confined mostly to "cub" work in the vacation season. He and two other young men had worked their way across the water on a cattle boat, and had visited England and the Continent, taking in various sights and eating whenever they could make the necessary arrangements.

At the end of three months they found themselves in London with just a few dollars among them and all extremely anxious to take passage on a boat headed homeward. They tried to hire out on a cattle boat and return the way they had come, even though the chores that went with that form of ocean travel held little fascination for them. But they found nothing doing in the way of cattle boat engagements. Then somebody thought of a friend in Paris who might be willing to lend money in return for good will. They put all their money into a common fund and in that way raised the price of a telephone message to the friend in Paris. He was willing to lend them all the money he had and he wired it to them, but there was enough to pay for the passage of only two persons to the 'Nited States. Some one had to stay behind. They cast lots, and it fell to Billy Van Benschoten to tarry in London, there to work out his salvation. The others took the first boat home, for there was no time to lose. Another day or two in London and their passage money would be gone.

Billy Van Benschoten went to the dock to see them off. He was not in a particularly jubilant mood when the last farewell was waved, and he set out to ascertain what the free-lunch routes held in store for him. Even at that, he was fairly optimistic about finding work. He would go to a newspaper office, tell the editor of the chance to hire a bright young American journalist, and the thing would be done.

But here was the difficulty. He could not see the city editor of any paper. Moreover, he did not succeed in getting inside a newspaper office. In this country a man applying for a job on a paper may not be able to confer with the editor, but usually he can at least reach the editorial floor and get an office boy to take in his card. In London every paper that Van Benschoten tried for occupied a building all to itself, and there was a liveried guard at the front door to keep out all who seemed to lack plausible reason for entering. Van Benschoten finally determined that his best chance was with the London Daily News, because it was more like an American paper than any of the others, and he devoted his entire attention to trying to break in there. After repeated calls, he gradually made friends with the big watchman at the front door, who looked like an officer of the King's Guard. He persuaded the guard to give him a wink when the city editor passed out the door on his way to lunch. In that way Van Benschoten overcame obstacle No. 1.

Hurriedly he made his wants known to the city editor while tagging after him. He explained that he was a bright young journalist, who would be a rare find for the paper if the paper chose to take advantage of its opportunity.

"And ideas?" laconically asked the city editor.

"Now, it is disconcertaing to be asked all of a sudden if you have any ideas. Sometimes it is difficult to think of bright ideas right off the reel. "Ah, yes," replied Van Benschoten, however; "a great many ideas, in fact. I am a perfect mine of ideas. Ideas is what I make a specialty of."

He said all that in order to give himself time to think up some ideas.

"Well, what could you write right now that would be interesting?" asked the city editor.

For a minute the city editor had all the best of it, but, as luck would have it, an idea rolled out of the slot in Van Benschoten's mind.

"Well, how would this be?" began Billy. "You know there was to be an eclipse of the sun today. For all I know it occurred on schedule time, but this fog is so dense that nobody would ever know whether there is an eclipse going on or not. I believe I could write a good feature story about how London didn't see the eclipse."

"Write it," said the city editor.

"How'll I get into the office?" quickly asked Billy.

"That's a pretty good question," remarked the city editor man, smiling for the first time. "I'll give you a card that will let you in."

So Billy wrote the eclipse yarn well enough to get one more assignment.

"Go out and get up a good story to run three-quarters of a column about the latest developments in the telephone situation," were his instructions—just that and nothing more.

And mind you, Billy didn't know anything whatever about the telephone situation. He didn't even know there was a situation.

But he asked no questions and started out. For a while he stood on the street corner. Then he walked up to a policeman and asked him:

"Where can I find a lawyer?"

"A what?" asked the cop.

"I said a lawyer," said Billy. "I wish to consult a lawyer. Or a solicitor, I guess they're called, mostly."

"There's a bunch of 'em in that building yonder," said the cop, pointing.

The building proved to be a regular hive of lawyers, or solicitors. Billy roamed the corridors, peering in at every open door, until he noticed a particularly benevolent-looking, elderly lawyer, and then he walked in.

Briefly he told the lawyer how he happened to be trying for a job and about his assignment to write up the latest development in the telephone situation.

"And what I want," he explained, "is some kind-hearted person like you appear to be to tell me what's up in regard to the telephone business. What all has happened so far? Then maybe I can find out what may happen next."

It happened that the lawyer was a man who kept himself informed on current events, and he was able to start in at A and explain the telephone troubles right through to Z. Billy thanked him and went to the telephone company after still later particulars. He was able then to write a story that made a hit in his office, and was on the first page of the paper the next day.

Then he learned that the city editor had handed him the telephone assignment on the assumption that he would find it baffling and return to the office no more. Just at the end of two days he was assured of a place on that staff as long as he wanted it.

He knew to the penny how much money he would need to sail for home. The moment he had the required sum he did a thing that gave him a real thrill of delight. He resigned.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Oil, Tobacco—Lots of 'Em.

Albert Lea Tribune: The Duluth Herald has an editorial under the caption of "The Enormous Benefit of Trust Busting." It seems from this that they have succeeded in "busting" a trust after all. Please name it.

Neck and Neck.

Bemidji Pioneer: Duluth is advertising the fact that it is the healthiest city in the United States. Before the issuing of this report Bemidji enjoyed this distinction, according to reports, but Duluth will be pleased to learn that Bemidji is running her a neck and neck race.

Appropriate Place.

Mankato Free Press: The coal dealers are going to hold their convention in Duluth. Quite appropriate, in view of the winter weather the denizens of that town are experiencing at the present time.

Where Are They?

Menahga Journal: Under the Hicken rule it is impossible to buy groceries in Duluth on Sunday, but if you have the "password," they say it is an easy matter to get a little from the "cup that cheers," at several of the drug stores.

None Will Try.

Mesaba Ore: Although it is possible that there are other cities in the country that are fortunate enough to possess two such excellent newspapers as the Duluth News-Tribune and The Duluth Herald, The Ore will have to be shown before it will believe it.

Prayers Go Forth.

Biwabik Times: Conventions are a good thing—they give an excuse to get away from home—but we would like to see some of the stumpage land cleared and made ready for farmers. One look at some of the small clover fields, and consideration of the value of 100 acres of such growth, is enough to cause prayers to go forth that the plans formulated in Duluth this week will be fruitful in results.

Thinks It's a Joke.

Madison Western Guard: While the people of Southern Minnesota were suffering from the intense heat of last week, it was so cold at Duluth that people had to build fires in their stoves and wear furs when they went out. While we were longing for cold weather they were praying for warm. Funny world, isn't it?

Slogan a Reality.

Ely Miner: Sunday was by far the hottest day experienced here in years. At that it is a pleasure to live in a climate like ours with the cool nights and refined air. Overcoats were worn in Duluth on Sunday and the slogan, "It's cool in Duluth," was made a reality to hundreds who had come up from the Twin Cities and other southern cities to get a bit of fresh air. The northern part of the state is certainly it.

What Every Man Knows

Herbert Kaufman in Woman's World: There is a word at which all true men strike for the sanctity of motherhood.

Every boy knows its import and rises in arms at the epithet.

And it is a good thing to have it so.

The son who will not battle for the name he bears is a coward and a cad.

From youth onward the male understands the holiness of woman's virtue.

Every man knows what it is when a woman goes wrong.

Every man knows the ultimate cost of her sin.

Every man knows the hopelessness of her tomorrows.

Every man knows the shame and degradation of the aftermath; therefore you cannot plead age nor ignorance in extenuation of your crime.

If you were old enough to wreck a life, you were old enough to realize the direful consequences for the girl.

Even in your earliest teens you saw opprobrium heaped upon the Little Sisters of Sin.

When you wrecked her life you could not for one instant dismiss the picture of her punishment.

And yet you wear the badge of respectability and dare to hold your head high in a decent community.

You're a masquerader, an interloper in honorable society.

The stain is on you. The years can't wipe it from your conscience. Hell must exist—your existence demands it.

There is mercy for her, but God will never hear your prayers.

She was reckless. Caution only comes through experience and it was too late when knowledge came to her.

You swore that you loved her, but you lied, for men who love reverence and protect. They do not degrade.

Where is she tonight?

A million outcasts are sinking in the shadows, pacing the pavements—painted ghosts of "women who were," nameless things—scourged by want—hungry for happiness.

She is there among them—a joyless shell, price marked, and vice marked, without a friend, beyond the barriers, locked without the gate through which none may return.

But you'll pay, too. Her memory will never fade.

Throughout the years conscience will gnaw at your heart and on the day of judgment the master will avenge.

Plan as you will, rise as you may, climb as high as ambition can drive you, peace can never be your lot.

And one supreme torture awaits you—when you look into the faces of your children and know that you are unworthy of their respect.

While the Fishes Waited.

The Living Church: A Chicago clergyman, on invitation of a prominent layman, last summer took his vacation in the diocese of Duluth. Landing in the town of Crosby, but finding no church there, he decided that the fish could wait. In ten days he had obtained the gift of a lot, subscriptions of $3,500 from the mine owners and miners, and ground had been broken for what is known as the "Ten Day Church."

Put to a Test.

Chicago Journal: A little boy was given two images of plaster, coated on the outside with pink sugar. He wanted to eat the images, but he was warned on no account to do so.

"They are poison," he was told. "If you eat them it will kill you."

However, the boy was dubious. He had been cheated before this by grown-up people. Finally he had a young friend to spend the day with him and that night it was discovered that one of the images had disappeared. His mother, nearly frantic, rushed to him.

"Harold," she said, "where is that pink image?" Harold frowned as he answered, defiantly: "I gave it to Richard, and if he's alive tomorrow I'm going to eat the other one myself."

Making a Burglar Useful.

Detroit Free Press: "Lie still there and I won't hurt you. All I want is your money and your jewels and then I'll git."

"All right, old man, and while you're searching for the jewels if you run across my dress studs I wish you'd put them out on the dresser, I haven't been able to find them for a month."

Bryan's Team Work.

Kansas City Star: Six months ago you wouldn't have believed it, but Mr. Bryan has given the finest exhibition of team work since March 4 ever seen in the political game.

Exile's Song.

New I tread the city broadways, and my heart is sore
For the moor calls, and the wind calls,
but I go there no more.
And I'm fain for the lonely road, and a wild gray sky.
And the screaming note in a curlew's throat as the rain comes rushing by.

Out beyond the stream of traffic is a stream I love,
And the old hills, the dear hills, and the stars that climb above;
And it's there my heart is roaming
while I stand in the street.
And I hear the sigh of a dream gone
by when the world was sweet.

My soul is sick of cities, and the crafty strife;
And if gold were all, and greed were all, I have had enough of life.
But always night and day I hear the moorland music creep
To the heart that shall be aching till
I sleep.

F. S. KELLY FURNITURE CO.
17 & 19 WEST SUPERIOR ST.

MAXIMUM TAX WILL BE LEVIED BY COMMISSION

Admitted That City Will Need More Money Next Year.

Paved Highway to West Duluth, Costing $200,000 to $250,000, Ordered.

Only Two Estimates on Expensive Pavements Are Submitted.

The city commission will levy the maximum tax possible under the charter for city purposes for 1914, judging from a statement made at the council meeting yesterday afternoon by Commissioner W. A. Hicken.

"We'll have to have more money next year, and the people may as well know it now as any time," said the head of the safety division. "Nothing will be gained by trying to ease the fact by letting them wait until later to find it out."

The assertion was made when Commissioner Murchison brought up the matter of improving West Superior street, Jenswold street and Oneota street from Twenty-fifth avenue west to Forty-sixth avenue west. As the city's share of that improvement is $74,000 for a sandstone pavement and $66,000 for a brick pavement, according to the engineer's estimates, the question brought about a short discussion of the city's finances.

When Commissioner Hicken said that the city will need more cash next year, Commissioner Voss pointed out that the charter limits the city to a levy of 13 mills for general purposes. The funds excepted are the interest fund, for which the levy shall be just sufficient to pay the interest on the outstanding bonds and debts, and the sinking fund, for which an annual levy of 1 mill shall be made.

Is Pressing Need.

Commissioner Murchison stated that a good highway between Duluth and West Duluth is one of the city's most pressing needs. He explained that the Third street property owners are willing that Oneota street should be improved first, and that under the existing circumstances the city's share of improving Superior, Oneota and Jensweld streets is considerably less than its portion of the Third street job, as the petition for the latter provides that no 50-foot lot shall be assessed more than $175. Mayor Prince agreed with the head of the works division that a first-class thoroughfare between the central and western parts of the city is an urgent necessity.

On the motion of Commissioner Murchison the improvement was ordered under that provision of the charter which makes that possible without the presentation of a petition. The resolution must lay over sixty days. In the interim a petition remonstrating against the improvement, signed by not less than 25 per cent of the property affected, may be filed. In that case the improvement shall not be made unless a petition equal to the other shall be filed.

Not in Proper Form.

The resolution passed yesterday does not conform, however, to the requirements of the charter, which provides that "it shall particularly describe the highway to be improved, and the cost thereof, as previously estimated by the city engineer, and shall state therein what portion of such cost it is proposed to assess against the property specially benefited by such improvement, and the territorial limits within which such assessment is proposed to be made." Each of the commissioners had previously been furnished with a copy of the estimates gotten out by the engineer, but none of them was in evidence at the meeting yesterday. The estimates were for brick and sandstone but there was no estimate for concrete, which many property owners believe would give as good satisfaction as either of the others and at the same time be much cheaper. The D. M. & N. informed the old council that it would bear its share of the cost of the improvement, which would be considerable as it owns much property along Superior street, where its ore docks cross it. Whether or not allowance for this part of the cost has been made in the estimate of the cost to the property owners was not made clear at yesterday's meeting, when it was stated that the D. M. & N. has announced its willingness to stand its share of the improvement.

The job involves $200,000 to $250,000, of which the city's share is $65,000 to $75,000, and yet the commission ordered the work without having all the information available before it.

The estimated cost of the Superior street job is $246,969.25 for sandstone. Of this amount the estimated cost to the city is $74,000, including $20,000 for the fill at Fortieth avenue west, $5,400 for the culvert and fill at Forty-third avenue west, $5,000 for widening Jenswold street, $6,000 for storm sewers and $37,500 for street intersections. This would leave the net cost to the property owners $172,969.25, or $630.58 for each of the 326 lots affected.

The total estimated cost of brick is $199,768.25. The city's share would be $66,000, leaving the net cost to the property owners $133,168.25, or $408.49 per lot.

Convicted Socialists Appeal.

Marquette, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward J. McGurty of Chicago and four Negaunee men, all five Socialist speakers arrested at Negaunee on a charge of violating a city ordinance relative to disorderly persons and found guilty by a jury in police court, have taken an appeal to the circuit court. The Socialists conducted a meeting at the principal corner in Negaunee's business district and were charged with obstructing traffic.

Ideal Oatmeal Shampoo —Blond or Brunette

"An oatmeal shampoo is a real luxury, yet quite inexpensive," says Mildred St. Albans, beauty editor of Household Guest. "It may be taken without the usual precaution not to wash the hair too frequently for fear of its becoming dry and brittle. The brunette may feel certain it won't fade or dull her tresses. The blonde, whose hair usually is crisp and curly, may be sure she won't lose any of the curl or golden tint. Gray hair won't turn yellowish. A good oatmeal shampoo enhances health and appearance of any hair.

"Of course plain oatmeal is a little difficult to use, but caxined oatmeal compound makes an ideal shampoo. It is only necessary to stir a spoonful of it in a cup of hot water, pour onto the hair and rub well. This is remarkably refreshing and cleansing. Get about fifty cents' worth of caxined oatmeal compound at your druggist's and you'll have enough to last a long time. I know of nothing to keep the hair so soft, fluffy, with such a beautiful satiny gloss."

TAKE RIVER PIRATE.

Alleged Mississippi River Boat Thief Caught in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—Suspected of being a "river pirate," who has indulged in lawless cruises on the Mississippi and Minnesota rivers, Charles Salada, also known as Charles Denver, was sent to jail Monday by a municipal court judge in default of $600 bail, to await the action of the grand jury. The specific charge on which Salada was arrested was that of stealing a boat belonging to Maurice Ostrozak, containing a pair of oars, several hundred feet of rope, nets and 1,400 pounds of fish. He waived examination.

Ostrozak claims that after catching the fish in the Minnesota river, he went on shore to eat his lunch. Suddenly he saw Salada on the pier.

"He danced a sailor's hornpipe," the victim told the court, "and then jumped into my boat, with all my nets and fish and pushed out into the river."

Detectives found the nets and boat in possession of a St. Paul man who said he bought them from Salada.

BRIDGE TROUBLE AT DETROIT ADJUSTED.

Detroit, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The controversy between the town of Lakeview and the Pelican Valley Navigation company which operates boats on the chain of lakes here, over the bridges the company built over the connecting canals, has been adjusted. The company promises to put in better concrete bridges next fall when navigation is ended. The matter had reached the courts and a long-drawn-out legal battle was impending when the navigation company's representatives met with the town of Lakeview board and an agreement was entered into whereby new tops were placed on the old concrete bridges to remain until the close of navigation this fall, after which new bridges will be built to replace the old ones, wider and stronger. The wooden bridge built by the county commissioners was taken up and navigation was again opened up. The people on the lakes are very much pleased over the sudden agreement and resulting opening the channel to navigation again, as the boat service has been almost a necessity for some who live on the lakes.

Dogden, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three former residents of this place were principals in a tragedy, according to advices from Corvallis, Or. It is stated that Mrs. E. H. Tunnel shot her husband and her daughter by a former marriage each through the lungs, then suicided. No cause is assigned. It is thought her two victims may recover. Mr. Tunnel was formerly postmaster here.

SEEK WORKMAN'S SCALP.

Editor-Postmaster at Bowman, N. D., Said to Be Perniciously Active.

Bowman, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports from Washington are that a demand has been made for the resignation of Postmaster Workman, the editor of the Pioneer here who is charged with pernicious activity in politics. It is claimed that as editor he said sarcastic things about some of the people to whom, as postmaster, he handed out mail. Workman makes a strenuous denial of political partisanship and it is understood he will decline to resign.

MAY RECOVER MEMORY.

Hope Again Expressed for Making "Mysterious Man" Partially Sane.

Rochester, Minn., July 8.—"J. C. R.," the "man of mystery" at the state hospital for the insane, may have his memory partially restored by the operation performed Saturday, according to Dr. O. C. Heyerdale, of the hospital staff. It will be several weeks before the exact result of the operation will be known, Dr. Heyerdale said.

The hospital authorities may, according to Dr. Heyerdale, attempt to teach the man how to talk, even if his memory is not restored.

Two Drowned in Racine County.

Racine, Wis., July 8.—Racine county lakes claimed two victims Sunday in Walter Duplez of Derby, Conn., and Edward Schmuzki of Milwaukee. Duplez was crossing Eagle lake in a rowboat. A gale overturned his boat. He declined assistance from a rescue party, claiming he could swim in. He was seized with a cramp and drowned.

Schmuzki left his boat in Tichigan lake to bathe. The boat was carried away by a wind storm and Schmuzki becoming exhausted, drowned before assistance could reach him.

BARS STOOL PIGEONS.

Unlawful to Hire Barred People to Get Evidence Against Saloons.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—That it is unlawful to employ any person to whom the sale of liquor is forbidden to enter or visit saloons, for the purpose of obtaining liquor in order to secure conviction for illegal sale, is the opinion of Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, given Monday. The 1911 legislature adopted an act to this effect, and according to the attorney general the wording of the law makes it applicable to the state labor commissioner, his deputies and peace officers.

In his opinion he held that any exception to the law which would permit police or other peace officers obtaining evidence, must be made by the legislature.

YEAR AND HALF FOR EXTORTION.

Bowman, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sentence of a year and a half in the state penitentiary was imposed upon H. A. Gilbert of Buffalo Springs, S. D., who was convicted here of extortion. It is claimed that he compelled his victim to sign two notes of $500 each.

SENATE ASKS ABOUT "SPYING" ON JUDGES.

Washington, July 8.—Upon motion of Senator Works of California, the senate agreed to a resolution calling upon the attorney general for a report as to what spies or inspectors, if any, he had sent out to investigate the proceedings or conduct of Federal courts or judges in the last five years.

The resolution is the outcome of a report that an inspector had been sent by the department of justice to investigate the conduct of Judge Speer in the Federal court in Georgia.

New German War Minister.

Berlin, July 8.—Maj.-Gen. Erick von Falkenhayn has been appointed minister of war in succession to Gen. Josiah von Ehringen, who recently resigned. Gen. von Falkenhayn is chief of staff of the Fourth army corps at Magdeburg.

VESUVIUS ACTIVE.

Completion of Seven-Year Period Brings New Eruption.

Naples, July 8.—The activity of Mount Vesuvius, which became pronounced last spring, is growing more accentuated. Studies by Prof. Mercalli, director of the observatory, show that the volcano from 1760 A. D. to date, was never tranquil for a time surpassing seven consecutive years. At the end of the seven-year period, which corresponds with the present year, that length of time having elapsed since the eruption of 1906, the volcano enters an eruptive stage. Prof. Mercalli says, however, this does not mean a violent eruption necessarily is imminent. The crater is emitting a quantity of vapor formed of chloric acid.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

RETAILERS IN SESSION

Frank Gravell of Duluth Is Attending Merchants' Meet at Fargo.

President Delivers Annual Address and Work of Session Is Mapped Out.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Retail Dealers' association began a three-day session here today.

The organization was called to order in the Commercial club rooms by President W. B. Howland of the Fargo-Moorhead association, who introduced President Breugger of the state organization, the latter presiding the rest of the day.

After invocation, an address of welcome was made by H. F. Emery, president of the city commission. Responses were made by Frank X. Gravel of Duluth and J. T. Nelson of Glen Ullin, a former president.

The various committees were appointed after the enrollment of new members, and an adjournment followed till the afternoon session.

President's Annual Address.

The annual address by President Breugger and the reports of the state treasurer and the state secretary were given this afternoon. These were followed by addresses by Lieutenant Governor Kraabel of Clifford, Secretary Macfadden of the state bankers and N. W. Jasper of the Union Cereal company. Editor Schutz of the Commercial Bulletin of Minneapolis conducted a question box.

There will be a smoker this evening in the Commercial club room, with Frank Gravel as master of ceremonies.

Many prominent speakers appear on tomorrow's program. In the evening there will be an auto ride and a theater party. Thursday will be devoted to an inspection of the exhibits of the large jobbing and wholesale houses and the local manufacturing plants.

MORE MILL CITY BEES.

Another Colony Has Successfully Swarmed in Heart of City.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—A swarm of bees, which had alighted on a lamp post on a crowded downtown business street, blocking traffic for several hours Monday morning, were successfully captured by Earl Mattison, a farmer boy of Cokato, Minn. More than a thousand people watched the proceedings.

Beating on a tin pail young Mattison quieted the bees and then coaxed them into a box. There was said by apiarists to be at least 20,000 bees in the swarm.

A. Skoog, a well known apiarist, said the swarm may have traveled fifty miles before settling down on a Minneapolis street lamp. This was the second time that bees have blocked traffic on Minneapolis business streets recently.

ARRESTED FOR BRIBERY.

Paving Company Employe Alleged to Have Bribed St. Paul Inspector.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—H. Melville Newton, an employe of the Kettle River Paving company, was arrested Monday on a charge of having bribed Inspector John H. Stratton, a city employe, in connection with the paving of a local street. He pleaded not guilty to the charge in municipal court and was released on $5,000 bail.

It is charged Newton three times gave money to Stratton for the purpose of having him hire men to reinspect creosote paving blocks which had been rejected as unfit for use. According to the charges, more money than was necessary to pay the men, was given to Stratton before detectives who were present at Stratton's request in order to catch Newton.

BURIED IN MILL CITY.

Body of George Foss, Engineer and Contractor, Brought From Seattle.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—The funeral of the late George O. Foss, long prominent in engineering and railroad contracting circles in the Northwest, who died suddenly in Seattle, Wash., for cerebral hemorrhage, aged 58, was held here this afternoon at Lakewood chapel, interment being in Lakewood. Rev. James E. Freeman officiating and the Masons having charge.

Mr. Foss was born at Dexter, Me., in 1855, and graduated from the University of Maine in 1876, soon afterward coming West to Minnesota, and marrying Miss Josephine A. Boulette of Red Wing. He spent two years in the government engineer's office in St. Paul and then opened a civil engineering office in Minneapolis. He engaged later in engineering work at Helena, Mont., under the late E. H. Beckler, and as locating engineer for the Northern Pacific road. In 1895 he entered the railroad contracting business with James A. McDonnell, covering work in many Western states, but kept the home in Minneapolis for twenty-five years, the daughters graduating at the Central high school and the University of Minnesota.

HELD FOR MURDER.

St. Paul Pair Bound Over to the Next Grand Jury.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—Joseph Gyarmati and John Osik, charged with the murder of Mrs. Rose Gyarmati here June 19, appeared in court late Monday for preliminary hearing. The woman, according to officials, was choked to death.

Both Gyarmati and Osik were bound over to the grand jury. James McGill, Gyarmati's former employe, testified that Gyarmati had asked him concerning the effect of different poisons shortly before the death of his wife.

BOOST ASSESSMENTS.

S. D. Railroad Commission Hoists Express and Pullman Companies.

Pierre, S. D., July 8.—The state railroad commission has increased the assessments of express companies doing business in this state from $661,000 to $2,000,779.

The Pullman company assessment was increased from $60,000 to $228,000.

SEED CORN CONTEST.

Boys and Girls of Minnesota to Compete for Prizes.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—A seed corn selection contest for Minnesota boys and girls will be held in September by experts of the university farm on each of the twenty-two demonstration farms that are under the direction of the state college of agriculture.

George J. Baker, supervisor of the demonstration farm, in charge of the work, expects 500 children to enter the contest. Last year only boys under 18 years of age were admitted. This year girls probably also will be allowed to compete.

Prizes will be given to the winners in all of the counties where the contests are held.

FARMERS' PICNIC.

Gathering July 19 at Ashland Junction Experiment Station.

Ashland, Wis., July 8.—The branch experiment station of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin at Ashland Junction will have a picnic Saturday, July 19, at which farmers and their families are invited.

Prominent speakers will speak on different topics, including "Animal Husbandry," "Farm Crops," "Horticultural Crops" and "Soil Management." Each of these topics will be discussed by specialists in their particular line. There will be an opportunity to visit the branch experiment station and see what is being done along different lines on this farm.

The branch experiment station, located at Ashland Junction, is designed primarily for solving problems that confront the North Wisconsin farmer, to produce grain and forage crops adapted to the climatic conditions peculiar to this region, to test out different kinds of grains and crops, and demonstrate the best methods of growing these. Soil fertility and soil management studies are carried on as well as work with horticultural crops. A dairy herd is being established at this station. Methods of clearing land are being investigated and particular notice should be called to the use of a flock of sheep in clearing land. Indications are that the sheep can be used to a very good advantage in clearing land of brush and getting it ready for a growth of crops.

ACQUITTED MAN TO LEAVE WASHBURN, N. D.

Bismarck, N. D., July 8.—Walfred Anderson of Washburn, recently tried for the murder of Cashier Funk, has disposed of his automobile garage at Washburn to a Bismarck firm. He left here for the Twin Cities, but will return to Washburn in a few days to wind up his business affairs.

He realizes the feeling is bitter against him at Washburn, but is not alarmed over the situation although he admits that his friends here have advised him to leave.

SHEEPHERDER'S SLAYER NOW IN PENITENTIARY.

Bismarck, N. D., July 8.—Herbert Glass, recently convicted at Bowman for the murder in 1911 of Tom Corcoran, an aged sheepherder at Marmarth, was placed in the penitentiary here where he will serve twenty-five years for manslaughter.

Detroit Trio Held.

Detroit, Minn., July 8.—Fred Lynch, a young man who was employed in the Buckman dry goods store for a year or more, is held to appear before the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. Rose Piche and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Goff are held also as receivers of stolen goods.

Young Lynch is said to have used his employer's pass key in obtaining access to the store after closing hours.

SAUK RAPIDS MAN

Is Selected as Treasurer of Minnesota State Fair Board.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—A. H. Turrittin of Sauk Rapids was chosen treasurer of the Minnesota State Fair by the board of managers Monday, to succeed E. L. Mattson of Minneapolis, resigned.

Mr. Turrittin is a banker, and, according to J. J. Furlong, president of the board, is well equipped for the position.

"Mr. Turrittin has always been a delegate to the annual meetings of the agricultural society, and has been an active supporter of the institution. He is popular as well as favorably known throughout the northern part of the state," said Mr. Furlong. "His appointment was urged in personal messages which I received from prominent business men."

INSPECT BEMIDJI SITE.

State Normal Commission Is Looking Over Offer Made There.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—The commission which is to select a site for a fifth normal school left St. Paul for Bemidji last night, where the property offered by the citizens of that place is being inspected today. Thief River Falls, Park Rapids and Cass Lake also want the school and will be visited.

The commissioners are: C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education; W. W. Brown, St. James; J. A. Ferguson, Duluth; Ole Sageng, Dalton, and S. B. Wilson, Mankato. They will return Saturday.

WILL ENLARGE ITS PLANT AT HANCOCK.

Hancock, Mich., July 8.—So rapid has been the increase of business by the Bridgeman-Russell company of Duluth that its present plant on Hancock avenue will have to be vacated by next fall, or sufficiently enlarged to meet the concern's demands. Manager Chellew of the firm said that the company's biggest business since locating here was July 2 and 3 when the house was practically "cleaned." It is not improbable that the firm will eventually erect an establishment of its own in Hancock, according to the local manager.

Train Wrecker Sentenced.

Grand Rapids, Wis., July 8.—Fred Gray, a section foreman from Kellner, who was arrested last week on the charge of placing an obstruction on the Chicago & Northwestern track, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in Waupun prison.

Land Brings $150 an Acre.

Luverne, Minn., July 8.—A new record price for Rock county lands was established by Henry Rodman, who sold his farm, a few miles north of this city, for $150 an acre. In spite of the high prices a great deal of land in this section is changing hands.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Flasher, N. D.—The third annual reunion of the Hoosiers in Morton county held at the home of Mrs. M. A. Catt on "Crystal View farm," was well attended, notwithstanding the threatening rain.

Mandan, N. D.—The crop conditions have improved materially during the recent rainfalls, which, from reports, have extended generally over the Slope country, and the damage done to some fields the first week of June seems to have been repaired to a great extent.

Pembina, N. D.—The Northern Pacific has a big crew of men and a gravel train ballasting the tracks from Pembina south. It is said the entire track between Pembina and the junction will be put in shape for the mogul engines that will be put on this run soon.

Wahpeton, N. D.—Anton Miksche, a pioneer of Wahpeton, is dead at the age of 74. He was born in Austria and lived in Wahpeton since 1879.

Lisbon, N. D.—The Lisbon Free Press announces the retirement of C. L. Allen, having sold his interest to his partner, Edward Boyden. Mr. Allen has been in the newspaper game for about twenty-eight years.

Fargo, N. D.—Word has been received of the death of Phineas Longfellow, a relative of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the poet. Phineas Longfellow was one of the oldest settlers in this section of the country, having been a resident of Valley City for over thirty years.

Dickinson, N. D.—A man giving the name of Joseph Blanchard, who was in the employ of the Cole Bros. circus, was arrested for disorderly conduct. The masher was given eight days' work on the city streets.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Clifford Breckheiner, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Breckheiner of Tolna, is in the General hospital with a fair chance of recovery, following an operation as the result of a shooting tragedy at Tolna Friday evening. The lad was at a dance and in company with others of his age was examining a revolver which was accidentally discharged, shooting young Breckheiner through the abdomen.

Pierre, S. D.—Edwin T. Lundy of Cassopolis, Mich., was here to secure extradition papers to take back Elmer Hawks to that state on a charge of deserting his family. Hawks is being held by the Lawrence county authorities for Lundy.

Brookings, S. D.—Mrs. Otto Arneson was terribly burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove and her recovery is considered doubtful. Mr. Arneson was severely burned in attempting to save her.

Williston, N. D.—Nearly two hundred filings for land in the Williston district was the record for the past week, since the enlarged homestead act has been made applicable to much of the area in this district.

Fargo, N. D.—Clarence Brill, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Brill of Binford died Sunday at a local hospital from an abscess on the brain. The funeral will be held from the home in Binford, Wednesday afternoon.

Mandan, N. D.—Miss Ella Martin, a waitress, made two attempts to commit suicide, because of her affection being slighted by William Swanson.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Grand Rapids—Frank Sierziej, living at Nekoosa, was adjudged insane and committed to the Northern hospital at Oshkosh.

Appleton—George Rechner, aged 13, was frightfully burned Sunday afternoon when he took hold of a live wire.

Grand Rapids—Otto Radtke, a resident of Nekoosa, Wis., sustained a broken jaw and serious burns when his clothing became entangled in a machine belt in the Nekoosa-Edwards paper mill of this city.

Menomonie—The third state bank will be opened in Menomonie this fall by the Kraft Mercantile company. This company is a $200,000 corporation composed of Philip Kraft and his three sons.

Grand Rapids—John Mans, plaintiff in a damage suit against the Consolidated Water Power & Paper company, has been awarded $1,040 judgment for the death of his son, Edward Mans, who was drowned at Biron, Wis., May 31, while in the employ of the company. This amount will be paid in monthly installments of $50 each.

Menomonie—Although its franchise granted in 1885 would not expire for thirty-two years, the Menomonie Water company has taken an indeterminate franchise under the provisions of the public utility law, and the city will hold a special election to vote on a proposition to purchase the plant at a figure to be placed on it by the railroad commission.

Chippewa Falls—William Nelson, whose home is in Chicago, was killed by a Soo Line engine Friday morning. He was lying across the track, apparently asleep, when discovered by Conductor Leuborurn, who was standing on the running board of the engine, too late for the engineer to bring the train to a stop before running over the body.

Menominee—While "dipping" street cars near the John Henes park, Eddie Mathson, 16 years old, fell between a trailer and a motor car and the wheels crushed both his legs. He died two hours later at a hospital.

Marquette—Henry C. Russell left Sunday evening for New York en route to Colombia, South America, and will be absent from the city several months, representing Breitung & Co., Ltd., of New York city, in negotiations for mineral and timber lands for the Breitung Mines corporation, one of the newest of the Breitung concerns and which, for the past three years, has been securing South American property.

Ishpeming—Ishpeming's home-coming week was brought to a close Saturday amidst real enthusiasm. The success of the week and the celebration of the Fourth were highly gratifying to the many Ishpeming men and women who worked unremittingly to see that the city acquitted itself in a praiseworthy manner.

Marquette—W. A. Ross, deputy United States marshal, left Sunday for Rexton, eleven miles from Trout Lake, on the Soo line, to serve some papers. From Rexton he will go to the Soo, to attend the July term of United States district court, which opens Thursday in that city.

Hancock—Sheriff Cruse and a force of deputies Saturday night raided an alleged gambling joint in the rear of the saloon owned by Louis Saam, on Quincy street, Hancock, and are holding Louis Guidi and a number more. Guidi as the proprietor and the others as witnesses.

Houghton—The steamer J. A. McGean arrived at the Copper Range coal dock Sunday with a cargo of 6,000 tons of coal for the Copper Range Consolidated. The steamer Nye with 6,500 tons for the same company arrived Monday.

Hancock—The assault and battery charge brought by Miss Anna Rousseau, formerly piano player at the Orpheum theater, against Mrs. D. E. Rice, wife of the proprietor of the theater, has been dropped. Mr. Rice paid the girl her back wages, paid the costs of the court, so far as proceedings had gone, and the complaint was withdrawn.

Escanaba—Edward Thompson of Wells in addition to being a deputy sheriff is also now a deputy state fire warden. Mr. Thompson's appointment was received through the efforts of Deputy State Game and Fire Warden Herman Leisner.

Marquette—John D. Magnum has been appointed custodian of the post-office building in Marquette. He succeeds Charles J. Brynes, who was the collector of customs at the local customs office, which went out of existence June 30.

Hancock—Joseph Voggione of Franklin was arrested Saturday charged with violation of the liquor law. Voggione kept his saloon open one Sunday in June, it is alleged. Thomas Lowney is the complaining witness.

Calumet—Mr. and Mrs. James Nicholson, Stephen Paull, C. E. L. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Liebleln and Ben Reding have left for Rochester, N. Y., to attend the national convention of Elks.

Negaunee—John C. Bohrer died at St. Johns, Or., on July 1. Stomach trouble was the cause. He is a brother of A. D. Bohrer of this city and son-in-law of Capt. and Mrs. J. H. Rough. He resided in that city for twelve years and then moved to St. Johns, where he has lived for the past six years. His widow and four children survive.

Ishpeming — A horse owned by George Williamson of Negaunee, proprietor of a livery stable, was killed in a collision with an automobile operated by Elmer Lassard, one of the owners of a garage of this city.

Marquette—Mrs. John Siegel and daughter, Miss Ethel, have arrived from Milwaukee where they have been detained for the past month on account of the latter's illness with typhoid fever, contracted in that city.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Moorhead—The footings for the 1913 personal property assessments of the city of Moorhead have been completed by City Assessor L. D. Evans. The total including money and credits amounts to $758,080 as against $688,066 of last year.

Detroit—Levi F. Bullis, for seven and one-half years cashier of the First National bank, tendered his resignation effective on Tuesday, and, after several weeks' vacation at his lake cottage, he will leave for the coast country to seek a location. George J. Haas, for five years assistant cashier, succeeds Mr. Bullis as cashier.

St. Cloud—Without friends or relatives to follow his remains to the grave and pay the last rites, Ludwig Hamm, native and resident of Bavaria, Germany, was buried in Sauk Rapids Saturday afternoon. Hamm died as the result of falling out a window at the Commercial hotel Wednesday night.

Brainerd—John G. Knebel, an old settler of Crow Wing county, died of typhoid fever on July 1 at the age of 53 years and 5 months. Mr. Knebel was born in Monroe, Wis. In 1862 he came with his parents to Paynesville, where they lived for some time. In 1882 he was married to Miss Emilia Wessel of Paynesville. Nine children survive.

Barnesville—Six school districts in the neighborhood of Barnesville voted on a proposition to consolidate and erect a central school building and establish a graded school this week. The proposal was defeated by six votes.

Baudette—A term of district court will open here July 9 with Judge Stanton presiding. In addition to citizens' papers and ditch hearings, there are several cases to be tried.

Bemidji—Bueford M. Gile, agriculturist of the Bemidji high school addressed the Town of Summit Farmers' club at Galstead lake near Blackduck Sunday afternoon on "Alfalfa."

Wahkon—Work on the new Roman Catholic church has begun. It is located at the corner of Fifth avenue and Hennepin street. Its dimensions are 30x40.

St. Cloud—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the H. C. Ervin City Mills elevator Friday afternoon, and, although it got a good start in the cupola at the top of the building, it was extinguished with little fire damage.

Red Lake Falls—Men have been employed on the Great Northern railway for the past two weeks, raising and straightening the track south from the depot.

Crookston—Thursday evening, at their farm home three miles west of Eldred, Mrs. P. Boukind died at the age of 69 years, after an illness which began last April. Deceased came to Eldred with the first settlers, together with her husband, thirty-six years ago, and has been a resident there ever since, with the exception of a few years spent at Bella Coola, B. C.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

TWENTY school playgrounds will be thrown open June 23 at Cleveland, Ohio., and, except Saturday afternoons and Sundays, will be in use until Sept. 6, but not more than $12,000 may be spent in their operation and maintenance. All playgrounds will open at 8:30 a. m. and close at 5 p. m., except Longwood, Brownell and East Technical, which will be open until 9:30 each week night, except Saturday. Playground activities are to be in charge of an assistant supervisor.

Duluth's playgrounds are open the year through. In the summer they are used for ball grounds and are equipped with other apparatus, while in the winter many of them are utilized for public skating rinks. Two of the grounds cannot be used on Sundays. But a few hundred dollars are spent on their operation and maintenance. It is hoped that more funds will be available for this purpose in the future, as the benefits which accrue from them justify a greater expenditure.

GAME WARDEN OBJECTS.

Opposes Planting Rainbow Trout in Upper Peninsula Streams.

Iron Mountain, Mich., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Game and Fish Warden William R. Oates announces that he will oppose as strenuously as his office will permit the placing of rainbow trout in Upper Peninsula rivers and lakes containing brook trout. Mr. Oates is of the opinion that the introduction of the rainbow in Southern Michigan streams was instrumental in destroying the grayling and he believes that ultimately they will destroy the brook trout in the Upper Peninsula. Some fishermen charge the fish lice now killing the brook trout in a number of Upper Michigan rivers to the rainbow. The Pilgrim, Ann, Stutt and a number of other streams have become afflicted with the lice, which attack the brook trout in the mouth. Finally, in the opinion of the game warden and expert nimrods the rainbow is an inferior fish, anyway—it is not nearly so gamey as the brook trout and its flesh is flavorless.

EVIDENCE DOES NOT CONVINCE COURT.

Judge Windom yesterday afternoon dismissed the case against Paul Soumaski and Steve Makoski, who were arrested last week on a charge of assaulting Alex Matel and attempting to steal his gold watch and 30 cents.

Matel, according to his story, was in the rear of his saloon at 419 West Michigan street shortly after 10 o'clock last Thursday night, when two men attacked him and attempted to go through his pockets. His cries attracted others in front of the saloon and the men ran out through the rear door. An hour later Soumaski and Makoski were arrested by Patrolmen Harling and Danielson as suspects.

The evidence introduced against the pair yesterday was not convincing and Judge Windom discharged the two men.

The DOCTOR'S HELPS

By DONALD McCASKEY, M. D.

FOR COSTIVENESS, HEADACHE AND SOUR STOMACH.

The following has reached me:

"Kindly advise me what to do. For the past year I have been troubled with nervous headaches and sour gas from my stomach. When I get out of bed in the morning I am just as tired as when I went to bed the night before. I sleep soundly, but somehow my night's rest gives me no benefit. I am very costive and when my bowels do move, the action becomes very difficult. I am 25 years old and have tried many different remedies. From these I would get relief one day, but during the succeeding days I would become worse. Kindly help me in my fear and sickness. I do not use liquor nor tobacco.—E. R. S."

What you need first of all is a thorough cleaning out. I don't mean once, but once a week for the next six weeks. Procure from your druggist six powders. Each of these is to contain five grains of powdered calomel. Procure also one quart of castor oil. Don't get scared at this, but do as I advise, and at the end of six weeks you will congratulate yourself on your courage in carrying this treatment through to a final success. Failure has always greeted your efforts before.

Take one of the powders once a week. Wash it down with a glass of hot water. You had better set a definite day for this, say on Saturday afternoon or Sunday afternoon. Four hours after taking the powder swallow half a glass of the castor oil. Warm this on the stove gently before swallowing. For at least twenty-four hours after you have taken this medicine, drink all the water you wish, but allow no food into your stomach except toast, scalding water and salt on the toast. Take a bath all over every other night for the next ten days. Then twice a week. Repeat this treatment regularly once a week for the next six weeks. You will find it productive of great relief from your ailments.

Cut out from your diet all albuminous foods. Eggs, meat, cheese, milk, belong to this class. Live upon boiled vegetables and fruits. As for bread, you should avoid eating it until your system gathers sufficient strength to properly handle and digest it. There is no use in putting foods inside of your stomach which the latter has not the power to adequately digest. This has been the reason for your sour stomach.

A good breakfast for you would be to eat bran. Procure the fresh dry bran from any good flour and wheat dealer. This contains a great amount of phosphate, which is one of the necessary elements in facilitating bowel action. Gradually swing in on larger and larger quantities of this bran as fast as your stomach will prove it can carry out its digestive functions.

For your dinner and supper your own common sense will dictate to you what to eat from the above outline of foods I have given you. But get this breakfast bran habit started. You will be surprised at its beneficial effects. GET THE BRAN SOMEHOW. If one dealer doesn't handle it, keep on the job with some other dealer or keep after your first dealer until he gets a flour bag full for you. Then keep this dry—absolutely dry. Otherwise it will ferment, and become harmful to your stomach instead of helpful.

Cut out all medicines hereafter except castor oil when your last powder has been taken. After a few additional weeks, you will not even need any more of this. Any permanent relief of your ailments can only be reached by adopting simple common sense natural methods. The above treatment is such, and fits your needs exactly.

WILL DISCUSS NEW PAVEMENT

West End Club Will Consider Road to West Duluth.

Street improvements will be the subject to be brought up at the meeting of the West End Commercial club to be held Thursday evening at the Woodmen hall. The club will discuss the action of the city commissioners in using the initiative in ordering the paving of West Superior street from Twenty-fifth to Gosnold, Gosnold to Oneota and Oneota to Forty-sixth avenue, thereby completing a paved thoroughfare between the city and West Duluth.

This thoroughfare and the thoroughfare leading out West Third street are the only highways for team traffic between the West end and West Duluth. Both are in a deplorable condition and for a day or two following rains similar to that of this morning, are in a condition entirely unfit for travel.

"While the owners of this property will not sign petitions asking for the improvement they will not put up any objection to the improvement," said a member of the club this morning. "A large part of the property is owned by the Soo Line railroad and although it might discourage the circulation of a petition for the improvement of the street, it will hardly openly oppose the paving. This road is said to own one-third of the property, representing nearly all of the frontage on the lower side of the street. In case of an open objection the city can force it to live up to certain franchise agreements which so far it has ignored.

"The growth of the city's traffic through the West end and to the western end of the city has been such that it is imperative that a paved thoroughfare be provided. Every day it is getting to be no uncommon sight to see a wagon or two or a big automobile truck mired up to the hubs at some place in the street. This condition must be remedied at once."

WEST END PEOPLE SLEEP IN TENTS.

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. McGaughey, 2109 West Second street, have been weathering the recent storms by sleeping in a tent in the rear of their home. Next week they propose to move their tent to Lakeside where they will spend a month camping on the lake shore.

"Sleeping in a tent has done us a great deal of good," said Rev. Mr. McGaughey this morning. "Our tent has weathered the storms in good shape and although the thunder and lightning have been strong on several of the nights still it has not been bad enough to drive us into the house.

A number of other West end people are also spending the cool summer nights sleeping in tents.

SAMARITANS, ATTENTION!

All members of Beta Council are requested to attend the funeral of neighbor Edward Langlois at French Catholic church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, at 9 a. m. tomorrow. Signed. J. M. ERICKSON, G. S.

YEOMEN PLAN STATE PICNIC

Special Train Will Bring Twin City Members to Duluth.

Plans for a statewide excursion to Duluth and a monster picnic were made last night at the meeting of Duluth homestead No. 3131, Brotherhood of American Yeomen held at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. The affair will be held on some Sunday during the latter part of August.

It is proposed to interest the members of the order in the Twin Cities and those of the southern part of the state in the affair. Arrangements will be made for a "Yeomen Special" to leave the Twin Cities at midnight on Saturday evening preceding the date of the picnic, having the train arrive in Duluth at about 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

An excursion steamer will be chartered to take the crowd to Two Harbors, where the picnic will be held under the joint auspices of the Duluth and Two Harbors homesteads.

J. A. Bellmeur, local district manager, and P. F. Harouf of Two Harbors, manager of the range district, will take the subject up at once with the other districts of the state. It is proposed to make the excursion free to members who bring in two new applicants to the order. A large class of candidates will be given the full degree work on the day of the picnic, and this will be one of the features of the day.

CHURCH PLAYGROUND IN CONSTANT USE.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the work of the Spaa club of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, by members of the congregation. Last evening the first of a series of games was played on the club's playground, in which the trustees, assisted by some of the youngest members, defeated the elders of the church at volley ball.

This evening the girls of the church will play and tomorrow the younger men and boys will have the ground. Basket ball will be played by the girls while the men will play volley ball.

The club is making preparations for an exhibition game of volley ball to be played Friday evening. At 6 o'clock the club will serve supper to members of the congregation and following this the game will be played. Tables will be moved to the lawn in case of favorable weather and on these the supper will be served.

RECEPTION FOR REV. ROOD AND WIFE.

A reception will be held this evening in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Paul W. Rood of Chicago, who have been spending a week of their honeymoon in the West end, by the members of the congregation of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The affair will be held in the church parlors.

Rev. Mr. Rood gained an extensive acquaintance last winter among the members of the congregation while in the city conducting a three weeks' revival service. Rev. and Mrs. Rood were married at Chicago the latter part of June. They will leave tomorrow for Oregon where they will spend a few weeks visiting relatives and then will take a trip through the Southwestern states, returning the latter part of August to their home.

League to Meet.

The Men's Welfare League of the Swedish Mission church will hold a business meeting in the church parlors tomorrow evening. A number of subjects of interest to the West end and the church will be taken up.

Second Dance in Series.

The Adams Athletic association will give the second of a series of summer dances this evening at the Lincoln park pavilion. These dances are proving popular with the young people of the city. Flaaten's orchestra will furnish the music tonight. The hall has been prettily decorated for the occasion, streamers of national colors constituting the display.

Sunday School Picnic.

The members of the Sunday School of the Central Baptist church will meet at the church, corner of Twentieth avenue west and First street, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and will leave the Twenty-first avenue dock at 9:30 by boat for Fond du Lac, where they will hold their all-day picnic.

Teachers' Class.

The Teachers' Training Class of the Central Baptist church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the pastor, Rev. Milton Fish, and Mrs. Fish, 4008 Minnesota avenue, Park Point.

West End Briefs.

Mrs. Jennie Leonard, 1923 West Second street, is spending a month visiting relatives in New York state.

L. A. Simonson, 2102 West Superior street, left this morning for a short business trip to range cities.

Misses Mary and Mabel Swedberg of St. Paul have returned home after spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Steve Ecknolm, 1823 West Second street.

The Luther League of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will hold a business meeting this evening in the church parlors.

Mrs. John E. Peterson and children, 1809 West First street, are spending a month visiting relatives at Grantsburg, Wis.

The Sons of Norway, Vasa Order, will hold its meeting this evening at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

Woman Convicted of Theft.

Williston, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with the theft of household furniture from the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Hethrington was convicted in district court and sentenced to a year in the state penitentiary. She will be taken to prison this week, and she will be the lone woman inmate of the institution.

Wm. Case, found guilty recently and sentenced to six months for jail breaking, was given an additional sentence by Judge Fisk for writing obscene matter while in jail.

Railroad Commission Meets.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hearing complaints of all kinds, with especial emphasis on those relating to railway and telephone companies, the North Dakota railway commission started a three days' meeting here this morning. The commission has been extremely active recently and is well up with its work.

Graduates to Teach.

Valley City, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 100 of the 153 graduates of the Valley City normal school of this year have been elected to teaching positions next year, and of those remaining only about half are seeking positions. Normal authorities expect that all will be elected to positions within the next six weeks.

Many of the graduates are going into the rural schools, the percentage being greater than in previous years.

USE SCHOOL TO TEACH TANGO

"Social Center Work" Appears to Be a Side Issue.

Duluth society is learning how to tango, to Boston, to do the Aerial glide waltz, the turkey trot and the hundred variations of the new rag dances which have been the craze, East and West, North and South, and is learning them at one of the public schools of the city—the Salter building.

The assembly hall of one of the East end schools has been turned into a ballroom for the summer, and under the direction of an Eastern dancing instructor classes in the accepted social dances, the new rag danes and in gymnastic and esthetic dancing are held every day.

The school board is probably ignorant of the use to which the school is being put in the dancing classes. Social center work was to have been instituted there and classes were planned for the girls of the neighborhood in folk dancing and one or two free lessons have been given for that purpose. Cooking classes were also planned for the summer for the people of that district but the dates for the course have not been announced as yet.

But meanwhile Duluth society is learning the new steps. The new dances, it is admitted, are taught in a most artistic way and are a big improvement over the steps that have been used at the Northland Country club, where the new dances have been very popular lately. The new dances are barred from the Duluth Boat club, but they have been freely danced at the Country club. This has caused some strenuous objections on the part of some of the members who are opposed to the dances, especially because it is claimed that they are not danced in the way that they are taught by the best of the dancing schools.

PUT UP TO SMITH.

Attorney General to Pass on Minneapolis Underwriters' Association.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—Minnesota is facing a problem involving the conduct and regulation of fire insurance companies somewhat similar to that with which Missouri is now struggling and which has attracted nation-wide attention because of the threat of the companies to withdraw from the state.

The question of whether the Minneapolis Underwriters' association is a combination or trust in restraint of trade and, therefore, illegal was put up to Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith Monday by J. A. O. Preus, commissioner of insurance, at the request of Wilson & Force, Minneapolis brokers. Should the attorney general so hold, it is believed that litigation involving the whole fire insurance problem, as in Missouri, will result.

JIMMY TEN EYCK presumably figures that the senior eight will come fast in the dog days that intervene between today and the date of the Northwestern International regatta. One uses the word presume advisedly, as the Duluth coach is one who keeps counsel with himself.

In this case the dope is there to be stroked on the back and made to raise and purr. Potential power is a rather nice word and an expression that can be used in regard to the senior eight.

True it is that this bunch has been beaten by the juniors, and also true it is that if it came down to a formal race at the present time it is probable that the seniors would shove the nose of their shell over the line ahead of that of the gamy junior bunch.

Every man in the senior bunch should be better this year than was the case last season. This is speaking solely in regard to physical development and stamina. In the matter of racing experience and confidence, this statement goes double.

Then why, friends and followers of the noble game of aquatics, shouldn't the seniors of this season be a faster and steadier, a more dependable bunch, so to speak, than the eight of 1912 vintage?

That is the way the dope presents her cards. From what the writer knows of the men making up this boat, we are willing to bank a lot of faith upon the ability of the eight. During the time between now and the morning of the 16th, when the boys leave for St. Paul, there will no doubt be a remarkable improvement in speed and general working of the boat.

Right now the juniors are a promising proposition. We had an awfully good bantam boat last year, and two of these boys are rowing in the junior boat at the present time. It is equally true that Winnipeg didn't have "so worse" an eight last season, everything considered, and with the experience of last year and the added development of this season the Peggers can be counted upon to come to St. Paul with a mighty hard bunch to beat.

If Detroit and Grand Rapids come to St. Paul and start in the big event, believe us, there will be some of the greatest contests that lovers of the sport have seen since the haleyon days of the Lurlines, Rat Portages, Minnesotas, and Duluths.

Before last season it was a sort of forlorn task to sit down at the keys and dope out a winner for the local club. We used to hope against hope, as men will, and bravely cry that the boys would row until they dropped in the bottom of the shell. Now the case is quite different. The members of the club and those of this city who have followed with interest the crews of the D. B. C. organization through the path of the years, believe that we are going to win several of the big events of the regatta.

With the promise of the best regatta of recent years, and with the belief that the bunch of rooters of this town will have an occasion to make a lot of noise, it looks at the present time as if there will be a very large delegation from this town on hand when the first race is started on the first afternoon of the regatta.

THERE is a sport writer laboring upon a paper that few of the fans of this country seldom see. This writer hasn't the opportunity to witness the games, and yet "A Fan" of the Mirror, the paper published at the state penitentiary at Stillwater, has some of the livest baseball gossip that one will find in an industrious search through the exchanges.

Current comment is freely and ably given of the various teams of several of the big leagues. Occasionally the writer of the immured dope will branch forth and give his individual opinions of the various players. All of which goes to show that there are many poor and unfortunate fellows inside that grim institution who follow the game with quite as much interest as the rest of us.

HANNES KOLEHMAINEN won at Chicago last Saturday. Again we call attention to the fact that this young Finn is the peer of middle distance runners of the present age.

IT IS likely that Miller will go to the big leagues at the expiration of the season in the Northern. Comiskey has asked the local club to set a price on the young and sensational outfielder, and at the present time Mike Cantillon of the Minneapolis club is hot on the trail of Elmer.

There are some who regard Elmer Smith as the most promising outfielder in the league, this despite the great record that Miller has carved for himself. Smithy is one of those natural clouters of the ball, also, William, he is some sweet fielder. He is likely to be bid for before the drafting season sets in.

Ledoux vs. Williams.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—Charles Ledoux, the pugilistic star of Paris, has begun hard work, training for his meeting with Kid Williams of Baltimore on the Vernon arena, July 15, and the Maryland boxer is at it, too, in his quarters down at Venice. Odds of 10 to 8 in Williams' favor has been posted. Ledoux and Williams met once in a six-round bout at Philadelphia. Both claimed the decision.

DOOKS TAKE GREAT GAME

Duluth Wins From Winnipeg By 2 to 0 Score.

Peggers Get But Two Scattered Hits Off Rhoades.

Winnipeg, Man., July 8.—The Maroons nicked the fast-breaking curves of Peggy Rhoades for but three widely scattered hits yesterday and the Duluth White Sox went south with the opening game of the series by the count of 2 to 0.

In addition to the great exhibition of twirling the visitors played errorless ball and there was little chance to beat them.

The first run of the Sox came in the fifth inning when Schrieber got three bases on a ball that was hit into the bleachers. Moll scored the shortstop with a timely single.

But one of the Maroons reached second and during the game the hitters of the local team were at the mercy of Rhoades. Corbett pitched some great baseball also, the contest being one of the best of the season.

BRONKS TAKE FAST GAME FROM ST. PAUL.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—Minneapolis won a fast and well played game from St. Paul yesterday by the score of 3 to 0. Kramer and Handschu engaged in an interesting heavers' duel and honors were slightly in favor of the Minneapolis man. Unglaub counted two in the eighth with a smoking double, Doyle later coming over on a long sacrifice fly by Allen. Score:

REAL STARS ARE COMING

Arthur Barnes, who is in charge of the state tennis tournament that will be played on the Oatka courts July 14 to 19, today heard from Minneapolis players news that assures the tourney here of some of the stars of the Northwestern courts.

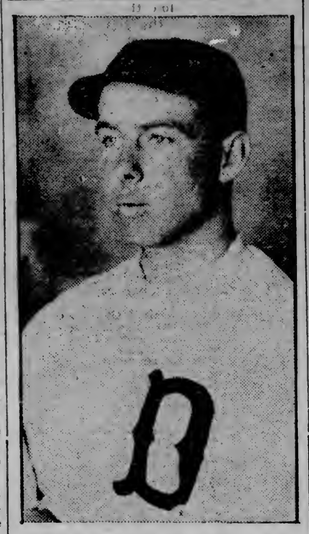

Trafford Jayne, W. W. Knight, Stellwagon, one of the stars of the Western collegiate world; Dr. Poehler, E. C. Cowles, Fred Cobb, Dr. Morrison, George Northrup, R. M. Burr, runner up in the tournament last fall; D. C. Chatfield winner of open tournament last fall; Harold Valner, winner of Minnesota state interscholastic, and a number of other stars will be on hand.

These are only a few of the competitors that will come here to make this one of the greatest tournaments in the history of the Northwest.

John Adams, the present state champion, and Joe Armstrong, who won the tournament here the year before last and who was defeated by Adams last year, will also be on hand.

McGhie, who played doubles with Stellwagon and lost in the finals of the intercollegiate doubles at Chicago, is another of the St. Paul stars who will be on hand.

NOVEL RACE BY FLYING BOATS

Speed of About Fifty Miles an Hour Must Be Maintained.

Chicago, July 8.—A fleet of five flying boats will shoot out of the Chicago harbor shortly after noon today for a 900-mile cruise to Detroit, the most remarkable trip ever undertaken by craft of the kind. Accidents yesterday to two of the aero-yachts, delay in adjusting two others and injury to the lieutenant who was to have piloted the navy's entry, reduced the field of starters to half.

The boats will leave the floating slip off Grant park singly, to prevent accident, and Tony Jannus of St. Louis is expected to be the first to get away. Aerial bombs will call the aviators to the line where Harold F. McCormick will wield the starter's flag. Jannus will start at 12:30 o'clock and at intervals of five minutes he will be followed by Beckwith Havens of Fishkill, Logan A. Vilas of Chicago, Walter Johnson of New York and Roy I. Francis of San Francisco. Each will carry a passenger.

The aviators must maintain a speed of about fifty miles an hour to keep up with the schedule. The first stop will be made at Michigan City, Ind. The flyers will leave there early tomorrow for Macatawa Bay, the noon control and will proceed to Lake Harbor. The flying boats will skirt the east shore of Lake Michigan, touching at Manistee, Charlevoix, and Mackinac, arriving at the latter port Saturday. A race around Mackinac island is scheduled for Sunday. On Monday the trip continues through Bay City and Port Huron and on to Detroit, July 17.

Weldon B. Cooke, an entrant, damaged his machine in a tryout at Sandusky, Ohio, yesterday and was forced to withdraw. Conlenn L. Martin, whose machine turned a somersault and sank off Grant park yesterday afternoon, carrying the pilot and mechanician beneath it, will be repaired in time to start on the cruise Thursday if the officials will permit. Martin, by making long non-stop runs, hopes to overtake the fleet at Mackinac on Saturday.

The spill yesterday occurred when Martin was gliding a few inches above the water and a wave from a steamer touched a pontoon on the lower plane. The boat was moving about seventy miles an hour, the pontoon splintered and the machine dove for the bottom of the harbor. It was recovered in a short time and a force of machanicians, working day and night, expect to have it in shape by Thursday.

Australians Lead.

Philadelphia, July 8.—The Australian cricketers defeated the representatives of the United States and Canada in the test match completed yesterday by one wicket and 409 runs. The visitors declared their second innings closed after scoring 416 runs for a total of nine wickets.

Repeats Victory.

Tacoma, Wash., July 8.—Repeating his running race of Saturday, Earl Cooper won the Montana Marathon road race trophy yesterday when he drove his Stutz car over the 250.811-mile course in 3:32:08 1-5.

Driver Killed.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—Hugh Warner of New York was killed here last night when he crashed into a post while circling a motordrome at the rate of sixty-five miles an hour.

MILLER SERIOUSLY HURT; CONTEST ENDS IN DRAW

At the End of Nearly Two Hours of Wrestling Carr Hurls Duluth Boy Through Ropes, Little Grappler Striking on Head.

(BY BRUCE.)

The train of ill luck that has persistently dogged the staging of the Miller-Carr wrestling match ran strong right up to the last quarter, for after wrestling 1 hour and 42 minutes last night under the sweltering and humid heat of the night, Miller was hurled from the ring and for a minute it looked as if the life of the little Duluth boy was endangered.

Dr. T. L. Chapman attended Miller and took seven stitches in the deep and wide gash at the base of the brain. The head was cut deeply and as cleanly as if a knife had laid the skin back. The loss of blood combined with the terrific impact weakened the wrestler and he was dazed until he donned his street clothes.

Up to the time of the accident that luckily escaped being a fatality, there was little to choose between the two men. Miller was behind Carr for a much longer time than the Minneapolis grappler could hold the little Duluthian down. Near the end it seemed to the writer as if Miller was the fresher and the stronger—that Carr was exhibiting some signs of wilting under the gruelling that the home chap was ladling out; and yet, no doubt, there are those whose view runs to the very opposite direction.

The huge strength of Carr was his chief asset. Miller's speed shaded that of the visitor and Miller had secured the greater number of effective holds during the course of the bout. Once Miller was in grave danger and only the most desperate struggling on the part of the domestic grappler saved him from receiving the first fall.

Miller was never in grander condition in his life. When the match was brought to an end, with the blood from the ugly wound streaming down the back and over the shoulders of the little fellow, he staggered back into the ring, the instinct of the game man still strong within him. Only wonderful condition could have made a man recuperate so quickly—and this, too, after a gruelling match that seemed to the ringside spectator to tax the vitality of the highly trained little gladiators.

It was unfortunate that so great a wrestling contest should thus be forced to remain in an undecided manner. The winner of last night's contest would have proved a worthy opponent for Yokel, Gehring or Jordan. Spectators have the right to expect some definite result, but to the credit of every man present last evening must go the credit of the match ending as it did, for there was not one dissenting voice when Referee Johnson announced his decision.

Miller's favorite hold was the old headlock from in front. Time and time again he bore the heavier man to his knees and gruelled him severely. Carr had Miller in a bad way once with a chancery hold from the side and for two minutes the audience held its breath in keen anticipation of a fall.

During the early part of the contest neither man could stay behind. Along near the end Miller was behind the greater part of the time and it appeared that Carr experienced a great deal more trouble in getting to his feet.

As a specimen of muscular development Carr is really a marvel. When he threw aside his bath robe the audience let loose a burst of applause, so taken was it with the really wonderful development of the Minneapolis man.

Carr gave his weight at 158—but if he weighed an ounce under 165 pounds, his appearance is basely deceiving.

It was a great contest—for real wrestling, gameness and endurance one of the best that has been held at the big Auditorium arena, and it is a pity that the injury precluded the finish.

Kid Chambers of Minneapolis was all that has been claimed for him and then some more. He was behind little Louie Zorbas for the greater part of the finish preliminary, but the strength of the little Greek was too great for his opponent. The two boys put up a great contest, wrestling for one hour without either one being able to gain a fall.

GOOD CARD AT CLEVELAND

Forest City Stake and Trotting Sweepstakes Are Feature Events.

Edwards Cup Goes to Heavily Played Favorite, Delrey.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 8.—Several new records in the second day's races of the grand circuit meeting today would not come as much of a surprise with a slight rise in temperature predicted for this afternoon. Several society affairs in the clubhouse at North Randall today will be favored by warmer breezes.

The $2,000 Forest City stake, in which Braden Direct, owned by J. H. Elspass of Denver, set a new record for 3-year-old pacers of 2:03¾, last year, will divide interest with the 3-year-old trotting sweepstakes. Two class races, the 2:09 pace, with a field of thirteen, and the 2:24 trot, with nine entries, complete a full afternoon.

Branham Baughman in Walter Cox's stable, who was second to the Denver horse last year, again is entered in the Forest City, and will be favored in the betting. The other entries are: Babe,

Well matched fields in the class races will make the favorite hard to pick, while the 3-year-old sweepstakes look like anybody's race.

Opening is Auspicious.

Almost perfect weather and thousands of racing enthusiasts helped to auspiciously open the first meeting of the Grand Circuit at North Randall track yesterday. As is usual on Tavern "steak" day when the millionaire owners pilot their own colts, the grandstand was filled largely with society folk.

Favorites in the Tavern "steak" were hard to pick, as only amateur drivers could enter, but the Edwards stake went to the heavily played favorite, Delrey.

The lightest field that has scored in the Edwards stake since its establishment was given the word yesterday. In the first heat, Dzeron broke at the eighth and was hopelessly distanced. At the half, Walter Cox took the lead with Delrey and was never headed, although he was pressed by Frank Bogash, Jr., and was forced to pace the last quarter in :29¾. Delrey got away in front in the two heats and kept the lead, Frank Bogash, Jr., finishing close up each time. The record for the Edwards stake is 2:03½, held by Vernon McKinney. Cox was presented with the Edwards cup.

Seventeen in Tavern.

Seventeen horses started in the Tavern "steak" for amateur drivers only. The race was divided into three preliminaries, with a $1,000 purse for each. The finals will be raced on Friday for the rest of $5,000 purse.

In the first division Eutabel, a Toledo horse, driven by Harlee Mitchell, won after finishing fifth in the first heat. Castle Dome driven by J. L. Dodge of Memphis took the first heat from Baring in a thrilling finish. With a burst of speed in the stretch, Eutabel took the second heat, and won easily in the third.

The preliminaries among the second division also were hotly contested Dago F. driven by George H. Tipling of Cleveland, taking the deciding heat from Fan Patch in a whipping finish in 2:08¾.

Amy, driven by H. A. Watterson of Cleveland, rather easily won the third division, half the field being distanced in the first heat. Princess Louise was second.

Uhlan, the world's champion trotter failed to break the track record of 1:53¾, established by himself three years ago. He stepped the mile in 1:59½. A strong breeze impeded the great black gelding.

WHITE SOX ARE SHOWING BEST BASEBALL OF THE YEAR

Race at Present Time Is Between Duluth and Fast Winonas.

League Leaders and Runners Up Will Meet Thursday.

Watch the White Sox go.

Taking the bit in their teeth the Dooks have cut out from the bunch and are in full pursuit of the league leaders, Winona.

Duluth fans have every reason in the world to be proud of the record the team is making. Nine straight wins marked the spurt at home, and since going on the road the Sox have been playing the very best baseball of the year, and this with one of the best players of the team and of the league forced out of the game by the mischievous machinations of baseball.

Thursday the White Sox open at Athletic park with the Winona Pirates. Two games will be played with the chesty leaders of the league. Here one of the great efforts will be made to pull down the lead of the Corsairs.

In the matter of stopping Winona the Sox have received little assistance from the other teams of the league. As a matter of fact it must be said that in the series between the White Sox and Winonas the latter team stands clear ahead of us. To date this season O'Brien and Co., have found the Pirates the great thorn in their side.

Fans of this dear town should turn out in droves to witness the two games with Winona. We are coming to the crucial point of the season; a place where the Winonas may break—and we want to be the team to pull the valve and let some of the steam out of the chesty Pirates.

Smith Is Needed.

Every string is being worked to get Elmer Smith back into the game for the series that starts with Winona Thursday. At the present time the crack right fielder is here. He did not take the trip with the Sox. The case has been put squarely before the members of the national commission and some definite action in the matter is expected the present week.

The good people of Duluth should feel proud of the great record the team is making. Proud of the advertising the Sox are giving the city.

Fans can help in the winning of a flag—and the fans of this city should come out and help us take two straight from Winona.

Some of the close observers of baseball are of the opinion that Winona is going too fast; that the Corsairs are playing beyond their stride. If this is true, the break is bound to come.

Winona has given Rube Schauer, the $7,500 pitcher, two of the beatings of his sweet young life. The beatings have been rude and extremely unkind, considering the circumstances. Minneapolis also failed to stop the flying procession of the league leaders. It is up to us.

Winona has won three more games and lost three less than the Dooks. Two wins will reduce the lead of the Corsairs, provided the two teams maintain their present relative standings until the time they clash here Thursday.

With Elmer Smith back in right and our pitchers going the way they are right now, it is believed that the Duluth White Sox are the best team in the league. Let us believe that the O'Brienites have struck their stride; surely, the playing at the present time would indicate this.

Teams Measure Up Well.

Duluth has three men hitting in the .300 class—Miller, Smith and Menlece. Winona, exclusive of pitchers, has Davis, Collins and Croake up there, with several others right around the magic mark of the hitters.

Just now Bell, Snow, Toraason and Myers, the latter having been secured from the Grand Forks club, are pitching some great baseball for the Davis club.

Match this quartet against Blancke, Rhodes, Woods and Brackett, then look over the hitters of the two teams, and draw your own conclusions as to the ability of the rivals just now battling for the leadership of the league.

It is up to us to win two straight from the invaders. Winona gained its lead through the inability of the Sox to win from this same team on our own grounds. If the White Sox maintain their present stride until they reach their own bailiwick, the fans here are going to see some of the greatest baseball of the season.

Apropos of the race, it might be added that most of the teams have strengthened for the drive to the finish line. Winnipeg has added a new pitcher, a hurler from the American association, and Minneapolis is drafting on the resources of the American association team.

Winona, Duluth, Minneapolis, Superior, Winnipeg and Grand Forks are in the race yet. With the race as fast as it is at the present time, every contender is looking to strengthen any weak spot.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Break Even.

Philadelphia, July 8.—There was an even break in a double-header between Philadelphia and Boston yesterday. Boston won the opening affair, 15 to 11, and lost the second in twelve innings, 3 to 2.

In the first game Moore was driven off the rubber in the opening inning. Seven men faced him, securing a single, a double, a triple, a home run and three passes. Rariden's homer came with all the bases occupied. Manager Dooin called on many reserves, including four extra pitchers, one of whom was Imlay, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, who made his professional debut. In the ninth inning Boston scored five runs off Imlay on two doubles, a single, a pass and Titus' home run.

The second game was marked by excellent pitching, Alexander and Dickson, who started, each giving way to a pinch hitter. The home team tied the score in the ninth on Luderus' double and Dolan's single, and won the contest in the twelfth on Luderus' double, a "Cincinnati base hit" by Dolan and a fumble by Sweeney.

Win Four Straight.

Brooklyn, July 8.—New York made it four in a row with Brooklyn yesterday and incidentally registered the twelfth straight victory. The Superbas again outhit the visitors, but could get only one run off twelve hits, while New York made its six off ten. Demaree was accorded great support.

Brooklyn made three hits in the seventh and scored only one run, while three in the eighth went profitless. Curtis was hit hard in the fourth and fifth and was wild in the sixth, when he was taken out after he had passed two men, hit another and was touched for a single for two runs. Stack relieved him, a muff by Hummel letting in the third run. He was effective until the ninth, when two hits and a steal sent the sixth New York run across the plate. Miller threw badly during his stay behind the bat, five bases being stolen on him, including one by Chief Meyers.

Allows Three Hits.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—Robinson held Cincinnati to three hits yesterday and Pittsburg won, 5 to 1. Brown pitched good ball but a pair of errors by Dodge in the second inning gave the Pirates two runs without a hit. The visitors got their only run in the fourth when Devore led off with a double and scored on the next two outs. Manager Tinker was not with the team, being detained in Chicago by the illness of Mrs. Tinker.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Divide Double-Header.

Boston, Mass., July 8.—Heavy batting gave Philadelphia the first game of a double-header from Boston yesterday, 7 to 4, while the second game went to the locals, who also batted freely, 8 to 3.

The visitors drove Ray Collins from the box in the first inning of the first game. In the ninth inning of this game Boston knocked Brown out of the box after he had kept the locals from reaching first base for six innings. Between the second and seventh innings Boston hit only one ball out of the infield. Bender quickly put a stop to Boston's rally in the ninth after three runs had been scored off Brown.

The Red Sox drove Plank from the box in the first two innings of the second game. Houck, the next Philadelphia pitcher, fared no better. Wagner the first Boston batter in the third inning, drove the ball to center field for a home run. Wyckoff was also batted hard, but succeeded in holding Boston to one run. Scores:

Philadelphia	....	4020000100	—7	9	1
Boston	.....	1000000003	—4	12	2

Batteries—Bender, Brown and Lapp; Bedient, R. Collins and Nunamaker, Carrigan. Umpires—Connolly and McGreevy.

Boston	.....	2230001 0x	—8	13	1

Batteries—Plank, Houck and Schang, and I. Thomas; Wood and C. Thomas. Umpires—McGreevy and Connolly.

Honors Are Even.

New York, July 8.—New York and Washington split even on a double-header yesterday. The locals won the first game, 5 to 2, while the Senators took the second, 8 to 1.

Fisher pitched the first game for New York and won his first victory in many weeks. He was effective until the ninth when the visitors scored two runs on a pass and two singles. New York won this game in the first inning when they scored three runs on Daniels' pass, singles by Wolter, Cree and Hartsell and a muff by Shanks on Borton.

In the second game Boehling kept up his unbroken string of victories and had little trouble in subduing the locals, allowing but five hits. He struck out ten men. Catcher Gossett had a finger split in the first game, and as Catcher Sweeney met a similar injury last week, Manager Chance was compelled to use Smith a recruit. His debut was very bad as all his throws went into center field and he struck out three times.

First games—
New York	.....	301010000	x—5	6	0

Batteries — Gallia, Engel and Ainsmith and Henry; Fisher and Smith and Gossett. Umpires—Dineen and Egan.

Second game—

New York	....	000000010	—1	5	3

Tigers Pounded Hard.

St. Louis, Mo., July 8.—St. Louis pounded three Detroit pitchers hard yesterday and won 10 to 5, making it two out of three on the series. Pitcher Elder, a recruit from the University of Minnesota, made his debut with Detroit, but failed to show much, being hit for a double and three singles and walked five batters in 3 1-3 innings.

St. Louis	.....	30310201	x—10	12	1

AMERICAN ASSN.

Close Game.

Columbus, Ohio, July 8.—Two errors which gave Shelton third base after he should have been thrown out, put Columbus in the way of a victory yesterday in the ninth inning. Benson drove through the infield and Shelton scored the deciding run of a 5 to 4 game.

Merz was effective up to the sixth when he weakened and allowed three to score.

The game was marred by a fist fight between Catcher Smith of the Columbus club and Outfielder Flynn of Indianapolis. The players were ejected from the field. They renewed the argument under the bleachers and had to be separated by fans. The argument came on a close decision at home and Flynn openly spat in Smith's face.

The score:		R.	H.	E.
Indianapolis	....	102010000	—4	11	3

Batteries—Cole and Smith, Murphy; Merz and Casey. Umpires—Westervelt and Irwin.

Play Fifteen Innings.

Kansas City, Mo., July 8.—Kansas City and St. Paul battled for fifteen innings yesterday in a game filled with sensational pitching and spectacular fielding by both teams, Kansas City winning, 2 to 1.

The locals scored in the first when Breton singled, stole second and scored on Flene's double. St. Paul tied up in the ninth on singles by Rehg, Riggert and James.

The locals' winning run was scored on a double by Vaughn and Breton's single. Brandt of St. Paul struck out fifteen batters and Breton of the locals got four hits out of six times at bat.

The score:			R.	H.	E.

K. C.	..	100000000000001	—2	11	2

Hens Are Defeated.

Louisville, Ky., July 8.—Louisville defeated Toledo yesterday, 8 to 4. Northrup's work on the slab proved too much for the visitors, while Collamore was batted opportunely. Northrup's control was perfect and he did not allow a base on balls. The score:

			R.	H.	E.
Louisville	.....	20012030	x—8	12	1
Toledo	.....	00004000	0—4	9	2

Batteries—Northrup and Severold; Collamore and Kreuger. Umpires—Johnstone and Handiboe.

Millers Lose.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8.—Consistent hitting gave Milwaukee a 7 to 4 victory over Minneapolis yesterday. Burns started for Minneapolis but was replaced by Gilligan in the sixth. Cutting tightened up after the third and pitched fine ball. Hughes' batting was a feature. Chappelle was hurt sliding into second in the eighth and retired from the game. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	10300000	0—4	10	3

Batteries — Cutting and Hughes; Burns, Gilligan and Owens. Umpires—Murray and Connolly.

DULUTH EIGHT PICKED TO WIN SWEEPSTAKES

The St. Paul papers have made the Duluth senior eight favorite for the big rowing race that will be contested on the Mississippi river on the afternoon of July 19.

After the sensational showing of the then junior eight at the Peoria regatta, the dopesters down below have come to the conclusion that the blue-shirted stalwarts in the Duluth shell will be the crew to watch in the big water event of next week.

A large delegation will leave this city on the morning of July 19 with the same opinion. Followers of the Boat club are prepared to back the senior eight in the clash on the second day of the regatta, and the home people are also going to string along with the junior eight, that has, by the way, been defeating the seniors in many of the nightly races of the present season.

Should Duluth win what has generally been looked upon as the sweepstakes of the regatta, it will be the first time within the memory of man that this feat has been accomplished.

Back in the years of Lake Minnetonka racing the junior eight of Duluth eight copped the first. Previous to that the famous fours of the local club had won some of the big races and made a great record.

It was back in 1906 that the Duluth eight won on Minnetonka waters. Then elapsed the weary and seeming interminable years when the passing chapters of time failed to record a single win for Duluth.

In the 1911 regatta at the local club the Duluth bantams pulled down the first place and our lapstreak crew came over the line an easy winner.

The events of last season are freshly familiar to the followers of rowing—the blue shirts copped three of the big races of the two days of rowing at Winnipeg, thus recording the greatest accomplishment in the history of the Duluth Boat club.

This year we are going to St. Paul with two great eights, and perhaps three fours. We will start the bantam and junior four, the lapstreak four, if this event is contested, and probably a senior four.

As has been mentioned, the senior eight of Duluth has been installed thus early as the favorite for the sweepstakes event. Up here there are some of the followers of rowing who are going to bank heavily on the winning of our junior eight.

There is reason for the interest being manifested in the approaching regatta of the Northwestern International Rowing association. It looks as if the competition will be closer and the crews the classiest of years. But what makes it better to the local followers, is the fact that our crews look right.

A special train is almost sure to be run from here to the regatta at St. Paul, according to the announcement yesterday of the local passenger officials of the Great Northern. It is already known that there will be a very large number of boat club members making the trip. The train will leave Duluth Friday morning at 8:30 arriving in time for the regatta, and the rowing enthusiasts are working hard to get a party of 100 rooters to take the trip.

OVER SALARY LIMIT IN CENTRAL ASSOCIATION

Burlington, Iowa, July 8.—The magnates of the Central Association of Baseball Clubs met here yesterday in their mid-season session. The meeting lasted for four hours. Monmouth was not represented and it was decided to investigate conditions there.

The main discussion related to allegations that many of the clubs were above the salary limit and some above the player limit. These charges will be investigated and offenders punished.

Matters of protested games, postponed games, uniform diamonds, charges for double headers played previous to the last trip around the circuit were likewise discussed, but not acted upon definitely.

McQuillen Traded.

Columbus, Ohio, July 8.—Announcement was made yesterday that George McQuillen, leading pitcher of the Columbus American association team, had been traded to the Pittsburg National league club. The deal became effective today. In exchange for McQuillen the Columbus club gets Ferry and two other players, the identity of whom has not been disclosed.

Peploski to Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., July 8.—President Jones of the Lincoln baseball club yesterday announced the signing of Infielder Peploski, recently with the Detroit Americans and a former college baseball star of the Seaton Hall team of South Orange, N. J.

Nirvana Wins.

Watertown, N. Y., July 8.—The Nirvana, representing the Royal Canadian Yacht club of Toronto, won the first of the George cup races in the opening events of the L. Y. R. A. regatta at Herniers cove yesterday. The Nirvana finished 17 minutes and 20 seconds ahead of the Neahga, representing the Crescent Yacht club of Watertown.

Gambling Must Stop.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8.—Governor Ralston said today that gambling at the Mineral Springs race track in Porter county must stop. The governor said W. J. Fabing, prosecutor of Porter county, would take additional officers to the track and would arrest every man whom he found gambling. The prosecutor was instructed to report to the government the slightest indication that the situation was getting beyond his control.

Borton Sold.

New York, July 8.—Manager Chance of the New York Americans announced last night that he had sold First Baseman Borton to the Jersey City club of the International league.

NEW GOVERNMENT IN LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—George Alexander, who had been mayor of Los Angeles for more than four years, was succeeded yesterday by H. H. Rogers, formerly a police justice. A new council of nine members, one of whom is a Socialist, also took office, ending what has been known as the "good government" administration.

A radical departure in the conduct of city affairs is expected with the institution of a modified form of commission government, made possible by recent charter amendments.

Boy Drowns From Housebont.

Clinton, Iowa, July 8.—Vernal, the 8-year-old son of Vernon Galster of Joliet, Ill., was drowned yesterday when he fell into the Mississippi river from the houseboat in which his family was en route to St. Paul, Minn.

BAD BANKING, SAYS M'ADOO

Secretary of the Treasury Issues Statement on Pittsburg Case.

Finds General Conditions in That City and Elsewhere Sound.

Washington, July 8.—Secretary McAdoo in a statement declares that the general banking condition in Pittsburg as well as in the entire country is strong and sound, and that he expects no further trouble as a result of the failure of the Pittsburg First-Second National bank.

"The failure of the Pittsburg bank simply is a sporadic case of unsound banking and has no other significance," the secretary said. He added that the receivership for the institution removed a long-standing "sore spot" in the Pittsburg situation, leaving the general condition in that city sound.

The secretary will make a sweeping investigation of the failure of the big bank.

Discrepancy of $2,000,000.

It developed last night that one fact which drew the suspicion of the treasury department to the bank's condition was a discrepancy of nearly $2,000,000 between the sworn report to the comptroller of the currency as to the bank's condition on June 4, and which should have been a true copy of this report published by the bank in the newspapers of Pittsburg. The law requires every bank to publish its reports to the comptroller of the currency in response to his call in local newspapers, so the public may know the facts.

The report of the comptroller showed assets and liabilities aggregating $39,997,847.10 each, while as given to the Pittsburg newspapers for publication the report these totals at $38,103,886.39, the $1,893,460.71 difference representing re-discounts or borrowed money. Officials declared that this was illegal.

Capital Is Impaired.

Reports to the department indicate that one-third of the $3,400,000 capital stock of the bank has been impaired and that the surplus and profits have been wiped out. While details are lacking, estimates based upon the last report to the comptroller of the currency indicate that at this rate the losses might reach $3,000,000.

The critical eyes of the government had been on the First National Bank of Pittsburg for several years, and on the consolidation of the First-Second ever since the amalgamation in March. Suspicion was increased when it was discovered by the June 4 call of the comptroller of the currency that the legal reserve of the institution was deficient by $2,145,000 and that the statements of condition of the bank as presented to the comptroller and as published in the newspapers were different.

Statement By Kane.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—Deputy Comptroller of the Currency T. P. Kane last night issued the following statement regarding the closing yesterday of the First-Second National bnk of this city:

"At a meeting of the directors of the First-Second National bank, held Sunday, the condition of the bank and the results of the recent investigation of the bank examiner were discussed. After consideration, the directors declared their inability to make good the bank's impaired capital, and without dissent decided that it would be best for the protection of depositors and all other interests, to have the comptroller of the currency take charge and to arrange for the liquidation of the bank."

Upon the closing of the merged institution, a statement was sent broadcast by a press agen for the Kuhn interests, in which a director of the bank "whose name could not be used" was quoted as saying the government was unjust and was treating the bank unfairly. The statement further quoted him as saying the government was responsible for the merger of the two banks because it was sanctioned by Lawrence Murray, then comptroller of the currency. The statement was almost immediately recalled by the distributers of the report, but the recall in many places was ignored.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 8.—The injunction suit brought by the Cincinnati Ice company against the city to restrain Mayor Hunt and other city officials from continuing the operation of the several plants of that company seized last week, was not dismissed despite the fact that a settlement of the ice strike had been reached with the company and similar settlements with other ice companies are expected.

The court heard statements from attorneys and then continued the hearing until next Wednesday.

City officials have turned back the plants of the Cincinnati Ice company to the owners. They will continue to operate the plants of the concerns that have not reached an agreement with the striking employes.

CAN YOU SAVE 10c A DAY?

Don't you squander a great deal more than that much right along? A dime seems little, but it makes only ten of them to make a dollar. Save the dimes. Never was a truer saying than if you take care of the dimes the dollars will take care of themselves. A dime a day deposited in this bank would amount to nearly a thousand dollars in twenty years' time. Just think of it! It isn't merely a few dimes you are squandering, but thousands of dollars. Those dimes you squander could make you rich if you gave them the chance.

We pay 3 per cent Compound Interest on Savings Accounts.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH SHOOTING IS STILL UNSOLVED

Citizen Who Admitted Firing Gun on Fourth Is Fined $100.

Eveleth, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The killing of Gustave Erickson, a respected citizen, on the evening of the Fourth, presumably by some one celebrating the nation's birthday, continues an unsolved mystery. Various clews and theories have been investigated by Chief of Police Finnigen but all led up blind alleys and bore no fruit.

Leo Manilla, living near the scene of the shooting, who was under suspicion because he admitted firing off a 24 caliber army musket, was arraigned in court charged with firing a weapon in the city limits and fined $100. His home is in a depression considerably below the ground where Erickson was walking with O. S. Kalvig, when killed and if the fatal bullet had been fired from that place it would naturally have gone through Erickson's head in a slanting manner, whereas the inquest developed that the bullet went through the man's temple horizontally, showing it was fired by some one on the same level. As the fatal bullet was a 32-caliber and Manilla's musket fired a 24 it was evident he did not fire the fatal shot. His cabin was searched and he was held in surveillance until he disproved the charges and was released on payment of the fine for firing in the city limits. Search of Manilla's piece disclosed beside the 24-caliber cartridges, some charged with birdshot.

Chief Finnigan is still working on the case but unless the party who fired the shot comes forward and confesses the culprit may never be taken. Mr. Erickson had no known enemies and the murder theory is not believed.

Given Large Funeral.

The funeral of Mr. Erickson was held yesterday afternoon from the Swedish Baptist church, Rev. E. P. Peterson officiating in Swedish and Rev. A. Stenz of the First Presbyterian church, speaking in English. There was a large attendance, the sad affair and the high standing of the deceased having touched a popular chord. Much sympathy is expressed for his unfortunate family, Mrs. Erickson being sick, a daughter having a broken arm, and there being other family troubles.

WOMAN'S WEAPON USED UPON HER

Mere Man Alleged to Have Attacked Female With Broomstick.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gust Korhonen of Swan River was brought here Monday by Deputy Charles Gunderson, charged with assaulting Mrs. Sali Niemi, also of Swan River, on July 1. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $200, and the date of the hearing was set for July 28. According to the story told by Korhonen, he purchased a calf from the Niemis for $3, and later found that the calf was not as good as he thought it was. Mrs. Niemi says that Korhonen never paid the $3 agreed upon, and that one day while she and her husband were absent, he returned the calf to the Niemi home at Swan River, and told some youngsters playing about the yard that if he ever got hold of either Mr. or Mrs. Niemi, "there would be something doing."

Assaulted With Broomstick.

The complainant says that on the morning of July 1 she went to a little store beyond Korhonen's place, and that on the way back, while she was passing along a trail near his cabin, he attacked her with a broomstick, not only inflicting bodily injury, but causing her mental pain as well. Attorney Stark will appear for the defense, and County Attorney McCuat for the prosecution.

GRAND OLD MEN ARE AGAIN WINNERS.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Grand Old Men further strengthened their hold on first place in the City league last night when they defeated the Colts by the score of 7 to 3.

The general office baseball team will play the retail clerks next Sunday morning at the ball park. There is considerable friction between these two teams and the game next Sunday morning promises to be very interesting. The game will be called at 9 o'clock.

Mother's Advice To Her Daughter

A Real Live Doll to Fondle is Woman's Greatest Happiness.

She is wisdom itself who knows of or learns of that famous remedy, Mother's Friend. It is an external application for the abdominal muscles and breasts. It has a wonderful influence, allays all fear, banishes all pain, is a grateful encouragement to the expectant mother, and permits her to go through the period happy in mind, destined to anticipate woman's greatest happiness as nature intended she should.

The action of Mother's Friend makes the muscles pliant and responsive to expansion. Thus all strain and tension upon the nerves and ligaments is avoided, and, in place of a period of discomfort and consequent dread it is a season of calm repose and joyful expectation.

There is no nausea, no morning sickness, no nervous twitching, none of that constant strain known to so many women.

This splendid remedy can be had of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle. Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 232 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their book to expectant mothers.

SUMMER SCHOOL PROVES POPULAR

Hibbing Institution Is Well Patronized By Education Seekers.

Hibbing, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The summer session of the Hibbing public schools is proving popular.

One week ago the school opened with a roll of less than fifty students, and now there are more than 100 attending.

The chief purpose of the institution as outlined by Supt. Blair is to give the children of the grades an opportunity to have some pleasant manner in which to advantageously occupy their summer vacation.

The children, who average between 8 and 14 years of age, have entered the work with astonishing enthusiasm, and when the fact is taken into consideration that they attend wholly of their own desire, the results are most encouraging.

Under the direction of Misses Lewis and Cummins, 100 boys and girls are given an opportunity to study weaving, sewing, basket making and book work, such as reading, spelling and arithmetic.

There is rarely an occasion when any of the pupils are absent.

Under charge of Miss Wasser, fourteen high school students are working in an endeavor to make up back work or to secure added credit.

Interest in Manual Training.

Much interest is being taken in the manual training department. Professors Knowlton and Elliott have charge of this work. There are thirty boys working in this department, and as they have no regular course outlined for them, they are under the supervision of the professors, allowed to make any useful articles they desire.

"I think this is a record of which we may well feel proud," said Supt. Herbert Blair. "We have had extremely few failures, and our aim has been to so outline our courses of study that they would be interesting to the average student, and I feel that we have been more successful than I had ever hoped for, in our endeavor."

Mr. Blair explained that whenever a pupil shows signs of losing interest, he is taken before the principal and he is requested to give his reason. The difficulty is at once discovered and the child is aided in an endeavor to overcome the fault.

SCHOOL'S NEEDS ARE SET FORTH

New Virginia Superintendent Gives Views on Needed Changes.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. of Schools P. P. Colgrove in a lengthy statement of the needs of the schools of Virginia as he sees them after careful consideration, says there should be a practical instructor in agriculture, well enough qualified to conduct an experimental farm and talk intelligently to the farmers about their problems; an athletic director to take charge of all gymnastic and athletic training who would be able to coach in football, basket ball, tennis, track events and all out-of-door sports, also indoor athletics, including girls' classes in club swinging, wand drills and folk dances; a musical director who will be able to organize and direct a high school orchestra, glee clubs and choruses; a primary supervisor to plan and direct the work of the first three grades; an upper grade supervisor to do similar work for the higher grades. The grade work supervisor makes the plans and assists the teacher in carrying them out.

DULUTH MAN TO BUILD NEW LINE

Two Harbors, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contractor Charles Magnuson of Duluth has been awarded the contract for building a railroad line for the Iron Range from Mile 108 to Burnside Lake. The new line will be about three and one-half miles long and will cost approximately $50,000. Mr. Magnuson expects to complete the job about the middle of September.

The new line is being built for the purpose of getting out timber which has already been cut and is now in Burnside lake. It will also make it very convenient for pleasure seekers, who heretofore have found it very difficult to reach the beautiful shores of this lake. It is considered this is one of the most beautiful of the Minnesota lakes.

Hammer Wielder Held.

Bovey, Minn., July 8. — (Special to The Herald.)—Steve Kercheff, who is alleged to have struck a hammer on a fellow countryman was held to district court in $300 bail.

DIVORCE CASE IS FIRST ONE TRIED

Ely, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hughes of Virginia opened the adjourned session of the district court here yesterday at 1:30 p. m., being the first time a session of the district court was ever held in Ely.

The first case called was a personal injury suit in which J. Westman seeks to recover damages from A. Kolstead for injuries sustained by his son, because of the explosion of a dynamite cap claimed to have been left by Mr. Kolstead while at work on one of the city contracts. A second suit was brought by Mr. Westman for injuries sustained by himself against Mr. Kolstead. After the drawing of the jury, by an agreement between the counsel, the case was continued until the August session of the court. Mr. Westman being ill in Nevada.

The following have the distinction of having served on the first jury ever convened in district court in Ely: Peter Schaefer, F. Steinke, A. Bloomenson, A. J. Fenske, T. Miller, E. E. Lindblad, Henning Olson, all of Ely, and C. Bystrom, J. Hickey, C. Carlson, H. Rolan, all of Tower, and Fred Williams of Soudan.

Wife Seeks Divorce.

After the postponement of the Westman-Kolstead case, Judge Hughes called the Hill vs. Hill case, in which Mrs. Selma Hill is seeking a divorce from her husband, Jack Hill, claiming cruelty as cause of the action. Hill is now serving a ninety-day sentence for beating her on the evening of May 8. Mrs. Hill also asks for the custody of her 4-months-old child. Mr. and Mrs. Hill have been married less than two years.

Several cases will be heard today and it is thought that the business of this session will soon be disposed of.

WOLF FARMER HAS INCREASED HERD

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a trip through counties of Central Minnesota, William Haenke returns better pleased with the soil and crop conditions of this region.

Mr. Haenke improved the Elmwood farm at Wolf from the wilderness stage to one of the very best equipped dair to one of the very best equipped dairy farms in the state, purchased twenty-five of the best dairy cows he could select from the Holstein and Guernsey herds of Wright county, at $75 to $110 a head, making the Elmwood herd one of the largest and best in the northern part of the state.

Mr. Haenke asserts, that though far less expensive, there are vast tracts in St. Louis county with farm lands which are much to be preferred to land which is held at $100 and $125 an acre in the central and southern parts of the state. The Wolf farming region is becoming highly developed and there is no farmer there who desires to sell, but in other sections there is land equally good where the prices are away down, Mr. Haenke asserts.

IMPROVING ROAD INTO VIRGINIA

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nichols township, which is doing a lot of road work, has installed a No. 3 stone crusher at an expense of $3,000 at the gravel pit on the Mud Lake road near the Virginia-Mountain Iron road.

The township board has let the contract for two cement bridges over the branches of East Two Rivers to Harvey & Erickson of Virginia, and these are being built.

The township owns an eighty near Virginia which has one of the best gravel pits for road building purposes on the range and considerable revenue is derived from it in addition to supplying the township with road material.

Virginia Helps Improve Road.

The city of Virginia has agreed to build a mile of the Wolf road, outside of the city limits, to meet what the township and the county will construct, and the road is expected to be open for traffic to a section of country in which are 300 farmers who can now come to Virginia only by the round-about way through Eveleth and by traversing up and down in both directions the great Eveleth hill which has a grade of a mile on both sides.

CITIZENS' TICKET HAS BEEN CHOSEN

Corporation and Anti-Corporation Fight Started in Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the school election July 19, R. J. McGhee and W. T. Irwin, for the three-year term, and Carl R Johnson for the one-year term, opposing A. B. Holley, have been indorsed as "Citizens" tickets. The issue is said to be corporation and anti-corporation influence, those named being the anti's. Members who opposed Former Superintendent Bliss are charged with having a corporation bias. The ticket in opposition to the "Citizens" is to be announced in a day or two.

TRAMPS ARE "FLOATED."

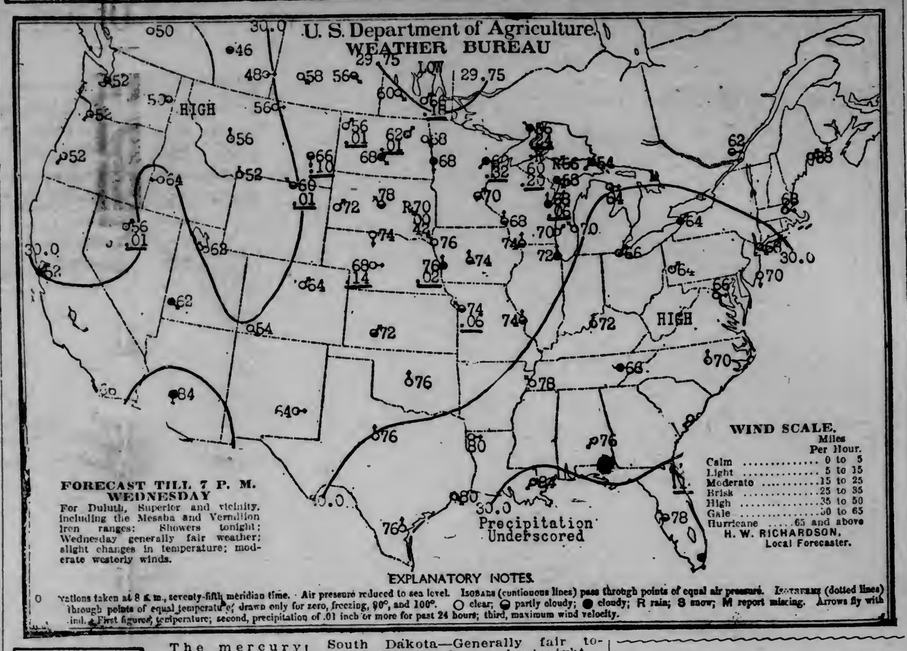

"Wearie Willies" Arrested in Car at Ely Told to Travel.

Ely, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three tramps arrested in an Iron Range road boxcar Sunday night were released yesterday by Judge Jury in municipal court on promising to leave town. They promptly left.

Hans Hanson, a workman from Biwabik, employed by Contractor Johnson here, drew a sentence of $20 and costs or thirty days in the county jail for an assault upon a fellow laborer last Saturday. Sentence was suspended upon condition that he furnish bonds to keep the peace and pay the costs of the trial. Steve Lukochbich and John Floridan were charged with disorderly conduct. Steve Lukochbich drew a fine totaling $7, while Floridan got a fine amounting to $5.

City Clerk and Mrs. Wisted and son have returned from a visit in Mesaba range towns. They spent a major portion of their time visiting at the home of Mrs. Wisted's sister, Mrs. Glode of Eveleth.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

The mercury went to 80 deg. in Duluth yesterday, but Duluth was still cool compared with the rest of the country. The showers came as scheduled last night, and more are predicted for tonight. Fair weather is promised for Wednesday, however. Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:13 and it will set at 8 o'clock this evening, giving fifteen hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Hot weather continued Monday in the Rocky mountains, Plateau region, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, the Southwest and Gulf states, temperatures of 100 deg. and higher occurring in South Dakota, Kansas and Arizona. Light showers or thunderstorms occurred Monday or last night over Western Ontario, Manitoba, Eastern Montana, the Dakotas, Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Eastern Kansas, Western Missouri, Nevada and Florida. Indications favor further showers in St. Louis and Douglas counties this afternoon and tonight."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 8.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight or Wednesday; warmer tonight in east and south portions.

Wisconsin — Showers tonight or Wednesday; slightly cooler Wednesday.

Minnesota—Lowel showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler tonight in west portion; cooler Wednesday.

Iowa—Showers tonight or Wednesday.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight in east and south portion.

Montana—Fair tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight in extreme southeast.

Upper Lakes — Moderate variable winds on Superior; moderate southeasterly and southerly on Michigan and Huron, becoming variable. Showers tonight or Wednesday.

ALGOT JOHNSON LAID IN GRAVE

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last chapter in the sensational career of Algot Johnson, the 19-year-old boy who figured in the sensational killing of a Duluth policeman, along with Frank Meldrowski, another boy, after holding up the McKay hotel clerk, about a year ago, was enacted in Greenwood cemetery here yesterday afternoon, when the earth closed over his body, following funeral services from the Scandinavian Mission church, Rev. Theodore Paulson officiating.

The boy's mother, who lives at 511 Hemlock street, where he died from tuberculosis last Friday, as told in The Herald, was deeply affected as she stood by the grave of her son yesterday and received the sympathy of all. When the boy was paroled from Stillwater penitentiary because of his sickness and came home to die, his mother spared no effort to halt the advance of the dreaded disease.

A front porch room was provided for him and he started his fight with the grim reaper, but, after failing and then showing signs of recovery, he finally succumbed.

Minister Comments on Case.

"I could not understand how the youngster came to assist in that hold robbery at Duluth and in the shooting that followed," said Rev. Theodore Paulson of the Swedish Mission church, who had visited with the boy during his illness. "He did not have any criminal traits and was always kind, bright and industrious. I think dime novels and bad companions were responsible for his downfall. However, he should have been sent to the reformatory instead of the penitentiary, and I cannot understand how a jury or judge could have sent him to Stillwater."

GETTING READY FOR TOURNAMENT

Gilbert and Schley Firemen Prepare for Entertaining in August.

Gilbert, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gilbert and Schley boys are working hard for the firemen's tournament to be held here Aug. 18, 19 and 20. The program of races has been completed and will be forwarded to the competing teams, so that all can engage in practice. The citizens here donated liberally to the cause, and over $700 has been raised so far for the expenses, so that it will be one of the best affairs of the kind ever held on the range.

Committees in Charge.

The general committee having charge of the affair is made up of J. J. Hurley, president; F. P. Rutherford, vice president; Alfred Hoel, treasurer; E. J. Anderson, secretary; W. J. Luke, assistant secretary; A. R. Anderson, George French, W. C. Schoch and Thomas A. Flannigan.

The sub-committees are as follows: Financial, A. R. Anderson, chairman; Alfred Hoel, Dr. Fred Barrett, Thomas A. Flannigan; publicity, E. J. Anderson, chairman, C. L. Newberry, R. T. Dukelow; reception, Dr. Fred Barrett, chairman, Capt. D. T. Caine, Rev. T. B. Shorts; special privilege, A. E. MacInnis, chairman, C. G. Fulton, Capt. W. M. Webb; sports, F. Bowman, chairman, Thomas Clifford, W. H. MacMahon; music, E. J. Anderson, chairman, W. J. Dowling, M. Viola; decoration, George L. French, chairman, S. B. Dunn, A. G. Olson; marshals, Ole Solene, marshal of the day, Alex Karvinen, James MacArthur, Anton Erjvoc, Peter Lawton.

The various committees are holding regular meetings and have their work well under way. A mass meeting of the committees will be held tonight, and it is expected that all will be present and enthusiastically boost the cause along.

To Follow Old Rules.

The rules governing previous tournaments will govern. The only changes made will be such as will tend to prevent disputes and make them more clear on doubtful points.

The Schley and Gilbert teams are practicing also for a ball game between members of the two teams to be held Sunday in the Gilbert ball park. The game promises to be closely contested, and chiefs Hurley and Anderson of the Schley and Gilbert departments respectively are each sanguine of success.

Manager Gustad of the Lyceum theater has turned over his house to the boys for a benefit performance to be given July 19. The show will be enlivened by a vaudeville performance put on by local talent, and some special features are promised that should make the entertainment draw a packed house.

DULUTH WOMAN HAS SPOUSE ARRESTED.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Axel Laitela is under arrest here, charged by his wife, Mrs. Laitela of Duluth, with desertion and non support. The desertion is said to have taken place eighteen years ago, since which time Mrs. Laitela has proved up on a homestead near Duluth which is quite valuable. One of the allegations made by the state is that Laitela has posed as a single man and has attempted to sell property he owns in Virginia without the knowledge or consent of his wife.

Retail Clerks Win.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The retail clerks' baseball team trounced the courthouse team yesterday evening on the diamond across the river, 8 to 4, in a seven-inning game that was called because of rain. The Interstate Iron company's team issued a challenge, on the spot, to the winners, and the second game will be played at an early date.

Want Poles Removed.

The residents of Twenty-seventh avenue west presented a petition demanding that all poles along the avenue be removed before the pavement now underway is laid. The mayor explained that the Zenith Telephone company is now putting its wires underground and that the other companies are arranging to follow suit.

Mrs. Amelia Sexton protested against the resolution of the council ordering part of the lights removed from Park Point. She asked that they investigate the situation.

The salary of Ruben Johnson as secretary of the civil service board was fixed at $50 a month and as secretary of the health commissioner at $75 a month, a raise of $25 a month. A raise of $10 a month was given to one of the employes of the engineer's office, Commissioner Murchison explaining that it was necessary.

J. S. Stronach was awarded the contract for repainting the gas holders and stacks of the city's gas plant on Garfield avenue. His bid was $170.

The contract for a motorcycle for the water and light department was awarded to Walter Holmberg.

The salary of telephone operators at police headquarters was fixed at $65 a month. They will be hired after the civil service examinations and the regular patrolmen now doing the work at $80 a month will be placed on beats.

William H. Schnell filed notice of a claim for damages of $153.83. He was slightly injured and his automobile damaged when he ran into a trench on East First street between Fourth and Fifth avenues.

A petition was received for a sanitary sewer in Worden alley between Sixty-third and Sixty-first avenues west.

The contract for a sanitary sewer in West Fifth street between Ninth and Eleventh avenues was awarded to M. Fitzgerald on his bid of $2,443.60.

The contract for a sanitary sewer in Jay street between Forty-fourth and Forty-eighth avenues east was awarded to A. S. Wilson on his bid of $3,022.58.

An ordinance was introduced by Commissioner Merritt appropriating $120 for janitor service at the aerial bridge for the ensuing year.

An ordinance was introduced by Commissioner Murchison appropriating $985 for the repair of the Marvin street dock across the canal.

Commissioner Merritt introduced an ordinance appropriating $170 to pay substitutes for the aerial bridge while the regular employes are on their vacations.

The ordinance appropriating $3,000 for repairs to the city hall was given its third reading and passed.

The ordinance authorizing the issuance of $100,000 of certificates of indebtedness for the water and light department was passed. The issue has been oversubscribed having been offered to the public over the city treasurer's office by Commissioner Voss.

The ordinance appropriating $85,000 for improvements for the water and light department was passed. The money is provided by the sale of the certificates.

A Massachusetts colporteur who travels about 5,000 miles a year uses a completely equipped carriage as a permanent home.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of John Gothard of Deer River, charged with assaulting his wife on the afternoon of July 4, came before Justice C. F. Tobin at Deer River today, and was continued until July 18, upon motion of County Attorney McCuat. Mrs. Gothard is somewhat improved, but her condition is still serious, and the outcome of her injuries will determine whether or not the charge will be changed to a more serious one.

Evelethian at Negaunee.

Negaunee, Mich., July 8.—Mrs. William Sincock of Eveleth, Minn., and Miss Maud Corkhill of Palmer, who were visiting at Mrs. Sincock's home, were called to this city Friday, because of the accident at Palmer Thursday night, in which Louis Corkhill and Jack Rex were seriously injured by an accidental discharge of dynamite caps.

Firemen's Pet Killed.

Virginia, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The valuable Scotch Collie dog "Shep," owned by the boys of House No. 1 in the fire department and valued at $150, was accidentally killed Monday morning by being run over by one of the wagons when one of the fire teams was out for practice.

TELLS HOW TO DRAW MEN TO THE CITIES

Speaker at Corrections Meeting Discusses Living Problems.

Seattle, Wash., July 8.—Children, immigrants and the relation of commercial bodies to social welfare were discussed in three sectional meetings of the National Conference of Charities and Correction this morning.

E. M. Williams of Cleveland, whose subject was "A Chamber of Commerce Militant," said:

"You may talk of free sites, bonuses, cheap power and all else as determining factors in attracting new capital and new industry. As great as, if not greater than, these, is the condition of the labor market. The American laborer wants to know that the money he expends for taxes is honestly expended. He wants to locate where he is looked upon as a man, not as a cog in a machine. He wants pure water and pure food. He wants his dwelling to have the atmosphere of a home. He is influenced by the absence of conditions that make for a high death rate. He wants his children to receive a better education than was his lot."

"The rural population," he said, "is without leadership. The more energetic having moved on to the cities, the residue presents a sort of dead level from which enterprise cannot be expected."

The speakers at the immigration round table included Charles Perry Taylor, secretary of the Washington State Federation of Labor, and John A. Goodwell, international secretary of the Industrial department of the Y. M. C. A.

Fisherman Drowned.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., July 8.—Paul Mathews, an old resident, was drowned in Red Lake river just below the Marshall dam. He left home early to fish. Late in the day he was missed and a search was made. His coat and hat were found on the apron of the dam and his rod and line in the water. There were indications on the apron of the dam that he had slipped and fell in.

Drowns Near Cando, N. D.

Cando, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.—Harold Farquharson of this place was drowned yesterday in a coulee near here. With several companions he was swimming, being overcome by cramps and going to the bottom before the others could give him aid. He was the son of R. M. Farquharson, a prominent farmer of this district.

LACKING IN FIREWORKS

Commission Transacts Large Amount of Routine Business at Meeting.

Another Application for Additional Saloon License at New Duluth.

The city commission convened for its regular Monday meeting at 3:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The time set is 8 o'clock. Thus far all meetings have been 20 to 30 minutes late in starting.

The session was lacking in fireworks. Nothing came before the council relative to the regulation of saloons or the liquor traffic, but an application for a transfer of a saloon license came in which is likely to cause some discussion.

The applicant is C. N. Inforzato. He is making another effort to have a saloon license granted him at New Duluth. He wants the license of Charles Peterson at 513 West Michigan street transferred to himself at 1502 Commonwealth avenue. When the same case was up before Inforzato was turned down, Commissioner Hicken and Mayor Prince alone voting for the transfer. The others declined to approve the resolution on the ground that the residents of that section of the city are opposed to having another saloon in that location. Some pyrotechnics attended the vote and from letters which have reached the city officials since the transfer was refused it is not apparent that the residents of New Duluth have changed their attitude.

Morningstar lodge, I. O. G. T. forwarded a resolution passed by them congratulating the commissioners upon the stand they have taken on law enforcement and pledging their support in furtherance of that policy.

Buttermilk Is Best Friend to the Face

(From The Home Queen.)

Buttermilk is the complexion's best friend. This is best appreciated when we realize that the complexion's greatest enemies are dust and the oil which, having exuded from the pores, is allowed to sink back into them. Impurities collected upon the skin, if permitted to stay there any length of time, choke up the pores, interfering with circulation. The muddy skin, the pimpled one, may owe their first blemishes to dirt.

There's nothing like buttermilk to really cleanse the pores. Washing alone is not sufficient. (Soap often helps to clog pores.) Doubtless the most effective way is to use presolated buttermilk paste. Allow a generous coating of the paste to remain on over night, washing it off in the morning. Gently massage the skin while applying. Aside from its wonderful cleansing properties, there's nothing better than presolated buttermilk paste to make the skin beautifully soft and white. Get some of it at your druggist's, see how quickly it will enhance the loveliness of complexion, neck, shoulders, hands and arms.

Beats Exercising and Starving In Obesity

(From Society World.)

Those who have been starving themselves or taking hours of violent exercise in a vain endeavor to stay the rise of that wall of adiposity that threatens to hem them in, will rejoice to hear of the latest scientific method of taking off flesh. Their rejoicing will be keen not alone because of the effectiveness of this new method, but because it involves no inconvenience or self-punishment. On the other hand, the treatment is quite an agreeable one—simply the eating of a tasty confection, known as the "boranium jujube."

The jujube is used as a vehicle to convey a sort of seaweed extract known to possess remarkable virtues as an absorbent of oily and other body fluids. The idea originated in Germany and bids fair to spread rapidly here. In fact, local druggists report they already have been having many calls for these boranium jujubes. The prescribed dosage is one after each meal and one at bedtime.

CREOSOTE.

Indianapolis News: Transmission line poles and crossarms treated with creosote oil are less liable to destruction by fire than untreated timber of the same kind. This appears to be due to the fact that the free carbon deposited by the burning oil on the surface of the timber affords some protection from the action of the fire. A committee appointed by the National Electric Light Association of New York city conducted a series of experiments on similar specimens of treated and untreated short-leaf pine, and proved conclusively that the latter suffered considerably more damage from the effects of fire than the specimens that had been impregnated with creosote oil.

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW CHURCH

Construction Begun on St. Elizabeth's Edifice at New Duluth.

The Bowe-Burke company started work this morning breaking ground for the $10,000 church for the St. Elizabeth's Catholic parish of New Duluth and Gary. The church is being erected on the property recently purchased by the congregation, located on Grand avenue about midway between Gary and New Duluth.

The church will occupy the center of three lots located on the eastern end of ten lots owned by the congregation in this block. It is proposed to have the building completed about Nov. 1 and the dedication to take place on the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

The building will be of modern construction with a stone foundation and a superstructure of brick with sandstone trimmings. It will have a seating capacity for 500 people when completed. This seating capacity will be divided about 350 in the main auditorium and about 150 for the balcony.

Rev. John Begley, assistant pastor of the St. James Catholic church, who has charge of the New Duluth congregation, has charge of the building arrangements. He is assisted by a committee from among the members of the parish.

DIFFER ON VALUE OF PROPERTY

Evidence in Fairmont Condemnation Proceedings Is Completed.

The taking of evidence in the seven condemnation suits in which the city is seeking to acquire title to a tract of land at the foot of Sixty-eighth avenue west for the purposes of an addition to Fairmont park, was concluded yesterday afternoon in district court before Judge Dancer.

Witnesses expressed quite a difference of opinion as to values, and the court will take the matter under advisement. The cases are appeals from the awards of the condemnation board. Arguments will be heard by the court next month, after a plat is made of the property. The appellants are Caroline D. Cruver et al.; G. Willis Peters, as trustee; James V. Dunphy et al., Albert S. Chase et al., National Mahalwo bank, George W. Norton, as executor of the Norton estate, and Willis J. Holmes.

JOSEPH MORRIS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Joseph Morris, 55 years old, 217 South Sixtieth avenue west, a resident of West Duluth for the last twenty years, died at 5:30 o'clock last evening after an illness of over two years. Mr. Morris has been suffering from paralysis, and for over a year has been totally blind.

Mr. Morris is survived by his widow, three children, Basil, Eldon and Ertermies; three step-children, Evelyn, Borain and Clyde Blanchard; two brothers, Dennis and John Morris, who reside in Maine, and mother, living in New Brunswick.

He was a member of West Duluth lodge, No. 145, A. O. U. W., and of the Catholic Order of Foresters. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the family residence and at 9 o'clock from St. James' Catholic church. Interment will be made in Calvary cemetery.

FIRST BOAT AT NEW LUMBER DOCK.

The first lumber carrier to tie up at the Canadian Northern dock arrived at the dock yesterday afternoon and is being loaded today. The steamer, the Melvin S. Bacon, is taking on a cargo of lumber for lower lake ports.

The dock has about been completed. The dredging on the east side of the dock has been finished, so that boats of any draught can easily get in.

Several train loads of lumber are already on the dock ready to be loaded onto the boats. The lumber is moved from the cars direct to the boat, doing away with double handling.

Red Men to Initiate.

Mesaba tribe, No. 25, I. O. R. M., will initiate a class of thirty candidates at its meeting this evening. The class is a part of the class prepared for the last meeting of the lodge when 110 were taken in. Following the ceremonies of adoption, the committee in charge has planned to serve refreshments.

Fire at Iron Works.

Fire broke out at 6:30 o'clock last evening in the cast house of the National Iron works. The fire had gained considerable headway when Department No. 8 arrived. The department spent nearly an hour in putting out the blaze. The damage is estimated at about $500.

Forseman Funeral.

The funeral of Andrew Forseman, 58 years old, 5110 Ramsey street, who died Sunday evening, will be held tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock from the family residence and at 1 o'clock from the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-third avenue west and Wadena street. Interment will be made in the Oneota cemetery.

Capt. Maghan on Visit.

"BLACK PERIL" LOOMS LARGE

South African Whites Are Confronted With Crisis.

Johannesburg, South Africa, July 8.—Six thousand native black laborers from three of the large gold mines on the Rand joined in the labor upheaval this morning. Should the disaffection among them spread to the other 250,000 natives employed on the Rand, it will mean that the white inhabitants will be confronted again with the "black peril," which has been quiescent for some years.

The natives refused to descend the mines unless granted an increase of wages, and 1,000 employed in one mine broke out of their compound. They were, however, awed by the levelled rifles of the troopers, who had been posted to deal with this serious development, and they returned to their quarters.

Most of the white strikers have returned to work.

Attempts to dynamite the Rand club and other buildings are feared. The club is barricaded and armed members patrol the premises. The residences of the mine owners are guarded by soldiers.

An attempt to destroy the railroad between Johannesburg and Kermiston was made, but failed.

The only newspaper published was a four-page sheet issued by the printers' union.

A new trial was granted in a case in Philadelphia on the discovery that one of the men who had sat on the jury was a deaf mute and hadn't heard a word of the testimony.

"WHIRLWIND DANCER" MAY BE MARRIED

SAHARET ROSE.

Saharet Rose is going to be married —maybe. She is known to the stage as "Saharet" and described on the bills as a "whirlwind dancer." She originated in Australia and has been traveling all over the world for many years. Friedrich W. von Frantzius is the man who wants to marry her. He is a broker with one foot in Chicago and the other in New York. He saw a portrait of the beautiful Saharet and fell in love with that. Then he saw the original and found her more charming than the portrait. Saharet found him on the pier waiting for her when she landed on Sunday. He announced that they would be married right away. Saharet said that she would either be married or accept a dancing engagement—she wasn't sure which.

BLIND PIGS UNDER FIRE

County Commissioners Now Realize "Something Must Be Done."

Two New Roads Legalized —Road and Bridge Contracts Let.

Blind-pigging in the rural districts of the county came in for considerable discussion this morning at the regular monthly meeting of the county commissioners. Commissioner O'Neill stated that a number of complaints of violations of the law had come to his attention and that he thought that the matter should be referred to the county attorney's office and the sheriff.

Commissioner Kauppi also took a hand in the discussion stating that efforts should be made to stamp out the evil. Mr. O'Neill was of the opinion that granting a saloon license to a man who had made application in the vicinity of Buhl and Kinney might have an effect upon the situation there. Mr. Kauppi opposed the granting of the license because there was a saloon in the village of Kinney, about one mile away.

A license was granted to McCoy & Pasich by a vote of four to two. Commissioner Swanstrom opposed the license on general principles. He has voted against the granting of every liquor license application which has come before the board.

The board granted a license to sell cigarettes in township 58-14, to R. S. Cameron. The fee is $25 annually.

The county board legalized two new roads, each about three miles in length. One is to be known as the Forbes Town Line road in section 24 and 36, 57-19 and the other the Lindstrum road, in section 7, 54-18 and 31, 55-18.

The board appropriated $1,600 for two roads in the Sixth district, $1,000 of which will be spent on the Town Line road and $600 on the Morrison Extension road. An appropriation of $1,000 was also made from the special county road fund for the purposes of improving the Proctor road within the city limits of Duluth.

Charles E. Adams was reappointed this morning by the county board to his third year as special county counsel. He is retained at a salary of $3,000 a year, the same as last year.

It is expected that at the afternoon session of the board, a number of small road and bridge contracts, the bids for which were opened at the committee meeting of the board yesterday, will be awarded.

HAS RELIC OF PERRY'S SHIP

Roger S. Lerch, Sr., bailiff of the district court, has in his possession a curious relic of the war of 1812 which is of interest in connection with the celebration yesterday at Erie, Pa., of the 100th anniversary of the fitting out of Perry's fleet.

The relic is a hand-wrought iron spike which was removed about thirty-five years ago from Commodore Perry's famous battleship Lawrence, which sank in Misery bay, Erie, after a naval engagement with the British fleet. Perry left the sinking ship in a small boat and boarded the Niagara. The latter ship has been preserved.

While Mr. Lerch was living in Erie a number of years ago, he secured the spike from a diver who brought up a number of other things from the sunken ship.

THROWN FROM AUTO.

Then Unconscious Mill City Man Is Left on Street.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For more than an hour today William Sebach lay almost unconscious at the side of a street, where he had been thrown by an automobile, the driver of which drove rapidly away. Nicholas Leachman, a taxicab driver, found Sebach, took him home and then to a hospital. He is said by physicians to be injured internally, besides being badly cut about the head.

BLACKLIST IS SCRUTINIZED

Lumbermen Are Asked About Handling of Credits.

Hearing in Trust Case at Chicago Is Nearing End.

Chicago, July 8.—Whether the Northwestern Retail Lumber Dealers' association regulated the "blacklist" published in the organ of the Lumbermen's Credit association, was the subject of inquiry today at the "Lumber trust" hearing.

B. W. Stadden, who formerly was connected with the credit association, testified that the publishers of the "red book" referred their lists to the Northwestern association merely for correction. He said they made their own investigations on any questions where the credit or practices of the firm in question were in dispute.

The present Chicago hearing is expected to end today.

Manufacturers as Competitors.

Lumber dealers in Ohio quit dealing with manufacturers who sell directly to contractors because they regard them as competitors, according to O. H. Bachtel of Canton, Ohio, who was a witness. Mr. Bachtel denied that they were forced to such action by any rule of the Ohio association of retail lumber dealers.

"This practice was not confined to members of the association only," continued the witness. "It was just as prevalent among the dealers who were not members."

On cross-examination the witness was shown a copy of the "Bulletin," a publication prepared by the secretaries of the various retail lumber associations throughout the country. Government Attorney McKercher pointed to a paragraph in which the consent of the Ohio association was given to the alleged "blacklisting" of a number of manufacturers who sold direct to contractors.

"Here is an instance where official action was taken by your association, isn't it?" asked the attorney.

The witness said he knew nothing about the consent of the association being given to the publication of such a list.

Accuses Mail Order Houses.

G. W. La Pointe, Jr., of Menomonie, Wis., former president of the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers' association, testified in behalf of the wholesalers that part of the opposition to mail order houses was because the mail houses classified No. 2 lumber as No. 1. "We have found from experience that with the mail order houses, their No. 1 grade is about equal to the No. 2 grade of the retailers," said La Pointe. "Prospective buyers will come to us and say, 'Why should I buy of you when I can get No. 1 lumber from a mail order house for several dollars less per 1,000 than I would have to pay you?' When we explain that mail order houses schedule No. 2 lumber as No. 1, customers think we are actuated by jealousy."

La Pointe denied that there was any price agreement among retailers. "Each dealer sells his lumber at a reasonable per cent over his expenses, which, of course, vary widely," he said.

SALOONLESS NATION IN 1920 IS SLOGAN

Christian Endeavor Leaders Plan to Start the Campaign.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—"Saloonless United States" in 1920 is the call sought by the Christian Endeavor society, which will meet in convention tomorrow. This will be the keynote of a campaign to be launched at the forthcoming convention, it was announced today. The society would have the United States dry by 1920 as a fitting observation of the 300th anniversary of the coming of the Pilgrim fathers.

ROBS SAFE ACROSS FROM POLICE STATION.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Lynch was arrested today. According to the police, late yesterday he robbed an office safe of $70 in cash in broad daylight, directly opposite the street from the Central police station. The robber had donned workman's overalls and broke open a tool chest to secure tools with which to open the safe. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

PITCHER OF FEMALE GIANTS.

"JOSEPH TOSSI" DIES IN MINNEAPOLIS CELL

Is Taken Up By Police, Apparently Suffering From Heat.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man who was booked as Joseph Tossi, but whose real name is unknown, was found dead in his cell at the central police station here today. He was arraigned late yesterday while acting strangely.

He was about 40 years old, and the police believed that he had been affected by the heat. So violent were his actions at the time of his arrest that he was placed in a padded cell.

TENTH SERVICE AVIATOR KILLED.

Washington, July 8.—Aviation, by the death today of Lieut. Call, claimed its tenth victim from the army and navy, the previous toll having been seven commissioned officers and two instructors. Lieut Call, a son of Lewis W. Call, chief clerk and solicitor in the office of judge advocate general of the army here, was detailed to the army aviation service last September.

BIG CLINIC AT DENTAL MEETING.

Kansas City, Mo., July 8.—With more than 2,000 delegates present from all parts of the United States, the seventeenth annual convention of the National Dental association was called to order here today by Frank O. Hetrick of Ottawa, Kan., president of the organization. The convention will be in session four days. A feature of this year's meeting is to be a public clinic Friday, for which sixty-five chairs has been installed. Officers of the association said this probably would be the largest day clinic ever held.

Sarnia Elevator Burns.

Port Huron, Mich., July 8.—The plant of the Point Edward Elevator company located north of Sarnia, Ont., on the St. Clair river, was burned yesterday at a loss estimated at $350,000, partly covered by insurance. About 60,000 bushels of wheat and 220,000 bushels of oats were destroyed.

Arrested in Gates' House.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—James Rogers is in jail, accused of attempting to rob the new home of Charles O. Gates, formerly of Chicago, which he is erecting on Lake of the Isles boulevard. Rogers was caught in the building early Monday by the night watchman and turned over to the police.

LONGEST STRAIGHT LINE.

Indianapolis News: The longest stretch of railway in the world without a curve is in New Zealand, where there is a line of railway a part of which goes for a distance of 136 miles in a perfectly straight line. This fact is remarkable when it is taken into consideration that New Zealand is one of the most difficult countries in the world for railway construction, as it is very mountainous, requiring sharp curves and very heavy grades.

In the Polar regions there is one inhabitant to every ten square miles.

SAY LAKE IS CONTAMINATED

Summer Resorters Want Injunction Against Mining Company.

Proceedings May Result in Closing Mine Near Nashwauk.

Mining interests involving many million dollars and the future property of a Northern Minnesota village are said to be at stake in an injunction proceeding against the Wisconsin Steel company, owner of the lease of the Hawkins mine near Nashwauk, which is now on in the United States district court.

The fight is between the summer resorters and property owners on the lakes and streams in the vicinity of the washing plant at the Hawkins mine and the Wisconsin Steel company, operators of the mine. In reality, however, the suit has been brought by only one of many, who claim to have a grievance. The plaintiff is John Munter of Hibbing, who owns a summer home and platted property on the shores of Swan lake.

The claim is made that in the operation of the washing plant near the Hawkins mine, seepage from the swamp where residue or tailings are dumped, drains through into O'Brien lake, nearby, and connecting streams and lakes, one of which is Swan lake about four miles away.

Water Discolored.

The contention is that the water has been contaminated and discolored, and has become unfit for drinking, and bathing purposes and not desirable for boating purposes. Munter asserts that the property on the lake has been depreciated in value and that one of the finest summer resorts in that portion of the state will be destroyed unless the alleged nuisance is abated.

Suit for injunction was originally started in the Itasca county district court. The matter came up for a hearing before Judge C. W. Stanton at Bemidji on June 21, Victor L. Power of Hibbing appearing for the plaintiff or petitioner for the injunction and Baldwin & Baldwin, attorneys of this city, appearing for the defendant steel company. On the motion of the defendant's attorneys, a continuance was granted until yesterday, when the matter came on again for a hearing.

On Saturday last, Attorney Power was served with a notice of a motion to remove the cause of action to the Federal court, on the grounds that the Wisconsin Steel company is an Illinois corporation and that more than $3,000 is involved in the controversy. Yesterday Judge Stanton granted the motion transferring the case to the United States district court. Today, Arthur E. Templeton of Hibbing, representing Mr. Power, attorney for the plaintiff, is in the city in the interests of the case.

Mr. Templeton will present a petition to Judge Morris of the Federal court today for an order requiring the steel company to show cause why the case should not be remanded to the state courts.

Growing Resort.

Swan lake, which is involved in the action, is a popular summer resort about nineteen miles out of Hibbing. On its shores a number of wealthy Hibbing people and others have built handsome summer homes. Since the washing plant at the Hawkins mine between four and five miles away, has been in operation, it is claimed that the waters of the lake have been contaminated and that the place has lost its original charms.

The Hawkins mine resembles most of the Western Mesaba properties in that there is considerable silica mined with the ore. The steel company claims that the ore is of such a character that without being subjected to the process of washing, it would be unmerchantable. The plant was built in 1911-13, nearly two miles from the mine and on the shores of O'Brien lake. In the operation of washing the silica from the ore, a large quantity of tailings is left. This has been dumped into a swamp which drains into O'Brien lake. It is claimed that the sediment has seeped through and has discolored the waters not only of O'Brien lake, but of adjacent streams and lakes, including Swan lake.

At the first hearing on the injunction matter at Bemidji, samples of the water taken from Swan lake were produced in court, showing the liquid to be of a dark reddish color. The plaintiff claims that before the washing plant operated, the water in Swan lake was as clear as crystal and excellent for drinking, bathing and boating purposes. The company, in affidavits produced in opposition to the petition for a temporary restraining order, asserts that the lake is still suitable for bathing purposes and that the plaintiff never used the water for drinking purposes.

Just how much is involved in the action is purely a matter for conjecture. In affidavits which the Wisconsin Steel company served upon the plaintiff in connection with defendant's motion for the removal of the cause from the state to the Federal court, it was claimed an alarming state of affairs would ensue if the injunction were granted.

Company's Claims.

The claim is made by the company that the mine would be obliged to close down if the washing plant were closed, in view of the fact that the ore is unmerchantable unless washed. Some other claims made by the company are:

That the Wisconsin Steel company is paying $20,000 a year minimum royalties on the Hawkins property.

That the village of Nashwauk has grown up by reason of the mine being near it and that its future prosperity depends entirely upon the operation of the mine.

That Nashwauk has a population of about 2,000 people, 40 per cent of which is employed at the Hawkins mine.

That the Wisconsin Steel company has a contract now under way to deliver 1,000,000 tons of ore this year. Up to June 25, only 326,870 tons had been delivered, leaving about 700,000 more tons to mine and wash.

That if the washing plant is closed down, 220 men will be thrown out of employment.

That the mine is underlaid with about 10,000,000 tons of ore, the greater part of which requires a washing process to make it merchantable.

That the company has already spent nearly $3,000,000 in the building and installing the washing plant and spur from the mine.

OBITUARY

Col. E. C. Townsend, aged 95, believed to be the only survivor who attended the session of the First Wisconsin territorial legislature in Belmont in 1836, died at Shullsburg, Wis., July 6.

Mrs. Clara V. Weaver, widow of the late Gen. James W. Weaver, the soldier and publicist, who was three times a member of congress and twice a candidate for president on the Populist ticket, died at the home of her daughter in Des Moines, Iowa, July 7. Mrs. Weaver was nearly 82 years old. For many years she had been a leader in the suffrage and temperance movements.

WOMEN BURN ART WORKS

Lever Country Mansion and Rich Contents Are Destroyed.

Sylvia Pankhurst and Zelie Emerson Are Again Arrested.

London, July 8.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes burned down the country residence of Sir William H. Lever, founder of Port Sunlight and chairman of the Liverpool school of tropical medicine, early this morning.

The mansion, which is called "The Bungalow," is located at Rivington, near Horwich, Lancashire. It was not occupied by the family, but contained valuable paintings and other precious objects, all of which were consumed.

A message was left by the incendiaries stating that if Sir William Lever had been as loyal to the suffragettes as Lancashire was to the king, who is paying a visit to the industrial centers of the county, the fire would not have happened.

Miss Pankhurst Sentenced.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, in the Bow street police court today was found guilty of inciting people to commit disorders on June 29 when she led a mob to Downing street to raid the official residences of the premier and the chancellor of the exchequer. She was ordered by the magistrate to find sureties in $12,000 for good behavior for a year, or as an alternative go to prison for three months.

Miss Pankhurst refused to find bonds and elected to go to Holloway jail, declaring that she would at once start a hunger strike and also go without water. Archibald Bodkin, presecuting for the treasury, said the authorities did not desire to punish her, but merely to prevent her making inflammatory speeches.

Miss Emerson Arrested.

Miss Zelie Emerson of Detroit, Mich., Miss Mary Richardson and Harry Golden a male sympathizer with the woman suffrage movement, who were arrested last evening while trying to liberate Miss Sylvia Pankhurst from the hands of the police, were all sent to jail by the police magistrate today. Miss Emerson, who, the police testified, had incited a mob of 500 obstructionists by shouting "What are you going to do?" was given a month's hard labor, and Harry Golden received a similar sentence, but Miss Richardson, who had assaulted the police and broken a window at the police station, was sentenced for three months. The prisoners' only comment was "We shall do just as much as we choose."

Two Paid Fines.

Miss Emerson and Harry Golden were brought back to the prisoners' enclosure in the police court this afternoon and the magistrate told them he had overlooked the fact that he was obliged by law to offer them the alternative of a fine instead of imprisonment. He therefore fined them each $10. Contrary to the custom of the militant suffragettes, and to the great surprise of all in court, the fines were paid at once.

Boat Is Stolen.

A boat owned by J. W. Dickerson has been stolen from the Fifth avenue slip, according to a complaint made by the owner to the police yesterday. Mr. Dickerson placed his boat in the slip last Friday and found it missing yesterday afternoon.

Case Is Settled.

Dorlord Castanguay and Joachim Bohnsack, who came into district court with a dispute over a sawmill contract, each claiming the other had violated the agreement and both asking damages, have settled their difficulty. The jury returned a verdict for $150 in favor of Castanguay, but he compromised with Bohnsack for $10 less than that figure, rather than engage in further litigation. A stipulation of dismissal and settlement was filed this morning with the clerk of court.

Two Naval Recruits.

James Herbert Brown, 17 years old, of Mason, Wis., and Jesse McIvor, 23 years old, of Bronson, Ga., have passed the examination to enter the navy service and they will be sent to Minneapolis this afternoon. Gunner's Mate Henry McClure, who is in charge of the local recruiting station in the absence of Chief Quartermaster Erickson, conducted the examinations.

Held for Larceny.

Arthur De Palmer was arrested yesterday afternoon on the complaint of Benjamin Forstad, who claims that the defendant stole a watch worth $20. De Palmer pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and his case was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Peddler Arrested.

Harry Martin was arrested by Detectives Toewe and Bradley yesterday afternoon for peddling without a license. He pleaded guilty and will be sentenced at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Hears Divorce Case.

In district court today, Judge Dancer is hearing testimony in a contested divorce case, in which Rose T. Shaleen is suing her husband, Ernest H. Shaleen for a separation and the custody of their 6-year-old daughter. The decree is asked for on the grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Shaleen testified this morning that her husband's treatment had seriously affected her health. Shaleen formerly lived in Duluth but is now a Chisago county farmer.

Hit By Motor Car.

Carl Benson, 25 years old, conductor on an East Fourth street line, was struck by an automobile belonging to the Electric Service Supply company shortly before noon today. Benson had just stepped from his car at Third avenue west when the automobile struck him. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where his injuries were found to be very slight. He will be taken to his home in the West end this evening.

Wife Gets Divorce.

Judge Ensign of the district court yesterday signed findings and an order for a decree in the divorce suit brought by Olga Ratcliffe against her husband, Thomas B. Ratcliffe. Mrs. Ratcliffe charged cruel and inhuman treatment. She was given the custody of their three children by the court.

PFANSCHMIDT IS SENTENCED TO HANG

Denies He Is Guilty of Murder of Family and Friend.

Quincy, Ill., July 8.—Ray Pfanschmidt, the 21-year-old slayer of his father, mother, sister and Miss Emma Kaempen, a young school teacher friend, today was sentenced to be hanged Saturday, Oct. 18. The sentence was pronounced by Judge Guy Williams in the circuit court of Adams county.

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Williams asked the convicted youth if he had anything to say. The answer was: "I am innocent of this charge."

Ray Pfanschmidt was found guilty by a jury of the murder of his sister, Blanche Pfanschmidt, a verdict which practically found him guilty of the four murders.

There is slight probability that he will be hanged on the date named by the court. The case will be taken to the supreme court on a writ of error, which it is believed will delay the execution.

ESCAPED LUNATIC "STRINGS" OFFICER

Inmate of Fergus Falls Asylum Gives Self Away in Michigan.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ludvig Steska, who escaped from the Fergus Falls state hospital for the insane May 19, has been located at Albion, Mich., through a series of peculiar circumstances.

Two weeks ago, Frank Hoyt, the village constable at Albion, met Steska. Not knowing the man was insane, Hoyt listened to a long story of a mysterious murder in a lumber camp near Blackduck, Minn., told by Steska, and apparently believed it. He at once wrote to the Russian consul at Chicago, saying he had evidence of the murder of a subject of the czar and asked for advice.

The consul referred the matter to George F. Authier, secretary to Governor Eberhart, and he submitted it to the board of control. The hospital records were looked up and it was found that Steska had evidently been "stringing" the Albion constable.

Steska probably will be returned to Minnesota.

AMERICAN SUFFRAGETTE FINED IN BRITISH COURT

MISS ZELIE P. EMERSON
Of Detroit, Mich.

EXPLAINING KEELEY--- THE MAN WHO GOT THE JOB

Peter Clark MacFarlane, Writing in Collier's, Tells of the Rise of a London Emigrant From the Position of Sign Painter and Newsboy to Managing Editor of a Great Newspaper.

THERE are many things about Keeley that require explanation. Thirty years ago there was a bullet-headed youngster on the streets of his native Whitechapel in London who alternated between selling newspapers and blacking boots. He was alert and strong-handed. He could scrap in a flash—fight for a sale, fight for a shine, fight for fun or for principle.

Fifteen years later the Chicago Daily Tribune had a bullet-headed city editor. He was a man of ferocious energies, who wasted few words and no sentiment. He drove his work like a demon; he got what he went after; and he compelled his reporters to get what they went after. Excuses never interested him.

That Whitechapel kid and this demon-driving city editor in Chicago were the same man, and the name of that man was James Keeley. One day R. W. Patterson, who was in control of the Tribune, came out of his office, beckoned to Keeley, and said: "You are managing editor."

Why He Got the Job.

Now, to pass from this London street lad to that managing editor of the Chicago Tribune in fifteen years is a stride that requires explanation, for the Tribune was accounted one of the great newspapers of America. Even Mr. Patterson seemed to feel that to commit such interests into such hands required explanation, and so he said, as he appointed him: "Because you are always on the job, I give you the job."

But great as the Tribune was then, it is greater today. And, aside from the paper, Keeley, the man, has become great, and—to many people—mysterious. The secrets of his rise, the elements of his power, his tricks of manner, his seeming ruthlessness, the great good he does, his superlative genius as a news-getter and news publisher, each becomes the occasion for speculation and gossip. Myth and legend overile the man. Not a little is woven into the laurel on his brow. He is beloved by a few; he is hated by many; he is respected and reviled; he is feared and flouted.

Came as an Emigrant.

When, at 15 years of age, Keeley decided to emigrate to America, he exchanged the larger part of his savings for a ticket reading to Leavenworth, Kan., which some London booking agent has retained in stock so long it was flyspecked. The youth supposed Leavenworth was some port of New York—like Hoboken, for instance—but discovered his mistake as he rode for days and nights upon a crowded emigrant train.

Nor did the Kansas town receive the future lord of the Tribune with trump and fanfare. Indeed, it appears that Leavenworth did not know that greatness was in its midst. It allowed Mr. Keeley to sell peanuts, to scrub pots and kettles, and generally to live precariously, exactly as he had in London. The only occupation that afforded anything like regular sustenance was when he became household helper to four officers who lived in bachelor quarters out at the fort.

He Hit the Ties.

After a time a quite natural feeling that he had grown too big for Leavenworth came to Keeley and, patronizing the ties of the Missouri Pacific railroad, he walked down to Kansas City. By this time the lad had become a cautious, prying soul. He did not rush rashly into the metropolis of the West, but paused for a while at Wyandotte and gazed across the Kaw at the boom-crowned heights of the Missouri town. Yet while he gazed he needs must live, and did so. Being handy with the brush, he painted signs for all the merchants in Wyandotte, and thereby got him meals at restaurants, cheese and crackers at grocery stores, and various articles of wear at merchandise emporiums. Also being handy with the comb, he curried horses at intervals, which got him a bed on the hay. However, when the weather was fine he preferred to sleep in the old Indian burying ground at one side of the town, where he used to pillow his head on the rounded sod and dream of being a Big Chief some day.

Broke Into the Game.

All these years Jim's interest had been centered in a newspaper career. He had sold newspapers so long, he had seen the eagerness with which people clutched at them, and the quick discrimination with which they buried their noses in some pages and left others cold and neglected, that he developed theories as to what people wanted in newspapers and how it should be arranged. Wyandotte at length definitely broke into the newspaper game as carrier for the Kansas City Journal. One day the paper's local correspondent got sick and went away. Jim appropriated the job. He was not appointed, he just took the place and began to send in the news of the day in Wyandotte. For days he was the busiest war correspondent that ever winnowed news from the gutters and alleys of a small town.

But eventually it dawned on Jim that not as much news was being printed from Wyandotte as he wrote each night. Something must be wrong. He invested in carbon paper and kept copies of the stories he wrote; then he compared his copy with what of it was printed. The difference was amazing, but it gave the boy his first training in newspaper style.

Having exhausted the possibilities of Wyandotte as a news producer, Keeley, after three months, promoted himself to a place on the local staff of the "Journal." Here he swiftly developed a most remarkable faculty for knowing what was news and what was not, for discerning what story and what angle of a story would most excite popular interest. This was his old slum and newsboy training. He knew the great mud-soaked Adam-and-Eve heart of the common people, its longings and its curiosities, and he gathered and sorted the news accordingly.

But Keeley did not last with Kansas City, or Kansas City did not last with Keeley, one way or the other. He went first to Memphis and then to Louisville, and in each place did the grand tour from extra reporter to city editor, and then moved on. About a year before the World's Fair he seems to have concluded that he was ready to tackle something of British bulldog size.

Choosing Chicago as the scene of his operations, he came in and walked round and round a building standing at the corner of Dearborn and Madison streets until he had decided upon it as the exact scene for his triumphs. This building housed the Chicago Tribune. Keeley went to work upon the paper as a reporter. His chief characteristic, was a gruff tenacity of purpose and the rarest instinct for news, mingled with a good deal of the dare-devil spirit. His rivals recall him as a man who went after his facts with a ferocious impetuosity which was unlike anything Chicago newspapers had seen before. Keeley would coil himself around the elements of a story like a boa constructor, and squeeze and squeeze until the details he wanted came out.

It was a part of Keeley's code to get the story and another part of it to keep rival reporters from getting it, or from sending it back to their papers if they did get it. The word "ruthless" is used to describe the methods by which he impeded their progress toward the same news goals as himself. Telephones in the outlying districts were scarce in those days. There are tales of Keeley hiring all the telephones in the neighborhood at the critical hour, tales of wires cut, and of men going to a telephone which Keeley had just used to find that a pencil had been rammed through the transmitter or the instrument otherwise put out of commission. Some of these accounts, no doubt, are legendary, but the fact that the legends have grown up shows the impression he made even then upon the minds of his contemporaries.

"The Story—Quick."

Keeley rose rapidly on the Tribune. In a few months he had left reporting for the copy desk, and passed on to be night city editor and then city editor—passed on over the men who a little before had been giving him orders.

One morning at 3:30, when the last editions were running off, Keeley was astonished to see the president of a leading Chicago bank walk into his office. The expression on the man's face indicated dire calamity.

"Who has absconded and how many hundred thousand did he take? What's the story, quick!" demanded Keeley.

"Come with me and I'll tell you," was the reply in a significant tone.

"Is it big?" asked Keeley sharply.

"Yes," replied the bank president, "it is."

Keeley stopped the Tribune presses and hurried out with his visitor. He was escorted one block to the First National bank building, where he found the rooms upstairs crowded with the leading financial men of the city, headed by Marshall Field. It was evident they had been making a night of it. Some dozed in chairs, some were curled up on settees, some were in their shirt sleeves; others sat about in groups conferring in low tones; many were munching sandwiches or drinking coffee which had been brought in the janitor's buckets. Field himself half dozed upon a desk with an empty coffee cup beside him and the remains of a sandwich between his fingers. The buzz of conversation ceased as Keeley entered the room.

"What's up?" he asked.

They told him Walsh's banks had failed. Keeley gobbled the details eagerly, and started for the door, but the door was locked.

"Wait," they said blandly. "We want you to advise with us."

Keeley was willing to be very free with his advice, but he wanted to get back and start his presses with the biggest scoop the Tribune had scored in months. However, the bankers would not let him go.

How He Got Out.

They passed him suavely from one to another, discussing the gravity of the situation, getting his views on the effect of the news, but keeping the doors locked. Keeley resolved upon strategy. Apparently he gave up any thought of leaving, took off his hat and moved about indifferently among the men, but all the time was gravitating toward the rear door. Once in its vicinity he eluded the watchful eyes for a moment, picked up an empty bucket in either hand, and accosted the doorkeeper with:

"Dese guys wants more coffee."

Keeley's imitation was perfect. The doorkeeper was deceived and permitted him to pass. Dropping his buckets on the stairway where they clattered down behind him, Keeley bounded to the street, and dashed toward the Tribune office. As he arrived he saw the long lines of paper wagons from the other printing offices loaded and waiting for the Tribune. This was the sort of situation that Keeley enjoyed to the limit. The papers of his rivals were already off the press and standing at his door. He could hold them while he printed his own flare head beat on the Walsh failure.

In half an hour the Tribune presses were going again and by the time the bankers began to wonder what happened to Keeley the newsboys had the story of the Walsh failure on the street.

The "Sane Fourth" Campaign.

Keeley has again and again hurled the great power of the Tribune behind some important social or humanity issue. Take, for example, his crusade for a sane Fourth. The idea came into his mind in a perfectly natural way, but he hit it with the Keeley punch and the Tribune reach.

It began on the Fourth of July, 1899, when a little daughter was hanging in the balance between life and death. "Get reports from thirty cities on the number of killed and injured by this blankety-blank foolery," he said, "and let's see what it looks like."

Ten minutes later he called up again and dictated the exact form of the message to be sent, and added: "Make it a hundred cities, get the figures in shape, and we will print them."

The next morning on the front page of the Tribune there was a column devoted to the Fourth of July horror. On the following morning, with more data at hand, the results were elaborated in three terrible columns. This was the beginning of the Tribune's campaign for a sane Fourth.

HER ILLNESS MAY HAVE BROUGHT RECONCILIATION

SUZANNE CARROLL.

Not long ago the engagement of Suzanne Carroll of the old Maryland family of Carrolls was announced. She was to marry Maj. John Philip Hill of that state. Now word comes from Baltimore that Miss Carroll has suffered a nervous breakdown and has been obliged to go to a sanitarium and it is reported that her engagement will be broken. This rumor is not confirmed, however, and Maj. Hill has been very devoted to her in her illness.

BIG INDUSTRIAL PARADE PLANNED

The third Lark o' the Lake program for next Saturday night will consist of an industrial parade, in which all of the jobbers, manufacturers and merchants will be invited to take part.

The trucks will be decorated and it is hoped to have a procession at least a mile long showing the industries of Duluth. Following this there will probably be a band concert.

The city will take part in its parade, the fire department and police departments having their apparatus in line.

GIRL MURDERED; LOVER IS HELD.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 8.—The authorities are baffled over the mysterious death of Alice Crispell, a 19-year-old girl, whose body was found in Harvey's lake yesterday. Herbert Johns, the acknowledged lover of the girl, occupies a cell in the county jail. The inquest is set for Friday.

Johns was arrested because he was the last person seen with the girl on the night of July 4. They had spent the evening near the shore of the lake, but Johns explains that he left her and went home.

The state police are working on the theory that Miss Crispell may have been the victim of a jealous rival of Johns.

Finds Explorers' Relics.

St. Paul, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—George H. Hazzard, commissioner of the interstate park at Taylor's Falls, has discovered an old stone foundation between Folsom and Clark islands, which he says probably was used as winter quarters by the early French explorers.

Mr. Hazzard proposes to dig it up and search for early relics that may establish its claim to a place in the early history of Minnesota and the St. Croix valley.

BULGARIANS INVADE SERVIA

Soldiers Discard Guns and Use Bayonets Like Daggers.

European Powers Give No Signs of Interference.

Vienna, July 8.—After repulsing several small Servian forces, the Bulgarian troops have succeeded in penetrating to Vranya, the war commissariat station of the Servian army, according to Sofia dispatches to the Neue Freie Presse. The Bulgarians, it says, are now advancing along the Morava river. If this proves correct, the Bulgarians have by their advance cut off a huge body of Servians from Belgrade.

Fought With Bayonets.

London, July 8.—Important news from the seat of war is the report, confirmed from Sofia, of the appearance of a large Bulgarian force at Vrana, threatening the Servian line of retreat.

Still more significant, as tending to confirm the belief that the Servians are suffering defeat, is the announcement from Belgrade that only meager efforts are being made by the Servian army headquarters and the government has decided to publish reports only on alternate days. In addition, a rigorous censorship on the newspapers is being enforced.

The Servian wounded describe the battles as almost inhuman in their ferocity, the men throwing away their firearms and using their bayonets as daggers. This accords with the information from many sources of the sanguinary character of the fighting and the wholesale slaughter witnessed in the present struggle.

Powers Not Acting.

Whatever the policy of the European powers may be, little is now heard of attempts to stop the war. Meanwhile, Roumania and Turkey give signs that they will not long be idle spectators, and the Balkan states continue a struggle which will paralyze them for years to come.

News of the fighting continues contradictory in character. It is almost invariably from official sources in the respective capitals; no independent testimony is available. This applies equally to the struggle between the Greeks and the Bulgarians and between the Servians and Bulgarians.

Greeks Lost 130,000 Men.

Athens, Greece, July 8.—The Greek casualties since the beginning of fighting against the Bulgarians total 130,000 killed and wounded, according to official reports.

FARRELL PARTY BACK FROM RANGE

President of Steel Corporation Returns and Will Be Tendered Banquet.

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, returned this afternoon from a trip of inspection at Hibbing and Coleraine. The party arrived on a special train shortly before 2 o'clock. With Mr. Farrell were his brother, Walter Farrell, of Hartford, Conn., J. A. Hatfield, president of the American Bridge company, and J. R. Dunn, a big vessel owner of England, with their wives.

The Duluth men accompanying the visitors were W. J. Olcott, W. A. McGonagle and F. E. House.

After arriving here yesterday morning on the steamship J. A. Farrell, the party motored at once to the Union station, where they took a special train on the Northern Pacific that carried them to the big steel plant now being built at Gary. Most of the morning was spent there. Luncheon was had at the Spirit lake branch of the Duluth Boat club. In the afternoon the party started for Hibbing on a special train over the Missabe. President Farrell spent the afternoon there and this morning the party visited Coleraine, inspecting the concentrating plant there.

President Farrell and his friends will be tendered a dinner at the country club this evening. Covers will be laid for forty-eight and the guests will occupy four tables.

MEN ARE RULED BY MYSTERY

Women Should Always Be a Puzzle to Their Lords.

Zoe H. Beckley in the New York Evening Mail: Zoe Anderson Norris, editor and magazine writer, who elects to live on the East side among push-cart people, holds a brief for woman's mystery.

"Woman is almost as great a mystery to herself and to other women as she is to man," she said. "But men are the greater offenders, for they are often brutal in their lack of comprehension. The woman alone in New York has her every motive misinterpreted. Her whole life is misinterpreted.

"What keeps man from understanding woman?

"His egotism. He wants her to be a child, below him in intellect, without the same pride, without the same high instincts. He will not understand that she is possessed of these things.

"He will break her heart, then return, perhaps years after, and expect her to forgive all and take him back. He cannot understand that she is a tightly-strung instrument, the strings of which, once broken, can never be mended.

"Very few men comprehend music and poetry. How, then, could they understand women? Women's mental workings are chords composed of many notes, and their emotions and ambitions are like poems, which the prose reading man can never decipher.

"But our work and our modern revealing clothes are removing our mystery. Who can remain inscrutable to men when she has on a fashionable gown which advertises her every physical asset? No one can for long. We women should not reveal. We should shroud and cover body, soul and mind. For man loves only to be fooled.

"The really wise woman is she who remains a puzzzle. She must learn to defend herself against man's blunderings, but she must cling to her mystery as the Turkish woman clings to her yells.

"It takes a clever woman to live a score of years with a husband and keep him mystified. But most successful marriages are due to women's cleverness.

"Let woman cultivate the mystery. Mystery breeds interest; interest breeds love—and you know what makes the world go round."

Christian Science Monitor: The Danube is a very golden river and not a blue one, as Strauss' waltz leads us to expect. From the old bridge of Ratisbon it appears as a rushing yellow torrent. At Passau, where the Danube, the Inn and the Ilz meet, the different colors of the three rivers do not quite mingle, and can be distinguished for some distance after the streams have joined.

ORDER FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION—
State of Minnesota,
County of St. Louis—ss.
In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of John Oreskovich, decedent.

The petition of Peter Oreskovich having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that John Oreskovich, then being a resident of the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died intestate, at Ash Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of May, 1913; leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said petitioner is a creditor of the estate of said decedent, and praying that letters of administration of the estate of said decedent be granted to Peter Oreskovich.

It is ordered, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on the 30th day of July, 1913, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered further, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing, and by mailing a copy of this order to each heir and interested party at least fourteen days before the said date of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 8, 1913.
By the Court,
S. W. GILPIN, Judge of Probate.
Attest:
A. R. MARTIN, Clerk of Probate.
Seal, Probate Court, St. Louis Co., Minn.

MADAME GAIN BOUND OVER

Prisoner Is Released on $2,500 Cash Bail Being Deposited.

Arrested Saturday night in a raid on the Clifton hotel, 323 West First street, Madam Gain, well known character of the underworld, was yesterday afternoon bound over to the grand jury, following a preliminary examination on a charge of conducting a house of ill fame.

Judge Cutting fixed bail at $2,500 and the woman was released late in the afternoon, bail being deposited by August Le Fiohic, brother of the defendant, and Frank Frerker.

There was very little evidence introduced yesterday afternoon, with the exception of the testimony presented by Mrs. Beatrice Lowe, one of the women arrested in the raid, who appeared for the defense. She denied all the allegations made by Patrolman Axel Johnson, who introduced the most damaging evidence against the defendants, and Detectives Toewe and Bradley, who made the raid.

The Lowe woman, who was arragned yesterday morning on a charge of visiting a house of ill fame and who pleaded not guilty, was brought up for a hearing yesterday afternoon, following the disposition of the Gain case. It was agreed by Attorneys Goldberg and McCoy for the defense and the state to accept the testimony in her case, stipulation being made that the evidence or disposition should not be used in the trial of the Gain woman. The Lowe woman was then fined $50, without costs, or thirty days. On motion of her attorneys a stay of twenty days was granted and bail was fixed at $100.

The case of Mrs. Helen Servias, who was also arrested in the raid last Saturday night and who pleaded not guilty yesterday morning, was continued over until this afternoon. Her bail was fixed at $50.

FORMER WEALTHY MAN TAKES LIFE

Farmer Living Near Motley, Worrying Over Troubles, Kills Self.

Staples, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—James C. Nierborner, a farmer located near Motley, committed suicide on Monday, presumably on account of financial and family troubles. Neirborner was considered wealthy at one time and owned considerable property in this vicinity and near the village of Motley. High living and family troubles and later financial stress brought on despondency and a demented state of mind.

During the Fourth Nierborner drank freely, bringing on an unbalanced state of mind, which led to suicide. It is believed that practically all of his property has been squandered, and leaves nothing for the widow and children.

GOLF BALL ACID CAUSES BOY'S DEATH.

Chicago, July 8.—Acid used in the center of golf balls to give them resiliency was swallowed by Frank Wilbur Perry, aged 12, with fatal results. The boy died from hemorrhages of the lungs.

Last Tuesday young Perry found an old golf ball and broke it open. He found within a small sack which he put in his mouth. The sack burst and the acid it contained ran down his throat and windpipe.

SALE OF TORPEDO TO ENGLAND ENJOINED.

New York, July 8.—The United States government has been granted a preliminary injunction by Federal Judge Veeder restraining the E. W. Bliss company from selling the Bliss-Leavitt torpedo in England. The government contends that when the torpedo was assigned to the government by its inventor, G. C. Davison, from whom the Bliss company bought the right to manufacture it, selling the torpedo abroad was forbidden under the contract. Arguments to make the injunction permanent will be heard some time in the fall.

POLICE SEEK MISSING MAN.

In yesterday's issue of the police bulletin a request was made for the location of Carl Christian Carlson, who is missing from his home here in Duluth. The following description is given of him in the bulletin: "Carl Christian Carlson. Left here for Virginia, Minn., where he worked in a sawmill until five weeks ago, at which time he is supposed to have gone, in company with another man, to Minneapolis. Description: Age, 24; height, about 6 feet; brownish complexion, blue eyes, dark brown hair, scar on third finger of right hand, tattoo mark "A. K." on arm. Picture at station."

ANOTHER CHARGE MADE.

Grand Forks Man Alleged Also to Have Taken Jewelry.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charges that C. J. Vollmer made away with about $1,200 worth of diamonds and other valuables belonging to Max Rabinovich of this city are lodged by the latter in a warrant issued today. Vollmer is under arrest charged with removing mortgaged property from the state at Vancouver, B. C., together with Isadore Droskins and Dan Magee, and officials will bring them back the latter part of the week.

In addition to the new charge another warrant has been lodged against Droskins, also charging grand larceny, with Rabinovich as the plaintiff.

Start County Seat Fight.

Stanley, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Petitions are being circulated in Mountrail county asking that the question of removing the county seat from Stanley to Palermo be submitted at a special election. That the attempt to bring about another election on the location of the county seat will bring on a long bitter war in the courts is practically certain, as it is generally believed that the board of county commissioners will refuse to act on the petition, which will result in the matter being taken to the courts.

M. & C. RAILWAY AFTER FRANCHISE

George Reid Appears Before Brainerd Council Asking for Concession.

Brainerd, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Reid of Duluth, president of the Minnesota Central Railway company, appeared before the city council last evening and outlined the terms of the franchise which the company desired. "The Minnesota Central Railway company is seeking a franchise to build a street railway in Brainerd upon terms that will be fair to both the city and company," Mr. Reid said. "We will ask your honorable body for a franchise for a period of thirty years, at the expiration of which time, or any succeeding year thereafter, the city may take over the lines in Brainerd at their appraised value, giving the company the right in perpetuity to use the city's tracks to reach the center of the city with interurban lines, the company to divide the cost of upkeep of the tracks over which it would run with the city.

To Decide Route Later.

"We will ask for a franchise simply to build the line in Brainerd, leaving the matter of routes for future consideration. Under such a franchise as we seek, every block of the route laid out later would have to be submitted to your body for approval. Our purpose in asking for a franchise upon these terms is to divide whatever benefits may be derived from outlying additions to Brainerd between Brainerd and our company, instead of giving large profits to a few real estate speculators.

"Ours is not a local public service corporation, and would, therefore, not be subject to the state laws governing public ownership of public utilities. Without consulting counsel, I should say that you have the right to grant the franchise upon the general terms outlined, which, of course, are subject to amendment as we may agree."

The council listened with attention to Mr. Reid and the matter was referred to M. E. Ryan, city attorney, to examine the legal status of the proposition made for a franchise; Mr. Reid to meet Mr. Ryan Tuesday afternoon.

Public interest is growing in the street railway proposition and the range towns desired to be connected with the system all favor the Uproposition of a range electric line. Mr. Reid will meet with the council next Monday evening.

LIGHTNING HITS COOP; 100 CHICKENS UNHURT.

Williston, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One hundred chickens in a coop from which lightning knocked an entire side, were not in the least affected by the bolt. The chickens were found by their owner, a few minutes afterwards, quietly perched in their usual places, enjoying their night sleep. The affair happened at the farm of Jens Casper, several miles from here.

FATALLY BURNED.

Mrs. Dufley, Formerly of Grand Forks, Loses Her Life.

International Falls, Minn., July 8.—Mrs. F. J. Dudley who came here several years ago from Grand Forks, N. D., with her husband died from injuries received last Thursday when she was burned while cooking on a gasoline stove. She was alone at the time and when found was rolling in the grass near the house in an effort to extinguish the flames in her clothes. She was taken to the Northern Minnesota hospital immediately by Dr. G. F. Swinnerton, where all human aid possible was given, but her burns covered too great an area and were too deep for her to live.

A husband and four children survive.

Wisconsin Murder.

Shawano, Wis., July 8.—Edward Fowler is dead and Thomas Hammer is in the county jail charged with murder as a result of a saloon brawl at Morgan Siding near here on Saturday night.

Hammer is said to have attacked Fowler following a discussion over a fight between two Indians. Fowler was stabbed four times, once each in the neck and lung and twice in the abdomen.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION —OF— MARCY SPARK PLUG COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together and adopt the following Articles for the purpose of forming a corporation under and pursuant to the Laws of the State of Minnesota:

FIRST.

The name of this corporation shall be "Marcy Spark Plug Company."

SECOND.

The general nature of the business to be carried on by this corporation shall be that of manufacturing and selling all kinds and varieties of mechanical appliances, instruments and machines, and any and all processes and products incidental thereto, and particularly the manufacture and sale of mechanical spark plugs for gas engines.

THIRD.

The place of the principal office of this corporation shall be in Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota.

FOURTH.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this association of incorporation shall be as follows, to-wit:

James H. Marcy, residing in Duluth, Minnesota.

George S. Munsey, residing in Duluth, Minnesota.

Milan L. Stott, residing in Duluth, Minnesota.

Burns T. Butler, residing in Duluth, Minnesota.

And said persons shall constitute and serve as the first Board of Directors until the first annual meeting of the stockholders and until their successors shall be elected.

FIFTH.

The government and management of said corporation and of all its affairs shall be vested in a Board of four Directors, as above specified, and until their successors shall be elected. On the third Thursday of July, 1913, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon (and annually thereafter), a stockholders' meeting shall be held, at which meeting or adjourned meeting thereof a board of four Directors shall be elected from the stockholders, who shall thereafter constitute and serve in the place and stead of the the first Board, as a board consisting of four Directors, and shall serve as such Directors to govern and manage all of the affairs of the corporation without any subsequent election of the Directors, except in cases of vacancy occurring therein by death or resignation; said Directors shall fill all vacancies in the Board from stockholders by election at any regular meeting of said Board, as fixed by the By-Laws, and such vacancy shall not be otherwise filled. The Board of Directors shall immediately after final adjournment of the annual meeting of the stockholders, as hereinbefore specified, hold a regular meeting, at which meeting said Directors shall elect from their number four officers, to-wit: a President, a Vice President, a Secretary and a Treasurer. The offices of Secretary and Treasurer may be held by the same person. An executive committee, consisting of three directors, shall, at the said meeting of the Board held immediately following said meeting of the stockholders, be selected by said Board, and they shall thereafter serve as such executive committee. Vacancies occurring therein by death or resignation may be filled only by the Board at a regular meeting thereof. They shall have charge of such affairs connected with the Company as shall be designated in the By-Laws first adopted, and to be approved by the Board of Directors, meaning either the first or second Board. The Board of Directors shall provide for and fix the compensation to be paid the Directors, Officers and Executive Committee of the Company. By-Laws shall be adopted by either the first or second Board of Directors above described, at said meeting on the 17th day of July, 1913, or thereafter, if deemed advisable by either of said Boards.

SIXTH.

The amount of the capital stock of this Corporation shall be Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars, divided into five thousand (5,000) shares of the par value of Ten ($10.00) Dollars each. The capital stock shall be paid either in cash or property acceptable to the Board of Directors, and in such amounts and at such times as the Board of Directors shall determine and designate.

SEVENTH.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subjected shall be Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000) Dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this 2nd day of July, 1913.

GRAIN AGAIN HAS DECLINE

Only July Wheat Has Gain, Other Options Falling Off.

Bunch of Flax Dumped on Market Pulls That Seed Down.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 8.—All wheat declined except July option, which is practically cash wheat now because of the nearness of the day of settlement. It gained ¼c. September lost 5⅛c, July durum ⅝c and September durum ½c. Cash wheat closed 1c under September.

Oats fell off 1½c, rye closed ½c up; corn ⅛c off and barley 3c under last Thursday.

September puts, 90⅝@90¾c; calls, 91⅜c.

The continuation of favorable weather reports and the consequent feeling of easiness has caused a continuation of weakness in the wheat market this morning. The fact that the government's monthly crop report will be out tomorrow, prevents any rash action either way today, for all are waiting to see what the tone of the report will be. The experts profess to feel that the report will be bullish, while others, admitting that it may not show as great prospects as earlier in the year, believe it will be bearish as viewed from the standpoint of the adverse reports received for so long a time. At any rate the closeness of the report prevents any fireworks today.

July wheat is not very active, September occupying the center of attention, and being the base of the cash wheat price now. July is holding steady at around the closing price of yesterday, September opened ⅜c high, through a misquotation from the Minneapolis market, the quotation being 1c higher than it should be. The Duluth price at once arose another ¼c, but when the mistake was found out a drastic drop took place, a fall of ½c from yesterday being scored in a few minutes. The price continued around that level until toward the end. July durum is ⅛c off and there is no activity in September.

Trouble in Flax Prices.

A good deal of July flax was dumped onto the market today and caused a general decline, as there was less disposition to buy than there was to sell. Cash flax changed its base from July to September today, and closed 2c under the latter option. July flax closed at a loss of 2¾c. September dropped 1⅛c and October fell off 1½c.

THE MARKET GOSSIP.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—"Spotted" is the word which most accurately describes the crop conditions in North Dakota. Not in years have the conditions been more widely different in the same localities. There are fields giving promise of splendid yields, while the adjoining one looks hopeless. People who have toured the state insist that from speeding autos one can easily tell where proper methods of cultivation have been used, while other fields clearly indicate the lack of them.

Not to exceed a two-thirds crop can be anticipated under the most favorable conditions from now till harvest, and a general estimate of half a crop is probably more nearly correct.

The late wheat, barley and oats look fine, and with a sufficient amount of moisture from now on and a late growing fall without frost, a great deal more small grain may be developed than at present seems possible.

Winter rye is almost universally a good crop. In some cases it is practically ready for harvest, and cutting will be general within a week. Winter wheat is also ripening, though less rapidly. The complaint of a poor stand is general. Corn is looking fine and rapidly gaining ground lost by cool weather earlier in the season, and the potato crop conditions are ideal.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—Thomas Cooper, secretary of the Better Farming association, who has covered the western and northwestern part of this state, says the crop is very thin and backward, and beyond recovery; there are some good looking fields, but the average is poor. He says it looks like a light crop for North Dakota, much lighter than has been figured on. The crop is showing some improvement in the valley since the rains, but is thin, and there are lots of wild oats and weeds.

B. W. Snow wires: "My reports for the past three days are beginning to reflect some apprehension of dry weather damage to corn. There are sections in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, where local showers have been very frequent where the corn is getting far enough forward to suffer from continued dry weather. Up to this time the drouth damage to corn, except in limited districts in Illinois is a negligible factor but the crop is now approaching a critical stage of development over a wide area and general moisture is required to prevent deterioration."

G. M. LeCount wires from Watertown, S. D.: "Wheat continues to improve but the crop is very spotted and straw is generally short. Plant mostly in blossom stage now and has a very critical period to pass through yet. I think with favorable weather to maturity the hill country lying north and west from here will raise a good half crop. The government report should be bullish for a large portion of North Dakota is in the same condition though North Dakota has a lot of good wheat and the state will average better than South Dakota. Weather favorable."

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain receipts at Minneapolis to date total 190,244,370 bu, compared with 130,998,630 bu, for the same period in 1912, an increase of 59,745,740. According to Edward S. Hughes, assistant secretary of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, the receipts so far this year surpass any other complete year in the history of the Minneapolis grain trade.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Weaker on Liberal Country Dealing.

Chicago, July 8.—Wheat developed fresh weakness today on account of liberal country acceptances of bids for the new crop. Bullish foreign conditions were ignored. Prominent houses led the selling and there was only a scattered demand. Opening figures varied from ⅜c decline to a shade advance. September which started at 89⅛c to 89½c, ranging from ⅛@⅜c off to a sixteenth up, fell to 89c.

Although corn dipped with wheat, the market leaned to the bull side on account of expected falling off in receipts. September opened a shade to ⅛c higher at 61⅞@62 to 62c and swung between 61½@61⅝c and 62⅛@62¾c.

Opinions that widespread rains would be needed soon prevented any serious decline. The close was steady at 61⅞c for September, the same as last night.

Liberal offerings and poor demand let oats sag. September started a sixteenth lower to a like amount up at 42c to 42⅛c, dropped to 41⅜c and recovered to 42c.

An advance at the yards strengthened provisions. First sales were 2½c to ⅓c higher with September $21.05 to $21.07½ for pork. $11.72½@11.75 to $11.75 for lard, and $11.92½@11.95 to $11.95 for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 8.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 1 point and sold about net unchanged to 4 points higher during the early trading. Business was comparatively quiet, but there seemed to be some scattering demand on larger Liverpool spot sales, apprehensions of still higher temperatures in the eastern belt, and rather more favorable English trade advices. Offerings were light, but the demand was quite readily supplied on the advance and subsequent fluctuations were more or less irregular.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 12.05; August, 12.06; September, 11.57; October, 11.37; November, 11.30; December, 11.33; January, 11.27; February, 11.29; March, 11.37; May, 11.39.

New York Money.

New York, July 8.—Money on call, steady, 2 to 2½ per cent; last loan, 2½; closing bid, 2; offered at 2½. Time loans irregular; sixty days, 2¾@3 per cent, and ninety days, 4@4½; six months, 5½@6.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.25 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86.85 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.82¾. Bar silver, 58½c; Mexican dollars, 48c. Government bonds, heavy; railroad bonds, irregular.

Swiss chocolate exports last year were 15,000,000 pounds, against 12,800,000 pounds in 1911 and 10,800,000 pounds in 1910.

STOCKS HEAVY AT THE CLOSE

Barely Perceptible Downward Movement Marks Late Trading.

Neither Bulls Nor Bears Get Much Encouragement in Session.

New York, July 8.—Resumption of selling on the stock market met with a degree of success for a time today, but bear traders began to cover when it became evident their efforts were not provoking general selling. The market rose as easily as it had declined in the early trading, and before noon a full recovery was made. Speculative sentiment continued to favor the short side, some concern being expressed over the disturbance in Europe and the possibility of renewed foreign liquidation. Favorable influence such as satisfactory crop news and the expectation of an unusually good showing in the government's forthcoming report were ignored.

Bonds irregular.

Stocks moved in a hesitating way at the opening of the market today. There were some large transactions in Reading and Steel, but otherwise trading was light. The majority of the active sales began today fractionally under yesterday's close, with the more noticeable heaviness in Union Pacific, which declined nearly a point.

Although there was an undercurrent of heaviness in the early trading, values did not suffer much. Bear selling of Union Pacific was unopposed, but support was noticeable in other stocks that succumbed in yesterday's forced selling. Eastern railroad shares reflected uneasiness over the labor problem. The whole list afterward developed a better tone when professional selling let up.

Renewed heaviness in stocks was produced by the breaking off of negotiations between the trainmen and managers of the Eastern railroads in their efforts to effect an agreement on wage schedules. A further engagement of $2,000,000 to Paris facilitated the reaction, which brought back the list to near the lowest of the morning.

Efforts to bring about a sustained movement either way were abandoned when tentative selling or buying orders failed to alter prices much. Bears were disposed to sell stocks, but limited their offerings owing to when they desired to cover. In consequence the general movement was of little significance, although prices all around were somewhat under yesterday's finals.

The market closed heavy. Whatever perceptible movement there was in the late drift of prices was downward, although not enough stock changed hands to move the list more than ¼ or so. Union Pacific declined more readily than other issues, falling to the lowest of the session. Reading, Amalgamated and Canadian Pacific also loomed up more prominently.

SHE BROKE IT GENTLY.

Fun: It was only a short time after Lulu McStubbins was married that the startling truth was forced upon her that her young husband was not exactly a teetotaller. One evening a few weeks after the wedding that strict old cold water crank, Papa McStubbins, dropped in to call. He found his daughter all alone. After a while he asked:

"Where is Christopher?"

"Well, the fact is, Christopher isn't feeling very well this evening."

"Is that so? What seems to be the matter?"

"Well—er—the fact is—er—Christopher is suffering from a bad attack of—of—propinquity."

"Propinquity—propinquity," repeated the puzzled old gentleman. "That's a disease I never heard of. I guess you must be mistaken, daughter."

"Oh, no, father. Let me explain. Propinquity means nearness, doesn't it?"

"I guess so."

"And to be near is to be close, isn't it?"

"Em—yes—yes."

"And when we speak of a man as being close we mean that he is stingy, don't we?"

"Sure."

"And when a man is stingy we call him tight, don't we?"

"I believe so."

"Well," she concluded with a sigh, "that's what's the matter with Christopher."

BIG CAKE.

Indianapolis News: A confectioner in Peckham Rye, Eng., made a cake which weighed one and a quarter tons, or 2,800 pounds. The cake was not baked in one piece. It was built up of large wedges of cake, each baked separately, and they were built in eleven tiers on the plan of a bridal cake. It occupied six men for a whole baker's day to build the cake and put the sugar icing around it. To make it and bake it five men were busily employed for four days. The almond paste around the cake weighed 800 pounds, and the sugar coating or icing weighed 2,000.

SUGAR LOBBYIST SAYS HE WAS PAID $30 A DAY FOR WASHINGTON WORK

A. D. Baldwin of Cleveland Testifies Before the Senators.

Farmers' Union Men Also Are Called as Witnesses.

Lamar and Lauterbach Are Excused Until Further Notice.

Washington, July 9.—A. D. Baldwin, a Cleveland attorney, before the senate lobby committee today testified that in Washington talking to congressmen about the sugar tariff, he represented Alexander Baldwin of New York and received $30 a day.

A. S. Smith of Tennille, Ga., president of the state branch of the Farmers' union, was questioned about a meeting of a committee of the National Farmers' union at New Orleans last spring, at which a scheme to increase the consumption of cotton was to be discussed. He testified that his expenses there were paid by R. D. Bowen, president of the Texas branch of the union. President Barrett of the national organization was not present.

Men Who Want Something.

H. H. Mobley of Prairie Grove, Ark., president of the state Farmers' union, said he was at the New Orleans meeting called by Bowen. He signed a telegram to the Arkansas senators at Bowen's dictation, asking for a hearing for Arkansas cotton interests.

"I'm slow to make accusations," said Mobley, "but I have come to know that at all our meetings, state and national, we are surrounded by men who want us to do something for their interests."

RAILROAD MEN TALK ABOUT STRIKE VOTE

No Announcement Likely Until Saturday's Meeting.

New York, July 9.—Preliminary to a general meeting of the so-called "committee of 1,000" on Saturday, at which the strike vote recently taken will be ratified, minor committees of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors held a conference in New York today to discuss the situation relative to the wage dispute with forty-five Eastern railroads.

Negotiations with the roads were practically broken off yesterday with the refusal of the managers' committee to consider the men's demands for a 20 per cent wage increase, and the situation was further complicated by the withdrawal from the proceedings of the Erie railroad and subsidiaries on the ground that they could not afford to be party to any conferences looking to wage increases.

President Garretson of the conductors said today that there was little new in the situation, and that the unions probably would have nothing to announce until after Saturday's meeting.

GOVERNORS' DAY AT PERRY CELEBRATION

School Children and Suffragists Parade Through Erie Streets.

Erie, Pa., July 9.—This was Governors' day at the Erie centennial celebration of Perry's victory at Put-in-Bay. Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, who arrived last night from Rochester, N. Y., inspected the encampment of the Second Brigade, N. G. P. The brigade, under Gen. Albert J. Logan of Pittsburg, paraded through the gaily decorated streets and the governor and Senators Boies Penrose and George T. Oliver addressed the immense crowd assembled in Perry square. Early in the day Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart of Pennsylvania, accompanied by eighteen officers of the governor's staff, arrived in a special train from Harrisburg and were taken to Camp Gridley where the brigade is encamped.

Through streets thronged by cheering thousands, school children and advocates of woman's suffrage yesterday afternoon marched in procession as the principal event of the third day of the celebration.

In the children's pageant several thousands of the little ones trudged bravely over the long route, drawing beautifully designed floats, which told the story of events of historical interest.

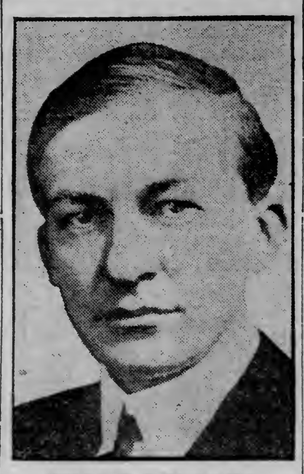

Following the yellow and white banner of the Pennsylvania Equal Suffrage association, several hundred women from a dozen or more states marched through the streets after the children's parade.

THOUSANDS ARRIVE FOR Y. P. S. C. E. MEET.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 9.—Following the arrival of the New England special this morning, thirteen special trains were scheduled to reach Los Angeles today, bringing an aggregate of 10,000 delegates to the twenty-sixth annual Christian Endeavor convention, which will begin tonight.

Among the 600 more passengers on the "New England special" was Francis E. Clark, founder and president of the Christian Endeavor society.

IS OPERATED ON FOR APPENDICITIS

WILLIAM F. McCOMBS.

Paris, July 9.—The condition today of William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is declared most satisfactory by the surgeon in attendance. His progress toward recovery from the operation for appendicitis here yesterday is said to be perfectly normal, but in view of his delicate constitution, it was stated that he will require several weeks of complete rest before he is able to get about.

CHECKING UP TARIFF BILL

Senate Sub-Committees Take Last Scrutiny at the Measure.

Simmons Obtains Advance Copy of Minority Criticisms.

Washington, July 9.—Senate finance subcommittees continued today checking up of the schedules of the tariff bill. Chairman Simmons hoped to have it ready for the printer tonight and to call a meeting of the entire committee tomorrow. If possible the bill will be reported to the senate late Thursday. Debate, however, probably will not begin until next week.

Senator Simmons turned a trick on Republican leaders yesterday when he got his hands on a lengthy analysis of the Democratic tariff bill which had been prepared under the direction of Senator Smoot, pointing out what the Republicans claim are serious defects in the measure.

Had Held It Back.

Senator Smoot had delayed for a month the introduction of the analysis, despite insistence of Senator Simmons that it be printed. On the last day of the caucus, when the Republicans were assured that the Democrats were through the bill, Senator Smoot consented to send the document in for the printer. But the Democrats have not yet printed their bill, and have a day or two to make corrections and laugh at their opponents, inasmuch as debate will not begin until next week.

Knowing that the Republican document might contain valuable pointers, Senator Simmons directed the finance sub-committees to go over their schedules, and he studied over the Smoot analysis to check up with the sub-committee today. Senator Simmons heard some weeks ago that Republican leaders had cautioned Senator Smoot to hold back the analysis. "Don't send it in yet," they urged. "It will give us away."

Mainly Argument.

The finance committee chairman determined to lay in wait for the document, and yesterday he pounced on it before it went to the printing office. He found the result of Senator Smoot's careful labors of a month, aided by a corps of experts and assistants. He said some of the analysis points out errors that could be corrected, but that much of the document was found to be argument.

APPEAL FROM BADGER EXPRESS RATE ORDER

Notice Is Served on Attorney General of Action to Come.

Madison, Wis., July 9.—Notice of an appeal to the Dane county circuit court to attempt to overturn the recent decision of the railroad commission in the reduction of express rate cases was served upon Attorney General Owen today. The notice asks for the setting aside of the order on the ground that the decision is confiscatory, and a temporary restraining order is asked for to deter the railroad commission from putting the order into effect.

Two weeks ago the express companies asked for a further length of time to compile their tariffs under the new decision. It was then anticipated that there would be no contest.

M'ADOO ASKS BANK PROBE

Will Request Department of Justice to Act at Pittsburg.

Kane Criticizes Murray's Authorization of Merger.

Washington, July 9.—Secretary McAdoo, before the close of the day, expects to ask Attorney General McReynolds to investigate alleged irregularities in connection with the closing of the First-Second National bank of Pittsburg, and determine whether the national bank act has been violated.

Sufficient facts have been collected by the treasury department, it is said, to warrant immediate intervention by the department of justice.

Criticizes Merger.

Thomas F. Kane, acting comptroller of the currency, who returned today from Pittsburg, where he closed the First-Second National bank, declared that the First National bank of that city should have been "cleaned up or closed up" at the time of its merger with the Second National bank several months ago. The merger was authorized by Lawrence O. Murray, former comptroller of the currency. At that time, Mr. Kane declared today, the First National's capital was badly impaired, and the bank was notified last December that its impaired capital must be restored.

The comptroller added that the condition of the bank had been long well known in banking circles in Pittsburg, New York and elsewhere.

"Cleared the Atmosphere."

"The closing of the bank clears the banking and financial atmosphere of Pittsburg. Outside of this institution the banking conditions there are excellent and there is no cause for any further anxiety," said Kane.

"The First National bank of McKeesport, which suspended a few hours after the First-Second National was closed, is arranging for resumption of business in a few days. The bank is in good condition and there was no reason why it should have closed other than because of the run that started by reason of the Kuhn connection with

TOLEDO WINS GRAIN RATE CONTROVERSY

Readjustment of Rates Ordered By Commerce Commission.

Washington, July 9.—A bitterly contested case, involving rates on grain and grain products from so-called "primary markets"—Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City and Toledo—to Eastern destinations, either for domestic use or for export, was decided by the interstate commerce commission today favorably to Toledo.

An order was issued, in the proceeding brought by the Toledo Produce exchange against most of the railroads operating in the Eastern territory, directing the carriers to establish through rates with transit at Toledo to cover the movement of grain and grain products by all reasonably direct routes to points in the East; to establish, in the relation of 78 from Toledo to 64 from Buffalo, domestic and export rates on ex-lake grain forwarded from Toledo to New York; and to adjust the export rates on grain and flour from Toledo to New York on a basis of 78 for Toledo to 60 for Buffalo.

Musicians and Coal Dealers Already Here—Bankers Are Coming.

Weather Man on His Best Behavior for Triple Celebration.

Unique Session of the Order Kokoal Will Be Held.

Duluth is in the hands of its visitors.

Two big conventions opened today and a third will be added tomorrow. For the remainder of the week Duluth's hospitality will be extended to over 1,000 guests.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Music Teachers' association opened at the Spalding this morning. The Northwestern Coal Dealers' association began a three days' convention this afternoon. Tomorrow the Minnesota State Bankers' association will open a two days' meeting.

The weather man is kind, for today dawned bright and fair and cool—but not too cool. Duluth is at its best as a show place. It is at its best as a refuge for heat-stricken inhabitants of interior cities. Fair weather is predicted for tomorrow, and even the weather man is hopeful that it will continue Friday and Saturday for the conventions and for the Lark o' the Lake.

There are about 200 in attendance at the Music Teachers' association meeting; about 300 are on hand for the meeting of the coal men, and the bankers are already arriving with promises that there will be fully 500 in attendance at their meeting. The hotels are crowded, meeting places are in demand and Duluth people are exerting themselves to provide entertainment for their guests.

The first session of the coal dealers' convention opened at the Commercial club this afternoon, Mayor W. I. Prince giving the address of welcome and W. F. Grosser of Salina, Kan., a member of the executive committee of the association, responding. The principal address of the session is by Dr. Stanley

GEN. RIVA IS DEAD OF BULLET WOUNDS

Cuban Chief of Police Succumbs to His Injuries.

Havana, Cuba, July 9.—General Armando Riva, chief of the Cuban National police, died today of wounds received Monday evening during a pistol fight on the Prado after he had raided a gambling club.

General Ernesto Asbert, governor of Havana province, Senator Vidal Morales and Representative Arias are under arrest awaiting trial in connection with the crime.

LARGEST NON-ROYAL LANDHOLDE[illegible] IN EUROPE

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND. (George Granville Sutherland.)

DUCHESS OF SUTHERLAND. (Formerly Lady Eileen Butler.)

London, July 9.—The new duke of Sutherland has already acceded to that title. His family name is Sutherland-Leveson-Gower and his given name is George Granville Sutherland. He succeeded to the title on the death of his father, June 26. Excepting the czar of Russia he is now the largest landowner in Europe, having 1,500,000 acres. He has served in the Seaforth Highlanders and the Scots Greys. He inherits in addition to this land three country houses in England and an estate in Alberta, Canada. He will no doubt visit this country in the not distant future to look over his property in the Northwest. His wife was Lady Eileen Butler, daughter of the earl of Lanesborough.

BULGARIA TELLS POWERS IT IS READY TO CONSIDER PEACE

Tremendous Losses Lead to Negotiations for an Armistice.

Epidemic of Cholera Has Broken Out Among Troops.

Vienna, Austria, July 9.—The Bulgarian government is reported to have sent a circular to the European powers expressing its readiness to negotiate for peace.

The Bulgarian and Servian commanders-in-chief are said here to be already negotiating an armistice, as the losses of both armies in killed and wounded are so immense, and it is feared that the epidemic of cholera which has broken out among the troops may get beyond control.

Turkey Would Mix In.

London, July 9.—The Daily Express publishes the rumor that Turkey has made an offer to Servia and Greece to establish an alliance against Bulgaria.

The Belgrade correspondent of the Daily News was stopped on his way to the front and ordered to leave for Servia. He declares that the Balkan people have become completely barbarous.

"Their hatred for the Turk," he says, "is nothing as compared with their hatred for each other."

Greeks Capture Town.

Belgrade, Servia, July 9.—The town of Seres, about forty-five miles northeast of Saloniki, was captured today from the Bulgarians by the Greek army, according to official dispatches received here. The Greek fleet is reported to be bombarding the seaport of Kavala, on the Aegean sea, now in the hands of the Bulgarians.

Priest Tells of Massacre.

Saloniki, July 9.—Father Michel, superior of the French Catholic mission at Kilkish, confirms reports of massacres committed in that district by Bulgarian irregulars. In one instance they burned to death 700 men belonging to Kurkut by imprisoning them in a mosque under which they exploded bombs, setting the building on fire. They had previously assembled the victims' wives and daughters to witness the spectacle.

Even more terrible scenes were enacted at Kilkish, Planitza and Raylovo, women also being burned to death.

Father Michel asserts that among the irregulars responsible for these atrocities were business and professional men and students from Sofia.

ST. PAUL MAY GET THE TEACHERS' MEETING

National Education Association Will Choose Officers Thursday.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 9.—One of the busiest days of the National Education association convention was scheduled for today, twenty-five department meetings being on the program and numerous committee meetings.

Tomorrow officers of the general organization will be elected. It was stated by supporters of President Joseph B. Swain of Swarthmore university that a majority of the nominating committee favored his candidacy. His leading opponent is President X. Z. Snyder of the Colorado State Normal school.

St. Paul as the meeting place in 1914 and Oakland in 1915, representatives of these two cities claim, will be the choice of the recommendation.

DISCRIMINATION IN COMMUTATION FOUND

Commerce Commission Decides New York-Connecticut Case.

Washington, July 9.—The interstate commerce commission decided today that the existing scale of commutation passenger fares from points in Connecticut to New York City was not unreasonable, generally, although certain stations were found to be unjustly discriminated against.

CABBAGES BLOCK ST. PAUL STREET.

Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to Herald.)—Cabbages tied up traffic downtown corner for nearly an last night. Forty-eight crates of ere dumped into the street when of a truck came off. Street ll directions were held up men secured another truck the cabbages.

NEW HAVEN METHODS ROU[illegible]LY DENOUNCED BY CO[illegible]MERCE COMMISSION

"Wasteful in the Extreme" Is Characterization of Financing.

Passenger Service Excels, Barring Considerations of Safety.

General Rules as to Legitimate Railway Activities Are Laid Down.

Washington, July 9. — Financial operations of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, its ownership of trolley lines and control of allied New England railways, are condemned by the interstate commerce commission in the report of its investigation, made public here today. The commission's conclusions are:

That the "outside" financial management has been "wasteful in the extreme," and that had the New Haven confined itself to actual railroad activities under the same conditions that prevailed in other respects, "it could have paid a dividend of 8 per cent for the fiscal year 1912, and carried to surplus account $1,794,000 instead of showing a deficit of $930,000.

Agreement With B. & A.

That the New Haven's agreement with the Boston & Albany is "violative of the spirit of the statute against the restraint of competition, and should be cancelled."

"In our opinion," says the commission, "this line should be kept entirely free from New Haven control."

That the New Haven should divest itself of its trolley lines, not because the present ownership is in violation of law, but because such ownership might be used to prevent the building of competing lines in the future.

That the Boston & Maine's merger with the New Haven, if permitted to stand, will result in "an almost exclusive monopoly of transportation facilities by railroads in the greater part of New England."

Lack Steel Cars.

That passenger train service, without considering safety of operation, on the New Haven, is distinctly better than any other line entering New York, and that of the Boston & Maine equally good. Both roads, however, are

MILLIONAIRES' SONS SLUGGED AND ROBBED

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9. — Choked and beaten into insensibility and bruised with a slungshot, robbed, and thrown from a fast-moving freight train on the Northwestern road early today, was the experience of two young men who claim to be sons of Chicago millionaire families.

Jack Leddy, 21 years old, 2516 North Cambridge avenue, who claims to be the son of a retired real estate broker, and Stanley Plisschke, 20 years old, 2418 North Artesian street, who says he is the son of a retired contractor, both of Chicago, are the victims of the alleged assault.

According to the young men they boarded the freight train at Mayfair, near Chicago, and intended to "bum" their way to Antigo, Wis., where Leddy says he has an aunt. Just before the train reached New Butler, near here, two men attacked the Chicagoans, beat and robbed them of nearly $100, then hurled them from the train into the ditch, where both lay unconscious.

The police today arrested two brakemen, John Doan, 24 years old, and Max R. Whitney, 25 years old, and charged them with the assault.

SEVERAL REPORTED KILLED IN STORM

Damage of Over $125,000 Done in Northern Illinois.

Aurora, Ill., July 9.—Several lives were lost, houses set afire, cities were left in darkness and hundreds of farm buildings were flattened by the tail end of the Northern Illinois gale which swept across this section of the country late yesterday afternoon. News of the havoc left in the wake of the storm began to creep into Aurora today over crippled telephone wires.

The dead include:

DAVID B. FRAZIER, traveling salesman, Geneva, touched live power wire blown over house.

RICHARD WALLENBERG, farmer, killed at Bristol when a wagon blew over upon him.

The injured:

Percy Ream, 20 years old, St. Charles; skull fractured by a flying tree; will die.

Mrs. Frazier, wife of the man killed at Geneva, badly burned about hands and arms attempting to rescue husband.

City in Darkness.

The city of Batavia was in darkness last night and only part of the circuits were working in Geneva and St. Charles. Streetcar service still was crippled in Elgin today, and the city was practically cut off from the world, with telephone wires down. One man was killed at Elgin during the storm and $100,000 damage done to buildings.

The storm unroofed several Aurora houses and stopped street cars for a short time, but the damage here is not over $10,000. The loss in the surrounding country is put at $125,000 as many head of stock were lost in falling barns.

THESE ARE THE BUSY DAYS.

SELL ROCK TO UNCLE SAM

About 10,000 Tons Will Be Removed Without Cost.

Commissioner Roderick Murchison, head of the works divisions, has completed all but minor details of plans which will cut away a big slice of the Point of Rocks near Thirteenth avenue west without expense to the city or the property owners.

The commissioner has made arrangements with the government to use a large quantity of the rock for its work in the Superior entry. Uncle Sam's engineers have not agreed to take any definite amount of the rock but it is hoped that not less than 10,000 tons will be removed in that way from the cliff this summer. Some 10,000 tons will made a hole in the hill which will go more than a little ways towards helping the city solve a problem with which it has been contronted for years. At the last session of the legislature the city was authorized to issue $50,000 of bonds for the purpose of cutting through Superior street, but a few more chunks like that taken away will eliminate the necessity of realizing on the bonds.

Capt. Peake, local government engineer, has agreed to pay the city 75 cents per ton for the rock. The city will deliver it to the N. P. dock near the foot of Seventh avenue west, where it will be loaded on the government scow, about 300 tons to the load. All the stone will be in the form of huge boulders. These will be loaded on Soo flat cars on the track just across Michigan street from the place the stone will be removed. Thence they will be switched over to the N. P. dock, which the city has obtained permission to use. Work has already been started on the erection of the derricks and the installation of the equipment for getting out and loading the rock.

Commissioner Murchison has had the co-operation of Commissioner Hicken in arranging for the work which will cut down the obstructing, unsightly cliff. They have gone over the ground carefully together and are satisfied that the city will not lose any money on the deal. In fact, they hope to make a little. In any event, the opportunity is too good to miss even should it cost the city something, which is not probable.

SHORTAGE OF STEEL.

Again Halts Work on Niobe Extension of Great Northern.

Bowbells, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Steel laying operations on the Niobe extension of the Great Northern have been suspended again because of a shortage of steel. Only sufficient steel was secured to lay the line here and to lay several sidings here. Carpenters have completed the depot, and it is expected that trains will be operating very soon, as it is but a comparatively short distance from the present terminal of the line. The extension is being laid to North Southgate to meet the Grand Trunk railroad.

ROAD HAULS GRAVEL.

Omaha Railroad Operating Steam Shovel at Couderay Pit.

Couderay, Wis., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Omaha Railroad company has opened its gravel pit here for the summer. A large steam shovel was put to work and about 10,000 cars of gravel will be hauled out for ballast on the Northern division. The pit will be in operation for about three months and will furnish employment for about 100 men.

MELLEN QUITS BOSTON & MAINE.

New York, July 9.—Charles S. Mellen has resigned the presidency of the Boston & Maine railroad, according to announcement made at New York, New Haven & Hartford offices here. The reason given for his retirement was that he desired to devote his entire time to his position as president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Morris McDonald, vice president and general manager of the Maine Central railroad, a subsidiary of the Boston & Maine, will succeed Mr. Mellen, it was announced.

CIGAR MAKERS PLAN ACTION

A meeting of cigar manufacturers and the members of the cigar makers' union was held last evening in the hall at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street, and the recently adopted liquor ordinance was discussed. The meeting was held in secret, and as no newspaper representatives were admitted, only that which the officers of the union cared to give out was obtained.

It is announced today that, while the question of resorting to a referendum in the matter of the ordinance was discussed, no action was taken. All present realized that a conservative course was best, and the only thing besides a general discussion that resulted from the meeting was the appointment of a committee to interview the retail cigar dealers as to the best course to pursue, and to find out the sentiment in regard to a referendum.

It is claimed that cigar manufacturers have been injured by the ousting of certain saloon men, and the prospective ousting of many cigar stores promises irretrievable injury. The result is that they are curtailing their output and letting cigar makers go. A considerable number of these are said to be out of employment as a result.

TEN ATTORNEYS SIT IN ONE CASE

Ten attorneys are sitting in a case which came on for trial this morning before Judge Ensign, an action in which Mathew M. Gasser is seeking to have certain parcels of land between Tower and Ely of which he is a joint owner, sold and the money divided among the several owners.

The other owners, and those claiming interest in the projerty are William M. Spalding, Electa W. Spalding, Jessie O. Spalding, Herman Nonnemacher, Fred Vogel, Jr., Merchants Investment company, R. B. Whiteside, Patrick H. Rahilly, Higgins Land company, Peter Grasser and Robert A. Jones.

A number of the defendants are represented in court by their attorneys. John B. Arnold is appearing for Mr. Gasser, and among the other attorneys are John A. Keyes, Bert W. Forbes, Alfred Jaques, Crassweller, Crassweller & Blu, W. S. Telford and Marion Douglas.

The land consists of 457.54 acres, and the share claimed by Mr. Gasser is described as follows: Undivided one-fifth of lots 3, 4 and 5, and the southeast quarter of section 6, 62-13; undivided one-third of lots 6 and 7 and northwest quarter of section 7, 62-13, and undivided one-third of the southeast quarter of section 35, 62-14. The property is veiued at $5 an acre by the plaintiff.

The litigation involves a number of tax title claims, and a mass of documentary evidence will be offered by the various litigants in support of their claims.

POLICIES ON FILE AT THE CITY HALL

All insurance policies for public buildings have been filed with Mayor Prince and are being entered in a specially prepared ledger by Secretary J. H. Trux. They are being entered under two classifications. One shows all the policies carried on each building. The other shows the insurance which is placed with each individual agency.

In this way it is possible to ascertain at a glance how much insurance is carried on any building and the companies who are carrying the liability. In the same manner the amounts placed with the various local agencies can be readily compared for the purpose of determining whether or not it is equitably distributed.

Henceforth all the policies will be filed in the vaults of the city hall, where they are quickly available and at the same time insured against fire or loss through other channels. Other valuable documents and papers are to be kept in the same way, a change from the past policy of having them [illegible] through all departments. The auditor will be their custodian.

Hanna as Fair Speaker.

Hamilton, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor L. B. Hanna will speak at the Pembina county fair here July 29 to 31. The Pembina county event this year probably will be the best that has ever been held by the association, as an usually fine string of attractions have been secured.

HANDS ROAST TO WEBSTER

Mayor Says Threats Against Railroad Officials Are "Foolishness."

Mayor W. I. Prince has not the warmest praise for the policy which has been pursued by Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, relative to the union station.

The mayor characterizes the threats of the health director to close the station and his suggestions to hold up franchises for crossings or spurs until the station is improved as "foolishness.' He declares that to attempt such action would be like cutting off one's nose to spite his face.

"The administration should endeavor to work in harmony with the local railroad officials rather than antagonize them," said the mayor. "The benefits to be derived from such a policy are mutual. Who would be the chief sufferer were the union station closed? Would it not be our own citizens and the traveling public? Who is getting the benefit of the spurs which are being allowed in the western part of the city? One is to give a box factory better railroad facilities and incidentally it aids the establishment of a bolt factory, an entirely new industry, both of which help upbuild the city. The other is a slight alteration at the foot of Ramsey street to enable the Northern Pacific to give service to the big new dock of the Berwind Fuel company, a $1,000,000 proposition. Who would be injured if we held up franchises of that character?"

Mayor Prince announced this morning that the union station is to be improved. He said that he has had several conferences with Supt. Brown and his assistants and that they have evinced every desire to co-operate with the city. The mayor pointed out that they are not supplied with unlimited funds for improvements and that considerable negotiating has been necessary to get the improvement as far as it has gone.

The entire roof of the train shed will be screened with heavy copper wire. The ventilators will be inclosed and all broken glass will be replaced. This will eliminate the worst nuisance, the pigeons, which now roost by the thousands among the rafters. The mayor said this morning that the work will probably not cost less than $5,000 before it is finished. Referring to the lavatories the mayor explained he had gone through them with railroad officials and had not found them in such terrible condition, considering their uses. He did not visit the express offices so did not know their condition, but taking the station as a whole he asserted that it is not in bad shape. Incidentally he mentioned that he had made his investigation previous to the recent complaints, precluding the possibility that a sudden spasm of housecleaning had resulted in the last few days.

HOPES HE NEVER SEES JUDGE AGAIN.

"So long, Judge, I hope I never see you again."

With the above salutation Ben Sanderson paid his fine of $1 and costs for having been drunk last evening and departed.

And Judge Cutting, who had imposed the fine, greeted Sanderson with a smile and replied, "I hope you don't."

Sanderson is a laborer on the steamer American and was found drunk on Lake avenue last evening. He was unable to tell what had happened, nor did he remember that he had been arrested. Patrolman Howard made the arrest.

RULES BULL MOOSE OFF PRIMARY BALLOT

Madison, Wis., July 9. — Attorney General Owen today advised in an unofficial opinion that the national Progressive party is not entitled to have a party column on the ballot, but may have a separate party ticket for state and national officers in the primary. The reasoning upon which this view depends is the fact that the party did not have a candidate for governor last fall.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," says the opinion, "that the Progressive party, so-called, did not have a candidate for governor at the last general election, either as a party in a party column on the official ballot, or as an individual or an independent nominee representing said party.

"It is fairly clear, therefore, in my opinion, upon the statute and upon the opinion of the supreme court construing the statute, that said party is not entitled to have a party column on the official ballot at the next general election, although it will be entitled to have a separate party ticket for state and national officers in the primary. Its nominees at the primary would, under the present state of the law, have to be placed on the electoral ballot in a column headed 'Independent.'"

The opinion was called forth by an inquiry from H. R. Tiegs, secretary of the Milwaukee Progressive club, who asked whether the Progressive party vote at the last general election entitled the party to place a state and national ticket in the field.

Another Lightning Stunt.

Mandan, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lightning struck the home of Charles E. Edquist here, picked up a piece of oak wood, in the attic, and carried it to the basement through a hole that was bored through the several floors between. An electric fuse picked off the switchboard in the attack also was conveyed to the basement.

WILSON PLAYS INSIDE BOGEY.

Hanover, N. H., July 9.—President Wilson again romped over the Dartmouth college links today at golf. He was in good playing form, and drove long and high over some of the difficult bunkers, keeping in bogey on a good many holes. Dr. Grayson, his physician, accompanied him. No one else was on the course, except the secret service men and chauffeurs who took turns as caddies.

Former Convict Under Arrest.

Stillwater, Minn., July 9. — Charles Pryce, under arrest in Milwaukee, was recently released from the penitentiary here under the 35-year law. He was serving a life sentence for murder. Pryce gained considerable notice some time ago when he produced a lemon weighing sixteen ounces.

MANY HOMES HAVE NO BATHING FACILITIES

Report on New York Conditions Is Made at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., July 9.—"The bureau of public health and hygiene of New York is attempting," said John A. Kingsbury of New York to the National Conference of Charities and Corrections today, "through advertising and so forth, to popularize bathing. It is hoped that this will eventually be a positive health factor.

"In a certain tenement district, outside of what is known as the slums section of the city, the bureau recently made a study of the bathing facilities in the tenement homes and learned that 34 per cent were without laundry facilities."

The report of the committee on health and productive power was read at the general session by Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Lewis Meriam of Washington, D. C., spoke on "Auditing the Birth Account."

Heard Minneapolis Men.

Three sectional meetings were held, at which were discussed children, relation of commercial organizations to social welfare, and adult and juvenile probation. The speakers included Dr. Anna Louise Strong of New York; L. A. Halbert, general superintendent of the board of public welfare of Kansas City; Henry Stewart of the Chicago Association of Commerce; W. Frank Persons, New York; E. M. Williams of the Cleveland chamber of commerce; Otto W. David of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association; F. Emory Lyon, Chicago, and Judge S. Addams of Cleveland.

J. J. O'Connor, general secretary of the associated charities, Minneapolis, delivered an address yesterday on "Working Programs in Central Council Cities."

NEW HAVEN'S METHODS ROUNDLY DENOUNCED BY COMMERCE COMMISSION

criticized adversely for lack of steel cars.

That the freight service of the Boston & Maine "is much less reliable than that of either the Pensylvania or the Baltimore & Ohio, while that of the New Haven is slightly inferior to the Pennsylvania, but about on a par with the Baltimore & Ohio."

That passenger fares in New England have been more favorable to the local traveling public than in any other portion of the United States.

That "any betterment of railroad conditions in New England must begin with the assurance that the New Haven management will act not only prudently, but, above all, within the letter and the spirit of the law."

Makes General Propositions.

No order was made by the commission, but in its opinion the following propositions, which have national application to all railroads, lie at the foundation of adequate railroad regulation:

"Every interstate railroad should be prohibited from expending money or incurring liabilities or acquiring property not in the operation of its railroad or in the legitimate improvement, extension or development of that railroad.

"No interstate railroad should be permitted to lease or purchase any other railroad, nor to acquire the stocks or securities of any other railroads, nor to guarantee the same, directly or indirectly, without the approval of the Federal government."

Commissioners Clements and Marble submitted a concurring opinion in which they "agree heartily with the report," but make their position clear as to some of the issues mentioned.

Leave Merger to Congress.

Concerning the merger of the New Haven and the Boston & Maine, they assert that "this is a phase of the subject that should be left to congress, just as the issues under the anti-trust laws have been left to the courts. If it were properly to be considered here, however, we would give weight to the suggestion that the merger has so overloaded the executive boards of the entire aggregation as to impair not only correct and economical financial administration, but also efficiency and safety of operation.

"The proposed continuation of the inquiry into the matter of increases in rates ought not to be held in advance of the posting of such rates for the information of the shippers who must pay them."

The report strongly suggests that increased net income for the Boston & Maine should be secured by a reform in expenditures rather than by increase of rates.

Stocks and Bonds.

"No stocks or bonds should be issued by an interstate railroad except for the purposes sanctioned in the preceding paragraphs, and none should be issued without the approval of the Federal government."

The inquiry resulting in today's report was begun about a year ago by the commission upon its own initiative, in consequence of numerous and persistent complaints of the railroad rates, regulations and service in New England. The carriers particularly investigated were the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Maine and the Maine Central. Months were devoted to examination of books and accounts, and thirty-seven days were devoted to public hearings, in the course of which more than 6,000 pages of testimony were taken.

The report is divided under four general heads, "Service," "Rates," "Finances," and "The Remedy." Commissioner Prouty, who has devoted much of his time during the last year to the inquiry, discusses exhaustively each phase. The report aggregates nearly 30,000 words, or approximately twenty-five columns in the average newspaper.

Solvency Not Looked Into.

In an exhaustive discussion of the financial affairs of the New Haven and the Boston & Maine, Commissioner Prouty indicates clearly that investigation was "not into the solvency or insolvency of the New Haven company," but rather into the character of its financial operation.

It is shown by the report that in 1903, the total capitalization of the New Haven was $93,000,000 and its operated mileage, 2,040 miles. In 1912, its capitalization was $417,000,000, an increase of $324,000,000; while its operated mileage was increased only fifty miles. In this period of nine years the New Haven company acquired actual ownership of about 800 miles of road, which it previously had operated, expending approximately $40,000,000 in obtaining the additional mileage. It expended during the nine years $96,000,000 for betterments and equipment, making a total of $136,000,000 devoted to its railroad property.

Spent $204,000,000 "Outside."

"This would leave," the report points out, "the sum of $204,000,000 which in nine years had been expended in operating outside its railroad sphere."

To the methods of investing that sum, the report devotes elaborate attention.

In its acquisition of the Rhode Island trolley lines, the report says, the New Haven gave $13,500,000 for nothing.

The New York, Westchester & Boston railway, the evidence disclosed, when opened for business in 1912, had cost the New Haven about $34,000,000, or $12,000,000 in excess of the value of the property on the New Haven's own showing.

The acquisition by the New Haven of trolley lines in Massachusetts is revived at length. Particular reference is made to the operations of J. L. Billard in connection with the purchase by the New Haven of Boston & Maine stock. The conclusion of the report is that the New Haven gave away to Billard and his associates about $3,000,000 of the property of the New Haven.

Many Straight Losses.

"The other outside ventures," says the report, "of the New Haven company have been almost uniformly prosecuted at a loss. This is true of its trolley acquisitions and its purchase of railroad stocks and steamship lines."

Mr. Mellen's campaign contributions were also strongly commented on in the report, and it also says that the marine equipment of the New Haven was manipulated in a way to defy analysis.

"Our general conclusion is that the outside financial operations of the New Haven company for the last nine years have been wasteful in the extreme, and that the methods by which those operations have been conducted are unnecessarily involved and complex for the reason that the present management of that company started out with the purpose of controlling the transportation facilities of New England. To this purpose and its attempted execution can be traced every one of these financial misfortunes and derelictions.

"It seems proper to add that while the financial operations of this company have resulted in heavy losses, there is nothing to indicate that its solvency has been impaired. The company has expended in the last nine years upon its road and equipment over $50,000 a mile, a sum almost equal to the average capitalization of the railroads of the United States at the beginning of that period.

"While this expenditure has been made with a free hand, there is nothing to show that it has not been wisely made and much to indicate that the result has fully justified the outlay."

Coal Men Arrive.

This morning, the coal men were on hand early and during the morning the registration book in the lobby of the Spalding was kept busy. The dealers were outnumbered by the representatives of the coal companies as usual, but the attendance of retail dealers at the meeting here is unusually large and the convention promises to be a most successful one. The association covers Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, North and South Dakota and representatives of the retail coal trade of almost every state were present this morning. President W. B. Banning of Union, Neb., is expected to arrive this afternoon.

Tomorrow morning the convention will be resumed at 10 o'clock, and President Banning will deliver his annual address. H. L. Laird of Minneapolis will submit his report and Dr. Krebs will speak on "The Law and Secret of Suggestion in Advertising, Salesmanship and Business Building." There will be no business session tomorrow afternoon, but the visitors will be the guests of local coal and dock companies on a trip of inspection on a steamer around the harbor. They will visit the coal docks on both sides of the bay.

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the Commercial club, William H. Lesser, mechanical engineer for the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company will speak on the subject "The Anthracite Coal Industry." His lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon views showing the processes through which coal from mines must pass in order to produce a merchantable product.

Friday morning the convention will close with reports of committees, the election of officers and an address by Dr. Krebs on "Manners That Win in Business." Friday afternoon a special train will be run to Hibbing and the coal dealers will visit the open pit mines.

As an added attraction to the convention of coal dealers there will be a Koruscation of the Order Kokoal after Mr. Lesser's lecture tomorrow evening.

The Order Kokoal.

The Order Kokoal, be is known, is a social order of men in the coal trade—dealers, salesmen,—supply men, railroad men handling coal, and others who can claim relation to the coal trade. Nearly every man at the convention here is a member of the Order Kokoal and they will be on hand for the Koruscation tomorrow evening.

James A. Ballard of Detroit, Mich., the new imperial modoc of the Order Kokoal, will arrive tomorrow morning, and at the Koruscation tomorrow evening the jurisdiction will be formally passed to him by Arch Coleman of Minneapolis, the retiring imperial modoc. Mr. Ballard was elected imperial modoc at the pow-wow held at Cedar Point, Ohio, last month.

There will be a big delegation of Kokoals in from Chicago tomorrow to attend the Koruscation and the passing of the head office tomorrow night. R. S. Jones of Minneapolis, imperial pictor, is here today and is making arrangements for tomorrow night's gathering. Arthur M. Hull, editor of the Retail Coal Man of Chicago and a past imperial modoc, is also on hand for the ceremonies.

There will be a Duluth-Superior breaker of the Order Kokoal instituted tomorrow night and a class of thirty-five or forty candidates for the honors of membership will be put through their paces. On the whole the meeting will be the greatest one of the Kokoals ever held in the Northwest and it is responsible for an unusually large attendance at the convention.

Bankers Are Coming.

Fully 500 bankers from all parts of Minnesota are expected to attend the annual convention of the Minnesota State Bankers' association, which will open tomorrow morning. Many of the bankers will bring their wives on an outing to the coolest spot in the United States. The Duluth entertainment committee has provided for a boulevard drive, followed by a dance at the boat club Thursday evening, a special train to the steel plant Friday, and a special train to the ranges Saturday if a sufficient number of the bankers want to make the trip. The program is a varied one. Among the speakers are George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental & Commercial Bank of Chicago; G. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin; W. G. Eden of the Central Trust Company of Chicago and Congressman W. S. Hammond of the Second Minnesota district.

SCREENINGS

If there is a coal company operating in the Northwest that isn't represented at the convention, it must have no coal to sell. There is an education for the layman in the gathering, for he may learn the wide field over which he may spread his orders.

Although Wisconsin isn't officially in the territory of the association, there are some Wisconsin dealers on hand to get acquainted with the men from the other Northwestern states.

"Come on and Lift" is the Slogan of Kokoals. The initial letters combined spell "Coal." The Kokoals don't believe in knocking the coal of their competitors.

Most of the retail dealers in town today are from North and South Dakota and Minnesota, but men from the other states are expected tomorrow. W. F. Grosser of Salina, Kan., a member of the board of directors and a live one, was on hand early representing the corn belt.

R. S. Jones of Minneapolis is a busy man. He sells coal and on the side acts as imperial pictor of the Order Kokoal. "Imperial pictor" translated into English means national secretary, and Mr. Jones has a real job. The headquarters of the order were moved to Minneapolis from New York last year. It has 5,000 members scattered over twenty-eight states.

H. M. Griggs, general coal and ore agent of the New York Central lines, a member of the Kokoals and the Northwestern Coal Dealers' association, is a convention visitor.

T. A. Badbois, who takes care of South Dakota for the Carnegie people, is a veteran in the coal business and knows nearly every man in the association. Mr. Gadbois, G. L. Clare of the Lehigh Valley in Duluth and A. F. Heath of the Northern Coal and Dock company here are the three oldest coal men at the convention.

J. H. Sessions of St. Paul, general agent of the Philadelphia & Reading, graduated from the railroad business into the coal business twenty years ago. He's one of the veterans, and popular with the crowd. He was given an ovation at the Spalding this morning.

The excursion to the coal docks tomorrow afternoon will be well attended. Many of the dealers have never seen the docks at the Head of the Lakes and—whisper it gently—some of the salesmen never have seen an honest-to-goodness lake coal dock in operation.

There is a souvenir distribution on during the convention. Many of the company representatives have souvenirs. An individual drinking cup in a case, distributed by one firm, is popular in Minnesota since the common drinking cup went out of style.

SUGAR LOBBYIST SAYS HE WAS PAID $30 A DAY of the Arlington mills at Lawrence, Mass., was the next witness.

Lamar Confidential.

The investigation committee took a look at Wall Street yesterday through the spectacles of David Lamar. The dapper operator on the bear side who admits that he bandied about in the market place the names of men high in congress, took the committee completely into his confidence.

For all the machinations he contrived there were after all, he swore, but two reasons. He wished to cause an "explosion" which would bring the Wall Street men whom he felt to be antagonistic to him "into the open," and he wished to insure the re-employment of Edward Lauterbach, his lawyer friend, who had fallen into disfavor with the mighty of the street.

Although the committee tried to develop that there might have been some other consideration involved, Lamar denied such an allegation as often as it was made. He was on the stand for several hours, and although five senators wielded the scalpel they uncovered nothing that Lamar did not wish to reveal. Repeatedly he seemed on the verge of some admission to which patient questioning had brought him, but he veered away, and no persuasive or lawyer-like threatening could bring him back again.

"Only Playing the Game."

He was only playing Wall Street's game, he said, when he made such frequent use of the telephone and talked about what might be done in Washington through prominent members of congress. It was the game he had known most of twenty-five years he had been in the street, he said, but he was through with it now. He was sorry for the publicity that had been given to the reports of influence in congress, but except for that, he thought the end justified the means. The explosion had occurred, he added, and his enemies had been dragged into the open to prove charges circulated for many years in the financial district against himself and Lauterbach. He summed up his whole story in a few words when he said:

"It was the Wall Street game I was playing. In Wall Street you don't act like you do on a New Jersey farm."

Lamar's examination was finished yesterday, and both he and Lauterbach were allowed to go with the understanding that, if wanted, they should appear again.

Took up Sugar and Wool.

With their departure, the committee took up sugar lobbying again for three hours, with a short excursion into the land of the wool lobby.

Charles D. Westcott, a Washington attorney, who lives in Cuba, took up the sugar story again. He told of an unsuccessful effort he made to get Cuban planters to put up $25,000 for the expenses of a free sugar campaign in Washington to offset the efforts of the anti-sugar forces. He declared that his effort had failed after he had believed it successfully launched, and gave it as his opinion that the "Sugar trust" had been responsible.

Westcott was put through a searching cross-examination by Senator Cummins. He finally said that he personally didn't know about trust domination in Cuba, but that his statements were made on information given by growers.

McADOO ASKS BANK PROBE

the bank. The board of directors of this bank will be reorganized and the Kuhn interest eliminated before it is reopened."

Details are Told.

Details of the causes which induced the treasury department to close the bank Monday morning became known today with the return of Deputy Comptroller Kane. He declared that information concerning the government's surveillance of the bank leaked out, and one big depositor withdrew $200,000 last Saturday. Government officials then learned that other big depositors contemplated making heavy withdrawals Monday. To prevent the large depositors from gaining the advantage of saving their deposits at the expense of little depositors who were not aware of the circumstances, the government refused to let the bank open.

Run Is Dying Out.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 9. — When the Pittsburg Bank for Savings opened for business today, the run that was started on Monday upon the closing of the doors of the First-Second National bank was resumed, but not in such volume as on the two preceding days.

Police regulations continued to be maintained, and all the receiving windows were thrown open for the use of those desiring to withdraw money from the bank.

Those who came to deposit found much difficulty in being waited on quickly, and complaints from these, President W. J. Jones who was elected yesterday, said, was a demonstration of the confidence in the bank. He further announced that all tellers were at the service of those desiring to withdraw, and that as little inconvenience as possible would be caused.

He again reiterated former declarations of the bank's officials that the bank was prepared to meet the most exacting situation.

WONDERFUL DRUG THAT STIMULATES GROWTH OF HAIR

And Revives Pigment-Forming Cells That Give Hair Its Natural Color.

Hardly any of ous are entirely free from dandruff or other scalp affections. Millions of us, so long as the trouble is slight, do little or nothing to cure the affection. Other millions are trying to do something, but getting no results, by applying all sorts of fancy colored and fancy named hair "tonics." You are not likely to get much benefit, if any, by using any preparation that does not contain the one known drug that positively stimulates the growth of hair. The safe and sure way is to mix your own tonic or go to a reliable druggist and have him mix it for you. Here is a simple formula: 6 oz. ordinary Bay Rum; 2 oz. ordinary Lavona de Compose; ½ drachm Menthol Crystols. If you choose, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. Apply to the scalp with finger tips, night and morning, to destroy dandruff, to stop falling hair, to cleanse and beautify the hair, and to stimulate the growth of the hair. This treatment is recommended to stimulate the growth of the hair even in cases of complete baldness. If your hair is prematurely gray, try it and see if it will not make the pigment-forming cells active enough to completely restore the natural color. This formula contains no dye or artificial coloring matter but is designed to make nature produce the natural color in the natural way. Any druggist can supply you with the ingredients or mix the tonic for you.

OLD FEUD ENDS IN SHOOTING

John Scotino Will Probably Die as Result of Bullet Wound.

His Assailant, Tony Caruso, Has Not Yet Been Captured.

John Scotino lies at the point of death at St. Luke's hospital with two bullet wounds in his body as a result of shooting alleged to have been done by Tony Caruso during a fight at Thirteenth avenue west and Michigan street at 9:40 o'clock last night. The fight is said to have resulted from a feud of ten years' standing in which a love affair back in Italy played a prominent part.

The two men had met on the street a short time before the shooting. A wordy battle started a fist fight and the two men clinched in the center of the street. Caruso is said to have pulled a gun, firing five shots. Two of the shots took effect, one in Scotino's left shoulder and the other in his abdomen. That the latter bullet wound will prove fatal, is the belief of the hospital attendants.

Caruso Escapes.

Caruso is still at large. After the shooting, he ran to Twelfth avenue west and then up to Superior street. Later he is said to have gone through the saloon in the Montreal hotel wearing a different suit of clothes and to have gone from there to the railroad yards below Michigan street. The police have been unable to apprehend him although police all over the city have been notified and a special watch was placed on all the avenues of escape immediately following the shooting.

The victim of the shooting crawled to the Glen saloon at Twelfth avenue west and Michigan street where he told the bartenders, Bert Cameron and John O'Donnell, that Caruso had shot him. The police were notified and an ambulance sent for. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Scotino is 34 years old. He has a wife and three children—two girls, one 5 years and the other 9 months, and a son, 3 years old—living at 1327 West Michigan street. His wife has apparently undergone a severe strain. In broken English she asked the condition of her husband this morning. She said that there had been enmity between the men for several years, and that three years ago they had fought a duel at their boarding house on Superior street near Eleventh avenue west.

Old Time Feud.

Caruso is single. He came to this country shortly after the arrival of Scotino and his bride five years ago. Mrs. Scotino intimated that there had been enmity between the men in Italy but that following the wedding this appeared to have been patched up. Caruso, she said, boarded with them for nearly a year. He is said to have a brother, Joe Caruso, who is a barber in Superior.

The fight three years ago is said by people of that district, who remember the affair, to have been the result of jealousy on the part of the husband. He is said to have ordered Caruso out of the house and that as Caruso was leaving the building he made a slashing cut at Scotino, the knife cutting into a leather belt which was worn about the waist. Scotino then fired two shots at Caruso, neither taking effect, but one of them passing through Caruso's hat. Scotino then left the city for over a year.

Caruso is described as being of sallow complexion, smooth faced and speaking broken English. He is said to be about five feet, five inches tall. Friends of the men believe that Caruso is now headed for the Canadian border.

W. C. T. U. PROMISES HICKEN SUPPORT.

Delegates were elected to the state W. C. T. U. convention and the policies of Commissioner Hicken lauded at the meeting of the Duluth Scandinavian W. C. T. U. held at the home of Mrs. Dahl, 3130 West Third street yesterday afternoon. The women also discussed the welfare of children at the meeting.

Mrs. L. W. Linder and Mrs. P. L. Mortorud were chosen delegates to the convention to be held at Alexandria on Aug. 19.

Commissioner Hicken was praised for his work in compelling saloons to live up to the law. The union voted to support him and his policies in case of a much-talked-of referendum on the recent saloon ordinance.

WEST END VISITORS RECEPTION GUESTS.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul W. Rood of Chicago, who have been spending a week of their honeymoon visiting in this end of the city, were guests at a reception tendered by the congregation of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The affair was attended by several hundred people.

The visiting pastor and his bride were presented with a handsome present as a token of the esteem in which they were held by the West end people. A program of music followed by refreshments was also given.

Rev. and Mrs. Rood will leave today for Oregon, where they will visit relatives. Following a short stay there, they will take a trip through the Southwestern states, returning to Chicago about Sept. 1.

IMPROVEMENTS AT N. P. ROUNDHOUSE.

Extensive alterations and improvements are being made at the Northern Pacific roundhouse at Garfield avenue. The improvements include the construction of a new machine shop and the extension of a number of the stalls for the accommodation of the large engines.

Thirty foot extensions will be constructed on several of the stalls. The roundhouse has been found too small for housing the larger engines during repairs and it has been found necessary to build these additions in order that the engines might be under shelter while being repaired.

The company has recently completed the construction of a large machine shop and engine room on the east side of the roundhouse. This building is constructed of brick and has cost about $25,000. The additions to the stalls will cost the company about $10,000 more.

Officers Elected.

The Luther League of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, held its annual election of officers in the church parlors last evening. Rev. Carl G. Olson is president of the league. The other officers chosen are: Arthur Anderson, vice president; Miss Mamie Nelson, secretary; Carl Lindquist, treasurer; Miss Bertha Melander, organist; Miss Della Olson, librarian; Arthur Nelson and Iver Norlander, ushers, and George Anderson, Miss Hildeberg Miller, Arthur Anderson and Miss Alfreda Benson, delegates to the annual district convention to be held in September.

Committee Meeting.

Members of the Swedish American Nation league, comprising a committee of five members from eight Swedish lodges and organizations of the city, will meet Saturday evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. The meeting is for the purpose of winding up the financial matters in connection with the recent midsummer day festival.

Dance at Pavilion.

The Adams Athletic association entertained last night at the second of a series of summer dancing parties at the Lincoln park pavilion. The affair was attended by about 300 couples. Souvenir programs were given to the guests and the ladies were presented with fans. The music was furnished by Flaaten's orchestra.

Men's League.

The Men's Welfare league of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will meet in the parlors of the church this evening. A number of important matters will be brought up at the meeting.

West End Briefs.

Frank Lake, 107½ North Twenty-seventh avenue west, is spending a two weeks' vacation visiting relatives in southern Wisconsin.

E. L. Anderson, 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, left yesterday for a short visit to Rush City.

Mrs. L. J. Hallquist, 2826 Huron street, will entertain the Rebekah guild of the St. Peter's Episcopal church at a lawn social tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Ellen Fagerstrom and Miss Alice Anderson of Hermantown are spending a few days visiting at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. M. Benick of Coleraine.

Mrs. Paul Busch and son, Edward, of Lake Elmo who have been visiting relatives in the West end have returned home.

WHITE SLAVER GETS TEN-YEAR SENTENCE

Is Also Fined $10,000 for Leading Cousin Into Immorality.

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—At the conclusion of her testimony against her cousin, charged with violating the Mann white slavery act, Miss Beatrice Young, an 18-year-old Kentucky girl, fainted and toppled from the witness stand into the arms of District Attorney Charles A. Houth in the United States district court.

A few minutes later L. D. Seat, her cousin and former sweetheart, was found guilty. Federal Judge Dyer sentenced him to ten years in the penitentiary and imposed a $5,000 fine on each of two counts.

Miss Young is the daughter of a merchant of Kenneth, Ky. She told how her cousin had written her letters and induced her to come to St. Louis to live with him.

MRS. FITZGERALD DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, 52 years old, wife of Michael Fitzgerald, contractor, 123 East Fifth street, died yesterday following a long illness.

Mrs. Fitzgerald was a resident of Duluth for nearly twenty-five years and was very well known throughout the city. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Lillian and Anna, and three sons, Edward, William and Patrick, all of Duluth.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning from the Sacred Heart cathedral, with interment at Calvary.

DENTISTS WILL RAISE $40,000.

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—The National Dental association has adopted a resolution to establish a foundation fund for dental research work. Following a talk by Dr. Weston A. Price, chairman of the foundation committee, it was decided that each of the 40,000 dentists in good standing in the United States should contribute at least $1 to the fund.

WOMAN DROWNS IN LAKE MICHIGAN.

Chicago, July 9.—A woman passenger on the steamer City of Benton Harbor committed suicide yesterday by leaping into Lake Michigan from the vessel's deck when ten miles from shore. The City of Benton Harbor was bound for St. Joseph, Mich. The body was not recovered.

NAMES LYNCH FOR STATE LABOR JOB.

Albany, N. Y., July 9.—After having been unsuccessful in three attempts to have John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, made state labor commissioner, Governor Sulzer sent to the senate for confirmation the appointment of James M. Lynch of Syracuse, president of the International Typographical union, for the position.

MEN TAKE PLACES OF "HELLO" GIRLS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—The Bell Telephone company's exchanges at Granite City, Venice and Madison, Ill., are opened for the first time since ten days ago, when a cable controlling all the telephones in the tri-cities was cut by sympathizers of the striking girl operators. The switchboards are manned by men.

Tasty Tidbits Quickly Prepared

For a dainty after-theater supper or bed-time snack, an Electric Chafing Dish is a delightful convenience. No trouble at all to use—just connect to an electric socket and any number of novel, appetizing dishes can be prepared easily and quickly. Safer, cleaner and cheaper to operate than any alcohol stove type of chafing dish. The Electric Chafer does not have the disagreeable odors of the alcohol chafing dish and avoids all danger of fire. It is only one of the many economies and conveniences possible for those having their homes wired for Electric Light.

INDUSTRIES OF DULUTH

Jobbers, Merchants and Manufacturers Invited to Take Part.

Duluth jobbers, merchants and manufacturers will be given an opportunity to show their products to several thousand visitors as well as many thousand Duluth people next Saturday evening in an industrial parade, which will be a feature of the third Lark o' the Lake carnival.

The city is entertaining three large conventions this week, the music teachers, bankers and retail coal dealers. In addition to these visitors will be the many regular tourists and the Lark o' the Lake visitors. It is expected that fully 5,000 visitors will be in the city Saturday night.

The industrial parade is open to all business firms of Duluth, and the committee extends an invitation to them to take part. Trucks will be decorated and horses curried and trimmed with ribbons for the occasion. Exhibits will be prepared and placed on the trucks, showing the industrial greatness of the city. The parade will form at Seventh and Eighth avenue east and march through the city. Mayor Prince has promised his hearty co-operation and the police and fire apparatus will probably lead the parade. The jobbers have taken the plan up enthusiastically, and the Stone-Ordean-Wells company alone, it is said, will have twenty teams in the parade.

The parade will be a short one, beginning about 7:30 and being over by 8 o'clock. Following that there will probably be a short band concert. It is planned to have the celebration on Saturday night brief, in order that the many visitors may have an opportunity to take in the other attractions planned for the evening, attend the theaters, shop, take a boat ride on the bay, or visit the parks. The conventions also have entertainments of their own planned, and for this reason the Lark o' the Lake carnival will be completed as early as possible, but it is expected that the parade will be an impressive one. The committee is trying to secure as many original displays and exhibits as possible, and the decorated trucks are expected to prove both instructive and entertaining.

GRIES HEADS THE RABBIS' SOCIETY.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 9.—Moses J. Gries of Cleveland, Ohio, was elected president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at the concluding session of their seven-day convention here. Dr. Kaufman Kohler of Cincinnati was elected honorary president. Other officers chosen were: Vice president, William Rosenau, Baltimore; treasurer, Leo N. Franklin, Detroit; recording secretary, Maurice M. Fourlicht, Indianapolis. The executive committee includes Samuel Bernard, Minneapolis.

Pole Overcome in Minneapolis Died in a Padded Cell.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—Joseph Tosca was found dead Tuesday in a padded cell at police headquarters, where he had been placed Monday night after being taken into custody. Tosca was acting queerly and the police believing he was demented took him to jail for safe keeping. When arrested he became so violent that he was locked in a padded cell. His ravings were heard by the police and other prisoners throughout the night.

It developed late yesterday that Tosco arrived here Thursday direct from Ellis Island, N. Y., having but recently arrived from Poland, his native land. Saturday he was overcome by the heat which physicians say caused him to become insane. Tosca who was 28 years old, had left a wife and child in Poland.

Aeroplane Kills Two.

Wurzburg, Germany, July 9. — The German aviator, Lendee, with a Frenchman as passenger, gave an exhibition aeroplane flight as a feature of the folkfest. The machine capsized at an altitude of sixty feet and both men were killed.

Three Years for Duffy.

New York, July 9.—Peter Duffy, former sergeant in the police department, convicted recently of bribery, was sentenced to serve not less than three years nor more than four years in Sing Sing prison. The court granted a ten days' stay of execution.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis —ss.
District Court, Eleventh Judicial District.
Mesaba Railway Company, Petitioner, vs.
Hannah Carscadden, James A. Esson, and North and South Side Land Company, a corporation, Defendants.

To the above named Defendants:

You are hereby notified that the above named petitioner will present its petition to one of the judges of the above named District Court at a special term thereof to be held in the Court House in the City of Duluth in said County and State, on Saturday, the 2nd day of August, 1913, at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, and will then and there ask for an order of the court allowing it to condemn for the purposes of a right-of-way the following described parcels of land, to-wit:

Parcel 1. The Southerly twenty-three (23) feet of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block One (1), Great Northern Addition to Virginia, according to the recorded plat thereof.

Name of Owner: Hannah Carscadden.

Parcel 2. All of Lots One (1) and Two (2), Block One (1), Great Northern Addition to Virginia, according to the recorded plat thereof, except the Southerly twenty-three (23) feet thereof.

Name of Owner: James A. Esson.

Parcel 3. All those portions of Lots One (1), Two (2), Three (3), Four (4), Five (5), Six (6), Seven (7), Eight (8), Nine (9), Ten (10), Seventeen (17), Eighteen (18), Nineteen (19), Twenty (20) and Twenty-one (21), Block Sixty-three (63), First Addition to Virginia, according to the recorded plat thereof, lying within twenty-five (25) feet on either side of the center line of the railroad track of petitioner, as now constructed and in operation across said lots in said Block Sixty-three (63).

Name of Owner: North and South Side Land Company, a Minnesota corporation.

That said petitioner will ask for the appointment of three competent, disinterested freeholders, residents of St. Louis County, Minnesota, to ascertain and determine the amount of compensation to be made to you as owners or in any manner interested in the land hereinbefore described, which said land the Mesaba Railway Company proposes to acquire by condemnation for its railroad right-of-way.

ORDER LIMITING TIME TO FILE CLAIMS, AND FOR HEARING THEREON—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis—ss.
In Probate Court. In the matter of the Estate of Charles A. Phelps, Decedent.

Letters Testamentary this day having been granted to Leta L. Phelps, it is ordered, That the time within which all creditors of the above named decedent may present claims against his estate in this court be, and the same hereby is, limited to three months from and after the date hereof, and that the 7th day of October, 1913, at ten o'clock A. M., in the Probate Court Rooms at the Court House at Duluth, in said County, be, and the same hereby is, fixed and appointed as the time and place for hearing upon the examination, adjustment and allowance of such claims as shall be presented within the time aforesaid. Let notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in The Duluth Herald, as provided by law.

Dated, Duluth, Minn., July 1st, 1913.

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Motion pictures.
EMPRESS—Tabloid musical comedy.

Amusement Notes.

The man who does something, or says something, that is beyond the ordinary, tends to inspire others to go and do likewise. That is exactly what David Belasco is doing in the world of dramatic endeavor; he is always doing something out of the ordinary and always saying something different from the other producers. That is why his name and indorsements stand today as a guarantee for the newest and best upon the American stage.

David Belasco has invaded fields of dramatic literature that no other producer would have dared to, simply because his keen perspicacity of public taste was a beacon to inspire him to give or say something different from the other man.

One of his most recent and sensational successes will be presented by Frances Starr, his young and popular star, at the Lyceum theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"The Case of Becky" is a really big play with a big vital theme that has aroused more comment and discussion than anything this wizard of the stage has heretofore produced. The subject of dual personality has a strong fascination for the average person. Beginning with childhood days of "make believe," most of us, at one time or another are obsessed with the desire to be somebody else. This does not imply necessarily that we are dissatisfied with ourselves or our lot, but simply that we want to try other viewpoints, other natures, other ideas and other tastes.

An able presentation of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde would probably be as big a success in London or New York today as it was fifteen years ago, which shows that the subject of dual personality is not the passing fancy of a few years. So it is not surprising that "The Case of Becky," presented by such a capable actress as Miss Frances Starr should meet with approbation and commendation wherever presented. Parental influence, mental suggestion and hypnotism are cleverly brought out by the author, Edward Locke, and add to the compelling appeal of the play.

Tonight's two performances at the Empress theater will conclude the engagement of "The Aeroplane Bride," the musical comedy of fun and laughter. This attraction is one long laugh, the comedy lines being many and very bright. The antics of Mark Lea as a Hebrew and Harry Doyle as an Irishman are the hits of the play. The singing of Cunningham is very pleasing as are the dances and marches of a very well trained chorus.

The Empress management will offer for three days starting with the matinee tomorrow the biggest tabloid production on tour, "The Girl From Luxemburg" with Arthur Clamage, late star of "The Pink Widow," as principal comedian. Both the production and organization are the largest in tabloid and on the vaudeville stage today. The principals of the company are particularly noteworthy as artists in their field, and the scenery and costume equipment are lavish and magnificent. There are twenty-five appearing with the company, eighteen of whom are very beautiful and attractive young women. The story of the piece is, of course, broadly humorous though with a consistent plot. It is so constructed that it permits the introduction of novel and entertaining specialties, among them being the famous Texas Tommy Dance.

GETS NOTHING FOR HIS JANITOR WORK

North Dakota Teacher Loses in Effort to Recover for Services.

Almont, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special contract must be made with the school directors before teachers can receive payment for janitor services at schools, according to a decision by Judge Nuchols. J. W. Hensleigh contracted to teach a four-month term of school in a district near here for which he was to received $50 per month. After the contract had been signed he agreed to do the janitor work for $10 per month and inserted this agreement in the signed contract. The board paid him for his services as teacher but declined to pay him for janitor work. He secured judgment in the justice court but lost when the board appealed. The court held there was no valid contract under the law.

MISSING CLOQUET MAN'S BODY FOUND

Taken From River After Being in Fight—Suspect Under Arrest.

Cloquet, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Gus Suominen, who has been missing since the evening of the Fourth of July, was found about 6 last evening floating in the St. Louis river near the Cloquet Electric company's plant. When last seen on the evening of the Fourth Souminen and Oscar Pelto were quarreling in a saloon and the former was thrown through a window and badly cut. The two then left the saloon together and the whereabouts of Suominen remained a mystery until his dead body was found.

Pelto Is Arrested.

When relatives began searching for him and the facts of the saloon brawl became known, Chief of Police McSweeney placed Pelto, who was making preparations to leave town, under arrest and he is at present being held on suspicion at the county jail at Carlton. Coroner Raiter will conduct an inquest today and Pelto will be given a preliminary hearing Monday morning.

Suominen has lived here a number of years and is well known among the Finnish people. He is survived by a wife and four grown-up children.

HIGHWAY IS NOW IN GOOD SHAPE

Road From Cass Lake to Wilkinson Has Been Much Improved.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Commissioner Swanberg reports that the road from Cass Lake to Wilkinson is now in shape for travel with teams. Heretofore, on account of intervening swamps, it has been impossible to drive to Wilkinson except in a very roundabout way. The contract for corduroying and filling on a 300-yard swamp south of Wilkinson was also let this week by County Commissioners Swanberg and Spencer for $980 to J. Lemke. This will form a part of the road which will eventually run from Cass Lake to Walker, a distance of twenty-four miles, Wilkinson being about half-way between these two places.

Farmers Fixing Road.

On the Hubbard county side of the county line the farmers have become tired of waiting for the county commissioners to build a mile stretch of the Cass-Hubbard judicial road, which was laid out in 1911 and built on the Cass county side in 1912, with a fine turnpike road. The farmers, under the leadership of County Commissioner Swanberg of Cass county, who owns land in Hubbard county adjoining the road have banded together and are turnpiking nearly one and one-half miles of the road and donating their labor. The road lies on the town line between the towns of Farden and Hart Lake, and will, when completed, be part of the continuous good road from Cass Lake to Guthrie, and is through a well-settled community. The farmers are commended very highly for this work, as are the business men who subscribed liberally for putting a mile of road in good condition on the new automobile route between Cass Lake and Bemidji. The place where the money is to be expended is ten miles northwest of Cass Lake, in Hubbard county, and six miles southeast of Bemidji.

Russian Educators Welcomed.

New York, July 9.—Sixty-six Russian educators, a third of them women, who recently arrived here for the purpose of studying American educational methods, were formally welcomed by Mayor Gaynor at a reception given in their honor at the city hall.

BOY IS STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR

Edward Kazmier, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kazmier of 512 East Fifth street, was struck by an automobile while he was riding a bicycle near Fourth avenue east and Superior street at 6:30 o'clock last evening, and quite seriously injured.

The car was driven by Philip Cly and is owned by James H. Harper. The car was stopped when the boy was struck and the occupants carried the lad into his father's shop which is close by the scene of the accident. He was later taken to his home where Dr. Ekblad attended him.

The bicycle was demolished.

ORDER TO EXAMINE FINAL ACCOUNT—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis—ss.
In Probate Court. In the Matter of the Estate of John M. Barnett, Decedent.

The petition of C. N. Boyd and James E. Barnett as representatives of the above named decedent, together with their final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this court, representing, among other things that they have fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, and that the Court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representatives and the sureties on their bond. It is ordered, That said petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted, and if correct, allowed by the Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in the City of Duluth in said County, on Monday the 4th day of August, 1913, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby [illegible] and required at said time and place [illegible] show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered further, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and by mailing a copy of this order to each heir and interested party at least fourteen days before the said date of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., July 8, 1913.

HOTELS TURNING PEOPLE AWAY---COTS BEING USED

They're turning 'em away at the Duluth hotels today.

Three conventions in the city at one time in addition to the big tourist trade at this time of the year has taxed every hotel in the downtown district to capacity and then some.

At 9 o'clock this morning no rooms were available at the Spalding. Some men accepted cots in the halls and there was a general doubling and in some cases tripling up. Many of those here attending the coal men's and bankers' conventions wrote for reservations. It was well that they did for those who took pot luck fared poorly.

The McKay began turning people away last night. More than fifty had to be refused accommodations before 9 o'clock last evening and of course there was nothing available today. Similar conditions prevailed at the Holland with its larger capacity. Here huge sample rooms were filled with as many as fifteen cots until visitors when they go to bed tonight will think they are back in the dormitory as they were in college days.

At the Lenox there wasn't a room to be had and many persons sat about the lobby this morning waiting for some one to "check out." They returned after making the rounds of the other houses. The St. Louis too had more business than it could take care of.

Too Many at Once.

"It seems unnecessary and a shame that these conventions should be held here at the same time. It should have been easy to have these various organizations fix their dates so there would be no conflict," said one hotel manager. "It's not up to us to tell people when to come, but the Commercial club could do it nicely."

"We want to take care of everybody," said another hotel man, "but in a case like this we're simply up against it. We can't give the service our patrons should have and people go away from the city complaining that Duluth lacks hotel accommodations. This isn't true, but what could any city do in a situation like this? Our regular trade with all the tourists is bigger now than at any time of the year without counting on conventions at all."

"I guess I'll have to sleep in the park," wailed one stranger. "If the early closing of the saloons wasn't a reality now I know where I could put in my time, but I haven't a chance now."

There are 2,000 visitors in the city now, according to one hotel man.

For the benefit of persons not being accommodated at the hotels the Commercial club has a list of places where rooms can be had. Assistant Secretary Lewis stated this afternoon that he had a good list of rooms and that all applicants would be cared for if the officers had to sit up all night telephoning.

CHILD KILLED BY "LIVE" WIRE.

Mildred Thorstenson, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thorstenson, 2010 Twenty-fourth street, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon while picking berries at Twenty-fourth street and Scranton avenue.

The child took hold of a "live" electric wire which was hanging from a nearby post. Death is believed to have been almost instantaneous. The child, in company with Martin Hoven, 10 years old, had been playing about the place for some time previous. The child took hold of the wire which burned four fingers of her left hand to a crisp, set fire to her clothes and burned her body. The fire department and police were called. Men from the fire department cut the wire at a distance from the ground to make sure of no further accidents. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

Four Months in Jail.

Herman Anderson drew four months in the county jail for assault. Anderson is said to have beaten his wife. He was arrested yesterday and Judge Parker handed him a fine of $100 or the alternate jail sentence. In default of the cash he took the jail term.

Passed Bad Check.

Superior police are looking for Oscar Olson, who is alleged to have passed a spurious check for $32.50 on Floan & Leveroos. The check was drawn on the Pequot Bank of Pequot, Minn.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Aurelia Perry, aged 88, who had resided in Minnesota since 1848, died Tuesday at the home of her son in that city. Mrs. Perry was the widow of the late Charles Perry, who carried the first mail between Fort Snelling and St. Paul. Mr. and Mrs. Perry planted the first tree in Como park, and Mr. Perry raised the first crop in that part of the country.

Walter Allen, 62 years old, for many years a leading educator of Milwaukee and former assistant superintendent of schools, died in Milwaukee, July 8, after a lingering illness.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

LA CROSSE MAY GET THE ST. PAUL TEAM.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—No definite arrangements have been made to transfer the St. Paul Northern league franchise to La Crosse, Wis., according to information given out at the headquarters of the local organization today, further negotiations depending entirely upon the attitude of citizens at La Crosse. If the transfer is made, it probably will take place about Aug. 5.

It is said that if the team goes to La Crosse, H. P. Conrad, owner of the local team, will retain his interests in the team, and the league directors will be asked to divide the playing season into two parts in order that La Crosse will not be forced to take over a second division team. This probably will be granted.

Insufficient interest locally in the team is said to be the reason of the proposed change.

Pay $3,500 for Catcher.

Lowell, Mass., July 9.—President Roach of the local baseball club today telegraphed his acceptance of the cash offer of $3,500 made by President Comiskey of the Chicago American league team for the services of Tom Daly, catcher of the Lowell team of the New England league. The Boston Red Sox have entered claim for Daly's services.

Bud Anderson Ill.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 9.—Bud Anderson, the Oregon lightweight boxer who was knocked out by Leach Cross at Vernon on July 4, is in a serious condition at a hospital. The beating he received is believed to have affected his kidneys. His attending physicians asserted that "Anderson was a very sick man."

Walker on Schedule.

Chicago, July 9.—Samuel A. Debs, who left New York June 9 on a walking trip to Minneapolis, reached here last night on time with his schedule. He leaves at noon today for Minneapolis and will make an effort to reach that city in nine days.

STATE CANNOT TAX INDIAN'S ESTATE.

Madison, Wis., July 9.—Attorney General Owen today held that the state of Wisconsin cannot enforce the payment of an inheritance tax upon the estate of an Indian allottee and a citizen of the United States, under the Dawes act. The question was propounded by the tax commission in the matter of the estate of Mary Delsana, an Indian in Bayfield county, who left an estate of $11,000 held in trust by the government.

MISUSE OF THE MAILS

Duluth Midwife Enters Plea of Guilty in Federal Court.

Magda J. F. Hanson pleaded guilty in Federal court this morning to the indictment charging her with misusing the mails, and Judge Morris deferred sentence untill 2 o'clock next Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Hanson was arrested last fall, when the government took into custody a number of druggists, doctors and midwives throughout the country for misusing the mails. Mrs. Hanson is a midwife at 413 Seventh avenue east and was arrested by the postal authorities for advertising the sale of one of her preparations and for sending this drug through the mails.

Mrs. Hanson was arraigned this morning and pleaded guilty. At the request of her attorney, John H. Norton, Judge Morris deferred sentence. The maximum penalty is $5,000 or five years in the United States penitentiary.

After the selection of a jury this morning the case of Frank Drescher, a minor, who through his guardian, Maurice P. Moriarity, is suing Elmer E. Whitney of Marshfield, Wis., for $15,000 damages as the result of the loss of Drescher's right arm in the Whitney planing mill last winter, was started.

Following the above case those of Joseph B. McGilligan against the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company, and Fred Marlow versus the Algor-Smith company will be called in the order named. The case of John Brennan against Thomas Keating was yesterday moved on the present calendar and will be heard in the regular order.

Yesterday afternoon the Minnesota & International Railway company was found guilty of violating the employe's hours of service law, and Judge Morris fined the compny $100 and costs. The law prohibits railroads from working the men over sixteen hours in succession. Another similar case of the United States against the same company was dismissed, after the above conviction.

Yale university had its beginnings at Saybrook, Conn., in 1700, and was removed to New Haven in 1716.

IS PREPARING CASE AGAINST NEW HAVEN

T. W. GREGORY.

Washington, July 9.—President Wilson has appointed T. W. Gregory of Austin, Tex., as special attorney to prosecute the case of the government against the New Haven railroad for alleged violation of the Sherman act. Mr. Gregory is preparing the government's case.

Brought down Monday from a lumber camp, where he was taken sick on the Fourth of July with acute indigestion, Mike Neman, 50 years old, was placed in a rooming house at 526 West Superior street, where he was found in a dying condition yesterday morning by Police Surgeon Murphy. Neman died at St. Luke's hospital yesterday afternoon.

Had Neman been brought to a hospital direct from the lumber camp, Dr. Murphy believes he could have saved the man's life.

The body has been taken to the Crawford undertaking rooms, from where the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at the county's expense. Interment will be at the Greenwood cemetery.

CUT IN FOOT WAS NEARLY FATAL

Mrs. Herman Zimmerman of 214 West Second street almost bled to death at her home last evening, as the result of having stepped on a porcelain cuspidor, only quick work on the part of Police Surgeon Murphy saving the woman's life.

Mrs. Zimmerman was alone in the house at the time of the accident and she was unable to summon any help. After a short while one of her children came home, and Dr. Murphy was then notified. During all this time the woman was bleeding profusely, and in another half hour she may have died from loss of blood. Dr. Murphy quickly dressed the wound and took Mrs. Zimmerman to St. Luke's hospital, where her condition is reported as improving.

The cuspidor was broken and had very sharp edges.

"SPIRITS" GOT HIS BANK ROLL

Tony Radick "fell for" the old fortune telling game last evening and claims he gave Mary Adams, a Servian fortune teller, $60, which she has refused to return to him.

Tony entered the woman's tent in a vacant store on West Superior street early last evening and gave her $2 with which to tell his fortune. It was then, Radick claims, she asked him for all the money he had. He gave her the $60.

Mary took one $20 bill and placed it in her mouth and she kept one in her right hand and the other in her left hand. After a few magic words she crumpled the money up in a bunch and put it away, telling Tony to return after a while as the spirits were then at work. When he returned she told him to come later, as she was not yet ready. He then called the police and had Mary arrested.

Mary will be arraigned in municipal court sometime this afternoon.

Mount Tamalpais Fire Checked.

San Francisco, Cal., July 9.—Fire which has swept the slopes of Mount Tamalpais, across San Francisco for two days, threatening Muirwoods National park and half a score of hamlets, was reported at midnight to have burned itself out against backfires. The woods and villages are safe.

HOLUM BOUND OVER.

North Dakotan Charged With Having Killed His Wife.

Langdon, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matt Holum today was bound over to the district court, charged with murdering his wife. The offense is not bailable. Holum waived examination when arraigned in a justice's court. He is accused of killing his wife, whose dead body was found in a barn of the Holum farm. He claims she was kicked to death by a horse.

CHAUTAUQUA AT TAYLOR'S FALLS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taylor's Falls and Interstate Park at the Dells of the St. Croix river may be made the center of an interstate chantauqua, if plans now being developed by George H. Hazzard, commissioner of Interstate park, are taken up by President Vincent of the University of Minnesota, and President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Hazzard's plan provides for the taking part by residents of both states and the two universities in an educational and athletic center.

Francis Declines Job.

Velva, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. H. Francis, appointed chief game warden of the North district to succeed George F. Hart, removed, will not accept the appointment. He announced today that private business interests would make it impossible for him to take up the work.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

HOW far a city can go in providing for its citizens without becoming a charitable organization or adopting socialistic doctrines, is a question raised by the proposal that the New York city school board serve noon luncheons to pupils at cost. The school lunch committee of New York city, made up of private citizens, has for five years conducted school lunches as an experiment, and, convinced that it has established the value and feasibility of conducting such lunches, now asks the board of education to take over the work. The committee reports that the receipts from its penny-an-article lunches cover the cost of the food and that the small deficit incurred is due only to the cost of service and supervision. It further tells how the study of home conditions has shown the need of such lunches and advances other reasons as well for maintaining them. Over eighty principals have asked to have lunches served to their pupils, and the campaign is meeting with support from numerous civic, social and educational sources. The board of education feels that legal obstacles and lack of funds may prevent, for the present, at least, their establishment of lunches.

The only school in which noon lunches have been served to the pupils in this city has been the high school, the others being so located that the students can easily go to their homes at the noon hour. The school authorities believe that the noon lunches here have been a success. The cost to the students has been comparatively small; they have been relieved of the necessity of carrying lunches which have to be cut up at home, where they are more or less bother and the students have been able to get some hot, nourishing food and wholesome sandwiches.

ACTOR, WHO SHOT OFFICER, ON TRIAL.

Hackensack, N. J., July 9.—James S. Devlin, a vaudeville actor, is on trial here for the murder of Patrick Considine, a policeman, on the night of May 25. He is alleged to have shot the policeman with the latter's revolver after the two had quarreled over the attentions paid by Considine to the actor's wife.

Miss Annie Devlin, a cousin of the defendant and a witness to the tragedy, testified Considine handed his revolver to Devlin and said, "Go ahead and shoot." Devlin thereupon fired the fatal shot, she swore.

The case will probably go to the jury late toay.

LEACH HEADS ELKS' ORDER

Use of Liquor in Clubs Is Denounced in Report.

Rochester, N. Y., July 9.—A second ballot for the election of a grand exalted treasurer, and the report of the committee appointed to consider the question of the erection of a national home at Bedford, Va., was the chief business before the grand lodge of Elks when the second day's session of the forty-ninth annual reunion convened this morning.

Today's entertainment feature included concerts by massed bands, sightseeing trips, sailing yachts and motor boat rides and a roastfest and pyrotechnical display at Ontario Beach park.

Leach Succeeds Mills.

Grand Treasurer Edward Leach of New York was elected grand exalted ruler of the order to succeed Thomas B. Mills of Superior, Wis. Mr. Leach was opposed by J. Cookman Boyd of Baltimore. The vote was Leach, 1,119; Boyd, 392. Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson of Dubuque, Iowa, was re-elected in a three-cornered fight.

Other officers chosen are:

Grand esteemed leading knight, P. H. Shields, Clarksburg, W. Va.; grand esteemed lecturing knight, E. M. Dickerman, Tucson, Ariz.; grand inner guard, Edwan J. Kelly, Cheyenne, Wyo.; grand trustee for five years, V. Perrott, Indianapolis; grand trustee for two years to fill vacancy caused by the death of Mayor C. C. Schmidt of Wheeling, W. Va., James R. Nicholson, Springfield, Mass.

Judge John Mitchell of St. Paul was appointed to the grand forum by Grand Exalted Ruler Thomas B. Mills to succeed Perry A. Shanor of Sisterville, Pa.

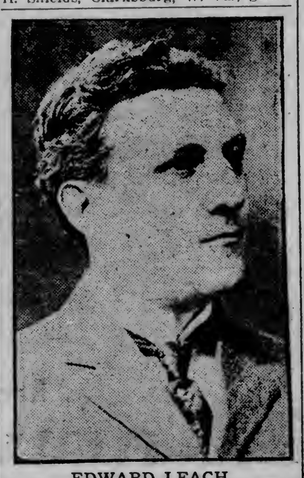

Atlanta withdrew from the race for the 1914 convention before the grand lodge went into session and the delegates were unanimous for Denver.

Denounced Conduct of Clubs.

"The manner in which the clubs connected with some of the subordinate lodges are conducted is a disgrace to the order and in many places a public scandal. Liquor is sold, either in open violation of the laws of the land, or some miserable subterfuge is resorted to in evasion of those laws, thereby trampling under foot the obligation and statutes of the order. While it is true that these crimes can be charged to but a very small percentage of the membership where indulged in, yet the fact remains that the outside world pillories each and every member of the lodge and blames the innocent with the guilty."

The report of Grand Exalted Secretary Robinson showed a total membership on April 1 of 408,281, an increase of 23,988 for the year, and 12 new lodges. Total assets May 31 amounted to $500,322.38 and liabilities, $10,097.24.

COUNTY BOARD GIVES CONTRACTS

Steel Bridge Will Be Erected Over the Mudhen River.

Road and bridge contracts for which bids were opened Monday were yesterday awarded by the county board, at its afternoon session, which was a short one.

The Minneapolis Steel Bridge company was given a contract for the erection of a steel bridge over the Mudhen river on the Morrison road for $1,244. J. Peterson and J. M. Johnson were awarded the contract to resurface the bridge for $210.

The road contracts let follow: Matti Hannula, 3¼ miles, on the Swanson road at $4.50 per rod; M. J. Beck, constructing 2 miles of Bassett road, $2,950; Carl Hagglund, 2 miles of the Alango road, $4 per rod; Antti Jarvi, 2 miles on the Nevalainen road, $1,240 per mile; Ludwig Olson, 2½ miles on Halvorson road, $2,500 for the entire work; N. M. Nelson, 2¼ miles northern extension Cotton road; Alfred Buckman, 1 mile on Gheen road, $700; F. E. Beacham, 3 miles on the Edholm road, $647 per mile, and one mile on Holmstein road at the same bid.

The contract for the decorating of the interior of the Netherland flats, city property owned by the county, was awarded to J. O. Porlier for $973.

SIX KILLED IN PHILIPPINE WRECK.

Manila, July 9.—Six men were killed and thirty injured today when a flat car crowded with members of the coast artillery was wrecked between here and Corregidor, about thirty miles southwest of the city. The soldiers were proceeding to the drill grounds at Corregidor when the flat car jumped the track and overturned.

THE BROWN BOTTLE BURLESQUE

Chicago, November 12, 1912.

To our Clients:—

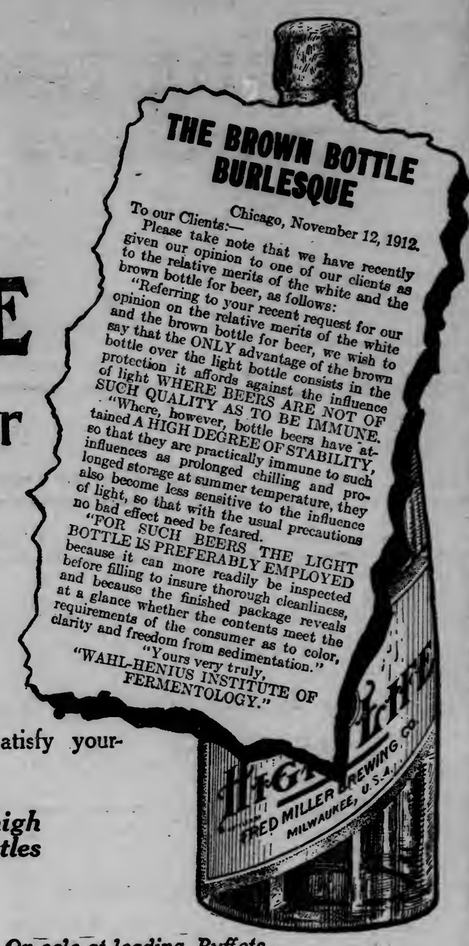

Please take note that we have recently given our opinion to one of our clients as to the relative merits of the white and the brown bottle for beer, as follows:

"Referring to your recent request for our opinion on the relative merits of the white and the brown bottle for beer, we wish to say that the ONLY advantage of the brown bottle over the light bottle consists in the protection it affords against the influence of light WHERE BEERS ARE NOT OF SUCH QUALITY AS TO BE IMMUNE.

"Where, however, bottle beers have attained A HIGH DEGREE OF STABILITY, so that they are practically immune to such influences as prolonged chilling and prolonged storage at summer temperature, they also become less sensitive to the influence of light, so that with the usual precautions no bad effect need be feared.

"FOR SUCH BEERS THE LIGHT BOTTLE IS PREFERABLY EMPLOYED because it can more readily be inspected before filling to insure thorough cleanliness, and because the finished package reveals at a glance whether the contents meet the requirements of the consumer as to color, clarity and freedom from sedimentation."

A Blessing to Victims of "Sore Feet" Agony

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and itching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.

EXPOSITION WEEK FIXED

Merchants Will Hold Fall Openings Week of Sept. 22.

George M. Peterson New Secretary; Herald Praised for Its Policy.

The week of Sept. 22 will be a gala week in Duluth.

At its meeting last night, following a banquet at the Spalding hotel, the Retail Merchants' association fixed that week for the holding of the fall exposition.

Plans are being made on an elaborate scale. All the merchants in the city will hold their fall openings at that time; the fall industrial exposition will be conducted; band concerts, parades and unique, novel and attractive entertainments of various amusing kinds, will be put on; the theaters will be requested to book special attractions for the week, and the whole will be set off with one of the most extensive advertising campaigns which has ever set forth the advantages of Duluth to the outside country.

The association complimented The Herald for its refusal to receive fraudulent advertising. Specific reference was made to advertising tendered by an Oriental importing company, offering purported confiscated goods for sale, and to an auction sale on West First street. E. A. Silberstein explained that he had ascertained from the government that not enough so-called confiscated goods are brought into this country to stock a small store, while self-styled importing companies are offering huge quantities of goods for sale under that caption throughout the country.

Peterson Is Secretary.

George M. Peterson, secretary of the Retail Grocers' association, was elected secretary of the Retail Merchants' association, to succeed A. C. Pearson, resigned. Mr. Pearson is secretary and credit manager of French & Bassett and he explained that his duties are so numerous that they would no longer permit him to devote the necessary time to his work as secretary of the organization. Mr. Pearson was tendered a unanimous vote of thanks for the excellent services which he has rendered for the association. The association recognized that it has largely been through his untiring efforts and energy that the organization has reached its present high standing and important position in the community.

A committee was appointed to obtain a list of entries from farmers of Jackson county for the exhibition to be held in the fall under the auspices of the association. The committee will also have charge of the prizes which have been offered for the occasion by members of the association.

The association is endeavoring to have the merchants get together upon regular closing hours for July and August. A committee was appointed to wait upon the drygoods merchants and another committee will visit merchants in other lines of business on the same mission.

Circus Licenses.

The members discussed at length the question of raising circus licenses. The sentiment was that the association did not desire to influence the city commissioners to fix the fee at a prohibitive figure but to raise it to conform with the higher licenses which are paid by circuses in other cities.

At the May meeting of the association, a resolution was passed in which the members expressed a desire to have the license fee raised from $250 to $500 or $1,000, the matter of increase to be left with the city commissioners.

It was also the sentiment of the association not to allow circuses in the city on July 4 or Saturdays.

In fairness to John J. Moe, president of the association, it was shown, that he put the motion merely in his official capacity. Some adverse criticism has come from S. W. Hill, a West end merchant, against Mr. Moe's stand on circus licenses. Mr. Hill was not at the May meeting of the association and was under a misapprehension in assuming that Mr. Moe made the motion.

COHALEN CASE IS ON AT ALBANY.

Albany, N. Y., July 9.—The legislative inquiry into the charges preferred against Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalen of New York by John A. Connolly, a contractor, has been before the senate and assembly judiciary committees. The charges embraced the assertions of Connolly that Cohalen agreed with Connolly to secure city contracts in return for 55 per cent of the profits, and that he agreed to procure a political position for Connolly as consideration of a note for $4,000.

MOUSE EXPOSES FRAUD IN BOXES.

New York, July 9.—Four thousand baskets of cherries shipped here from Wenatchee, Wash., were seized yesterday by the commissioner of weights and measures, who charged that they were short of a quart by more than nine cubic centimeters each. The discovery was made when one of the baskets was exposed for sale after a hole had been eaten in the false bottom by a mouse.

Four thousand additional baskets are expected here from Wenatchee and these, too, will be seized if they are under size. This is the first time in three years that false bottom cherry boxes have been sent here by western shippers.

BLEASE RELEASES MORE CONVICTS.

Columbia, S. C., July 9.—Governor Blease gave executive clemency to sixteen convicts yesterday, and brought his record of prisoners released from serving full sentences up to nearly 700 since he took office a little more than two years ago. Among those now released are two murderers. The governor announced he would issue no more pardons until Thanksgiving day, which he signalized last year by releasing seventy-nine convicts at one stroke.

MAY TRY TO FORCE LID ON OPIUM.

The Hague, July 9.—The international opium conference, opened here July 1, has agreed to the final protocol, which provides that if by Dec. 31 the powers have not all adhered to the opium convention, those who signed shall be invited by the Dutch government to appoint delegates to meet at The Hague to consider the possibility of putting the convention in force in spite of the abstention of the non-adhering states. This convention was drawn up in 1912.

Canton, Ohio, July 9.—Resolutions adopted by the McKinley club of this city, named in honor of William McKinley, whose home was in Canton, have been forwarded to President Wilson and Postmaster General Burleson, protesting against the substitution of the picture of Jefferson for that of McKinley on postal cards.

WHY RESINOL SOAP KEEPS COMPLEXIONS CLEAR AND HEALTHY

When you wash your face do you realize that it is not enough to remove the dirt—that your skin needs a soothing, healing influence to keep your complexion fresh and free from blemish?

Ordinary toilet soaps do not assert this influence. Many of them contain free alkali which tends to dry the skin and destroy its delicate texture. Even the best of such soap can only clean, they cannot heal and protect the skin. Resinol Soap, besides being an absolutely pure toilet soap, contains the same soothing, healing, antiseptic balsams as Resinol Ointment, the value of which in the treatment of skin affections is known throughout the medical profession. That is why Resinol Soap does for the skin what cosmetics are supposed to do—it insures not only a clean skin, but a healthy skin, and a fair, clear complexion. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. Trial free; Dept. 4-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

DULUTH'S TWENTY-MILLION-DOLLAR-PLANT.

With the building of the Minnesota Steel company's plants, the cement plants and the new steel ore dock of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, the United States Steel corporation is expending upward of twenty million dollars at Duluth. —Statement to The Herald last evening by President James A. Farrell.

Not even Duluth has yet begun to grasp the scope and importance of this new industry that has come to Minnesota, the coming of which is by all odds the greatest industrial event in the history of the state.

It means a greater Duluth. It means the establishment of an industrial center that by its very weight and magnitude will attract other manufacturing plants on a large scale. It means to Minnesota the manufacture of steel products by high-paid Minnesota labor. It means an immensely increased domestic market for the products of Minnesota farms and market gardens. It means a great increase in wealth and population to Duluth and to Minnesota.

And, aside from the matter of size, the new plant will be a model, the finest, most up-to-date and most elaborate in the world, the last word in steel plants in this age of steel; and it will be surrounded by a model village, where the workmen will live, that will furnish an eloquent object lesson in building communities for the comfort and well-being of their inhabitants.

Not the least remarkable thing about this new industry is the way it has grown from the original plans.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

Had it not been for the panic of 1907, a disastrous affair that brought hardships to many, and which Duluth felt as much as any, the steel plant would now be completed and in operation—BUT IT WOULD BE ONLY A THIRD AS LARGE AS IT NOW WILL BE WHEN IT IS COMPLETED.

The first news of the decision of the United States Steel corporation to establish a plant at Duluth came April 1, 1907, in the form of a telegram to The Herald from New York, signed by Thomas F. Cole, Joseph B. Cotton and Frank B. Kellogg, in which this statement was made:

> The United States Steel corporation has today decided to establish an iron and steel plant at Duluth. The plans are not fully developed, but they will involve something like FIVE OR SIX MILLION DOLLARS.

Then came the panic of October, 1907, and several years of depression during which the production of the steel trade diminished until the United States Steel corporation was using less than half its existing capacity.

This occasioned delay in completing the plans for the Duluth plant; but in the meantime the conception of Duluth as a site for an important steel industry grew in the minds of the managers of the steel corporation until President Farrell, in his interview with The Herald yesterday, announced that instead of five or six million dollars, the expenditure on the Duluth plant will reach TWENTY MILLIONS.

Three very vital things, things that everybody should realize, this good news means:

First, that the wise and far-seeing managers of this great corporation see in Duluth an ideal location for great industries;

Second, that they see in the rapidly developing Northwest a tremendous market in the future for their products;

Third, that though Wall Street may shiver with every passing breeze, this great corporation is confident of the future of the nation and of the solidity and permanence of the national prosperity.

And it is investing millions in Duluth to prove its confidence and its judgment.

The shooting of the chief of police of Cuba raises a natural query as to where the New York gunmen have gone.

CAUGHT!

A morning paper column of labored explanation, vituperation and abuse comes to this:

That the News Tribune did not pay its gas bill in time to get the discount;

That it pleaded with Mr. Hatch, then manager of the water and light department, to break the rules in its favor and allow it the discount notwithstanding the fact that the time for it had elapsed;

That it sought for itself a special privilege which, if it had been granted to another and the fact had come to its knowledge, it would have severely criticized—at least it should have;

That it appealed from Mr. Hatch's refusal to those in authority above him, and got its special privilege; and

That thereafter Mr. Hatch was persona non grata with the News Tribune.

As to the controversy over the management of the water and light department, there seems but one really important point: Mr. Hatch and his superior, Commissioner Merritt, didn't hitch; therefore Mr. Hatch had to go. Mr. Merritt is the responsible head of the department, responsible for its workings to the commission and to the people. Therefore he is entitled to a manager satisfactory to himself, and however useful and successful a public servant Mr. Hatch might be, things couldn't go well if there was friction between him and Mr. Merritt.

Aside from that, there is nothing much, apparently, except that one good man has gone out of the department and another good man has come in. The public can very well let it go at that, content that Commissioner Merritt, to whom it must look for results, has chosen a manager to his liking, as it is his right to do.

As to the News Tribune's part in the affair, comment seems superfluous.

If the recent contrasts in temperature continue it won't be very surprising to see a bill introduced in congress to move the national capitol to Duluth.

EAST, WEST, DULUTH'S BEST.

The Baltimore Sun and the Washington Star are quarreling over which town is the worst for summer heat.

The Baltimore paper said a word of pity for congressmen compelled to be at work in Washington, and the Washington paper came back like this: "Now, why should Baltimore take a fling at Washington on the subject of summer weather?" And then the Star goes on to tell how the patriots suffered at Baltimore a year ago when Wilson was being nominated, and how some of them fled to Washington to get relief.

If the practice of debating which is the worst city to live in in summer becomes general, there will be many candidates, and the issue will be in doubt.

But when it comes to the BEST city to live in in summer, there is no debate at all.

Duluth wins, without a contest.

The man who could control the digestion of a nation could sneer openly at whoever framed its rules of etiquette.

MAKE IT SAFE AND SANE, BUT NOT TAME.

"Obviously," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "the abolition of deadly fireworks is not enough."

Nothing can be more certain.

Everybody is glad—boyhood possibly excepted—to see the casualty lists dwindling as they have since the safe and sane Fourth idea became prevalent.

But we must confess a good deal of sympathy with the viewpoint of the Chicago man who was interviewed in the local column of The Herald the day after the Fourth, and who said:

> The quietness got on my nerves. If I could only have heard one tiny firecracker I might have gotten on. I feel sorry for the boy of today and the one to come if he never experiences the old Fourth of July spirit that I did when I was a kid. I fear the Fourth in Minnesota will be observed much as Washington's or Lincoln's birthdays in the future. And the kids won't think any more of Independence day than of those. Maybe it's all right and the proper thing to do, but to me a Fourth without the fireworks is about as exciting as cracking stone for the city."

There is a good deal to that. There is real danger that Independence day will degenerate into a milk-and-water holiday as flat and unprofitable as a schoolday right after vacation.

Not that we agree with the Chicago man that firecrackers and explosives ought to be restored. That will never be.

But the country ought to think up a substitute—a real one that will arouse and enthuse the old hurrah-boys spirit of the Fourth that went with the deadly explosives. American ingenuity and patriotism has been equal to greater problems than this, and it ought to find it easy to get up something new that will preserve the spirit of the Fourth while eliminating its perils.

And for one, we'd like to see the city save its pennies between now and next Fourth and spend the whole wad in a rousing celebration, ending up with a delightfully wasteful profusion of expensive fireworks at night—an exhibition for all the people, not merely for those who can afford the boat club or the country club.

It will also be noted that it is often more popular to draw the kind of weed you get in the cigar store than to pull the kind you find in the garden.

A LEADER INDEED.

Praise for President Wilson's Gettysburg speech is almost universal—not alone for its splendid literary quality and its high patriotism, but for the supreme good taste with which the president avoided any comparison with the incomparable speech made there half a century ago by Abraham Lincoln.

The New York Sun adds its praise to the chorus, but poisons it by captious criticism of this statement and question by the president: "I have been chosen leader of the nation. Whom do I command?"

Thus the Sun:

> And it appears that the host he commands "is the people themselves."
> With no desire to cross-examine a taking bit of rhetoric, we may still be allowed to say that Mr. Wilson was not chosen and is not the leader of the nation. He is the president of the nation, the leader of a minority party.

With such purblind partisanship and bias there can be little patience.

Woodrow Wilson most distinctly IS the LEADER of the American people. He is that even more conspicuously than he is president of the United States and titular head of the Democratic party. He is the people's leader in the successful assault upon the throne room of Privilege—the protective tariff—and he is their leader in the devastating rout of the Invisible Government that has prostituted government to the service of Privilege.

It is easy to see how the Sun, a Tory newspaper speaking Tory thought, shudders at the idea of having the people blessed by such a leader, and led straight to the right things unconfused by partisanship. But that is what he is, nevertheless, and that is what he is doing.

The assertion that it was bad banking that put the crimp in that Pittsburg institution is a sad, sad blow for the calamity howlers.

GEN. SIBLEY'S MARCH.

In your issue of June 23, I noted the following:

"Local interest is taken in the proposition to survey the Sibley trail across the state, largely due to the fact that Sibley's forces crossed the Red river here and began the trip from this point. A half a century ago, after the New Ulm massacre, the forces of Generals Sully and Sibley were started to drive the Indians westeward. The reds were causing some trouble in this section and Sibley started direct from this point. His trail was from here to Jamestown, then north through Griggs, Foster and Nelson counties and later south and west to Bismarck. Sibley's forces fought the Indians three times on the trip. Curator Fish of the state historical society will have the survey in charge. It is proposed to permanently mark and map the route."

The above is correct except that Gen. Sibley did not see the Red river until his return. He did not cross the Red river at Abercrombie or at any other point; he did not start his expedition from Abercrombie, and as there was not a white inhabitant at that time in what is now North Dakota, except those within the stockade of Fort Abercrombie, consequently there was no Jamestown and no Bismarck. With these few exceptions the article is correct.

The following are the facts:

Gen. Sibley organized his expedition at Camp Pope, about eighteen miles west of Fort Ridgely, with a force of 4,000 men, infantry, cavalry and artillery, together with mule teams innumerable, to transport the rations of the whole force for the full time of our trip, as there would be no means of replenishing our rations until our return. He started June 16, 1863, a due northwest course to Big Stone lake, thence to Lake Traverse. Gen. Sibley and the expedition continued their course northwest, while at this point a detachment consisting of Company D, First Minnesota Mounted Rangers (of which I was a member) under command of Capt. Oscar Taylor of St. Cloud were ordered to proceed north to Fort Abercrombie, with all the wagons that we had emptied thus far on our trip, and have them replenished with rations at Fort Abercrombie and rejoin the expedition.

This is the small portion of the expedition that went north to Fort Abercrombie, loaded our wagons, then proceeded on our way July 5, 1863, and rejoined the main column at the second crossing of the Cheyenne river, about a week later.

As this is a portion of Minnesota's history during the most critical time of her existence, fighting for her very existence at home and contributing her full proportion for the suppression of the rebellion south, I think it should be truthful and correct.

Sibley's trail can be easily traced today, just fifty years since we made it.

By one who was there,
JOHN H. LA VAQUE.

Casting Pearls.

Canadian Law Review: George Kirchwey, dean of Columbia Law school, New York, has a keen and incisive wit. At one of his recent lectures the students were uneasy. The clock beat Prof. Kirchwey by perhaps a minute, but at the expiration of the schedule time the students started to their feet and prepared to leave. "Wait a minute," objected Prof. Kirchwey. "Don't go just yet. I have a few more pearls to cast."

What the Seeker for Office Found

Editorial in Chicago Evening Post.

Frank Putnam, good and genial writer and Democrat, went to Washington to look for a job, and had a change of heart but not of occupation. He tells the story interestingly, and in it there may be found that which peradventure will have its light and its lesson for others. He tells first of his disinclination "to seek" and then of the sudden birth and upspringing of desire. The sequel seems a satisfying conclusion of the tale.

In the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Mr. Putnam says:

> Like scores of thousands of other Democrats, I have looked forward eagerly to the time when my party should control the government and afford an opportunity to put into practice some of the principles for which we had fought in many campaigns. Unlike most of the others, it never occurred to me to seek an office by appointment should our party capture the government. Until the capture took place. Then up rose old Adam and said: "Why not claim one of the good jobs under the Democratic administration as a reward for your part in making the triumph possible? It would be a new adventure; it might prove very interesting; it would certainly afford new opportunities for studying the political organization of human society. Go to it!"

So Mr. Putnam went "to it," but he did not stay "to it" long. He found that two hours of office seeking were enough to cure him of the itching palm and the yearning heart. He saw cabinet officers, secretaries to cabinet officers, senators and representatives, "all as sore as boils from the ceaseless impact upon their attention of thousands of applications and indorsements delivered by letter and in person."

He adds: "I found these horribly harassed gentlemen as helpless to do anything for the constituents as so many Texas cotton pickers might be." Mr. Putnam was told by the disappointed that the administration had taken refuge behind the civil service rules established by Republicans, but he did not see it that way. He writes:

> As it looks to me, the Wilson administration—which consists of one perfectly competent president and a small group of personal advisers who have won his confidence and most of whom are not in nor seeking office—has given the civil service system a refuge under its batteries.

It is pleasant to learn from Frank Putnam that "the consular service will not be sacked; men in that service who have done anything like good work can go on with their tasks untroubled for the future: vacancies in the higher consular posts will be filled by promotions from the lower places. And so it is and will be in all of the government departments—as it should be."

Not a bit sorry nor one whit disappointed, the seeker has returned without finding what he went to find, but finding that which is to the credit of the new administration and of benefit to the service of Uncle Sam.

Cutting Out the Slang

Chicago Record-Herald: "I wish," said Mrs. Brown, "that you wouldn't use so much slang, Jimmy. It is frightful to listen to your murder the King's English."

"Oh, what's the principal kick about?" demanded Brown. "You don't hear me talking profanity, do you?"

"No," answered Mrs. Brown. "But you do talk such awful slang that I am getting into the habit myself, and I'm fearful I'll make some break before some of my friends."

"Oh, you aren't so bad," protested Brown. "Besides, everybody talks a little slang nowadays, and when it comes to English undefiled, why, you're there with your hair in a braid."

"There you go!" exclaimed Mrs. Brown. "You talk like that about half the time, and I can't help failing for some of it myself—I should say," she hastily corrected herself, "unconsciously assimilating expressions from your conversation. It's fierce—I mean it's distressing."

Brown grinned.

"Why, it's getting so bad," continued Mrs. Brown, "that I'm afraid to open my mouth before my friends for fear I'll say something that will cause them to snub me ever afterward. Why, the other day, when Mrs. Jones was here, guess what I said."

"Couldn't hit it in a thousand years," confessed Brown. "What did you say? Go ahead, shoot, kid."

"Well," continued Mrs. Brown, "I never was so mortified in all my life before. I was telling her how the cook had been climbing on her high horse because she suspected that I was going to let her out at the end of the month. I never was so mortified in all my life—"

"What did you say?" demanded Brown.

"I said: 'I think, Mrs. Jones, she knows that I'm fixing it to tie a can to her at the end of the month!'"

Brown threw away his newspaper and shrieked with laughter.

"Yes, laugh?" exclaimed Mrs. Brown. "It's funny—ha! ha! ha! She looked at me as if I had suddenly taken leave of my senses, and if this keeps on, Jimmy, I'll be ditched all over—I mean I'll be snubbed everywhere. And I can't help it," she continued, complainingly; it's all your fault, Jimmy, I wish you would take a little more care of your talk, and then perhaps I wouldn't get next—mean assimilate so many horrible expressions."

"Sure thing!" exclaimed Brown heartily, "I'll help you till the cows come home, kid! Honest, I'll chop the slang out entirely, and then we'll get together on this thing and study polite expressions. I'm sure we can put it across together."

"Oh, will you, Jimmy?" exclaimed Mrs. Brown. "You're a dear good boy, and I'm sure we can hatch up some scheme to cut out the slang and get to talking real English after awhile."

"But, I warn you," said Brown, "that I may make slips now and then. The fellows at the office talk so much slang that I can't always keep in the straight and narrow path. However, I'll do my best, and we'll make Shakespeare look like a last year's quince—you watch my smoke, kid!"

"Oh, I'm so glad you see it my way, Jimmy," said Mrs. Brown. "Even if you do make a break or two it won't cut any ice. After awhile you'll get out of that habit and talk like a human being."

"You're not sore, are you?" asked Brown tentatively. "I'll do the best I can, kid."

"Sore!" echoed Mrs. Brown. "Well, I guess not! I just wanted to tell you not to use so much slang, Jim. And even if you do, I should worry! You're my own good darling Jimmy, anyhow!"

"Oh, you kid!" exclaimed Brown, rising and going over to his wife's chair——

And the scribe begs permission to draw the curtain right here.

Not An Easy Feat.

New York Globe: The day was warm, the children restless, the teachers impatient. One curly-haired boy was moving his jaws faster with chewing gum than his brain had ever been known to work. His feet were in the aisle and a smile was on the face of more than one pupil when the teacher said:

"Take that gum out of your mouth and put your feet in."

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Pixley is a man who has acquired wealth by writing musical comedies. Any person who goes to the theater oftener than once a year has seen a number of musical shows by Frank Pixley. And to think that a little bit of an inconsequential wad of chewing gum gave Pixley his start!

Pixley used to work on the editorial staff of a newspaper at Akron, Ohio, and even then had an idea that he could write stuff for the stage. But how was he going to do it? He didn't feel like sitting down and dashing off the stuff for a musical comedy at the end of a hard day's work on a newspaper. If he just had time to take a few weeks or months off and do nothing but write what his fancy dictated he knew he could put the stuff across in nice shape. But he couldn't afford to do anything but hang on to his job so long as it continued to provide him with three reasonably substantial meals a day.

He stuck to the routine, and he might be sticking to it yet, except for the little wad of chewing gum already mentioned in the opening stanza.

A number of little lakes lie near Akron, and they contain fish, or at least they did then. One afternoon a fisherman went out in a red scow to fish for croppies. For a long time they didn't bite worth a solitary continental and he simply wore out his bait casting into various likely looking holes. At last, toward sundown, they began to take hold and bite, and right when the man seemed to have located a whole young seminary of fish, his bait gave out. He yearned to catch just one more before he pulled the heavy red scow back to the dock. But he hadn't so much as a piece of red flannel about him to put on the hook. He sat and chewed a wad of gum in his mouth trying to think of something to use for bait. Ah, ha! why not try the chewing gum itself? He did so. And would you believe it, the fish fairly began to elbow each other to get at that hook. The man caught more fish in the next half hour than he would have said he caught if he had been merely telling lies about his afternoon sport.

He went into Akron with his fine catch and told of his lucky hunch in baiting with chewing gum. The little incident was discussed about the streets, and in due course percolated to the newspaper office where Frank Pixley worked.

Pixley was correspondent for the New York Sun, which in those days was always on the lookout for just such odd little stories as that, and he wired it briefly to that paper. As it happened he mentioned the kind of chewing gum it was. It was a gum made by W. J. White, who was then in the early processes of becoming the chewing gum king of the world.

From the New York Sun the little item was copied into hundreds of other papers, and White's gum got about a million dollars' worth of free advertising. Naturally, White was tickled nearly to death. The news story made people talk about his gum as no gum had ever been talked about before, and the tide of success was turned in his favor more rapidly than he had ever hoped for. He sent to Akron to find out who was responsible for mentioning his gum in the papers.

In response to several requests, Pixley journeyed to Cleveland to see White. He explained that he was not entitled to any gratitude: that, in fact, if it had occurred to him that he was giving the gum a lot of free advertising he probably would not have mentioned what kind it was.

"White insisted that he wouldn't feel right until he was permitted to make Pixley some kind of a nice little present.

"No, I won't do that," said Pixley, "but if you've fallen in love with my personality and are crazy for a chance to use me for an instrument to do something fine for your country, I am willing to accept a loan from you." And he told White of his musical comedy ideas and how anxious he was for a chance to work them out without the bother of earning his living all at the same time.

That being the case, White staked Pixley, and kept in touch with him for some years after, while Pixley, in due course, set to work and cleaned up a fortune of his own.

Col. Bob Gates, Washington correspondent for the Memphis Commercial Appeal, broke into the newspaper business in a small town down in that state. Once, when he was still new at it, a train slowed up in the little town and a number of notable people got off to lunge about briefly. Among them was John Jacob Astor.

Bob Gates was sent to interview him. He had Astor pointed out to him, and with a number of questions all ready to put to him, walked up to the man.

"I'm Mr. Gates, of the local paper here," said Bob, "and—"

"Mighty glad to meet you, Mr. Gates," said Astor, with great affability, "and may I not offer you a cigar?" He fumbled in his pocket, but found he was out of cigars. So he led the way over to the station counter.

"Got any real good cigars?" Astor asked the clerk.

"How good?" the clerk inquired.

"Oh, something at a dollar, say."

"Just got one dollar cigar," said the clerk, thinking he had called the customer's bluff. "It is a sample cigar."

So Astor bought it and handed it to Bob.

"And now," inquired Astor, pleasantly, "what was it you wished to ask me?"

Bob was still staring at the cigar. He put it reverently in his left-hand upper vest pocket, and said:

"Why—er—that is, I mean, I—I've forgot what it was."

Burke for the Senate.

Fargo Courier-News: The Washington dispatches state that there is in ex-Governor Burke's mind the thought of entering the race for the United States senate next year. That will be good news to the people of North Dakota, for our late governor is a man of ability as well as of cleanly, progressive political beliefs.

The Courier-News hopes to see some able and clean Progressive sent to the coming senatorial fight, but barring that would be glad to see John Burke assume the toga. If he enters the fight it will mean a third party Progressive or a Progressive-Democrat to represent the state for the six years beginning with the expiration of the term of the present incumbent, a stalwart Republican.

His Specialty.

Puck: "Now," said the warden to the forger who had just arrived at the prison, "we'll set you to work. What can you do best?"

"Well, if you'll give me a week's practice on your signature I'll sign your official papers for you," said the prisoner. But there were reasons why the warden refused to do this.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Easy to Figure.

Walker Pilot: It doesn't take much of a stretch of imagination to figure out the benefits of the elastic currency plan.

They Are Not Slow.

Madison Western Guard: We believe it is generally admitted that the commission form of government is a great improvement over the old method, and for that reason Minnesota cities should not be slow in adopting it.

No Apologies to Make.

Biwabik Times: The iron range railroads are to be congratulated upon their attitude towards the Minnesota rate law. They accepted this law without question and during all the years that it was being fought in the courts by other companies was lived up to on the range. The result is that the companies have no apologies to make and no refunds to disgorge.

Big Task.

Rush City Post: A state educational commission was created at the last session of the legislature to make a study and survey of the entire school system of the state in order that it may be revised and systematized to meet present day demands, and that defects may be removed. The task before this commission is a big one and it is hoped that when the report of its labors are placed before the next legislature many important, useful and beneficial changes may result from its efforts.

Horse Sense Needed.

Le Sueur News: The state of Minnesota is a school of finance that might appeal to President Wilson. It loans on "foreign" bonds bearing 3 per cent, and home ones must bear 5. It receives 2 per cent from the banks for monthly balances and pays the same banks 5 per cent for loans. It is not public utilities we need half so much as a little horse sense exercised judiciously.

Premium for Poor Roads.

Princeton News: The farmer actually pays a premium for bad roads. He pays it in time expended in getting to market; in value of drafting animals and the food they eat, and in the extra hand for their care and handling; in increased number of vehicles and wear and tear on them, and in the decreased product of land that has less attention and care. If the country had a system of smooth and hard highways it would blossom like a rose, and prosperity would follow in the wake.

Sure!

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: Why should not Minnesota women have as much voice in electing the next president and congress as those of California or the other suffrage states? Aren't our folks just as good as their folks?

Farm Prosperity.

Aurora News: Butter, eggs and other farm produce is being sold in Aurora every day by farmers within driving distance of the village. Yet a few years ago the people laughed at those who talked of the agricultural possibilities of St. Louis county. A progressive farmer can become independent on forty acres in a few years with modern methods.

Lodge at a Glance.

New York Sun: Since the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge by the use of his august frank obtained at government expense an unpaid circulation of 320,000 for that fascinating pamphlet "Sugar at a Glance," his use of the frank for that purpose must have been righter than right and purer than ten colleges of vestals.

Mr. Lodge's blood is bluer than the Staffordshire plate which depicts the old Nahant hotel; his aspirations, his ideals, his conduct stand above those of meaner men like Teneriffe or Atlas unremoved; he is the model senator or portrait of a senator, so to speak; he is the living digest of the traditions, proprieties, precedents; the perfection of senatorial etiquette is concentrated in him; among the pygmies of the primaries he stalks venerable and apart, like a particularly well groomed lion compelled to associate with pismires.

In Henry Cabot Lodge the world sees the moral and intellectual legatee of Harrison Gray Otis, Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, Robert C. Winthrop, Rufus Choate, Charles Sumner, George Frisbie Hoar. He is the peak of virtue and the quintessential quintessence of decorum.

Yet we hear the tutelar fins of Massachusetts, the Sacred Codfish, flapping joyously; and there is a gleam of malice in those ancient eyes.

Not on the Track.

Philadelphia Evening Telegram: They were talking about the thousand and one questions that the poor old railroad conductors have to answer a hundred times a day, when Senator James A. Reed of Missouri told of an incident that happened on a railway in the Middle West.

One afternoon, according to the senator, a local train stopped with great celerity, and instantly every window was thrown open to accommodate a protruding head.

"What's the matter, conductor?" nervously asked an excitable passenger, "Why did we stop so suddenly? What are all these people looking out for?"

"Nothing very serious," answered the accommodating conductor, "we just hit a cat."

"Hit a cat!" exclaimed the nervous one. "You don't really mean it! Was the cat on the track?"

"Oh, no, sir," was the merry rejoinder of the conductor. "The locomotive chased him up an alley."

Lincoln As a Lawyer.

From Lincolnics: A lawyer who studied in Mr. Lincoln's office tells a story illustrative of his love for justice. After listening one day for some time to a client's statement of his case, Lincoln, who had been staring at the ceiling, suddenly swung around in his chair and said:

"Well, you have a pretty good case in technical law, but a pretty bad one in equity and justice. You will have to get some other fellow to win this case for you. I couldn't do it. All the time while talking to that jury I'd be thinking, 'Lincoln you're a liar,' and I believe I would forget myself and say it out loud."

Salutation.

Did you choose the journey, friend?
No, nor I;
But to make it cheerfully,
Let us try.
When the day is dark, I pray,
Sing a song to cheer the way,
For tomorrow we will be
One day nearer to the sea.

Did you choose the journey, friend?
No, nor I;
But we know the end will come
By and by.
All today we bear the load
Up the weary winding road,
But tomorrow we may be
At the Inn in company.

Over 200 people are required for the cast. The spectacle has first been put on at Madison, Wis., and was very successful. Among the patronesses of the entertainment here are Mrs. Beriah Magoffin, Mrs. A. M. Miller, Mrs. Ray and Mrs. C. P. Craig.

The Highland Presbyterian church, of which A. Doremus is pastor, was opened today for the first time. The opening sermon was delivered by John Wilson of Duluth.

A Pitcher's Tragedy.

Popular Magazine: Connie Mack, who takes great pride in developing young pitchers and then prophesying how they will show up in action, sent in one of his finds in an exhibition game not long ago. The slaughter of the young slab artist was pitiful to beheld. At the end of the second inning Connie was somewhat peeved.

"What's the matter with you, son?" he asked the terrified youngster as kindly as he could—which was not remarkably kindly.

"I—I don't seem to be able to get the ball over the plate," said the pitcher sadly.

"You're mighty right you can't get it over the plate," observed Mack, his peeved condition much aggravated. "And I'll tell you why. Every time you start it over they knock it back at you."

Best Thing He Did.

New York Globe: There is a certain senator from the West who rarely makes a set speech to the august body of which he is a member. During the past session, however, a special occasion arose when he deemed it necessary to deliver quite a lengthy speech.

When he returned home that evening his wife, who had been aware of the senator's purpose to speak, asked:

"How was the speech received, Richard?"

"Why," said her husband, "they congratulated me very heartily. In fact, one senator came to me and told me that when I sat down he had said to himself it was the best thing I had ever done."

A Disheartening Sight.

Washington Star: Mayor Gaynor, at a luncheon in New York, talked about laws.

"It is difficult to execute," he said, "laws that the majority of the people don't want and don't believe in."

The mayor smiled and added:

"Why, a friend of mine just back from a prohibition state said to me the other day:

"'In every large city in that state I saw well-dressed citizens drinking with relish from bottles labeled rat poison, liniment and even furniture polish.'"

WONDERS AT EFFICIENCY

English Vessel Owner Astonished By Great Lakes Shipping Methods.

James A. Farrell and Party Go Down the Lakes on Freighter.

Navigation on the Great Lakes is the most wonderful in all the world, according to J. Robertson Dunn, a wealthy vessel owner of Liverpool, Eng., who was in Duluth as the guest of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation. The Farrell party returned down the lakes last night on the steamship J. A. Farrell, which lay at anchor in the harbor until the visitors returned from the dinner at the country club. The boat cleared at 11:15 for Cleveland and the party will leave there for New York city by rail.

So impressed was Mr. Dunn by the greatness of the lakes and their commerce and all branches of the industry that he willingly expressed his astonishment to a Herald reporter.

"Why the handling of Atlantic liners is comparatively child's play alongside of the work done daily on the lakes," he said. "One is struck by the size of the vessels, and their great adaptability for the rapid handling of cargo, both loading and discharging. The almost uncanny way in which they can be maneuvered is certainly remarkable. Nowhere else in the world can be seen such perfect control; whether navigating a tortuous channel or bringing alongside a pier or dock it is all the same. Marvellously clever indeed.

"Except for climatic conditions—I mean by that the closing of navigation on account of cold weather during the winter months—the harbor is well suited to its work and seems to be laid out to advantage. I noticed a fine powerful fire tug, probably one of the most powerful in the world. Were all the piers or loading docks steel the need for fire tugs would not be so great. It just occurred to me that a fire on one of the wooden ore docks would be a calamity. It would cut off shipping, railroad transportation and the work at the mines themselves. How long would it take to replace a burned dock? A long time, I venture. Think of the great loss in business in the meantime. I saw a steel dock building and I suppose all of them in time will be of steel construction.

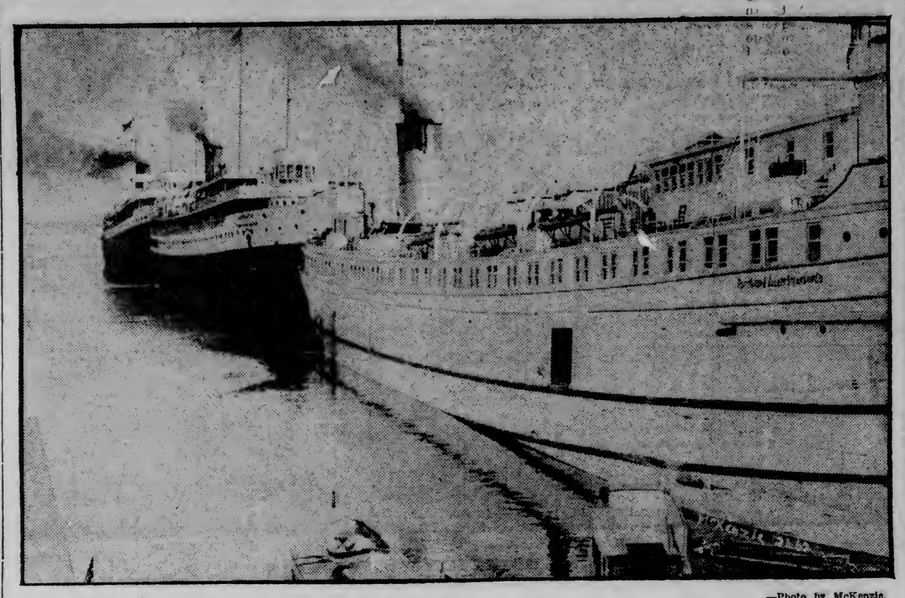

"The Minnesota Steel company's plant will mark the opening of a new era in the history of Duluth. The plant, now nearing completion, designed and built with every device for the most economical manufacture of steel, is surely but the beginning of a great industry in its center.

"The iron ore mines are certainly unique. There being nothing like them in the world it is difficult to make comparisons. The excavations look more like the site of a Panama canal. Grading of the different ores commands admiration.

"A feature to be noted is the care taken by the mining corporation of its employes. A beautiful clubhouse, erected and equipped by the company stands on one of the main streets of Hibbing. That it is appreciated is shown by the large numbers that avail themselves of it.

"I have heard of Western hospitality, now I know what it means. Not half enough has been said about it. Duluth is a great city."

THREE BIG PASSENGER BOATS AT ONE DOCK SHOW GROWTH OF THE TOURIST MOVEMENT

WHERE THE TOURISTS COME FROM.

That Duluth is again coming into its own regarding lake passenger business was shown yesterday afternoon when three boats, each the largest in its line, were tied up at one time to one dock. The Hamonic, Juniata and Lakeland all found wharfage at the Northern Pacific's dock No. 4 at the foot of Sixth avenue west. Only a short time before the North American had cleared from the same dock.

About 600 tourists were on the three boats. There had been some question among vessel men as to whether there was room at the dock for the three ships, but all were comfortable although the Hamonic's stern lapped over the southern extremity of the pier.

The Hamonic was the biggest of the trio, being 365 feet long. Next came the Juniata with a length of 346 feet and the Lakeland, 300 feet long, last.

The season thus far has been a busy one for the passenger-carrying steamship companies. So far this month the boats have been crowded almost to capacity and with the arrival of August, the big month in the tourist business, new passenger records can be expected.

MAY BREAK GRAIN RECORD

W. B. Snyder Expected to Take Cargo of 460,000 Bushels of Wheat.

The W. B. Snyder, Jr., "King of the Shenango fleet," is loading grain at elevator B today and when she clears she is expected to carry the largest cargo of the kind ever shipped from the Head of the Lakes. When loaded, she will have aboard about 460,000 bushels, all wheat. With the draft in the Canadian lock at nineteen feet nine inches, there seems to be almost no limit to this boat's capacity. The Snyder and the Schoonmaker, her sister ship, each carried cargoes of grain at the opening of navigation this spring, but since have been engaged in the ore trade. Absence of spot ore cargoes is held responsible for the present charter.

Only a few weeks ago the Snyder set a new record for ore cargoes when she took down considerably more than 12,000 tons.

The steamship Richard Trimble, the latest addition to the mighty fleet of the Pittsburg Steamship company, is on her way up the lakes on her maiden voyage and is due to reach this port Friday morning. She will load ore at the Allouez dock. With the coming of the Trimble, the Pittsburg fleet passes the 100 mark, she being No. 101. This fleet had 125 boats some time back but the smaller vessels were disposed of. The Trimble will easily do the work of any four of the boats sold. She is the last of three ships built at Lorain last winter and is an exact duplicate of the J. A. Farrell and the Roberts Jr.

She is 580 feet long, 58-foot beam and 32-foot depth with a tonnage of 7,705. She has a capacity of 12,000 tons. The Trimble is of the Isherwood type, there being only four others on the lakes. A distinguishing feature in the building of this style of vessel is that the beams run lengthwise instead of crosswise. The boat is divided into three compartments, each of 4,000 tons capacity. Her engines are of the triple expansion type and her boilers measure 16 feet by 11 feet 9 inches.

When the America reached port last night the crew discovered that they had a stowaway hidden in the coal bunkers. Frank Bereseti of Port Arthur said he had only $10 and feared he would be deported, so sought a hiding place. He declared he was no criminal, but that he feared immigration inspectors. The man was sent back to Canada. Two women who came on the America and said they belonged to a theatrical troupe also were turned back. They had only $10 between them and the immigration officers held that they were likely to become public charges.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Frank W. Peavey, which arrived yesterday, was bumped by the City of Straits in the Cuyahoga river Saturday night. An examination made here showed that she sustained no serious damage.

G. A. Tomlinson, the Duluth vessel man who is in the East on business, motored a few days ago, from Buffalo to Cleveland.

Taken to Hospital.

Albert Smith, boatswain on the steamer Western Star, was this morning taken to St. Mary's hospital suffering with severe pains in his stomach. He has been ill the past two days and was removed to the hospital, where an examination will be made this afternoon. Smith, who is 49 years old, lives in Detroit and has been on the steamer Western Star during the past two months. The boat is unloading coal at the Clarkson Coal dock on Garfield avenue.

RUNS INTO STREET CAR

John Erickson Has Serious Accident While Riding Motorcycle.

John Erickson, cement contractor, is lying at the St. Luke's hospital with a fractured skull as the result of being struck by a West Fourth street car at the corner of First avenue west, shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Erickson was coming down the hill on First avenue on his motorcycle when he ran right into the car, the impact throwing him into the air. He fell on his head, causing a severe fracture, and his condition is considered very serious at the hospital. He has been unconscious ever since the accident.

Mr. Erickson is very well known in Duluth, having been in the cement contract business here for the past twelve years. He lives with his family at 215 West Seventh street. There are two small children.

MULLER GOES TO SEE STEEL PLANT.

Chicago, July 9.—Dr. Lauro Muller, special ambassador from Brazil, was expected to reach Chicago this afternoon on his way eastward after a tour of the Western states. Plans for the reception of the distinguished Brazilian here this morning were changed when word was received that Dr. Muller had transferred at Joliet for a train to Gary, Ind., where he desired to visit the steel plant.

The visitors left last evening on the steamer J. H. Farrell.

By PEGGY PEABODY

Schools Should Give More Attention to Character.

The thought has occurred to me many times that the public schools of this country fall far short of fulfilling their mission. Has it ever occurred to you?

As a matter of fact, the schools provide the child with nothing but a mental training; moral training is not a part of the curriculum. This sounds like rather a shocking fact, but it is nevertheless a true one.

We have been so fearful lest the subject of religion become involved with our school system that we have bent over backward, and gone far to the other extreme. We do not dare, nor do we desire, that the Protestant or Catholic, Jewish or Christian religion be taught, much less that of any particular denomination, in the public schools. We have always believed it right to divorce the church and the state, and have extended that principle to the school.

This, we are agreed, is as it should be. It is proper to leave the religious instruction of the child to the parents, the home and the church, that each child may develop in that faith which he or his elders desire.

But mere morals is a different proposition. There is an ethical standard which is common to all races and creeds, the standard of right and wrong. Why should not the teachers in the public schools be required to teach their pupils to scorn a lie, to respect the rights of others, in person and property, to be clean in body and mind, to develop a sense of honor, and to be just and charitable?

These ethical principles should be instilled into the child's mind along with the three R's and the other fundamentals of mental training. The teacher should be the moral, as well as the mental guardian of the child's welfare while he is in her care. Her efforts should supplement those of the church and the home.

As it is, such moral training in the schools is haphazard and spasmodic, if, as a matter of fact, it exists at all. Discipline is enforced for the sake of mental training, rather than for the child's moral well-being.

The schools should serve the double purpose of mental and moral training, to the end that character development shall be well balanced and thorough.

MUSIC TEACHERS OF THE STATE MEET IN DULUTH FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION

OFFICERS OF STATE MUSIC TEACHERS.
Donald M. Ferguson, Secretary and Treasurer; Heinrich Hoevel, President; Gustav Flaaten, Auditor.

Mayor W. I. Prince this morning welcomed about 200 musicians from all parts of Minnesota in the opening session of the twelfth annual convention of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association which is being held in Duluth today, tomorrow and Friday with headquarters at the Spalding hotel.

After the hospitality of the city was extended to the visitors, the president, Heinrich Hoevel of Minneapolis, gave his annual address dwelling on the social status of the profession of music teacher which is apt to be considered too lightly he said by people in general and not in the light of real business. The profession of teaching music should be placed on a strictly business basis, said the speaker, and the members of the association should work for recognition of this fact. More general enthusiasm is needed, he said, for the general good of members and the association itself.

Mr. Hoevel suggested the establishment of an official organ to be printed at definite periods, preferably monthly by the association as a means of keeping up the enthusiasm of the association members and of strengthening their work.

"Progress and persistent advancement, should be your motto," he said, "and unbounded enthusiasm and cooperation will gain them for you."

Revising Constitution.

One of the chief features of the meeting this morning was the report of the committee on the revision of the constitution, consisting of Hamlin Hunt, Miss Elsie Shawe and John A. Jaeger, given by Hamlin Hunt all of which was accepted by the association as presented.

Mr. Hunt also reported on the first examination given by the association on Monday of this week at St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth taken advantage of by sixty-seven music teachers in the state. There were nine candidates for piano and one for organ in St. Paul, eight for piano and one for violin in Duluth and forty-eight altogether in Minneapolis.

The president appointed committees for the nomination of officers for the election which will be held Friday morning, Ernest Lachmund of this city, Miss Johnson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Budd of Montevideo, Minn., making up this committee. A committee consisting of Gustav Flaaten of Duluth, Miss Key of St. Paul and J. Austin Williams of Minneapolis will report Friday on a place of meeting for next year and a committee for resolutions regarding the new constitution consists of H. Giddings of Minneapolis; Miss Runskog of Rush City, and Franklyn W. Kreiger of St. Paul.

The report of the secretary, Donald N. Ferguson, was held over until the second business session on Friday morning.

Voice Round Table.

The Voice Round Table was also an event of this morning, conducted by Harry Phillips of Minneapolis. Questions of interest to teachers of vocal state musicians were discussed, among the speakers being B. J. Lang, Harry Phillips, T. P. Giddings, J. Austin Williams, William McPhail and Miss Eleanor Poehler.

Mrs. Agnes Fryberger conducted the public school music section held early this afternoon and the concert by Duluth artists including Miss Mabel Woodworth, Miss Mary Syer Bradshaw, Miss Faith Helen Rogers, Miss Berta Vera Schmied, Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten and the Normanna Male chorus under the direction of Jens Flaaten finished the day's program. One of the features of the concert was the singing of "Out of The Night," one of the compositions of Ernest Lachmund of Duluth. Miss Bradshaw sang it, and both the singer and the composer received many warm compliments on the number.

Reception at Spalding.

This evening the visiting delegates will be received in the ball room of the Spalding hotel where all sessions are being held. A stunt program will be presented for the entertainment of the guests.

Tomorrow's program includes the Piano Round table at 9 a. m. with Miss Emily Grace Kay leading. An automobile ride about the city has been arranged at 11 o'clock followed by a buffet luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Smith and Allen piano company's store. The violin round table will follow, at 1:45 o'clock with William MacPhail as chairman and there will be concerts at 3:30 and 8:15 o'clock by

THIEF RIVER FALLS MAN ENDS TROUBLES

Crookston, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—This morning at 5 while his attendant stepped out to get a pitcher of ice water, Charles Simpson aged 50 of Thief River Falls, who had been watched all night following a drinking bout took a revolver from his grip and blew his brains out, dying instantly.

An entry in a book in his pocket dated July 5 reads: "Everything financially has gone wrong, I cannot get to the front. Goodby, dear Vernie and Charles."

He leaves a wife and family at Thief River Falls.

SISTER OF DULUTH MAN AT CONVENTION.

Mrs. Charles Gillman of Minneapolis, who is a sister of E. R. Anderson of Duluth, is one of the most prominent musicians of the state in attendance at the state convention of musicians.

Mrs. Gillman is rather well known here, having visited friends and relatives in Duluth and also given several recitals.

At the Spalding today Mrs. Gillman expressed the belief that the Duluth convention would be one of the best ever held in the history of the state. She said she believes that it will be productive of much progress along lines calculated to accomplish the greatest general good in the instruction of music both in the studio and in the public institutions of the state.

Miss Margaret Gillman of Minneapolis, also well known here, is among those present.

RATE CASE PAPERS DELAYED BY RUSH.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 9.—Although the state authorities are looking for the supreme court mandate in the state railroad cases within a day or two, it was stated by court officials today that they cannot be reached for a week at least. The delay is due to the fact that the court handed down so many decisions toward the latter part of the term that it has been impossible to reach the Minnesota cases up to this time.

KILLS HIMSELF AS SISTER LOOKS ON

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—While his sister looked on helpless and a policeman approached on the run to disarm him, Gerhard Breveritz, aged 25, last night placed a revolver to his temple and pulled the trigger, dying instantly. He had attempted suicide five minutes previously, but his aim was poor and the bullet entered his leg. No motive was given for the act.

KILLS FORTY-POUND MUSKIE WITH PADDLE.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jess McDonald brought here a 40-pound muskellunge, which he took near his cottage at the mouth of Turtle river without the aid of a hook and line. He was sitting on his porch when he noticed something moving in the shallow water and went to investigate. On finding that it was a muskellunge he took a paddle from his canoe and struck the fish on the head. It jumped high out of the water and he succeeded in getting in another blow before the fish returned to the water. After that he had little trouble in landing his prize.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES ELECT

Cooperstown, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Binford was selected as the next convention city by the Cooperstown district of the Young People's Societies of the United Lutheran church, while the following officers were elected: President, Rev. E. C. Tollefson, Hope; vice president, Rev. N. J. Vikingstad, Binford; secretary, Albert Johnson, Cooperstown; treasurer, Rev. P. A. Thorson; director of music, O. J. Hanson, Grand Forks. The convention was held in a grove near here. About 200 delegates attended.

Mayville Y. P. S. Meet.

Mayville, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Federation of Young People's Societies of the Mayville district, held its annual convention at Roseville, near here, with an attendance of about 150 delegates. The following officers were elected: President, Rev. N. J. Lohre, Grand Forks; vice president, P. O. Berge, Fort Ransom; secretary, Mrs. A. Sando, Mayville. J. A. Hefto of Grand Forks was made the delegate to the general conference which will be held in Chicago.

ELECTRIC LINE RATE ADJUSTMENT ORDERED

Washington, July 9. — Interurban electric lines operating between Louisville, Ky., and Indianapolis, Ind., today were ordered by the interstate commerce commission to establish through routes and joint rates on less-than-carload shipments between the two terminal cities and to intermediate points. Specific class rates are prescribed by the commission.

This is the first time several lines, all operated by electricity, have been made the subjects of such an order.

Holy War Declared.

Simla, India, July 9.—A holy war has been declared by the sultan of the independent state of Oman, in southeastern Arabia, by Sheik Abdulla. The rebels, who have been fighting the troops of Sultan Seyyid Feysil Ein Turki, have been victorious in a number of encounters and have taken several of the sultan's strongholds. They are now threatening Muscat, the capital, a seaport of 60,000 inhabitants. Three British warships have been sent to Muscat to protect British interests, and a regiment of Rajput infantry has been ordered there from India.

Many at Summer School.

Velva, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a large attendance at the annual summer school of the Northwestern Teachers' association which opened here Monday. This probably will be the last summer school that will be held in Velva, as next year the Minot normal will be in readiness to care for the summer school demand. President A. G. Crane of the Minot normal is in charge.

AUTO UPSETS, HURTING FIVE

Harry Johnson of Akeley May Die as Result of His Injuries.

Machine Skids at Ponsford, Going Through Fence, Turning Twice.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Johnson of Akeley is expected to die from injuries received at Ponsford, eighteen miles from here yesterday afternoon when an automobile he was driving, carrying five, in turning a corner at a high rate of speed skidded, dashed through a fence and turned over twice.

Johnson was crushed and injured internally.

Three others in the machine were also injured. Mr. Klingsey of Akeley had his hip broken; Miss Glassgow of Park Rapids had her arm broken in two places, while Ray Thompson and wife of Park Rapids, who were also in the machine, were badly shaken up but not much hurt.

SEE BENEFITS IN CONTRACT SYSTEM

Claimed to Be Better Method of Working North Dakota Roads.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota levies a sufficient road tax to spend $11 per mile for maintenance if a proper contract system were used, according to the investigation of the better roads agitators of the state. The figures available were for 1911, which showed some work done on 61,432 miles of roads in the state, while the road tax levy for that year reached a total of $691,540.

While the road mileage actually worked in 1912 and this year is undoubtedly larger than in 1911, it is also true that the increased valuation of the property also made a larger road fund. The figures for this year will no doubt be in the same ratio as two years ago.

With more intelligent methods of highway construction the maintenance would be much less, it is contended, than under the haphazard system now in vogue.

The next legislature will be asked to pass a law providing for a road dragging plan and also placing both the construction and the maintenance of the highways of the state under the contract system.

CLOQUET BARN DANCE.

John Provost Entertains About 400 in Modern Structure.

Cloquet, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—About 400 people enjoyed a barn dance last evening at the large new barn owned by John Prevost on his farm a short distance north of this city. The barn is very spacious and modern in every respect. Barn dances are not very frequent in this vicinity, so the novelty of the occasion drew both young and old to share Mr. Prevost's hospitality and help him celebrate the completion of his new building.

CROSBY MINISTER EXPIRES SUDDENLY.

Crosby, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Awakened by a noise during the early hours of yesterday, Mrs. Rudland, wife of Rev. Charles M. Rudland, pastor of the local Presbyterian church attempted to arouse her husband but was horrified to find him dead in bed having expired from heart disease. He was 33 and came here from Hendrickson, Minn., May 26, last, two days later marrying Miss Myrtle Mathews, daughter of the master mechanic of the Rogers-Brown company. Mr. Rudland returned from Ironton Monday night where he held services and retired in apparently good health. The funeral will be held from the Deerwood Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon.

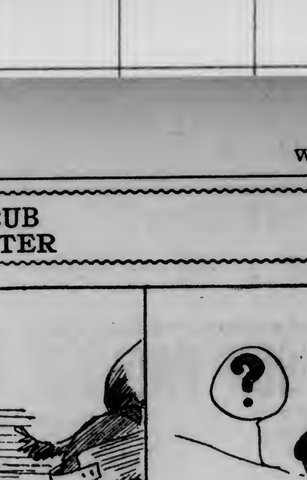

NEW CROSBY CHURCH.

Splendid M. E. Edifice to Be Dedicated Next Sunday.

Crosby, Minn., July 9.—The new M. E. church here will be dedicated next Sunday, with appropriate exercises. It is of the Gothic style of architecture, is 30 by 30 and is a very handsome structure.

Rev. E. K. Copper, D. D., superintendent of the Duluth district, will preside at the dedication ceremony, and will be assisted by Rev. M. P. Burns, D. D., superintendent of the Minneapolis district; Rev. Charles Fox Davis, pastor of Foss M. E. church, Minneapolis; Rev. A. L. Richardson of Aitkin, and other visiting pastors. The church will be beautifully decorated for the occasion, and there will be a splendid program.

MARIE LILLIAN HOFFBAUER.

Brainerd, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Editor John A. Hoffbauer of the Brainerd Dispatch and Mrs. Hoffbauer, formerly a well known Duluth telephone operator, are very proud of their 19-months-old daughter, Marie, nicknamed "Toodles," who has been photographed with a copy of her father's paper as a background so she is literally breaking into printg.

CASS LAKE FIREMEN HAVE ANNUAL ELECTION.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The regular meeting and annual election of officers of the Cass Lake fire department and also of the relief association were held Monday evening. The following were elected by the fire department: Chief, F. Ittner; first assistant, Dan Lilly; second assistant, Charles La Belle; secretary, Dana V. Wardner; treasurer, D. W. Dugas.

The department also voted to pay up the balance of a debt of over $200 occasioned by the department's borrowing a large amount when the tournament was held in Cass Lake four years ago.

Relief association officers were elected as follows: President, Dan Lilly; vice president, Charles E. Leeman; secretary, Dana V. Wardner; treasurer, H. W. Dugas; board of trustees, Albert Marshik, Frank Bateman, Magnus Johnson; finance committee, John Wenzler, Ed Broullette.

The finances of the relief association are in good shape, the treasurer's report showing over $1,200 on hand.

ATTRACT ATTENTION.

Madison, Wis., July 9.—Young women wearing bathing suits usually worn by men, are to be classed with "September morn," in the capital city.

Several young women have resorted to the use of men's bathing suits and have been using the piers in front of Fraternity houses as diving boards. The young women have attracted large crowds which refuse to keep off the grass in front of the fraternity houses and the students have made several complaints to the police department. No objection was made by the students until the general public began to show such an interest in the daily pastime of the young women in the abbreviated costume.

BURIED AT STILLWATER.

Last Rites Held Tuesday for Former Duluth Detective.

Stillwater, Minn., July 9.—The body of the late James E. Walsh, formerly Duluth detective and guard at the state prison, who died at Virginia, Minn., was brought here and the funeral was held Tuesday morning from St. Michael's church, interment being made here, where he formerly lived, and where his sister, Mrs. Nellie Short, resides. He was 37, was with Company K, Thirteenth Minnesota, in the Philippine campaign, and was a son of Michael Walsh of this city. He leaves a widow, two sons, James, aged 12, and Francis, aged 6, and one daughter, Amy, aged 10. His brother, M. M. Walsh, lives in Duluth, and J. T. in Florida. His sisters are Mrs. J. P. Dineen of Mankato, Mrs. W. A. Fonda of Seattle and Mrs. Nellie Short of this city.

He was a member of the Spanish-American war veterans corps of Duluth and of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

AUTO OWNERS TO IMPROVE HIGHWAYS.

Williston, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Williston automobile owners will engage in a campaign of rock extermination on public roads in Williams county, carrying on this activity through the organization of the Williston Automobile club, with a charter membership of fifty. The automobile tax will be used for road improvement, and as there are about 150 car owners in the city and immediate vicinity, the expenditure of this fund will give the road forces a big impetus and will result in a great deal of work this season.

V. R. Asbury is president of the club, George Farries vice president, and J. A. Cunningham secretary and treasurer.

MOTHER VERY ILL; DAUGHTER DYING NEARBY

Eau Claire, Wis., July 9.—Mrs. G. A. Jackson is lying seriously ill following her fourth operation within a few weeks. In a ward a few doors from her lies her 12-year-old daughter, Viola Ihle, in a critical condition from an attack of spinal meningitis aggravated by brain fever. That her daughter is within calling distance of her in the hospital and dying is not known to the mother, for it is feared the knowledge would be fatal to the elder woman's chances of recovery.

MERCHANTS HAVE VERY BUSY DAY

Many Important Subjects Considered at North Dakota Meeting.

Fargo, N. D., July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Retail Merchants' association, in session here, had a busy forenoon and afternoon today. Both sessions were devoted to matters pertaining directly to the organization and several phases of the work were discussed by experts.

This evening the local association will give the visitors an auto ride over the city, to be followed by a special theater party.

Duluthian Among Speakers.

The chief speakers today were George F. Filbert, president of the association in Minnesota; Thomas P. Copper, manager of the Better Farming movement in North Dakota; George W. Woods of the association at Wahpeton and Breckenridge; Assistant Sales Manager V. R. Waldo of the Patrick company in Duluth; Fred Lorenz of the national organization; A. Pace of Butler Bros., Chicago; State Pure Food Commissioner Ladd and others.

Tomorrow forenoon will be devoted to two or three addresses, after which the business matters will be taken up and officers elected.

In the afternoon the exhibits by the firms from the larger cities and the local manufacturing plants will be inspected.

Many individual outing parties to the Minnesota lakes are being planned by the delegates.

V. R. WALDO,
Assistant Sales Manager of F. A. Patrick & Co. of Duluth, Who Spoke Today at North Dakota Retail Merchants' Association Meeting.

Village Creamery Co-operation.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.) — More co-operation among the patrons of the creameries of North Dakota is insisted upon by the leading workers. An active campaign along these lines is to be waged during the rest of the summer.

CHAMPAGNE TASTE MAY PROVE UNDOING

Alleged Racine, Wis., Depot Thief Arrested While Buying "Wealthy Water."

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—With more than $200 in gold scattered throughout his clothing, Arthur M. Hass, 21 years old, was arrested here Tuesday on the charge of having robbed the Northwestern station at Racine, Wis., Monday.

The Racine ticket clerk had just placed $400 in gold in a bag and was called from his place when Hass, according to the police, stepped up to the window. When the clerk returned the bag of gold and Hass were missing, it is said. The police claim that Hass drew the bag of gold through the window with a long fishhook which they claim they found on him when arrested.

Hass' love for champagne caused his arrest for he was reported as buying wine freely in downtown cafes Tuesday night. Plain clothes men watched him and then arrested him on a charge of disorderly conduct. While being searched at the police station it was found that he was literally a walking gold mine. This led to further investigation and his return to Racine today.

Planning to Entertain Autoists.

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of the entertainment of the Glidden tourists is being worked out by the local autoists. The tourists will spend Sunday here, arriving next Saturday evening. It is expected there will be a number of North Dakota autoists come at the same time to escort the visitors across the state.

Twenty-three Take Veil.

Rochester, Minn., July 9.—Twenty-three candidates received the white veil of the Order of St. Francis at the mother house of the Sisters of St. Francis Monday, which signified their rank as novices. Bishop Patrick Heffron of Winona, presided and twenty-five priests were in the sanctuary with him. Sixty-six sisters renewed their vows and nineteen made perpetual vows.

Had Green Corn July 4.

Huron, S. D., July 9.—C. H. Knudson of this city probably holds the state record for growing early corn. He had a mess of roasting ears for his dinner on the Fourth of July. The seed from which the corn was grown was raised in Alberta, Canada.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—The committees in charge of the annual picnic of the Copper Country Odd Fellows' association, to be held at the Crestview park of the Keweenaw Central Saturday, anticipate there will be from 2,000 to 3,000 Odd Fellows and friends in attendance.

Houghton—Horace Cross of Duluth, who has been visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Cross, has returned to Duluth, where he is employed as assistant manager of the Duluth office of the Port Huron Transportation company.

Sault Ste. Marie—Joseph Miller, former collector for Joseph Fuoco, grocer and wholesale liquor dealer, has not been heard of since June 22. For several days he has been collecting for his employer and it is alleged he had $700 at the time of his disappearance.

Hancock—The body of a man, identified by Sheriff Cruze as Matti Maki, was taken from Portake lake, Sunday. The body was found by Elmer Sicotte and Jay Coon, both of Hancock, and was west of the city, just across the lake from the Michigan Smelts. The police believe the man went swimming possibly when under the influence of liquor, and was seized with cramps and drowned.

Laurium—The 2-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Maki of Tamarack street, died Sunday. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at the residence, Rev. A. L. Heideman officiating.

Negaunee—Charles Gustafsen, aged 19, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Gustafsen of the Buffalo location, died Saturday from tuberculosis. Mr. Gustafsen was a graduate of the 1912 class of the Negaunee high school also a member of the high school orchestra.

Marquette — Judge Byrnes bound Philip Lahinski to circuit court for trial Monday, following the preliminary examination. The charge preferred against him was assaulting and cutting Joseph Cabalski.

Escanaba—Fred Portlance has filed a suit for damages against the Escanaba Morning Press company, for the recovery of damages in the sum of $1,500, the suit being the outcome of the subscription contest run by the Morning Press in which Portlance was a contestant.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Williston, N. D.—The first shipment of high grade cattle into Williams county in the movement for the stocking of the farms has been received. It is being handled by a local bank, in conjunction with the Better Farming association, and an effort will be made to interest every farmer in the county in the dairying industry.

Bowman, N. D.—Wool shipments out of Bowman this year will be smaller than last year, the decrease being in proportion to that sustained during the past few years. The time is rapidly approaching when Bowman will no longer be a wool market.

New Rockford, N. D.—Burglars entered the Guarantee Hardware company store here, carrying away about $100 worth of merchandise. The booty includes knives, razors and clothing.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Miss Florence Richardson, who was badly injured in an automobile accident last Thursday, is much better and seems to be recovering rapidly.

Fargo, N. D.—Robert Richard Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Lewis of Seventh street south, was rather severely injured by the explosion of a can of powder, which he was using as a home-made cannon.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The plant of the Northwestern Flax & Fiber company was broken into and a large amount of brass were taken away and $8 worth of stamps were also stolen. Boys are suspected.

Fargo, N. D.—Col. Davis has returned from Gettysburg, Pa., where he attended the great celebration of the battle of 1863 and he was very much pleased with what he saw. He said that there was some trouble at first in getting the boys all located, but that they were finally attended to.

Bantry, N. D.—Interest in the dairy cow business in the state of North Dakota has been aroused by many of the leading banks of the state who have offered fine prizes for the best heifers.

Fargo, N. D.—The executive committee of the North Dakota Federation of Labor held a meeting here Sunday. L. W. Horwitz was named editor of the North Dakota Advocate for the ensuing year to succeed E. S. Elliott, who now becomes state secretary. Mr. Elliott is also a member of the Fargo board of education.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Crookston—On July 15 in the office of the state architect Hays, Minneapolis, bids will be opened for two new buildings at the Northwest Experiment station, a grain storage and cleaning building and a machinery shed.

Bemidji — Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy returned Sunday from Duluth and Superior where they have spent their honeymoon. Immediately upon their arrival in the city they took an auto and went out to Mr. Murphy's mother's farm two miles from town. There they found a crowd of relatives and friends, sixty-eight in number, gathered to receive them.

St. Cloud—The discovery is made that four forged checks have been received at the Merchants National bank, each for $30. It is supposed that the forger might have been here recently as the check blanks are from the local institution.

Rochester—Battery D, Fifth Field Artillery of the United States army, arrived in the city Monday and camped for the night at the old fair grounds. The march to Sparta, Wis., was resumed early Tuesday morning.

Mankato—While despondent Charles Denker, a blacksmith at Cleveland, Minn., hanged himself in his shop shortly after 1 o'clock Monday morning. His lifeless body was discovered by John Wilferl, a neighbor, who entered the shop at 6:30 a. m.

Pelican Rapids—The Farmers' Co-operative elevator here has had another prosperous year, having purchased 315,000 bushels of grain. The officers are: John Sims, president; O. E. Moses, vice president; P. E. Peterson, treasurer; Julius H. Holen, secretary; Charles J. Swanson, manager.

Brainerd—J. W. Schlenker, of the National Candy company of Duluth, sold the fireworks to Brainerd and had charge of setting them off. Mr. Schlenker had five assistants from the arrangements committee who did valiant work. The day and night fireworks gave universal satisfaction.

Moorhead—The commission of E. L. Flaten as postmaster of Moorhead reached him Monday morning and he will take hold Wednesday.

St. Cloud—After serving sixty days for bootlegging in Kanabec county, Alfred Johnson was freed Monday. He has been an ideal prisoner all this time and performed a good deal of useful labor in those many days.

Barnesville — The Great Northern dam at this point went out Sunday, heavy rains east of here having swollen the small streams and Whiskey creek pond until the dam could no longer hold back the waters. A crew of men was at work rebuilding the dam, as the Great Northern road depends upon it for its water supply here. The lowlands, adjacent to Whiskey creek are flooded.

St. Charles — Mrs. William Persons died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. W. Orr, in Marshall of apoplexy and the body was brought here for interment. Mrs. Persons was one of the English pioneers who settled in this section in the early days.

St. Cloud—John Donavan, aged 55, a farmer residing north of here, while unloading potatoes from a wagon lost his balance and fell forward to the ground, striking on his head and dislocating a vertebra in his neck. He will die.

IT'S A FACT, Bill, that through the lane of the years those throwing up this baseball dope have insisted in grooving the thing over the heart of the plate of convention. Perhaps 'tis better to put the thing in more explicit words, by stating that things have broken very well for those seated firmly in the easy riding Mexican saddle of baseball power.

But now there has come a change. Three guesses—right the very first time; the Federal league has some of the holders of franchises worrying over things besides the hot weather.

Not content with busting into Indianapolis and making Sol Meyer count the dollars twice to see whether he has mislaid some money, those persistent cusses behind the upstart league are figuring upon storming the stronghold of the American Association, the home of that potentate of minor leaguedom, George Tebeau, Kansas City.

It is said that there has been a meeting called of American Association magnates to plan ways and various and devious means to combat the advance of this new league.

Some of us are vaguely wondering whether this wouldn't be a good thing after all—this survival of the fittest; a sort of changing of the baseball map.

Up in Duluth we are free thinkers along the baseball proposition. This season we have had the best baseball in the motley history of the game hereabouts. And why? Because the magnates of the American association have suffered in pride and spirit and allowed our towns to play in their palatial parks. For all of which we are devoutly, perpetually and properly thankful. But—and this is not by any manner of means a warning—should the direful day arrive when the aforementioned magnates should shout nay and nixie to the overtures of the members of our worthy baseball association of indigenous growth in their appeals for future admittance to the big pasture—well, there is the consolation of the pernicious activity of the Federal league.

In other words—and perhaps we should have come to the point earlier in the discourse—it might be that if regular magnates wouldn't deign to recognize the claims of a large city with a growing population to keep amused in the summer sport line, that some of the less ordained, some of the less orthodox magnates might.

She is a great old game, this baseball business, and all of the dogs that follow the trail don't bark.

ALL of this life is composed of vastly different things, and he who would acquire philosophy, a general idea of the whole must browse around.

There are those who are content with a mere morsel of food and several stacks of works upon the origin of man, the effect of the Hun invasion upon the gentle folk of Europe and other works of similar sprightly nature.

Doubtless these readers pull joy from this silent sit and meditative muse.

On the other hand of direct antithesis there is the gross joy of those who eat and continue eating when most of us are gravely troubled with impending indigestion.

Most everyone has his way of getting interest out of the investment of life.

Joe Carr, who was in our midst quite frequently of late, was quite unconsciously giving us a version of his idea of life.

"I like to eat," he naively stated. "We are here for a good time, and I enjoy myself most when eating. My manager took me to dinner the other evening. He ordered a large steak for three of us. I could have eaten twice as much as he ordered for the crowd, but I didn't want to hurt his feelings. Afterwards I went out and ate alone."

Perhaps if Mr. Carr were seated in even an easy chair with pleasant surroundings and told to get the real and deep pleasure that comes from books, he would fight and squirm and yawn.

And it is also true that if some of the students of human events, dry-eyed people, with passing indifference to clothes that don't pad out the shoulders, were told to be radiantly happy because the steak was particularly well done, the cause would be just as hopeless.

Sometimes some of us wonder why the gink employing more subtle methods than those in vogue with the boy scouts in searching for the next dollar, is just as happy as the thoroughly upholstered chap with millions.

There must be a reason.

WITH Bender and Plank and that $100,000 infield as the one grand piece de resistance. Connie Mack seems to grasp the 1913 pennant firmly in those long, slim fingers of his, calmly running his digits through its silken folds, and speculating vaguely upon the vicissitudes that beset the manager of a baseball team.

It is early as yet to speculate thusly upon a season that has some four months to run its race; and yet, it does seem as if it is all over but the adulation and congratulations that follow the successful pilot of a great team.

One grows dimly reminiscent in the wake of happening events.

Only last fall, if memory serves us right, there was the bustling clamor that followed Stahl and contrasted strikingly with the silence that marked the coming and going of Cornelius Mack. Some spoke before thinking, it appears, for one writer counted too early upon silent Connie and his passing from the list of the immortals. Now he is back, bedecked out in bells. The pack ever howls at the spectacle of the fallen; and it is also true that the pack makes revigorated clamor over the rare return of those who have been counted out.

A great man once advised those around the shop to be good to the office boy, as he might be a great man some day.

In the case of Connie Mack, he is still a great man, and he has one of the greatest ball teams that we have ever had.

WILLIAM NORTH, genial and ruddy of countenance, is back fishing for fish at Forest Lake. Just as he boarded the rattler for Duluth the last sight that greeted his gaze was Arthur White, that rotund and pleasant person, peacefully asleep upon the bank of the lake, dreaming, no doubt, of happy events associated with his life hereabouts.

DOOKS LOSE CLOSE GAME

Winnipeg Takes Well Played Contest By Score of 2 to 1.

Blancke and Nelson Have Duel With Honors About Even.

Winnipeg, Man., July 9.—The Duluth White Sox lost yesterday's game by the score of 2 to 1. Nelson and Blancke hooked up in a regular pitchers' battle, the going being very even. But one run was earned, Clothier's single and steal being followed by a single by Kurke.

Neither of the twirlers allowed more than five hits, and the outcome was in doubt until the last man was out. In the ninth the visitors started a rally. Clothier made a wild throw and then Moll singled. It was up to Wilke to tie up the game or win it with a long hit, but the visiting catcher proved unequal to the emergency.

RECRUIT PITCHER HOLDS THE VIRGINIAS SAFE.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 9.—Grand Forks defeated Virginia here yesterday by the score of 5 to 3. Wilson proved easy for the visitors and was relieved by Fahning, a recruit from Lakota, and the youngster held the Rangers safe during the remainder of the contest. Rhoades pitched fair baseball for the visitors. Altman's all round playing proved the bright feature of the day. The score:

LITTLE SAINTS TAKE GAME FROM MILL CITY.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—St. Paul took yesterday's game from the Little Millers by the count of 6 to 2. Neidenfuhr had the better of Patterson. In the final frame the visitors found the curves of Patterson to their liking, pounding out four runs. Nedenfuhr's double scored runs. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Paul	0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 4—6	9	3

Batteries — Nedenfuhr and Lizette; Patterson and Allen. Umpire—Flood.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Miller Knocks Homer.

Philadelphia, July 9.—Miller's home run drive over the right field wall with two bases occupied in the tenth inning gave Pittsburg a victory over Philadelphia yesterday, 6 to 4. Seaton took Mayer's place on the mound when Miller went to bat. The home team rallied in its final inning when Walsh scored on his double and singles by Knabe and Lobert. Lee was given four balls, filling the bases. Manager Clark then took Cooper out and put in Hendrix. The latter ended the game by striking out Cravath. McQuillen, who was secured from Columbus, made his first appearance with Pittsburg. He twirled two innings and in the eighth his wild pitch was responsible for giving the home team the lead. Score: R. H. E.

Batteries—Camnitz, McQuillen, Cooper, Hendrix and Simon, Coleman; Mayer and Seaton and Killifer. Umpires—Brennan and Eason.

Pitcher Unsteady.

Boston, Mass., July 9.—Griner gave three bases on balls in the seventh inning yesterday and these, with Bayden's double, a single by McDonald and O'Leary's error, enabled Boston to win, 6 to 2. The home team batted hard but Griner was generally steady and pulled himself out of tight places.

St. Louis got many men on bases but fine fielding by Boston prevented scoring.

In sliding to third in the fourth inning, Myers' spikes went into Mowrey's foot and the St. Louis player was forced to retire. Rariden hit safely three out of four times, bringing in four Boston runs. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2	6	8

Giants Win Opener.

New York, July 9.—The New York Giants ran their winning streak up to thirteen games yesterday when they took the first game of the Chicago series, 6 to 5. Lavender who broke Marquard's sequence of victories a year ago, pitched a strong game for the visitors, but received wretched support, especially in the seventh inning when New York scored four runs.

Marquard pitched the last two innings for New York and held the visitors hitless. Archer had a finger smashed in the eighth inning and Bresnahan replaced him. Score: R. H. E.

Batteries—Lavender and Archer and Bresnahan; Tesreau, Marquard and Meyers. Umpires—Rigler and Byron.

Pitchers' Battle.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 9.—Cincinnati took the first game of the series from Brooklyn yesterday 2 to 1. Ames and Allen had a pitchers' battle, the former getting the better support, two fast double plays cutting off the locals at critical points. The winning run was made by Bescher on Fisher's fumble, Allen's wild throw to catch the runner napping, Marsans' long fly and Dodge's single. Dodge played a great fielding game at third while Callahan and Moran made sensational running catches. Score:

AMERICAN ASSN.

Indians Lose.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 9.—Two runs each in the sixth and seventh innings was enough to let Toledo win from Indianapolis, 4 to 1. In the sixth, singles by Jones and Hartsell, their double steal and Kirk's single scored two runs. In the next inning Eddington walked, went to second on Stump's out and to third on Devogt's single. Eddington scored on George's hit, Devogt reaching third from where he scored when Jones forced George at second. In the ninth Reilly single, stole second and scored on Brady's error for the locals' only run.

Consistent Hitting Wins.

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—Rhoades' pitching, together with consistent hitting by Kansas City, enabled the locals to defeat St. Paul here yesterday, 7 to 2. Each pitcher walked three, but Rhoades steadied with men on bases. Kansas City scored three runs in the sixth when Barbeau hit a home run with two men on bases. R. H. E.

St. Paul	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0—2	10	1

Brewers In First Place.

Columbus, Ohio, July 9.—Gerber's fielding yesterday was as brilliant as the batting of the winners was timely. Columbus avoided a shut-out in the seventh on singles by Gerber, Cook and Perring. The result lifted the idle Milwaukee club into first place. A double-header will be played today.

FAST FIELD IN FASIG TROT

Eight Horses With Records Over Range of Only Two Seconds.

Santos Maid Comes From Behind and Wins Hard-Fought Race.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 9.—While all four of the events listed for today's races in the grand circuit meeting promise great contests, the field in the Fasig 2:07 trot is so evenly matched that it is most unusual.

Eigh horses are entered with only two seconds differences between the records of the fastest and the slowest.

These entries are: Esther W., 2:06¼; Gay Audubon, 2:06¾; Oakdale, 2:07¼; Robert Milrol, 2:07½; Cheers, 2:07¾; Rythmell, 2:08; Ruth McGregor, 2:08¼, and Cascade, 2:08¼. Soprano set the record for the Fasig in 1911 at 2:03¾. With the battle between these evenly-matched horses that is bound to take place, that record is likely to be equaled or bettered.

Frank Bogash, Jr., a first-day winner, is entered in the 2:07 pace in which Warner Hall, who has recently worked out a mile in 2:06 on the North Randall track, will be a strong contender.

Lon McDonald's gelding, O'Brien Boy, is one of the more favored in the 2:18 class pace, which has only five entries. Only five horses are left to race in the 2:12 trot and they are: Farra, Grand Marshall, O'Neill, Peter McCormick and Redlac, Jr.

Good Races on Second Day.

Larger fields and faster time furnished more thrills for the spectators in the second day's races of the grand circuit yesterday.

The race for the 2:24 trot was the hardest fought. In the first heat word was not given until the horses scored the sixth time. Uncle Biff, a Cleveland horse, an overwhelming favorite, showed the way from start to finish, Creosote crowding him 100 yards from the wire, with Santos Maid well back.

In the second heat, Uncle Biff held the lead until the stretch, when he tired and Santos Maid and Creosote fought it out, the former winning by a scant margin. Santos Maid led the field all the way in the third heat, Cox bringing Judson Girl up from fifth place when within 200 yards of the wire and finishing second.

Four times in the scoring for the start the 3-year-olds in the sweepstakes had to be sent back when one of the factious colts would break just as the starter was about to give the word. The heat developed into a race between Cegantle and Etawah. Cegantle broke and barely finished fifth, Sweet Alice, Peter Johnson and Virginia Todd finishing in that order ahead of him. After the race Etawah was sold by her owner, B. W. Whitehead of Murfreesboro, Tenn., to Frank G. Jones of Memphis, who will place the blind colt in "Pop" Geers' stable.

Walter Cochato, the favorite in the Forest City stake could not do better than third in the first heat and second in the next two.

After taking the first heat of the 2:09 pace, Vera B. was passed in the stretch by Foote Prince in the next two heats. Vera B. led to the last quarter in the third heat but lost to Foote Prince in a whipping finish.

LITTLE FALLS HAS REAL CLASS

Little Falls, Minn., July 9.—That Little Falls, Minn., has one of the best baseball teams in the state was shown by the three successive defeats of the St. Cloud team on the grounds of the Little Falls club.

On Friday Little Falls won by the score of 4 to 0. Dominick pitched for the winning team and allowed but four hits. Lefty Dretchko, one of the best twirlers that the university ever had, was in the box for the St. Cloud team and was found for seven hits.

On Saturday the Little Falls bunch won out by the count of 7 to 6, the game being pulled out of the fire by a rally that produced three runs in the ninth inning. Sullivan pitched the second game of the series for the Little Falls team and was opposed by Lamb. The St. Cloud team gathered eight hits and the Little Falls team also garnered the same number.

The final game of the series was played last Sunday before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a game at Little Falls, the home team winning out by the count of 7 to 5. Butler pitched for Little Falls and Dretchko was back in the box for the visitors. The three games marked the most exciting series ever played in Little Falls.

ENTRIES CLOSE EARLY FRIDAY

Entries for the state tennis tournament close at 6 o'clock Friday evening. All of the local players who are desirous of entering the play are requested to get their names in just as soon as possible.

Ned Warner, caretaker of the Minneapolis Tennis club, will be here on Friday and will immediately take up the work of putting the courts at Oatka in prime shape for play.

As the courts are in very good condition at the present time, it is believed that the loving care of the expert of the Mill City will make the playing surface the best it has been for years.

Arthur P. Barnes, who has general charge of the tournament, believes that it will be one of the very best that has been held in the history of the state.

Mr. Barnes has heard from St. Paul and Minneapolis and has been practically assured that all of the stars of the state will be on hand to play for the title, now held by John Adams of St. Paul.

CAMBRIDGE CRICKET TEAM VICTORIOUS.

London, July 9.—The Cambridge University cricket eleven today beat the Oxford University team by four wickets in their annual three-days' match at Lord's ground.

Neahga Wins.

Watertown, N. Y., July 9.—The Neahga, representing the Crescent Yacht Club of Watertown, won the second of the series of races for the George cup at the L. Y. R. A. regatta at Bryner's cove, Lake Ontario yesterday.

SOX BADLY CRIPPLED FOR WINONA SERIES

Smith's Absence and Brackett's Injury Put Dooks Up Against Tough Proposition Before Important Games.

Duluth and Winona will open a two-game series at Athletic park tomorrow afternoon.

Superior won from the Corsairs yesterday, and while the league leaders were being dragged down a game the Sox were also losing.

Fans here are fervently hoping that the Sox cop the final game at the Peg and that Superior succeeds in winning further from the Davis gang, whose fast and consistent playing is beginning to make the fans around the circuit sit up and take notice.

It is also the hope of the followers of the local team that Elmer Smith will be allowed to get back into the game within the next two days.

One of the extremely silly devices of the laws of baseball, or the lack of laws, is that a club can be crippled and yet has no recourse.

If Smith was really the property of the Jackson, Mich., club and that club had a valid claim to the services of the player, it is very peculiar that it has required all this time to make the claim, and that it has required something over ten days to accomplish nothing in the matter of straightening out the case.

All this goes for J. H. Farrell—one of the biggest jokes of baseball. He is the little shining figure of baseball until some real use is required of him, and then it is found that Mons. Farrell is as elusive and as difficult to reach as some diva suffering from temperament and nerves.

Run of Ill Luck.

Ill luck has been the portion of the local club during the present season. Practically every man upon the team has been injured at one time or another. The list includes Wilke, Blancke, Miller, Smith, McGraw, Menlece, O'Brien, Monahan and perhaps several others. And in the midst of his run of misfortune, the club officials find that they are unable to get any satisfaction in the matter of Smith.

Mr. Farrell is paid a handsome salary for his labor of secretary of various minor leagues of this country. Perhaps he has acted differently in the several cases that have not had local application, but if he has acted toward all of the clubs that have attempted to transact business with him as he has in the matters that have come to him from this city, there are at least some people who believe Farrell isn't earning his salary.

With Bracket out of the game with a broken ankle the Sox are in bad shape at the present time. Not only will the pitcher be missed in the box, but his absence from the field at a time when the team is crippled is a very serious handicap to contend with.

Tomorrow's series with the Pirates, as has been pointed out, is a very important one. If Winona is going to be pulled from the lead the attempt should surely be made while the Corsairs are on the road. The Sox will have to do something in the two games the leaders are with us, and the fans are rooting for two straight.

ST. PAUL JUNIOR EIGHT MADE UP OF NEW MEN

But Two of Last Year's Crew Are in Boat This Season.

The Same Eight Will Row in Both of the Two Big Races.

According to the special communication received by The Herald sporting editor today from Secretary Stan Donnelly of the Minnesota Boat club, there are but two men in the present junior eight of that organization that rowed in the junior boat last season at Winnipeg.

Ira Baer and J. B. Fitzpatrick were in the junior boat last season and they are still members of the crew. The new men are Fleming, who is stroking the boat; Moore, 6; Robb, 5; McGill, 4; Hayes, 2; and Briggs, bow.

This crew will also row in the senior event on the second day of the regatta, and from what we believe of the prowess of the Duluth senior eight, it will be able to clean this competitor.

St. Paul's junior four will be the same as that of last year, if there is not more than one man down there with the same name. Fitzpatrick, Baer, Ellerbee and Connelly rowed in the junior four last season, and these same men will sit in the boat at the regatta of next week.

There is but one of last year's bantams in the bantam boat this season. Russell being the only left over from 1912. The new men are Ralph, Gruber and Schaub.

A baseball game is planned between the Duluth and Minnesota clubs for the morning of July 19, if the members of the local club who are planning upon making the trip will organize a team.

It is planned to make this one of the features of the regatta. It is believed that a sufficient number of the local club will go down to St. Paul to enable the boys to put a read team in the field. If Cy Forgette could be persuaded to make the trip it is believed that the Apostles would experience real trouble in hitting his curves.

Crews in Form.

All of the Duluth crews are rounding into great form. There remains just one week for practice on local waters. According to the present plans the crews will leave on the morning of July 16 for St. Paul and will have one day and one morning to do some river rowing.

As the time approaches for the regatta the interest grows in the big international races. It is believed that we have two of the greatest eights in the history of the club, not to mention the fours.

Our juniors are going so good that they have been able to consistently defeat the seniors with even starts. This speaks mighty well for the chances of the younger boat in the eight race of the first day. It is expected that this week will bring the seniors to their highest form, and the best speed of the seniors should enable them to lick the juniors.

It is not that the followers of the crews here are overconfident; Ten Eyck has not even expressed the belief that his crews can win at St. Paul. But it will take two mighty good eights to win over the two that are just putting the finishing touches on, and there is a feeling hereabouts that the D. B. C. entries are going to come mighty near winning.

There will be a regular brush between the junior and senior eights this evening, and it will be a race well worth the witnessing.

Members of the boat club should take advantage of the opportunity to watch the crews in the final workout for the races of July 18 and 19. The club has two of the best crews ever produced here, and the members are just putting on the final touches to the long and arduous grind of some five weary months of labor, counting the work on the machines and on the waters of the bay.

JANNUS OUT OF CRUISE

St. Louis Aviator Rescued and His Flying Boat Abandoned.

Michigan City, Ind., July 9.—Beckwith Havens and J. P. R. Verplanck of Fishkill, N. Y., the only aviators who covered the first leg of the 900-mile hydro-aeroplane race yesterday by making this port, were early at work today tuning up their winged craft for the second leg of the race to Macatawa Bay, Mich., which, barring accident, they will reach tonight.

William Pickens, director of contests, received word that Walter Johnson would leave Whiting, Ind., today for this city. Johnson was compelled to land yesterday by a squall and his machine was towed ashore.

Pickens stated that Roy I. Francis, the San Francisco aviator, who was delayed at Chicago by the storm, probably would get away today and that Glenn Martin, whose craft was injured in a recent practice flight, might get away tomorrow. Pickens said that he hoped that the original schedule might be resumed at Manistee, Mich., which is scheduled as the Thursday night control.

Jannus Rescued.

Two of the three hydro-aeroplanes which started from Chicago yesterday were wrecked over Lake Michigan by squalls and fell into the waves far from land. Anthony Jannus of St. Louis and his mechanician Paul McCullough, were picked up off South Chicago by the steam dredge Dahlke. Walter Johnson of New York, flying alone, was rescued near Whiting, Ind., by the South Chicago life saving crew. Jannus' machine was abandoned in a squall after the dredge had started to tow it ashore. The life savers brought Johnson's craft to shore and he may resume his flight.

Beckwith Havens, carrying J. P. R. Verplanck of Fishkill, N. Y., owner of the machine, as a passenger, reached Michigan City in safety, the only one of the ten aviators originally scheduled to start, who made the first lap.

Jannus was the first to leave Chicago. Havens followed ten minutes later. Johnson's start was delayed by engine trouble.

Jannus had trouble from the start. He ran into a thunderstorm with fierce squalls of wind when he had covered about half the distance. The machine was forced to descend, but the lake was so rough that it was with difficulty that Jannus and McCullogh could keep afloat. The men were paddling desperately in the effort to keep the craft right side up when the dredger steamed up to them and threw them lines.

The rescue was just in time, as a few minutes later a heavy squall blew up and the Dahlke found it impossible to tow the air craft and was obliged to cast it adrift. The hydro-aeroplane drifted out of sight in a few minutes, apparently a wreck, with its wings torn and broken. Jannus and McCullough were almost exhausted. They were able, however, to proceed to Chicago by train.

The rescue of Jannus and McCullough was seen by the life saving crew which picked up Johnson.

BRACKETT OUT FOR A MONTH

Winnipeg, Man., July 9. — Harry Brackett, one of the stars of the pitching staff of the Duluth White Sox staff, yesterday broke his ankle sliding back into first base. Brackett was leading off and when Nelson turned to make the throw the visiting pitcher dived into the sack feet first, catching his spike and turning his ankle.

The injured player was carried off the field and was given immediate attention. The examination showed that the ankle had been snapped and it is very probable that the Duluth club will be without the services of one of the most valuable men of its roster for at least a month. The injury to Brackett follows close upon the heels of several other injuries to the members of the White Sox team.

Pitcher Sold.

Vancouver, B. C., July 9.—Bob Ingersoll, regarded as one of the best pitchers in the Northwest league, has been sold by the Vancouver club to the Cincinnati Nationals for $3,000, delivery to be made next fall.

PUBLIC IS HOLDING BAG

Glowing Promises for Florence Mine End in Stock Assessment.

Where Is the $4,000,000 Worth of Ore Broker Advertised?

The announcement in an advertisement in the morning paper by a stock broker of Duluth that the Florence mining company is in financial difficulties and that stockholders are urged to pay in a voluntary assessment of cents a share to help out, has a large number of stockholders worried and perplexed.

These stockholders had their hopes high not long ago, and looked forward to a dividend by this time; but now it is an assessment. Whereas the promises were bright, according to the alluring advertisements which the brokers had printed, not so very long ago, the advertisement now being produced has come as a wet blanket over their high hopes and buoyant feeling. All of the past announcements have been glowing. For instance here is a selection from an advertisement published on the morning of Sept. 19, 1912:

"Latest report from superintendent of Florence mine shows that the shaft is 55 feet below the 400-foot level. The vein is still in the shaft, increasing in width and richness with depth." That helped a great deal, but there was better to follow. On the morning of Oct. 6, last, there appeared a large advertisement, in which the following appeared concerning the Florence:

"J. C. Fyle, a prominent mining engineer of Butte, says that the Florence mine, which is a silver-lead property, is one of the best in Montana outside of the Butte camp. The work of sinking the shaft in the mine, from the 400 to the 500-foot level is just completed, and regular shipments will be made from the property about Nov. 1. The important news from this shaft is that the vein carried strong from the 400 to the 500-foot level in the shaft, which proves conclusively that the vein will be a large producer of high grade ore."

"Very Rich Property."

Following this is record as to the value of the ore found.

On Dec. 1, in the morning paper, appeared an advertisement which boomed the heart-beats of the stockholders. It concerned the Florence Mining & Milling Co., which was the heading, and it said:

"Mine located at Niehart, Montana. Shaft 510 feet deep; 650 feet of ore shown up, and I have seen it. This is a very rich property; in fact some of those who have been out there seem to think it is one of the coming real big mines, and they even go so far that they say, 'It's going to become another Granite Mountain.' The Granite Mountain was the richest silver property in Montana. It paid millions and high grade silver was mined to a depth of 1,800 feet. You can see that the Florence must be a good stock, otherwise the shares would be easy to buy. The stock is strong at $1.43 bid. I do look for Florence to sell above $5 per share later on, when returns begin to go forward in a big way. Take my advice and buy this stock."

This visual demonstration to the broker, and his consequent enthusiastic indorsement of the stock, caused many, it is said, to buy in or to add to their holdings. This advertisement, it is claimed, is one of the sore spots. On the same date another broker, who has been prominently identified with the property's stock sale, had an advertisement in the News Tribune which caused fully as much eagerness to buy stock as did the other. He, too, had "seen it." In his advertisement he says:

"President Smith, who is now at the property, advises that three cars have gone to the smelter this week. He also advises that the developed work on the 500-foot level is showing up remarkably rich ore, that the rich streak of sulphide silver has widened to 20 inches, in addition to about 2½ to 3 feet of porphyry that carries from 30 to 40 ounces of silver to the ton."

There is more about this assay business, and this is added:

$4,000,000 in One Vein.

"Florence ore chute has more than $4,000,000 worth of ore in one vein and level, with every reason to believe that the ore extends to great depth, and not taking into consideration the great possibility of opening up the same great ore chute south of the fault and north of the lean streak that was encountered on the 400-foot level, and not taking into consideration the two other veins that parallel the Florence vein and that have surface indications equally as good as the Florence."

Then comes the glowing promise, even more glowing than that given by the other broker. The advertisement quoted continues:

"As an investment, Florence will pay back to its stockholders from this ore chute $20 for every outstanding share.

"In order to bring the ore reserves down to the figures as stated above, you have got to be rather conservative, not cut the values in two but divide them by three, and you still have more than $4,000,000 worth of ore absolutely blocked out, that can be inspected and measured on the top and bottom and up and down and through the center."

Their Hesitation.

This sparkling report closes with this reassuring statement:

"The speculative possibilities of this stock are so great that we hesitate to give figures."

On April 27 this same broker had another interesting advertisement in which he congratulates the management, saying:

"It's up to the stockholders of this company to take off their hats to their management; less than one year since the first wheel was turned on the property, now a producing self-sustaining mine with large bodies of shipping ore shown up, the mine has been shipping steadily since the first of the year."

Then the writer goes on urging stockholders to know the truth, investigate and "take advantage of the ignorance of those who will not learn the truth, investigate and then invest in some of Florence at these ridiculous prices. No proposition ever floated in the Duluth market has ever made such an enviable record in such a short time. Some of the best mining men in the country, who know mines and values, have told us that Florence is worth at least $5 per share."

Mr. Lee's Congratulations.

It is well to remember the wording of that ad. In it the writer or broker for whom it was written, M. W. Lee, congratulates the management of Florence. Yesterday he told The Herald that the reason for the financial difficulties now announced is that the management of the mine has been too extravagant in the way of putting in too great equipment for the development done; and that the taking out of ore has dropped from the $1,800 a ton stuff to the $300 or $400 a ton ore, and that now a shoot back into the better body is necessary, and there is no money with which to do the work.

After all this boosting of the mine, of its ore value, fine management, self-sustaining qualities, $4,000,000 worth of high grade ore blocked out and measurable to the naked eye or something of that sort, the stockholders, or some of them at least, felt that they were being treated to a dash of cold water, metaphorically speaking, when the following advertisement appeared in the morning paper on Monday of this week:

In Financial Trouble.

"Attention, Stockholders of the Florence Mining & Milling Co.: This company is in financial trouble and the stockholders should at once pay a voluntary assessment of 7 cents per share on their stock. This would pay every dollar this company owes. The promoters have agreed to give the company about 50,000 shares of their stock to further finance it. This company mined about $20,000 worth of ore out of one ore chute, but this ore did not continue and it is necessary to either upraise or follow the vein until new ore chutes can be located. This property is just as promising as any mine I know of and the stockholders would do well to at once inform themselves of what the superintendent of the mine has to say regarding the possibilities of new ore bodies. Have your stock put in your own name and see that you send in your money to pay the present debts, etc."

Further along, the ad assures the stockholders that the Florence is too big a proposition to quit now for the matter of a few thousand dollars.

In the meantime, with paying ore admittedly lost, some stockholders are wondering what has become of that $4,000,000 block of ore that could be measured top and bottom, up and down and through the center, and was in plain sight.

Cartercar

My Statements Are Strong —My Proofs Are Stronger!

No, I am not going to tell you that the Cartercar is the best car in the world and then trust to providence that you believe me. That's the usual method employed by motor car salesmen.

But I am going to tell you just what you can expect when you pay me your good money for a Cartercar.

And I'm telling you plain facts—which will be more than justified when you take hold of the wheel of your Cartercar.

Here goes: You can travel any ordinary roadway—deep mud and sand—50% hills—and you can do this continually. You do not have stripped gears—because there are no gears to strip.

You can drive along beside a walking person, and then with a single movement of the speed lever change to the very highest or any other speed desired, noiselessly and without jerking. You have an unlimited number of speeds.

This reliability—efficiency—and simple control are made possible because of the Cartercar gearless transmission. This feature enables the Cartercar to give you service which is impossible for any gear car.

I say impossible, because you know yourself that ten or twelve complicated gears cannot be as simply controlled—cannot be so economical with power—cannot be so reliable—as a transmission without any gears at all.

Now you are holding the bag—you pay out your good money—and you take what the car has to give. Why not look at the matter from a strictly business-like standpoint? Why not be sure that you are going to get your money's worth.

And I say I can prove to you, any time you wish, that the Cartercar is just the car you want if you demand service. I say it will give better service than a gear car—and I challenge any gear car salesman to come out on the road and follow me.

Once or twice gear car salesmen have taken their cars out and tried to follow the Cartercar and they were glad enough to get back in their garages again. They simply cannot compete with the gearless transmission when it comes to service.

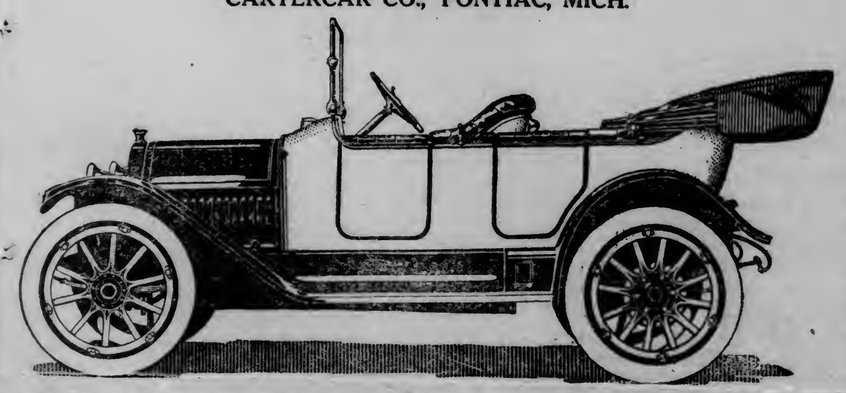

Let's get together and talk "business." I don't ask you to take my word for any statements made here. I only ask you to give me a chance to let the Cartercar prove them.

CABLES HAIR-RAISING STORY OF ISLAND WAR

Maj. Gen. Bell Reports on Pershing's Campaign Against Moros.

Washington, July 9.—A hair-raising story of hand-to-hand conflicts with spear-hurling Moro savages in a battle to death on an isolated mountain top, with no quarter given or expected, is cabled to the war department from the Philippines by Maj.-Gen. Bell. It was the commanding general's report on the campaign of Brig.-Gen. Pershing which resulted in the extermination of the last considerable band of about 400 rebellious Moros and the complete disarming of these warlike tribes.

"When no reasonable hope of a peaceful conclusion remained," says Gen. Bell in his report, "Brig.-Gen. Pershing arrived at Jolo with boats during the night of June 10, secretly embarked his command and, landing nearby, surrounded Bagsak, the same night to prevent a stampede of the women and children and non-combatants to the mountain again.

Assaults began at daylight; fierce fighting, part of it hand to hand, during five days marked by tenacious resistance and counter attacks from Moros rushing on troops with barongs and hurling spears at the storming lines.

"The control of troops by the officers was admirable, thus preventing a greater number of casualties. The enemy was completely defeated and all the strongholds were finally taken. None of the Moros would surrender; some escaped, but the remainder were killed, including Amil and his principal lieutenants, during the engagement."

$500,000,000 OIL LAND CASE IS DELAYED

Washington, July 9.—The trial of the government's suit at Los Angeles, for the recovery of $500,000,000 worth of oil lands held by the Southern Pacific railroad, probably will be delayed until the supreme court of the United States has decided the suit of Edmund Kurk and other private litigants against the railroad.

The lower court hardly would be willing to decide the government's case until the supreme court had rendered its decision. The government is endeavoring to recover the lands on the ground that the patents of the railroad company's grant excepted oil lands.

WILL POISON THE GRASSHOPPERS.

Dodge City, Kan., July 9.—An organized effort to exterminate grasshoppers which threaten to destroy the crops of Southern Kansas will be begun by the farmers of that section Monday. A mash, containing poison, will be thrown broadcast over every green field. The farmers hope to save part of their crops.

JAPS RESENT BAN AT BATH BEACHES.

Denver, Colo., July 9.—A delegation of Japanese has notified the city authorities they would appeal to the ambassador of their government at Washington in an effort to secure the rescinding of an order issued by Otto Thums, commissioner of property, barring Japanese from bathing beaches in the city parks. The Japanese declare that the order is in violation of their treaty rights.

Thums' order, which also bars negroes from the beaches, resulted, he declares, from a large number of protests from white swimmers.

ELEMENTS CAUSED AVIATOR'S DEATH.

Washington, July 9.—Only the ungoverned elements can be held responsible for the death of Ensign William D. Billingsley, the young naval aviator, who plunged 1,600 feet to his death in Chesapeake bay near Annapolis June 20. This is the report from a board appointed to investigate the tragedy.

THREE KILLED BY ELECTRIC STORM.

Elgin, Ill., July 9.—Three men are reported killed and property damaged to the extent of $50,000 by an electric storm here yesterday. Four stores were unroofed by the wind, the steeple of the First Baptist church was blown down and much damage was done to telephone and telegraph wires. Arthur Peterson, 18 years old, son of Job Peterson, a wealthy farmer, four miles west of here, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. This city was in darkness last night on account of damage to electric light plant. Reports from Dundee and Sycamore, nearby villages, say both were badly damaged by the wind.

NEW JERSEY DROPS BEEF TRUST CASES.

Jersey City, N. J., July 9.—New Jersey has abandoned her attempt to prosecute Western beef packers under her state anti-trust laws. Supreme Court Justice Swayze has dismissed twenty-six indictments against as many firms and individuals charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade. Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and other leaders in the packing industry were named as defendants.

For a time the state hoped to press the cases, but Pierre P. Garven, the prosecutor who started the investigation, has left office and his successor felt that to go on with the cases was useless.

CROP REPORTS ENCOURAGING

Conditions in Minnesota Counties Promise Good Yields of All Grains.

Rye, Barley and Early Oats Safe, Says Immigration Commissioner.

Crop reports from Minnesota counties are encouraging, according to reports received by the state immigration department. Reports indicate sufficient moisture, and the corn has enough to insure a good average crop.

"I regard this as the most critical time of the season," said Fred D. Sherman, commissioner of immigration, yesterday. "Rye and barley and the early oats are practically out of the way and will be ready for cutting this week, but the wheat is in the milk and weather condtions the next week or ten days will mean a great deal to that crop."

The following counties reported this week:

Hubbard County.

General crop outlook never better. Corn doing well and knee high on July 1. Alfalfa and clover are being cut. The dry weather in June injured the clover crop about 10 per cent, but the alfalfa is good and some fields have cut two tons per acre. Small grain is the best in years. Winter rye and winter wheat are both filling fine, and spring grains are heading out with good lengths of straw. Pastures are in good condition, and the local creameries are prospering. Many acres of land are being opened up this year and the farmers are planting more forage crops than ever before. Plenty of moisture—J. H. Nixon, crop reporter.

Wadena County.

Oats and clover are not as good as usual, but corn is very good. Potatoes, winter rye and the wild hay meadows are looking well and promise a good crop. We are not raising much wheat here. In this vicinity we depend upon dairying and other forms of animal husbandry, so that hay and corn are the crops that we depend on. Prospects looks good—Asher Murray, crop reporter.

Kandiyohi County.

Crop conditions in Kandiyohi county on July 1 are vastly better than they were ten days ago, and indications are now that the crops will be better than the average. We have had a number of showers during the last two weeks and no part of the county is in need of moisture. The hot weather of last week did not damage small grains as the showers came in time to prevent it and at the same time helped the corn wonderfully. Apples and berries are looking fine this year. A number of farmers are experimenting with alfalfa and report success—T. O. Gilbert, crop reporter.

Kittson County.

Crops in this county are somewhat spotted. Wheat has started to head out and the straw is short. The hay crop will be light, although there are some good pieces of timothy and clover. Walter J. Hill on the J. J. Hill farm in this county has some very fine alfalfa. Some of it is three years old and has stood the winters nicely. Mr. Hill planted 450 acres this spring and reports it doing well. Potatoes and corn are doing well and should yield an average crop with normal weather from now on—T. M. George, crop reporter.

Dakota County.

On July 1 all crops looked well and will come up to the average. Recent rains have lengthened out the straw and present cool weather is causing all grains to fill well. Rye harvest will commence next week and barley in about ten days. Corn is doing fine and is waist high. Lots of red and white clover raised here and a few pieces of alfalfa. All are doing well—Bob Carmichael, crop reporter.

Cass County.

Crop conditions up to date are excellent. We have had plenty of moisture during the season so far. Corn is a good stand and growing fast. Winter rye is in splendid shape now. Oats is looking fine and filling well. The wheat is short in stock but has large heads. I never saw potatoes looking better. Some small patches of alfalfa being tried out with success by farmers in this county. Will report more fully on alfalfa later—B. L. Perry, crop reporter.

Grant County.

The crop for Grant county seems to be a fair average in spite of the extreme heat that we had the latter part of June and promises to yield well. Corn is doing well and if favorable conditions continue we will have a better yield than ever before. There are some alfalfa fields in the northern part of the county that are doing well—F. C. Anderson, crop reporter.

Martin County.

Crops of every kind are looking fine, but we are getting most too much rain. Corn was backward on the start, but has come rapidly forward the past two weeks or so that it is up to the average for this time of the year. A few small pieces of alfalfa in this county looking good—Frank Wade, crop reporter.

Morrison County.

Crops are looking fine with corn ahead of this time last year. We have had heavy rains the past week which will insure enough moisture to finish the grain crop. Rye cutting will start this week. Clover has been cut with a fair yield. Alfalfa is doing well in Morrison county. Potatoes are good with less bother from bugs than usual. Strawberries were a short crop, but raspberries are above the average—F. B. Logan, crop reporter.

McLeod County.

Crops are improving very fast the last few days. Recent rains helped all crops and the small grains are looking very well. Corn never looked better than it does at the present time. Alfalfa is being rapidly introduced in this county and what is now planted looks fine—Cal Sivright, crop reporter.

Scott County.

July 1 crops never were better. Rye is about ready to be harvested. Wheat and oats look very good. Corn will be the largest crop we have had in years. I sent you on July 4, stock of corn five feet high. Alfalfa fields look fine—Joseph Ring, crop reporter.

Cottonwood County.

Crop conditions in this county are fine. Oats, barley, flax, millet and spelts all good, but the straw is short. Hay is good and quality excellent except timothy. All pastures are in excellent condition. Many fine fields of alfalfa are being cut today, some being over three feet tall. Have one sample of alfalfa here measuring over three feet. We have had sufficient moisture to insure a good crop—Benjamin N. Cone, crop reporter.

Pipestone County.

Crops are always good in this county, but this year they look unusually well. Barley and early oats are a little short, but the heads are well filled and of a good length. Wheat is coming along nicely. Corn is the best the county has ever seen, it being more than knee high at the present time. All pastures and hay lands are looking fine. The dry weather in May injured some of the hay meadows, but there will be plenty of hay nevertheless. Alfalfa is a new crop with us, but the few pieces planted are looking fine, and I see no reason why Pipestone county farmers should not raise more alfalfa. A hail storm passed through the northern part of the county, damagaing a strip about a half mile wide—I. L. Demaray, reporter.

Swift County.

Conditions for growing crops have been especially good in Swift county this year, and rain came at the right time. The small grain has short straw, but the heads look good. Corn is a good stand and was over knee high before July 1. The corn acreage has been greatly increased in this county, and the interest in corn growing is keen on account of the boys' contest in this county under the supervision of the Swift county farming bureau. Alfalfa is proving to be a sure and profitable crop, and there are over a hundred fields. All kinds of alfalfa seed has been tried with success. The wild hay crop is a little short—F. C. Thornton, crop reporter.

Obstinate Acne Quickly Yields

Fine Remedy that Clears Skin of Pimples on Cheeks, Temples, Sides of Nose and Chin.

Acne attacks the glandular structure of the skin, more particularly those tiny glands that secrete fat.

And it is here that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier is most active in its influence.

There is one ingredient in S. S. S., the purpose of which it is to stimulate the cells in the tissues that they select from the blood the nutriment that makes new skin and thus eliminates all irritants, acids and parasites that inflame the glands. There is a natural tendency of the fine network of blood vessels in the skin to throw off impurities, but where a persistent inflammatory process has invaded the skin, the natural repair work of the blood is interfered with. It requires the stimulating activity of S. S. S. to overcome such morbid conditions. If you have been troubled with acne, do not despair of a cure.

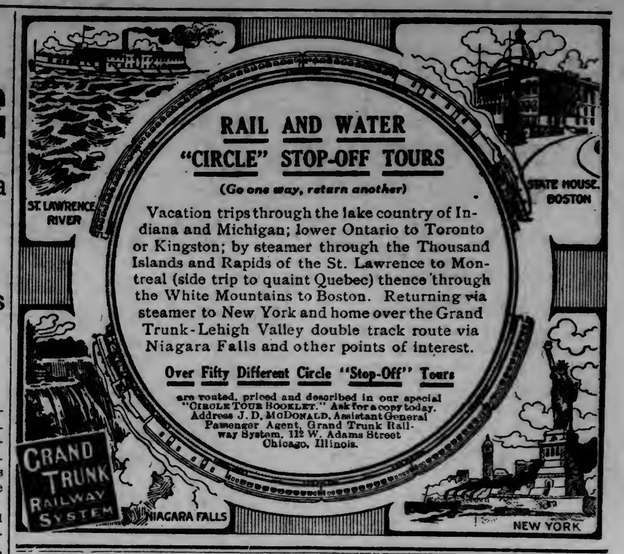

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if you blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 181 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

WILL CHECK UP MEAT INSPECTORS.

Washington, July 9.—Meat packing establishments throughout the country are to be subjected to searching inspections by well-known experts selected by the secretary of agriculture from outside the government service. This step follows criticism of Federal meat inspection from various sources, and Secretary Houston announced that its object is to increase the efficiency of the service and to foster public confidence.

Dr. W. T. Sedkwick, professor of bacteriology and sanitary engineering in the Massachusetts institute of technology, is to investigate plants at Boston, Worcester, and Bridgeport, Mass., and New Haven, Conn.; Dr. V. A. Moore, professor of pathology at Cornell university, will go to Philadelphia, New York, Buffalo and Pittsburg, and Dr. J. A. Connaway of Missouri Agricultural college, to Kansas City, St. Louis and St. Joseph, Mo., and National Stockyards, Ill.

"It is my desire," said the secretary in his instructions to the experts, "that you report to me fully and frankly the conditions as you find them at the packing establishments, together with such recommendations looking to the improvement of the service as in your judgment may seem best."

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING PLAYERS MAY QUIT LEAGUE

Object to So Many Trolley League Games in Small Towns.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Range Trolley league may not last the season out and may disband in another week, owing to the Hibbing team's refusal to go to Biwabik Saturday and Sunday to play scheduled games. The games were forfeited to Biwabik.

The complaint is made by Hibbing that too many games are scheduled in the smaller towns where no crowds can be secured. Hibbing wants a revision of the schedule so as to give more games to the larger towns, particularly to Hibbing, which, thus far, has proved far the best town of the league for gate receipts.

Biwabik Stuck to Schedule.

Efforts were made to get Biwabik to come to Hibbing Saturday and Sunday, as it has been found that Hibbing always turns out a good crowd the Saturday and Sunday following the Fourth. But Biwabik insisted that the games be played at Biwabik, according to schedule. Hibbing refused to go and forfeited the games. This gives Hibbing a record of twenty games played with sixteen won and four lost, or a percentage of .800, leading the Mohamis of Virginia, their nearest opponents, by 300 points.

Hibbing will drop out of the league unless the playing schedule can be arranged so as to give more games in Hibbing.

BOVEY COUPLE ARE WED IN MARQUETTE

Slip Away From Western Mesaba, Getting Married in Michigan.

Marquette, Mich., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—William H. Mackie and Miss Blanche McMillian, two young people of Bovey, Minn., were married at noon Monday by Rev. Platte G. Amstutz, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the manse.

The couple arrived in the city at an early hour Monday morning from the Soo, and soon after the county clerk arrived at his office, the couple procured a marriage license. They wandered about the city the balance of the morning and at noon went to the Presbyterian manse, where the knot was tied.

Mr. Mackie and bride left Monday afternoon for the Soo, where they will spend a short honeymoon. Later they will return to Bovey, Minn., to make their future home.

WANTS $7,500 FROM HIBBING

Damages in That Sum Are Asked for Child Hit By Batted Ball.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because several boys were allowed to play baseball on the corner of Second avenue and Granite street, June 7, Hibbing may have to defend trial in a $7,500 damage suit.

In an action laid before the council last night by Edward Boyle, assistant county attorney, in behalf of Anton and Yera Petrich, the latter wishes to recover damages for injuries alleged to have been caused by her having been hit and knocked down by a ball batted by one of the boys.

The accident is supposed to have occurred on June 7.

It is claimed that the village should be held responsible, in view of the fact that the police on duty at the time of the accident was negligent in not requesting the boys to stop playing baseball on the streets.

The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the council.

COLERAINE WINNER.

Carl W. Vandyke Captures Prize in June Essay Contest.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—State Dairy Commissioner Winkjer announces the winner of the first prize in the June dairy form essay prize contest was H. H. Jaquith of Pine River, but because he had already been awarded a prize, K. Johnson of Dassel got the gold watch offered. The subject for June was, "How do the profits of summer and winter dairying compare?" The following were district winners:

District 1. Fred Ludwig, Garvin.

District 2. Harry Cox, St. Charles; Ray F. Frisby, St. Charles; George C. Schmidt, Emmons.

District 3. J. M. Peterson, Dassel; L. E. Mattson, Dassel; Albert O. Titrud, Cokato.

District 4. Frank C. Campbell, Park Rapids; Newman F. Ireland, Verndale; Bernard E. Moses, Pelican Rapids.

District 5. Martin A. Hoel, Erskine. District 6. H. H. Jaquith, Pillager; John A. Roush, Pierz; Carl W. Vandyke, Coleraine.

OPEN PIT MINE IS NOT DESIRED

Virginia Council Turns Down Request of Owners of Columbia.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys representing contending parties consumed much of the city council's time last night. Otto A. Poirier and C. L. Judd of Duluth, manager for the Interstate Iron company, asked for the vacation of about ten blocks of streets and alleys over the site of the Columbia mine to be opened up as an open pit, comprising North Mesaba avenue and about two blocks on each side where now is Magnolia, Balsam, Lemon and Orange streets. The mill property of the W. T. Bailey Lumber company is adjacent and the owners assert the property will depreciate one-half, with an open pit so near and offer to sell at a price that would be fixed by three appraisers. R. R. Bailey and W. T. Bailey, Jr., were opposed to the petition for vacating and were represented by H. B. Pryberger of Duluth. The petition to vacate required the three-fourths of the full membership of nine, or seven votes. It failed by a vote of five for and three against, one member being absent.

Mayor Favored Petition.

Alderman McGhee and Mayor M. A. Murphy spoke in favor of granting the petition, saying the opening of the mine would be of great value to the city. There is said to be several million tons of ore in the Columbia property. Mr. Judd has not decided what the next step will be to obtain the vacation of the streets and alleys.

Senator James P. Boyle, representing William Murray of Eveleth, who desires an automobile license in Virginia for autos for hire, and M. H. McMahon, representing Virginia auto livery men who recently had an ordinance passed to keep outside auto owners from soliciting business in Virginia, were then heard. Murray had once been denied a license but on a second application, it was granted to him. The aldermen took the position that no action shall be taken which may bring retaliatory measures from a neighboring city. On the ground that misinformation had been given to the city clerk when a license was issued to a carnival company, the council ordered the license canceled.

FIRE CHIEF MAY GO TO NEW YORK

Head of Hibbing Department May Attend National Chiefs' Meet.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—If present plans do not miscarry, Chief McIllergey of the Hibbing fire department may attend the annual convention of the nation's chiefs to be held in New York city the first week in September. He will do so if the proper arrangements can be made here.

Plans are now being made whereby at least three automobile fire-fighting trucks will be added to the fire department and it is the desire of Chief McIllergey to take either Mayor Powers or one of the aldermen to New York, where all of the most up-to-date apparatus will be displayed.

WAIT MAYOR'S RETURN.

Hibbing Council Meets Again Friday to Transact Business.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two renewals of saloon licenses and one transfer of a license were granted at a short session of the village council last evening.

Because Mayor Powers is out of town and that there are several matters of importance to be taken up, the meeting was adjourned to Friday night, that the mayor might be in attendance.

In the absence of the mayor, Trustee Geiselman presided.

The report of the municipal court for the last week was accepted, showing that $210.12 had been collected in fines during the past week.

The water and light board decided that the hydrants of the city should be painted red in accordance with a request of the fire chief, and that the posts of the white way should be painted black.

DELAYED FIREWORKS.

Hibbing Will Set Off Fourth Supply on Thursday Evening.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following an exhibition by Company M of the state militia Thursday evening, the fireworks which were to have been given on the Fourth will be fired off.

It was at first the intention of those in charge to have the militia company go into a days' regular camp, but Lieut. Lewis, who is in charge of the company, believed this to be inadvisable in view of the fact that the members had only recently returned from Lake City, where they had their annual outing.

Before the fireworks are shot off the militia will be put through guard mount. If the weather is favorable the different fireworks will be put in place during the afternoon and everything will be in readiness for the evening's program. The Hibbing concert band will be out in full force.

WADDELL GETS BODY.

Virginia Ball Tosser Recovers Corpse From Lake Vermilion.

Tower, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Rube" Waddell, pitcher for the Virginia Northern league team who is camping on Lake Vermilion yesterday dived into thirty feet of water in the lake and recovered the body of Emmet Gary, aged 22, who was drowned Monday when he jumped from the steamer Holland for a swim while towing logs and was taken with cramps. Waddell dove several times before bringing the body to the surface. Gary's parents are supposed to live at Ada, Minn., and the authorities are trying to locate them.

HIBBING TO GREET THE COAL DEALERS.

Hibbing, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing is making extensive plans for the entertainment of the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers' association, which will arrive here from Duluth Friady afternoon. While here the coal dealers will be taken through the mines, and in the evening a banquet is being planned for them by the women of the Presbyterian church. They will also be given an automobile tour by the Commercial club.

MINE EMPLOYES TO FIGHT FIRE

Oliver Volunteer Fire Department Is Organized at Gilbert.

Gilbert, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The employes of the Genoa and Gilbert mines organized a fire department to be known as the Oliver Volunteer fire department. The officers follow: Chief, R. E. Brown; assistant chief at the Genoa mine, Curtis Bent; assistant chief at the Gilbert mine, A. J. Tredeau; secretary and treasurer, Harold Costello.

They have already begun active work and expect to put a strong team in the field at the firemen's tournament to be held in Gilbert Aug. 18, 19 and 20.

GRANTS NEW TRIAL.

Action Involving Chandler Mine Stock Comes Up Again.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hughes yesterday granted a new trial in the case of William T. James of Ely vs. John Costin, Jr., involving about $100,000 in stock in the Chandler Mining company of Ely. The court grants a new trial on account of an affadavit by E. D. McNeil, in which he states that the defendant told him he had made an agreement with James to take him in on an option and mining lease.

Hilma Holma, who before her marriage with Victor Holma was Miss Hilma Kikkola, has filed a suit for divorce, alleging desertion. She desires to have her maiden name restored and to have the custody of her child, Esther, aged 1 year. They were married at Buhl in December, 1911.

NORMAL TRAINING.

New Department Will Be Added to Virginia School System.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the schools reopen a normal training department will be commenced with Miss Ida Flood of the high school faculty in charge.

Miss Ethel Wright, late of Pittsburg and formerly of Jersey City, N. J., has been appointed to take charge of the department for children at the public library and will come here to assume her duties Sept. 15.

Peter Barlow and Miss Olivia Marvik were married recently by Rev. K. Winberg, pastor of the Norwegian M. E. church.

Dr. Andrea E. Hall has had for several days for her guest Mrs. Hulda Garborg wife of the Norwegian novelist Garborg. Mrs. Garborg is an aunt of Mrs. James P. Boyle of Eveleth whom she also visited.

SCHOOL MEETING AT GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of education has called a school meeting for the evening of July 19 to vote on the question of enlarging and remodeling the local high by adding two stories and a basement addition, also to decide wether to issue $40,000 5 per cent bonds, payable in fifteen years.

BIDS RECEIVED.

Grand Rapids School Board Gets Offers From Several People.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board received bids for the refinishing of desks in the Central school as follows: W. L. Fish, painting, staining and varnishing desks in three rooms, $75, or 59 cents each; R. A. Macalister, stain and varnish desks and enamel iron parts of same, 52 cents each; William Ashton, clean and extract ink stains, restain and finish with shellac and hard drying seat varnish, wood and iron work complete, 40 cents each; Weston & Cloutier, clean and extract stains and finish with shellac and varnish, finish to include iron and wood work, 40 cents each. The award was laid on the table until July 14.

Bids for furnishing new desks for the high school building were received. It was moved that no bids for cast iron desks be considered. The following bids for steel desks were received: Columbia School Supply company, $3.35; George F. Kremer, $8.05 for complete desks and $2.50 for rear seats; Henry Hughes & Co., $3.15 for complete desks and $2.65 for rear seats. The award was left on the table until the meeting of July 14, in order to allow Mr. Kremer to secure a sample of the desk which he is offering.

E. A. Freeman was reappointed district superintendent for a term of one year beginning Aug. 1, his salary to remain $268.15 per month for eleven months.

Grand Rapids Mishaps.

Mort Taylor slipped and fell Monday evening during the third inning of the clerks-courthouse baseball game, and suffered a badly sprained ankle.

Andrew, Alfred L. and Arthur Ranger, Mrs. Richardson, a married daughter of the family, and her little child are all very ill of pneumonia at the home of the Ranger family, north of town.

Benedicts vs. Bachelors.

Eveleth, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—There promises to be much amusement at the ball park next Sunday afternoon when Elk teams composed of members who are married and those who are single will line up in mighty affray as follows:

Married men—Donovan, catcher; Boyle, pitcher; Saari, first base; Gleason, second base; Campbell, shortstop; Burns, third base; Heel, right field; McGuire, center field; Cooper, left field.

Forming Farmers Clubs.

Virginia, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Agricultural Agent Fred Ward of Duluth is working among the farmers around Cook, Angora and Gheen, organizing a farmers' club. He states that fourteen clubs have already been formed in St. Louis county.

To Play Bemidji Junior Team.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bemidji Junior baseball team will play the local junior team at the baseball park here Sunday.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his health, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4671 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

SPECULATORS ARE ONLY HOWLERS

Legitimate Business Prosperous in the East, Says B. P. Neff.

Bentley P. Neff, secretary of F. A. Patrick & Co., returned yesterday on the steamer Hamonic from a well earned vacation trip through Eastern Canada.

"It was a great relief," said Mr. Neff to a reporter this morning, "to get a good breath of Lake Superior air after the hot weather down East for the past ten days."

Asked about the financial and commercial conditions in Canada, Mr. Neff observed that he found ordinary business conditions in satisfactory shape. "For the first six months of 1913 the dry goods trade has shown a gain of 10 per cent which seems about what was expected. The speculators are the only people who are frightened. They are at the end of their tether. There are a few cases where payments are slow, but, generally speaking, there has been no interference with business, except among those who have been speculating. The banks have shut down on increased credits and very sensibly. But the old fashioned houses are having no difficulty with the banks. There is nothing wrong with Canada save that her people, having had a surfeit of the good things of this life, must live on oatmeal porridge for awhile. The charge of fare may not be wholly agreeable, but it is apparently a very wholesome one. Duluth looks mighty good to the traveler and the impressions of appreciation of our beautiful city, our splendid harbor and our invigorating air, heard among the tourists on the boat, make one feel glad he was a citizen of the best city of America."

PROGRESSIVES TO SEEK CANDIDATE

Plan Meeting in St. Paul to Decide on Gubernatorial Timber.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—As a result of conferences and correspondence with Progressive Republicans all over the states, the executive committee of the party, of which C. Harold Richter is chairman, has been able to narrow the number of gubernatorial candidates down to one or two out of the half dozen names considered, and the chairman plans to call a meeting of representatives of his wing of the party in St. Paul next Monday, when it is expected a candidate will be decided upon.

Mr. Richter will not say who the two most available candidates are, but it is known that James Manahan, congressman-at-large, and Senator C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria are popular among the Progressive Republicans.

Sounding Anti-Eberhart Republicans.

The committee has sent out letters to anti-Eberhart Republicans in every section to discover their feeling on the different candidates proposed.

At the Monday conference, a Progressive Republican from each of the congressional districts in Minnesota will be in attendance and the executive committee believes it will be possible for the conferees to merge their views and rally around one candidate.

Accused of Bigamy.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 9.—Michael B. McKenna, a railroad man, who, it is alleged, has a wife and three children in Carrollton, Ill., in addition to a wife and two children in Milwaukee, was arrested here yesterday on a complaint of Carrollton officials. Mr. and Mrs. McKenna of Milwaukee were married fifteen years ago in Ottawa, Can., and have been living here ever since. They have a 1-year-old son and 6-week-old girl.

ST. PAUL WOMAN CHOSEN

Miss Keller Appointed Member of State Board of Nurse Examiners.

St. Paul, Minn., July 9.—Miss Lydia H. Keller of St. Paul has been appointed a member of the state board of examiners of nurses Governor Eberhart, who is in New York, wired his secretary, George F. Authier, to announce the appointment.

Miss Keller succeeds Miss Lena Holl of St. Paul. For some time the smaller hospitals have been demanding a representative on the board and their request was granted by the naming of Miss Keller.

FIRST EXAMINATION

Of Music Teachers Ever Held Is Made in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—An examination of music teachers was held here Tuesday afternoon by a committee of the Minnesota Teachers' association, after several years of study on the proposition. The examination, which was conducted by William McPhail and Willard Patten, was for the licensiat degree. Two degrees will be added next year. Forty-seven music teachers participated in the examination yesterday. They will be awarded their diplomas at the annual convention of the association, which opens at Duluth today.

This is said to be the first examination of music teachers ever held in the United States.

HOUGHTON MAN DIES.

Col. Cox, Formerly Michigan Adjutant General, Drops Dead.

Houghton, Mich., July 9.—Col. James N. Cox, former adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard, and chief clerk of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, dropped dead last night at his home here.

TO ADVERTISE COUNTY.

Emmons, N. D., First County to Avail Itself of New Law.

Hazelton, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new law by which counties can levy a one-fourth of a mill special tax for exploiting its resources may be taken advantage of by Emmons. A petition is now in circulation asking the commissioners to make the levy and it is anticipated a large majority of the taxpayers will favor the plan. The funds are to be used in making displays of Emmons county products and in advertising its resources.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

John Barsness of Park Rapids Said to Have Threatened Neighbor.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jens J. Barsness of Hubbard county, who several months ago got into the limelight and incidentally into serious trouble by attempting to kill his wife, is again in trouble. He was in jail for about two months and was then allowed to go on suspended sentence. Within the last few days, it is said, he attempted and threatened to kill John Elde, a neighbor, and made himself generally obnoxious by getting drunk and disorderly. Constable Tom Jondahl took him to Park Rapids Monday and reports that Barsness will undoubtedly have to serve his suspended sentence on the first charge aside from getting another sentence for his recent escapades. Barsness came here from Douglas county about two years ago and has succeeded admirably in keeping things interesting and exciting ever since he came. Many think he is partially deranged.

HOTEL MAN HELD TO THE GRAND JURY.

Otto Sandelin was yesterday afternoon bound over to the grand jury on the charge of stealing a watch from Isaac Takala.

Takala rented a room at the hotel conducted by Sandelin at the corner of Sixth avenue west and First street last Thursday night and when he awoke the next morning found his watch gone. The night before Takala had been warned about burglars and was told to hide his money and jewelry. He failed to heed the warning and as a result his watch was gone the next morning. Sandelin was arrested on the complaint of Takala.

Bail for Sandelin was fixed at $500.

CURRENCY HEARINGS WILL BE PUBLIC.

Washington, July 9.—All sessions of the house banking and currency committee for consideration of the administration currency bill will be open to the public. This was agreed upon by the Democratic members of the committee after an executive session said to have been marked by lively incidents.

Quinlan Goes to Prison.

Paterson, N. J., July 9.—Patrick Quinlan was taken to state's prison yesterday to serve his sentence for inciting riot among the striking silk mill workers. The court granted a writ of error, but Quinlan was unable to raise the bail demanded. He is the first of the Industrial Workers of the World leaders to be convicted of inciting riot.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Dunseith, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Dunseith and the workers for the suppression of tuberculosis all over the state are elated over the action of the Masons of the state in appropriating $7,000 for the erection of a cottage at the sanitarium. Whenever there are Masons in the sanitarium they are to have first preference on the cottage before other patients can use it. If there are not enough Masons to fill the cottage other inmates can use it. The cottage will be ready for occupancy late this fall.

A QUICKER easier, pleasanter shave than you have ever had before. Keep your face in pink of condition, free from pimples, ingrowing hairs, scratches or cuts. Hone your razor $6 days at our expense on a

Perforated Hone

Take your finest blade or your poorest; give it a few strokes or hone all day, the result will be the same—a perfect shave. The Perforated Hone is the only hone made that can be used by the ordinary man; no barber's skill or experience needed. The small deftly rounded holes in this new hone absolutely dispose of that hacking, pulling, irritating edge which no amount of old-fashioned honing could ever remove. The picture shows how the holes prevent wire-edge and automatically produce a perfect keen shaving edge. The Perforated Hone is made from an exceptionally fine natural stone found in British Columbia. It lasts a lifetime. If your dealer cannot supply you, send us his name and One Dollar and we will send you at once, all charges prepaid, a Perforated Hone packed in a neat pocket case.

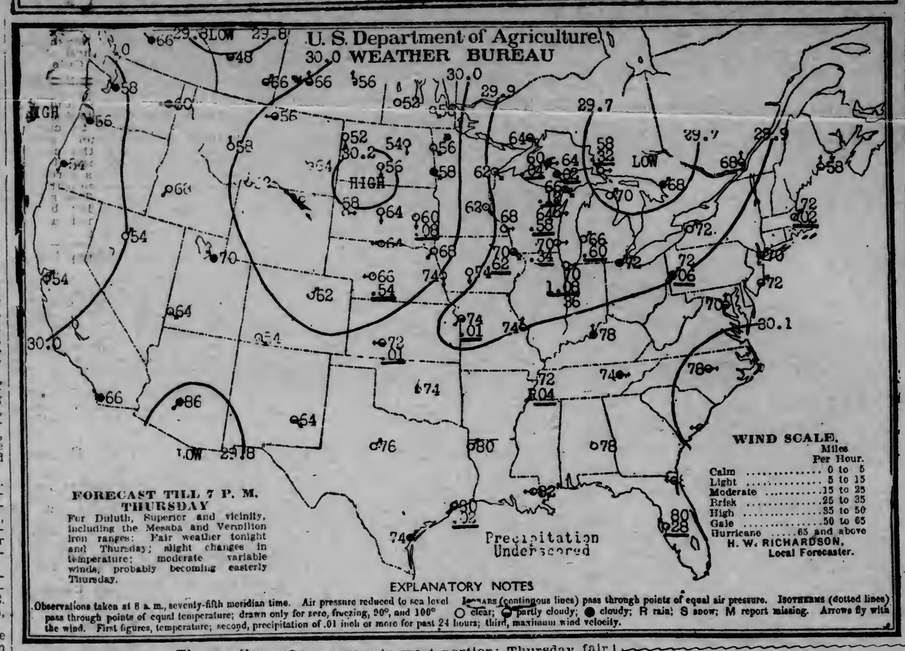

Try It 30 Days FREE

ISOTHERMS (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. O clear; P partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

FAIR

The weather man may not take kindly to the Lark o' the Lake, but he certainly is kind to conventions. The weather today shows Duluth off at its best. The mercury went to 82 deg. on the hill yesterday and Duluthians suffered some from the heat but the night was cool. Fair weather is predicted for tonight and Thursday. Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:13 and it will set at 8:01 this evening, giving fifteen hours and forty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Very hot weather continued Tuesday in the Plateau region, Rocky mountains, Central and Southwestern states, temperatures of 100 deg. or more occurring again in Kansas and Arizona. Light to heavy showers fell Tuesday or last night over the Western Lake region, Southern New England, the Ohio valley, Tennessee, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Eastern South Dakota, Eastern Texas and Southern Florida. Indications favor fair weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 9. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight; cooler in west and central portions; Thursday fair.

We show the stomach little or no consideration until one day we find that it has gone on a strike. We sit back in despair. The stomach is rebellious to the degree in which we have abused it.

The symptoms seem to show that something is wrong with the stomach. The trouble in reality is in the blood which your careless habits have made impure. The proper treatment then is to build up and cleanse the blood. A thorough trial of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this well. You can take them with every confidence that they will make your blood rich and pure.

Our new diet book will be sent on postal card request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 or they will be sent, postpaid, by the

STIFF FINE FOR "MASHER"

West Duluth Man Arrested for Accosting Women on Street.

"Mashing" on the streets of West Duluth will not be tolerated, according to Judge H. W. Lanners of the West Duluth court. Judge Lanners made this announcement this morning when sentencing James Dass, 50 years old, to pay a fine of $30 and costs or repose in the county jail for a period of thirty days.

Dass and a companion, who was not caught, and whom Dass claimed he did not know, were alleged to have accosted several women on the street late last evening and to have tendered their services to "take them home." In each case the women refused the offer of escort.

The testimony given by the women showed that Dass and his companion had first accosted Miss Hildur Becks, 6005 Grand avenue, and Miss Ruth Ermatinger, 321 North Fifty-eighth avenue, while on their way home from the Grand avenue theater. The men met them at the corner of Fifty-eighth avenue west and Grand avenue. Later they stopped Miss Jane Bejan of Chippewa Falls, who with her aunt, Mrs. L. J. Gayon, 310 North Fifty-ninth avenue, were also returning from the show.

The police were notified by Mr. Gayon and Officer Paul Winters arrested Dass. The other man ran faster than Dass could and was able to make a safe get-away.

In passing the sentence, Judge Lanners said that he intended doing away with this practice of "Smart Alecs" accosting and insulting women on the streets. He said that the prisoner was of an age where he should know better.

BOAT CLUB RACES SUNDAY, JULY 20.

The postponed races of the Western Boat club will be held on Sunday afternoon, July 20. Fifteen boat owners will participate in the three races, these being divided among the class A, B and C.

The A class will be for boats of 30-horse power and over. The B class will be for power boats of from 10 to 30-horse power, while the last will be for boats under 10-horse power.

The course has been laid out by a committee of the club. The start will be near the Sixty-first avenue slip and will take a course around Zenith Island, first going by the way of Devil's Elbow. The A class boats will make three trips over the course, the B class two and the C class once.

PETITION FOR PAVING OF RALEIGH STREET.

Business men on Raleigh street intend beginning the circulation of a petition for the paving of that thoroughfare. They want the street paved from Central to Grand avenue, a distance of eleven blocks.

It is proposed to circulate the petition this summer and to have it passed upon by the commissioners so that the work can be started early next spring. This street is said to be in a deplorable condition and utterly unfit for traffic. The street was paved in 1891 with cedar blocks, many of which have washed away or become entirely worn out.

New Luther League.

A Luther league was organized last night at a meeting of young people of the Trinity English Lutheran church, held at the home of Miss Lillie Hanson, 2205 West Fourth street. The new league starts of with twenty-five charter members. Besides the election of officers the organization adopted a constitution. The new officers are: Luther Falk, president; Miss Agnes Willner, vice president; Miss Lillian Larson, secretary; Miss Benson, financial secretary; Miss Hilda Hanson, treasurer.

Ritchie-Brewer.

Miss Anna D. Ritchie and Alden L. Brewer were married yesterday afternoon at the parsonage of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, 4602 Oneota street. Rev. Charles W. Emery read the service. Mr. and Mrs. Brewer left last evening for a short wedding trip to the Twin Cities and will be at home in West Duluth after July 20.

Morris Funeral.

The funeral of Joseph Morris, 55 years old, 317 South Sixtieth avenue west, who died Monday afternoon, will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock from the residence and at 9 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church. Burial will be made in Calvary cemetery. The deceased was a member of the M. W. A., A. O. U. W. and the C. O. F. lodges.

West Duluth Briefs.

Rev. F. G. Briggs, D. D., former pastor of the Merritt Memorial Methodist church, now in charge of a church at Beltrami, is a guest at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. C. Merritt, 4103 West Seventh street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church will be entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Lybeck, 430 North Fifty-second avenue west.

Miss Vivian Lybeck, 430 North Fifty-second avenue, will entertain this evening for the Young People's Society of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church at her home.

Edgar F. Lynch of Minneapolis is spending a few days visiting in this end of the city.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Hazelwood Park Presbyterian church will entertain at a social in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

The Young Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church will picnic at Fairmont park tomorrow evening. A short program will be given and refreshments served.

William F. Hurst left this morning for a short business trip to the Twin Cities.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lynch and daughters, Ruth and Susie, and grandson, Edgar, 1107 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, left this morning for a month's visit in California.

Mrs. Adelord Gagnon and sister, Miss Katherine Beaudin, 215 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, left yesterday for Detroit, Mich., where they will visit relatives for three weeks.

Funeral of Murdo McKenzie.
The funeral of Murdo S. McKenzie, 50 years old, the oldest mail carrier in point of service in Duluth, who died Monday noon at his home, 120 Oxford street, Hunter's Park, after an illness of over a year, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the family residence. The services were in charge of the mail carriers of the city and the Clan Stewart, of which Mr. McKenzie was a member.

Case is Dismissed.
The case against Arthur De Palmer, who was arrested Monday on a charge of larceny, was dismissed by Judge Cutting yesterday afternoon. De Palmer was accused by Benjamin Forstal of stealing the latter's watch.

Woman Not Guilty.
Judge Cutting yesterday afternoon dismissed the case against Mrs. James O'Rourke, 228 First avenue west, who was accused of assaulting her former domestic, Florence Farley. Miss Farley was ejected from the house only after she had refused to leave, according to Mrs. O'Rourke.

Cases Postponed.
The seven fruit dealers, who were arrested last week for failing to cover the fruit in front of their stores, will not be tried until 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning. Their cases were set for yesterday afternoon, but owing to a change in the court calendar, a postponement was necessary.

Representing County.
Odin Halden, county auditor, and Charles E. Adams, special county counsel, are in Hibbing today to attend the condemnation proceedings which have been started by the county board to acquire title to the county fair ground site. Mr. Adams will represent the county's interest at the hearing, which will be conducted by a board of appraisers consisting of John A. Redfern, Hibbing; N. B. Shank, Biwabik, and William J. Bates, Duluth.

New Liquor License Application.
City Clerk Charles S. Palmer is getting out a new form of blanks for applications for saloon licenses, which will conform with the requirements laid down in the new liquor code. With the application the applicant must file a sworn statement that he is getting no financial aid from any brewery or person or agent connected with a brewery and that the premises are not owned or leased by a brewery or any one connected with a brewery. The application must be for a saloon in the front room on the ground floor of the premises.

See Polo Games at Sunbeam.
The Sunbeam theater is exhibiting today and tomorrow the international polo games, which are very interesting and exciting. The $1,000 challenge cup, which was donated by the Westchester Polo club of Newport, is contested for each year by the finest polo players of United States and England. Aside from the pictures of the polo games three other high class photo plays will be shown, completing an all-star picture program.

Seven New Teachers.
At the regular monthly meeting of the county board of education yesterday afternoon, seven new teachers for the unorganized school districts were named. This meeting was held at the office of N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools. The teachers and their assignments are: Stephania M. Polasky, No. 15; Frances Donahue, No. 30; Lillian V. McIntyre, No. 22; Signie Anderson, No. 37; Mattie H. Rock, No. 35; Sally E. Apel, No. 1, and Mattie C. Erickson, No. 8.

Leaves on Buying Trip.
E. Blumenthal, manager of the Leiser company, left Sunday for the East on a buying trip. He was accompanied by Mrs. Blumenthal's brother, Max Hyman of Chicago, who was here for a day, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Blumenthal.

Taken to State Home.
R. D. McKercher, humane agent, left last evening for St. Paul with the 5-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Lehtanan. The child will be placed in the state home for crippled and deformed children. The bones of the ankles are undeveloped and it is believed that treatment at the hospital may prevent the child from becoming a lifelong cripple.

Smallest Set of Plans.
The smallest set of plans ever filed in the office of the building inspector were presented today by Andrew Danielson, a patrolman on the police force. The consist of half a dozen sheets less than six inches square. They show all the floor plans, windows and necessary exterior views, and were approved by the department. The permit was issued today, calling for a frame dwelling costing $3,000, to be located on Jay street between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh avenues east.

Gets Torrens Title.
William F. Fitch of Marquette, former president of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, who last year purchased the Manhattan building, an office structure on the lower side of Superior street between Fourth and Fifth avenues west, has registered the property in district court under a Torrens title. The matter came on for a hearing before Judge Cant about a week ago. Today the court made an order for a decree of registration.

Married by Judge.
Judge S. W. Gilpin of the probate court this morning officiated at the marriage of John Abraham Russell and Lillian Edling. The bride is a resident of Iron county, Mich., and the groom is of St. Louis county.

New Mining Company.
Articles of incorporation were filed today with the register of deeds by the Northwestern Cuyuna Mining company, which is organized to engage in a general mining and land business. The company is capitalized at $150,000. The incorporators are John Colbrath, Axel Jensen and F. A. Kemp. The incorporators, with E. J. O'Rourke, Charles P. Meyers, Erick Carlson and Iver N. Olson, will constitute the first board of directors.

Pleads Not Guilty.
Charles Rucker was this morning arrested on the complaint of O. W. Carlson, manager of the Belvidere hotel, who claims that Rucker owes him $24 and that he has refused to pay the amount. Rucker pleaded not guilty when arraigned this morning and his case was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Inspect City Streets.
The street improvement committee of the Commercial club held a meeting at noon today and discussed various improvements now under consideration. Commissioner Roderick Murchison of the division of public works attended the meeting and promised co-operation. After the meeting the commissioner and the members of the committee made an automobile trip of inspection of streets.

Population Growing.
During the month of June there were 165 births and 84 deaths, according to the report just completed this morning by Dr. I. J. Murphy, police surgeon.

Pleads Not Guilty.
Thomas Hanson pleaded not guilty when arraigned this morning on a charge of stealing $2 from Edward Carlson. Hanson's case was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Saloon Man on Trial.
The case of Joseph La Chance, saloon keeper at 1103 West Michigan street, who is charged with assaulting Tony Perfetto on the evening of July 3, was started in municipal court this morning. There is considerable evidence to be introduced and it is expected that the case will continue until late this afternoon.

Free Flowers for City.
The Lonetta Greenhouse company of Oneota has volunteered to furnish the park department with 1,000 geranium plants for Merritt park if the department will provide the beds and plant them. Supt. Cleveland was more than willing to meet the condition and no time will be lost in getting the geraniums into the park grounds. The cost of preparing the beds and the planting will be small, particularly in comparison with the improvement which the hardy plants will make to the park.

Merritt Has No Reply.
Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, said this morning that he desired to make no answer to the statement given out yesterday by S. R. Hatch, who was deposed by him last week as manager of the water and light department. "The less said, the sooner mended," was the comment of Commissioner Merritt. "Mr. Hatch seemed to labor under the impression that the people elected me to work under him, and I found that we could not work together successfully."

Charged With Horse Theft.
Devils Lake, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Wilson was arrested at Sarles and was brought here charged with horse stealing. Several days ago he hired a livery outfit at a local barn, starting north. At Lawton he sold the horse and buggy, going to Sarles where he was captured. He has confessed and probably will be permitted to plead guilty in district court soon.

POLICE PUZZLED BY MURDER OF GIRL

Half Dozen Theories Have Developed in Wilkesbarre Case.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 9.—The police and county authorities who are trying to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Miss Alice Crispell, the 18-year-old daughter of a farmer, whose body was found floating in Harvey's lake on Monday, are today working on a half dozen theories, none of which has as yet given a tangible clew.

Herbert Johns, the mine worker who was the last person seen with the girl last Friday night and who is in jail on auspicion in connection with the case, maintains his calm demeanor, and despite the efforts of the police and county authorities to get from him a different version, he sticks to the details of the story he has told about the last night he was with the girl.

One of the theories the authorities are working on is that the girl may have been slain by a rival of Johns.

NORTH DAKOTA RATE HEARING

Fargo, N. D., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representatives of the Fargo Commercial club and manufacturers appeared before the North Dakota Railway state commission here today and demanded better outgoing shipping rates. The Grand Forks Commercial club joined in the movement and the board fixed Aug. 12 as the date of the hearing in Fargo. Tracy Bangs of Grand Forks, appearing for the telephone association, raised the question of the jurisdiction of the board to order physical connection of telephone lines. It is the first time this point has been raised in this state. Both sides are ordered to file briefs.

Citizens along the Great Northern from Ayr to Casselton are protesting against the train service and the hearing is on this afternoon.

C. L. LOFGREN,
Deputy.

WHEREAS default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Max S. Shore and Frada Shore, his wife, mortgagors to M. M. Tibbetts, mortgagee, bearing date December 1st, 1909, duly recorded in the Register of Deeds office for St. Louis County, Minnesota on January 24th, 1910 at 4:45 o'clock P. M. in book 244 of mortgages on page 81 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by the said M. M. Tibbetts to John Holleran by an instrument in writing dated January 22nd, 1910, and duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on January 26th, 1910, at 2:15 o'clock P. M., in book 188 of mortgages on page 397 thereof; and said John Holleran having died testate, John Wickham and John Stark were duly appointed executors of the will and estate of said John Holleran, deceased, and letters testamentary were duly issued to them as such by the probate court of St. Louis County, Minnesota, dated June 19th, 1911, and a certified copy thereof was duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on July 9th, 1913, at 11:15 o'clock A. M. in book 6 of Miscellaneous on page 584 thereof; and which said mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by the said John Wickham and John Stark as such executors, to T. A. Gall, as guardian of the estates of John Timothy Stark and James Alphonzo Stark, minors, by an instrument in writing dated October 11th, 1911, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds on October 12th, 1911, at 11:30 o'clock A. M., in book 303 of mortgages on page 95 thereof; and which said mortgage was thereafter duly assigned by the said T. A. Gall as such guardian, to Bridget Stark as guardian of the estates of John Timothy Stark and James Alphonzo Stark, minors, by an instrument in writing dated December 9th, 1911, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds on July 9th, 1913, at 11:25 o'clock A. M., in book 304 of mortgages on page 243 thereof; said T. A. Gall was duly appointed guardian of the estates of said John Timothy Stark and James Alphonzo Stark, minors, and letters of guardianship were duly issued to him as such by the probate court of said county, dated October 6th, 1911, and a certified copy thereof was duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on July 9th, 1913, at 11:15 o'clock A. M., in book 6 of miscellaneous, page 583 thereof; said T. A. Gall was duly discharged as such guardian by an order of such probate court, dated December 26th, 1911, and a certified copy of such order was duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on July 9th, 1913, at 11:15 o'clock A. M., in book 6 of miscellaneous on page 584 thereof; said Bridget Stark was duly appointed guardian of the estates of John Timothy Stark and James Alphonzo Stark, minors, and letters of guardianship were duly issued to her as such by the probate court of said county, dated December 8th, 1911, and a certified copy thereof was duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on December 11th, 1911, at 8 o'clock A. M., in book 349 of deeds on page 416 thereof, and she is now the duly appointed and qualified guardian of the estates of said minors. Such default consisting in the non-payment of the semi-annual installment of the interest which became due on June 1st, 1913, amounting to the sum of $150.00, and in the non-payment of the principal sum secured by said mortgage, and interest thereon to this date, said assignee of said mortgagee, and the present owner of said mortgage having elected to exercise the option to her given by the terms of said mortgage, by declaring the whole sum thereby secured to be due and payable, in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage:

AND WHEREAS, there is therefore claimed to be due and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt, at the date of this notice, the sum of $5,156.57 principal and interest; and whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof:

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale in said mortgage contained, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed, by a sale of the premises described therein, situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: The easterly one-half of lot seven (7) and all of lot eight (8) in block fifty-six (56), Portland Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said county. Which premises will be sold by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the Sheriff's office in the county court house in the city of Duluth in said county on the 22nd day of August, 1913, at ten o'clock a. m. at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and $75.00 attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale.

Dated July 9th, 1913.

BRIDGET STARK,
As guardian of the estates of John Timothy Stark and James Alphonzo Stark, minors, assignee of mortgagee.
LEO A. BALL,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgagee.

AWAITING CROP REPORT

Grain Market Not Overly Active During the Morning.

Wheat Gains Slightly and Flax Heavily—Periods of Weakness.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 9.—Toward the close the market braced up again and closed at a slight advance over yesterday's close. July gained ¼c for the day and September closed at an advance of ¼@¼c. December was unchanged. July and September durum both closed unchanged. All coarse grains except corn were unchanged and that grain was ¼c off.

September puts, 90¾@90⅞c asked; calls, 92¼c asked.

The wheat market started out with a show of strength this morning but later a more quiet feeling precominated. The lack of activity is believed to be almost wholly attributable to the fact that this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock—after the close of the market—the government crop report will be made public and the traders generally are not disposed to either sell or buy to any great extent until the details of the report are known. Therefore the market is not displaying any fireworks. Reports from the grain-growing country continue to be favorable and even though rains have not fallen for several days, and it is felt that while the government report will show deterioration it will not be as drastic as some expect. At any rate the traders are waiting to see.

The opening in general was unchanged. July spring wheat ruled during the first hour of trading at unchanged to ⅛c over yesterday's close, but later in the session, when the weakness developed it dropped and in the last hour was ¼c under. September spring was also up ⅛c at first but later weakened and was around the opening price. December wheat had no activity. July durum, which had no opening figure was ¼c up in the last hour and up to that time there had been nothing doing in September.

Flax Advanced Heavily.

After a period of strength following an unchanged opening in flax there followed a period of weakness. At the close, however, the market strengthened up again, there being a lack of offers and very light receipts as compared to a year ago. July showed a gain of 1⅜c for the day, September had an advance of 1¼c and so did October.

THE MARKET GOSSIP.

L. M. LeCount wires from Watertown, S. D.: "Going south from Watertown, crop improves rapidly. Here crop is in fine condition. In the southeast part of the state, crop is in normal condition with plenty of moisture to mature it but you can see the area is small."

E. H. Woodruff, local representative of the Benson-Newhouse-Stabeck company, with offices in the board of trade building, A. H. Weinhart of the Van Dusen-Harrington company, and Frank J. Seidl of Minneapolis, were today elected members of the Duluth board of trade.

The following is from a North Dakota banker: "There is not a field of wheat between Fargo and Wahpeton that will make 10 bu. Early wheat in Stutsman, Logan and Lamoure counties is so short it cannot be bound. I haven't seen a good piece of oats in 500 miles travel. Flax all looks good and corn is doing well."

Broomhall's international wheat review: "The market during the week has shown a tendency toward firmness influenced by war, unfavorable French crop news and the fact that the war will greatly interfere with harvesting and late development of the crops. The governments are taking measures as much as possible to harvest and thresh promptly. Neither the war or weather in France or Southern Russia inspires much confidence in large estimates. Harvesting in Southern France is progressing but in central and western Europe is late and some apprehension is felt regarding the yield."

Cotton Market.

New York, July 9.—Steady cables, continued dry weather in the belt and reports that the boll weevil are seriously menacing the crop in many sections of the Southwest, encouraged a renewal of yesterday's buying movement at the opening of the cotton market this morning. First prices were 4 to 8 points higher, and the market sold 6 to 10 points net higher during the early trading. There was enough realizing to cause slight reactions before the end of the first hour.

Futures steady closing bids: July, 12.17; August, 12.17; September, 11.70; October, 11.62; November, 11.46; December, 11.44; January, 11.39; February, 11.41. March, 11.49; May, 11.51. Spot quiet; middling uplands, 12.35; gulf, 12.60; sales, 100 bales.

London Stocks.

London, July 9.—American securities after a quiet opening, moved irregularly until the afternoon, when Canadian Pacific fell 4 points and Union Pacific 1½ under New York and continental selling. The rest of the list eased off in sympathy and the market closed weak.

To Study Marketing Problems.

Madison, Wis., July 9.—Dr. Charles McCarthy of the Wisconsin legislative library, with several Eastern experts, will leave at the close of the legislative session for Europe to study advanced methods of dealing with the marketing problem. The party will visit Germany, Denmark and Ireland.

Killed by Falling Tree.

Austin, Minn., July 8.—James Wilson of Vernon was instantly killed and Miss Kassa of the same place was injured by a cottonwood tree falling on them as they rode in a carriage near the girl's home.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Shorts Cover and Wheat Lifts, But Later Turns Weak.

Chicago, July 9.—Shorts covering to be prepared for a possible bullish surprise in the government crop report lifted the wheat market a little today, but weakness developed later owing to talk of improved conditions in South Dakota. Trade was light. Opening prices ranged from last night's level to ⅜c advance. September which started at 88¾@88⅞c, a gain of ⅛@¼c, sold to 88⅝c.

Hedging sales eased prices yet more. The close, however, was firm, with September at 88⅝c, the same as last night.

Corn held comparatively steady because rains last night covered only a small area. September opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 61⅜@61⅞c, touched 62c and reacted to 61⅛@61¾c.

Reports of favorable conditions in most of the chief producing states led to a further dip. The close was firm, though, at 61⅝c for September, ¼c under last night.

Absence of demand brought about a setback in oats. September started a shade to ⅛c down at 41¼@41⅝c to 41⅜c and sagged to 40⅞c.

Provisions were firm with hogs. First sales varied from 2½c decline to 7½c advance including September options as follows: Pork, $21.12½; lard, $11.70; ribs, $11.92½.

Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red new, 88½@88¾c; No. 3 red new, 87½@87¾c; No. 2 hard, 89¾@90½c; No. 3 hard, 87@89c; No. 1 northern, 92@93c; No. 2 northern, 91@92c; No. 3 northern, 90@91c; No. 2 spring, 91@92c; No. 3 spring, 90@91c; No. 4 spring, 82@89c; velvet chaff, 90@93c; durum, 88@93c.

FIRM CLOSE FOR STOCKS

Some Shares Finish at Best Prices for the Day.

Earlier Session Shows Tendency to Yield to Bearish Influences.

New York, July 9.—Accumulating bearish influences, which made little impression on the stock market earlier in the week, were more effective today in forcing a definite downward movement. Although pressure diminished during the late half of the forenoon session, the market remained at a lower level. Much of the selling of Canadian Pacific, which increased its loss to 5½ points, came from London, which disposed of fully 10,000 shares here. There were reports of extensive liquidation of long stock here for Pittsburg account. Greater prominence to the deadlocked condition in investment circles was given by the renewed weakness of railroad and other bonds. Still lower prices prevailed for government bonds, the two's being offered at 98¾ without takers, compared with recent sales at 99.

Canadian Pacific, which declined 2, was the only stock to move more than a fraction in the first dealings today. Reading, Leigh and Amalgamated began the day unchanged and the other leading issues ranged slightly under yesterday's close. There was active selling of Union Pacific and Can, which receded large fractions.

Rumors of an impending $60,000,000 stock issue caused liberal foreign and domestic selling of Canadian Pacific, under which it slumped 4½, to 209½; the year's lowest. Weakness became widespread, Union Pacific, Reading, Southern Pacific and Smelting yielding a point.

Official denials of the rumored Canadian Pacific financing did little more than arrest the decline in prices. Canadian Pacific recovered only a point and others a slight fraction. While the copper producers' report was better than expected, its effect on the metal stocks was disappointing, scarcely any recovery greeting the reduction.

After the movements in Canadian Pacific had ended the latter speculation was of an uninteresting character. Attempts to buy stock found the customary shortage at the low figures, and the list gradually worked upwards while the demand held.

Reading and Amalgamated made a complete recovery, but other leaders fell short of getting up to yesterday's close.

The market closed firm. Prices of railroad stocks advanced after the government crop report came out, notwithstanding the large falling off in condition and shrinkage in indicated yield. Some shares sold at the best, but the general list ended with a sprinkling of small losses.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 6 per cent. Sterling exchange firm with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.25 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86.90 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.82¾. Bar silver, 58⅝c; Mexican dollars, 48c. Government bonds, weak; railroad bonds heavy.

TUOLUMNE HAS A SHARP DROP

There was only one feature attached to the copper market today and that was the drop in price of Tuolumne, considerable stock of which is held in this vicinity and in other parts of Minnesota. The stock which closed yesterday at $1.56, fell today to 95c, and regained only a trifle before the close. No reason is given for the tumble. Other stocks are very quiet and remain about steady with yesterday and the past few days.

Statistics show that The Herald reaches 98% of the people who buy automobiles

THE HERALD WANT ADS WILL SELL YOUR USED CAR

HERE IS THE PROOF FOR YOU

Carefully gathered statistics show that The Duluth Herald reaches 98 per cent of present automobile owners, which is sufficient proof that it goes to 98 per cent of the people who can afford to buy automobiles. These are the people you must appeal to if you expect to sell your car.

The sooner you act, the sooner you will sell your machine. The warmer weather, the leafing and blossoming trees and the good roads are influences that make people eager to get out into the open air. So, if you want to sell a used auto, do it now—do it The Herald "want" ad way.

Many offers of used automobiles at marked savings appear today and every day in The Herald "want" ads.

LOBBY COMMITTEE OF SENATE SEES BOOKS OF THE WOOL ASSOCIATION

Holds Executive Session After Securing the Documents.

House Adopts Resolution to Take Part in Investigation.

Capitol Employe Named in Mulhall Story Is Fired.

Washington, July 10.—The senate lobby committee spent the greater part of today in executive session, supposedly looking over the books of the National Wool association furnished yesterday. Clarence H. Brown of New York, chairman of the Hosiery Manufacturers' legislative committee, testified at a short open session.

William Whitman of Boston brought to the committee a letter copybook and much of its contents was put on the record and not made public.

Letters and telegrams between Whitman and S. N. D. North, an employe of the wool men, who was clerk to the senate finance committee and later became director of the census, were put into the record by Senator Reed.

A lobby investigation of extraordinary scope is authorized by the house to supplement the senate probe, already under way.

With the passage of the Henry investigation resolution, a special committee of seven members was appointed by Speaker Clark, with Representative Garner of Tennessee as chairman. The committee will make plans for the institution of the probe at once.

While the house investigation was prompted largely by the allegations of Col. M. A. Mulhall regarding the legislative activities of the National Association of Manufactures, the resolution as finally passed so enlarged the scope of the inquiry that all efforts to control members of the house or to influence legislation by any person or organization, will be subject

SEES HER HUSBAND COMMIT SUICIDE

Mrs. F. J. Davis of Minneapolis Unable to Stop His Act.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—While his wife looked on, but was unable to stop him, Fred J. Davis committed suicide by shooting himself through the head at his home here today. The screams of Mrs. Davis brought the neighbors and the police to the house. He was taken to a hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Mrs. Davis said that her husband arose late, but was apparently in his usual spirits. He was dressing, she said, when he suddenly picked up the revolver and put a bullet through his head.

WILL ASK WILSON TO HEAD OFF STRIKE

Railroad Managers and Trainmen Will Meet President Monday.

Washington, July 10.—Representatives of railroad companies and trainmen brotherhoods will call on President Wilson Monday to urge that he aid in preventing the threatened strike of 100,000 employes of Eastern railroads by advocating immediate passage of pending amendments to the Erdman act.

Arrangements for the interview at the White House Monday were made by Secretary Wilson of the department of labor, who telegraphed the president at the request of the railroad men.

Both the railroad officials and the representatives of the trainmen are confident that their wage dispute can be mediated if congress will amend the Erdman act along the lines they recently suggested to congressional committees. They are not willing to submit their case to the three arbitrators authorized to act under the present law, but would gladly put it into the hands of the enlarged board headed by a special arbitration commissioner, which the proposed amendments would provide.

Since the employes' "committee of 1,000" meets Saturday to act upon the overwhelming vote of the Eastern trainmen to strike, congress must act quickly in order to help the present situation.

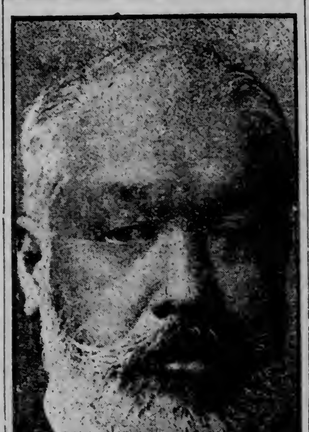

ASTOR WILL BUILD HOME FOR CHILDREN

Will Erect It as Memorial to Father Who Died on Titanic.

New York, July 10.—A children's home is to be built at Rhinebeck, in this state, by Vincent Astor, as a memorial to his father, John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster.

The institution, which will be known as the John Jacob Astor Children's Convalescent home, will be built on a site which Mr. Astor has just bought in the heart of Rhinebeck, near the family estate. It is understood that Mr. Astor will manage the new home himself.

HELPED FRAME JAPAN'S ALLIANCE WITH ENGLAND

COUNT TADASU HAYASHI.

Tokio, Japan, July 10.—Count Tadasu Hayashi, one of the leading statesmen of Japan, died today at the age of 63 after a surgical operation rendered necessary by injuries he sustained in a jinricksha accident.

He was at one time minister of affairs under Premier Saionji, and in the last Saionji cabinet, which resigned in December, 1912, was minister of communications. He had had a long diplomatic career, having been minister to China and to Russia and ambassador to the court of St. James. During the last named appointment he was instrumental in bringing about the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

He was a prolific author and had made a profound study of foreign politics and history.

DECIDE TO AMEND THE CURRENCY BILL

McAdoo Tells of Plans of Himself and Congressmen.

Washington, July 10.—Secretary McAdoo has issued a statement announcing that he and Chairmen Owen and Glass of the senate and house banking and currency committees have agreed on an amendment to the currency bill which would retain the circulation privilege for the United States 2 per cent bonds during the entire period of twenty years over which it is proposed to retire the existing $700,000,000 issue of national bank notes secured by the bonds.

It has been asserted by critics of the bill that the recent decline below par in the market value of the 2 per cent bonds was due to the provision of the bill limiting the bond-secured circulation of the banks to the amount outstanding when the bill should become law, thereby depriving the bonds of the circulation privilege and decreasing their investment value.

Examination of several features of the administration currency bill has been begun by the currency and banking committee of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in special session here.

NOTE IN CUP GETS PRISONER FREEDOM

Philadelphian Threatens to Sue the Milwaukee Police.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—That he was held in central station here for twenty-four hours without being permitted the right of calling an attorney or notifying his friends, is the charge of Morris Perlstein, 28 years old, said to be a wealthy Philadelphian, against the Milwaukee police in a writ of habeas corpus secured by his attorney today.

Perlstein was arrested Tuesday night in his apartments at a fashionable hotel here, on a charge of abandonment preferred against him by Philadelphia officials, who claim that he left his bride of only a few weeks three years ago.

Perlstein says he was taken to the police station and refused the right of seeing or calling any one. He says that on Wednesday night he complained of the food, and asked that a meal be brought him from his hotel. This the police did, but Perlstein says he dropped a note in the cup to his friend and business partner, Bertram Miller, and thus made the way for the writ of habeas corpus issued today.

Perlstein and Miller are proprietors of a large knitting works here, and Perlstein has lived in Milwaukee for three years. He denies the charge of abandonment, and says he will start proceedings against the Milwaukee police department for his alleged mistreatment.

BRYAN ASKS ABOUT INSULT TO FLAG.

Washington, July 10.—At Secretary Bryan's request, Attorney General McReynolds is seeking to find out who took the Paraguayan flag from its staff over the Paraguayan consulate in San Francisco on July 4.

PUGILIST WILL BE FRENCHMAN

Jack Johnson Says He Never Will Return to America.

Bail Will Be Forfeited, and France May Deport Him.

Havre, France, July 10.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, arrived here today on board the Corinthian and immediately on landing announced his determination never to return to the United States. He said he would in the future take up his residence in Paris.

Will Forfeit Bail.

Washington, July 10.—Jack Johnson's announcement that he would never return to the United States caused department of justice officials immediately to consider steps to bring about the forfeiture of his $30,000 personal bond pending in Chicago for his appearance in connection with white slave indictments upon which he has not yet been tried.

Judge Carpenter a few days ago declined to declare the bond forfeited until it was clear that Johnson would not appear when wanted. The department of justice, it is said, probably will seek official confirmation of his announced purpose not to return, and present the matter again to Judge Carpenter.

Seek No Extradition.

Government attorneys expressed no regret over the negro's announcement. A few days ago officials considered the advisability of asking France to deport him upon arrival, but it was decided to let the case take its usual course. Their view was that there could not be objection to his absence from the country, and if he should ever return, the year's imprisonment sentence would always be enforceable, provided the circuit court of appeals approves the verdict.

France May Deport Him.

Johnson may not find refuge in France, in the opinion of the state department officials. They say that while probably there is no provision in the extradition treaty with France under which his surrender could be demanded, the French authorities, even without a formal appeal from this government, may deport Johnson, as, like most European countries, France is understood to have laws prohibiting the immigration of a person convicted of crime in his own country.

TROLLEY CAR KILLS OMAHA CONTRACTOR

Hits Motor Belonging to William Rocheford—Sons Hurt.

Omaha, Neb., July 10.—William Rocheford, Sr., a prominent contractor of Omaha, was killed here today and his two sons, William, Jr., and Hector, were seriously injured when a trolley car struck their automobile.

DR. RUGGLES GOING TO OHIO STATE "U."

Winona, Minn., July 10.—Dr. C. C. Ruggles, head of the department of history and social science at the Winona normal school and one of the leading educators in Minnesota, will become a member of the faculty of the Ohio State university, Columbus, Ohio, at the beginning of the school year next September, according to an announcement here. Dr. Ruggles will succeed Dr. W. B. Hammond, who resigned to become a member of the Ohio state industrial commission.

SUFFRAGETTE BOASTS ABOUT SETTING FIRE

Calls the $100,000 Fire "Beacon" for King and Country.

Also Glories in Putting Bomb in Liverpool Exchange.

Liverpool, July 10.—A dramatic confession of incendiarism was made by Mrs. Edith Rigby, well-known militant suffragette and wife of a physician at Preston, to the magistrate sitting in the police court here today.

Mrs. Rigby declared it was she who last Tuesday burned down the country residence at Rivington, near Horwich, Lancashire, of Sir William H. Lever, causing damage estimated at $100,000. She further confessed to being the perpetrator of the outrage at the Liverpool cotton exchange on July 5, when a bomb exploded, but caused little damage.

Glories in Her Deeds.

Mrs. Rigby surrendered voluntarily to the police. When arraigned today she gloried in her achievements, saying she wanted Sir William H. Lever to consider whether his house was more valuable as a show place than as a beacon lighted for the king and the country to see women suffering an insupportable grievance. She told the magistrate:

"I lighted that beacon. I also placed the explosives in the Liverpool cotton exchange to show how easy it is to procure them and to place them in public buildings. I might just as easily have blown up the Nelson monument."

She was remanded for further hearing.

Only a Knock at the Door.

Mrs. Rigby, in the course of her speech to the magistrate, said:

"I chose the Liverpool cotton exchange because the cotton industry has been built up largely by women's labor. The merchants are willing to get power and wealth out of the labor of woman, while the women themselves are denied the vote and citizenship. This is the first knock at the door. Under the 'cat and mouse act' one of the greatest women in the land is going to be done to death. If the government is going to kill that woman, this is a warning."

Mrs. Edith Rigby has been a member of the Women's Social and Political union, the militant suffragette organization for many years, and has taken a great part in public movements to promote the welfare of women. She has been imprisoned five times in connection with the suffrage movement and was on several occasions released owing to the breakdown of her health after "hunger strikes."

Released From Prison.

London, July 10.—Miss Clara Elizabeth Giveen, who with Kitty Marion was sentenced on July 3 to three years penal servitude for setting fire to the stands on Hurst Park race course, was released from prison today in a serious condition of health, resulting from a "hunger and thirst strike." Kitty Marion was released day before yesterday.

McCombs Recovering.

Paris, July 10.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee continues to make excellent progress toward recovery from the effects of the operation for appendicitis performed on him on Tuesday.

PEACE SOUGHT BY BULGARIA

Takes the Initiative in Appeal to European Powers.

Servians and Greeks Both Claim Victories in the War.

London, July 10.—It is officially confirmed here that Bulgaria has taken the initiative in asking the European powers to try to bring the Balkan war to an end.

Appealed to Russia.

St. Petersburg, July 10.—Bulgaria has placed herself unreservedly in the hands of Russia, with a view to bringing about a cessation of hostilities in the Balkans and in order to prevent further bloodshed, according to an announcement made here today, apparently on good authority.

Bulgarians in Flight.

Belgrade, Servia, July 10.—The Bulgarian troops continue to retire, closely pursued by the Servians, according to official reports received here. The Bulgarians, retreating from Istip, had intended to occupy Radovitch, an important town some miles to the east, but the Servian cavalry drove them out of this strategic position yesterday. The Bulgarians fled precipitately, leaving their dead and wounded and throwing away rifles, ammunition and food.

Victories for Greeks.

Athens, Greece, July 10.—A Greek naval force today occupied the seaport of Kavala on the Aegean Sea, hitherto in the hands of the Bulgarians. The valley of Strumitza has also been taken possession of by Greek troops.

CHICAGO TO GET NEW RATES EAST ON GRAIN

Commerce Commission Decides Case Against the Railroads.

Washington, July 10.—In the case of the Chicago Board of Trade against the Chicago & Alton and other railroads, the interstate commerce commission today held that a proportional rate of 10 cents per 100 pounds on wheat from Minneapolis to Chicago was neither unreasonable nor unjustly discriminatory; that the arrangement by which Chicago must pay more than Minneapolis for moving flour east was discriminatory, and that wheat on one hand and barley, rye, oats and other coarse grains, on the other, do not constitute "like traffic."

NEW HAVEN ROAD IS BLAMED FOR WRECK

Commerce Commission Reports Finding on Stamford Disaster.

Washington, July 10.—The interstate commerce commission's report on its investigation of the New York, New Haven & Hartford passenger train wreck at Stamford, Conn., on June 12, holds that the railroad was negligent in placing Engineer Dougherty in charge of the train when he was inexperienced and uninstructed."

NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE TO BANKERS' MEETINGS BEING HELD IN DULUTH

First Gathering of Bankers Since Currency Bill Was Introduced.

Delegates Will Have Good Instructors and May Take Action.

Nearly Every Town in Minnesota Represented at Convention.

One of the most important and what should be one of the most successful meetings ever held by the Minnesota State Bankers' association opened in Duluth this morning with an attendance of about 500 members.

The meeting here has national significance. It is the first meeting of a state association of bankers held since the provisions of the administration currency bill was announced. This morning George M. Reynolds of Chicago, president of the Continental & Commercial National bank of that city and a member of the committee of bankers which conferred with administration officials in regard to the terms of the currency bill, gave an analysis of the bill from the bankers' viewpoint. At tomorrow morning's session, Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond of St. James, representative from the Second Minnesota district, will give an analysis of the bill from the standpoint of the administration.

Currency legislation is the big subject before the convention and the question of a declaration on the administration bill in the resolutions to be reported tomorrow looms before the delegates, and especially before the resolution committee. The question of resolutions on currency legislation will be one of the important subjects to be considered at a meeting of the committee this afternoon.

Get Both Sides.

Whether the convention takes a definite stand on the currency bill or not, the delegates will be given a good insight into both sides of the question. Mr. Reynolds is one of the best informed bankers in the United States. He has been in intimate touch with the progress of currency legislation in recent years and his address is taken as an authoritative statement of the bankers' side of the question. Congressman Hammond is also an authority on the legislative side of the question. Mr. Reynolds' principal objections advanced this morning are to

BEGIN TARIFF TALK MONDAY

Democrats Will Report Underwood-Simmons Bill to Senate Friday.

Smoot Predicts No Currency Legislation at This Session.

Washington, July 10.—Chairman Simmons has called a meeting of the senate finance committee for tomorrow, with the intention of reporting the tariff bill to the senate tomorrow afternoon. Republican members probably will not attempt any delay. The Democrats propose to begin the debate Monday, and keep the bill continuously before the senate until it is passed. Republican leaders agree that this probably will be before Sept. 1.

Senator Smoot predicted today that there would be no currency legislation until the winter session.

Republicans Pessimistic.

If the tariff revision bill becomes a law as it has been passed upon by the senate Democratic caucus, many of its provisions will be tied up in the courts for interpretation, in the opinion of Republican senate leaders. Senator Smoot, Republican member of the finance committee, said the changes in the phraseology and re-classifications in the bill are such that it may take years of court procedure to settle just what they mean, and revenues in the meantime would be held up.

"Importers," said Senator Smoot, "have lawyers engaged for no other purpose than to pick out flaws of phraseology, and legal precedents that have been established by past court decisions will avail nothing in this bill."

Predict Rough Sailing.

That Democratic senators, in view of the failure of the caucus to pass a stringent binding resolution, are going to be permitted to vote for amendments to the wool and sugar schedules, is another claim made by Republicans. They expressed the belief that amendments would pass the senate cutting out free raw wool and free sugar, but that the house conferees would insist upon the original provisions; that the senate conferees would yield, and that all Democrats finally would approve the conference report.

KUHNS GIVE UP ALL FINANCIAL INTERESTS

Pittsburg Banking Conditions Are Entirely Normal Again.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—Further resignations of J. S. and W. S. Kuhn from all connection with financial interests in Pittsburg were announced today. Both the men, who held the majority of the stock of the First-Second National bank, which was closed by the deputy comptroller of the currency Monday, removed themselves from the directorate of the Colonial Trust company of this city, and W. S. Kuhn took like action with respect to the board of the Commonwealth Trust company.

Conditions today have settled down to normal. The run on the Pittsburg Bank for Savings, which subsided early yesterday afternoon, was not resumed today.

U.S. YACHT DAMAGES GERMAN WARSHIP

Cassandra and Stettin Collide at Kiel—None on Board Inured.

Kiel, Germany, July 10.—The American steel yacht Cassandra, owned by George J. Whelan of New York, collided today with the German protected cruiser Stettin. Both vessels were somewhat damaged and returned to this port for repairs. Nobody on board was injured.

MRS. JOHN F. MARTIN IS ROBBED IN PARIS

New York Woman Loses Jewels Valued at $32,000.

Paris, July 10.—Mrs. John F. Martin of New York was robbed last evening of jewelry valued at $32,000 at her home in the Place Vendome. She had left the jewels wrapped in a handkerchief on the table in her suite. When she went to her room to dress for dinner they were not there.

Is Wealthy Widow.

New York, July 10.—Mrs. John F. Martin is a wealthy widow, whose residence is at the Hotel Ansonia in this city. She sailed for Paris about ten days ago.

CRITICIZES STATES' CARE FOR INVALIDS

Alexander Johnson Talks at the Charities Conference.

Seattle, Wash., July 10.—Besides the special session to consider Pacific coast immigration, the National Conference of Charities and Corrections held four sectional meetings this morning.

Alexander Johnson, general secretary of the conference, addressing the section on children, severely criticized the practice of some states in spending one thousand dollar per capita in building state institutions for invalids.

"When we are face to face with the problem of providing for perhaps one-half of one per cent of the whole population," he said, "we must get down to a rational basis of cost."

Lewis Meriam, assistant chief of the Federal children bureau, contrasted the millions appropriated each year for the bureau of animal industry with the $33,500 for the entire work of the children's bureau.

The section on house supervision and administration was addressed by Florence Mutnipilla, Minneapolis, and others.

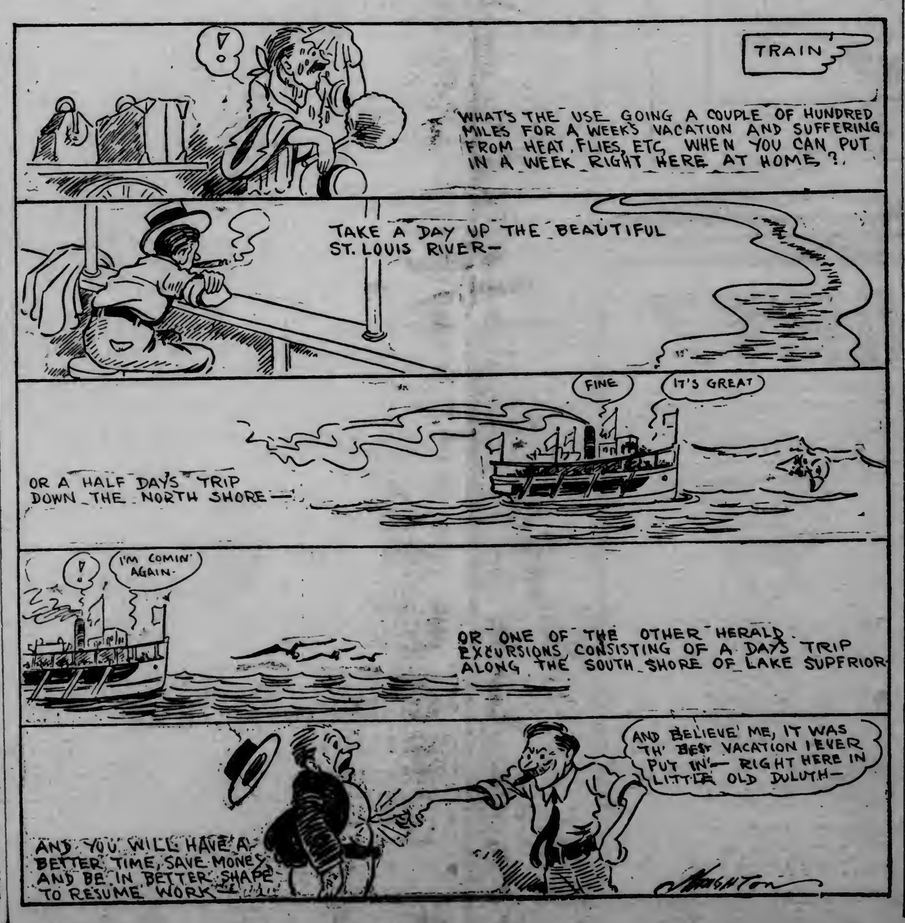

CONNOLLY ACCUSES COHALEN AT HEARING

Legislative Committee Decides to Hold Night Sessions.

Albany, N. Y., July 10.—John A. Connolly, who has accused Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalen of bartering his political influence before his election to the bench, continued his testimony today before the joint judiciary committees of the legislature which are investigating the charges presented by the grievance committee of the New York Bar association.

John B. Stanchfield, of counsel for Cohalen, expects to complete his cross-examination of the witness today. The committee has decided to hold night sessions.

ROTARIANS INVESTIGATE

Committee Asks What Becomes of the Wheelage Tax Money.

Commissioner Murchison Explains Some of Problems of His Department.

A committee from the Rotary club met with Roderick Murchison, commissioner of public works, at the city hall this morning to discuss street repairs and street improvements generally. The members of the committee were: E. J. Filiatrault, N. F. Russell, E. F. Burg, W. P. Heimbaugh and T. W. Walker.

The committee explained that they did not come to criticize but to confer with the commissioner. They wished to ascertain what is being done with the money which is paid annually in wheelage taxes and to offer suggestions.

The commissioner explained that no separate account is kept of the wheelage tax money, but that it becomes a part of the maintenance fund, which is used for replacements of parts of pavements, repairs and general upkeep of the streets. He told the Rotarians of the work which has been dono thus far and of the plans which are under way. He recognized that many of Duluth's streets are in deplorable condition, but pointed out that with the limited funds available each year it is impossible to attend to all parts of the city each year.

In the course of the discussion, Commissioner Murchison referred to the concrete pavement which has been proposed for some of Duluths streets. Recently concrete has been mentioned in connection with the paving of a highway between Duluth and West Duluth. The commissioner said that concrete pavements are still in the experimental stage and that no definite information as to its worth can be gained from other cities. He mentioned the fact that when macadam pavements were first introduced many people came to the quick conclusion that it would be fine for Duluth. The result was that considerable of it was laid and that it proved a failure. He explained that he is not opposed to concrete, not knowing enough of it to express a definite opinion, but he does not want to see a great deal of work done which might not be a success.

City Engineer John Wilson says that the opinions of various experts differ as to concrete and the best methods of putting down a concrete pavement. He thinks that it might be quite possible to lay a concrete pavement between Duluth and West Duluth. Traffic tables which were prepared by the engineering department last March show the traffic to the western end of the city is light compared with that in the downtown sections. The volume and tonnage on Superior street, First street and Michigan street is six to nine times that on either Oneota street or Third street. With the two combined it is only one-third to one-fifth that on the central streets.

The difference in the costs of the pavements can be gained from the estimates which were prepared by the engineer last winter for Grand avenue from Vernon street to Fifty-fourth avenue west. Concrete is far below that of any of the others. The brick estimate is $126,642.73; creosote blocks, $135,727.35; sandstone, $165,297.55, and concrete, $86,589.25.

TWO MURDERS IN ROW OVER ROW OF BEANS

Anadarko, Okla., July 10.—D. A. Doddington, accused of the murder of his wife and a neighbor and the wounding seriously of another neighbor, Benjamin Robinson, is lodged in the county jail here. It is said that in a dispute over the ownership of a six-foot row of beans at his home near Carnegie, Okla., Doddington shot at S. Jones, who also claimed the beans. The bullet is said to have struck and killed Mrs. Doddington. Doddington then killed Jones. Doddington surrendered.

TELLS VALUE OF VOTE FOR SENATOR.

Webster Springs, W. Va., July 10.—Joseph A. McLane, United States Senator Davis Elkins' campaign manager during the campaign for that office in West Virginia last winter, was a witness in the trial of Rath Duff, charged with alleged bribery in connection with the choice of a senator by the legislature. McLane detailed a conversation with Duff when the accused was solicited to vote for Elkins.

"A vote for senator is worth $6,000 and $100 a day expense money," McLane testified Duff said. "Duff informed me he had four votes to deliver. I offered him $16,000 in an effort to ascertain whether the other senatorial candidates were expending money, but he refused to inform me whose the four votes were, and left me with the statement that he was joking."

Firebug Hangs Himself.

San Diego, Cal., July 10.—Dr. F. M. Madison, charged with an attempt to burn a San Diego hotel, committed suicide by hanging in the jail here. In his hand was a magazine opened at the story of the burning of a big hotel with a loss of life.

VALUE SITE AT $50 AN ACRE

State Will Receive $8,000 for Its Property at Hibbing.

County Will Pay $5,000 of This Sum—Prompt Action.

A value of $50 an acre was placed upon the county fair ground site near Hibbing by the board of appraisers appointed by the district court to appraise the value of 160 acres to be acquired by the county from the state through condemnation proceedings. The appraisers awarded the state $8,000, reserving to the state all mineral rights. The county will acquire title only to the surface rights.

The appraisers conducted a hearing yesterday at the district courtrooms at Hibbing, at which the matter of values was taken up. Charles E. Adams, special counsel for the county, was present and represented the county's interests. The appraisers today filed a report with the clerk of the district court here. The appraisers allow the state $8,000 for the land and the St. Louis County Agricultural society, $8,000 for the value of the improvements on the land and an additional $200 for the leasehold held by the society from the state.

The report is signed by John A. Redfern, Hibbing; N. B. Shank, Biwabik, and William J. Bates, Duluth, appraisers named by the court.

It is expected that the agricultural society will transfer title to improvements to the county and will waive its claim for damages for the taking of improvements. As soon as the award to the state for the value of surface rights is paid over, the county's title to the property will become perfect. It is thought that at the next meeting of the county board, a lease will be granted by the board to the agricultural society for the use of the land for county fair purposes for a term of years.

Permanent Site.

People of Hibbing in particular and of St. Louis county in general are well pleased with the prospect of a county-owned fair ground, which will insure a permanent location for the county fair. The site is now owned by the state and under lease to the agricultural society. The county is unable to make any improvements until it becomes the owner of the site. The county board has already appropriated $7,500 for the purpose of improving the property with the erection of a suitable building on the site.

It is expected that if the award is accepted by the state auditor and the attorney general, no appeal will be taken and the proceeding will be closed. Under the law the county cannot appropriate more than $5,000 for the purpose of purchasing a fair ground site without submitting the question to a vote of the people. In this case, the agricultural society has agreed to raise the additional $3,000 required and will donate it for the cause. This is allowable under the law.

It is thought not unlikely that by the time the county board meets for its semi-annual meeting July 14 that the entire matter will have been closed up. If so, it will have taken but eighteen days to acquire the land through condemnation proceedings and make the necessary transfers.

Railroads

STATE CAMPAIGN FOR REDUCED RATES.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state campaign for uniform freight rates, complaint on which was laid before the state railroad commission this week, is backed by the Commercial clubs of North Dakota. They have been studying the question of rates for some time, and are preparing an even more elaborate campaign to bring about reductions and equalizations in the rates. The plan was launched by the state Federation of Commercial clubs at the annual meeting held here last winter.

NOT ABANDONED WORK.

Great Northern Said to Be Continuing Lewistown, Mont., Extension.

Arnegaard, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern extension from New Rockford to Lewistown, Mont., will not be completed this year, as it is said nothing will be done across the reservation between New Rockford and Watford till 1914. Recently the new sixty-ton steam shovel for the McGregor Construction company arrived here and it has been put to work. It will be kept busy till December as an effort is being made to complete the line across the river at this point to give the company an outlet to the main line on the west so the grain from McKenzie county can be hauled. The report that the company had abandoned all work on this branch is strenuously denied.

LANGDON KICKING ON G. N. SERVICE.

Langdon, N. D., July 10.—A strong protest is to be sent to the Great Northern Railway company against the train service on this branch since the change of the schedule. The delay in the arrival, of the trains from the south is the most objectionable feature. There is also a great deal of criticism against the poor class of cars used for the passenger service. An effort will be made to have the matter adjusted by the company and if that fails an appeal will be taken to the railway commission.

McDonald Succeeds Mellen.

Portland, Me., July 10.—Charles S. Mellen resigned the presidency of the Maine Central railroad at the monthly meeting of the directors. Vice President and General Manager Morris McDonald was elected to succeed him.

Railroad Notes.

William B. Dixon, assistant general passenger agent of the Milwaukee and one of the best known of the passenger men who occasionally come to the Head of the Lakes, was a visitor here yesterday.

F. M. Rugg, Northwestern passenger agent of the Burlington; W. H. Snyder, city passenger agent of the Burlington, and William Hughes, traveling passenger agent of the same line, were here yesterday.

Mr. Hughes has succeeded Mr. Snyder as the traveling passenger agent of the Burlington, in this territory, Mr. Snyder being promoted to the position of city passenger agent of the Burlington at St. Paul.

ST. PAUL TEAM IS TRANSFERRED

La Crosse, Wis., July 10.—The directors of the La Crosse Professional Baseball association this morning accepted a proposition made them by Owner Conrad of the St. Paul club of the Northern league, whereby the franchise of that organization will be taken over by La Crosse for the rest of the playing season.

Secretary C. T. Kelley of the St. Paul club handled Conrad's end of the transaction at the meeting today. Conrad assumes the entire risk and expense in putting the club in La Crosse. The only remaining step is the official sanction of the directors of the league, who will meet at the call of President Burmeister. The first game will be played at La Crosse with Winnipeg, Aug. 5.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO THE REGATTA

It looks today as if there will be a special train over the Great Northern to carry the members of the Duluth Boat club and those who don't belong to the club but are staunch boosters for victory upon the part of the local crews, to the annual regatta of the Northwestern Rowing association, which will be held at St. Paul on Friday and Saturday of next week.

John E. Macgregor, secretary of the boat club, and C. F. How, Jr., have a large number of club members rounded up. These two men are out today securing more names and it is believed that the 100 boosters will be secured that will enable the Duluthians to travel to the biggest rowing events in the West this season in style befitting the occasion.

Officials of the Great Northern announced that the round trip rate of $6 remains in force no matter whether the special train is secured or not. Also it was announced that the regular train of Friday morning would be held until 8 o'clock.

C. F. How, Jr., is the man to give your name to, if you intend going to the regatta. His office is at 403 Lonsdale and the telephone calls are Melrose 1203 and Grand 249. It is desired that names be handed or telephoned in as early as possible.

WINS MATCH IN TENNIS TOURNEY

McLoughlin Defeats Frotzheim in Race for Davis Cup.

Nottingham, Eng., July 10.—McLoughlin today won his match for the Davis cup in the international tennis tournament here by taking three sets to Frotzheim's two. He was a winner in the third, fourth and fifth sets. The scores were 5-7, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 and 6-2.

Davis Cup Matches.

Folkestone, Eng., July 10.—The Canadian and Belgium teams are fighting out their semi-final in the Davis cup competition here.

Canada is represented by P. B. Powell, B. P. Schwengers, J. F. Foulkes and G. H. Mayes, while the Belgian team consists of P. De Borman, A. G. Watson, W. H. Duvivier and Le Maire de Warzee.

Powell beat De Borman by three straight—6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

Nottingham, Eng., July 10.—Williams beat Kreutzer in the fourth set by six games to one, thus winning the match by three sets to one. The scores were: 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY

Only Two Indictments Are Returned in Federal Court.

The Federal grand jury, which went into session yesterday morning, adjourned in the afternoon and returned two indictments.

Oe of these was against Andrew Smith of Duluth, who was charged with perjury in making out the filings in a bankruptcy case. He pleaded guilty late yesterday afternoon and Judge Morris deferred sentence until next Monday.

Lou Wilson and John Gagnon of International Falls were jointly indicted on the charge of violating the United States immigration laws. They are both charged with bringing an alien woman into this country after she had been barred by the immigration authorities. They will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

D. D. Haley of Hibbing and Neil E. Beaton of Duluth were yesterday afternoon admitted to practice in the United States court.

The case of Frank Drescher, who is suing Elmer E. Whitney of Marshfield, Wis., for $15,000 damages as the result of an accident to the plaintiff in the defendant's sawmill last winter, is still being heard before Judge Morris. It is expected that the testimony will be all in by late this afternoon. The suit was brought by Maurice P. Moriarty, guardian of Drescher, who is only 16 years old. The boy lost his right arm in the accident. E. S. Thompson and E. C. Fors are appearing for the plaintiff and E. L. McMillan for the defendant.

The case of the Davis Real Estate company of this city against the city regarding the condemnation of property along Lester river by the board of public works will not come up during this term. The case has been ordered continued to the next civil term of the court. Fryberger & Fulton are the attorneys for the real estate company.

The next law case on the calendar is that of Joseph B. McGilligan against the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company. The plaintiff will be represented by W. M. Steel and A. E. McManus, with Hector Baxter appearing for the defendant company.

BLOODED CATTLE COMING INTO STATE.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrival of 122 head of Holstein cattle at Hope, and the expected arrival soon of four cars of Holsteins and Short Horns at Velva and Blegen in McHenry county, makes 1,500 head of thorough-bred cattle shipped into the state this year by the Better Farming association. These are not only expected to create a greatly increased interest in dairying, but to work a revolution of the farming methods in North Dakota and get the farmers away from the exclusive small grain idea that has prevailed.

To Test Saloon Limit Law.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—The Baker law which limits the number of saloons and which has been the cause of dispute among saloon keepers, brewers and the temperance folk is to be tested in the courts, according to a representative of saloon interests. The announcement created a stir in political and liquor circles.

St. Paul Boy Drowns.

Red Wing, Minn., July 10.—George Fred Egner, aged 23, of St. Paul, rolled from the open deck of his launch while asleep yesterday and was drowned in the Mississippi river. His companion, John Bessler, also of St. Paul, was aroused by the splash, but was unable to save Egner. The body will be taken to St. Paul for interment.

SCENE FROM "THE GIRL FROM LUXEMBURG" AT THE EMPRESS

Amusements

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Frances Starr in "The Case of Becky."
EMPRESS—Tabloid musical comedy.

Amusement Notes.

Frances Starr is distinctly a product of the Belasco method. When only 7 years ago she was playing the leading part with David Warfield in "The Music Master" there was a certain magnetism about her personality and a certain appeal in her work that aroused comment. Who was she? Where did Belasco find her? "The Wizard" said nothing but all this time he was watching her, observing the sensitive play of her temperament, noting the musical cadence of her voice, watching the frequent flash of intuitive genius that lay behind her impersonation. He saw in her possibilities of a true artist of the stage.

There were crudities, but these could be eliminated. The real fire was in her work; that was the main thing. With beauty and charm to reinforce her natural gifts as an actress, Mr. Belasco knew at a glance that Frances Starr had all the requirements for stage greatness.

At length a time came when her real development was about to begin. He sent work to Mr. Warfield's leading lady to call at his office. She described the sensation in a recent interview, as "The most dramatic moment in my life"—and such it proved to be, for that meeting began her real career. Her ears could hardly believe the plans that were unfolded to her. She had dreamed of just this opportunity—and dreams never came true. But there she was, hearing from the master words of which she could hardly realize the purport. She left the office in a delirium of uncertainties, joys and of doubts, fearing she might wake up and find none of it true.

But at last she had a definite appointment to return the next day. Then the work began and it all became a hard, trying, joyous reality. Months were spent in making ready for her first important role, Juanita, in "The Rose of the Rancho." Then after many hopes and many more discouragements came the first night.

From this point it is a short story. Next morning she woke up famous. The stage had given the world a new idol, and Belasco was glorified for discerning that to which other managers had been blind. Then came "The Easiest Way." This meant harder work than ever, but Frances Starr emerged triumphant, creating a stage characterization that will rank among the notable achievements of American drama.

"The Case of Becky" as Frances Starr plays it has proved one of the most novel and startling surprises the stage has shown. Miss Starr will be seen in it at the Lyceum tonight, tomorrow and Saturday.

Starting this afternoon for three days with matinee each day, at that popular theater, the Empress, the latest, musical comedy tabloid, "The Girl From Luxemburg," direct from its phenomenal runs in New York, Chicago and other large cities, will reveal the charms of its tuneful scores and the beauty of a cast of principals and chorus said to be of great loveliness.

It should prove doubly welcome to the theatergoers of Duluth because of the originality of its dialogue, and the musical quality of its melodies, together with the eminence of its cast of principals. The management of "The Girl From Luxemburg" is alive to the value of this city in its appreciation of good musical comedy and has lavished a vast sum in producing "The Girl From Luxemburg."

The company selected for "The Girl From Luxemburg" is headed by the accomplished comedian, Arthur Clamage. Supporting him will be: Arthur Utley, baritone soloist; Vivian Frances, a charming and beautiful young woman who will enact the title role; John Bartlett, Vincent Coleman, Jessie Wress, and Maud Smith. These, with a stunning chorus, will furnish an ensemble of twenty-five people. It will be beautified by five stage settings and costumes regarded as particularly brilliant and effective.

ADMITTED TO PRACTICE IN UNITED STATES COURT

D. D. Haley, village recorder of Hibbing, was today admitted to practice as an attorney in the United States district court by Judge Page Morris on the motion of J. M. Dickey, first assistant district attorney. Yesterday Arthur E. Templeton, an attorney of Hibbing connected with the office of Victor L. Powers, was admitted to practice in the Federal courts.

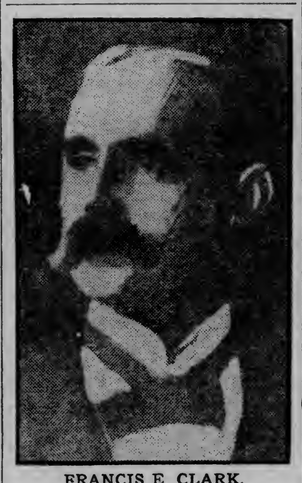

OVER 10,000 ATTEND Y. P. S. C. E. MEETINGS

"Father Endeavor" Clark Is Again Chosen as President.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—Every Protestant church in the city was utilized today in carrying out the second day's program of the twenty-sixth international convention of the Christian Endeavor society. Thousands of delegates took active part in committee meetings and heard addresses and papers read by the pastors in attendance.

The number of delegates on the ground yesterday, estimated at 10,000, was increased by several hundred today. Dr. J. A. McDonald of Toronto, one of the most prominent Christian Endeavor workers in Canada, was among the latest arrivals.

The election of officers yesterday was a perfunctory affair. Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the society, was unanimously re-elected president. Secretary William Shaw likewise was re-elected, and there were no changes of other officers.

Weeks of preparation have culminated in the erection of a gigantic canvas auditorium where the multitude is seated amid semi-tropic scenes, a replica of Southern California out-of-doors, carried bodily inside. Conspicuous in the decorations everywhere was the convention motto: "Take Unto You the Whole Armor of God."

Francis E. Clark of Washington, D. C., the president of the organization, presided at the sessions and Prof. Percy S. Foster, also of Washington, conducted the musical numbers of the program. Greetings were presented to the convention from President Woodrow Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The second of the short camping trips planned for members of the Boys' department Y. M. C. A. will be held this Monday. It will be in the form of a hike to Pike lake. The boys will leave the boys' building Monday morning at 9:30, carry their packs to Pike lake and return to the city Wednesday evening. A meeting of all those desiring to go will be held at the boys' building Friday afternoon at 2:30.

The Saturday trip this week will be an excursion to Fond du Lac. The boys will take the boat at the Fifth avenue dock. The day will be spent swimming, playing games, and visiting George Stevens' farm. Each boy will bring his lunch and bathing suit.

NEW GARBAGE WAGON ARRIVES

The new garbage wagon which was recently ordered by the health department has reached the city from Jeffersonville, Ind., and will be started very shortly.

The wagon is patented and is said to be the very latest in garbage collecting vehicles. It will probably be put in service in the West end. This will be the second garbage wagon to be operated by the city. Plans are being made for the remodeling of the old cart and for altering an old chemical for similar purposes. The city's finances preclude the institution of a municipal collection of garbage and the officials are going as far as they can to relieve the situation by putting on more wagons on the fee basis which was started here several years ago.

FOUR MEN AND MULE FALL THIRTY FEET.

Marinette, Wis., July 10.—Four men and a mule fell more than thirty feet yesterday when a section of tramway at a sawmill dropped. Joseph Larson was the only one hurt and his injuries were not serious. The mule did a double somersault and landed on its side.

MONEY DEPOSITED TO BOY'S CREDIT

Little Italian Lad Receives $667 From Clyde Iron Works.

When Francesca Ronzanzo, 3-year-old son of Donate Ronzanzo, who was killed May 18, 1911, at the plant of the Clyde Iron Works, reaches the age of majority the trust fund of $667.67 which has been deposited for him in an Italian postal savings bank will have doubled. The money has been placed with the bank for safekeeping. It is the boy's share of the settlement money received by the estate from the iron works company.

Notice was yesterday received by the clerk of the district court from Nicola Ciamarra, royal attorney general at Potenza, Italy, that the money had been paid over and been deposited to the credit of the boy. This is the last chapter in two years of litigation in the case of the Donato Ronzanzo estate vs. Clyde Iron Works. The money will be kept in trust for the boy until he becomes of age.

Ronzanzo's wife, who also shared in the settlement, has remarried. She is now Mrs. Francisco Contardo of this city.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

During the first week in August seven civil service examinations will be held here to fill government positions in the United States and the possessions.

The positions and the salaries for which examinations will be held are: Shop apprentice, $480; assistant in cottonseed marketing, $1,800; specialist in transportation of farm products, $2,500; specialist in marketing perishable products, $2,500; specialist in co-operative organization, $2,500; and assistant in co-operative organization accounting, $1,800.

Information and particulars regarding the examinations may be obtained from E. M. Barker, superintendent of the registry department at the postoffice, who is secretary of the local civil service examining board.

VERDICT OF ELEVEN MEN

Municipal Court Jury Takes Advantage of New Law.

Deliberate Twelve Hours and One Man Holds Out.

For the first time in St. Louis county, and the second time in the state of Minnesota a jury in municipal court this morning returned a five-sixths verdict, under the new law adopted at the last session of the state legislature.

According to the new law, which went into effect July 1, five-sixths of and jury in civil actions or proceedings may render a valid verdict after twelve hours' deliberation. A civil jury in Brainerd rendered a five-sixths verdict there last week, so that the decision this morning is the first in St. Louis county and the second in the state.

The case this morning was that of Mike Balta against the Great Northern Railroad company, the plaintiff having sued for $500 damages as the result of an accident at Chisholm, March 22, 1912, when a wagon he was driving was struck by a Great Northern train at one of the crossings in the Shenango location. Balta was awarded a verdict of $100, which was signed by the foreman and ten members of the jury, only one member refusing to grant the plaintiff damages.

In accordonce with the new law the members of the jury signed their names to the verdict, they being: Thomas Clark, foreman; William H. Burns, M. H. Potts, Joseph Deselits, Malcolm Macaskill, Roderick McKenzie, Dennis Parent, Joseph D. Goodhand, John P. Mason, Frank H. Farrell and Harry Milnes.

The jury went out yesterday afternoon and had failed to come to an agreement when recalled at the opening of court this morning. After Foreman Clark informed Judge Windom that the jury had failed to agree, the latter requested the jury to return to the juryroom and if ten men agreed, to report to the court. It was then that Judge Windom explained the five-sixth jury law to the members of the jury. After a short time the jury returned with a verdict, signed by eleven members, although only ten were necessary.

In his suit for damages Balta claimed that the railroad had no bells at the crossing, nor was there a flagman there at the time of the accident. The engineer also failed to blow his whistle, according to the plaintiff.

Frank Randall of Clapp & Randall appeared for the plaintiff, while Baldwin & Baldwin represented the railroad, Donald Holmes introducing the testimony for the defense.

The new five-sixth jury law follows: "Section 1. In all civil actions or proceedings in any court of record of this state, after twelve hours' deliberation, the agreement of five-sixths of any jury therein shall be a sufficient and valid verdict; the deliberation of the jury shall be deemed to have commenced when the officer taking charge of the jury has been sworn, and the clerk shall enter such time in his records.

"Sec. 2. Where the verdict is agreed to by the full membership of the jury the foreman only shall sign the verdict, when less than the full number agree on the verdict the same shall be signed by all the jurors who concur therein, and the clerk of said court shall enter on his minutes the number of said jurors concurring in said verdict."

WILL LECTURE ON EFFICIENCY

W. T. Goffe of Chicago Will Give Three Addresses in Duluth.

William T. Goffe of Chicago, the widely known lecturer on business topics, more especially the subjects of "Salesmanship and Business Building" will address the business and professional people of Duluth on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week at the Y. M. C. A. in a series of three lectures.

Mr. Goffe says that business is a science and the practice of it is a profession as truly as is law or medicine and until business people realize this fact and become familiar with the basic laws governing business building, chances for success are limited.

"A person's efficiency depends upon the amount of supervision he requires and as we learn more of the philosophy of business we thereby eliminate the errors which make supervision necessary and become more valuable to ourselves, associates or employer," said Mr. Goffe this morning.

"Scientists claim that the average man uses less than three-tenths of his mentality and less than one-half of his physical powers and that is the reason 95 per cent of mankind are failures according to the world's standard. In other words we are carrying around a lot of valuable idle capital.

"There is an old Greek proverb which reads 'To earn more, learn more' and a truer word was never written. The gateway of success is always open to anyone who can pay the admission price which is efficiency."

Mr. Goffe is well fitted for this work having been an instructor along these lines for the past ten years, after twenty years of successful business life and he enjoys the hearty commendation of the secretaries of such commercial organizations as the St. Paul Association of Commerce, Cedar Rapids Commercial club, Advertisers' Club of Milwaukee, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association and many others before which he has spoken.

"Every man realizes that he needs improvement," he said. "How to get it is the important question and the purpose of these lectures is to bring to light the underlying principles of business building, to make these principles so plain that their existence cannot be doubted or questioned, and to show the business man or other that there are laws for his guidance."

Warner's Safe Remedies

is more prevalent and more destructive than any other disease suffered by mankind, and you should not allow its delusive character to blind you until the advanced stages have been reached. If you're nervous, lack ambition and have backache and indigestion, it is almost certain that the function of the kidneys to remove impurities is impaired and should be remedied immediately.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy

acts specifically upon the kidneys and liver in such a manner that it tones these organs and establishes a healthy condition if not taken too late. For 36 years it has been the standard remedy for kidney and liver diseases.

"I was a great sufferer from kidney and liver trouble. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy relieved me at once. It has made me a new person."—Mrs. John Richey, Saltillo, Miss.

Superior

Joint Installation.

The Ojibway and Gitchie Gamee tribes of Red Men will hold a joint installation of officers this evening at the lodge rooms of the Okoboji tribe at the Saratoga hotel. The three tribes will raise the officers of the tribes. Invitation has been extended to members of Duluth tribes to be present at the ceremony. Plans have been made to hold a "dog-feast" following the rites.

Recall Petition.

The recall petition being circulated by the Socialists of Superior has already 500 names, according to announcement made this morning by E. T. Harris, who has charge of the work. The petition calls for the recall of Mayor Konkel. The men at the head of the petition expect to have a sufficient number of signers within the next two weeks so that the petition can be acted upon by the commission.

Is Circling Wisconsin.

Erhart Reichl of Kaukauna, Wis., who is on a 2,000-mile hike around the border line of Wisconsin, arrived in the city last evening. He started from Ironwood, Mich., on June 10, and expects to complete the circuit early in October. He carries with him a full camping outfit.

Taking School Census.

The work of taking the annual school census will be completed next week, according to a statement made this morning by L. A. Nichols, secretary of the school board. The census takers have been working rapidly during the past two weeks and with the exception of three wards, the entire city has been covered.

LEMON FAMINE NOT FELT HERE

Supply of Hot Weather Fruit Is Normal in Duluth.

Minneapolis is struggling in the throes of a lemon famine and with the hot weather that is slowly cooking the populace, drying up throats rapidly, the demand for lemonade is ever increasing. But the dealers down there find that if relief is not quick there will be no such thing as lemonade to be had.

Here is where the beneficence given Duluth comes in. Not only is it cool in Duluth, the air being balmy and bracing, so that that gone feeling from sweltering weather is unknown, but in addition to having available, by the turn of a faucet, the coolest and purest water in the world no matter how unusually hot the weather might become, there are all the lemons in Duluth that its residents will want.

The commission houses are getting their regular supply each day and there is nothing like famine. The prices for lemons have been firming up since the warm weather struck other cities for the demand is heavier in the general market, but it is not unusual for summer months and the supply in Duluth is ample for the needs of the city.

ROOSEVELT SAYS JAPS WILL BE REJECTED

Letter From Him Is Received By Viscount Kaneko at Tokio.

Tokio, Japan, July 10.—The Tai-Hei-Yo News agency says today that Viscount Kentaro Kaneko has received a letter from Theodore Roosevelt expressing the view that American public opinion will not permit the naturalization of Japanese in the United States as it would lead to a similar claim on the part of the Chinese. Mr. Roosevelt, according to the news agency, promised to use his efforts in the solution of the California alien land ownership situation.

Viscount Kaneko is a graduate in law of Harvard university. He was the unofficial representative of Japan in the United States during the Russo-Japanese war and delivered many addresses all over the country.

BLAMED FOR DEATHS.

Escanaba Railroad Employes Held Responsible for Double Fatality.

Escanaba, Mich., July 10.—The coroner's jury in the case of the late Neil Nelson and Fireman Vanner Starline, both of whom were scalded to death in the cab of their engine on the Northwestern company's docks here, placed the responsibility for the double fatality upon the yard master and conductor of the train, who were charged with being careless in the discharge of their duties.

The funerals of the victims were held Sunday and were largely attended.

Stefansson Ships at Nome.

Nome, July 10.—The Canadian polar exploration ship Karluk arrived from Victoria, B. C., yesterday with twelve of the scientists who will go with Vilhjalmar Stefansson into the Arctic. Four hours later the steamer Victoria arrived from Seattle with Stefansson, Dr. R. M. Anderson, his lieutenant, and James Murray, oceonagrapher. The expedition will remain here until July 20.

SAVING THE CHILDREN

Infant Welfare Work of Health Department Now Under Way.

Two Milk Stations in Operation Under Health Department.

The health department now has its infant welfare work for the present summer well under way.

Two milk stations are now in operation and Miss Beckman has been employed as nurse to have charge of the western part of the city. She is working in conjunction with the nurse of the Masonic fraternity, who has supervision of the central and eastern sections.

Inspected milk is being offered for sale at the two stations. One is located in the Munroe school in the West end, where the milk can be secured from the nurse each morning. The other is established in the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street. At both of them the milk is being sold at 7 cents a quart, which is considerably below cost.

The purpose of the milk stations is to furnish infants and nursing mothers with pure milk. The milk has been tested and is guaranteed to be of best quality. The nurses visit the homes and instruct mothers in the best methods of feeding and rearing infants, with particular reference to their care during the hot weather.

Miss Louise Schneller, one of the visiting nurses of the health department in charge of the tuberculosis work, is taking her vacation. During her absence, Miss Imogene Harris, matron of the city contagious hospital, has charge of her branch of the work.

To the Fishermen.

The "South Shore" evening train of Saturdays and Sundays stops at Lake Millecent, Cusson and Delta. The westbound morning train of Sundays and Mondays will stop at same points to pick you up. Low excursion fares authorized. Special Sunday morning train to Bibon and local points, returning in the evening. Leave Duluth 7:45 a. m., Superior, 8:12 a. m.; returning arrive Superior 5:40 p. m., Duluth, 9:20 p. m. A golden opportunity for capturing the finny tribe.

TRAIN KILLS CRIPPLE.

North Dakotan Is Unable to Get Off the Track.

Grafton, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Failing to hear the warning whistle of the locomotive, John Peterson was run down and killed last night by a Northern Pacific passenger train bound from St. Paul to Winnipeg. He was hurled twenty feet, and when picked up was unconscious. He died an hour later.

Peterson, who was crippled and partly deaf, discovered his danger only a moment before the locomotive struck him, but he could not get clear. He had resided here thirty years, and though he talked little of his past, he hinted several times at wealthy relatives in the East.

CLAIM WITNESS SWORE FALSELY

Lakota, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with perjury, Axel Lyster was arraigned for trial in the Nelson county district court today. Lyster, several months ago, was summoned before State's Attorney S. G. Skulason to give evidence concerning an alleged violation of the prohibition law, and subsequently an arrest was made of the party implicated.

When the preliminary hearing of the accused man was held, Lyster was placed on the stand as a witness. His memory failed him, the state charges. Lyster declaring that he had forgotten what he had told the state's attorney, and denying that he had made liquor purchases as contended by the prosecution. Following this evidence Lyster was arrested. He is a jeweler and has been engaged in that business here and in Michigan.

Accused of Flax Theft.

August Leino, a Finn, will also be on trial this week charged with stealing a crop of flax worth $1,200.

Fred Andrus pleaded guilty to a charge of assault growing out of a fight in which Sherman Owens was the victim.

Sivert Hegstad, pleading guilty to a shortage of $2,700 while agent of the Imperial Elevator company at Petersburg, was sentenced to a year in state's prison.

DANCERS MUST STAY EIGHT INCHES APART

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—Hereafter the home lives of girls under age found dancing in public halls in Kansas City, Kan., will be investigated by the welfare workers of the police department of that city. Rev. J. M. Dunlavy, municipal dance inspector, said:

"Heretofore we have sent these young girls home with a reprimand, but we have determined upon a new method. The girl's names will be taken, their parents visited and their stories investigated.

"Moreover, we have begun a crusade upon private dances. In public halls we have enforced the rule that partners must stay at least eight inches apart, but in private dances there has been no limit, and the squeezy, ragging dance prevails to a disgraceful extent."

Tells How to Have An Animated Face

"Vivacity of manner may be due chiefly to native wit; vivacity of appearance may be largely an acquirement," said a certain clever and enviably popular lady. A little coaxing brought forth some enlightening information.

"Before going out in the evening," she said, "I completely cover my face with a sort of jelly which quickly hardens, forming a mask. This brings the vitalizing blood to the surface, producing a fresh, pink, youthful glow. The coloring is natural and cannot be taken for an artificial complexion. I keep the mask on an hour before washing it off. There's nothing like this to put real life into the face. Besides the effect on the skin and delicate facial muscles, the increased circulation naturally improves the eyes, too, giving them more luster and expression. The whole countenance is illuminated—and you know an animated face is always interesting." Then she told me what she used was nothing more than paraffied plaistold jelly, which is perfectly harmless and can be found in any drug store. I have profited by her secret.—Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.

RETURNS TO THE CLIFTON HOTEL

Madame Mary Gain, held to the grand jury on a charge of conducting a house of ill fame, but at liberty under a $2,500 bond, has returned to the Clifton hotel.

Under the restrictions imposed by the temporary restraining order which was issued against the hotel early Monday morning as the first step in the nuisance abatement injunction proceedings against the hotel, it will be reopened for legitimate business.

"There will be nothing doing in the line of drinks," said the madame yesterday. "This is a respectable hotel, and I am after the transient business of the right sort."

The temporary restraining order which issued against the furniture and chattels of the hotel forbids her or any one else from selling or otherwise disposing of them pending the final determination of the injunction proceedings.

In the meantime she will occupy the hotel. Any infraction of the law will put her in contempt of court.

According to Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, the furniture has been inventoried, and she will be held accountable for it by the court.

ACTOR WHO SHOT OFFICER IS FREED.

Hackensack, N. J., July 10.—James S. Devlin, a vaudeville actor, on trial charged with murder in the first degree for killing Patrick Considine, a policeman, in May, was acquitted by a supreme court jury. Devlin saw his wife with Considine in the street, and a quarrel followed during which Considine was shot.

WOULD ENJOIN POPULAR OPERAS.

New York, July 10.—The Metropolitan Opera company, in injunction proceedings, asserts that if Oscar Hammerstein is permitted to carry out his project of building a new grand opera house in New York and producing operas in competition with the Metropolitan, the "giving of grand opera of the very best order will become impossible—it will be a ruinous venture" and result in "great damage to the public."

The suit begun in the supreme court seeks to enjoin the impresario and his son, Arthur, from violating alleged agreements entered into between the Hammersteins and Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia in behalf of the plaintiff, under which the Hammersteins contracted not to produce grand opera in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston for ten years.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Clara: I know parnotis will greatly reduce your weight, and when this is done you will feel much better and healthier. To prepare the treatment, get from your druggist 4 ounces parnotis and dissolve in 1½ pints hot water, then take a tablespoonful at meal time. This acts gradually and gently and safely reduces weight without resorting to violent exercise or dieting. This treatment is far superior to any "patent" fat-reducer, for the reason that the graceful lines of the figure are regained and the flesh and skin are left firm and smooth.

Alma: Beautiful eyebrows and lashes will add greatly to the expression of your eyes. Rubbing pyroxin on eyebrows will make them grow thick and beautiful, and frequent applications of pyroxin at lashroots with thumb and forefinger will cause them to come in long and curly. Use care and don't get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Anxious: This is the only safe, certain hair-remover: Mix into a paste enough delatone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, cleanse the skin and the hairs will have vanished. Rarely is the second application necessary to remove even a stubborn growth.

Genevieve: You can easily and quickly cleanse your hair and scalp with canthrox, and the shampoo is so refreshing and invigorating that you will never again use or permit the use of soap or other mussy, harmful mixtures for this purpose. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup hot water and your shampoo is ready. After rinsing, the hair will dry very quickly and take on a rich, even color and beautiful gloss. Canthrox is especially nice for hot weather shampoos, because it stimulates and invigorates the scalp's tissues and makes the head feel so exhilarated.

Auntie: Yes, that old-fashioned kardene tonic will do you a great amount of good, I am sure. Here is the recipe: To prepare, add 1 ounce kardene to ¼ pint alcohol (whisky should not be used), then ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and you will be surprised how quickly your strength and appetite return. The kardene tonic is fine for any kidney or liver trouble and will clear the skin of sallowness, blotches, pimples and other complexion faults, as well as make you weigh exactly what you should.

Minnie: You should use a crystos eye-tonic as it is very soothing and restful to tired, aching eye-muscles. This tonic is made at small cost by dissolving 1 ounce crystos in 1 pint clear water and 2 or 3 drops of this should be put in the bothersome eye until a cure is effected. The crystos eye-tonic is strengthening to weak, watery eyes and gives to them a delightful sparkle and youthful expression. With the aid of the crystos eye-tonic it is frequently possible to discard glasses.

Lucy: Nature exacts heavy tolls when her laws are violated. Your skin has been abused by powder. An ordinary spurmax lotion, made by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water, into which is stirred 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, is far superior to powder when on and seems part of the skin, and its use will give a roseblush and velvety smoothness to any complexion. I can highly recommend the spurmax lotion for clearing the skin of all complexion disfigurements and bringing back the healthy glow of youth to the aged, weather-marred or powder-ruined skin.

Jennie: No, quinzoin hair-tonic cannot possibly injure the hair. Quinzoin itself is the most beneficial remedy of which I know for all hair and scalp troubles, and when it is made up according to my simple directions is better than any hair-tonic you ever used. To prepare, just add 1 ounce quinzoin to ½ pint alcohol, then pour in ½ pint water. This inexpensive tonic stops the irritation almost instantly and its use will banish dandruff and make your scalp healthy. Then a beautiful growth of long, silken hair will follow.

Annie: Make your own greaseless cream-jelly wrinkle-remover at little cost by pouring 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine into ½ pint cold water, then adding 1 ounce almozoin. Let dissolve thoroughly before using, apply thickly and leave over night. Then apply more cream and massage skin until the cream-jelly disappears. This is splendid for correcting every faulty complexion because it gives natural beauty and I have found that certain results follow when this almozoin cream-jelly is used to banish wrinkles and round out hollows.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS ON THE THREE CONVENTIONS NOW IN SESSION HERE

PERIOD OF TRANSITION

Minneapolis Man Tells Bankers Big Men Are Needed in Government.

Reviews Work of Last Legislature and Its Effect on Banking.

At the morning session of the bankers convention, Charles R. Fowler of Minneapolis spoke on "The Negotiable Instruments Law," and also discussed briefly the general subject of legislation in Minneasota in the year 1913.

"Whatever charges may be made against the thirty-eighth session of the Minnesota legislature, it will never be accused of indolence or lassitude," said the speaker. "There may be considerable divergence of opinion as to the extent its labor was lost and ineffective, but it must be admitted that it labored. In my opinion its labors in general were for the public good.

"Among the laws passed that are particularly interesting to bankers are the following:

"Chapter 124, relating to the investment of funds by savings banks;

"Chapter 161, enacting the uniform law relating to warehouse receipts;

"Chapter 467, prescribing the liability of employer's for compensation for damages for injuries due to accident, modifying the common law in that respect, and establishing an alternative elective schedule of compensation and regulating the procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder in certain cases;

"Chapter 506, relating to savings banks and authorized securities for savings banks and which must be considered in connection with Chapter 124;

"Chapter 143, providing for the filing of chattel mortgages with registers of deeds;

"Chapter 385, known as the blue sky law, relating to insurance companies, and

"Chapter 272, known as the uniform negotiable instruments act."

The speaker then discussed these laws in detail explaining their effect on the banking business. He closed by saying:

"The subjects which I have discussed are of such a character that my remarks of necessity have been more or less discursive and doubtless somewhat tiresome, but I would feel that I had missed a golden opportunity if I did not express to you some of my personal ideas with reference to legislation, legislators and the civic duty of citizens.

"From the nature of your vocation you of necessity exercise great influence in your respective localities. Prudence requires that you be conservative, and your influence properly used, tends toward inducing conservatism in the people with whom you come in contact. It is for you to safely counsel your clients and customers. You come in close personal touch with the men and women who do things. Therefore, there is a large responsibility resting upon each and every one of you. My observation leads me to believe that you too frequently shirk this responsibility, or at least ignore it, so far as it pertains to the civic welfare of the state, except in those instances where your business is directly involved, and except as you have recently sought to arouse interest in the subjects of education, good roads, the bettering of rural conditions and the colonization of the state.

"The affairs of the state of Minnesota are directly and absolutely in the control of the legislature except as it may be restricted by the Constitution; therefore the policy of the state is fixed by the representatives sent to the legislature, and every man here must share with every other citizen the responsibility for lax, inadequate, inefficient and experimental machinery for governmental needs.

Big Problems Up.

"The great questions of the day are coming before the legislative bodies of this country for solution. They arise in congress, in the state legislatures, in city councils. Men competent and qualified to solve these questions must be in these bodies, and whether or not they are there depends upon the voters.

"It has been said that suffrage is the weapon wherewith the citizen defends himself against oppression and despotism, but the weapon must be wielded.

"The citizen who does not use all the means at his command to defend himself has no right to complain of oppression and despotism.

"It is one of the principles of representative government that a party more extreme than the government exists. The spirit of opposition necessarily makes this so.

"Citizens with nothing to lose and little to gain are eternally devising schemes of government with which they are anxious and willing to experiment. This class of citizens serves a useful purpose. Much of the real progress of the world is chargeable to their zeal and persistency, but if they were permitted full sway, chaos would result. They are too impracticable to be given full charge of the destinies of a mighty commonwealth or nation. It is the conservative and practical citizen who must exercise the greater influence.

Transition Period.

"It is admitted, however, by the most casual observer, that a great change has taken place in this country in the last ten years—that right now we are in a transition period. Many changes will be made. Many of the advocated changes in our form of government are fundamental. We hope that good results will follow; we are not certain. It is therefore doubly incumbent at this time that the ship of state be manned by patriotic men who will exercise the best of judgment. We must progress slowly along safe channels. The voyage of life has not been so intolerable that it is absolutely necessary to choose a new channel without exploring the rocks that may be sunken therein.

"It is charged by some that our government has been administered for the benefit of the individual to the exclusion of the many; that each one has been endeavoring to secure a personal advantage, or to put some one else at a disadvantage. There is some basis for this criticism. On the other hand, it is charged that the whole tendency of the government is toward socialism or communism. There is some basis for this opinion. Neither opinion is correct. There is, however, a conflict being waged between the advocates of individualism and collectivism, and statesmanship of a high order will be required to adjust the economic conditions of this country, so that the individual will retain the greatest degree of freedom to develop without overmastering the great mass of citizens.

"Big men—conservative, intellectual, disinterested and fearless men—must give their time and energies to the constructive governmental work now going on and to be done. Too many confine their public service to criticism and faultfinding."

CHARLES R. FOWLER.

HOPE FOR THE RESIDENTS OF TIN PAN ALLEY

State Music Teachers Do Not Find Ragtime All Bad, But See Chance to Reform It.

Cheer up, ye ponderous piano pounders of Tin-Pan Alley! Likewise ye much-maligned maulers of the raggety, raggety muse, take courage! There is hope! And you don't have to comb your hair a la David Warfield and stand pointing the forefinger of your right hand skyward like the leading man in a popular patent medicine ad. to get it.

Members of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association now in session at the Spalding declare there's a chance even for you. Did you get it? YOU, who were supposed to have long since been ostracized by long-haired lovers—this takes in both sexes—of all that is good and pure and beautiful in music. This is cheering news to every single stealthy, stealing strangler of syncopated sonnets from Broadway to Frisco where the animal dance and its kindred melodies have their habitat. Composers of ragtime stuff who have had to worry along on $25,000 a year royalties need now have no fear of the morrow. Not only will they be able to get their beef and beans each morning, but their relatives won't cross the street when they see them coming.

Still all this good fortune can't come without giving something in return. But there's only one thing asked of you—you must change your ways. This shouldn't be difficult for the boys who are able to take a good old song that we sang from Teachers Folio No. 3 in the grammar school and make the raggiest kind of a composition out of it.

Had His Doubts.

It was with considerable fear that The Herald reporter invaded the meeting of the Minnesota music teachers today. Probably a long siege in his youth when he was tortured twice a week by an old professor with his 'one and—two, and—three, and" had something to do with it. One glance at the assemblage made him feel that the mere suggestion of ragtime might result in his sudden exit via the window.

This fear was not new, however, and the first man he tackled was Gustav Flaaten. Relying on an old-time acquaintance the reporter stated the purpose of his visit. But he didn't get far. Before he had fairly placed his subject before the house Mr. Flaaten struck out at once for deep water and began talking about oratories, symphonies, Damrosch, Thomas, the big conductors of Europe and comparing the physical endurance of these men with Caruso. Also the energy expended in driving a bunch of musicians through a symphony compared with warbling at a high altitude in "Lohengrin," "Rigoletto," "Thais," or some of the other works popular in our set.

Mr. Flaaten started at a high rate of speed and successfully combatted all sorts of musical whirlpools and currents. The reporter couldn't have overtaken him with the Australian stroke so made for smoother waters. Mr. Flaaten graciously introduced him to Heinrich Hoevel of Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota Music Teachers' association.

Has a Kind Face.

Mr. Hoevel has a kind face and if he wasn't a successful music teacher he probably would have made a daisy preacher. What did he think of ragtime music? Well, he had his own ideas all right, and he didn't hesitate to express them. And remember, it was right here that the ragtime fellows came into their own.

"Ragtime is vulgar as played now," he began slowly. "In the first place it doesn't include the qualities that make for beauty and music culture."

"How is it then that everybody falls for it?" asked the reporter; "or better, how do you explain that ragtime carries such a popular appeal?"

"That's the point," replied Mr. Hoevel. "It does carry a popular appeal. But then you know we do not always select the enjoyments that are best. In fact many persons are not enjoying themselves unless they are doing something they wouldn't care to have others know about. That's the way with our amusements. And ragtime has been much criticized because of its associations. I believe, however, that something can be made of it. The theme is there and it may be that when the right composer comes along, a real genius, he will be able to transplant ragtime to a higher standard."

The Primitive Qualities.

Mrs. A. M. Fryberger, assistant superintendent of music in the Minneapolis public schools and who probably has to combat the ragtime problem more than any other person in the state, was the next to be questioned.

"It isn't hard to explain why ragtime is so generally taken up," she said quickly. "It carries the two primitive qualities—rhythm and melody. These are born in us and that's why the children get hold of the popular music so readily. To do away with ragtime as it stands at present, we must teach the children some of the simpler songs and then lead them on to something of greater depth. It is simply a process of education.

"As for ragtime, it is not all bad. I believe the syncopated time is really good. There is something American in its character, almost national, I might say. I think, too, that it can and will be developed into something worth while. Of course, the words that accompany these selections are vulgar and coarse and the trouble is we can't disassociate them from the melodies."

All this explains how the ragtime composers have a chance to make good. At least they are given a mark to shoot at.

SCREENINGS

T. A. Gadbois of the Carnegie Coal company, is one of the centers of the coal convention, about whom circle many admirers who like to get "Gad," as they call him, "kidding" at high speed. It requires activity in mental work to keep up with him; but last night "the gang" had it on him. And it was all the fault of The Herald. Inadvertently Mr. Gadbois' name had been printed "Badbois," and the other coal men immediately took it up, for said they, it fits the case.

The way to pronounce Mr. Gadbois' name is not the way it is spelled so you see the matter is very simple. You speak as though you were apologetically profane, when, instead of saying right out what you mean you hedge by saying "B'gad boy!" The "g" on his name is silent as it is often wished the noise would be in eating spaghetti.

"Teddy" De Groff, one of the visiting coal men from Minneapolis, formerly lived in Duluth. He deserted this city about ten years ago and aside from attending to his regular business, has been occupying his time ever since in wishing that he were back. Not satisfied with leaving the city himself Mr. De Groff did what Duluthians have never forgiven him for; he married and took away with him one of Duluth's favorite vocalists, she of the rich contralto, Julia Donovan, who has charmed many an audience here.

Harry Guyer of Minneapolis, one of the veterans of the road, is "among those present" and he is very much present. The real value of Mr. Guyer's presence cannot be appreciated for the reason that "Jim" Howard, formerly selling briquettes, is not here to illustrate in detail how Mr. Guyer enters into a conversation with the aid of a jacknife, a plug of the noxious weed, a hastily scratched memorandum on the back of an envelope, and great deliberation, at the same time never uttering a word. But Mr. Guyer is present and has with him said jackknife and the other appurtenances.

Ralph Hammit, who is with the C. W. & V. company, looks the same but he isn't the same however, for he is now a benedict; and it has made a world of difference in him. He played the foxy Felix act on his numerous friends when he got married, but he has been paying for it ever since. Time was when Mr. Hammit traveled in South Dakota and lived at the Kempeska hotel in Watertown, when he was one of "the gang," but now he is staid and irreproachable. He even refuses to tell of his famous fishing trip to Big Stone lake, which almost made history in the coal business.

A. M. Fenton, assistant general freight agent of the Omaha railroad at Minneapolis and W. B. Dixon, general passenger agent for the Milwaukee road at St. Paul are among the visiting railroad men attending the coal dealers meeting.

OPTIMISTIC OVER BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

W. A. Lamson of New York city, dealer in commercial paper, who is at the Spalding attending the state bankers' meeting, recently attended the meetings of the North Dakota and the Wisconsin state bankers, and says that at both conventions he heard nothing but optimism over business conditions. He believes that as soon as the currency and tariff matters are disposed of by congress, the country will see continued presperity in all lines.

Mr. Lamson has been dealing in Northwestern commercial paper for several years, and declares he rarely found conditions in this section better.

SOIL MINING AND FARMING

Wisconsin College Dean Says Production Must Be Increased.

Farmer Getting So Much Advice He Is Growing Suspicious.

"The Banks and the Farmer," was the subject of the address by H. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, at the bankers meeting this afternoon.

"The rising tide of prices that has been in progress for the last decade has caused a country-wide attention to be directed toward the condition of the food producer and his products," said Mr. Russell. "As never before, the farmer (using the term in its broadest sense to include all phases of food production) is being made the recipient of attentions that are unusual for him. It has always been true that the politician, especially prior to election, has lavished upon his rural constituency that degree of forethought which he deemed sufficient to secure the needed support, but broadly speaking the interests of the rural classes have not received the attention, either in the halls of state or in the market place, that the industry warrants.

H. L. RUSSELL.

"But conditions are radically changed today. On all sides, from all sources, the farmer is being showered with advice. On the one hand he is being told how poorly he farms and how well the other fellow does it; how improvident and wasteful he is, how utterly lacking in business foresight and method; how much behind the procession he and his colleagues are. This information is designed to show how 'Mr. Average Farmer' lives, but how superior is the condition of his cousin, 'Mr. Scientific Agriculturist.'

"The facts are that the farmer is being made the recipient of so much attention and from so many sources that it is hard for him to get thoroughly acquainted with all of his new found friends. Formerly when in need he had learned to look to his state experiment station or Federal department of agriculture for succor and help. The more progressive individuals have made use of these tax supported institutions because they have been long established and he feels they are his because his taxes help maintain them; but the average farmers beginning to wonder why so many branches of industry that have heretofore regarded him in a more or less indifferent manner should so suddenly acquire this extreme concern in his affairs. Boards of trade, grain exchanges, mail order houses, manufacturing enterprises, banking concerns, even philanthropic educational institutions, are devoting time, effort, and no small amount of cash to agricultural propaganda.

From Missouri.

"The farmer naturally wants to know the underlying motives that will account for this attention. So often has he been 'farmed' for the benefit of some one else that he is naturally rather inquisitive as to the real reasons of these manifold attentions. This attitude of mind is not at all surprising when one considers the whole problem, for the farmer is an individualist. All that he has has been wrung from the soil by his own unaided efforts. His isolated relationships make him less susceptible to co-operative influence than the city business man, who sees the necessary interdependence of industry. By temperament and environment the farmer is forced to rely on his own efforts. The tendency is therefore to be somewhat suspicious of the motives of those who seem anxious to aid him in his development. Again as a class he does not readily comprehend the modern spirit of social service.

"As industry grows more complex, we become of necessity more interdependent on each other's activities. Our forefathers were nourished, clothed and housed largely from the products of their own farms. Mother spun the wool, father built the house from logs cut on the farm, and the provender, animal as well as vegetable, was in the main grown on the place. But as division of industry has progressed and standards of living have expanded, our interdependence upon each other has become greater.

Community Work.

"Too long have the economic and social force of each community rested on the basis of individual units. The coming decades are going to witness (as the movements of the past few years presage), a wide development of public interest along community lines. No one industry in a community can or should withdraw itself from the remainder of the life of the community and assert to itself the right to consider its own development as the be-all and end-all of existence. The interdependence of all phases of our industrial life upon each other is such that the most thorough and progressive development of the entire community can only come where individually or collectively we are more or less interested in the development of others. Above all does this apply with especial force to the bankers of the country whose success is indissolubly bound up with the welfare of their communities as a whole.

"The development of agriculture onto a broader and more satisfactory basis is going to exert a profound effect upon our entire social fabric. To participate in a movement of this sort, even in small way, must give a sense of satisfaction to one somewhat akin to that which the missionary enjoys in the spread of his gospel and a wide inculcation of such ideas into our body politic is the highest type of progressivelism.

"It is not to be expected that the banker will often stand in a position where he can offer or give actual advice to the farmer as to improved methods of production, but he is in a position where his business ability can be well employed for the benefit of the community at large. In most localities he is usually the most important man of affairs, the man who takes hold of things and makes them go. He occupies generally a position of acknowledged leadership and as such his advice and counsel are more sought after than those of any other business element of the community.

"Here and there individual bankers have had the foresight to undertake various aspects of this work voluntarily, but the last two of three years have seen this movement stimulated by wider organization.

Opportunity for Service.

"Here, then, is an opportunity for public service that will benefit the entire community, for as consumers we must recognize that the activities of the entire public are ultimately dependent upon crop production. Further, we must face the fact that consumption is now outrunning production. With population increasing 21 per cent during the last decade and production only 9 per cent, with free lands practically gone, it means that we face, as a nation, the necessity of organizing a different kind of agriculture. Soil mining is not farming, and the diminishing crop yields in many sections of the country, due to depletion of soil fertility and unchecked spread of parasitic plant diseases, cannot long continue without causing community as well as individual disaster. The wheat fields of the Dakotas two decades ago were as fruitful as the prairies of the Saskatchewan, but continued single cropping as in wheat culture has already cut their yield in two.

"There is sufficient knowledge in existence, if applied, to change the census returns in a few years' time, but the difficulty is to convince with reasonable celerity the great majority of producers that it is to their economic salvation to put such methods into practice. The more progressive farmers are already profiting by the utilization of their common experience, and the results of scientific experiment, but these results impress the average man only gradually.

"What better agency exists through which this co-operation can be carried on than the connection with the local banks? We have only been working a short time at this problem in Wisconsin, but already the results are sufficiently noteworthy so that we feel that much solid advancement has been made.

Rural Credit.

"Just now much attention is being paid to the matter of rural credit. There are those who think we have got to impart some method 'made in Germany' or elsewhere and graft it on to our American conditions before we can take up the question of improved rural finance.

"In several of our northern towns where industrial conditions are changing from lumbering to agriculture, the local banks and business men have developed a home made plan that is being effectively pushed this year. This consists in the banks loaning money at current rates of interest to farmers for the purchase of grade dairy cattle. In some cases the banks have done this on chattel security and in other cases the business interests of the town have guaranteed the loan. At Ashland, a $10,000 guarantee fund was thus provided. The college aided in the purchase of high-grade animals. These were turned over to the farmer by lot at cost, plus shipping expenses. The farmer is to liquidate his loan by payment of $3 per month, or one-half of his monthly cream check.

"These few illustrations only serve to show the possibilities that are open for co-operation between the banking interests and the farmer. Experience will demonstrate how these can be expanded into other lines and made fruitful."

OPTIMISM OOZES FROM BANKERS

Great Crops and Prosperous Times Reported By Visiting Money Lenders—Only Drawback Is the Scarcity of Labor.

Minnesota is enjoying one of its most prosperous years, according to statements made by a number of prominent bankers who are in the city attending the annual state convention. Crops are in fine shape and in spite of a backward spring, corn and other grains are now as far advanced as in former years. Indications, they say point to a bumper crop.

The only drawback they note, is the scarcity of farm labor to help the farmers in gathering in this crop. Laboring men are averse to working on the farms for some reason or other and the majority of those applying for work on the farms are of the roving kind who drift from one place to another.

"Crop conditions are the best in years," said W. E. Parker, of the Merchants National Bank of Wadena. "We are enjoying an influx of a good class of farmers. The land is moving rapidly and only a small part of the soil is not under cultivation. The outlook for a most prosperous year is excellent. Money for handling the crop is plentiful but the only apparent drawback is a scarcity of labor. The harvest in the vicinity of Wadena will commence probably earlier than in many other places thereby giving the farmers an opportunity of getting labor easier than in other sections where the crops are cut later."

"Red Wing and vicinity are enjoying prosperity," said Samuel H. Locken of the First National Bank of Red Wing. "The corn and other grain with the possible exception of barley is better than the average. Red Wing is becoming a big manufacturing center for the southern part of the state and many important manufacturing establishments are looking towards that city for their destination."

Mr. Locken was high in his praises of Duluth, praising the beautiful weather which the bankers are now enjoying. Mrs. Locken is accompanying her husband at the convention.

"A prosperous year for all is what Minnesota is now enjoying," said W. A. Shaw, president of the State Bank of Clearwater. "The farmers will have a good average crop, indications point to a good market, but the only set back is the scarcity of good farm labor. There are too many men drifting about the country, who will only stay two or three days on a farm. These are a real annoyance to the farmer as well as the rest of the community.

"The freight rates charged by the railroads are excessive," said Mr. Shaw. "Under the rates now being charged by the railroads it costs almost as much to send commodities from Clearwater to Minneapolis by rail a distance of sixty miles, as it did in 1860 when it had to be hauled by team. The railroads will have to come down in their charges. They are the real cause of the high cost of living. This was shown last fall when potatoes were rotting in the cellars of many farmers while other parts of the country were starving for want of them. It is also shown every year in the matter of moving fruits from the South to the North Enormous cost of transportation places these commodities at exorbitant prices to the consumer while the producer is receiving starving prices for them."

"The corn crop in the southern part of the state is in excellent condition," said F. E. Wade of the Fairmont National bank of Fairmont. "The spring was backward and many believed that the crop would amount to little but now it is as far advanced as it has ever been at this time of the year. Other small grain is also in excellent condition. Money is plentiful and everything appears to be going along in a very satisfactory manner to not only farmers but merchants."

Mr. Wade is a brother of B. C. Wade, general secretary of the Duluth Young Men's Christian association. He is a guest at the home of his brother while in the city.

D. F. Clark of Rice Lake, Wis., vice president of the State bank of Ladysmith, and also vice president of the Barron County bank of Rice Lake, is one of the visitors at the convention. Mr. Clark said that farming and lumbering was at a prosperous point in the Wisconsin villages and that the paper mills of Ladysmith were giving employment to many men. He stated that the hay crop this year was smaller than usual and that there would probably be a shortage in this commodity, while potatoes and small grains were in a prosperous condition. Money was plentiful but labor slightly scarce.

"Our community is prospering," said P. A. Garbert of the First National bank of Westbrook. "We are having one of the best years in the history of the community. The farmers will have good crops an plenty of money with which to harvest them."

ANTHRACITE ARMY GRINS WHEN CHILL BREEZES BLOW

Coal Dealers Reach for Blankets and Dream of Happy Winter.

Men Who Sell Potential Heat Appear Almost Like Human Beings.

"Old King Coal is a merry old soul,
Though the price be low or high,
There's a song in every ton,
And the gang is here for fun,
Quite a meeting, hello Bill, come on I'll buy."
—From the ballads of a retail coal dealer.

The 300 members of the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers were a happy lot this morning when they tumbled out of bed.

Also the hundred others, salesmen, etc., who make up the rear guard of the great anthracite and bituminous army. For even whil they slept the wind has shifted until it blew right off Lake Superior in all its frigidity. There was a hurried reaching for blankets and comforters and then the visitors quietly slept on dreaming of January and February, the good old harvest time.

That's why the coal men rubbed their hands and chuckled when they arose today. The little touch of winter—it was a real touch to the Nebraska and Iowa contingents—made them think of home and business. And while not one ton was reported sold every retailer here got satisfaction out of thinking of the happier times ahead.

They're a polly lot, these retail coal dealers. Honestly you would doubt that the man you have your regular fight with in the winter (over the telephone) because he promised to have that ton out at 10 o'clock and it was now 2 and the wagon hadn't shown up yet, could be some human. But the coal men have forgotten all about this and are in Duluth simply to make merry. They state unqualifiedly that they picked Duluth to have a good time and they're having it.

There is more handshaking to the square inch in the Spalding lobby these days than at any political convention on record. Everybody seems to know everybody else, but if you don't happen to, why there's the card on the coat,

G. H. RICHARDS,
Of Minneapolis, Secretary of the State Bankers.

"I'm So and So, who are you?" Now what could be fairer than that in a get-acquainted league.

Salesmen Busy.

Salesmen are having a hard time keeping their customers in line. The salesmen, be it known, are the real hosts just now and if the owner of any small yard who is here attending the convention doesn't have a good time, why it's his own fault.

The business session started at 10:30 o'clock at the Commercial club this morning. It was only thirty minutes late in getting under way, but as one wag remarked, that was a habit coal men couldn't overcome even at convention time.

W. B. Banning of Union, Neb., president of the association, made his report in which he urged the support and co-operation of every dealer in the states included in the association.

"The association has done a great many things for the retail dealer during the past year," he said in opening. "A better feeling between wholesaler and retailer has been brought about and we have prosecuted many suits for our members. Our scale department has been active and we have cut down to a large extent the practice of short weighing. Great losses have been done away with through this campaign. We have fought for honest advertising, and the association has declared for a reciprocal demurrage law.

"Our association has battled against mail order houses and altogether our association is the best and has accomplished more than any association of its size in the country. This is a good record at a time when the government has been investigating so many associations for the purpose of learning if they are operated in restraint of trade. For my part I believe there is more political buncombe than sincerity in these probes. Of course, there are some good and some bad associations. Right now I want to state that the actions of the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers' association have always been open to any investigation. Government employes did look into it and found nothing that could call forth criticism."

H. L. Laird, secretary of the association began by saying that in thirteen years the association has grown from 142 members to the place where 3,000 coal yards were represented.

"The principle on which this association was organized must have been right and the necessity present, or we never would have reached this growth," said Secretary Laird. "We have spread the gospel of education among small dealers, imparting to them the knowledge that makes for better business. God help us when the mail order houses have driven out the small coal dealer or any other small merchant in the country towns. During the last few years, 6,000 towns in this country showed a decrease in population. This should never have occurred.

Home Industry.

"So I suggest now that when you go home, start with your mind made up to help the town in which you live. Patronize home merchants and become an active part of the town. Our scale department has been of much use during the past two years except in North Dakota, where we find strong competition. There is a state law there requiring inspection of weighing scales by the sheriff's force in each county, a law by the way founded on the principle of political graft.

"We should have 4,000 members in this association, every one active and the membership campaign should begin at once."

Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, president of John Wanamaker's School of Trade and Applied Science in Philadelphia, spoke on "The Law and Secret of Suggestion in Advertising, Salesmanship and Business Building." He showed the power of suggestion or hypnotism in making sales and his address was listened to with the greatest interest.

These committees were announced:

Nominations—Charles Taylor, Mankato; H. E. Riley, Brookings, S. D.; W. A. Linton, Ottumwa, Iowa; W. D. Campbell, Edgely, N. D.; A. C. Holmquest, Oakland, Neb.

Resolutions—W. F. Gosser, Salina, Kan.; F. C. Potter, Cooperstown, N. D.; F. J. Ward, Clinton, Iowa; J. A. Rockwell, Omaha; H. E. Riley, Brookings, S. D.; L. W. Northfield, Minneapolis.

An invitation was read from the secretary of the board of trade stating that coal dealers would be welcomed on the trading floor during their visit here. This afternoon the visitors went up the river for a steamboat ride.

The order of the Kokoal will have a koruscation this evening. This is a fraternal organization with a membership of 8,000 and limited to men in the coal trade. Several members will be initiated this evening.

FIND THE "LID" IS A REAL ONE

This idea of closing the saloons at 11 o'clock strikes a few of the numerous visitors in the city at present as something unusual and almost intolerable.

It was amusing last night to stand in a well-filled saloon at the fateful hour and see the surprised look that spread over their faces when they found that the closing was a real one. When 11 o'clock came last night, excursions on the lake and bay had returned, shows were out, convention sessions were over and the Spalding bar was packed with a fraternizing crowd.

The hour came and the lights—except one or two on the back bar—were extinguished and the notice was given that the crowd must leave. A lot of the strangers thought that was merely a matter of form, that the doors would be closed and the shades pulled down and then when they wanted to leave they would be quietly slipped out the rear door; so they still inclined against the bar and talked. One of the bartenders leaned over and said:

"Gentlemen, perhaps you think this closing in Duluth is a joke, but let me assure you that it isn't. I'm sorry, but you will have to get out."

Then there was a howl, and when no more drinks could be served they wanted bottles sent up to their rooms, but they had requested too late so they had to be satisfied with aqua pura.

Kewaskum, Wis., Robbery.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 10.—Burglars broke into the safe of the postoffice at Kewaskum yesterday and then stole a team of horses and drove twenty-five miles to this city and escaped. The horses were found here. Whether the thieves obtained any plunder cannot be told until a locksmith can open the safe, which was jammed during their operations.

National Team Owners' Elect.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—The National Team Owners' association in session here yesterday elected the following officers:

President W. H. Fay, Cleveland; vice presidents, A. D. Moore, Kansas City, and Nicholas Ratty, Chicago; secretary, Theodore Gabrilwitz, Philadelphia; treasurer, W. J. McDavitt, Cincinnati.

MOST NUTRITIOUS FOOD SOLD IN DULUTH

To some Duluth women it will be news that "Minnesota" Macaroni, besides being so delicious, is also four times as nutritious as beefsteak and six times as nutritious as potatoes.

"Minnesota" Macaroni contains more proteids than most foods and is therefore more strength giving, and it gives the body great power of endurance without overloading the stomach.

If it is served often in place of meat the whole family will be much healthier. And, besides, it will reduce the cost of living, as "Minnesota" Macaroni costs only about one cent a dish.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JULY 13.

Exodus II, 11-24: Moses Prepared For His Work.

CONNECTION.

He already has fine training, forty years of it, the best any child could have had, vocational training, with the great teacher and master directing it. In those forty years he had his mother's training, with the traditions of their race, its splendid origin and destiny and the stories of their great men, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph and the other heroes; in those years he had the best that Egypt could give at the priestly and educational city of On, where he was taught all the learning of the Egyptians, as Stephen tells us in Acts, astronomy, surveying, mechanics, writing and composition, philosophy, political and military training. He came to be master of all the court culture. After forty years and the acquisition of all this culture and power, surely he is ready. But no, something else is necessary and it will take forty years more to secure it. The lesson tells of it.

THE LESSON.

I.

His Noble Choice. II.

"And it came to pass in those days, when Moses was grown up, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: and he saw an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew, one of his brethren.

Mentally he had agreed to the truths and facts taugh him by his mother. Unconsciously he had been in training for his career. But the culmination of his preparation is to be his choice of it, his experience in attempting it and his reaction to the new elements of his life. At this moment we are concerned with his choice, for that is the pivotal thing. There came a time, when, as the writer of the epistle to the Hebrews says, he chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season." How he announced it we know not. Perhaps he had simply made up his mind to cast in his lot with his own people in some way, never dreaming that he was to be their deliverer. As far as he knew his career was simply to be an Israelite. He had an opportunity before long to show where he stood, when he saw how his people were suffering.

II.

His First Efforts. 12-15.

"And he looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no man, he smote the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand. And he went out the second day, and, behold, two men of the Hebrews were striving together; and he said to him that did the wrong, Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow? And he said, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us? Thinkest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, Surely this thing is known. Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he sought to slay Moses. But Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian; and he sat down by a well."

1. VIOLENCE. When he saw the Egyptian smite a Jew he lost all control of himself and slew him. That was due to inexperience and lack of self-knowledge, as well as to ignorance of God's way and will. That was like the first outbreak of most reformers. There were two results of it he didn't think of—the publicity which it acquired and the rebellion against him on the part of his own brethren. How it got out no one knows. Perhaps some one saw it, some Jew who was watching the struggle, afraid to come to the aid of his countryman, and told the other Jews with delight. Egyptians heard of it, too. This defense of a Jew by a man from the palace would have given all of them pleasure if they had never striven with each other. When he saw two Jews at strife and sought to intervene, one reminded him that he was getting too officious and perhaps meant to kill him as he did the Egyptian. Notice that it was the one who was in the wrong that resented the efforts of the peace-maker.

2. FLIGHT. He fled because he was afraid and he was afraid because he thought everybody knew it. It was a rash act and, of course, reacted on him to produce a panic. His aim in fleeing the country was to escape danger and no doubt to evade responsibility. He felt for them but felt helpless. To get away will not increase their burdens and may lessen them and it will certainly save him from seeing distressing sights which he cannot remedy. He feels sure that being a deliverer was not to be his role. Why he went to Midian he didn't know but we know God was leading thither.

III.

Preparation in Solitude. 16-25.

"Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters, and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock. And the shepherds came and drove them away; but Moses stood up and helped them, and watered their flock. And when they came to Reuel their father, he said, How is it that ye are come so soon today? And they said, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and moreover he drew water for us, and watered the flock. And he said unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread. And Moses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter. And she bare a son, and he called his name Gershom: for he said, I have been a sojourner in a foreign land.

"And it came to pass in the course of those many days, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up unto God by reason of the bondage. And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. And God saw the children of Israel, and God took knowledge of them."

1. DELIVERER.—He must have been born to be a deliverer. He did the gallant thing at the well in taking the part of the seven daughters of the local ruler and enabling them to water their father's flocks first, when the ruffian herdsmen of other men tried to get in ahead of them. There was something kingly and commanding in Moses, and he was so successful this time as to win the gratitude of their father, an invitation to stay there and finally one of the man's daughters as a wife.

2. QUIETUDE.—This was the very place for him to stay till he was ready and the people were ready for him. Both processes of preparation were going on. Midian was just suited for him as it was near enough to Egypt to keep him thinking about his people and to allow of the passing of news to him through the workmen in the turquoise mines; it was very quiet and he could have time for meditation and communion with God; it was near the line of their future march into the promised land and his knowledge of it would be useful then; he was leading a shepherd life, just the thing for the people whom he was to lead as a shepherd; his marriage with a woman there would keep him from becoming restless and wanting to return to his own people till the right time. Forty years he spends there. Paul spent three years in Arabia. Jesus lived a quiet life at Nazareth till He was 30. But the times were growing ripe for his great task. He has grown meek and self-controlled and careful. His rashness is all gone. He is ready for his task; so are his people.

3. DISTRESS.—The conditions have been growing worse in Egypt. Rameses II had died after a brilliant reign of sixty-three years, and his son continued his policy of cruelty. The hope of the people that the son might be less cruel was soon dashed. Their sighs were deeper and more acute. Two things are noted—they cried to God and He regarded them. That meant He would do something for them at once.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

How different his demeanor was in after years, when he had completely submitted to God, and knew himself a whole-souled servant of God. When he bearded Pharaoh and all the wisdom and might of Egypt, there was no more hesitation and no mixed motives, no looking this way and that way. He had learned what every great heart must learn and does learn in the presence of imperious duty that he must follow right whithersoever it lead him. —Hugh Black.

For seventeen years Dr. Sun Yet-Sen, first provisional president of the Chinese republic, was followed from land to land and city to city by hired assassins; spies watched him in every country, and the price of $500,000 was set on his head. He himself firmly believes that he was preserved in answer to prayer and because God had a mission for him to fulfill.—Cowan.

Pertinent Questions.

1. How could Moses be comfortable all those years in the palace when he knew his people were suffering?
2. Is there any other way to learn patience and prudence save by experience?
3. Why is it necessary sometimes for one to have his work interrupted?
4. What blessings did he take to Midian?
5. What are the blessings we are to find in old age.

LID FOR HANCOCK.

Mayor Ojala Announces That All Gambling Must Be Stopped.

Hancock, Mich., July 10.—The anti-gambling lid has been clamped down on Hancock to stay during the remainder of his administration, according to Mayor Abraham Ojala, who is out again after being ill.

He announces that the orders that he issued some time ago regarding gambling in any form must be strictly enforced and carried out. As long as he is mayor, he says, there must be no gambling in Hancock, and the police department must see to it that no gambling in any form whatever is carried on in the city. It must cease now, he says, and for all the time while he continues to be mayor of Hancock.

Mayor Ojala recently instructed the police that they must enforce the laws relative to the closing of saloons, seeing that saloons are closed at 11 every night and this applies to side doors as well as front doors.

The DOCTOR'S HELPS

By DONALD McCASKEY, M. D.

FOR A SORE STOMACH AND CAPRICIOUS APPETITE.

A Pittsburg inquirer, "Mr. J. A. W.," asks:

"Will you please tell me through the Doctor's Helps what is wrong with me and what I shall do for relief? I am under weight. My appeciate is very changeable and frequently I grow sick at the stomach at breakfast time. My stomach feels sore when touched and seems to derive no value from its food. My bowels are either constipated or too loose. At times my appetite is abnormal and I can eat everything in sight. Following one of these abnormal spells my liver and kidneys grow bad, and I urinate large quantities of almost colorless urine. I am now taking 'chiropractic' treatment. This man tells me my third and fourth lumbar vertebrae are slightly misplaced to the left. Also one or two vertebrae between the shoulders are slightly out of line. He says the second vertebrae in my neck needs adjusting also. He has been treating me, but I cannot see or feel any difference in my condition. My back aches as much as ever. The pain in my limbs continues. I have the same headache and now I find that my neck is stiff when I try to turn around to see things. I believe I don't possess enough blood. I have no desire to drink water for it gives me stomach distress, especially cold water. It makes me feel like vomiting. I had typhoid fever, appendicitis and peritonitis several years ago. I hope the waste basket will not receive this earnest inquiry, for I shall much appreciate help. I am clipping out and saving each one of the Doctor's Helps articles."

The main thing wrong with you, my friend, is that you are worrying about yourself and your aches and pains too much. The little mole hill symptoms of your indigestion grow to be large sized mountains in your mind. Things take on too serious an aspect with you. The policy you must school yourself to adopt is "FORGET IT," and, in all seriousness, I advise you to adopt this attitude of mind. It will boost your recuperative powers wonderfully.

You must get a job or adopt a hobby or take hold of something which will compel your mind to be occupied on some other subjects than upon yourself and your internal disorders. This is the first thing. Unconsciously you have permitted your mind to grow depressed, and the outlook looks blue and gloomy to you instead of clear and hopeful.

DO SOMETHING FOR SOMEBODY. Plan your work ahead for the next week. Write down on a sheet of paper each little duty for each hour of the day. Keep a separate sheet of paper for each day. As thoughts occur to you, you will then have room to add more memoranda of things to execute. If I knew exactly what your circumstances were, whereabouts you lived, and what your temperament and personal likes were, I could advise you more in detail. BUT YOU MUST KEEP YOUR MIND OCCUPIED ON HOW TO BECOME A MORE ABLE AND HELPFUL WORKMAN AND A SOCIABLE COMPANION.

Don't talk to a single soul about yourself. Talk about anything else but yourself. I MEAN JUST THAT. IT IS VITAL.

Now as to aiding your internal apparatus. Keep your skin active by taking a bath every other day in the tub. It would do your back, leg and arm muscles a world of good if you would join a nearby Y. M. C. A., and every day do a half an hour's rowing exercise on their rowing machine in the gymnasium. This will stimulate the blood all along your spine, too, and tone up the sympathetic nerves at the points your chiropractic masseur declared there were vertebrae out of alignment.

Procure from your druggist one quart of cold pressed castor oil. Take half a glass of this every three days. Steadily your blood will become purified. Your organs have been much depressed from the accumulated waste and poisonous substances resulting from your overloaded system. Stick to the castor oil treatment for two months. Follow your own common sense as regards eating. Adopt some form of rowing gymnastic exercise daily. Occupy your mind with actual interesting work, and you'll soon obtain relief. Write me in three months.

STATEMENT ON CONCRETE

City Engineer Discusses Its Merits as a Paving Material.

Will Prepare Estimates for Its Use on West Superior Street.

That all phases of the paving question must be taken into consideration before a final selection is made, is the opinion expressed by City Engineer John Wilson in discussing the merits of concrete paving.

The merits of concrete have been discussed since the council passed a resolution ordering the improvement of West Superior street, Jenswold street and Oneota street from Twenty-fifth avenue west to Forty-sixth avenue west. The engineer is now getting out estimates on that material. His estimates for brick approximate $199,000, creosote blocks, $235,000, and sandstone, $246,000.

The engineer says that the first cost of concrete is low; that it can be made almost exclusively of the very best local material and that it is easily repaired. The probable amount of the traffic which would pass over the street is another feature to be taken into consideration. It is certain that whichever route between the central and western parts of the city is first improved will get practically all of the travel.

Engineer's Statement.

The engineer's statement is as follows:

"Some of the points which would commend concrete as a paving material are, that local material can be used almost exclusively in its construction, and fortunately this material is of the very best; the pavement can be easily repaired; it presents almost an ideal surface for motor traffic, and is comparatively low in first cost.

"Some of the objectionable features are: first, that it reflects the light strongly, and is very bad on the eyes of one using the street; second, it is very noisy and hard for horse drawn vehicles; third, unless reinforced it is very liable to crack and wear in spots, presenting a very unsightly appearance.

"Mr. Whiney of New York, in his recent book on paving specifications, says: 'Hydraulic concrete pavement is to be recommended only for country roadways, and for city streets of very moderate travel.' No doubt this is the view held by most paving engineers.

"Of course, there is a great variation of opinion as to what constitutes moderate traffic. I recently went over a concrete pavement in Chicago, on which the traffic for Chicago was very moderate, indeed; but which in Duluth would be considered fairly heavy. This pavement has completely gone to pieces.

"I also went over some of the famous Wayne county (Detroit) roads in Michigan. These roads are sixteen feet in width; and as roads are ideal; but there are many unsightly cracks, which while they do not detract from the usefulness of the roads very much, they would mar very much the appearance of a paved street.

"Mr. Earl, who may be called the father of these roads, is very enthusiastic over concrete, and he told me that while he did not think that concrete could take the place of creosote wood block or brick, on a heavily traveled street, nevertheless in a great many cases if the difference in cost of the two pavements were deposited in a bank bearing 4 per cent interest he would keep the concrete pavement in first class condition without touching the principal. No doubt Mr. Earl is correct in this statement. However, all phases of the question must be taken into consideration before making a final and intelligent selection."

As to Hair Restorers, Dyes and Shampoos

Lillian Russell is not a believer in hair "restorers" or dyes. She believes there isn't anything that will bring hair back to its original color. The only way to make it like its natural color is to dye it, but dyeing makes one look older rather than younger. Besides, it is difficult to keep dyed hair the same shade always.

If gray hairs are beginning to appear one should content herself with doing all she can to prevent more from coming. Stop worrying, and keep the head free from dandruff. Be careful not to wash the head with soaps or shampoo preparations which make much lather, for that means much alkali—which makes dandruff, dries up natural oily secretions and destroys hair life. Simple oatmeal is one of the best things for the washing of the hair. A splendid shampoo may be made by dissolving a teaspoonful of saxined oatmeal compound in a cup of hot water. After a vigorous shampooing with this, rinse thoroughly first with warm then with cold water. Druggists generally have caxined oatmeal compound in stock.

STAPLES TALKS WITH FEDERAL OFFICIALS

Is Arranging State's Work on Valuation of Railroads.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, July 10.—Charles F. Staples of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission is in Washington as a member of the committee of the National Association of State Railroad commissioners to confer with the interstate commerce commission about representation before the Federal physical valuation board.

"We will offer the commission our co-operation in the work of fixing the physical valuation of railroads," said Commissioner Staples today. "The states are vitally interested in this question, as the law under which the valuation is being made requires that the valuation shall be fixed not only by entire roads, but by states. Many of the state commissions have made valuations of the railroad properties under their jurisdiction, and we believe we can be of material assistance to the Federal board in its work. We also want to be placed on the same footing as the railroads, which have a committee already organized to submit data to the valuation board."

Commissioner Staples has already discussed the question of state commission representation with members of the interstate commerce commission, who have approved it heartily. The Minnesota commissioner said that the expense of state representation would be made by contributions from the various state commissions, according to their means and their interest in the work of the Federal board.

EXPECT 500,000 TO WORK ON ROADS.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 10.—Supplementing an announcement that he would set apart two days next month for the working of roads by citizens throughout the state, Governor Major said he also would call upon various county courts to advise road overseers as to proper preparations for handling the thousands of volunteer road workers he expects to answer his call. The governor said he expected at least 500,000 men and boys to work. He said he expected to get out himself and work with pick and shovel, and would urge every state and county official to do likewise.

TRUST HEARING IS MOVED WESTWARD.

Chicago, July 10.—Hearings in the government's anti-trust suit against the so-called lumber trust, ended late yesterday. Clark McKercher, assistant attorney general, conducted the hearings and left for Kansas City, Mo., where sessions will be held Friday and Saturday. A series of hearings will be held in other Western cities and the attorney will return here July 28 and examination of rebuttal witnesses for the government will be begun.

MUST BE PUNISHED.

North Dakotan Who Made Up Embezzlement Has to Go to Prison.

Lakota, N. D., July 10.—Although he had made good a shortage of $2,700 which was incurred while acting as agent for a grain elevator company at Petersburg, N. D., Sivrel Hogstad must serve one year in the state penitentiary at Bismarck. He pleaded guilty in district court yesterday and was sentenced by Judge Cooley. The penalty was the lightest that could be imposed under the state laws.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND IS TAKEN TO IONA.

Houghton, Mich., July 10.—The Iona insane asylum officials have finally decided to take care of Mrs. Kuusisto, who killed her husband, Sheriff Cruse and a woman attendant took her there this week.

Mrs. Kuusisto's crime was one of the most sensational in the criminal annals of Houghton county. After one unsuccessful attempt to kill her husband by hitting him on the head with an ax while he was sleeping, she accomplished her purpose on the second attempt, using the same means.

Home Baking Reduces Cost of Living

THE U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in Experiment Station Bulletin No. 142 says that ten cents worth of wheat supplies almost three times as much protein and ten times as much energy as round steak, and with some other cuts of meat the difference is even greater.

If then, one really desires to reduce her weekly meat and grocery bills, she need only make more use of her oven.

Who ever heard man, woman or child complain that good home-made biscuits, muffins, cake and cookies appeared on the table too often? Instead the tendency is "to make a meal of them" and the variety is so great that something you bake yourself could well be the chief feature of every meal.

Home Baking is Simplified by the Use of K C Baking Powder

With K C, you can make things moist and rich yet have them light and feathery, wholesome and digestible. Biscuits may be mixed the night before and baked fresh for breakfast. Muffins need not be dry and heavy. You can make a cake so light that you can hardly get it out of the pan whole, yet it will not fall.

K C is not like the old fashioned baking powders. It is double acting and continues to give off leavening gas until the dough is cooked through. K C is sold at a fair price—a large can for 25 cents. This would be no object if strength and purity were sacrificed, but every can is fully guaranteed under State and National Pure Food laws and to please. We take all the chances. Your money back if you do not get better results with K C than any baking powder you ever used.

Include a can in your next grocery order, try some of the new recipes that appear in this paper from time to time. Then you will have gone far toward solving this vexing "Cost of Living" problem.

Woman's Realm

One of the season's pretty weddings took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Frick, 2231 East Second street when their daughter, Virginia, became the bride of Howard G. Manley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Manley of this city.

To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by an orchestra, the bridal party entered the flower-trimmed living room and proceeded to an improvised altar of palms, pink roses and Easter lilies lighted with high cathedral candles, through an aisle formed with white satin ribbons held by Duncan Frick and Russell Duncan, ribbon bearers.

Following the ribbon bearers were the bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Florada and Miss Emelyn McDougall, in frocks of pink crepe de chene with over dresses of lace, and they carried arm bouquets of pink roses. Miss Mary Frick as maid of honor was next in line. Her gown was of pink charmeuse and her bouquet of pink roses and for-get-me-nots.

The bride entered on the arm of her father and was met at the altar by Mr. Manley and his best man, Eben Spencer. The bride wore a gown of white satin with long veil caught with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held at which Mr. and Mrs. Frick and Mr. and Mrs. Manley received with the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. C. A. Duncan and Mrs. F. A. Brewer presided in the dining room, assisted by Misses Dorothy Moore, Virginia Moore, Gertrude Hegardt, Maren Mendenhall and Louise Frick.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley left for a wedding trip and will be at home after Oct. 1 at 2224 East Fourth street.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

A Timely Warning About Hot Weather Food.

At this season periodic warnings are in order, and we are flooded with hot weather don'ts until we are fairly bewildered about what we should do—that is, if we pay attention to them all.

For my part, I always make it a rule, in the heated season, to limit my activities as much as possible, and still to keep fairly busy, eat lightly, refuse to worry or become excited, take moderate exercise and try to refrain from thinking that it is hot.

Many of these hot weather warnings appeal to me as being foolish, and I think the best plan is to use common sense and follow some such program as I have outlined above. But a warning just issued by the United States department of agriculture, coming, as it does, from the highest official health authority in the country, is well worthy of attention, and should be heeded.

This statement says that the housewife should, at this season, make full use of her nose and eyes to protect the stomachs of the family. "If any article has any suspicion of an unusual odor, or looks abnormal, it should be avoided," the statement says. "People eating in doubtful restaurants should be particularly careful about meats or fish cooked with a highly spiced or aromatic sauce which might disguise a bad taste or warning odor. A mother, before she allows her child to eat anything, should examine it carefully in a good light, smell it and finally taste it."

The statement urges extreme care about milk, which deteriorates rapidly under summer heat; advises that all food be kept covered or wrapped from air and flies and declares that uncooked foods should generally be avoided.

Most of the ills that flesh is heir to, of course, come from the stomach; and this is especially true in the summer. The sensible thing to do is to avoid the use of fresh meats, and curtail the eating of all meats during this period. The fruit and vegetable diet is best.

The housewife who exercises extreme care, and uses the senses of smell and taste to the limit, before passing food for the family table, can be a good angel to all dependent upon her. Especially should the mother be careful about the milk she gives to her baby or young children.

VALUE OF CLASS WORK AND SPECIALIZING IN TEACHING DISCUSSED AT CONVENTION OF MUSIC TEACHERS OF STATE

The whole spirit of the convention of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association which is in convention here this week, with headquarters at the Spalding hotel, seems to be for cooperation, and emphasis on the value of team work and class work.

"The dominant note at all the meetings" said one of the prominent musicians this morning, "is the good in class work. Most of the teachers seem to feel that pupils can get a great deal from each other and many who have been doing class work say that they have most satisfying results."

Miss Josephine Carey of Duluth read a paper on "Shall the Piano Teacher Be a Specialist?" at the piano round table which was the feature for this morning, with Miss Emily Grace Kay, chairman. Miss Carey said that she felt more could be accomplished by specialists, suggesting the advisability of sending pupils to two or three teachers for different phases of the work. "Let one teach technique, another interpretation, etc." she said, "and then the child might take class work from still another teacher."

G. A. Thornton of St. Paul also read a paper on the Art of Song Accompaniment and its Attainment," which was roundly applauded and which caused considerable discussion.

"The Art of Piano Accompaniment," he said, "has only within the last few years obtained the recognition which it deserves. The man or woman who can play a good accompaniment is an artist and far more rare than the piano soloist. In the three principal cities of the state you can find twenty good soloists to one good accompanist."

Qualifications.

Mr. Thornton gave seven qualifications of a good accompanist including a knowledge of the rudiments of music, technique and touch; sightreading; ability to sink one's own individuality ("self-effacement"); ability to transpose; an intuitive knowledge of what the singer is going to do as regards rallentandos, accelerandos, etc. and good taste.

Mr. Thornton emphasized the necessity of self-effacement as the greatest quality for success in accompaniments.

In the discussion which followed several speakers claimed that the accompaniment is as much a part of the whole as the song itself is and that the word accompaniment is obsolete.

Automobile Ride.

An automobile ride around the boulevard and through the city was given the delegates following the piano round table and ended at the Smith & Allen company's store, where a buffet luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock.

This afternoon's session opened with the violin round table at 1:45, with William MacPhail in charge. The chief topic for this meeting was "The Place of Chamber Music in the Violin Curriculum."

A concert by state musicians was given this afternoon, the following program being given:

Four serious songs ..... Brahms
Harry Phillips.
Intermezzo, Op. 117, No. 2 ... Brahms
Rhapsodie, Op. 119, No. 4 ... Brahms
Wilma Anderson-Gilman.
"La Circa" ..... Ponchielli
"Er Der Herrlichste von Allen" .....
..... Schumann
"Songs My Mother Taught Me" .. Dvorak
Mme. Katherine Von Ewertsen.
Fantaisie, Op. 49 ..... Chopin
Wilma Andersen-Gilman.
Liebeslieder Walzer, Op. 52 ... Brahms
For pianoforte duet and mixed quartet—Margaret Gilmor MacPhail and Helga Olsen, pianists; Martha Cook, soprano; Eleanor Nesbitt Poehler, contralto; J. Austin Williams, tenor; Harry Phillips, bass.

This evening the concert will be given by the Maximilian Dick-Krieger trio consisting of Maximilian Dick, violinist; Edith Adams Dick, violoncello, and Franklyn W. Krieger, pianoforte. Mme. Genevra Johnstone-Bishop, was to have appeared at this concert, was unable to arrive.

This evening's program follows:

"Trio in D Minor" ..... Arensky
Allegro moderato .....
Scherzo—Allegro molto.....
Elegia—Adagio .....
Finale—Allegro non troppo.....
Aria—"Pace Mio Dio" from "La Forza del Destino" ..... Verdi

"Sweet Lei Lehua" .....
"Kuo Paul Paoakalani" .....
"In Dear Hawaii" .....
"Farewell to the Desert," Egyptian song ..... Adams
Trio—"Waizermaerchen" ..... Schuett
Allegro moderato .....
Allegretto .....
Allegro Vivace .....

Public School Music.

Yesterday afternoon's meetings were full of interest to those who attend. The first was the public school music section led by Mrs. Agnes Fryberger of Minneapolis who pointed out the development of the physical, mental and emotional sides of children through the public school training and brought out the importance of the work in music in the schools. The public school music workers spoke with a broad view of the pedagogy of music and also emphasized the value of class work. Mrs. Fryberger urged a closer affiliation between public school supervisors of music and the music loving public believing that the work could be improved by their co-operation.

T. P. Giddings urged the giving of the best in music and the big things in high school work telling of success he has had with oratorios and operas in high school work in the state. Mr. Giddings is supervisor of music in the Minneapolis public schools.

Others who took part in the discussion and who added important points were Hamlin Hunt, J. Austin Williams, Otto Myers and Miss Elizabeth Fisher.

Duluth Concert.

Duluth artists gave the first of the concerts of the convention yesterday afternoon to an enthusiastic audience which received every number with warm applause.

The opening number was the Grieg sonata in C major for piano and violin played by Miss Mabel Woodworth, violinist and Miss Alice Mae Brown pianist. Both artists played with unity and musicianly understanding bringing out the work with judgment and pleasing coloring. Miss Woodworth appeared in concert for the first time in Duluth filling the part to have been played by Miss Wally Heymar who was unable to play on account of illness.

Miss Mary Sayer Bradshaw was heard in a group of four songs which included "Out of the Night," a song composed by Ernest Lachmund of this city. Her interpretation of all of her numbers was most satisfying and pleasing, the dramatic quality of her work being especially good. The song by the Duluth composer was received with special enthusiasm. Miss Carlotta Simonds played her accompaniments artistically.

Miss Faith Helen Rogers in the big Liszt Concerto in E flat with Mrs. John A. Stephenson at the second piano, marked the climax of the program, the interpretation being masterly and finished. Miss Rogers played with an appreciation of the composer's mood, her work in the lighter ornamentation being especially charming with its buoyancy and delicacy. The heavier movements were equally as well done though perhaps less appealing. Miss Rogers has a decidedly dramatic quality in her work, and she worked up the piece to a splendid climax.

Mrs. Stephenson sustained the solo work with the orchestral part on the second piano with fine sympathy and artistic understanding, the two artists playing with fine unanimity.

Mrs. Donna Riblette Flateen sang Wagner's "Senta's Aria" from "The Flying Dutchman" with her usual grace and sweetness. The number was particularly adapted to her voice and she brought out the work in fine style.

Miss Berta Vera Schmied gave a pleasing number, "The Selfish Giant," a poem by Oscar Wilde with incidental music by Liza Lehmann which was unusual and effective.

Reception and Stunts.

Last evening a reception served for the social affair of the day, the guests being received by Miss Mabel Fulton, Heinrich Hoevel, president of the association, Mrs. Charles H. Budd, Donald N. Ferguson, Mrs. Gustav Flaaten, and Mrs. Donna Riblette Flaaten. Palms and large clusters of pink and white peonies were effectively arranged about the ball room, and during the evening a program of stunts was given which proved entertaining.

Mrs. Stocker's boy singers in Indian costume sang a delightful little Indian song, and Master Louis Gomberg who is a pupil of Mrs. D. H. Day was introduced as the mascot of the convention, and he played a group of Czerny studies which delighted the audience. Miss Marguerite McDonald accompanied by Miss Margaret Whipple impersonated a French prima donna with cleverness and an original sketch written by Dr. David Henry Day, "The Music Lesson," brought out the trials of the music teacher with realistic effect. Dr. Day as the German professor took the leading part.

The Normanna Male chorus under the direction of Jens Flaaten, sand and was encored again and again.

FRANKLYN KREIGER,
Of St. Paul, Pianist.

HARRY PHILLIPS,
Of Minneapolis, Baritone.

COST OF PRODUCING MILK

The United States department of agriculture gives the data on the cost of milk production obtained at New Jersey experiment stations in experiments with thirty-one head of milch cows, mostly grade Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys and Ayrshires, fed both home-grown and purchased feeds, the calculations of cost of production being based both on the actual cost of growing the crops fed and on the market prices of the products used. The feeds used consisted of soiling crops of different kinds, corn silage, mixed hay, oat and pea hay, alfalfa hay, corn stover, beet pulp, distillers' grains, wheat bran and oil meal. The average cost of feed per cow per year (based on the actual cost of producing the crops used) was $95.73, or 2.4 cents per quart of milk produced. Placing the market valuation upon the home-grown products, the cost of feed per cow per year was $121.60, or 3.04 cents per quart. The estimated average cost of labor (but not supervision) and incidental expenses was $70.22 per cow per year, or 1.76 cents per quart. The incidental expenses included bedding, stabling ($5 per cow), interest on the investment in the animals, depreciation in the value of cows, keep of bull, etc., but not interest on land, buildings, and dairy equipment.

Based on actual cost of growing and harvesting products consumed and of labor, the total cost for feed, labor, etc., for the year was $165.95 per cow; based on market valuation of feed consumed, $191.52. The yield of thirty-one cows averaging 8,661 pounds of 3.96 per cent milk, the total cost per quart of milk will be in the first case 4.16 cents, in the second case 4.8 cents. No credit, however, is given the cow for the manure or calf, neither is the farmer's time charged for. Calculating the manure worth $20 per cow, and the grade calves $6 each at five days old, the cost of producing 4 per cent milk even with the high yields reported, and not including cost of supervision, was approximately 4 cents per quart.

WOMEN OF BERLIN ANGRY.

New York Tribune: The police of Berlin have stahted an active campaign against the latest fashion in women's hats. Recently all protruding hatpins were ordered to be guarded with safety knobs. Now the authorities will prohibit the wearing of all ornaments, feathered or otherwise, sticking beyond the rim of the hat, which are made stiff by wiring or other artificial means.

The police action has been taken as the result of many complaints from men sufferers. In one case a man's eye was badly injured while he was "strap-hanging" behind a woman who was wearing a wired feather projecting horizontally.

ADDRESSES AND REPORTS OF TODAY'S SESSIONS OF MINNESOTA BANKERS' CONVENTION

CURRENCY BILL IS THEME OF ADDRESS BY REYNOLDS

Chicago Banker Realizes Necessity of Legislation at This Time.

Offers Some Constructive Criticism of the Proposed Bill.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, delivered one of the most important talks of the convention at the morning session of the bankers this morning, talking on the currency bill. He disapproved of some features of the bill but urged the need of some legislation. He spoke in part as follows:

"Recognizing as I do that the need for early currency legislation is imperative, it is with conflicting emotions that I undertake a public discussion of the administration currency bill.

"While I hope for the earliest possible enactment of a good currency law, still, my great desire in this respect cannot, and I feel should not, stifle my convictions as to the soundness and probable efficiency of the plan covered by the bill which has been introduced.

"I do not want to criticise the legislative measure offered for enactment into a law simply for the sake of opposing the plan embodied in that measure, but, rather, I want to be clearly understood as being willing to waive all petty and technical objections to the plan, in the hope that discussion and analysis of it may result in its modification to the extent that it will conform as nearly as possible to the legitimate and pressing needs of the business of the country, and at the same time be fair to the banks and also assure a just and equitable treatment of the public when the new plan is put into operation.

"I am well aware that the enactment of legislation is very largely the result of the application of a 'give and take' policy, for there are so many in congress whose views must be considered that any bill finally passed must, to some extent, be a compromise bill, and I have long since abandoned the hope of securing such legislation as I, or any other individual, might regard as ideal.

"Inasmuch as no one individual can possibly know all upon this or any other subject, it is to be presumed that a consensus of opinion of many should represent greater wisdom than the opinion of one. However, to make this literally true, the consensus of opinion of the many must be the result of a broad-gauged and open-minded consideration of the subject, free from all prejudice and preconceived notions, so that their conclusions will reflect equity and justice in all their ramifications.

President's Sincerity.

"As a result of personal interviews with President Wilson and his administration heads who have been charged with the responsibility of preparing a currency bill, I have been impressed it is the earnest desire of all concerned to devise the best plan which it may be possible to enact into a law. Therefore, I believe they will welcome constructive criticism of the bill, for I feel that they, too, will recognize the wisdom of accepting the consensus of opinion of the many rather than to rely upon the knowledge or belief of but a smaller number.

Bill Is Explained.

"The bill is intended to provide for a system of banking and currency in the United States which, while it will give a greater elasticity in our credit and banknote issues, shall also protect our organization of credit and give stability to our business. It is sought to bring this about through a provision for the establishment of twelve Federal reserve banks, one each in twelve important commercial cities so geographically located as to be best calculated to serve the needs of all sections of the country.

"It is proposed these Federal reserve banks shall be organized by means of having the banks, both national and state, of any one district subscribe to the stock of the Federal reserve bank of that district to the extent of 20 per cent of the capital of the subscribing bank, one-half, or 10 per cent, of which is to be paid in cash, the balance to stand as a liability against the subscribing bank. The amount of capital of any Federal reserve bank would, therefore, depend upon the number of subscribing banks in any district and the amount of their capital. It is stipulated, however, that no reserve bank shall start with a paid-up capital of less than $5,000,000.

"Thus it will be seen that to establish a Federal reserve bank in any region, the banks in that region subscribing to its capital stock would necessarily have to have a capital aggregating $50,000,000; they might have more, with the result that the Federal reserve bank would have as much larger capital than $5,000,000 as 10 per cent of the aggregate capital of all member banks would exceed $50,000,000.

"The provision made for allowing member banks to discount commercial paper is satisfactory, except that the bill does not limit the amount of rediscount to which any one bank shall be entitled. I think this should be modified to make the limit of rediscounts for any member bank an amount equal to its capital. Otherwise the door will be open for inflation.

Four Drawbacks.

"Assuming that you have read and are somewhat familiar with the bill, and appreciating I could not in the short time allotted to me undertake an exhaustive discussion of its details, I ask your kind indulgence while I call your attention to and discuss briefly four sections of the bill which I regard as comprising its most important special features.

"Placed in the order of their importance from the standpoint of principle as well as in their practical effect, should they be adopted, I would group the sections as follows:

"(1) The one providing for the organization of the Federal reserve board;

"(2) That relating to the proposed treatment of the national bank United States bond secured notes;

"(3) The note issues;

"(4) The reserves.

"Believing that in the interest of the public welfare the government should exercise a certain supervision or control over the new system, in a regulatory way, the framers of the bill have provided in it for the creation of a Federal reserve board of seven members, which will include the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture and the comptroller of the currency respectively, the four additional to be appointed by the president of the United States.

"Inasmuch as the three first named would be members of the president's official family, receiving their office through appointment by him, it will be seen that the entire Federal reserve board would be appointees of the president; and since by the terms of the bill itself not more than of the directors appointed to serve on that board must be a banker of wide experience, thereby prohibiting the sole owners of the stock from the right of representation, in fact excluding them from any participation in the deliberations of the board, bankers, business men and thinking people generally, regard this prohibition as most revolutionary in character and calculated to place our whole system of banking under the domination and control of a purely political board.

GEORGE M. REYNOLDS,
President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago.

"I do not believe the administration seeks any such powers, therefore, in the interest of the passage of the bill, let it be so modified as to restrict the powers of the board to those that are purely regulatory, defining fully just what power is vested in the board rather than to leave the extent of its activity more or less an open question.

Bond Secured Notes.

"The bill as it was introduced provided for treatment of the National-Bank United States bond-secured notes by giving the national banks the right to present to the secretary of the treasury in any one year 5 per cent, of the 2 per cent United States bonds now owned by national banks and held by the treasury department to secure their circulating notes now outstanding and receive in lieu thereof an equal amount of 3 per cent United States bonds due after twenty years, the latter to carry no circulation privileges.

"In practice, this would result in having national banks reduce their circulation at the rate of 5 per cent per annum for twenty years, at the end of which time all national bank notes would be fully retired from circulation.

"The original so-called 'Official' bill did not give consideration to our national bank notes, the section covering them having been dropped from the tentative bill made public two or three days prior to the time the official bill was given out, but after a discussion of the matter with the committee of bankers, those in authority reincorporated it in the bill.

"We recommended that either the section be reincorporated as it had been, or, preferably, that the government should actually retire 5 per cent or approximately, $35,000,000 per year of the United States 2 per cent bonds—in that way likewise retiring the national bank notes in twenty years.

"This recommendation was made for the reason that we felt there might be less political opposition to the policy of paying off the government 2 per cent bond debt at the rate of $35,000,000 per year than there would be if the government were to increase the rate of interest on the $700,000,000 of such bonds.

"However, this feature of the plan as proposed is fairly satisfactory to bankers even though it does not insure them against possible ultimate loss on the investment in 2 per cent bonds, the main advantage of the low rate of which has been in the favor of the government, but I think the 3 per cent bonds to be issued without the circulation privilege, in exchange for the 2s with that privilege, should have a definite maturity, of, say, twenty years from the date upon which they would be issued.

"When it is borne in mind that the government has been the principal beneficiary as a result of the low rate of interest at which those bonds have been floated, because of their required use by national banks as security for their circulating notes, thereby enabling the government to save millions of dollars of interest annually, I think all fair-minded people will feel that there is an obligation on the part of the government to protect the banks against loss on the bonds so held.

Treasury Notes.

"The bill also provides for an issue of Federal reserve treasury notes not to exceed $500,000,000, and in addition thereto a sum equal to the difference between the total amount of national bank notes outstanding at any given time and the amount of such notes outstanding at the time of the passage of the bill.

"It also provides that these notes shall purport on their faces to be the obligations of the United States and shall be issued at the discretion of the Federal Reserve board and solely for the purpose of making advances to Federal reserve banks. It provides that they shall be receivable for all taxes, customs, and other public dues, and shall be redeemed in gold, on demand at the treasury department in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, or at any Federal reserve bank:

"Believing that the bank-note issue, as proposed in the bill, is neither sound nor scientific from the standpoint of modern banking, the committee of bankers who called upon the president suggested an entire change in the manner of issue and a somewhat different method of securing these notes. We held that the government should not guarantee nor undertake the responsibility of the redemption of the notes issued, for since they would, even under the plan proposed in the bill, be abundantly secured, it seemed to us entirely unnecessary that they should bear the promise of the government to redeem them in gold; especially so, since under the proposed plan the real burden and responsibility of maintaining the necessary gold reserve against them is placed upon the Federal Reserve banks. Our reasons for this were based upon the theory that it would be putting an unnecessary responsibility and burden upon the government and one which might cause embarrassment.

"If the notes were the obligation of the Federal Reserve banks alone, and properly secured, any emergency which could possibly cause a default in the payment of gold would not affect the credit of the government and would leave it free and unhampered to use its influence and prestige to bring about stability, whereas if the promise of the government to redeem these notes in gold should be linked with that of the Federal Reserve banks and a default should occur neither would be free to assist the other.

In Case of War.

"In case of war with a foreign nation making it necessary for the government to use its credit freely, its guarantee of the payment of these notes in gold would, no doubt, impair its ability to borrow on the most advantageous basis, and it would at the same time, through so materially increasing its obligations, cause more or less apprehension concerning such outstanding notes; and if a condition should be created through which the public would doubt the ability of the government to pay gold against these notes, gold would be hoarded and the notes would depreciate in value. Furthermore than this, the manner in which they must be gotten into circulation is unscientific and would have a tendency for inflation, for any plan which does not force immediate automatic redemption of a bank note, once it has served its purpose, is built upon a wrong premise.

Notes Not Money.

"Much confusion regarding bank notes is created through the fact that many regard them as money. This is a fallacy, for nothing could be further from the truth; they are, in fact, only instruments of credit given such form that the public will know they are secured and are generally accepted as a circulating medium; they perform the same functions as a check, and if they are effective and are outstanding only to the extent of the requirements of business, they, like checks, should be cancelled when paid.

"Instead of the plan as proposed in the bill, we recommended, that the notes should be issued by the Federal Reserve banks, each note to be similar in appearance, but that each should bear upon its face the number of the issuing bank. We proposed to make it the duty of one Federal Reserve bank to daily charge to the account of, cancel and send to each of the other Federal Reserve banks, notes received by it in any day's business. Thus, bank No. 1 would daily cancel and send to the other eleven Federal Reserve banks all their notes received that day, and the other eleven banks would in like manner charge to the account of, cancel and send to Federal Reserve bank No. 1 all of its notes received by them in any one day. In this manner there would be a constant, automatic redemption of notes outstanding, and no more notes could be kept out than the exact amount necessary for the transaction of our business.

"The fact that the National-Bank United-States bond secured notes have been so rigid and not at all elastic has caused many to become confused into regarding them as money rather than instruments of credit, and the inelasticity of the notes has caused us to experience alternating seasons of stringency or redundancy in our currency, depending upon conditions in business and the state of public confidence.

Redistribute Reserves.

"A careful study of the bill will disclose the fact that the purpose of those who prepared it is to redistribute current bank reserves, returning them to the section of the country from whence they came. It will, of course, be apparent that this, interpreted, means a desire to decentralize the reserves now held in the centers. Why this should be done or what good is to be accomplished by it I do not know, but I have reason to believe it has as its basis a desire to stifle speculation and, more specifically, to prevent the flow of money to New York to be loaned in stock exchange transactions. It may be possible that to pass a law determining the question of where and how bank reserves are to be carried will change human nature, but I do not believe it.

"Speculation will exist so long as the desire for gain is inborn in the human race, and since business is a means through which gain is sought, speculation will exist as long as business exists; all the legislation in Christendom cannot stop it. You may try to regulate it by attempting to regulate the business which is most inclined to breed speculation, but destroy it, never.

"I contend this drastic and wholesale shifting of reserves from the natural centers where the requirements of business has caused them to flow automatically, will disturb business and greatly impair the ability of the public to secure credit accommodations.

Fair Play Wanted.

"All I ask is that public opinion shall not place the sins of others on the heads of reputable bankers. Hold all guilty of wrongdoing to a strict accountability of their actions, and when the public is thought to be outraged by the action of some man, firm or corporation, make your criticisms against the guilty ones and not against the class to which they belong or to which they would have you believe they belong. There should be no indiscriminate class criticism, but if criticism must be made let it be directed against the wrongdoer.

"I fear that such prejudice against bankers as has been created exists as the result of confusing the banking business with stock exchange transactions conducted by such men as I have referred to; and, in deference to justice I believe all fair-minded people will agree that if the 25,000 or more officers of the 28,000 banks of the country should not be held to an accountability for the actions of some individual, whether or not such an individual is or claims to be a member of their class.

"Again, I say, provide for a banking and currency system in the United States which will create a broad market for commercial paper and bills of exchange and which will attract the excess money of the banks of the country through providing liquid investments which are quickly convertible into cash, and you will soon correct most of the alleged abuses of the use of money and credit in the centers.

"Now, gentlemen, as I stated in the beginning, I am not making these criticisms, of and comments on the bill for the mere sake of being contentious, but rather I do so in the hope that open-minded consideration of the bill by those who are sincerely interested in the public welfare may result in causing some changes and modifications to be made which will make the plan more workable in the event the bill should be enacted into a law.

"This bill, as it stands, is a compromise between the conservative and radical members of the Democratic party, and since it has many good qualities it would require the application of only a little more of the spirit of compromise and co-operation between the legislators and the bankers of the country to make it fairly acceptable to all.

Legislation Is Needed.

"I do not desire to see legislation defeated, for I regard the necessities for an improved system of banking and currency as already too urgent.

"In view of the answers received by the New York Times to questions on this subject sent to banks, I am confident quite a percentage of the national banks will I not become subscribers; especially do I feel the small banks throughout the country will decline to do so, and I cannot conceive how any system of banking can be entirely successful if there cannot be harmony of purpose and action between the 25,000 banks and those controlling the system into which they must enter.

Changes Needed.

"Summarizing, I would recommend the following changes as a means of bringing the plan to a much more workable, as well as a more equitable basis.

"Provide for representation of banks on the Federal reserve board or for the organization of an advisory board composed of one selected by each Federal reserve bank, thus bringing into daily contact with the members of the Federal reserve board men who would be familiar with the banking business and agricultural conditions in each section of the country, thereby insuring a more intelligent discharge of their duties so far as their actions would affect business in the various sections.

"Modify the section relating to reserves, by providing that until the plan has been fully tried out, one-third of the reserves that banks in country towns and in reserve cities are required to carry may be carried with reserve correspondents as is now done under the national banking law, leaving the requirement that banks in central reserve cities must carry 20 per cent reserves, one-half of which must be in their vaults and one-half to their credit in the Federal reserve bank.

"This would, as I have already stated, decentralize reserves in the centers over one-half and would be much less liable to disturb general business than the drastic and revolutionary shifting of reserves now provided for in the bill.

"Later on, say five years after the plan has been in operation, any further shifting of reserves of the banks found to be necessary or desirable could be effected without taking that risk of disturbing business that might follow if the plan proposed is now enforced.

"I would also recommend a change in the plan for the issuing of notes. While I think it much preferable that the Federal reserve bank should issue the notes, yet, knowing as I do, how determined in their opinion are many who are powerful in the Democratic party, that the government should issue the notes, I am willing, in view of the fact the notes are abundantly secured, to yield that point, but even then, the limit of the amount that can be issued should be removed and the tax, instead of being on the notes when issued, should be levied only when the Federal reserve bank issuing them should fail to maintain a proper reserve of gold against its liabilities.

"I cannot feel that the administration has a full conception of the ramifications of the power the bill vests in the Federal reserve board, and I hope that in their desire to enact the best possible legislation they will clearly see the necessity for modifying the bill in two or three sections with a view of so harmonizing the situation that the banks not only will be willing to enter the system, but that they will do so enthusiastically, and on that co-operative basis so necessary for the success of the plan and the future welfare of our country."

SETTING ITS HOUSE IN ORDER

New Era Has Dawned in Minnesota, Says Frank W. Murphy.

People Have New Ideals—Duluth "The Venice of North America."

"The Elements and Results in Minnesota's Agricultural Development," was the subject of the address by Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, before the afternoon session of the bankers. Mr. Murphy is president of the West Central Development association and spoke in part as follows:

"The people of Minnesota have entered upon the performance of a labor of love, the 'setting of their house in order.' In recent years the citizenship of this great state has returned against itself many serious indictments charging inefficiency, to which a plea of guilty has been entered. To remedy these conditions we are witnessing the dawning of an era of advancement and development along all lines.

"Minnesota has many complex problems requiring solution. Her public-spirited citizens are not content to merely play the part of the guide-board at the four corners, always pointing the way to go and never going there, but realize that the spirit of the present is service and individual efficiency.

"Back of this great development work are ideas and ideals. A paramount idea was that in Minnesota are boundless possibilities and stupendous unsolved problems. In Northern Minnesota lies an empire of unsettled lands, rich mineral resources. In Southern and Western Minnesota are vast areas of land which have been abused for years by a system of single cropping to such an extent that many of the elements necessary for the production of plant life are near exhaustion; that approximately three-fifths of the area of the state suitable for agriculture is not under cultivation; that while enough scientific knowledge was in cold storage in the agricultural colleges of the country and in the minds of the more progressive farmers of the state to, if properly used and systematically applied would revolutionize the farm practice and social conditions of the state, it was not being used—it was not reaching those who needed it; that Minnesota, rich in natural resources, with a soil conceded to be naturally as fertile as any on the continent, filled with beautiful lakes, woods and prairies, with a climate famous for its bracing ozone-laden air, with a population energetic and high in average intelligence, this great state outside of the large cities was not making satisfactory progress; that though we had possibilities unequalled on this continent, that through lack of appreciation of what nature had done for us, of what we ourselves might do, existing conditions were fast becoming intolerable.

Tide of Immigration.

"The tide of immigration was rolling over Minnesota into the Far West and Canada. The yields on Minnesota farms, instead of rising as they should in a region so favored in soil and climate, were steadily falling. The price of land was rising, but the profits of agriculture were declining. That figures actually demonstrated that many of the farmers of Minnesota were not making their business pay. The young men and women were leaving the farms and small towns for the cities. The rural population was either stationary or too slowly increasing; the towns and villages were in many cases in a stagnant, dead-and-alive condition, rent by factional personal controversies and petty personal quarrels. There was everywhere a lack of the right kind of leadership— a dearth of ideals. A stage had been reached in which there seemed to be a feeling of satisfaction with existing conditions. Too often the farmers had been exploited by the unscrupulous and were somewhat suspicious of each other and of everyone else. The settler instead of receiving a real welcome in the form of protection for his interests and the help he needed to make a happy home-life and a real success, was frequently left to the mercy of land sharks who had no thought for the future of the settler—no thought for the reputation or future of his county and state — no thought for anything but the quick transfer, by such means as suggest themselves, of the settler's cash from the latter's pocket to their own. That in the rural communities there was too much of the suppression rather than expression of life; a lack of development of a wise popular opinion; a lack of real individual efficiency; a lack of that splendid ideal that is now taking hold of our people which finds expression in the doing of the unselfish things for the good of the whole community—a making of a personal payment to the community for that which it has done for its successful men, by returning to that community in thought and action something for its general uplift.

Faults in the Human Machinery.

"The lack of satisfactory progress was due in a large measure—not to a lack of natural resources—those were everywhere about us in abundance—but to faults in the human machinery —a lack of united action; lack of local pride; a failure to keep pace with the progress of events; lack of knowledge at the right time and in the right place necessary to procure the right utilization and conservation of the state's resources; lack of breadth of view; lack of charity; a lack of tolerance; a lack of thrift and enterprise; too much local and personal jealousy; too many petty quarrels; too little consideration for the welfare of others; too little grasp of the modern, basic, personal and business ideal of service and a lack of understanding and appreciation of one another.

"In the improvement of these unsatisfactory conditions; in assisting Minnesota to know itself; to appreciate itself; to take care of itself—was and is a man's work for every patriotic and progressive citizen of this great commonwealth. It was believed that the time had arrived when it was imperative that a blast should be blown upon Gabriel's trumpet announcing the dawn of a new era and movement which should, and I am confident will revolutionize a great state and rejuvenate a splendid people and recreate that splendid pioneer spirit which has advanced this state so far, along the pathway of progress, and will take hold of and solve, as they should be solved, the great problems which are yours and mine for solution.

"And, as a result this state today various great organizations having for their purpose the advancement of most splendid ideals. Foremost in this work is the Minnesota State Bankers' association.

Resources of Minnesota.

"Minnesota ranks thirteenth in land area and tenth in population among the states and territories of continental United States. It is the richest state in the world. State Auditor Iverson estimates that the unsold timber, iron ore and undeveloped lands will eventually raise the school trust fund to $200,000,000. In addition to this there is undeveloped water power and other natural resources owned by the state for the benefit of the school children and estimated to be worth $50,000,000.

"From the latest figures obtainable—those of the 1910 United States census—there were 166,132 farms in the state, aggregating 27,675,823 acres. The total acreage of farm land actually cultivated in Minnesota was about 19,-609,000 acres. This acreage has increased somewhat but there are still approximately 1,500,000 acres of government homesteads and on Jan. 1, 1912, there were 2,322,551 acres of unsold state land. In addition it is estimated that there are 15,000,000 acres of will land in Minnesota in the hands of railroads, other corporations and individuals that can be purchased at remarkably low prices and on easy terms.

"With this empire of tillable, uncultivated land for settlers; with 75,000,-000 feet of timber suitable for saw timber, poles, posts and ties; with a climate that attracts in the summer months and invigorates in the winter; with the richest iron mines in the world; with a soil upon which can be grown all of the most valuable crops; with 10,000 lakes and a million beauty spots and with a rugged citizenship whose energies and intelligence is equal to any task that may be set before it, Minnesota in equipment and possibilities, stands foremost in the sisterhood of states.

Agricultural Possibilities.

"Between 1900 and 1910 the land in farms in Minnesota increased 1,427,325 acres, while the improved land in farms increased 1,200,948 acres. Farm property, which includes the land, buildings, implements, machinery and livestock, increased in value, during the decade, $687,727,000, or $2.2 per cent. This great increase is chiefly made up of an increase of $459,800,000 in the value of land and 133,109,000 in the value of buildings. There was also an increase of $94,808,000 in the value of farm equipment, which includes implements and machinery and livestock, of which more than three-fourths represents a gain in the value of livestock.

"These figures prove that Minnesota is beginning to find herself agriculturally. The accomplishments up to the time of taking the last census are mere beginnings.

"In view of these facts, Minnesota should unquestionably achieve the slogan written by C. P. Craig of Duluth, Minn., and now emblazoned on the walls of the agricultural building at the state fair grounds—'Four million people and $2,000,000,000 product of our farms in 1925.' To do this Minnesota needs more judicious publicity abroad, a development of public opinion at home, progressive immigration work, better cultural methods and more and better livestock.

The Future.

"Minnesota has outgrown her old clothing. She is discarding the garments of the past. Her citizenship is now appreciating the prophetic visions those in the past predicted—a wonderful future for Minnesota.

"There are many things to be accomplished in this state. A keen realization of the fact that in the midst of healthful surroundings many are sick; that multitudes are unhappy while environed by all that should make for happiness; that labor does not receive the return which the effort seems to justify; that the love of home and of neighbors and the proper appreciation of self is as dead ashes; that we owe a debt of gratitude to those splendid men who carved this beautiful state out of the wilderness; that the same love of country, the same regard for friend and neighbor that made it possible for our forefathers to accomplish the results which flowed from their persevering, faithful efforts, require the citizenship of Minnesota today to be inspired with that enthusiasm necessary for the accomplishment of the work in hand.

"To interest men and women in themselves is not only the greatest problem of today, but it lies at the very threshold of our advancement. We must stimulate the grain grower, the stock raiser, the laborer, the business men—everyone. New ideals must be created, and that enthusiasm that lays hold of ideals and weaves them into life and its features must be created. Indifference must be overcome; disinterestedness must be made to give way to interest; faith must be revived. Farmers of Minnesota who claim that farming does not pay and have proof of their statement in that connection to offer in the experience of themselves and their neighbors, must be instructed how and why to overcome these conditions. Farm demonstrators in the South are securing, on demonstration farms, about double the average yield of cotton per acre. Their methods of selecting seed and giving to cotton the proper culture, if universally applied throughout the South would double the cotton crop and mean $240,000,000 added profits annually. The corn clubs of the South have demonstrated that two to five times the present annual yield per acre may be had by the application of scientific methods.

"While the West Central Minnesota Development association was probably the first to originate and follow up the county agent idea, yet the other two great associations of the state have been actively interested in this propaganda and are backing it with splendid enthusiasm. To a representative of the Northern Development association and an official of the West Central Development association belongs the credit for having conceived to be presented to the last Minnesota legislature a bill which has become a law, and which provides for the payment of $1,000 to each of twenty-five counties employing county agricultural agents during the year beginning Aug. 1, 1913, and $35,000 to thirty-five counties employing such agents for the year beginning Aug. 1, 1914. This law also provides, however, that the aid aforesaid shall be granted only to those counties which shall through its board of county commissioners make an appropriation for the maintenance of a county agricultural agent of not less than the amount received from the state. This law needs no defense at my hands. No wiser legislation has been adopted in this state in recent years. It is a splendid step and I pay my tribute of respect to the Minnesota legislature for its enactment.

The Press.

"To the newspapers of the state belong a large share of credit for what Minnesota has done and a large measure of responsibility for what Mninesota will do. The press is now, as it has been for years, partly a molder of public opinion and partly a mouthpiece of public opinion. In both of these functions its influence is important. The men who edit and direct Minnesota's daily and weekly, farm and trade papers are a credit to the citizens of the state and have done much towards its advancement. If they will continue to mirror the best features and actions of the people and to lead the way to development along proper lines they will be fulfilling a high mission.

The Railways.

"The directing minds of the great railways that traverse Minnesota appreciate that the education of the people along practical lines is to their advantage and they are spending time, money and thought in various ways that will prove helpful, although it seems to me their activities and those of some of the other organizations would yield better results if they were co-ordinated with the policy of the agricultural department of the university and of the other exports who have been longer in the field.

"The Commercial clubs of the state, while accomplishing something locally, are as a rule not taking advantage of much of the opportunity that is theirs. With a compact state organization made up of live units, they should be made into one of the greatest agencies for advancement.

The State Fair.

"The Minnesota state fair and exposition is a sort of clearing house for all of the other workers for the common good. By its central location, its great popularity and its unusual amusement offerings it attracts annually a great audience of between 300,000 and 400,000 people. It offers to individuals and organizations working for Minnesota's betterment an opportunity of talking and demonstrating their work to this great audience. It is the mirror of Minnesota's greatness, and her possibilities. It is the place where men, women and children from every walk in life gather for their holiday, where they can be amused and instructed, and, more than all else, it offers the one great opportunity where the citizens of this state can meet on common ground, can touch shoulders and learn to know their neighbors and themselves and progress toward solving the common problems.

Our Host, Duluth.

"Not without reason is Duluth known as the 'Naples of North America.' She beckons the heat-weary with promises of sure relief. Her lure for the pleasure-seeker is almost irresistable. But Duluth is more than a city of entertainment—it is the largest little city in the world. It is the center of big interests and the incubator of great enterprises; it is the distributing center of Northern Minnesota, and by the power of its position where rails and water meet, Duluth is not only a great port, but a city of manufactures. The advantages of low-priced fuel is supplemented by vast water power only partly developed. Moreover, it is situated in the midst of an unrivaled dairy country where blue grass is almost a nuisance and clover a weed.

"The population of Duluth has increased 48.1 per cent in ten years, and the last census gives its population as 78,466. It has ten railroads, fifteen public parks, comprising 420 acres, and twenty-five public playgrounds.

"The steel plant now building at an outlay of $20,000,000 in itself means an army of employes. Duluth's yearly ore shipments amount to 30,000,000 tons, a threefold increase in nineteen years. It handles between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 bushels of grain annually, making it the largest primary market in America. Its coal receipts are 8,300,000 tons; its bank deposits are $21,500,000, and its manufacturing output is $19,500,000.

"The Bankers' association may best fulfil its mission of service by working in conjunction with those worthy agencies which have by their activities and achievements demonstrated that their aims are high and their objects purely unselfish.

"Speed the day when life upon the Minnesota farm and in the small towns shall be healthful, efficient and filled with high thoughts and noble purposes, surrounded with that culture which signifies a knowledge of all those conditions which are woven into life there. When we shall have a better understanding of each other; when our people shall be trained just as they are and where they are, to have ideals and to embrace them in all their fullness; when our people shall love, understand and appreciate the trees, the birds' sweet music, the growing crops, and all that goes to make up life in the open country; when we shall have learned by closer association with each other that there are many splendid traits of human character heretofore either not fully developed or little known, and when we shall not impugn the motives of he who labors for the public good."

F. M. MURPHY.

BANKERS AND GOOD ROADS

Farms Will Be Deserted Without Prompt Action, Says W. G. Edens.

Haul to Railroad Costs More Than Freight to Europe.

"Co-operation, the Key to Success in Road Development," was the subject of an address delivered by William G. Edens, assistant secretary of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, Chicago, and president of the Illinois Highway Improvement association, at the annual convention of the Minnesota Bankers' association this afternoon.

Mr. Edens said in part:

"The subject of good roads about which I am to talk is one in which I am intensely interested, not only from the standpoint of a member of the banking fraternity who have interested themselves in the movement to bring about better road conditions designed to result beneficially to the people with whom the banks do business, but also from the viewpoint of one of a great number of citizens who are desirous of seeing order brought out of the present chaotic highway system existing in many communities today.

"The importance of better highways in Illinois has been appreciated and bankers and other business interests of the state have labored diligently and unceasingly to secure the enactment of legislation providing for relief along that line. I am pleased to report that our efforts in that behalf have not been without success.

What Bad Roads Cost.

"Statisticians tell us that it costs $1.80 per ton to haul wheat ten miles in this country and only 10 to 20 cents in Europe. It costs more per bushel to haul wheat the average distance from an American farm to the railroad station, than it does to transport it from New York to Liverpool, a distance of 3,100 miles.

"A great deal of time and money have been spent in improving the other methods of transportation, viz.: The waterways and the railroads. The roads of the country, are we might say, the farmer's railroad. It would seem, therefore, that a little of the thought and energy expended in other directions might profitably be used in looking after the needs of the farmer, evolving some highway system which will provide roads which will not render the calling of the farmer so arduous and so disagreeable.

"The problem of the American farmer has now reached a serious stage and unless something is done to improve the conditions under which he labors the time soon will come when the farms will be deserted at a more alarming rate than even at the present time and the nation, instead of being able to derive revenue from exporting products raised here, will have all it can do to supply the demands of its own citizens. The matter isn't local in character, but is national in its scope. The Federal government is interested and should devote serious consideration to the matter in its efforts to better the condition of the farmer. The government would be well repaid for any money expended in that behalf as an improved system of highways would greatly increase the efficiency of the rural mail service.

The Banker's Part.

"In this movement for better highways the bankers of the country have taken an active and prominent part. Good roads committees have been appointed by a number of the state associations and these committees have worked in conjunction and co-operated with the various civic and commercial bodies interested along these lines. It has been intimated by a certain misinformed element that the interest of the bankers and others in the good roads question is actuated by selfish motives. I do not believe it is necessary for me to advance any arguments to refute this. The interest of those who are working for better highways is the result merely of a desire to serve the community by making possible a system of roads which will cause our hearts to swell with pride and not make us hang our heads in shame.

"If we are to have good roads all classes must help in the endeavor to attain them and the farmer must play no small part in aiding in the accomplishment of such a reform.

"It is pretty generally conceded that, notwithstanding the face that a state is rich in natural resources, her general welfare and development are sure to be retarded by a poor system of public highways. One of the greatest difficulties experienced nowadays is that roads are constructed and maintained under systems in vogue centuries ago, which are not adequate to cope with the situation presented by modern traffic conditions, and which are out of harmony with the advancement of the state in other directions.

Scattered Efforts.

"In Illinois we found that a great network of 95,000 miles of country wagon roads were left to the haphazard efforts of 4,800 highway commissioners, working independently of each other, poorly paid, largely inexperienced and provided with inadequate funds for carrying on the work of road construction and maintenance.

Convict Labor.

"Under our new law the use of convict labor in the preparation of material for road-building and in actual work on the roads is provided for. I visited Colorado last year where the convict-labor plan is in vogue, and the results obtained thereby are such as would reflect creditably on any state. There is as fine a system of roads in Colorado as one would care to see. Warden Tynen of the state penitentiary at Canyon City told me that of the 800 inmates of the prison more than 400 were located in various camps throughout the state engaged in road-building, and that statistics showed that 80 per cent of those paroled or released return to useful occupations and make good in their efforts to be restored to citizenship.

Federal Aid.

"Federal aid in road work is very desirable, and all who are interested should request their representatives in congress to work toward this end. Enthusiasm in the subject could be stirred up by the designation by the governor of the state or the legislature of a good ronds day, on which the attention of the whole people, especially the teachers of the public and normal schools, could be directed toward the importance of improved highways.

"As I have already intimated, the benefits to be derived from a system of good roads are so numerous and so apparent as hardly to require mention. I desire, therefore, to call your attention to just a few of them. Improved roads mean better schools and larger attendance; better health and quicker medical attention; better farms and more cultivated land; better crops and cheaper transportation; better economic conditions and more producers; better social conditions and less isolation; better church attendance and better citizens; better postal service and closer friends; better business and more consumers; better industries and more employment, and a better state and a better nation.

"Surely even these few things which I have mentioned ought to be sufficient incentive to spur us all on to work diligently and unceasingly for better roads. They mean so much to the community, the state and the nation that the subject can not be passed by lightly. It is one of the most momentous problems with which we are forced to contend. A matter so vitally affecting the interest of the whole people must of necessity be gone at in a careful, systematic and scientific manner. This can be done by the entire co-operation of all the interests who are desirous of road development and improvement, and effective results cannot be obtained unless there is complete harmony and unity of purpose."

CAN YOU SAVE 10c A DAY?

Don't you squander a great deal more than that much right along? A dime seems little, but it makes only ten of them to make a dollar. Save the dimes. Never was a truer saying than if you take care of the dimes the dollars will take care of themselves. A dime a day deposited in this bank would amount to nearly a thousand dollars in twenty years' time. Just think of it! It isn't merely a few dimes you are squandering, but thousands of dollars. Those dimes you squander could make you rich if you gave them the chance.

DAIRY COW AND THE "H. C. OF L."

More Producers and Fewer Consumers Needed, Says W. F. Schilling.

Says Northern Minnesota Offers Unequalled Opportunity for Dairying.

"The Relation of the Dairy Cow to Progressive Agriculture," was the subject of D. F. Schilling of Northfield at the Lyceum session of the bankers. Mr. Schilling is president of the State Dairymen's association. He spoke in part as follows:

"The subject of agriculture and its development is the principal topic of discussion in business circles all over this country, and this is no doubt brought about by the fact that in every section of this country the consumers seem to be on the increase and to close students of the situation, before long the producer will have to make material gains or the cost of living will reach such proportions as to cause alarm in this country.

"The conditions confronting the people of this country should not be hard to solve, as the nation is young and problems similar have confronted all the older nations and have been worked out on a satisfactory basis. From summing up the situation as we find it in this state and our sister states adjoining, we find that an awakening in agriculture is the need and professors and students, bankers and business men are all endeavoring to find out just what means can and will be employed to develop agriculture to a degree commensurate with the rapid growth of our population.

Back to the Farm.

"To my mind the farmer is constituted the same as the banker and any other class of citizens, and he is most interested in the kind of farming that will give him the largest net returns for the amount of energy and capital expended. Now the 'back to the farm' movement will be spasmodic and short lived if the farmer cannot receive a profit on his labor, energy or capital invested, and the first proposition then that confronts those who are assisting in the development work is to interest themselves from the financial standpoint. There is absolutely no trouble getting men interested in a good paying proposition. If the investment is good, money for its development will be plentiful.

"The easy method of farming, that of robbing the soil of its fertility by constant cropping of the small cereals, must be supplanted by a more scientific or common sense method, that of crop rotation and diversification. All admit that this is the surest method of conservation, but when it comes to making the most out of the various crops grown in a profitable and successful rotation, some differ, though the good business farmer must admit that the greatest factor in development of agriculture along progressive and profitable lines is the dairy cow. But you may ask why? Simply because the good dairy cow consumes a large amount of roughage that has comparatively small market value and converts it into money, and she is doubly a God-send to the farmer who is living on the land depleted in fertility as she converts his product into cash, and by reason of the manure and skim milk left on the farm, she leaves it in better condition than before her coming. I have in mind the value of the cow as a soil builder from actual experience.

His Own Experience.

"My farm was a rented farm for many years, had never grown clover and grain was sold to the elevator as a means of making the farm return something to its owner and occupant. Some of the fields had become very low in fertility, and humus was badly needed. This half section farm had carried not to exceed twenty head of livestock for over twenty years, and the result was the light places became lighter and larger until it was not offering a great deal to its owner as an investment. I rented the farm for ten years on a cash basis, $400 a month in advance. There was 152 acres under cultivation with twenuty-three acres of this almost solid quack grass. The balance of the land was in hillside pasture, creek bottoms, brush and woodland. My first year's threshing from the 132 acres in small grain, barley, wheat and oats, was 1,955 bushels, or a trifle less than fifteen bushels per acre. This was quite largely wheat. I had twenty acres of corn. I brought to the farm thirty-seven head of pure-bred Holstein-Friesian cattle, and the corn was all put into the silo and bran bought for a concentrated feed for the cows, about fourteen acres of part timothy and red top mixed with June grass and slough hay and straw supplied the dry roughage.

Eight Years' Work.

"Eight years have passed, clover and alfalfa have been introduced, livestock to the number of 100 head is kept on the farm and last year 70 bushels of oats per acre on 43 acres, 46 bushels of barley per acre on 60 acres and 22 bushels of wheat per acre on 35 acres was the farm yield. Every field was covered with manure once in four years and some oftener. The past winter enough manure was made on the farm to cover by top dressing 110 acres.

"I spoke of the twenty-three acres of quack grass and I do not want to pass without again referring to it. One-half was subdued in the past two years and last year after the hay had been taken off in June it was immediately plowed and disced and worked thoroughly all summer. The last thing before freezing in the fall it was again plowed and allowed to remain rough through the winter. The treatment was very severe and in the spring it was continuously disced and harrowed until the 27th day of June when it was planted to fodder corn and now at this writing July 7 the corn will average eighth inches in height at the crown and the leaves are by actual measurement from eleven to seventeen inches high. This is the most remarkable growth of fodder corn I have ever seen or heard of and I must say the old cow must receive credit for this great growth as this field was twice manured in the past year while subduing the quack. And I want to say that there is not a visible spear of quack in the field today. I expect this fodder corn to mature in good shape and it will then be placed in the silo, making a splendid crop of feed from the land and a good job of exterminating the worst pest the farmer has to contend with.

Dairy Possibilities.

"I would urge dairying in every section of Minnesota and most especially in the northern section where there is an abundance of good clover land. Where you find good dairy cows you find the best class of farmers because the cow to do her best must have intelligent care. The fact that the cow is present on the farm means that the farmer must diversify his crops and rotate to feed her and by so doing he greatly increases the producing power of his farm. This last achievement comes automatically and without special effort.

"The cow bears still another relationship to progressive agriculture in that she teaches industry which is in a concrete form good citizenship. The boy or girl who is taught to care for the cows as they should be will have formed habits of industry, thrift and gentleness that are of untold value to them all through life and I have often said that I would far rather have my daughter in the company of my cows than in some of the company that is to be found on the city streets after 9 o'clock.

"The business side of dairying must be studied and you men, as bankers, who have your business systematized should encourage your farmer customers to weigh and test their milk and to find out whether or not his cows are paying him a profit.

"I want to urge upon you that the ordinary dairyman farmer is not always qualified to handle pure bred dairy cows. A scrub dairyman and a pure bred cow is the worst combination to get together. The farmer should grow into the dairy business and not go into it.

"From the standpoint of feeding the American people the cow holds a place that cannot be filled by any other animal or agency. Much as we love our beef steak we are forced to acknowledge that the old cow produces human food with five times the efficiency as does the steer. The value of butter produced in this state alone last year sums up to $45,000,000 and when we take into consideration that the cow produces on an average $18 worth of fertility a year we have an additional wealth of over $18,000,000."

REPORT OF SECRETARY

For Nearly Two Years No Minnesota Bank Has Been Burglarized.

Extra Precautions Being Taken Against Forgers and Swindlers.

The report of the secretary of the Minnesota State Bankers' association, G. H. Richards, was made at the morning session, and was in part as follows:

"According to the last annual report of your secretary, the total membership was 966. On account of the nonpayment of dues, a loss of nine members occurred, together with a loss of two by consolidations and two by liquidations, which left a total membership of 953. It is a pleasure to report that to this has been added 55 new members, making a total membership to date of 1,008.

"There are in Minnesota 790 state banks, 267 national banks, 10 savings banks, and 6 trust companies, making a total of 1,073. Of these, 922 are members of the association, the balance of the membership consisting of 15 investment bankers. There are 81 non-member banks in the state, and inasmuch as they have been frequently invited to become members it appears that their failure to do so will result in keeping Minnesota's percentage of membership below that of some of our neighboring states, where the percentage is nearer 100.

Protective Department.

"An apparent result of the efficiency of the protective department is the decrease in bank burglaries in the state. For a period of nearly two years no bank in Minnesota has been burglarized. The expense for the maintenance of the department has been decreased without prejudice to its efficiency. The service of the department was furnished to the National Surety company for the investigation of cases insured by the company in the state of Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota. In order to increase the efficiency of the department to the members of this association, it was deemed wise to discontinue this arrangement in so far as the adjoining states were concerned. Less expense under the new arrangement will be incurred, also a reduction in revenue, but the result anticipated will be increased efficiency in the service to the members. The organization of the department did not contemplate service in any crimes but bank burglaries. On account, however, of the extraordinary number of forgeries and swindles perpetrated on the members during the past six months, additional facilities are being accumulated for the identification of this class of criminals.

"In the case of the yeggmen, the association undertakes to work a system of prevention which is impossible with the forger and swindler. The only prevention which can be furnished in these cases is the suggestion that the most rigid care should be observed in doing business with strangers.

Insurance.

"The returns from the insurance department are quite satisfactory, considering the change of rates which went into effect in August of last year. The increased rates are disappointing to the individual members, but the fact must be borne in mind that the association's contract with the National Surety company is, no doubt, a large factor in keeping the rates to even as low a point as they are now. In conducting this department, the association is obliged to depend upon the loyalty of its members. In consideration of the patronage received, it undertakes to furnish the best burglary policies and bonds issued by a high-class company. Business ethics will not always permit banks favoring the association, and the officers do not expect to obtain all of the business. They do, however, deprecate the practice, and much regret that some of the members will go so far as to take a local agency of a competing company, thus not only cutting the association out of the commission, but working directly against the company which we have every reason to believe is standing between them and still higher rates.

Legislative.

"While all measures in which the association was interested did not become laws at the last session, several very important bills were passed. The uniform negotiable instruments law and the uniform warehouse receipts act, which were passed, bring the state well up in the matter of uniform laws, and the former will settle definitely a number of questions directly affecting banking practice. Largely through the efforts of the association, the bill providing for the filing of chattel mortgages with the registers of deeds in the several counties of the state, instead of with town clerks, as heretofore, became a law. Special efforts were made to secure the passage of this bill, for it was of great importance to many members throughout the state.

the failure of the administration to provide for representation of bankers on the Federal reserve board, the plan of distribution of reserves, the procedure for the issuance and retirement of Federal reserve notes and the powers given the Federal reserve board in an administrative capacity. His address is given in full in this issue of The Herald.

"The attendance is the largest and I predict that the meeting will be the most successful in many years," said Secretary G. H. Richards of Minneapolis this morning. Since yesterday afternoon there has been a constant flow of bankers into Duluth. A special train from the Twin Cities last night brought about 250. Other trains from the West brought many more. This morning there were additions that brought the total registration well over 400, and others are expected during the day. Besides the Minnesota bankers there are many visitors from Wisconsin points, Chicago, New York and other cities.

Theater Well Filled.

When the convention opened at the Lyceum this morning, the main floor of the theater was filled. The keen interest taken in the subjects under discussion was evident through the meeting. Hardly a man left the theater during the proceedings. Mr. Reynolds' address, necessarily long, was heard with rapt attention and was frequently interrupted by applause.

There were two presentations at the opening of the convention. Mayor W. I. Prince on behalf of the city of Duluth presented the association with a monster key, six feet long. It is an ornate affair, richly gilded, and bears the inscription, "Duluth Extends Hospitality to the Minnesota Bankers' association, July, 1913." Following out an old established custom, J. W. Wheeler of St. Paul, on behalf of the Bankers' association, presented to President D. C. Armstrong of Albert Lea an ivory gavel, banded with gold bearing the inscription "D. C. Armstrong, president Minnesota Bankers' association, 1912-13."

The convention was called to order by President Armstrong and the invocation was made by Rev. Charles N. Thorp, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church. Mayor Prince's address was confined to a presentation of the key and an injunction to the bankers to use it. The key was carried on the stage by two policemen in uniform, and was laid on the speaker's table where it remained through the session.

The response to Mayor Prince was made J. S. Pomeroy of Minneapolis, vice president of the association. Mr. Pomeroy declared the entertainment feature is vital to the success of any convention and that if the present convention is unusually sucessful, the fact will be due to the entertainment program provided by the Duluth bankers and citizens.

After the presentation of the gavel to President Armstrong, he delivered his annual address, which was devoted to a resume of the work of the association, and an appeal for the restoration of the "old school of banking."

Time to Clean House.

"Let me say that now with the newspaper reported money stringency, we should look to the future of our banks—clean house as it were, although except for the newspapers we of Minnesota would never have known of the stringency. We should use extraordinary care in selecting our investments. Let us go back to the old school of banking. We have rushed ahead on a wave of good times. How many of us younger men have the fortitude and staunch training to weather a hard strain? Where we call our predecessors slow it may be well for us to go slow ourselves for a time, at least."

Mr. Armstrong reported that the association is now at the high point in its history with 1,008 active members. He recommended that district meetings be spread over the year and be held more often, and that business be placed above social activities at the conventions. He recommended that the association give its aid to vocational training work in the schools and he also complimented the agricultural committee for its work, suggesting that the committee be extended to consists of one representative of each district and a chairman at large. Minnesota has won recognition in the nation by its small percentage of failures of banks and its record in that respect is being strengthened year by year.

J. W. Wheeler of St. Paul, chairman of the agricultural committee, supported the recommendation of President Armstrong as to the reorganization of the agricultural committee. Mr. Wheeler said that Minnesota has the distinction of having the first bankers' association in the United States to take up agricultural development in a systematic way and that the movement is growing throughout the nation. He reported on the committee's activity in the model farm home competition and in the corn contest.

"No one thing is of so much good agriculturally in Minnesota as the increase in the production of corn," said Mr. Wheeler. "The increase has been 500,000 acres each decade in the last thirty years, and this year the largest acreage is in corn in history."

Mr. Wheeler commended the agricultural college, the extension department and the development associations for thir work. "Minnesota is taking agricultural education to the people a little more successfully than any other state in the Union."

He spoke of the increase in livestock and the great wealth in the dairying industry in the state, with its present development.

Redistricting.

The report of the redistricting committee was read by Secretary G. H. Richards in the absence of W. F. McLane, the chairman. The report recommended that the redistricting be on the lines of the congressional districts, but that individual bankers be allowed to attach themselves to any district made more accessible by railroad facilities than the district in which they are geographically located. The report was adopted by the convention.

The address by George M. Reynolds was followed by an address on "The Negotiable Instruments Law," and legislation generally by Charles R. Fowler of Minneapolis, also given elsewhere in this issue of The Herald.

On account of the length of the session, the talk by Allen D. Albert of Minneapolis, on "The Banker and the Sovereign Law," on this morning's program, was put over until this afternoon.

At the close of the morning session, the resolutions committee was appointed as follows: George F. Orde of Minneapolis, J. A. Latta of Minneapolis, Henry Von der Weyer of St. Paul, J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin and O. W. Lundsten of Hutchinson.

Farmers Program.

The program this afternoon is devoted to farming and agricultural development. The addresses are: "The Banks and the Farmer," G. L. Russell, dean of college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin; "The Relation of the Cow to Progressive Agriculture," W. F. Schilling, Northfield, president Minnesota State Dairymen's association; "Elements and Results in Minnesota's Agricultural Development," Frank W. Murphy, Wheaton, president West Central Development association; "Co-operation the Key to Success in Road Improvement," W. G. Edens, Central Trust company, Chicago. Warren E. Greene of Duluth is down for a talk entitled "An Uncontrollable Outburst," and Mr. Albert's talk set over from the morning session, will also be given.

At the close of this afternoon's session, the Minnesota bankers who are also members of the American Bankers' association will hold a meeting for the purpose of nominating a member of the executive council of the national association to succeed George F. Orde of Minneapolis, and also to nominate a vice president for Minnesota to succeed W. H. Putnam. A delegate to serve on the committee of nominations will also be chosen. J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin, former state bank examiner, is prominently mentioned to succeed Mr. Orde on the executive council.

New Officers.

Considerable interest is being taken in the election of officers of the state association to be held at the session tomorrow morning. Following out an old established custom, J. S. Pomeroy of Minneapolis, vice president this year, will be advanced to the presidency. The probability today is that W. D. Willard of Mankota will be elected vice president, placing him in line for the presidency. A. G. Wedge of Bemidji was indorsed for vice president by the Ninth district bankers, but he will probably not allow his name to be presented. There is a contest brewing for treasurer with two avowed candidates, J. J. Ponsford of Watertown and S. H. Lockin of Red Wing. Others may appear before the nominations are made.

The terms of four members of the executive council expire this year, L. Whitmore of Wabasha, F. L. Stone of Benson, W. L. Brooks of Bemidji and J. H. McGilvra of Milaca. For the Ninth district place, succeeding Mr. Brooks, C. L. Conger of McIntosh has been indorsed and will be elected by the convention. Mr. McGilvra will probably be re-elected from the Eighth district and the First and Seventh districts have not made their recommendations.

The entertainment program arranged by a local committee consisting of W. G. Hegardt, J. W. Lyder, H. S. Macgregor and David Williams will open with an automobile ride around the boulevard at 7:30 this evening. On the return the visitors will be taken to the Duluth Boat club for an evening's entertainment in boating and dancing. They will also be in the hands of the Duluth committee. A specoal train will leave for the steel plant at 1:30. The delegates will be accompanied by Duluth bankers and by the Third Regiment band. Every opportunity will be given the visitors to inspect the mammoth steel plant and the return trip will be made by boat from the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club. On the return the visitors will have an opportunity to see the docks, elevators and other shipping facilities of the harbor. A luncheon will be served at the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club before the start on the return trip is made.

A canvass of the visitors is being made today to determine how many want to remain over for a trip to the Mesaba ranke Saturday. If a sufficient number is obtained, a special train will be provided for the trip to inspect the open pit mines on the range.

to the inquisitorial power of the committee.

The speaker appointed with Chairman Garrett Representatives Cline of Indiana, Russell of Missouri, Rodenberry of Georgia, Democrats, Willis of Ohio and Stafford of Wisconsin, Republicans, and Representative Nolan of California, Progressive. Chairman Garrett expects to begin hearings on Monday.

McMichaels Fired.

J. H. McMichaels, charged by Mulhall with being a spy at the capitol in the employ of the National Association of Manufacturers, was removed yesterday from the government pay rolls. McMichaels was formerly chief of pages in the house, later a messenger acting as a doorkeeper, and several months ago was appointed an elevator conductor by the house office building committee on the recommendation of Representative McDermott of Illinois.

Colonel Mulhall charged that while holding the different positions at the capitol, McMichaels was a principal spy of the manufacturers' organization on "the undertakings and movements" of representatives, and received from $50 and upwards a month from the association. Superintendent Woods removed McMichaels as the result of the disclosures, and Speaker Clark has signed the order appointing a temporary successor. When the house prepared to vote on the proposal to have a special committee investigate the Mulhall charges, Republican Leader Mann branded as "bald lies" Mulhall's published statements that Former Representatives Pearre of Maryland, Vreeland of New York and Bannon of Ohio were removed from the judiciary committee "at the behest of the association, through the influence of Former Representative Watson." Pearre's health had to do with his failure of re-assignment, Mr. Mann declared; Vreeland never was a member of the judiciary committee ,and Bannon failed of re-assignment because he was not re-elected to congress.

Representative Henry replied by quoting a statement from Pearre that he had been removed by Former Speaker Cannon at the instance of the Manufacturers' association.

The fight against the resolution was led by Representative Levy, who opposed the re-insertion of a provision allowing the committee to employ counsel. This was done by a vote of 102 to 104.

McDermott Denies Charge.

During the debate Representative McDermott of Illinois made a statement denouncing the use of his name in the Mulhall letters.

"On Sunday, June 29," said Mr. McDermott, "an article appeared in the press of the country in which M. M. Mulhall accused me of being in the pay of the National Association of Manufactoroes. This is unjust, an outrageous falsehood. I never received a cent from anybody belonging to this association. I have always cast my vote on the side of labor, and my votes will show this fact. I am willing to let my record speak for itself with my people. I am ready to go before any committee at any time, and trust this investigation will be most thorough. The results in my case will show a deep-laid conspiracy against me by Mulhall and others."

William Whitman of Boston, former president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, was on the stand most of yesterday before the senate committee. Mr. Whitman told about his interest in tariff legislation, beginning in 1873. He got as far as the Dingley bill in 1897 when the committee adjourned.

Whitman said he had been especially active at the time the Dingley bill was before the house ways and means committee. At the suggestion of Chairman Dingley, he said, he had tried to get the wool growers and manufacturers to get together on a wool duty that would be agreeable to all. Senator Reed tried to make him admit that the duties he wanted appeared in the bill.

"I never got what I wanted," insisted the witness.

Looking Up Lamar's Case.

New York, July 10.—United States District Attorney Marshall admits that he is investigating the activities of David Lamar, with a view to bringing them to the attention of the grand jury, if the facts warrant.

Among the Federal statutes which he is studying in connection with the case is section 32 of the Federal criminal code, which provides a fine of $1,000 or three years' imprisonment for "whoever, with intent to defraud either the United States or any person, shall falsely assume or pretend to be an officer of the United States."

TELLS NATURE OF FRIEDMANN "CURE."

New York, July 10.—Dr. J. G. Ramboud of New York city, medical director of the institute operating on the Friedmann process for the treatment of tuberculosis, announces that "the vaccine consists of a homogeneous emulsion of live, virulent tuberculosis baccili in sterile, distilled water. The germ was isolated several years ago from a turtle, and maintained ever since by transplantation on culture media, according to the usual procedure. The vaccine is administered to patients in doses of from cubic centimetres .10 to cubic centimeters .30 at intervals of from four to six weeks. Injections are made intravenously in the case of joint tuberculosis, and intramuscularly in the case of pulmonary tuberculosis.

"Any physician in good standing is welcome to familiariez himself, at the various laboratories where the vaccine is prepared, with the details concerning the administration of the treatment, that he may be able to use it personally on his own patients."

Mill City Man Killed.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Edward Teitleman, aged 86 years, yesterday afternoon fell from a window on the fifth floor of a cracker factory, where he was employed, and instantly killed. Several pedestrians narrowly missed being struck by the body when it reached the sidewalk.

PROGRESS OF MEDICINE.

Los Angeles Times: At the recent surgeons' convention in New York, hammocks were put in patients' insides to hold their stomachs up, wounds were sewed with sewing machines, and Dr. Alexis Carrel cut off dogs' legs and fixed them on again with perfect ease and success.

"The way surgery is progressing," said Simon Ford, in an awed voice, "nobody need ever be given up any more—unless, indeed, it's a case of poor old Sykes.

"'There goes Sykes,' one of my clerks said to me the other day. 'There goes old Bill Sykes, as hale and hearty as he ever was. And yet eight doctors have at various times given him up.'

"'Ha, ha!' I laughed. 'And what did they give him up for, George?'

"'He wouldn't pay his bills,' the clerk replied."

WELCOME!

Duluth today is entertaining three conventions.

The retail coal dealers of the Northwest are here, and with them the bankers and the music teachers of Minnesota.

That's quite a collection of interesting folks, and Duluth's glad to have them here.

Duluth isn't stingy about its blessings.

It enjoys the best weather in the world, especially in summer when other places are stewing; and it is always glad to have people come here and help luxuriate in it.

It hopes sincerely that all the visitors will have a good time and successful conventions, and that they will want to come again and come often.

One lobbyist says he got $30 a day for working in Washington. Don't believe he earned it. If he had, some of those senators who never saw a lobbyist would have come into contact with him sometimes.

THE RIGHT MEDICINE.

A man brought before him yesterday on a charge of "mashing" was convicted, and the judge sentenced him to thirty days in the county jail.

Every so-called human being of the male sex who has the idea that he is a lady killer, and who goes about thrusting himself upon women whom he meets in the street, should be infinitely better off for a fairly long period of reflection in the quiet of the county jail. Certainly the community will be immensely the gainer by the use of such tactics as Judge Lanners used yesterday.

St. Paul has a paving scandal. Now who would ever have thought the streets there were wide enough to sprout anything like that?

A CITY MANAGER CHARTER.

The people of Youngstown, Ohio, a city about the size of Duluth, will vote July 22 on a very interesting short ballot charter with most of the newest features included in the Duluth charter, with the addition of a city manager plan in the working out of which there will be much interest—if the citizens adopt the charter, as now seems likely.

Partisanship, of course, is entirely eliminated, as it is in all up-to-date city charters. The short ballot idea is carried out, the only officers elected being nine councilmen, one from each ward but all elected by the vote of the entire city. The preferential ballot is much like Duluth's, the primary being abolished and the entire process being confined to a single election, the voters being allowed first, second and third choices. Apparently there is but one third choice, while in Duluth there may be as many as the voter chooses.

The initiative, the referendum and the recall, of course, are features of the proposed charter.

The plan of government is that commonly known as the city manager plan. The council is strictly a legislative body, and it is to pass all ordinances, determine all questions of policy, and direct the work of the administrative officers. But none of the councilmen may perform any administrative work. The council will elect one of its own members as chairman, and he will take the title of mayor. Though he will have certain emergency powers, he will be charged with no administrative duties under ordinary conditions. The councilmen will serve without pay except a nominal fee for attendance at meetings.

The council will appoint a "general director" who will correspond to the position in private employment of general manager, as the council will correspond to the board of directors of a corporation. The general director will be the chief administrative officer of the city. He will be charged with responsibility for the proper conduct of all public business, as the servant of the council. He will act only by authority of the council, which can remove him at any time.

There are to be four principal administrative departments—public safety, public service, finance and law. The director will appoint the heads of the departments of law and finance, and will himself take charge of the departments of safety and service. The directors of law and finance will appoint the heads of the various subdepartments under them, with the approval of the general director, and the general director will appoint all his own subordinates in the departments of public safety and public service.

The council will fix the salary of the general director, and he, with the advice of council, will fix the salaries of the directors of the principal departments. These directors, in turn, with the approval of the general director, will fix the salaries of their subordinates.

From the general director down, all appointments will be for indeterminate terms, subject to removal at any time by the appointing power, subject to civil service rules for subordinate officers.

Obviously, this is an attempt to apply to city business the plan that has been so successful in corporation affairs—management by a single individual, appointed by and subject to the advice of a board of directors, elected by the stockholders—the citizens.

Sylvia Pankhurst is arrested again, and the natural conclusion is that she is thoroughly satisfied with herself.

WE KNOW A PLACE.

It's mighty hot in Washington from May to October.

Congress lately, for its previous misdeeds, has fallen into the grim necessity of keeping practically in continuous session.

Which is exceedingly unpleasant for congress. But congress is like the boy who had to stay after school: if he had done his stint during school hours he wouldn't have been kept after school.

It is suggested, now, that when congress has to meet in the summer time a summer capital be established at some cool little town in the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia, where congress can work in comfort.

Is there such a place? It is cooler in the hills than it is in Washington, which is as intensely uncomfortable a city as there is in the country; but the difference is only in degree. Congress would suffer from the heat in its hill village almost as much as it does in Washington.

Calcutta is the capital of Bengal. When the summer heat strikes that sizzling community the government packs up and moves to Darjeeling, a city in the Himalayas.

No reason is discernable why, if congress has to work in summer, it should not go where it will be comfortable.

But if it seeks comfort in summer time, there is but one sure place to seek it.

A word in the ear of congress: IT'S COOL IN DULUTH!

T. R. refuses to talk about the New York mayoralty. Let's see—didn't he take a similar attitude about a year and a half ago regarding the presidential campaign? No inferences, of course.

A GOOD BUSINESS DEAL.

By selling some thousands of tons of rock out of the Point of Rocks to the United States government for use in its work on the Superior entry, Commissioner Murchison has made a very tidy little business deal for the city.

In this way quite a hole will be made in the Point of Rocks without expense to the city, and there may be a little profit in it.

This is not only a good business deal, but it points a way through which the city may solve the problem of opening an adequate thoroughfare through the barrier that divides the downtown district from the West end, at a minimum of expense.

Why couldn't some promotor make a good thing out of a golf match between President Wilson and ex-President Taft?

MONEY THE CITY DOES NOT WANT.

On motion of Commissioner Hicken, the commission yesterday cancelled the licenses of three "fortune-tellers," and apparently the purpose is to grant no more such licenses.

That is a wise decision. The city has been getting fifty dollars a month out of each charlatan it licensed, but it's not clean money. While the city gets its fifty dollars, the fortune-teller is taking a good deal more than that out of people usually unable to afford the contributions they are called upon to make. In return, they get buncombe at the best, and often they are defrauded.

The city is in poor business when it licenses fakers and leeches of the fortune-telling stripe.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WANTS TO KNOW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As a father, I would like to know what became of the Knight boy that committed that crime on Twenty-third avenue east some days ago. I understand when the humane officer and an assistant went out to make the arrest they were told the Knight boy had left about five minutes before. If it was too warm for the humane officer, where was "Chief Troyer's net"? Where was the mounted officer?

At any rate, all of the mothers and a few of the fathers would like to know how it happened that this culprit got away so easy.

I have never taken much interest in woman's suffrage, but I am beginning to see the necessity of giving the women of our country a chance to improve conditions. They certainly cannot make them much worse. We note in the papers the names and addresses of the immoral women and the way in which they have been run down and captured, but the man who has assisted them on their downward course goes "Scott free." Duluth, July 8.

TROUBLE IN STORE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I know little or nothing of the merits of the controversy between Mr. Merritt, commissioner of public utilities, and S. R. Hatch, late manager of the water and light department, but I do know that Mr. Merritt has made a big bid for lots of trouble in the future by allowing the rebate to the News Tribune people under any circumstances whatever. Failure to make payment in the time prescribed was simply negligence upon the part of the management of the News Tribune corporation, and not that of the office boy.

The suggestion by Commissioner Merritt that the management would make the office boy stand the loss is surely a severe commentary upon the ethics of the management of said paper, which the management would surely resent much sooner than the charge of Mr. Hatch that one of the editorial force had threatened to run him out of the city.

More than once I have failed to get my check into the office of the department at the time prescribed, simply because I did not mail it out after it had been written, and I always paid the penalty because I knew the fault was mine.

Now that the News Tribune people have secured a rebate under the same circumstances, I shall feel free to go to Commissioner Merritt and demand that I be allowed to pay and be allowed the usual rebate, and if he objects I will cite the case of the News Tribune.

I know, too, that there are many others who will do the same, and I know that Mr. Merritt will not dare to refuse, because he cannot make any exceptions, especially in favor of big corporations, even if they do favor him, because you know his strong card is equality before the law, and no favors granted to the rich that are not granted to the poor.

When this is done I fear that trouble will fall upon the head of Commissioner Merritt that will be important enough to discuss, and one that will breed more insubordination than he has ever dreamed of.

A MERRITT SUPPORTER.

Duluth, July 9.

DISCRIMINATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I was very much surprised to read Mr. Hatch's statement in The Herald last evening, and must say that there is probably more truth than fiction to his story, as I see by the Duluth News Tribune this morning that Mr. Merritt has failed to offer any explanation to the accusations, saying the matter is hardly important enough to discuss. A very poor statement for a man of Mr. Merritt's position to be credited with.

The Tribune also confirms the statement made by Mr. Hatch of $27 discount being allowed the Tribune on the 16th of the month, four days after the time for discounting is up. Is this fair to the taxpayers of Duluth? Would any citizen of Duluth, who is not holding a position of influence, be allowed the discount on the 16th of any month if they offered the same explanation as was given by the Tribune? I say no, most emphatically NO.

Sometimes I wondered how it was that the Tribune always approved of everything that was done by the commissioners.

There is a rule which Mr. Hatch was governed by which says that paying the bill on or before the 12th of each month entitles the user or customer to discount. Now this does not mean the 13th, 14th, 15th or 16th. Does it? And I therefore protest as a citizen and say that Mr. Merritt or any other individual has not the right or power to discriminate as has been done and overrule this.

I say if for strict enforcement of all laws let it mean all and not only some that we personally favor. Very truly yours, A CITIZEN.

Duluth, July 9.

"SOME SCHEME, ALL RIGHT."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have just made a discovery of how I might save the discount on my gas and water bill in the event I fail to pay before the 12th—by dating my check back and mailing same with the explanation that a subordinate failed to mail same before the 12th.

In the event the manager refuses to allow the discount, pleading the rules of the department, I can then go to Commissioner Merritt, get the discount, also the manager's job. Great idea! Thanks to Mitchell of the News Tribune. I. R. A. CONSUMER.

Duluth, July 9.

Thanks.

Thank God for this bright frailty of Life,
The lyric briefness of its reckless Spring;
Thank God for all the swift adventuring,
The bold uncertainty, the strengthening strife.
Thank God the world is set to such a tune,
That Life is such a proud and crashing wave;
That none but lifeless things shall be Time's slave,
Like the long-dead but never tiring moon;
That godlike Passion strangely leaps and runs;
That Youth cannot grow old nor Beauty stale;
That even Death is fragile, and must fail
Before the winds of joy that speed the suns.

John Wesley Langley

By Savoyard.

Washington, July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—If I may be pardoned a quotation from a book I once wrote and was so improvident as to allow the publisher of it to subject me to a state of helpless and hopeless and brutal peonage, so far as the deplorable transaction of its publication was concerned, I shall open this chapter with this passage:

"It was a Persian who said, 'Every man is as God made him,' and it is true of the Kentucky mountaineer, a creature of whom volumes of history, romance and poetry have been written, and who is yet much of a stranger to his brother Kentuckian and brother American of other and doubtless more favored communities. He was born in a cabin and reared in the open. He is poor as poverty and free as the winds that stir the tree-tops of his mountain forests. By nature he is brave and by habit he is cunning. He is clannish and will fight for kith and kin, and when they are destroyed he will avenge them. He is hardy and athletic, familiar with hardship, and a stranger to comfort. He is ignorant of books save the Bible and the book of Nature, and was received into the church as soon as prepared for baptism by immersion. He was married early in life; it is a fecund race, and the cabin has its gang of children and pack of dogs. His food is corn bread, bacon, and wild game, spoil of his rifle, sometime reinforced with fish from the mountain stream, now and then supplemented with potato, cabbage, onion. Coffee is as indispensable as whisky. He is farmer and raises corn and digs ginseng. He may be tenant in fee, tenant for years, or tenant at will. He not unfrequently is tenant in trespass, so to speak. Be that as it may, he looks on the woods as his and now and then he is 'logger.'"

He had many noble traits, this Kentucky mountaineer. He was a brave soldier on a hundred gory fields, and if he was rude in peaceful walk, he was honest in all his dealings.

John Wesley Langley is a Kentucky mountaineer, polished in schools of learning, in professional career and in official life at the polite capital. He was a poor boy and set to aid in the support of the family ere he had fulfilled his second lustrum. He is a born diplomat and employs tact and kindness to attain his ends. He has no enemies. He doesn't know how to make them, and therein he has lost much, for he will never know the thrill that comes to an honest man when he realizes the hatred a scoundrel has for him.

When I first heard that Langley was elected to congress I spoke of the occurrence to a friend and remarked that so far as the wonder of it was concerned the circumstances that Catherine I got to be empress of Russia was trivial compared with Langley's breaking into congress—from Kentucky. But it was on the ground of John's terrible and atrocious policies that I put it.

There are two schools of politics. One set looks on the Federal government as a cow to be milked for the support of the constituents of the congressman who is so fortunate as to get the appointment as milkmaid. The other regards the government as a mendicant that the people are taxed to support. Langley belongs to the first school, and his mission in congress is to get all he can from the Federal treasury for the Tenth Kentucky district. Proctor Knott was of the second school and his mission in congress was to tax the people as lightly as possible and to see that not a cent was taken from the treasury except for legitimate and necessary public purposes.

Old Joe Cannon wished to put Langley on rivers and harbors, but he reflected over it and refused to do so on the ground that Langley would get too many millions for Kentucky streams. Langley has a large number of pensioners in his district, for the mountains of Kentucky were as loyal as Vermont and greatly more patriotic, judged by the numbers they sent "to put down the rebellion." And daily Langley goes to the pension office to see about pensions and when he fails to get a man on the roll that case is absolutely hopeless. When it comes to what congress calls "business," that is, fetching and carrying for the people at the departments, or in congressional committee, that is to say, "milking the cow," John Langley is one of the first statesmen in public life at this time. In perennial good humor, never presenting a rough corner, always plausible, eternally seeking to do—and doing—favors—every official is anxious to comply with Langley's requests whenever it is possible to do so, and from the Republican standpoint Langley is a very great statesman.

Langley served two terms in the Kentucky legislature when a very young man and there he was eternally trying "to do things for the mountains." He made some eloquent and voiceful speeches predicting that the center of wealth of the old commonwealth would soon move to the mountains where were timber and coal and iron and oil and gas and stone and things.

Then he came to Washington and was a clerk in the pension office. He was graduated with distinguished honors from the law department of the George Washington university in the District of Columbia. He was made appointment clerk of the census bureau and by large odds was the most popular appointment clerk in any department of the government, laying under personal obligations scores of influential senators and representatives.

In 1906 Langley was elected a member of the Sixtieth congress and has been a member of the house continuously since. Personally he is a very popular man. In debate he is ready and plausible—always on the lookout for Kentucky in general and for the Tenth district in particular.

And those who like that sort of congressman need look no further for a favorite than John Langley. He can "milk the cow" and as long as he remains in congress he will be there or thereabouts at milking time.

Too Trying.

Kansas City Journal: "Then you don't like these afternoon teas?"

Getting the News

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the day after Hastings MacAdam arrived in Washington, some years ago, to be representative of the St. Louis Republic, he received a telegram from his office asking him to get certain information from the British ambassador.

Now, if MacAdam had been less new to the ways of official Washington, he would have been more exercised over the telegram than he was. For seeing the British ambassador in those days was a difficult job. One had to call at the embassy, sit around and await the pleasure of some assistant secretary, through him to make an appointment with the ambassador, and—if the ambassador had nothing else to do—finally one got to the ambassador. This process might occupy a week.

But MacAdam wist not of such difficulties. The most logical way he knew to talk to an ambassador was the same way he would talk to his green grocer—simply call him up by telephone and engage him in conversation. Nothing could be easier.

He picked up the telephone book, looked through the B's until he came to British embassy, and called 'em up.

"Want to speak to the ambassador," he said, jauntily.

"And who is this?" he was asked.

"Mr. MacAdam, of the St. Louis Republic."

• • •

Now that word "Republic" seemed to act like a verbal can opener. The man on the phone at once assumed a tone of almost obsequious politeness and in a couple of seconds a person with a deep voice that could belong only to an ambassador was saying:

"Yes, this is Sir Mortimer Durand. What is it, John?"

"I'm not John," said MacAdams, somewhat nettled, for no one likes to be called by another name; "I'm Mr. MacAdam of the St. Louis Republic.

"Well, what do you want, John?" roared the ambassador, who seemed to be hard of hearing.

"Very well," thought MacAdam, "if you're determined to call me John, you just perfectly can, and see if I care."

He went ahead to propound his question.

"I should like to know," said he, "if the British government intends to try to stop the mimic Boer war being exhibited at the St. Louis exposition."

"No, it has been decided to say nothing about it," replied the ambassador. "But why do you ask, John?"

"Indeed, sir, I have been trying to tell you that I'm not John," said MacAdam, assuming a more conciliatory tone, now that he had the answer to his question.

Still the ambassador could not understand and thought he was John somebody, so MacAdam gave it up, and the conversation ended.

There had been a lot of rumors in St. Louis about possible international complications over the mimic Boer war, and MacAdam's story—which proved to be exclusive—setting forth that the British ambassador in a personal statement had denied his intention of interfering, occupied a prominent position on the first page of MacAdam's paper the next morning. MacAdam's boss knew then that he had made no mistake in his selection of a man for the important post of correspondent at the national capital. It wasn't everybody, he felt sure, who could gain an exclusive statement from him like that within a day after striking town.

Also, the correspondents for the other St. Louis papers hunted MacAdams up to offer congratulations. He supposed they were making sport of him. Certainly he could not think off hand of anything brilliant he had done in getting the story.

"How did you manage to get the ambassador to see you?" asked one of the opposition correspondents.

"Why, I simply called him on the phone," replied MacAdam.

"On the phone!" echoed the whole bunch.

"Sure," said MacAdam, "I didn't know where the bloomin' embassy offices were, and besides, I was busy, and that's what phones are for, as I look at it, so I just called the man up."

"But he never talked to a newspaper man on the phone before in his life. Didn't you have some pull with him?"

"If you mean do we belong to the same lodge or something like that, no," replied MacAdam.

"He didn't even get my name right—kept calling me John."

Then he told the circumstances in full.

"I have it!" said one correspondent. "When the fellow told him it was somebody representing the Republic, the old man thought it was the state department—the republic, that is, the United States, you know. Do you know who he thought you were? "Why he thought you were John Hay."

And it was even so.

Not So Bad as It Might Be.

J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, in Leslie's: Personally I think the tariff will not be harmful, but beneficial. At present there is a condition of doubt, but I think that when the tariff bill is passed it will be found that the anticipation was much worse than the realization and we shall settle down when we find new conditions are less onerous than was expected. The bill is not revolutionary, but sane and sensible. I must say the administration is more sensible and sane than people expected. The experiment of taking a man, a political theorist without business experience, from academic life and placing him in the presidency was enough to cause doubts, but President Wilson seems to be doing remarkably well. He has made no mistakes so far.

To Expand the Currency.

Judge: He had just given her a check for her first monthly allowance.

"I think," she said, coyly, "I shall have this check photographed."

"To preserve as a memento?" he asked.

"No; so I can have it enlarged."

The Signs.

Have you bought your garden plants yet?
Have you got your little seeds?
Have you everything secured
Which your backyard garden needs?
Have you vines to train on fences,
And a glorious drapery bring?
Have you roots of hold tenacious
From which lovely roses spring?

Have you hoes and pots for water?
Have you rakes to smooth the soil?
Have you bought a good lawn mower
To add to your daily toil?
Have you stems of good tobacco,
Whale oil soap and paris green?
Have you sprayers of good pattern
To kill all the insects seen?

Have you catalogues by dozen?
Do you send for all you know?
Are you eager about new plants
Which you sure will fail to grow?
Have you patent ploughs, ball bearing,
And of literature a maze?
Do you think of raising mushrooms?
Then you've got the garden craze.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Dairying is Growing.

Princeton Union: Eight hundred and eighty-three creameries—mostly co-operative—in Minnesota produced 116,500,000 pounds of butter in 1912, the market value of which was $35,000,000. This is an increase of $8,000,000 over the 1911 output. Together with the output of farm dairies, which amounted to several million dollars, this is a showing which the state of Minnesota has reason to be proud of. In 1908 Minnesota creameries produced only 86,000,000 pounds, which goes to show that the farmer is fast realizing the value of dairying.

Good Roads and Farming.

Aurora News: Good roads are followed by good farms throughout Northern Minnesota, as the soil is so fertile that it is no effort to induce settlement when you can show a road over which to haul crops after they have been raised. Ten million dollars for roads would be an investment which would pay an everlasting profit to St. Louis county in increased population and wealth.

Last Year Of It.

Sauk Center Herald: Awful things are being done to the public highways these days by the men who have to work out their poll tax. But, thank goodness, this is the last year such outrages are to be committed, for hereafter the roads will be kept in repair by the public authorities. For which, many thanks.

War on the Fakers.

Mankato Free Press: At a meeting of deaf in Duluth last week it was maintained that there are no genuine deaf beggars in Minnesota, and that all who use their alleged deafness for begging purposes are swindlers. Self-respecting deaf persons find it difficult to earn an honest livelihood, for when they try to transact business they are frequently met with an offer of money or a refusal to give alms before they have had a chance to explain their mission. War should be made on the fakers who prey upon an indulgent public.

Times Have Changed.

Fairmont Sentinel: Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's threat to throw $500,000,000 of the government's money into the breach should the boys in Wall Street start another panic, has had a salutary effect and money is easing up a bit. By the way, this McAdoo seems to be made of the right stuff—he does things. First he made the national banks pay interest on government deposits, and now this latest coup. Well, keep after them, Mack; they sure will bear watching.—Preston Times.

Times have changed and so has our contemporary, the Times. A few years ago a Republican newspaper would not even think of publishing an item like the above, boosting the opposition party. By the way, why not abolish political parties?

Human Nature.

Stillwater Gazette: The pessimist who declared we would surely have a drouth and the crops would be burned up, now comes back with the howl that we have had too much rain and everything will be drowned out. The pessimist is the happiest when he is finding the most fault.

Hard on the Agents.

Fergus Falls Free Press: No one in the state will be more relieved when the 2-cent fare goes into effect than will the agents of the various railways. Pasesngers buying tickets have been entitled to receipts at any time, but very few have taken the trouble to ask for them until very recently. Since the decision of the supreme court to the effect that the 2-cent law is valid, and the announcement that the railroads would refund 1c per mile as soon as they could get their rates adjusted and the necessary arrangements made, everyone buying a ticket has been calling for a receipt, and the work of ticket selling has been more than doubled. As soon as the new rate goes into effect there will be no object in asking for receipts, and the agents will be relieved of a tremendous amount of work.

Compulsory.

Virginia Virginian: We do not agree with that St. Louis judge who decided that tipping a sleeping porter is voluntary. Has the court ever seen one of these Pullman car officials in action?

Exalt the Destroyer; Forget the Savior

New York Sun: The beneficence of antisepsis which Sir Joseph Lister of Edinburgh has bestowed upon suffering humanity is shared by nearly every household in the world. Health, happiness and life itself will continue to be saved in cumulative proportions so long as the world is peopled, for of all discoveries for their preservation Lister's surgical antisepsis is the only one that is not assailed today.

A movement is now on foot to erect a monument to this greatest benefactor of modern times, a monument that shall proclaim to future generations the priceless benefits they are receiving from the labors of the patient, plodding Edinburgh scientist and surgeon, and, what is of far greater ultimate importance, that would stimulate others to emulate his grand example.

To the reflecting mind it is painful to note that the world honors the destroyer of life far more than the saver of life. History records the deeds and perpetuates all achievements on the field of carnage, and imposing monuments perpetuate the memory of the soldier. Monuments to those who have striven valiantly and often with sacrifice of life and health to save life are meager in numbers and niggardly in proportion. Every schoolboy has an exalted idea of Alexander the Great; is there one who has heard of Hippocrates? This physician is far greater than that illustrious general, because the fruits of this achievements are today blessing mankind.

History proclaims the military achievements of Moltke, and his country is dotted with monuments to him and his generals, while his contemporary, Sir James Y. Simpson, is barely mentioned; although this humble son of a baker in Edinburgh has freed woman from the primal curse, there is but one modest monument to perpetuate his memory, when every mother in the world may receive the boon he has bestowed upon woman.

Every American schoolboy is proud of the conquests of Gen. Winfield Scott. Does he know aught of Scott's greater contemporary, Thomas G. Morton, the discoverer of ether, which banishes agonizing pain without cessation every day and night in all parts of the world? Which is the grander achievement, the conquest of Mexico or the victory over unavoidable pain?

Is it the primal element of savagery surviving in man that prompts him to exalt the destroyer?

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1893.

•••While firemen were at work at the dome of the cold storage building at the Chicago world's fair, fighting what seemed to be an incipient fire this afternoon, flames suddenly burst out twenty feet below them. The imprisoned firemen—about twenty-five in number—were forced to jump. The distance to the roof of the building is about 100 feet, and about twenty of the men were killed.

•••The celebration which was to have taken place at West Duluth on the Fourth of July, but was prevented by the inclement weather, came off yesterday on the Fourth avenue grounds and was attended by great crowds of people. The parade in the morning consisted of the City band of Duluth and one German and one Scandinavian society. The police and fire departments were not permitted by the authorities to participate. At the picnic grounds addresses were delivered by President J. M. Martin, orator of the day, Joseph Grahamer, the German editor, and Messrs. Larka and Peterson. A feature of the day was the attempt of J. J. Frey, O. S. Olson and other citizens to arrest the leader of the enterprise for selling liquor on the grounds, but the authorities declined to act and the selling of beer continued.

•••Chief of Police Horgan has received a telegram that the sheriff at Joplin, Mo., will arrive with requisition papers for Rev. Leigh Vernon, who was arrested at West Duluth in company with Mrs. Edward Pearson, with whom he eloped from Pittsburg, Kan.

•••Tomorrow the July meeting of the Duluth Driving Park association will open at the track at Woodland and, with favorable weather, a large attendance is expected. Secretary R. F. Jones arrived from Minneapolis last night and is getting everything in shape. J. L. McCarthy will again act as starter. C. G. Dempsey of Springboro, Pa., who sold pools last year, again has the privilege and will have headquarters at the St. Louis in the evening.

•••The St. Louis County Bible society held its annual meeting last evening and elected the following officers: President J. D. Holmes; vice president, C. S. Maxwell; secretary, R. R. Briggs; treasurer, W. S. Woodbridge.

Washington Star: Prof. Alfred E. Stearns, principal of the Phillips Andover Academy, said at the recent alumni dinner in New York:

"The easiest way in raising funds, as in other things, is the wrong way. I remember a man and his easy spelling rule.

"In Orange in my childhood I once complained of the difficulties of spelling. I said that 'ei' and 'ie' in such words as 'believe' and 'receive' always stumped me.

"Then this man patted me on the head and smiled and said:

"'My boy, I will give you an infallible rule of "ei" and "ie"—a rule that in forty-seven years has never failed me.'

"I expressed my delight and waited. The man resumed:

"'The rule is simply this: Write your "i and 'e' exactly alike and put your dot exactly between them.'"

No Satisfactory Progress.

Toledo Blade: "The job of drinking all the whisky that is distilled," remarked the man on the car, "has been handed down from one generation to another, and yet no satisfactory progress has been made."

ALLEGED POSTOFFICE ROBBERS ARRESTED

Chicago, July 10.—Four men, believed by government officials to have been responsible for a series of postoffice robberies in Wisconsin, were taken from a Soo Line passenger train here after a struggle with detectives, and arrested. Each was armed with a loaded magazine pistol and carried about 200 rounds of ammunition, besides a complete set of cracksmen's tools. The men gave their names as William Houlihan, William Burns, Daniel Murphy and James Moore. The men boarded the train at Fond du Lac, Wis.

PROTECTORS OF CROOKS SENTENCED.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—Charles H. Taylor and Arthur F. MacPhee, police officers found guilty of having sold protection to a ring of bunco men, were given the maximum penalty of one year in the county jail. Eight policemen now have been sentenced, of whom six pleaded guilty to the charges in the disclosures of convicted bunco men.

CHILD IS DROWNED IN WATER HOLE.

Ashley, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Weber started from the home of his grandparents to the parental home after a heavy shower. He stepped into a freshly dug hole five feet deep that had been filled by the downpour, and was drowned.

TURN HOSE ON FREEDOM.

Lady of the National Capitol Gets Biennial Bath.

Washington, July 10.—Freedom, the gorgeous lady whose graceful form surmounts the dome of the capitol, has made her biennial toilet. A score of workmen clambered to the top of the dome and gave Freedom a bath, to remove the dust and grime that had accumulated on the face and figure of the Lady of the Capitol since her last ablutions were performed in the summer of 1910. The lady's jewelry will be replaced, as the seven platinum tips which surmount her head dress have been badly damaged by lightning. Several hundred dollars' worth of precious metal will adorn her brow and protect her from the elements.

SEX HYGIENE IN CHICAGO SCHOOLS.

Chicago, July 10.—Instruction in sexual hygiene will be given in the schools here with the beginning of the next term. This was determined when the board of education adopted a recommendation of the school management committee. The course will be known as "personal purity" instruction, and for the first year will be confined to the high schools. The board decided that children whose parents oppose the innovation may be excused from the lectures.

MRS. BORK DIES IN THE WEST

Funeral Will Be Held From Parents' Home in West End.

The body of Mrs. Belle Elizabeth Bork, 31 years old, who died July 3 at Hanford, Cal., will arrive today for burial in this city. The young woman was well known in this end of the city and her death was a shock to many of her friends.

She leaves besides her husband a daughter, Bernice, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Even J. Tweed, 2223 West Third street. She also leaves one sister and three brothers.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from her parents' residence and at 2 o'clock from the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

NINETY CENT "AD" SOLD HIS HOME

West End Man Is Firm Believer in Herald "Wants."

Ninety cents is a small sum of money, but it went a long way when it was used for the purpose of getting a buyer for a home. This was the amount expended by Ralph H. Wellington for a small ad in The Herald in which he stated that he wished to dispose of his residence at 217 North Thirty-fourth avenue.

Yesterday Mr. Wellington sold his home to John Anderson. "The power of that advertisement in The Herald was wonderful," said Mr. Wellington this morning. "It goes to show that The Herald is not only read for the news that is in it but for the bargains that appear in all of its sections."

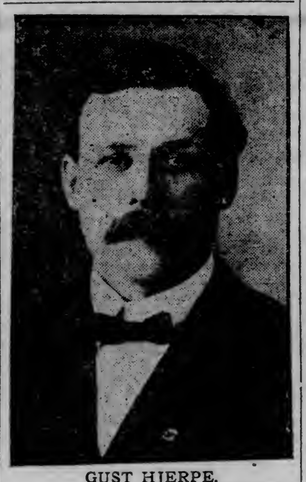

Mr. Wellington has resided in the West end for the past nineteen years. He built his home on Thirty-fourth avenue west seven years ago and it is one of the most modern residence buildings in that section of the city. He intends moving his family to Woodland, where he recently purchased a new home.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF SVITHOID ORDER

Fridhem Lodge No. 43, Independent Order of Svithold, will hold its annual picnic Sunday at Lincoln park. The affair will be held at Twelfth street.

Plans have been made by the committee to entertain its members and their families. No admission will be charged and arrangements have been made to provide lunch free to all comers.

The program includes an address of welcome by Gust Hjerpe, president of the local lodge; singing by the audience, addresses by P. E. Bergstrom and Andrew Nelson, song by the North Star Male chorus and music by the Zenith City band.

GUST HJERPE.

The sports program will include 100-yard dash for men, the winner receiving a handsome stick pin; a 100-yard dash for ladies, for a silk umbrella; boys' race, with a jackknife for a prize; sack races, three-legged races, pole vaulting and a tug of war. Handsome prizes will be given in each instance.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of: Mr. Hjerpe, Gunnar Grunlund, John Nordling and Gust Bergquist. The program will begin immediately after noon.

HAVE OPERATED ELEVEN TIMES

Surgeons May Yet Be Forced to Amputate Man's Arm.

Charles Anderson, former resident of the West end and well known in this end of the city, is at St. Luke's hospital suffering from blood poisoning. Mr. Anderson received a small cut on the end of his little finger of his right hand about six weeks ago and blood poisoning set in. Surgeons have already operated eleven times on the arm between the hand and elbow, and believe that amputation will be necessary in order to save his life.

Mr. Anderson has been living for the past year at Eveleth. It was while working with a drill in a test pit on some mining property that the accident occurred which resulted in his illness. He has been in the Eveleth hospital for six weeks and was brought to this city Monday.

Moving to Seattle.

Rev. Ernest Bloomquist, wife and two children are spending a week visiting at the home of Rev. Bloomquist's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bloomquist, 121 West Fourth Street.

Rev. Mr. Bloomquist was raised in the West end. He is a graduate of the Augustana college of Rock Island, Ill. He recently has had charge of a church in Connecticut from which he has just resigned to accept a call to a church in Seattle, Wash.

Rev. and Mrs. Bloomquist and family will spend a few days in this city and will leave next week for their new home on the West coast.

At Baptist Church.

Two meetings will be held in the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, this evening. The first will be a review of the Sunday school lesson, in which the teachers will discuss the subject of study for next Sunday. This will be held at 7 o'clock. The latter meeting will be the regular mid-week meeting of the congregation, at which Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the church, will speak on "The Practical Results of the Coming of Christ."

Series of Sermons.

"The Offense of the Cross," will be the subject of the sixth of a series of sermons on "the Cross," to be given Sunday evening by Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street. There will be four other sermons given on this subject. These are: July 20, "The Enemies of the Cross;" July 27, "The Teachings of the Cross;" Aug. 3, "The Sympathy of the Cross," and Aug. 10, "The Enthronement of the Cross."

Dock Men Want Revenge.

Dock men at the Missabe ore docks want revenge from the office crew. They claim that they can easily defeat the pen and pencil pushers and that the recent game won by the office force was a streak of luck. They now are out with a challenge to play at any time or place and aver that the office men will not get past second base.

The line-up will be somewhat shifted but all the regular men will be used. In the recent game the line-up was as follows:

Office—		Dock—
Quigley	c.	Balduc
Gilderman	p.	Dormedy
Butchart	1b.	Walzack
Maerkle	2b.	C. Stanford
C. Burnside	3b.	Sauve
T. Burnside	s.	R. Stanford
Sternal	lf.	Brown
Kenny	lf.	Libell

West End Briefs.

Misses Gertrude and Katherine Wellington, 217 North Thirty-fourth avenue west, left yesterday to spend a few weeks visiting relatives at Bald Eagle Lake.

The Tabitha Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will entertain at a social at Lincoln park this evening. A program of music followed by refreshments will be given.

Mrs. Gust Lundquist of Nineteenth avenue west and Third street is reported seriously ill at St. Luke's hospital.

M. H. Hirshler of Twenty-eighth avenue west has left for Moose Lake, where he has purchased the Moose Lake hotel. His family recently moved to that village.

The machinists' union of Duluth will hold a special meeting this evening at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

The children of the Central Baptist Sunday school enjoyed their annual picnic yesterday at Fond du Lac. About 100 young people were in the party.

SAYS JUDGES OUGHT TO FACE CRITICISM

Sandusky, Ohio, July 10.—Judge R. M. Wanamaker of the Ohio supreme court took sharp issue with Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, before the Ohio state bar association at Cedar Point late yesterday afternoon while the report of the committee on judicial administration and legal reform was under consideration. He disputed Judge Parker's contention that the judiciary ought to be beyond criticism, saying in substance that there is no good reason why a judge should not be criticized for lack of capacity or failing to attend to business, any more than any other official.

Judge Wanamaker spoke in support of a resolution urging the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution requiring the supreme court to give opinions in writing, and cite the authority upon which it bases its deductions.

Miss Lucy Price of Cleveland, unable to secure a place on the regular program, addressed the bar association in the rotunda of the Hotel Breakers last night. She denounced woman suffrage as a danger.

TELL OF MOVIE TRUST.

Witnesses Say They Were Fined for Breaking Rules.

New York, July 10.—Instances of how the so-called motion picture trust is alleged to have violated the Sherman law by restraining the business of independent interests, were set forth in testimony in the government's dissolution suit against the Motion Pictures Patents company and twenty-three other defendants. Witnesses from several states said the "trust" dictated what films they should use, and disobedience resulted in being fined or driven from business.

Joseph Hopp, who was head of a Chicago film exchange supplying pictures to theaters, said he rented films to an amusement company in Sioux Falls, S. D., not licensed by the "trust." For this he was fined $1,000, he declared.

WOULD RELIEVE HOMESTEADERS.

Washington, July 10.—The senate public lands committee has considered favorably bills providing that lands taken up for reclamation under the Carey act may be forfeited to the government if the project is not begun within three years; that homesteaders are not to be required to make continuous residence on lands not having sufficient water supply for domestic purposes, and that homesteaders may either cultivate a portion of their land or make specified improvements.

UNION PICKETS ARE ENJOINED.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—The Keyless Lock company of this city was granted an injunction and $6,000 damages against the International Moulder's union of North America by Special Judge W. W. Thorton, who heard the case. The suit grew out of a strike called by the union against the lock company. The company asked the injunction to prevent picketing by the union.

TEN "DYNAMITERS" STILL IN PRISON.

Leavenworth, Kan., July 10.—Michael J. Young of Boston and Charles Wachmeister of Detroit, convicted at the dynamite conspiracy trial at Indianapolis, were released from the United States penitentiary here yesterday when notice was received from Chicago that their bonds had been approved. Only ten of the thirty-three men brought here from Indianapolis, Jan. 1, now remain in prison.

SWAIN WILL HEAD N. E. A.

Election of Officers Is Principal Business Before Convention.

Minnesotans Are Nominated to Department Offices.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 10.—Although many department meetings were held today, the annual business meeting was the center of attention at the National Education association convention. At this session the report of the committee on nominations was made, the committee's decision being equivalent to election. Numerous other reports were also presented.

Before the committee on nominations made its report it was said that they had agreed upon Dr. Joseph B. Swain, president of Swarthmore university, for president, and upon the re-election of Grace M. Shepherd of Boise and Durand W. Springer of Ann Arbor for treasurer and secretary respectively.

Suffragettes Down Snyder.

Following a suffragette campaign against Z. X. Snyder, president of the Colorado normal school, which was led by several Chicago members of the National Education association, it was announced by his supporters that his name would not be presented as a candidate for president. This leaves President Joseph B. Swain of Swarthmore in the field with practically no opposition.

Supporters of Dr. Snyder said that he had been only a receptive candidate, and on account of the present situation would not allow his name to be considered. The fight against Dr. Snyder was said to be due to his opposition to Ella Flagg Young when she successfully ran for president three years ago.

The department of science instruction elected officers last night. B. Schimick of the University of Iowa was chosen vice president and A. A. Upham of Whitewater, Wis., normal school, secretary.

Minnesotans Nominated.

The department of school administration of the National Education association nominated the following officers:

W. R. Hedges, Sleepy Eye, Minn., president; Jose D. Sena, Santa Fe, N. M., vice president; Frank M. Bruin, Milwaukee, secretary.

The following were nominated by the league of Teachers' association: Miss Grace Baldwin, Minneapolis, president; Mary Williard Rae, Syracuse, N. Y.; Helen H. Holden, Milwaukee; Grace Degraff, Portland, Or., vice presidents; Molly R. Hobbs, Baltimore, secretary-treasurer.

Nominations are equivalent to election.

THIRTY ELKS NEAR DEATH

Sight-Seeing Car Almost Falls From Bridge Over River.

Grand Lodge at Rochester Decides on New National Home.

Rochester, N. Y., July 10.—Thirty Elks attending the forty-ninth grand lodge reunion here narrowly escaped a drop of 175 feet into the Genessee river last night when a sight-seeing car on which they were passengers crashed through a bridge railing.

The accident was due to the attempt of the chauffeur to avert a collision with a runabout driven by a woman. When the big machine hit the bridge railing, ten feet of the guard rail crashed into the river and the right front wheel of the sight-seeing machine hung over the bridge.

Will Build National Home.

The grand lodge has accepted the $260,000 bid of a Salt Lake City contractor and will build a new national home. Whether the home shall be on the site of the present home in Bedford, Va., or elsewhere, rests with the national home commission, of which Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati is chairman. The only expressed objection to the present site is that the inmates are isolated and become lonesome.

A per capita tax of 25 cents will be levied on the members of subordinate lodges, giving approximately $105,000 to apply on the cost of the new home.

The election of Charles A. White of Chicago as treasurer of the grand lodge followed the withdrawal of the other candidates.

Big Spectacular Affairs.

Elks from nearby towns and cities poured into Rochester today for the big spectacular day of the reunion. A parade of marching clubs, patriots and bands was on the program, with competitive drills for prizes and band concerts in Genessee valley park. Tonight Rochester will contribute her share of the spectacular features, when the city's annual water carnival will take place on the upper Genessee river, followed by a grand pyrotechnical display.

The business session of the grand lodge this afternoon opened with a memorial for Charles C. Schmidt, a member of the board of grand trustees, who died last October. The questions of establishing a tuberculosis home and granting a charter to a Honolulu lodge remained to be settled.

CHILD MURDERER SENTENCED TO HANG.

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—Victor Pope, formerly of Rainy River, Ont., where he was employed as a locomotive fireman, has been found guilty of murdering the infant son of Eva Lewis in a rowboat on the banks of the Red River of the North last April. It is alleged that Mrs. Lewis, with her child, left her husband at Rainy River and came to Winnipeg to live with Pope. The child, it is said, annoyed other lodgers in the house where they were rooming, and the couple decided to get rid of it. Pope was sentenced to hang Sept. 25.

KNEW SHIP WAS NOT SEAWORTHY.

Newcastle, Eng., July 10.—Foreknowledge of the fate of his ship, Mount Oswald, which, with her crew of twenty-four men, was never heard of after her departure from Baltimore for Hamburg on Feb. 17, 1912, is shown in a letter from Capt. Stannard to his wife, read during the board of trade inquiry into the loss of the vessel. In the letter, the captain said:

"We have twelve feet of water in the forepeak and are not yet out of harbor. God knows whether we shall ever reach home. The sailors are now working at the pumps. I wanted the ship to be drydocked at New York, but the owners would not allow it."

Farnsworth Pardoned.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—David D. Farnsworth, a writer who formerly lived at Sycamore, Ill., has been pardoned by the governor's council. He was serving a six months' sentence for killing Thomas Hagan while firing a gun in the dark to frighten supposed chicken thieves.

First Municipal Slaughter House.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks very probably will be the first North Dakota city to take advantage of the new law which gives municipalities authority to establish and maintain slaughter houses. The question was considered by the council meeting and a resolution providing a $20,000 bond issue for the construction of such enterprise was introduced.

WHAT OTHER CITIES ARE DOING

IN ITS "clean-up" campaign the city of Denver arranged for a free distribution of creosote oil, which is a guaranteed exterminator of dandelions. Application was made for about 5,000 gallons for use on the "yellow peril" of the city lawns. Cash prizes were awarded to the best workers, and a ticket to a baseball game was promised each boy who assisted in the work.

Large quantities of creosote oil could be successfully applied in Duluth under the conditions of the guarantee. Dandelions have become about the worst pest in the weed line in the city. Individuals have made efforts to exterminate them on their lawns, but no city-wide movement has ever been attempted. With a ticket to the baseball game as a reward, no trouble should be encountered in getting plenty of "kids" to help the good work along.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

CONFINED TO HIS HOME FOR WEEKS

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was the only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out that all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him of my condition. He told me to go to the Progressive Medical Association at No. 1 West Superior street. He had been cured himself by them and he knew they were square and knew men's diseases better than any other doctor in Duluth. They applied their Dissolving Method and at first my progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."—E. H. C.

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

AFTER carefully reading several accounts of the recent Ritchie-Rivers fight we are forced to the conclusion that neither of the principals in the battle for the lightweight championship of the world is the equal of Adolph Wolgast in the very flush of that wonderful little fighter's prime.

DeWitt Van Court—funny name for a boxing instructor—covered the fight for one of the coast papers. Van Court should know something of a fight, as he is one of the men who helped Jim Corbett learn some of the finer points of boxing. He says Rivers led for the first seven rounds and then weakened.

There may be some personal bias in the story of the Los Angeles boxing instructor, as Van Court has always been a strong adherent of the little Mexican. But if his story is essentially correct in the main then we will still hold that Wolgast, when right, could have beaten either of the men who fought on Independence day.

Willie Ritchie is a boy to admire. He is game and clean of life. He comes the nearest to being a thorough gentleman of any of the champions we have had. It was the personal habits of Wolgast that did much to dethrone him. Physically a bear, endowed with wonderful muscular strength, Wolgast, like many before him, failed to realize that there is always a day of reckoning.

Rivers isn't game, if we are to believe the implications of some of the friends of the Mex. There has ever existed a suspicion to this end, and when the most ardent admirers of the Los Angeles fighter are forced to admit that he looks bad when fighting an up hill battle, one doesn't have to be possessed of very much imagination to guess at the real makeup of the boy who has been persistently picked by the Los Angeles sharps as the coming champion of the world.

Wolgast was as game as any lightweight who ever crawled through the hemp—and we have in mind kid Lavigne and Battling Nelson.

In that memorable baptism of fire that little Wolgast went through at Richmond—those gruelling 40 odd rounds with Nelson, it looked as if the Cadillac boy was gone. Those at the ringside gave up the hope of seeing a new champion crowned. And then the little Dutchman rallied and matched his gameness and bull dog tenacity with that of Nelson, and in the end won.

Physically, they say Rivers is a magnificent animal. He possesses apparently the attributes of a marvel boxer; and yet when a fighter lacks the heart, that something that calls for more when muscles are tired and pain is adding its torments to the suffering of physical exhaustion, the chances are akin to those of the eye of the needle test of his ever becoming a real champion.

Wolgast succeeded a great man to the title, for Nelson was one of the greatest we ever had. The same is true in the case of Nelson, for Gans before him was in the opinion of a vast following of the ring the greatest lightweight of all times. Before Gans there was the great Lavigne.

It is very doubtful if any of the lightweight contenders of the present time, counting Wolgast out of the running, is the equal of Lavigne, Gans or Nelson.

SMITH is going to get back in the game. This was the news received by President H. A. Blume yesterday. This will mean that the full attacking strength of the Sox will be thrown into the assault upon our enemies. The ultimate decision in ownership of this player is something that even the most sapient follower of the game can glean not of.

Just why "Smith left home" may remain a mystery to the very end. Presumably he left the domestic to try his green sward of the diamond; and whether he gave the management of the Jackson club encouragement or reason to believe that he would play with that organization, is something that the high brows of the national commission will have to ferret out.

We need Smith of Milan. He is one sweet baseball player. There are some of us who rank him every iota as good as Miller. This boy is one sweet hitter, and as a rule he hits best when hits are like diamonds and pearls in the high rank of value. His return, like the return of little Nap from Elba, will bring enthusiasm and strength to our forces and equip us to renew the stern chase of the Winona Corsairs with greater confidence.

SPEAKING of baseball and particularly of the White Sox, it might be bruited about a bit that President Blume and the other directors of the club have set a sweet and savory price upon the head of the crack center fielder of the Dooks, so that those who devoutly desire the services of our Elmer may know of the kopeks that it will cost to land him for next season.

In the matter of getting the dinero for local players the teams handled by Darby O'Brien have taken high rank among those of the Minny, See-Eye and perhaps the present Northern.

In the halcyon days when Al Kuehnow was the perspiring and aspiring angel of the game in these parts, Otto Mueller, as he was known locally; Don Marion, George Dauss, Jimmy Breen and Merry McGrone went from the one team and all in the same year.

Later we sold Jack Schmirler, Red Blume, Ted Leber, Hoffman, Stark and others have ascended from the local habitat.

This season's drafting end looms nearer with the promise of some financial returns for the present management of the club.

Miller is almost certain to go up. There was a mighty good chance that Brackett would have gone to higher company, had he not met with the unfortunate accident that may put him out of the game for the greater part of the balance of the season. Schreiber is only a kid, but he is one sweet ball player and some of the clubs may be wiing to give the youngster a tryout. It is also true that Smith is one grand performer—and the scouts are looking for grand performers; in fact, are beating the bushes in diigent search, as the hunters of tropical tributaries beat the hush for the lurking and furry creature of the jungles.

ST. PAUL CLUB MAY GO TO LA CROSSE

Conrad Hopes to Make Final Arrangements for Transfer.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—Plans for the transfer of the local Northern league franchise to La Crosse, Wis., will be completed at a meeting in La Crosse today, according to information given out by Owner H. P. Conrad after a conversation over the telephone with directors of the La Crosse baseball association.

"The proposition has been temporarily accepted" said Mr. Conrad. "Final action will be taken today. I shall retain my interests in the team, which I believe will have a greater following in La Crosse."

Secretary C. T. Kelly will represent Conrad at the meeting today.

DOOKS TAKE FINAL GAME

Monty Woods Humbles Peggers By One-Sided Score of 11 to 2.

Miller Cuts Off Run By Great Throw From Deep Center.

Winnipeg, Man., July 10.—Duluth had little trouble in winning the final game of the series from the Peggers, the visitors having a very easy time and gallopjed through to the end with the score of 11 to 2.

Monty Woods was on the rubber for the Dooks and he was never in serious trouble outside of the opening inning. The visiting southpaw had everything and mixed his crossfire delivery with slow ones that proved puzzling to the hitters of the demon home team.

One of the features of the game was a wonderful throw by Miller from deep center. The star fly chaser of the Dooks shagged well back in center and pulled down a high fly. He then shot the ball on a line to Wilke and caught the runner by two steps.

WINONA LOSES LOOSE CONTEST

Superior Wins Out 9 to 8 After Using Three Pitchers.

Superior used three pitchers yesterday and finally won from Winona by the score of 9 to 8. Dahlgren, Withers and Chicken were used, and the see-saw affair was finally won when Chicken came through with a hit in the ninth round. Myers for Winona blew up in the fourth after pitching some air-tight baseball.

SIX WEEKS' RACING.

Fargo to Have Horse Events Every Saturday Afternoon.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be Saturday afternoon racing matinees here for the next six weeks because of the large number of horses in training on the local tracks. It is planned to have three events each matinee, one running and two harness. These may be followed by motorcycle and auto races.

Since the Saturday afternoon closing movement became effective hundreds of clerks are thrown out for amusement at that time. Many of these do not care to go to the lakes and want local entertainment. Sunday baseball games are also to be provided for those who do not go on the fishing excursions.

KEENE HORSES TO BE RETURNED FOR SALE.

New York, July 10.—Colin and Peter Pan will be brought back to this country from England and France and sold at the disposal sale of the late James R. Keene's thoroughbreds the coming fall, it was announced here last night. These horses are the acknowledged heads of the great male line of Domino, the most successful known in an American pedigree. Colin, with other horses in the Keene stable, was shipped to England in 1908 when racing suffered a decadence here, following the passage of the anti-betting laws. Peter Pan was sent to France.

SMITH OF MILAN IS BACK IN THE GAME; ALL IS WELL

Announcement was made yesterday regarding the same. In addition to this Smith is no longer lame. Now the fans can crow with unsuppressed delight. From now on the Sox should be right in the fight. Smithy is surely a hitter of worth, and his resounding hits should be productive of mirth. Blume and the rest are tickled with glee.

The league leaders are here today and tomorrow. It is to be hoped that their going will not be the harsh cause of sorrow. The Corsairs are sure going exceedingly strong—it's also a fact that they've been in the lead too long. With the Sox going as they have in the immediate past, it's a cinch that Winona's lead won't last through the hot days to come, for the race of the Corsairs should be nearly run.

We're batting like fiends at the present time, and the grouchiest fan can't find cause to whine over the showing the Sox have made, toiling along the percentage grade. Our team is a dandy, a pippin', a peach, and it's almost within reach of the flag that honors the team so alert that can cause others to trail in its dirt.

But Smithy's back, and that's extreme joy, for Jackson or Duluth, this kid is some boy. When the game hangs fire and it comes to a pinch, and Smithy is up, it's almost a cinch, cause Smithy is there, and there mighty strong, and without you, Smithy, 'twas hard to get along.

With Smith back in the game and the team doing like it has shot up through the percentage figures during the recent road trip, there is fervent cause for believing that ere the dog days have spent their hottest battery in Old Sol's assault that the Sox will be disputing the lead with Winona.

While the leaders of the league were losing yesterday we were glibly and nonchalantly taking the last game from the Peggers. The Sox hit the home place early this morning, completing one of the best road trips that a Duluth team has made in recent years.

Fly in Ointment.

The fly in the ointment of the fans is the fact that Brackett is out of the game. Our team has been grievously beset with a jinx during the present season. First it was one thing and then something worse. With Smith back in the game we are forced to bow to the inevitable and regret the loss of a pitcher who was going fine when his services were lost to the club.

Baseball is largely determined by the luck of the game when teams are battling on the even level of ability. There is no use in making alibis for the Dooks, but if the injuries of the present season could have been averted it is pretty sure that we would have established a lead in the race ere this.

But there is no use in repining over the antics of the fates. We have a team that is going great at the present time, and our grim task just now is to attempt to pull down the lead of the Corsairs. We gained one game yesterday—let us attempt to gain another today and one more tomorrow.

DULUTH TO ENTER SENIOR FOUR IN ST. PAUL REGATTA

Winnipeg Expected to Have Very Strong Crew in This Event.

Local Oarsmen Are About the Classiest in History of Club.

BY BRUCE.

The Duluth Boat club is to enter a senior four in the international regatta of July 18 and 19.

A wire from the Winnipeg officials to the officials of the Minnesota Boat club, asking whether there would be a senior four race upon the program was transmitted to Secretary J. E. MacGregor, and after conferring with Coach Ten Eyck he wired the Winnipeg people that Duluth would have an entry in this event.

After watching the Duluth crews on the water the followers of rowing here believe that the lads in dark blue will leave the stake boats in the two eight races, the bantam and junior four races with more than an even chance for victory.

Duluth's junior eight looks awfully good. Last night the junior and senior eights were sent over half of the course, the juniors continuing the consistent winning streak by finishing in front by nearly the length of their shell.

Of course the seniors should win; the dope is all in their favor. The men in the senior shell are rowing with more weight, have had the greater experience, and sizing them individually are generally rated as more accomplished sweep men. And yet despite all this the juniors continue to win.

If the seniors are going to register a victory over the juniors before time to leave for the regatta, the accomplishment will have to be in the very near future, as the crews will leave for St. Paul on the morning of July 16.

It is the truth that the seniors have not been together nearly as much as the juniors. Last evening it appeared to the writer as if the little shade in the difference of the two crews went to the juniors on the score of general smoothness. Certain it is that Duluth has a rather remarkable junior eight and one that is expected to give a grand account of itself in the races on the Mississippi.

Last evening three of the winning bantam crew of last year sat in the junior eight boat. Dave Horak, P. Moore and Rheinberger were with the banties of 1912 vintage, and these boys have sort of formed the nucleus of the present junior eight. It looks to be one of the best we have ever had here, if not the best.

Junior Four.

The junior four is another sweet looking proposition. Horak, Rheinberger and the Moore brothers are in this combination and in the brush with the banties last evening this crew sure did look lovely.

And the banties also are one of the hopes we are banking upon for the regatta. This bunch seems to possess more than the average power than is seen in a bantam boat. There is a bit of raggedness as yet about the rowing, but just the same the boat travels, and that is one of the objects every coach labors for.

Taking the situation as it sizes at the present time, one might say that we are going to the regatta with hopes festooned with the roses of expectancy. Last season we did count seriously on pulling down the junior eight. While it does not come from Jimmy Ten Eyck, there are some of the followers of rowing who believe that Duluth's chances this season are about as good as those of last season. Of course the class should be generally higher than was the case at Winnipeg. Duluth has classy crews and it will require class to win over us.

All along St. Paul has promised that the crews of this season would be infinitely better than those of last. Getting the dope on Winnipeg is a very hard task. Judging from last season the Canadians should be strong in the junior eight event, with the added year of development; strong in the

THE FOOD VALUE OF BREAD.

From "Health and Longevity," by Dr. Arnold Lerand of Carlsbad: No other foodstuff used by man is more satisfying than bread when taken with other articles of diet, and many of the latter gain thereby in nutritive value and power of assimilation, as, for instance, milk. By simply drying the slices of bread, thus making "toast," bread can be more readily digested. It is also more easily masticated, and for this reason somewhat stale bread is to be preferred to that freshly baked.

Of the various flours made of cereals, wheat flour is the most used. The finer the flour is ground, especially wheat flour, the more of the nutritive substances are lost, and wheat bread is poorly absorbed. Rye flour, when it contains the bran, is very badly assimilated. Oats are even more poorly taken up. When oats are to be used it is best to eat the products manufactured especially with a view to the digestibility. In my estimation, a puree of oatmeal with two yolks forms a very healthful food, in which the eggs not only greatly improve the taste, but also increase the nutritive value. Very valuable preparations for children's use can be made with oatmeal when taken with milk.

Just as with bread, many people feel that they cannot do without potatoes. Potatoes should always be boiled in the skins. The best way is to put them into boiling water and let them cook for about half an hour, until they are quite soft. When the potatoes are sufficiently cooked they should be peeled and served at once. The digestibility of the potato depends upon the manner of its preparation. When potatoes have been thoroughly cooked and are served mashed in the form of a puree they give the stomach but little work and can be well assimilated. Good, dry, mealy potatoes, when steamed, sliced and browned, are well assimilated, but whole roasted potatoes are indigestible, badly assimilated and often give rise to acid eructions. Potatoes contain little fat, so it is advisable to add butter in eating them.

The senior eight of the Canucks is left out of consideration for the time being—at least until it is decided definately whether the Rileyites or the "St. Paul" eight is going to be sent to the regatta.

In the event of the Con Riley crew being sent, it will certainly be installed the favorite at St. Paul, as a man, horse, or collection of men generally remains the favorite until defeated. The Rileyites have ruled supreme since 1907 with but one interruption in the string of victories, St. Paul lowering the colors of the Winnipeg eight at the Mississippi regatta of 1909.

But at White Bear in 1907, at Winnipeg in 1908, at Duluth in 1911, and last year at the Peg the Riley crew has shown its mettle and proven beyond doubt that it is one grand racing organization.

Duluth's senior eight, should the Rileys be among those missing, it is believed will be installed as the favorite, because of the great showing at Peoria last season.

Ten Eyck has caused respect to rudely push ridicule out of the way in connection with the crews of this port. People haven't forgotten the great race we gave Winnipeg at the national, the rowing men generally take these things into consideration. With the Winnipeg seniors out of it—and Duluth hopes they will come down—it is probable that some sharps on the boat house float will express a strong fancy for the chances of the Duluths.

Boat races are similar to summer engagements and baseball games, in that they are also extremely uncertain. It is rash to predict sweepingly. Suffice it to say that it looks as if we are sending on the whole about the classiest outfit that has ever gone forth for regatta honors. It will require class to beat us.

No Boats Chosen.

Huntington, N. Y., July 10.—Although the three days announced for the motor boat elimination races to select challengers for the Harmsworth cup have expired, no candidate has been chosen. The Ankle Deep, however, is a likely choice.

The committee has extended the time one day to give other boats an opportunity to start.

Reds Buy Pitcher.

Lynn, Mass., July 10.—Frank Harrington, the leader of the pitching staff of the Lynn New England club, was sold yesterday to the Cincinnati Nationals. The price was said by Manager Flaherty to be $4,000. Harrington, who is 19 years old, will join the Cincinnati club at the close of the season.

Frank Donahue III.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 10.—Frank Donahue, star pitcher in the major leagues years ago, is critically ill at his home here. He has been in poor health for some time. Donahue was once the mainstay of the Philadelphia Nationals, coming here as the result of a trade with the St. Louis Nationals.

RICH STAKE AT CLEVELAND

Field of Twelve Entered for $5,000 Event in Grand Circuit.

Favorites and Outsiders Divide Honors on Wednesday's Card.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 10.—The $5,000 stake, the richest of the local Grand Circuit meeting with the exception of the Tavern, which is restricted to amateur drivers, is the chief event on today's card.

A field of twelve will take the word for this race, which went last year to A. S. Rodney of Jersey City, driving Baden. A record of 2:06¼ was set by Lewis Forrest and Belvasa for the event in 1911. Rodney's entry, Baron Del Ray, is one of the favorites for the race this year.

The other big attraction is the championship pacing sweepstakes, which usually furnishes the fastest racing of the meeting. Independence Boy in 1911, set a mark of 2:01½ for the event. This year Evelyn W., Don Densmore and Earl, Jr., are the only entries left. Evelyn W. won the race last year and was fourth in the event in 1911, when Earl Jr., won. Don Densmore finished fourth last year.

It is evident that the choice in the sweepstakes is largely a matter of guesswork or sentiment. The 2:14 class trot and the 2:15 class pace make up the rest of the program of what may be considered the biggest day of the meeting. Yesterday's shower only aided the groundkeepers in keeping the big oval in prime condition and if the wind is not too strong, fast time is assured.

Two Outsiders Win.

Favorites divided the honors with outsiders yesterday. Four events were carded and in only two did the class of the field perform according to form.

Baron A., top-heavy favorite in the 2:07 pace, won handily in two straight heats.

Farra, which received most of the backing in the 2:12 trot, also disposed of his field without trouble.

Empire Direct, conceded the 2:18 pace before the flag fell, was never in the running, and O'Brien Boy, an outsider, captured the event. Cheney, thought by the experts to be the likeliest in the Fasig stake race, the big event of the day's program, was distanced in the first heat. Cascade, which finished a poor eighth in this heat, won the next two without trouble.

In the 2:18 pace Empire Direct, the favorite, broke badly in the first heat and did not regain his feet during the remainder of the race. Holly Brand, which sold cheaply in the betting, won the first heat with two lengths to spare, but broke in the back stretch in the next heat, which went to O'Brien Boy. O'Brien Boy showed his gameness by winning the final heat and the race in a driving finish with Holly Brand.

The 2:07 pace brought out a field of four horses. For the first time in the afternoon, a favorite played true to form. Baron A., won in two straight heats. The first heat, finished in 2:05¼, was the fastest of the afternoon.

Farra, the favorite in the 2:12 trot, won handily. Grand Marshall, also well backed, gave him his hardest opposition.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boston Wins Two.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—Boston won both games of a double-header from St. Louis yesterday, the first 6 to 3, and the second 10 to 6. The second game was called on account of darkness after seven and one-half innings had been played. Heavy hitting by the locals and the wildness of the St. Louis pitchers were directly responsible for the victories. Scores:

First game—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	0	1
Boston	2	0	1

Batteries—Sallee, Geyer and McLean, Wingo; Hess and Rariden. Umpires—Klem and Orth.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	6	12	3
Boston	10	8	1

Batteries—Perritt, Steele, Geyer and Wingo and Roberts; Rudolph and Whaling. Umpires—Klem and Orth.

Allows Three Hits.

Philadelphia, July 10.—On three hits, two of which were scratches, were made off Adams yesterday, and Pittsburg shut out Philadelphia, 3 to 0. The visitors made their first run in the fourth inning on a pass to Butler, Miller's single and Knabe's fumble of Wilson's grounder. Brennan pitched excellent ball, but was taken out to permit Walsh to bat for him in the eighth. In the ninth Pittsburg added two more runs on a single by McCarthy, Simons' double and a wild pitch by Alexander. Alexander hurt his side and was succeeded by Imlay, who in turn gave way to Mayer.

Pitcher Cooper of Pittsburg was notified by President Lynch of the National league yesterday that he had been fined $25 for arguing with Umpire Brennan Tuesday.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Pittsburg	3	10	2
Philadelphia	0	3	1

Batteries—Adams and Simon; Brennan, Alexander, Imlay, Mayer and Howley, Killifer. Umpires—Brennan and Eason.

Fourteen Straight.

New York, July 10.—New York made it fourteen straight yesterday, shutting out Chicago in the second game of the series, 3 to 0. Marquard held the visitors at his mercy. Of the four hits made off him only one was clean. Schulte got a two-base hit when Burns misjudged his fly and Cheney and Evers got scratch singles. Cheney pitched a strong game for Chicago, his poor inning being the fourth, when New York scored two runs on singles by Fletcher and Doyle and a double steal, Bresnahan's passed ball and Cheney's wild pitch. A third run was scored by New York in the eighth on consecutive singles by Shafer, Fletcher and Doyle. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	0	4	0
New York	3	6	3

Batteries—Cheney and Bresnahan; Marquard and Meyers. Umpires—Rigler and Byron.

Ninth-Inning Rally.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 10.—Yesterday's game had a sensational finish. Cincinnati going into the ninth one run behind and batting out a 6 to 5 victory. Both sides batted heavily and Benton was knocked out of the box in the fourth. Devore led with the stick, getting four hits in five times up. Both teams fielded sharply. Almeida, who replaced Dodge at third, was a big factor, figuring in a double play and driving in Marsans with the winning run. Three hundred Cuban military and civic officials who had just arrived in New York from the island attended the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	6	17	1
Brooklyn	5	13	1

Batteries—Benton, Suggs, Harter, Brown and Clarke; Ragan and Miller. Umpires—Quigley and Emslie.

FLYING BOATS RESUME TRIP

Two More Due to Get Away in Chicago to Detroit Cruise.

Beckwith Havens Is Only Aviator to Keep Up to Schedule.

Chicago, July 10.—Two more flying boats were due to get under way today in the hazardous cruise from Chicago to Detroit which began Tuesday. Glenn L. Martin of Los Angeles, whose machine turned a somersault in the Chicago harbor on Monday, expected to start today, two days behind time. Walter E. Johnson of New York, who got as far as Robertsdale, Ind., when the magneto failed him, has his aero yacht in perfect condition and planned to launch her again on Lake Michigan.

Beckwith Havens of Fishkill was to leave Macatawa this morning. He is the only pilot in the hydro-aeroplane fleet who has maintained the schedule. His first stop today was to be at Lake Harbor.

Roy M. Francis of San Francisco, who started a day later than Havens, is at South Haven receiving congratulations at his escape from death last night, when his machine struck a half submerged log, shattering the propellers. Another is on the way, and he hoped to get started late this afternoon.

Francis arrived at South Haven late yesterday afternoon, and after making some repairs, skimmed down the river at twilight, hoping to make Macatawa Bay before dark. The machine struck a log and the propeller blades splintered. Darkness prevented watchers on shore from witnessing the accident. An hour later they learned by telephone that the aviator had not arrived at Macatawa and the life-savers were notified. They picked up the drifting flying boat about 9 o'clock.

Tony Jannus of St. Louis, who paddled for three hours with a passenger during Tuesday's storm and was rescued by a tug, searched all day yesterday for the machine he was forced to abandon, without finding trace of it.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Poor Baseball.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—In the poorest exhibition seen here this season, Boston won over St. Louis, 9 to 0, yesterday. Ray Collins had the locals at his mercy, while Boston hit St. Louis pitchers hard and took advantage of the home team's miserable errors. In the ninth inning, Powell, a Michigan university recruit, went to the mound for St. Louis and was hit for a single and passed one man, these together with three rank errors, sending three men across the plate with runs. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston	9	10	0
St. Louis	0	4	6

Batteries—Collins and Carrigan; Leverenz, Wellman, Powell and Agnew. Umpires—Dineen and Egan.

Continue Winning Streak.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 10.—Philadelphia continued its winning streak yesterday, defeating Cleveland, 5 to 3, in the first game of the series. Five bases on balls by Mitchell enabled Philadelphia to score the first three runs.

Blanding went in for Cleveland in the eighth and held the visitors. Cleveland tied the score in the fifth on one double, Mitchell's single and Johnston's single. A rally in the ninth brought in two more for Cleveland, but Bush tightened up and prevented further scoring. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	3	12	2
Philadelphia	5	10	0

Batteries—Mitchell, Blanding and O'Neil; Bush and Schang. Umpires—Connolly and McGreevy.

Divide Double-Header.

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—Washington and Detroit divided yesterday's double-header, the home team winning the first, 5 to 3, and the visitors taking the second, 3 to 0. Dauss pitched good ball in the first contest, striking out seven men and was effective in the pinches. Groom was hit hard in the seventh, when four singles and a hit batsman gave the Tigers three runs.

The second game was something of a farce, Johnson held Detroit to two hits and no runs in six innings and then, with his team seven runs to the good, retired from the game, Gallia taking his place. Detroit used four pitchers, the first three of whom were easy for Washington. Dubuc was hit hard and was wild, House was hammered from the box and Zamloch was erratic. Washington scored five in the fifth inning on two passes, two hit batsmen, three singles and a sacrifice fly.

In the eighth Zamloch gave four bases on balls and Stanage and Louden made errors, giving the Senators their last tallies. With the game no longer in doubt, both teams used substitutes.

First game—	R.	H.	E.
Washington	3	8	3
Detroit	5	9	1

Batteries—Gallia, Groom and Henry; Dauss and McKee. Umpires—Hildebrand and O'Laughlin.

Second game—	R.	H.	E.
Washington	0	0	5
Detroit	0	2	2

Batteries—Johnson, Gallia and Ainsmith; Dubuc, House, Zamloch, Lake and Stanage. Umpires — O'Loughlin and Hildebrand.

Yankees Are Blanked.

Chicago, July 10.—Scott and Schalk proved too much for New York yesterday and Chicago shut out the visitors, 2 to 0. Scott struck out ten men, while Schalk's double, following Midkiff's fumble of Collins' grounder and Bodie's walk, gave the locals the game. The home team threatened to score in the opening inning, but a lightning double play by Peckinpaugh and Hartsell prevented. Manager Chance of New York gave Knight, a new first baseman, a trial yesterday, and he played well. The electric annunciators, which were recently installed in the park by President Comiskey, were given a workout and proved satisfactory.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Chicago	2	6	1

Batteries—Ford, Caldwell and Smith; Scott and Schalk. Umpires—Evans and Sheridan.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Thrilling Finish.

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—In a thrilling finish in which they overcame a five-run lead in the ninth inning, Kansas City defeated Minneapolis in the tenth, 6 to 5. The visitors got away to a four-run start in the initial inning and scored again in the third. In the tenth, Krichell's double and J. Williams' overthrow to first of Barbeau's grounder gave the locals the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	5	13	2
Kansas City	6	14	4

Batteries—Olmstead and Owens; Vaughn, Powell, Riley, Covington and Krichell. Umpires—O'Brien and Chill.

Brewers Win Another.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—Slapnicka pitched brilliantly with men on bases and though hit eleven times, allowed but one run, the leaders winning by a score of 3 to 1. Rieger pitched good ball outside of the first and eighth when the home club bunched six of its nine hits. Jones' hitting and Scott's work at short featured the game. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Milwaukee	3	9	1
St. Paul	1	11	1

Batteries—Slapnicka and Hughes; Rieger and James. Umpires—Murray and Connolly.

Indians Lose.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 10.—Opportune hitting netted Toledo seven runs yesterday, while the best the locals could do was four. Baskette allowed ten hits but kept them scattered while the visitors bunched theirs off two of the three local pitchers. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Toledo	7	8	0
Indianapolis	4	10	1

Batteries — Baskette and Devogt; Harrington, Works, Kaiserling and Livingston. Umpires—Johnstone and Murray.

Rain Prevents Game.

Columbus, Ohio, July 10.—Rain prevented Columbus and Louisville from getting started on a double-header yesterday and cut the one game attempted short after four full innings had been played. Columbus had a 1 to 0 lead.

PRELIMINARIES FOR DAVIS CUP

English and American Tennis Players Meeting in England.

Nottingham, Eng., July 10.—Crowds of lawn tennis enthusiasts reached this city last night and early today to attend the semi-final round to be played here today, tomorrow and Saturday between teams representing the United States and Germany in the preliminary contest for the selection of a team to challenge England for the Dwight F. Davis international trophy.

The weather was dull and threatening at the opening of the day.

The United States team is composed of Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, R. Morris Williams of Philadelphia and Harvard university, Harold H. Hackett of New York, and Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia as reserve.

The German team consists of Otto Froitzheim, Oscar Kreutzer, Friedrich Wilhelm Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschroth, and it is regarded by experts as a much stronger one than the team which defeated the French players in the preliminaries at Wiesbaden on June 4 and 5. Froitzheim, the leader among German lawn tennis players, did not play then owing to an injured arm. Since the Wiesbaden meeting Froitzheim has taken part in the tennis championships at Paris with conspicuous success. Froitzheim is about 35 years old and is regarded as the father of the game in Germany. He is an assistant judge at Strassburg.

Rahe, the second man on the team, of Rostock, in Mecklenburg, is small, nervous and hustling, a striking contrast in methods to Froitzheim. He is 28 years old.

Kleinschroth disputes with brother, Robert, the ranking of third best player in Germany. He is about 27 years old.

Kreutzer is a general utility man. He is 28 years old and is the all-round man, playing practically as well as the Kleinschroths in singles and a very strong player in doubles.

All the men have European reputations, having played through many tournaments on the Riviera, at St. Moritz, in France and in England.

According to the program two single matches were scheduled for today, Williams being drawn against Kreutzer and McLoughlin against Froitzheim.

CONNIE MACK'S SON SETS FIELDING RECORD.

Raleigh, N. C., July 10.—Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is believed to have made a new world's record yesterday for chances accepted in a ball game between the Raleigh and Durham clubs of the Carolina league. Mack accepted thirty-one chances, twenty-nine put-outs and two assists, without an error. The game went eighteen innings.

CRUST ON HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

So Would Wake Up Nights and Cry, Head Bare in Spots. Cured Entirely in Six Weeks by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

Rockford, Ia. — "My little girl had a hard crust form on her head. Her head had a rash on it and it itched and burned so she would wake up nights and cry. Then it formed into sores and then it turned into a dry crust, and when I combed her hair great locks would come out. Her head was bare of hair in spots.

"Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they cured her entirely in six weeks and her hair came in lovely. At that time she was about ten years old and now she is twenty-six and has never had any more trouble." (Signed) Mrs. H. J. Wadey, Dec. 14, 1912.

PAINFUL ITCHING AND BURNING

209 Jackson St., Milwaukee, Wis. — "My trouble began with small speckles on my chest, arms and legs. Later it took the form of little blisters which caused painful itching and burning. In the day I was tormented by the clothing which irritated the eruption and in the night I lost rest from the itching. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment finding relief in the first day of treatment. In one week I was well." (Signed) Joseph Cascone, Nov. 30, 1912.

For treating poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA IS FOILED

Attempt to Prevent Carnival From Showing Proves Unsuccessful.

Sheriff Declines to Act When Police Are Restrained.

If Virginia, the fair and thriving metropolis of the Mesaba range, doesn't like carnivals with their noisy and confetti-throwing crowds, the city officers will think twice in future before granting privileges and licenses to show people. It's too late afterwards.

Yesterday Virginia tried to stop the carnival shows of Corey Bros., who had previously secured a license to show there for one week beginning July 7. The city officials revoked the license—or thought they did—and tendered the show people their license fee.

Naturally Corey Bros. refused. They immediately consulted the attorney and before an hour or so had passed secured an injunction or temporary restraining order from William J. Archer, court commissioner, ordering the mayor, chief of police, officials or other agents or the city to refrain from stopping the shows.

The restraining order was served upon the mayor and chief of police. A hurried conference was held with Daniel Morgan, city attorney.

Had an Idea.

A bright and ingenious idea seized Mr. Morgan, who 'lowed he'd have the law on them before another day had passed, in any event.

He swore out a warrant for the arrest of the carnival proprietors charging them with the violation of a city ordinance—that of showing without a license.

The Virginia police, he figured, were restrained by the order of the court from serving the paper and making the arrest. But what was to prevent the sheriff's office from stepping in and doing it for them?

The warrant was handed over to Deputy Sheriff Fred C. White with instructions to arrest the show people.

Deputy White got into immediate communication with Sheriff John R. Meining. The sheriff consulted with the county attorney's office and then telephoned his deputy: "Nothing doin.'"

In refusing to serve the warrant, the sheriff takes the stand that the spirit of the injunction would be violated and that in reality a deputy sheriff would be merely an agent of the municipality and answerable to the court for contempt.

"I hold that the city attorney at Virginia had no right to issue the warrant," said Mr. Meining this morning. "According to my idea he is restrained from doing so by the injunction."

The temporary restraining order is not returnable in district court until July 19. By that time the show will be out of the city.

CARNIVAL COMPANY STILL GIVES SHOWS

Proceedings to Prevent Virginia Performances Come to Naught.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Enjoined by Court Commissioner W. J. Archer from interfering with their business, the Corey Amusement company, whose license to run a carnival here was revoked, the city authorities find themselves up against it. After the restraining order was issued City Attorney Morgan late last night procured a warrant for the arrest of the carnival people, but this the sheriff refused to serve, not caring to be cited for contempt.

The time fixed for the hearing is July 19, by which time the show company will be ready to leave Virginia.

TRAINING FOR RURAL TEACHERS

New Department Will Be Added to the Schools of Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board last night authorized Supt. Colgrove to institute a training department for rural teachers and accepted his recommendation that Miss Izzetta Sabean of Hayward, Wis., a graduate of the Oshkosh normal and the University of Wisconsin, be employed at $1,100 a year to conduct the training department. New teachers for the high school, being eight out of fourteen in all, were submitted by Supt. Colgrove and the list was confirmed. The nominations were: Jennie Craven of Faribault, Minn.; Leslie H. Wellman of Monona, Iowa; Edna I. Murphy of Wykoff, Minn.; Agnes Jaques of Minneapolis, Adolph H. Nietz of Rochester, Cora Maderfeld of St. Paul, Lona Lange of St. Paul, and Katharyn Denfeld of Duluth. All are graduates of the University of Minnesota and Miss Murphy is also a graduate of Chicago university. The salary of Susan C. Hohmann, principal of the high school, was also advanced to $175 a month and the salary of Miss McFarlane is advanced to $130 per month.

To Paint Central School.

Contracts were awarded to A. F. Winkler, R. A. Holdridge and A. M. Holstrom for painting in the Central, South Side, Johnson and Primary school buildings. Supt. Colgrove called attention to the fact that a school census is required by law to be taken during July or August, and he was authorized to engage help to get this out. The board will also receive bids for supplies during the coming year. When the question of the lyceum course entertainments was being discussed, Member W. H. Eaton said he disapproved of the entertainment course for the reason that he did not think the school district should go into the show business. His judgment was overruled by the other members and a contract will be made for an entertainment course again for the coming winter.

ANOTHER CITY WELL NOW BEING DRIVEN

Fourth for Virginia to Increase Daily Output Many Gallons.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia Electric Power & Water company is sinking a new well, the fourth the company has put down just north of the Canadian Northern depot. The additional well is expected to give the plant a pumping capacity of 2,000,000 gallons a day or about double the amount the city is consuming on an average at the present time. Two of the wells will be kept in commission all the time and two in reserve. Under the contract and option between the city and the company the city reimburses the company, in the event of the consummation of the sale of the property to the city, the city reimburses the company for the improvements that are being made and have been made since the Burns & McDonnell appraisal.

CHISHOLM WILL LICENSE DRIVERS

Ordinance Is Introduced Covering Autos Kept for Hire.

Chisholm, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council yesterday afternoon opened bids for furnishing material for the paving work which begins today.

A. H. Kleffman, for the Parl Addition Land company renewed his offer of certain grounds across Longyear lake and at station No. 13 on the Mesaba Electric line and a counter proposition was made by the council giving until the next regular meeting to accept or reject.

Assessor Charles Kimball reported that the annual assessment had been completed.

The transfer of liquor license was granted from Louis Kalanj to Charles Zgonc, and from Charles Zgonc to Lovshine Bros.

A sewer was ordered laid on Second avenue between Maple street and the alley south of Maple street.

Must Connect With Sewers.

A resolution was passed compelling persons in certain locations to make sewer connections and directly affects Max Miller, No. 208 West Walnut street.

An ordinance covering the licensing of automobile drivers had its first reading. The license fee will be $25 annually and will control the stand where automobiles may establish themselves for transient business.

The water commission met last evening and ordered the superintendent to issue a call for bids for approximately 7,000 feet of eight-inch cast iron pipe and 500 feet of ten-inch cast iron pipe. Bids to be opened July 22. This new material will be used to carry the water from the Monroe mine, its present source, to the settling basin on Walnut street.

VIRGINIA CONCERT.

Siukonen; song, Hibbing quartet; piano solo, Neiti Sandberg; song, male choir.

INVESTIGATING GAME LAW VIOLATIONS.

Eveleth, Minn., July 10.—Game Warden G. H. Huseboy of Duluth is investigating reported violations of the game laws. It is claimed that since Game Warden Wood was discharged, the game and fish hogs have again become active. The country to the south of this city is said to afford some of the best fishing in the lake region, and local sportsmen are much elated over the fact that Mr. Huseboy is watching the lakes in this vicinity.

Chisholm Open Air Concert.

Chisholm, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrangements were made between the village council and the Commercial and National bands whereby open air concerts will be held during July, August and September. Oscar Simstrom, leader of the Commercial band, and Steve Zgonc, manager of the National band, agreed to alternate with each other so that three concerts a week will be given, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. The first concert will be held across from the city hall on the new library lots.

Many Motorists Visit Range.

Virginia, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many more automobiles are making the trips from Duluth to the range this year than formerly. Several parties in large cars have made the trip during the past week. A party coming yesterday included A. H. Lindeke of St. Paul, R. M. Weyerhaeuser and J. W. Mahan of Cloquet, George F. Constans of Duluth and C. D. Richards of Duluth.

AURORA PLANS ON GREETING FIREMEN

Sixth Annual Tournament of Mesaba Range Firemen July 23-25.

Aurora, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With about $1,000 raised for sports prizes and other expenses, the various committees in charge of the annual tournament of the Mesaba Range Volunteer Firemen's association, which will be held her. July 23-25, expect a large attendance and much sport. Although there is a schism in the ranks of the association, an insurgent organization planning on a tournament at Schley or Gilbert, the coming meeting here is expected to be very successful.

The three days' program follows:

Wednesday, July 23.

Reception for visiting firemen.

Association hose race—First prize, association banner valued at $50; second prize, $30; third prize, $15.

Annual parade of firemen.

Most men in line (Aurora excluded), $25; department making best appearance, $15; best working and best appearing track team for the three days, $15.

Thursday, July 24.

Combination hook and ladder and hose race—First, $30; second, $15; third, $10.

Flag race—First, $20; second, $15; third, $10.

Ladder climbing contest—First, $15; second, $10; third, $5.

Dummy race—First, $25; second, $15; third, $10.

Novelty hose race—First, $30; second, $15; third, $10.

Friday, July 25.

Hub and tub race—First, $30; second, $15; third, $10.

Coupling contest—First, $15; second, $10; third, $5.

Firemen's foot race—First, $15; second, $10; third, $5.

Surface wet test—First, $25; second, $15; third, $10.

APPRAISERS SEEK TO VALUE PROPERTY

Would Place Value on Land Wanted for Fair Site.

Hibbing, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Assistant County Attorney Adams and County Auditor Halden, yesterday appeared before the appraisers appointed by the district court to value the local property wanted for an additional fair site.

The action is for the condemnation of the land which for some time has been used here for the county fair, and was begun by Mr. Adams. The land consists of 160 acres.

The appraising board is composed of John A. Redbern, Hibbing; William J. Bates, Duluth, and N. B. Shank, Biwabik.

The property is located in the southwest corner of section 36, township 56 and range 21. The county fairs have been held there for several years under the direction of the agricultural society. Believing that more suitable buildings should be erected to house the county's exhibits, than those now standing, the county commissioners, at a recent meeting, appropriated $7,500 for a new structure.

TWO GIVEN DIVORCES.

Brief Term of District Court at Ely Has Come to Close.

Ely, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The brief term of district court held here, the first ever held on the Vermilion range, ended yesterday afternoon when Judge Hughes granted Mrs. J. Nickerson and Mrs. Selma Hill divorces.

Mrs. Nickerson is given the custody of their seven children and a monthly alimony of $35. The Nickersons have been married many years, and have a fine farm near the city.

Mrs. Hill was given the custody of their 4-months-old child, and awarded $20 alimony each month. The husband is serving a 90-day sentence in the county jail for wife-beating.

REJECT ROAD BIDS.

Too High and Town of White Has Advertised for New Ones.

Aurora, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town board of the town of White rejected all bids for the two miles of extension of the Palo road as being too high and will readvertise the work. The new bids will be opened July 26. There were four bids for the work ranging from $900 per mile to $758.50. The road is easily built and the board considered these prices too much for this work.

Two miles of road to connect with the Vermilion trunk road in township 57 were legalized and ordered laid out, also two miles of road between townships 57 and 58. The road between 57 and 58 will be advertised and bids received.

Superfluous Hair Truths

DeMiracle

The Only Safe Hair Remover

Each application of an unknown depilatory is a dangerous experiment and likely to cause permanent disfigurement. The mere fact that such preparations are short-lived should alone be sufficient warning to avoid their use. De Miracle has stood the test of time, having been sold for over 11 years, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

The Unoffensive Depilatory

If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor an offensive tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

Ideal summer weather continues. The weather maker was evidently kindly disposed toward Duluth's many visitors, and handed out Duluth's special brand of cool breezes and bright sunshine. A year ago today it was fair. The sun rose this morning at 4:18 and will set at 8:02, making fifteen hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Hot weather prevailed in Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana and Alabama. Temperatures of 100 deg. or more occurred in southeastern Montana and Arizona. Grandma Talks About Babies

Has a large Circle of Listeners Who Profit by Her Wisdom and Experience.

In most any community there's a grandma who knows Mother's Friend. It was her experience and recommendation that led so many expectant mothers to derive the comfort and blessing of this famous remedy.

It is applied externally to the abdomen, stomach and breasts, allays all pain, avoids all nausea, and prevents caking of the breasts.

It is quickly and wonderfully penetrating so that the muscles expand without strain, and prepare the system so thoroughly that the crisis is passed almost without the slightest distress.

No better advice can be given the expectant mother than to suggest the use of Mother's Friend. She takes courage from the start. The days will be cheerful, the nights restful.

You can obtain Mother's Friend of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle. Do not forget to be supplied with this great help to motherhood. Write Bradfield Regulator Co., 233 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their instructive book for expectant mothers.

WORK FARM BOARD NAMED

Three Members Appointed By Chairman of County Commission.

Olafson, Silliman and Myers Are the New Members.

WORK FARM COMMISSION.

Arthur H. Crassweller, attorney, Duluth, term expires Jan. 5, 1914.
Thomas Olafson, real estate dealer, Duluth, term expires Jan. 5, 1914.
Rt. Rev. James McGolrick, Catholic bishop, Duluth, term expires Jan. 4, 1915.
Arthur P. Silliman, mining engineer, Hibbing, term expires Jan. 4, 1915.
Fred B. Myers, banker, Biwabik, term expires Jan. 3, 1916.
Appointed by mayor: Bishop McGolrick and Mr. Crassweller.
Appointed by chairman of county board: Messrs. Olafson, Silliman and Myers.
All appointments must be approved by district court judges.

Neil McInnis of Eveleth, chairman of the county board, yesterday announced his appointments to the joint city and county work farm commission, which will have charge of the new correctional institution authorized by the last legislature. Chairman McInnis named Thomas Olafson of this city, Arthur P. Silliman of Hibbing and Fred B. Myers of Biwabik.

Under the law authorizing the establishment of a joint city and county work farm in St. Louis county, it is provided that three of the members of a commission of five shall be appointed by the chairman of the county board and that two shall be named by the mayor of Duluth, all appointments to be subject to the approval of a majority of the judges of the district court.

Mayor Prince last week announced that he had appointed Bishop James McGolrick and Arthur H. Crassweller and the city's representatives on the work farm board.

The men named by Chairman McInnis are well known throughout the county. Mr. Olafson is a former city assessor and a prominent member of the Duluth Real Estate exchange from the western end of the city. He has a real estate business at West Duluth.

Arthur P. Silliman is a well-known mining engineer at Hibbing and a member of the township board of the town of Stuntz.

Fred B. Myers is president of the First National bank of Biwabik and has been active in the civic affairs of the community in which he resides.

Have Full Charge.

The board of five will have entire charge and supervision of the work farm, which will be established on a site of 960 acres which has been purchased jointly by the city and county about six and one-half miles west of the courthouse on the Swan Lake road. The city owns 400 acres and the county 560 acres adjoining.

It is expected that the commission will meet in the very near future to select a president and to attend to other matters incidental to organization. A superintendent for the farm will be one of the first matters to come before the board. The appointment will be made subject to the approval of the district court judges. The next step will be to adopt a set of working rules, which must also be subject to judicial approval.

An office for the new commission will be provided in the courthouse, where the records of the commission may be preserved. As soon as the board is in working harness, preliminary steps will be taken looking towards the erection of a residence for the superintendent on the work farm site and temporary buildings to house petty prisoners who will be taken there. Later on more substantial buildings will be put up, the design of the authors of the law being to have the work done by the prisoners themselves. In a general way, the work on the farm will be conducted along lines followed by similar institutions throughout the country.

A greater portion of the men sent to the farm will be drunkards and wayward husbands. The aim of the institution is understood to be to give the offenders an opportunity to be cured of the drink habit and to brace up under outdoor work treatment.

MEAT FAMINE IN DULUTH

Beef and Veal Are Reported Very Scarce Here.

Warm Weather Increases Demand for Chops and Steaks.

There is a beef and veal famine in Duluth and all over the Northwest today, and in Duluth no meat dealer can obtain either from the wholesale houses.

Prices are higher than they have been in a long time and will go still higher in a few days if the famine situation is not relieved. It is not expected that there will be relief before the middle of next week, and only a very few beeves or veals are expected in.

The only reason for the situation assigned is that the Fourth of July coming close to the middle of last week caused farmers to cease shipping and that work has not been resumed sufficiently to supply the market. On the wholesale basis good beef has jumped 1½ to 2 cents a pound, mutton has advanced ½ cent and so have pork loins. It was said on Michigan street this morning that a drastic advance would not be surprising within a few days, and it was claimed this morning that it is utterly impossible to furnish beef or veal to the meat dealers today.

In the meat markets the warmer weather has increased the demand for meat for frying to such an extent that there is scarcely anything sold for stewing, boiling or roasting. It was expected that steaks, chops and other things for frying would advance in price, but they have not; on the other hand lamb for stewing, for example, can be pretty nearly annexed for the carrying of it away. Ready cooked food is having an immense increase these days.

FORTUNE TELLERS ARE NOT WANTED

Three Licenses Are Revoked—No More Will Be Issued.

Duluth's city commission placed its stamp of disapproval upon fortune tellers at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, when the licenses of three seers operating in the downtown section were revoked.

The permits to forecast the future were held by Katherine, Rosie and Mary Adams at 30, 213 and 629 West Superior street, respectively.

The meeting was called at the request of Commissioner Hicken, head of the division of public safety. He stated that unfavorable reports had been made against the seers operating in the city and that it would be in the interests of the city to put a stop to their operations. Commissioner Hicken stated that no fortune telling licenses will be issued in Duluth in the future, although they bring a return of $50 a month, each.

"BLACK BART" RELEASED

Notorious Upper Michigan Highwayman Is Given Freedom.

Marquette, Mich., July 10.—"Black Bart" Holshay, whose criminal career was one of the most spectacular ever recorded in the United States, was released yesterday from Marquette prison after having served twenty-four years of a life sentence imposed in 1889 for murder. His release is made possible by legislation enacted two years ago, which extends the benefits of the parole law to convicts undergoing life sentence.

Holzhay is now 47 years old. When he was received at the prison he was illiterate and possessed a record as a desperado, stage coach and train robber. He gave the prison much trouble the first few years, but after a surgical operation his character changed completely and he became a model prisoner.

He has since been a student and has given himself a good education. For many years he has been the prison librarian and photographer.

CUBS' FOOD.

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts.

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious, healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

RETURN TO FIND HOME IN RUINS.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 10.—Henry Bixby's residence in the town of Amor was struck by lightning and burned. The family was away, and on returning in the evening found the home in ashes.

PARK RAPIDS HAS LET SEWER CONTRACT.

Park Rapids, Minn., July 10.—The village council let a contract yesterday to R. A. Rowat, a civil engineer of Willmar, for the survey and specifications for the Park Rapids sewerage system. Mains will be laid in every part of the town.

Drink and Grow Thin! Real Cure for Obesity

(From Hygienic Review)

Drink a pint of hot water one and a half to two hours before each meal, and a half hour before bedtime. The object is to cleanse the stomach of mucus, bile and products of fermentation before eating and sleeping. So as not to distend the stomach, take from five to ten minutes to drink the water. Digestion is easier with little liquid in the stomach, so drink between rather than with meals.

Avoid the usual digestion-disturbing obesity medicines while undergoing this treatment. Instead, eat boranium jujubes. These are said to be remarkably effective in their action on fatty deposits. Elimination of these deposits is greatly aided by the hot water, taken as directed. The jujubes and the water so used are pronounced a real cure for obesity. Not only may reduction to normal weight be looked for, but great improvement in general health. Boranium jujubes may be had at any drug store. They may be eaten freely, but are generally recommended to be taken one after each meal and one at bedtime.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

VOLLMER IS COMING BACK

Grand Forks Man, Arrested in West, Denies Charges Against Him.

Message From Vollmer to His Wife Helped to Locate Accused.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twelve hundred dollars worth of diamonds belonging to Max Rabinovich of this city, which he charged C. J. Vollmer attempted to make away with, were recovered by Rabinovich yesterday at Seattle, Wash., where Vollmer and two companions, Isadore Droskins and Dan Magee, were turned over to Grand Forks officials. They will arrive here Saturday.

Vollmer, a local automobile dealer, faces charges of removing mortgaged property from the county, as well as of grand larceny. Two automobiles were driven by Vollmer and his companions to St. Paul, and from there shipped to San Francisco.

Telegram to Wife Undoing.

A telegram sent by Vollmer to his wife, from Vancouver to San Francisco, proved his undoing, his arrest following very soon.

When turned over to local authorities yesterday, Vollmer declared that he had the permission of his business partner, C. R. Verry of Park River, to take the machines out of the state.

RAISED FIRST ALFALFA CROP

James and Andrew Holes Introduced Forage Into Red River Valley.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The pioneer alfalfa growers in the Red river valley were James and Andrew Holes. The former lives adjoining the city of Fargo. The latter was a resident of Moorhead until his death a few years ago. Thirty-five years ago they became convinced that alfalfa would grow in the valley and secured some seed. Ever since that time they have grown the crop.

James Holes, who was one of the first five white settlers to locate around what is now Fargo, believes alfalfa is the most profitable crop that can be grown in North Dakota.

Three Crops Yearly.

He finds that he can raise three crops each year. The first usually yields from two and a half to three tons per acre, the second from two to two and a half, the third about two tons, making a total crop each year of from six to seven and a half tons of the finest hay in the world.

His success, coupled with the continued efforts of the agricultural college, the better farming movement and the lecturers for the farmers' institutes has created a state-wide interest in alfalfa. Many farmers are growing it and meeting with success. The acreage is increasing annually.

MILL CITY "BARON'S" FUNERAL IS HELD.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Funeral services were held here today for Gustaf Erik Wedel Jarlsberg, scion of a long line of German and Norwegian nobles, who died Saturday, aged 56, after living for twenty years at Lake Minnetonka in comparative obscurity, interment being made in Lakeview. A wife survives.

"Baron" Wedel Jarlsberg was what the British know as a "remittance man." His family sent him an allowance of $175 a month and a few years ago provided means for the purchase of a small lake property at Fagerness, Lake Minnetonka.

DULUTH BRANCH IS RECOMMENDED

Director of U Extension Work Lays Plan Before State Regents.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10. — A quorum of the regents of the University of Minnesota failing to appear for yesterday's meeting, the executive committee of the governing board went into session for the purpose of making appointments to the faculty.

George J. Young of the University of Nevada was made professor of mining for three years, to succeed Prof. Van Barneveld, who has been granted a leave of absence to become director of the mines exhibit of the Panama exposition.

Prof. Young was graduated from the University of California. Since 1900 he has been professor of mining at the Nevada institution and has been dean of the Mackay school of mines there since 1908.

Adolph F. Meyer of the United States engineering corps was appointed professional lecturer in hydroplitics for a year, to assist in the enlarged fields of the extension department and its work next winter.

To Build Crookston Warehouse.

The university extension budget of $40,000 was adopted by the executive committee and it authorized the construction of a $5,000 warehouse at Crookston.

Prof. Richard R. Price, new director of the extension work, submitted his plans for the work in that department. They include a municipal reference bureau, to be established this winter at the university, a short course in merchandising for Minnesota country merchants and a branch office of the extension department in Duluth.

Raymond Kent, Winona, a teacher of many years' experience and a graduate of Columbia university, has been selected by the regents to become principal of the university model high school and assistant professor of education.

SEEK MARSHALSHIP.

William Collins of Bottineau, N. D., Said to Be Leading.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of all the political appointments anticipated in North Dakota this summer, the chief interest centers around the United States marshalship. The candidates so far are Williams Collins of Bottineau, former Penitentiary Warden Hellstrom, S. J. Doyle of Carrington, F. W. McLean of Fargo, and possibly D. B. McArthur of Fargo.

Collins is said to have the indorsement of National Committeeman Bruegger.

F. O. Hellstrom was the Democratic nominee for governor during the last campaign, and having borne the brunt of that campaign, it is said, feels entitled to some reward.

Next to Collins it is believed McLean, who is secretary of the Democratic state central committee, is the favored one with Bruegger. S. J. Doyle, who was formerly a member of the legislature, and the recognized floor leader, has many indorsements.

NORMAL COMMISSION VISITS CASS LAKE.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee to select the site for the new normal school in Northern Minnesota spent yesterday in Cass Lake and vicinity. State Supt. Schulz of St. Paul, W. W. Brown of St. James, Ole O. Sageng of Dalton, James A. Ferguson of Duluth and S. B. Wilson of Mankato comprise the committee which arrived yesterday morning, and they were met by a committee of the Commercial club, which took them in autos to the site just north of town, returning at noon for luncheon. Early yesterday afternoon the party made a trip to the country, returning about 3 p. m. for a trip on Cass lake and around Star island. A 6 o'clock dinner was served at Star Island inn, after which the party returned to Cass Lake. Last evening, at Judith lodge, Cass Lake citizens presented arguments to the commission, giving their reasons why the new normal school should be located here. The visitors left this morning for Park Rapids.

New Fargo Department Store.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through a combination of the Rudd dry goods house and the Roen & Co. millinery store, Fargo is to have a new department store. It will have 24,000 feet of floor space and be one of the largest in the city. It will be opened for business in time for the fall trade.

Frazee Boy Hurt.

Frazee, Minn., July 10.—Frank Mee, 13, son of John Mee, had the finger and thumb of his left hand blown off while playing with a dynamite cap. The flesh from the right hand was partly torn away, and a part of his thumb, including the nail, was blown through his cheek.

PRACTICE PROHIBITED.

No More Mooring Government Barges on Banks of La Crosse Park.

La Crosse, Wis., July 10.—Following an investigation here of the triple drowning on the evening of July 4, in which Myrtle Ellers, Elizabeth Haebich and Wiliam Zenker lost their lives, by Maj. C. Keller, U. S. A., Rock Island, Ill., in charge of the Upper Mississippi river, an order was issued prohibiting government employes from mooring barges on the bank of Pettibone park. The drownings resulted when a boat was swept by the fast current under the head of a large barge.

The body of Miss Ellers is the only one which has not been recovered.

MUST REPEAT DATE.

Milwaukee Married Man Reminded of Day He Became Benedict.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—"June 14, 1887," is the recitation which Philip Leborski will have to repeat ten times a day for the next sixty days in order to keep out of the house of correction, according to the sentence pronounced upon him yesterday in district court.

Leborski, who is a well-to-do real estate owner, was arrested Tuesday when a patrolman found him shaking his fist and swearing at his wife while she was perched on the highest gable of their home.

During the trial Leborski told the court he was trying to forget that he was married, and that he had succeeded in forgetting the date of the marriage ceremony. The court informed him that no man had a right to forget such a date, and then ordered his case continued for sixty days, and told the man to recite the date of the wedding ten times daily for that period or he would have to go to jail. Leborski started his recitations before he was out of the courtroom, and his wife was doing the counting.

TO IMPROVE FORKS STREET RAILROAD.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the purpose of carrying on extensive improvement operations, the Grand Forks Street Railway company has issued $50,000 bonds. The improvements consist of the construction of new car barns, the relaying of the interurban line between the city and the University of North Dakota, together with the extension of other lines and general improvement of road bed.

STERILIZATION BILL PASSES STATE SENATE.

Madison, Wis., July 10.—With only the votes of Pichler, Burke and Husting in opposition, the senate yesterday passed the Hoyt bill for sterilization of the feeble-minded, epileptics and insane.

By a vote of 11 to 10 the senate refused to strike out of the anti-trust bill the provision exempting co-operative societies. This provision was incorporated on the motion of Senator Bosshard at yesterday's session.

ESCAPED LEPER ON WAY TO MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—Longing for his home in Minneapolis, Dominick Pietteri, a leper, committed to the United States leper hospital at Diamond Point, Wash., is walking back to this city, according to information received here yesterday. United States officials say he escaped from quarantine after weeks of brooding and longing for his former friends.

December and May Wed.

Shell Lake, Wis., July 10.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Albert Thompson, aged 71, and Rose Daniels, aged 22, both of this place.

Couderay Has Band.

Couderay, Wis., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Couderay brass band has been organized with a membership of eighteen. M. Anderson, a band leader and music teacher of Manila, Iowa, has been engaged as leader.

To Lay Corner Stone.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herad.)—The corner stone of the Grand Forks county courthouse will be laid July 16 instead of July 15. Governor L. B. Hanna will speak and mayors of several Grand Forks county cities will participate. George A. Banks of Grand Forks will make the principal address of the day.

Insurance Men at Jamestown.

Jamestown, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the North Dakota Mutual association began here today. G. Gibson Dunlap, president, of Jamestown called the session to order. The principal speakers today were the president, L. L. Brusletten of Ramsey county, W. W. Smith of Foster county and C. M. Holbert of Valley City. A. H. Runge, state fire marshal, will speak tomorrow.

WISCONSIN BERRY SEASON NOW ON.

Bayfield, Wis., July 10.—Five car loads of strawberries were shipped from here Tuesday and seven car loads the night before. The strawberry season is now at its height and when it ends it is probable that over sixty car loads will have been sent out.

In addition to the shipments from Bayfield, there is an average of at least a car a day being shipped out of Washburn. Altogether fully $75,000 worth of strawberries will be shipped out of Bayfield peninsula this year.

The first shipment of strawberries out of Bayfield was made June 20.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Hastings—Frank J. Keetley, a farmer of Dakota county, committed suicide today by hanging himself in a barn. He was 52 and unmarried. No cause is assigned for his act other than that he was possibly overcome by the heat yesterday.

Rochester—C. F. Fisher of this city had a narrow escape from serious injuries when, cranking an auto, the machine started to run over him. It is believed the brake was not firmly set. The machine ran over his body and into the Union National bank, doing no damage because of the slow speed. Mr. Fisher escaped with severe bruises.

Morton—The 5-year-old son of Charles Ahrns, a farmer living north of Morton, was terribly injured while the father was mowing. The boy was playing in the tall grass, and was unseen by his father, who ran the mower upon him and cut off one leg and nearly severed the other. The child was rushed to a hospital at Gaylord.

Roseau—The state teachers' training school for Roseau county has started with a good attendance. P. A. Davis of Minneapolis is conductor and E. N. Hamilton, Osakis, Anna M. White, Minneapolis, and Anna Connelly Olsen, county superintendent, are instructors.

Winona—Mr. and Mrs. James L. Moore of this city have just celebrated the fifty-third anniversary of their wedding. They were married at Alton, Ind., but for thirty-seven years they have made their home in Winona.

Stillwater—Mrs. Rosalie, wife of Anton Krenz, died Monday night at the family residence, aged 72 years. Surviving are the husband, the sons, August, Clement and Leo of this city, and Albert of North Yakima, Wash.; the daughters, Mrs. Emil Noack, Mrs. Martin Roloff, Mrs. J. G. Armson and Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, all of this city; and the brother, August Arndt of Stillwater.

Fergus Falls—John C. Meyer tendered his resignation as alderman from the Third ward Tuesday as he has decided to remove from the city. He expects to leave for Minneapolis and will either engage in the grocery business there or travel for a wholesale firm, making his headquarters in that city.

St. Cloud—Carl, the 9-year-old son of Fred G. Schuster, was drowned Tuesday afternoon while in bathing with a number of playmates. The young boy was caught in an undertow and carried under the boom.

Mankato—General Manager Mohler of the Union Pacific road was in Mankato Monday night. He has been spending some days at Lake Washington on a fishing outing and was en route to Omaha.

Little Falls—E. G. Hall, president of the State Federation of Labor, and George Schneider, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, will give talks before the dance to be given by the papermakers in Progressive hall on the night of July 11.

Minneapolis—Royce B. Wright, chief examiner of the Illinois state civil service commission at Springfield, Ill., has been elected secretary and chief examiner of the Minneapolis civil service commission.

Blue Earth—The fifth annual Blue Earth Chautauqua ended Tuesday night after an eight days' session with the Kaffir boys' choir entertainment. Lincoln Wirt gave an address yesterday afternoon on "The Conquest of the Arctic."

Mankato—Carl Leo, a stonecutter employed in the McClure quarries, was killed Tuesday when a cable snapped from a drum in the engine room, letting a heavy stone, being moved by the derrick, fall on him. He was 30 years old. A widow and three children survive.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Ishpeming—The employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company will receive their June wages as follows: Queen mines, Negaunee, on Saturday, July 12; Lake Superior mines, Monday, July 14, and Stegmiller mine, Swanzey range, on Tuesday, June 15.

Iron Mountain—Miss Elizabeth Skillen, daughter of William Skillen, who was recently graduated from the literary department of the Michigan university with high markings, has been tendered a position in the Jackson, Mich., high school as instructor in English, over many applicants.

Marquette—Rev. T. E. Collister, wife and daughter have left for Quebec, whence they will sail aboard the Empress of Britain for their former home on the Isle of Man. They will be absent from the city two months. Rev. Mr. Collister is suffering from a breakdown in health and is taking the trip to recuperate.

Negaunee—The sum of $4,064.04 was expended by the board of public works of the city of Negaunee for streets and highways during the month of June, 1913, according to the monthly report of the board, submitted to the common council.

Lake Linden—Napoleon Dupuis, aged 65 years, an esteemed resident of Lake Linden, died Monday night from the effects of a paralytic stroke, sustained six years ago. He was a native of Canada and is survived by his widow, three sons, Edward and Rudolph, living at home, and Joseph of Lake Linden, and four daughters, Mrs. Oliver Baril of Lake Linden, and Misses Florence, Valerie and Lenora at home.

Marquette—Arthur E. Boswell for more than twenty years connected with the Mining Journal, and of late years its advertising manager, has gone to Muskegon, to close a deal to take over the ownership of the Muskegon Times, the only morning paper in the city.

Houghton—Lawton T. Hemans, C. L. Glasgow and James Scully of the Michigan railroad commission, Wednesday inspected the Copper Range railroad, the Houghton County Traction company, and the Keweenaw Central railroad.

Calumet—The site of the mammoth new ice rink to be erected by the Central Storage company just west of the No. 2 warehouse of the Calumet & Hecla company, on Red Jacket road, is being surveyed. When the survey is complete and plans of the Worden-Allen company for the structural steel bases are received, ground will be broken and the excavation started.

Ishpeming — William G. Mather, president of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, has arrived in the city. Mr. Mather recently returned from an extended tour in Europe.

Calumet—Four days of carnival, merry-making and jollity await the Upper Peninsula Firemen's association upon its nineteenth annual tournament in Red Jacket July 23 to 26. Elaborate entertainment has been arranged and every detail that will add to the success of the gathering has been carefully planned.

Marquette — The carpenters local union installed these officers: President, R. J. Dorow; vice president, F. Lovaas; recording secretary, W. Henry; financial secretary, J. Kimball; treasurer, O. Everson; conductor, A. Norgood; warden, H. Stratford; auditors, Charles Johnson, H. Stratford, Joe Oulette; trustees, W. Smith, W. A. Johnson and Iner Vester.

Ishpeming—Owen Cullin, an old and well known bachelor of this city, aged 78 years, died at his home on Jaspar street, Monday.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland — J. F. Wilson, who has been the superintendent of Ashland public schools for the past two years, has left for Appleton, where he will enter upon his new duties with the Charles Scribner & Son's Book company of New York city.

Janesville—J. C. Nichols, former mayor, was nominated by a majority of 300 to compete with present Mayor James Father in the recall election, July 23.

Madison—Notice of an appeal to the Dane county circuit court to attempt to overturn the decision of the railroad commission in the express cases was served upon Attorney General Owen Tuesday. The notice asks for the setting aside of the order on the ground that the decision is confiscatory and a temporary restraining order is asked for to deter the railroad commission from putting the order into effect.

Appleton—When the tank car filled with oil to be used on Appleton streets arrived here from Kansas City, Mo., it was found that the car had sprung a leak and oiled the road-bed along the route. Four thousand gallons of oil was wasted.

Madison—Following an explanation by Senator Scott that the merger would save the state from $50,000 to $75,000 annually, the senate passed, 17 to 10, the bill placing the fire marshals and oil inspectors departments under the industrial commission.

Milwaukee—That the lowering of tariff rates will cause a reduction in the price of jewelry was the opinion expressed this morning by delegates before the opening of the second day's session of the annual Wisconsin's Jewelers' convention.

Tomah—Miss Anna Nelson, missionary to the Hopi Indians, who has been visiting her former home in Tarr Valley for the past three weeks, came to Tomah on Tuesday and will leave for her field of work in Arizona this week.

Fond du Lac—W. A. Titus of this city and J. P. Schumacher of Green Bay today started for Portage county where for two weeks they will conduct an archeological survey for the Wisconsin State Historical society. The explorers will search for Indian mounds and traces of ancient Indian villages.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—Plans for the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. here have been placed in the hands of a committee of five business men as a result of a meeting at which George F. Werner of Grand Forks and R. A. Wolfe of Fargo, secretaries of the associations in those two cities, were speakers.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Plans are being considered for the extension of the ornamental lighting system here. The extensions planned would include several additional blocks, in which are located the new city hall, county courthouse and Masonic temple. The system already covers practically all of the business district.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Eleanor Moeller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moeller of Maddock, former residents of Devils Lake, was hurt on the Fourth of July. The children were setting off fireworks when a large rocket instead of going up in the set direction, shot around directly into little Eleanor's neck, inflicting frightful burns. It is expected now that she will recover.

Baldwin, N. D.—During one of the recent storms the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larson was struck, and the house was damaged to the extent of $275. There were a number of visitors at their home at the time, but all escaped without any injuries.

Maxbass, N. D.—C. R. Van Order, village marshal, ran his fist through a window pane and it required twenty-one stitches to close the wound.

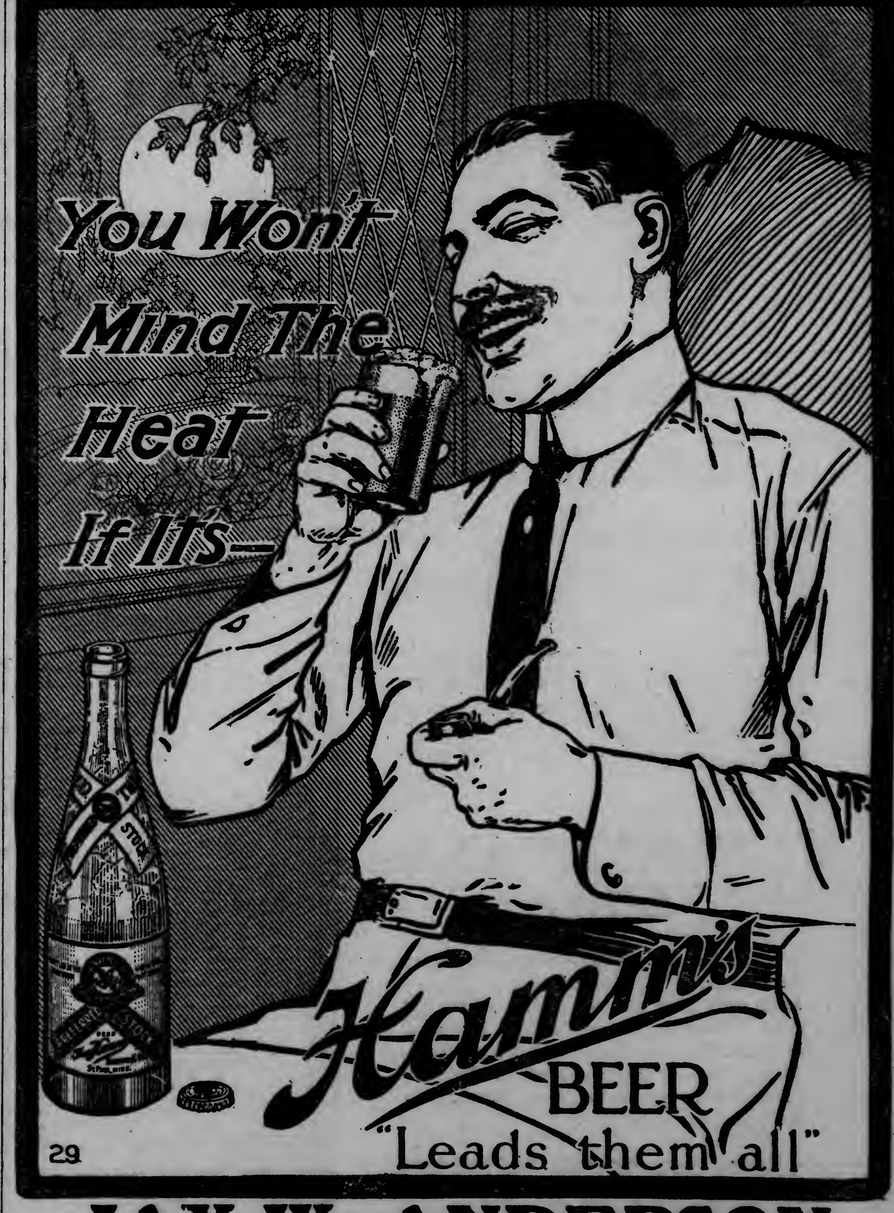

Bismarck, N. D.—Furniture for the new government building is being placed. There is a great deal of it and the task of placing it requires considerable labor. The building, it is understood, will be ready for occupancy about August 1.

Minot, N. D.—John Morrow formerly of Minot is dead at Oelwein, Iowa. Mr. Morrow died from burns, which it is believed he received while employed in the boiler works of the Great Western line at Oelwein.

To Whiten Discolored Neck, Arms and Hands

I don't wonder at the anxiety of many at this time to have white necks and arms. It isn't very pleasant to be obliged to taboo collarless and sleeveless blouses throughout the hot season. No woman need worry on this account if she'll treat her skin properly with buttermilk. There's no better bleach known, which is at the same time perfectly harmless. The best method is to cover the skin liberally with presolated buttermilk paste, rubbing it in gently. Allow this to remain on over night, then remove with cold water, using no soap.

This is a fine thing to use throughout the summer—on the face, as well as on neck, hands and arms—to counteract the effects of sun and wind. It will make the skin soft, white and beautiful. The presolated buttermilk paste is preferable, as it won't make the face greasy, as do some made preparations found at the drug stores. It is an excellent freckle and tan remover. —Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.

NO CROSSINGS UNDER TRACKS

Children Forced to Climb Steps and Walk Across Rails.

That the Canadian Northern railroad has not lived up to the terms of its franchise in providing a safe walk under its tracks at Sixtieth avenue west is the charge made by residents of that vicinity. It is claimed that instead of providing a passage for pedestrians under the railroad that it has built a stairway on each side of the track from the sidewalk to the rails and then built a board walk across the tracks.

This, it is claimed, is dangerous to the people using the street as well as inconvenient owing to the number of trains passing that point which keep the street blocked. The residents claim that the franchise provided that a walk should have been built under the tracks on each side of the street.

It is proposed to bring the subject before the West Duluth Commercial club tomorrow evening and ask that this body urge the investigation of the franchise to see whether the road cannot be compelled to provide this passage under the railroad.

The crossing is used by hundreds of children attending the Longfellow school. The children residing below Worden street are compelled to go over this crossing four times each day in going to and from the institution, and the residents say that in order to prevent any possibility of an accident that the railroad should without any pressing provide the passage under its tracks.

Conditions are said to be very similar at Sixty-first avenue, with the exception that the crossing is not so high above the street. It is claimed that no watchman or any safety devices for warning of the approach of trains at any of the crossings have been provided.

WILL PICK SITE FOR FISH HATCHERY

Members of Fish Commission Will Be in Duluth Saturday.

The Minnesota State Fish and Game commission will be in Duluth Saturday to look over the proposed site for a fish hatchery. The commission will probably decide between the site at Fond du Lac and the one offered at French river.

Anglers in this end of the city have been becoming the location of Fond du Lac in the hope of inducing the commission to select this place for the hatchery. A committee of the West Duluth Commercial club of which M. J. Filiatrault is chairman, has advocated a spot near the rapids on the St. Louis river as very desirable.

Among those who will be in the party of inspection of the site will be G. J. Bradley of Norwood, president of the commission; E. L. Ogilvie of St. Paul, first vice president; D. L. Darkin of Frazee, second vice president; T. O. Ofsthun of Glenwood, secretary, and H. A. Rider of Little Falls, executive agent. The commission will be accompanied by Deputy Game Wardens Archie Boyd and Thomas Storey, as well as a number of men from West Duluth interested in getting the commission to select this location.

Following the visit to Fond du Lac and to French River, the members of the commission will go to Pipestone lake for a week's fishing. They will also look for a desirable place from which to get spawn next spring.

Outdoor Meeting.

The Young People's society of the Swedish Mission church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Green street, will hold its meeting outdoors this evening at Fairmont park. The meeting will be in the nature of a social gathering, at which a musical program will be given followed by refreshments. It is planned to hold a number of these outdoor meetings at the various parks this summer. The ladies' aid society of the church is holding its picnic at the park this afternoon.

BUSY PICKING STRAWBERRIES

West Duluth Women and Children Flock to Hillsides.

The strawberry picking season is in full blast.

Hundreds of women and children from this end of the city are visiting the hillsides in the hunt for the delicious berry. The berries are said to be found in abundance at Fairmont park, along the railroad right-of-ways and on the clear spots of the hillside.

The women and children take their lunch and spend a large part of the day picking the berries. Many of the pickers have been returning with full pails during the past few days.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Cemilda Conture of Rice Lake, Wis., is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. A. McDougoll, 5813 Wadena street.

Miss Vivian Lybeck, 430 North Fifty-second avenue west, entertained last evening for members of the Young People's society of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church at her home.

Melvin Glover of Chicago is spending a few days visiting at the home of his relatives on North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, 422 North Fifty-second avenue west, have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hodge of Houghton, Mich.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-fourth avenue west and Fourth street, will entertain at a social in the church parlors this evening.

Thomas Foubister, 5627 Grand avenue, returned last evening from Knife River with a good string of brook trout.

GOLDEN DOLLAR MEN ON PARADE

Alliance Real Estate Company Has Unique Advertising Scheme.

A particularly good as well as wholely unique plan of advertising has been shown to the public of Duluth this week by the Alliance Real Estate company, and from the attention already centered around the campaign a successful conclusion is assured.

After four days of live local newspaper advertising, every man and woman in this vicinity was prepared, and watching today for the arrival of the Golden Dollar Men from Exeter farms, and when a large automobile slowly wended its way through the main streets of the city with cards all around it, calling attention to the Golden Dollar Men, who were passengers, everybody took a good look, some went alongside to get a close view so that tomorrow and Saturday, when the Golden Dollar Men are on the streets giving away the golden discs to all who ask for them, they will know them in a crowd, and therefore, be certain to get their share.

A complete set of these golden discs is a valuable possession for all who intend to buy Exeter farm land.

This campaign has, from the start, been conducted in a thorough business-getting way, and the deft touch of the men who know advertising has been shown continually.

Kansan Heads Attorneys General.

Charleston, S. C., July 10.—John S. Dawson, attorney general of Kansas, was elected president of the National Association of Attorneys General at its annual convention here. The association will meet next year at the place and date chosen by the American Bar association for its annual convention.

Russia had more than 1,200 strikes last year due to politics. Strikes for economic causes numbered only 702. The strikes resulted less favorably to the workers than those in the previous twelvemonth.

ARE AFTER THE UNTIDY

Health Department Wants Names of Those With Dirty Premises.

Dr. Webster Asks Co-operation of the Public in Clean-up Work.

The health department wants the names of people who have failed to clean up their premises.

Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, says in the June bulletin that Duluth has never had as thorough a cleaning as this spring, but that many spots still remain which need scrubbing. He wants the co-operation of the public in completing the work which has been started and states that those who are negligent will not lack for prodding.

Under the caption, "A Clean Duluth," the health director writes:

"We make the statement advisedly, that this city never had so thorough a cleaning as it has undergone this spring. We believe an era of civic pride is upon us.

"This is merely a commencement. We are not yet satisfied. There remain many spots on our face which must be scrubbed. Do not disturb our harmony by a refusal to cleanup and keep clean. We intend to persistently pound away at those people who need it. We have our stick sharpened and shall not hesitate to use it. If our request to be decent is not regarded we shall command, afterwards the stick.

"Do not hesitate to send in your complaints. We want them. We want to know where the people live who refuse to subscribe to the demands of decency. We already have a list but it is not complete. Help us complete it and we will do the rest. Or, at least we will make a sincere effort to do so.

"Mad dogs are dangerous and we fear them, but they are not half so dangerous to the many as that dirty pile of garbage which someone has deposited contiguous to a dwelling, or that pile of manure which someone has neglected to have removed or that pool of water someone has not drained. Let those of us who are guilty of omission or commission in some one of these particulars, think of the criminality of such neglect and then assume the responsibility. If the guilty ones can do so with composure, they should be muzzled more securely than the dog."

NAVAL MILITIAMEN WANTED

QUIET DAYS FOR VESSEL MEN

Lull Is Reported Following Activity of Last Few Weeks.

With coal and ore cargoes very scarce because of the inability of the shippers to get coal started toward the docks, and a slight letup in ore shipments following a heavy rush, some of the boats are out after grain cargoes.

There is little grain being offered at the present time, and most of the charters are made at 1¾ cents. With a comparatively dull season in the package freight business at the present time, the movement at the Head of the Lakes just now is not very spirited.

According to the reports from Cleveland and other of the Ohio ports, there is some difficulty among the big shippers in getting the coal on the wheels and on its way to the docks. Boats are being kept waiting in some instances for cargoes, because of the unexpected delay in dock delivery.

The strikes in the coal regions have been mainly responsible for the present condition. It is believed that it will be speedily remedied and that there will be a rush of coal carriers to the Head of the Lakes during the next two weeks.

HOLDS THE CALLING RECORD

The Wife of Vice President Marshall Pays Forty-Five Visits in One Hour and Thirty Minutes.

Washington special to the New York Tribune: While a lively discussion is going on in and out of official society as to whether or not the wives of cabinet members of the new Democratic administration shall return calls made on them, Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, who finds her position somewhat analagous but not entirely similar to that of Mrs. Wilson and the cabinet women, has gone quietly on and broken the calling record of Washington.

One afternoon recently Mrs. Marshall made forty-five calls in one hour and thirty minutes. She had no winged feet to carry her cards about either, nor did she send them by a messenger. She went about in her own car, drove up to each dor and methodically left the proper number of cards. Had many hostesses been receiving Mrs. Marshall could not have made this record, although, as it was, she found more than one woman "in." Mrs. Marshall has made more than eight hundred calls, and if it has fatigued her in the least she does not show it. She is as fresh and bright and in as good health as she was before the vice president was made governor of Indiana and she was initiated into official life.

Has Thousands of Cards.

Mrs. Marshall has missed only two weeks since March 4 in observing her Wednesday "at home," and this has left thousands of cards on her hands. She necessarily has had to take the stand that where no street address was given she was not expected to return a visit, except in the cases of women in the house and senate. These she has carefully hunted up.

Mrs. Marshall purposes to go on calling and leaving cards until the one duty exacted of the wife of a vice president, aside from dining out, is performed. Asked how she could make so many calls in so short a time, Mrs. Marshall said she thought it was by systematizing the matter. She arranges her cards according to street and frequently finds when she leaves her motor car she can go through the formality of returning several calls before again entering the car.

Mrs. Bryan, the ranking woman of the cabinet, is also returning calls, first to diplomats, the supreme court and senators, of course, and then general social calls. If there is a move on foot to put calling out of business for cabinet women, Mrs. Bryan is not falling into line. She may not be able to return all of the calls made on her, but she is trying to.

On her List 4,000 Calls.

Mrs. Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, is said to have something like 4,000 calls on a list just made up, and it certainly looks formidable; but she will make those for which precedence calls—on the ambassadors, the supreme court and the senate—and is proceeding as rapidly as possible to wipe out the list. There are other women of the cabinet who are doing the same.

The consensus of opinion is that it would be undemocratic to start so startling an innovation as to abandon returning calls during the first few months of a Democratic administration and when the party has been out of power for so many years. As one cabinet woman puts it: "We had better make hay now. We have not had a chance in years before and may never have another opportunity to make a record."

It is thought to be the novelty of a Democratic administration which has brought such a volley of visiting cards to the new cabinet. Southern members of the cabinet are known to be hospitable, and persons from Southern states residing in the capital wish to show their appreciation. It is a compliment which no cabinet member's wife can afford purposely to ignore. Probably no cabinet woman ever did return all the calls on her, but each is too diplomatic to announce that fact to the public.

MORE POWER TO HIM!

Indianapolis News: Not long ago the Maxim "silencer" for guns was welcomed by military experts as an aid in warfare; now another silencer is announced, this one coming in the interests of peace—a device that is to silence the motorboat engine. The inventor, not content with this public benefaction, is, it is stated, at work on a silencer for noisy street cars. May his work be uninterrupted!

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION.

Notice is hereby given that there has been filed of record in my office a petition asking for the vacation of the public road across blocks 33, 22, 20 and 19, Duluth Heights Sixth division.

The petitioners represent that the road cuts across platted property and that streets which have been improved have been dedicated to public use when the section was platted into lots and blocks and that no inconvenience will result to the public by the abandonment of this road.

The matter of the petition will be heard and considered by the city council at a regular meeting thereof to be held in the city hall, City of Duluth, Minnesota, at 3 p. m. on Aug. 11, 1913, when the council will hear testimony and evidence on the part of parties interested.

C. S. PALMER, City Clerk.

TYPHOID DUE TO BAD WATER

Two Cases Reported as Result of Carelessness During June.

Some "Health Don'ts"—Contagious Disease Conditions for Month.

Carelessness was responsible for at least two of the four cases of typhoid fever which were reported to the health department last month.

One of the two drank bay water while working on a dredge, and the other use draw water taken from the lake shore in a pail. The origin of the third was unknown while the fourth came from Canada.

In the "Health Don'ts," which D. I. J. Murphy has printed in the department bulletin is one which advises against using water which is at all dangerous unless it has been boiled. This is meant more particularly for those who leave Duluth for their vacations.

Among the "don'ts" are the following:

"Don't allow an attack of typhoid fever to consummate your vacation; see that your drinking water has been boiled if it comes from sources at all questionable, or better still fortify yourself by an anti-typhoid vaccination.

"Don't patronize food vendors whose products are exposed to dust or flies; encourage the markets and groceries that protect your foods from dust and flies.

"Don't allow flies about your home; not only will they pester your life but they will poison your food.

"Don't thwart your self-respect or cheat your neighbors' civic pride by allowing a heap of rubbish on your premises.

"Don't close the windows and open the door to disease.

"Don't give baby any patent baby foods.

"Don't buy milk served from a can; buy only bottled milk.

"Don't leave the milk bottle uncovered when not in use; if the cap becomes spoiled invert a clean drinking glass over the mouth of the bottle.

"Don't pour left over milk back into the unused milk; draw off only the amount required for immediate use.

"Don't fail to keep the milk supply cool."

Health Conditions.

Health conditions for the month are summarized as follows: "There was a rather sudden increase in the number of diphtheria patients the early part of the month. Twenty-seven cases were reported, two of which terminated fatally. At one institution of eighty people where there had been a single clinical case, two contact carriers were found; at a second institution out of 100 cultures only one was positive; at a third out of ninety cultures five were positive. As the latter were nurses and would have without the cultural method of elimination been left in contact with susceptible invalids the importance of taking cultures of all who might be harboring the germs becomes more manifest.

"The number of measles cases reported was 102, less than one-half the number reported last month.

"The scarlet fever list was increased by eighteen new cases and decreased by one death. Most of the scarlet fever cases were very mild and it is quite probable that equally as many more mild unrecognized cases are at large in the city. Several of the scarlet fever cases were found when the parents of neighbors called up to report children sick with measles. It is very encouraging to the department to have parents call up the department when their children are sick with a rash but not sick enough to send for the family physician; it also looks better than to have the neighbors do so.

"Only seven cases of smallpox were found, none of the victims had been protected by vaccination. The occupants of two rooming houses and of one dormitory who had been exposed were vaccinated. It would be much better if the people who so willingly submit to vaccination after exposure would safeguard themselves before it becomes so urgent to do so.

"The tuberculosis registration shows four less cases than at the end of last month. Only fourteen new cases were recorded while there were eighteen deaths.

"Four cases of typhoid fever were reported. Three of these are of local origin while one came from Canada. The source of infection in one of the local cases could be traced to bay water which the patient used while working on a dredge boat; one of the other local cases used raw water which he took from the lake shore in a pail."

GET READY FOR THE 23rd ANNUAL PICNIC
of Div. No. 1, Ancient Order Hibernians
FAIRMONT PARK.
Wednesday, July 16, 1913.
Dancing. La Brosse Orchestra.

CITY BRIEFS

Loose Leaf Accounting Systems.
M. 1. Stewart Company. 'phones 114.

Case is Dismissed.
Judge Cutting yesterday afternoon discharged Joseph La Chance, proprietor of the saloon at 1103 West Michigan street, who was brought up on a charge of assaulting Tony Perfetto in his saloon on July 3. The evidence showed that La Chance ejected the man only after the latter had refused to pay for his drinks.

A. H. Burg & Co., 23 Fourth avenue west, real estate and insurance.

Hibernians to Have Picnic.
Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, will hold their annual picnic at Fairmount park next Wednesday, July 16. The committee have made up a long program of sports and games and have secured the best music for dancing in afternoon and evening. This being their twenty-third annual picnic, it is the intention of those in charge, to make this one a record breaker.

Discharged in Court.
Thomas Hanson, charged with stealing $7 from his roommate, Edward Carlson, was discharged in municipal court yesterday afternoon, owing to a lack of evidence against the defendant.

Case is Dismissed.
Owing to insufficient evidence the case against Mary Adams, the Servian fortune teller, charged with stealing $60 from Tony Radick while telling the latter's fortune, was dismissed in police court yesterday afternoon. Radick was unable to prove that the seeress still had the money, while the latter claimed she returned the $60 two days ago.

Steamer Columbia.
On account of the bankers' convention, the steamer Columbia will only make one trip to Fond du Lac on Friday. The boat will leave at 9 a. m., and returning will leave Fond du Lac at 2 p. m.

Visit Steel Plant.
Several members of the grand jury now in session in the Federal court visited the steel plant yesterday afternoon. The party inspected all the buildings now under construction, returning to Duluth late in the afternoon.

Chloride Arrives.
Forty tons of calcium chloride to be used for laying the dust and preserving the surface of the boulevard have arrived. The spreading of the preparation will begin at once. Superintendent Cleveland states that he has found the chloride the best material for the boulevard. He explains that the chloride which was put down two years ago held so well that no applications were necessary last year. The chloride will also be used on the driveways through the local parks.

Want Money Back.
The fortune tellers whose licenses were revoked at a meeting of the city commission called shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Commissioner Hicken believe that they should be returned the balances of the $50 license fees which they paid. One of them had been running but three days. It was stated today that they have engaged an attorney and will take legal steps to collect the sums which they claim are due them.

Monthly Meeting.
The West End Hillside Improvement club will hold its monthly meeting at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street tomorrow evening. A number of improvements for this section of the city will be discussed.

Charged With Theft.
John Van Slycken, alias John De Mott, 17 years old, was arrested at Brule, Wis., yesterday afternoon by Special Agent A. M. Worthington of the D. M. & N. road on a grand larceny charge. Van Slycken is accused of stealing a suitcase out of the Brule station. The suitcase and its contents are valued at $50. Van Slycken's examination was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Scotino Improving.
John Scotino, who was shot by Tony Caruso Tuesday evening, is reported much improved at the St. Luke's hospital. The authorities have not yet been able to apprehend Caruso, who disappeared immediately after the shooting.

Northland Printery.
Good printing. Call Zenith 494. Adv.

Disappeared in Duluth.
August Wicklund, a Chicago attorney, is said to have been missing since his visit to Duluth on May 28 last. A dispatch received from Chicago today states that nothing has been heard from Wicklund since he left a Duluth hotel on May 28 last. He was in Duluth, it is understood, on business for the Ladies of the Maccabees.

Erickson Improving.
John Erickson, the cemetn contractor, who was struck by a West Fourth street car yesterday afternoon while riding on his motorcycle, is reported improving at the St. Luke's hospital. He is expected to recover, although he suffered a fractured skull.

Held for Assault.
Paul Cohn of 213 West First street was arrested this morning charged with assaulting Peter G. Porter, who made the complaint against the defendant. He pleaded not guilty and his case was set for this afternoon.

Indian Was Drunk.
William Matrus, the Indian who was arrested last evening on a charge of drunkenness, pleaded guilty in police court this morning. He was given a straight sentence of twenty days in the county jail.

His Dogs Howled.
B. J. Pierce of 2107 West Sixth street was arrested last evening on the charge of keeping a public nuisance. Neighbors of Mr. Pierce claim that he owns two dogs and that they continually howl through the night. The case will come up at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Must Pay Board Bill.
In order to give Charles Rucker time to pay his hotel bill of $24 at the Velvidere hotel, the case against him in municipal court was continued until Aug. 9. Rucker was charged by the manager of the hotel with jumping his bill. The case was tried in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

PERSONAL

Judge Ensign of the district court is confined to his home with illness today.

Charles L. Spencer, clerk of the United States court, now in session, left for St. Paul last evening on business. He will return in a day or two.

Rear Admiral Thomas Thompson Caswell, U. S. N., (retired), died at Weekapaugh, R. I., July 9, where he had made his summer home for the last seven years. He was born in Providence in 1840. James B. Angell, president-emeritus of the University of Michigan, was his brother-in-law.

OLD RESIDENT OF DULUTH DIES

Mrs. Rebecca Copeland Passes Away at Home of Her Daughter.

Mrs. Rebecca Copeland, 75 years old, for thirty-five years a resident of Duluth, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Walker, 827 Lake avenue south.

Mrs. Copeland was one of the oldest residents in Duluth and was very well known throughout the city. Her husband died last March, he also having been one of the pioneers of Duluth.

Mrs. Copeland is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Walker, and two sons, Ernest W., and J. Copeland, and six grandchildren. The body has been taken to the Crawford undertaking rooms, where the funeral arrangements will be made sometime today.

GRAND FORKS GETS MEETING IN 1914

North Dakota Retail Merchants Elect George M. Pike President.

Fargo, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Retail merchants today selected Grand Forks as the place for the next annual meeting, and elected officers as follows: President, George M. Pike, New Rockford; vice president, G. K. Christianson, Cogswell; treasurer, F. W. Peglow, Glenburn; secretary, W. W. Kuig, Fargo.

This morning there were three addresses, J. T. Nelson of Glen Ullin, formerly president of the association, who spoke on what was being done on the Missouri slope; Secretary J. J. Ryan of the Minnesota association, and J. N. Jackson of St. Paul.

The delegates spent this afternoon visiting the manufacturers and wholesalers and jobbers of Fargo and inspecting some of the general stores.

Tomorrow many of the delegates are planning to go to the Minnesota lakes for Sunday.

"SMEAR" PARTY STOPPED BY OFFICER.

A game of "smear" following a swimming party in the Lester river yesterday afternoon resulted in the arrest of John Salo, August Sundberg, Andrew Kuusi and Fred Hill by Patrolman Setterquist.

Kuusi and Hill failed to appear in police court this morning their bail of $10 each was declared forfeited. Salo and Sundberg pleaded guilty and their sentence was suspended.

The men had been swimming in the river during the afternoon and had just sat down along the banks to enjoy a game of cards, according to the story of Salo and Sundberg in police court this morning.

New York World: There was tense stillness in the main hall of public school No. 101, at One Hundred and Eleventh street and Lexington avenue one afternoon recently, when the infants chosen as the most promising brought to the baby contest of the "Child Welfare Exhibit on Health" of the New York Child Welfare committee were ranged in solid company front formation in their go-carts. The mothers looked fixedly at the door of the committee room where Dr. Godfrey R. Pisek of the New York milk committee and Dr. Roger S. Dennett were completing their report on the three finest specimens.

When the doctors emerged these awards were announced:

First prize — Joseph Keller, 9 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph Keller of No. 2 West One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street.

Third prize—Margaret Hanauer, 1 year, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Hanauer of No. 1699 Avenue A.

Eighth other babies were considered worthy of honorable mention, and Dr. Dennett confessed that it had been hard to find any faults in their physical condition.

Judged As Prospective Citizens.

It was the first baby show held in New York where good looks, Cupid bow lips, pretty eyes, pink cheeks and curling hair didn't count. Possibilities of good citizenship were the winning factors. In the 103 babies presented a week ago for examination were some more winning and pretty than the prize winners.

"The interest in the first competition where babies were judged after the standards of eugenics—for their solid qualities—was shown by sixty mothers, who, with their babies in best bibs and tuckers, came through the downpour of rain from all parts of the city to be present.

"It is a good sign," said Miss Harriett Silverman, who had charge of the contest, "that at last people are waking up to the fact that it is just as important—and more so—to rear healthy, strong babies as it is to breed good horses and cattle. Horses, cattle, sheep and pigs are constantly being improved all the time, but few people take any intelligent steps to see that their own offspring shall have every eugenic advantage in coming into the world. The purpose of this exhibition is to encourage an interest in breeding healthy children."

Even the babies seemed to realize that something of particular interest was on, for they behaved beautifully. There wasn't a whimper as Doctor Dennett came out with a slightly scared look and clearing his throat—watching the mothers out of the corner of his eyes as he spoke—began to make his report.

Doctor Comments on Winners.

Of Joseph Keller, first prize, he said the rating was 99 per cent, on a basis of 100 points perfection. This flaxen haired baby, sitting in his little carriage, stared up at the speaker with his blue eyes, smiled and showed six teeth. His height is 27 inches and weight 21 pounds. He is of German-Irish descent.

"This winner of the first prize, a silver cup," said Dr. Dennett, "is the fifth child, his mother having reared all except one. He has a good mother. The second point considered was that he has been breast-fed the proper length of time and has never had any other food. He has always slept with windows open, has been taken out in the day time, his tonsils are all right, and his disposition excellent."

Esther Freeman, winner of the second prize, a silver knife, fork and spoon, has blue eyes, flaxen hair, nine teeth, and was rated at 98 per cent. Dr. Dennett said of her:

"She is 31½ inches tall and weighs twenty-six pounds. She was breast fed for one year. She sleeps in a room where the windows are open, and is bathed regularly, has no tonsil troubles, and an excellent disposition. She is a second child. The measurement of the head was a little small, and that was the only defect found." She is of Russian descent.

Margaret Hanauer, blue eyed, with dark brown hair, won a silver feeding spoon as third prize. She weighs twenty-five pounds and fifteen ounces, is thirty-one inches tall, and finely formed. Dr. Dennett said:

"We are pleased that this baby won a prize because she was not breast fed. Her mother took the child to the board of health milk station and put herself under the direction of the physician. She did as they told her, following all the instructions carefully, kept the baby out of doors a great deal, had it sleep in a room with the windows open, and at one time fed it from the New York diet kitchen." This child is of Swiss decent.

"The thing that most of the baby contestants fall down on," said Dr. Dennett, "was the matter of bones which were misshapen, due to poor diet and possibly lack of fresh air. Also they were under weight. Delayed teething had also affected them a little, perhaps. Altogether they were a fine lot of babies, and no mother who brought her baby here need be ashamed of it."

Didn't Have Any Rules.

"What special rules did you observe in rearing your baby?" was asked of Mrs. William J. Keller, the mother of the first prize winner.

"No special rules," she smiled. "Just common sense and a great deal of patience and self-sacrifice for baby's sake. Every good mother knows in her heart what is good for a baby and tries to do it. She knows that it is her duty to work patiently and long for the little creature that has been put into her arms, and she tends him day and night. Willingness to sacrifice and work for her babies and to keep everlastingly after their good is the best thing that a mother can have, it seems to me. As for the actual care of the baby, most mothers know these things or have remembered them from their own childhood or from the traditions that have been handed down from mother to daughter."

LAWMAKERS AMONG DELEGATES

Three Former Members of Legislature Attending Bankers' Convention.

Two members of the last legislature, each of whom distinguished himself, but in very different ways, are here attending the bankers' convention.

E. G. Westlake of Minneapolis is one. For ten years he was secretary of the Commercial club there, where he got so accustomed to asking for things that he carried his scheme right along to the legislative halls. As a member of the house he introduced a bill that went through in a hurry with him doing the pushing.

Then it was up to the senate. Some one had told Westlake that the senate had a habit of delaying action unless it had a special interest in a measure. But that didn't feaze the Minneapolis representative a bit. Boldly he entered the senate chamber, carrying the bill which he got possession of some way and asked permission to speak. The novelty of the request carried its appeal. Then and there Westlake told them about the bill, said they were all good fellows and asked the senate to pass it, and it did. Legislators may have forgotten what the measure was, but they won't forget Westlake's method in getting action.

Elmer E. Adams is the other legislator who is also interested in banking. He hails from Fergus Falls. He registered at two hotels yesterday—it looked for a time as if he was going right along the line, before he got placed—and he has a mind of his own. In lawmaking circles he won the name of 'Adams the off ox" because of the frequency with which he voted alone on various issues. He denies stubbornness however, and he would have a host of friends whether he stood alone, followed the herd or refused to vote at all.

Charles R. Fowler, a member of the 1911 legislature is also here at the bankers' meeting. His home is in Minneapolis where he practices law. Incidentally he is "some orator."

IS MISSING THE BERRY PICKING

"It's berry picking time at home and the growers are reaping a harvest," said J. A. Anderegg, president of the State Bank of Long Lake, at the Spalding today. "Ours is the real berry country," he continued. "While the strawberries didn't do so well we have an immense raspberry and blackberry crop this year and just now we can't get sufficient pickers. Our berry crop goes to the Dakotas, Western Canada and other places. Last year $65,000 worth of berries were shipped from Long Lake through the growers' association.

"This will be a banner year for apples, too. Conditions are perfect. The late spring kept the blossoms back until they had escaped the danger of being frost bitten and this fact is being revealed now. Why, one man who got 200 bushels on his property last year told me he would have 2,500 this season, so you can see the difference. At $1.25 a bushel it isn't hard to see that the farmers will be prosperous. We raise the Wealthy variety of apple mostly because it is hardier."

Journalist Enthusiastic.

"This is one of the best conventions I ever attended," said John E. Beebe, field editor of The Black Diamond, organ of the coal trade who makes a business of dropping in at coal men's meetings. "For one thing there are more dealers here, making it a representative gathering. Too often it happens there are plenty of salesmen around, but no dealers.

"Duluth is a splendid place for a coal convention. Here is an object lesson in the trade that is convincing. The boats and the docks and the up-to-date methods of handling the commodity are impressive. If the retail dealers of this country want the last word in the handling of coal, they should plan their summer trip so as to visit Duluth."

BUSY YOUNG MAN.

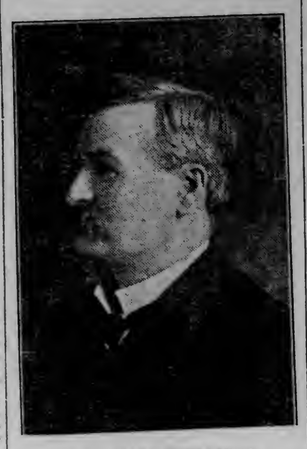

Sauk Rapids Banker Is Holding Down Three Jobs.

A. H. Turretin of Sauk Rapids is one of the busiest young men in the state, but he found time to come to Duluth for the bankers' convention. In the first place he is the president of the Benton County State bank. This would be considered a job in itself. Then he is a prominent member of the Northern Minnesota Development association and was chairman of the resolutions committee at the last meeting held in Hinckley.

Then a couple of days ago his friends were astonished to learn that he had been elected secretary of the Minnesota State Fair association. All of which means some work for one man. So far the Sauk Rapids man has managed to keep his smile, which is something in itself.

"Things are fine down our way and it's always a pleasure to visit Duluth," he said. "Yes, I've just been elected fair secretary. Don't know yet whether it is a good thing or not. The good folks of this section of the state who wanted to have a fair of their own are not any too friendly toward the board, I understand. But we'll do the best we can at any rate."

IS SLATED FOR THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

J. B. GALARNEAULT
Of Aitkin.

J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin, state bank examiner under the late Governor Johnson and one of the best known bankers in Northern Minnesota, is the probable choice of Minnesota members of the American Banking association for member of the executive council, succeeding George F. Orde of Minneapolis.

During his term of office as state bank examiner Mr. Galarneault came into intimate touch with the bankers of the state and they all have a high regard for him and his conduct of the office. Mr. Galarneault is in the banking business at Aitkin now.

REYNOLDS SAYS BUSINESS IS GOOD

Chicago Banker an Optimist on the Industrial Outlook.

The country in general is in a prosperous condition and money is plentiful for business and all legitimate industrial purposes, according to a statement made this noon by George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental & Commercial National bank of Chicago.

"General business conditions throughout the entire country are very satisfactory," said Mr. Reynolds. "There is a great deal of activity in the money market. Money is plentiful for all business and industrial enterprises. The country in general and business non-political are enjoying prosperity.

"There is a slight tightning in stocks and all securities. The markets for these are dull. The people will not invest at present in securities until after the legislation one way or the other is settled. But whichever way the trend of legislation goes, it will hardly affect the prosperous condition of the country. Until after the settlement of the money bills now before congress, this market is apt to be dull, because the people are afraid of the market.

"On the whole, the business condition throughout the country is very good."

Mr. Reynolds is a guest today at the home of A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank of Duluth, 2307 East Superior street.

SMALL CHANGE

The Eighth district group of bankers, which has not been very active in recent years, held a short meeting before the big convention opened this morning, and organized with C. P. De Laitre of Aitkin president; J. W. Lyder of Duluth, vice president; and C. P. Osborne of Cloquet, secretary and treasurer. J. R. Dodge of Moose Lake, and W. J. Johnson of Duluth were named as an executive committee.

C. L. Conger of McIntosh, who will be the next Ninth district representative on the executive council of the association, is also a member of the executive committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association. Mr. Conger's smile, always broad, is broader than usual at this convention. "How could we be other than happy with crops as they are?" asked Mr. Conger, and echo answered, "How, indeed!"

A. H. Turritin, the new treasurer of the Minnesota State Fair association, and a banker at Sauk Rapids, is one of the convention visitors.

Joseph Chapman, Jr., of Minneapolis, the father of the agricultural development in the bankers' association, is not at the meeting here. Right up to the last he intended to come, but he was detained in Minneapolis. He is one of the few very active members of the association not at the meeting here.

F. E. Du Toit of Chaska, a former state senator and a banker at Chaska for, lo, these many years, is among those present. Mr. Du Toit hasn't missed many meetings of the Bankers' association and he is always a welcome figure at the gatherings.

W. E. Lee of Long Prairie, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at the last election, is in Duluth for the convention. He is a banker at Long Prairie and is interested in other business enterprises. Mr. Lee isn't talking politics on this trip.

Mayor W. I. Prince appeared at the convention today in a new role. Formerly he was a banker and a member of the association. Today he appeared as mayor of Duluth, to present the big key of the city to his fellow-members of the association.

M. T. Dunn of Brainerd, a banker in that thriving city, believes that Brainerd is the coming metropolis of Northern Minnesota. He isn't ungracious enough to say so while he is a guest of Duluth, but away down in his heart he believes it firmly, and when he talks under the shelter of his own roof he expresses the opinion freely.

Women are very much in evidence at the convention. Many of the bankers brought their wives and daughters to enjoy the cool breezes of Duluth and partake of the hospitality of the city. There were many women at the meeting at the Lyceum this morning and they sat attentively through the proceedings.

Many Duluth business men whose connection with banking is in the capacity of clients were at the meeting at the Lyceum this morning. They were particularly interested in Mr. Reynolds' speech on the currency law, a subject that is of interest to every man of large business interests.

George H. Richards of Minneapolis, secretary of the association, has held that office only six months, but bouquets were showered on him this morning on his conduct of the office during that period. The secretary is elected by the executive council, and Mr. Richards will undoubtedly be chosen again at the meeting of the council tomorrow.

Kelsey S. Chase, state bank examiner, is among those present. Wherever bankers are, there is Mr. Chase, and he is usually a welcome visitor.

PARDON IS SOUGHT FOR DR. D. F. DUMAS

Father of Former Cass Lake Mayor Pleads for His Son.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—An effort is being made to obtain a pardon for Dr. D. F. Dumas, former mayor of Cass Lake, sentenced Sept. 12, 1912, at Bemidji, to five years in the state penitentiary after being convicted on an arson charge growing out of the Puposky raid. L. J. Dumas of Minneapolis, the aged father of the convicted man, visited Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith today and talked over the case with him. The pardon board will meet next Monday.

The trial of Dr. Dumas in the spring of 1912 was one of the most sensational in the state for years because of the political and social prominence of the accused. The indictment on which he was convicted, and which was upheld by the state supreme court, alleged that Dumas was implicated with others in burning buildings to obtain the insurance.

LADY LOWTHER MAY RETURN TO AMERICA FOR A VISIT

LADY LOWTHER.

Lady Lowther is reported about to visit the United States to renew acquaintances in Philadelphia, Washington, Newport and New York. She was Alice Blight and her home was in Philadelphia when she married Lowther. He has been minister of Great Britain at Constantinople during the troublous period of the Balkan war.

MINING INSTITUTE ON THE RANGE

Annual Meeting Will Be Held Aug. 26 to Aug. 30.

The Lake Superior Mining Institute will hold its next annual meeting on the Mesaba range, according to a circular issued by the general committee. The convention will be held on Aug. 26 to 30, at one of the range towns which will be selected within a short time.

Delegations from the Gogebic, Mesaba and Vermilion ranges will attend the meeting. Several speakers of prominence will be selected to give addresses. The subjects of these and the speakers will be announced about Aug. 1. Following the preliminary meeting a trip of the range will be taken by the delegates.

WOMAN HELD FOR FORGERY

Mrs. Dudie Treadau, 17 years old, of West Duluth was arrested this morning on a charge of passing a forged check on a merchant in the western end of the city.

Mrs. Treadau was arraigned shortly before noon and waived examination. She was bound over to the fall term of the grand jury, Judge Cutting allowing her to go on her own recognizance, as she lived in West Duluth with her mother.

The check in question is made out for $25 to Albert Johnson on the Western State bank of West Duluth and is signed by Nels Almquist. Mr. Almquist is a dealer in wood and denies making out the check. The young woman secured payment on the check and it was only when Mr. Almquist received word of the check from the bank officials that an investigation was made. The arrest was made by Detective Bradley and Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth station.

Several other forged checks were reported to have been passed on merchants in the western end of the city.

WATER POWER MEN ATTACK BADGER BILL

Claim It Would Interfere With Property Rights of Citizens.

Madison, Wis., July 10. — A general attack on nearly every provision of the new water power bill framed by the special conservation committee was made today before the senate, sitting as a committee of the whole. The water power men who appeared against the bill were Neal Brown and G. D. Jones of Wausau, T. W. Brazeau of Grand Rapids, Roy P. Wilcox and C. T. Bundy of Eau Claire.

Water power men maintained that the state has only the right to protect navigation, and that this power should not be used to coerce water power owners to agree to "a contract that will deprive them of their property rights."

Senator Husting claimed that every right of the state is protected under the bill, and counting upon the experience of other states which have passed similar laws, he believed rapid development would follow enactment of this bill.

Carling Estate, $85,000.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The estate of William G. Carling, prominent restaurateur of the Northwest, who died last week, is worth $85,000 according to a petition for letters of administration filed in probate court here today. Mrs. Leola Carling, the widow, and minor children, are the heirs.

Big Falls Man Indicted.

International Falls, Minn., July 10.—The grand jury in session here yesterday returned an indictment against John Keller of Big Falls on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

In the case of Jerry Platt vs. George S. Langland and Frank Palmer, plaintiff was awarded a verdict of $60.

D. Engelbret of Ranier pleaded guilty to the charge of selling intoxicating liquor without a license and was fined $50.

UNCLE SAM IS ON LOOKOUT FOR LEPER

Minneapolis Man Is Reported Working Way Back Home.

Washington, July 10.—The United States public health service is taking steps to capture Dominick Pittori, an escaped leper from the Diamond Point quarantine station near Port Townsend, Washington. It is reported that Pittori is endeavoring to reach his former home in Minneapolis, by way of Canada.

HAWAIIAN JOB FOR COL. BALL.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 10.—Col. Claude R. Ball of Montgomery City, Mo., while here today, received a telegram from Speaker Champ Clark stating that President Wilson would send his name to the senate for confirmation as attorney general of Hawaii.

Held for Forgery.

Horace W. Taylor waived examination in police court this morning when arraigned on a charge of attempted forgery and he was bound over to the fall term of the grand jury.

Taylor was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Bradley while he was attempting to pass a check for $15. The check is made to Taylor himself on the American National bank of St. Paul and is signed by J. W. Taylor.

Escapes Poorhouse—Dies.

Black River Falls, Wis., July 10.—Carl Clark, a cripple, hobbled on his knees out of the poorhouse here when no one was watching. Night came and he did not return. His body was found in the fair grounds. He died from exposure, it is thought.

North Dakota Building Boom.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nineteen new school buildings going up in North Dakota is the record, disclosed by reports covering construction operations of the season. General building activities continue unabated at an unusually high stage, it being one of the best years that contractors have had.

Body Sent to Ishpeming.

International Falls, Minn., July 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mr. Lord, an aged resident, was held here this afternoon from the Catholic church, and the body will be sent to Ishpeming, Mich., tonight for interment. Among the relatives called here by Mr. Lord's death were: Mrs. Jennie Murray of Cobalt, Ont.; Mrs. Rose Gondreau of Ishpeming, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. William Bourss of Niagara, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. William Gorceau, Ishpeming, Mich.

REDWOODS.

Indianapolis News: Redwood forests can be grown for the market in from forty to fifty years by California timber owners, according to Dr. George James Peirce, professor of botany at Stanford. He adds that the destruction of the redwoods in California, the only place in the world where they flourish, is no more necessary than a similar destruction of human life.

ENGLAND WASHING AWAY.

Indianapolis News: The total area of England in 1867, excluding the foreshore and the area covered by the tides, according to information issued by the board of agriculture, was 32,590,397 acres. In 1900, or thirty-three years later, it had been diminished by the sea's erosion to 32,549,019 acres, a reduction of 41,378 acres, and this after taking into consideration the land gained by accretion. Assuming the average value an acre of the lost land to have been $100 this means a loss of $4,137,800.

Every baby born this year in Barnegat, N. J., will receive a bankbook with a deposit of $1.

PRESIDENTS AND SUPREME BEING

Every Inaugural Address Except Washington's Second One Contains Reference to a Higher Power.

New York Press: A Supreme Being has been acknowledged and his aid invoked in every presidential inauguration save one, from Washington to Wilson. The exception was in the second inaugural of Washington, which contains not even a reference to a Higher Power.

"God" and "Almighty God" are not as frequent in the inaugurals as other divine appellations. The invocation for Supreme guidance occurs most frequently in the termination of the address. President Wilson almost paralleled Garfield in this respect, the last words of Garfield's inaugural being "Almighty God."

Some of the presidents hastened to acknowledge their dependence upon Providence at the start. McKinley invoked the guidance of "Almighty God" in the first paragraph of his inaugural and closed with a petition to the "Lord Most High," which no former president had used on a similar occasion.

In his first inaugural Washington was nearly verbose in his acknowledgment. "Almighty Being" "Great Author" and "Smiles of Heaven" appear in the same paragraph, and "Providence" and "the Divine Parent of the human race" were devoutly supplicated to "favor the American people." Maybe because of his frequent overtures for help from on high on his first, the Father of His Country thought it unnecessary to go over the same ground in his second inaugural.

Adams and Jefferson.

John Adams, in the beginning of his inaugural, acknowledged an "Overruling Providence" and in the close mentioned the "Being Supreme over all," the "Patron of Order," the "Fountain of Justice" and the "Protector of Virtuous Liberty."

Thomas Jefferson called upon "that Infinite Power" in the last section of his inaugural and supplicated "that Being" in his second address. And in the second he also mentioned the "Creator and made a fervent reference to Christian religion.

James Madison acknowledged the "Almighty Being" in the close of his first, and the "Smiles of Heaven" in his second inaugural. In the latter he quoted Washington.

James Monroe, in the beginning of his, acknowledged that the "Almighty had been graciously pleased," etc., and also spoke of the "Supreme Being" and "Almighty God."

John Quincy Adams admitted being in the "presence of Heaven" in the first part of his address, and in closing repeated an admonition from David: "If the Lord keepeth not the city the watchman waketh in vain." This was the first and it is the only direct quotation from the Psalmist in any inaugural.

Andrew Jackson in his first invoked "that Power," and in closing asked "His divine care and benediction." In his second he made a "most fervent prayer to that Almighty Being."

Martin Van Buren in the beginning of his inaugural "hoped for that sustaining support of an ever watchful and beneficent Power," and in closing looked to that "Divine Being."

Harrison and Tyler.

William Henry Harrison in his 8,000 words made two reference to the "Higher Power," "Beneficent Creator" and "that Good Being."

John Tyler, who succeeded Harrison a few weeks later, printed his inaugural in the newspapers. He "looked to an "all-wise and all-powerful Being who made me" and "trusted to the ever-watchful and overruling Providence."

James K. Polk invoked the "Almighty Ruler of the Universe" and supplicated the "Divine Being."

Zachary Taylor in the last words of his inaugural relied on "Divine Providence."

Millard Fillmore, who followed Taylor a little later, made a brief inaugural in which he mentioned "Him who holds us in His hands."

Franklin Pierce put his "dependence upon God" and asked the "blessings of Divine Providence."

James Buchanan asked for the aid of "the God of our forefathers" twice in the same address.

Lincoln in his first inaugural acknowledged a "firm reliance on Him." It is the only reference in his first inaugural to a Supreme Being, but more than one-half of his second is a powerful sermon.

Andrew Johnson mentioned God once in his short inaugural, but the mention can scarcely be called a supplication.

Grant mentioned "Providence" and "Almighty God" once in his first and the "Great Master" in his second inaugural.

Hayes asked the "guidance of the Divine Hand."

Garfield, although he had been a minister, made incidental reference to the Higher Power in the body of his address, but in closing "reverently invoked the support and blessings of Almighty God." These were the last words of his inaugural.

Cleveland in his first acknowledged the "power and goodness of Almighty God."

Benjamin Harrison "reverently invoked Almighty God for strength."

Cleveland and McKinley.

Cleveland in his second inaugural used these words: "Above all, I know there is a Supreme Being who rules the affairs of men, and whose goodness and mercy has always followed the American people, and I know He will not turn from us now if we humbly and reverently seek His powerful aid."

McKinley in his first said: "I assume the arduous and responsible duties of president of the United States relying on the support of my countrymen and invoking the guidance of Almighty God. Our faith teaches us there is no safer reliance than upon the God of our forefathers, who has so singularly favored the American people in every national trial and who will not forsake us so long as we obey His covenants and walk humbly in His footsteps." In closing, McKinley repeated the oath administered by the chief justice, and added: "This is the obligation I have reverently taken before the Lord Most High."

In his second inaugural McKinley said in the beginning that he invoked for his guidance "the direction and favor of Almighty God," and in the close of his address he asserted that the administration of affairs must be carried out "in the fear of God"

Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson

Roosevelt, in his inaugural in 1905, said, referring to the prosperity of the nation, that the country should be grateful "to the Giver of Good, who has blessed us with the conditions which have enabled us to achieve so large a measure of well-being and of happiness."

Taft, in 1908, said in the last words of his address, "I invoke the considerate sympathy of my fellow citizens and the aid of Almighty God in the discharge of my responsible duties."

The final words of President Wilson constitute an appeal and a prayer: "I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me."

QUEER KID.

Indianapalis News: Beulah Miller, a 10-year-old school girl, of Warren, R. I., was examined for two hours recently by Dr. John D. Quackenbos, hypotist and phychological searcher. The child amazed Dr. Quackenbos and a group of onlookers by calling off cards which were selected under circumstances of which she could have no knowledge, by describing hidden objects in the pockets of those present, by telling their exact ages and by naming, at the very first try, numbers which they had decided on while she was out of sight and hearing.

REPORT FAILS OF SENSATION

Government Crop Statement Had Been Discounted in Wheat.

Flax Has Bulge as Result of Bullish Color of Findings.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 10.—The later-session strength of the wheat market continued until the close of the board this afternoon, and the net gains for the day were: July spring wheat, ¾c; September spring, ¾@⅞c; July durum, ½c; and September durum, ⅛c.

Oats closed ½c off, rye ½c up, corn ⅛c up and barley unchanged.

September puts, 91½@91⅝c asked; calls, 92⅛c asked.

After a quiet opening, contrary to expectations, the wheat market slowly worked up until there was a fair gain in price during the last hour of trading. It was fully expected that there would be fireworks in wheat today after the bullish report made by the government yesterday afternoon concerning spring wheat. However, two factors prevented this, and the rise that the wheat is having today is more because of the fact that wheat is really cheap than anything else.

The two factors mentioned as preventing any sensational rise in wheat today are that the effect of the crop report has been discounted to a great degree by traders acting on bullish expectations, and also that the heavy winter wheat crop of the Southwest is larger by 100,000,000 bushels than last year and is being moved now, thus holding the market down.

Also, it is claimed, the general crop will be about as large—of wheat—as a whole—as last year, and the deficiency in spring wheat will not warrant violent eruptions in the market.

July spring wheat, which had no opening figure, did not a great deal of activity, was up ⅞c in the last hour. September spring opened ⅛@¼c over yesterday and in the last hour had gained ¾@⅞c. July durum was ¾c up and September was ½c up with hardly a thing to show for it.

Another Bulge in Flax.

The government report on flax, when analyzed, is considered bullish and the result was that the three options of flax started upward from the opening this morning, making a comfortable net gain for the day. While the acreage is 79 per cent of last year's, whereas a much greater shortage was looked for, the government crop report shows a prospective tremendous yield, which makes the shortage in yield, which makes the report as a whole quite bullish. July gained 2¾c for the day, September advanced 2c and so did October.

E. R. Anderson, who for seven years, lacking one month to a day, has been manager at Duluth of the Benson-Newhouse-Stabeck company, grain dealers in the Board of Trade building, will leave this evening for Winnipeg, Man., to take charge of the business of the firm of which he is a member, at that point. The company has just been formed in Canada and the stockholders are the same as in the American company. Mr. Anderson and Mr. Newhouse will be in active service in the Manitoba capital. Mr. Anderson is succeeded here by E. H. Woodruff of Minneapolis, who was yesterday elected a member of the board.

G. M. Lecount wires this morning from Pipestone, Minn.:

"All the way from Wentworth crop is generally good, some thin, short fields, but Eastern South Dakota and West Central Minnesota will have an average crop. Fields are heading well and there is plenty of moisture to mature crop. Weather favorable."

Kansas City reports say exporters have cleaned up all the Kansas hard wheat and are bidding way over Kansas City market. Largest receivers report only one to 5 cars. Country sold corn on belief in rains. They are now buying it back as none fell.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Government Report Causes Advance in Price List.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10.—A bullish interpretation was placed upon the government report for wheat, and prices today advanced. Moderate support was in evidence and Minneapolis was relatively stronger than outside markets. July closed ⅛c higher than yesterday. September ⅝@¾c higher, and December ⅝c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 600,000 bushels for five days.

Cash wheat firmer today. No. 1 northern, September price to ⅛c above.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on Account of Government Report.

Chicago, July 10.—Wheat turned stronger today in response to the bullish aspect of the government report. There were also unfavorable crop advices from France. Free offerings, however, from a variety of sources quickly wiped out the advance. The opening was ¼@⅜c higher. September which started at 88⅞@89¼c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether, reacted to 88⅝c.

Liberal export sales including soft winter as well as hard led to a rally. The close was steady, however, with September ½c net higher at 91⅛c.

Corn suffered from a general rush to sell, the government report as to that grain having been more bearish than expected. September opened ⅛@¼c down to 61⅜@61½c, touched 61⅝c and then fell to 61@61⅛c.

After a little further setback the market turned upward with wheat. The close was firm at 61⅞c for September, a gain of ¼c net.

Leading houses put pressure on oats, September started ¼@⅜c off at 40¼@40⅝c and descended to 39⅝c.

Provisions weakened with hogs. First sales were 5@7½c lower, including September options at $20.97½ for pork, $11.62½@11.65 for lard, and $11.82½ for ribs.

Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red new, 89@89½c; No. 3 red new, 88¾@88¾c; No. 2 hard new, 90c; No. 3 hard, 90¼@90¾c; No. 1 northern, 89@90c; No. 1 northern, 92@93c; No. 2 northern, 90@92c; No. 2 spring, 92@93c; No. 3 spring, 90@92c; No. 4 spring, 52@88c; velvet chaff, 89@93½c, durum, 88@90c.

REMARKS—Showers fell over Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, the Western Dakotas and Montana; hot weather prevailed in Montana, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kentucky; temperatures of 100 deg. occurred in Southeastern Montana.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

‡—Not included in district averages.
‡—Maximum of yesterday, minimum of last night.
*—Highest yesterday.
†—Lowest for twenty-four hours, ending at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time.

Note—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average precipitations from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

London Stocks.

London, July 10.—American securities opened quiet. Light offerings depressed values after the opening, but most of the losses were regained on covering before noon. Later Canadian Pacific led a sharp advance, the continent and New York bought and the market closed steady, a fraction off from the best.

STOCKS HAVE HEAVY CLOSE

Proposed N. Y. C. and Lake Shore Inquiry Leads to Declines

Earlier Session Sees General Gains in Security Prices.

New York, July 10.—The comprehensive rise of the stock market in the early trading today bore out the contention of the bulls that the short interest had been expanded considerably by recent selling, which made possible a successful drive at the bears.

Announcement of President Wilson's action to avert a strike of trainmen and conductors on Eastern railroads, and Secretary McAdoo's assurance that government 2 per cent bonds would be protected in framing a new currency law, were primary causes of the improved feeling. Recent declines were largely effaced by today's upturn. Canadian Pacific sold 5 points above yesterday's lowest. Although the list fell back from the highest in the last half of the forenoon, trading became dull on the reaction, and the major portion of the advance was retained.

Bonds steady.

Stocks were in better condition at the opening of the market today, and prices were higher. Business was principally in a few of the speculative leaders. The strongest stock was Union Pacific, which rose 2 points on the first few transactions. Canadian Pacific, the weak feature yesterday, moved up 1⅝. Southern Pacific and Reading gained a point.

Cheerfulness permeated the early operations in stocks. Purchases were made with confidence, owing to the better complexion of the speculative situation. Being deprived of any immediate incentive to sell the list, shorts were eager to cover and a considerable portion of the list responded with gains of 1 to 2½. Trading flattened out on the high level and slight recessions followed.

Business became stagnant while the floor operators awaited a new impulse to active speculation. Scattered realizing just about balanced the new orders, so that the market in the early afternoon rested on an even keel. No interest was excited by the falling off in the United States Steel corporation's unfilled orders of over 500,000 tons, which bore out previous reports of a general contraction in trade activities.

The Harriman stocks ran off over a point each, presumably on account of selling by disappointed holders who expected that definite information regarding the disposal of the $48,000,000 Union Pacific holdings of Southern Pacific would be disclosed at today's projected meeting of the directors. When it became known that no quorum could be had, the reactionary tendency developed in the Harriman shares, which affected the whole market.

The market closed heavy. New York Central declined a point on Washington dispatches regarding Senator Norris' proposal for a congressional investigation of the contemplated consolidation of New York Central and Lake Shore. Pressure developed in other sections of the list, particularly Chesapeake & Ohio, which made a new low record.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 10.—Private reports that numerous showers or local rains had occurred in Central Texas and Oklahoma, served to partially relieve recent new crop apprehensions, and the cotton market was a shade easier during today's early trading. First prices were three points higher on July and August, but generally 2 points lower and the active months soon about three to five points net lower shortly after the call. Private cables attributed the steady showing of Liverpool to covering of shorts for over the holidays, as the market will be closed there from today until Monday.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: July, 12.12; August, 12.12; September, 11.67; October, 11.48; November, 11.43; December, 11.42; January, 11.37; February, 11.39;

TARIFF BILL IS READY TO BE REPORTED OUT BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Approved By That Body By Strictly Party Vote.

Chief Provisions of House Measure Are Not Disturbed.

Cattle and Wheat Put on Free List By the Senators.

Washington, July 11.—The senate may now proceed to dispose of the original business for which President Wilson called the extra session of congress—revision of the tariff.

Today, three months and four days after the special session began, Chairman Simmons of the finance committee was authorized to report the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill. The measure was passed upon in committee by a strict party vote, Republicans voting against it.

As it goes to the senate, the bill retains the principal provisions of the house measure and those particularly advocated by President Wilson—free raw wool and a provision that sugar shall be free May 1, 1916. The finance committee majority and the caucus have greatly extended the free list and reduced many rates, notably in the metal, wool and agricultural schedule. Sweeping changes, however, have been made in the administrative features and the income tax.

Cattle and wheat now are on the free list, the latter with a countervailing duty.

RAIN FALLS IN BOTH DAKOTAS AND IOWA

Crops Are Greatly Benefited By the Precipitation.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gentle rains are falling in this section of North Dakota today and are reported general over the greater part of the state. Recent rains in Southeastern North Dakota and Western Minnesota have caused more than a four-foot rise in the Red river at this point.

Benefit to Crops.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 11.—Heavy rains which fell over a large part of Southern South Dakota and Northwestern Iowa last night will be of immense benefit to crops.

Three-inch Fall at Euclid.

Crookston, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy rains, varying from three-fourths of an inch here, to three inches at Euclid, covered the entire northern portion of the Red river valley during the night, greatly benefiting late crops.

Heavy Hail Storm.

Bottineau, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy hail storms swept over a district at the foot hills of the Turtle mountain, from Souris to a point twenty-five miles southeast of here, last night. Great damage was done on several farms, but the total losses are few. Windows were driven in by the hail, which accompanied a high wind. Soaking rains fell and will revive some of the crops.

TWO GANGSTERS ARE KILLED IN NEW YORK

"Moses the Strong Arm" and Peter McCabe Are Murdered.

New York, July 11.—Four gangsters intercepted Morris Reich, known to the police as "Moses the Strong Arm," on a crowded East Side corner late yesterday, and two knife thrusts and revolver bullet wounds in the chest and back ended his career on the spot. A gang feud is believed to be the cause of the murder.

After the shooting the assailants separated and fled. David Wolk and Jack Willis, the latter a 16-year-old bellboy, were arrested charged with being members of the gang which participated in the murder.

Another gangster, Peter McCabe, said to be a leader of the so-called Gopher gang, was shot and killed on Staten Island by a special policeman, Thomas Bananza. The latter, who is being held on a charge of manslaughter, maintains he was attacked by McCabe and two other members of the gang, and shot in self-defense.

GARRISON TELLS HIS INSPECTION DATES

Secretary of War Will Be at Fort Snelling Aug. 23.

Washington, July 11.—Secretary Garrison today announced the itinerary of his trip for inspection of army posts. Leaving Washington next Wednesday with Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and Maj.-Gen. James B. Aleshire, chief of the quartermaster's corps, Secretary Garrison will visit first Atlanta, Ga., proceed through the South and then go to the Pacific coast.

He will be at Missoula, Mont., Aug. 7; Helena, Mont., Aug. 8; Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 9; Billings, Mont., Aug. 10; Edgmont, S. D., Aug. 12; Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 13; Crawford, S. D., Aug. 14. From there he will go to military posts in Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas. He will be in St. Paul Aug. 23 and Chicago the next day, returning to Washington Aug. 28.

J. S. POMEROY OF MINNEAPOLIS.

SUFFRAGETTE WITH PISTOL PUTS PARLIAMENT IN PANIC

Fires Toy in House and Yells "Justice for Women!"

Liverpool Women Smash Windows Preceding King's Visit.

London, July 11.—The report of a pistol fired from the strangers' gallery in the house of commons today accompanied by a yell of "Justice for Women!" caused panic among the members in session.

Simultaneously with the report a shower of pamphlets rained down on the members. They bore the printed words "Votes for Women."

Two persons pointed out as perpetrators of the outrage were taken from the gallery and detained pending investigation. It was discovered later that the weapon merely was a toy pistol. A number of toy mouse traps, satirizing the "cat and mouse act," reached the members, wrapped in the pamphlets thrown from the gallery.

Celebrate King's Visit.

Liverpool, July 11.—Militant suffragettes started a window-smashing demonstration during King George's visit here today. Armed with pokers, squads of women shattered several large windows along the route of the procession, but the police quickly rounded them up and order had been restored before his majesty's arrival.

Mrs. Mackworth Goes to Jail.

Newport, Eng., July 11.—A fine of $50 or one month in jail was inflicted today on Mrs. Margaret H. Mackworth, daughter of the "coal king," David A. Thomas, for setting fire to a public mail box on June 26. Mrs. Mackworth elected to go to jail. Her husband is Capt. Humphrey Mackworth of the Royal Monmouthshire engineers, elder son of Sir Arthur Mackworth and heir to the baronetcy.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; TWO MEN KILLED

Four Others Injured in Accident on Long Island Road.

Mineola, N. Y., July 11.—Two men were killed and four injured early this morning when an auotomobile was struck by a Long Island railroad train at a crossing near here. The touring car, in which the party of seven men was riding, was demolished and William Robinson of New York and a man unidentified met death. Thomas Nolan, owner of the car, probably sustained a fracture of the skull, and William Millar of Jersey City serious internal injuries. Both may die.

SAY McCOMBS IS RECOVERING FAST.

Paris, July 11.—So satisfactory is the progress made by William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, towards convalescence since his recent operation for appendicitis, that his doctors believe he will be able to leave the hospital at a comparatively early date.

DIES OF EXCITEMENT IN WRITING OF WAR

N. Taburno of St. Petersburg Unable to Stand Great Emotion.

St. Petersburg, July 11.—N. Taburno, prominent publicist, died today of heart disease after writing an article on the Balkan war. He was of Montenegrin origin and the emotion caused by the stirring incidents of the campaign is said to have brought about his death.

MINNESOTA BANKERS BACK CURRENCY POLICY OF NATIONAL SOCIETY

Commit Themselves to the Proposals of American Bankers' Association.

J. S. Pomeroy of Minneapolis Is Elected President of Society.

Resolutions Adopted Indorsing the One Cent Letter Postage Bill.

OFFICERS MINNESOTA BANKERS' ASSOCIATION.

President—J. S. Pomeroy, Minneapolis.
Vice president—W. D. Willard, Mankato.
Treasurer — J. J. Ponsford, Watertown.
Secretary—George H. Richards, Minneapolis.
Executive council members—C. L. Conger, McIntosh; C. H. Draper, Wells; J. F. Millard, Willmar; A. C. Gooding, Rochester; John H. Hines, Carlton.

The Minnesota Bankers' association at the closing session of its convention here this morning committed itself to the proposals of the currency commission of the American Bankers' association for changes in the law now before congress. The executive council of the Minnesota association was also instructed to watch carefully the progress of the bill with an eye not only to its general effect but to its effect on commercial and agricultural conditions in Minnesota and the Northwest, and to submit its recommendations to the Minnesota representatives in congress.

The feature of the closing session

BIG SEIZURES OF WHISKY IN MAINE

Kegs and Bottles of Liquor Confiscated Under the Webb Law.

Portland, Me., July 11.—Summer vacationists and natives who had hopes that the dry spell in Maine was about to be broken, received disconcerting news when big seizure of whiskys were made in this city, Augusta and Bangor by sheriffs.

The raids were the most important in Maine since the passage of the Webb law to prevent the shipment of liquor into prohibition states. Fifteen kegs of whisky were found hidden on Cushings island, in Portland Harbor. Six hundred and twenty gallons of whisky sent from Louisville, Ky., is locked up in the jail.

Sheriff Stevens of Kennebec county held up a motor furniture van and found several boxes in which were packed 3,000 pints of whiskey, bound from Boston for Augusta.

Terrific Rains With Hail and Cold Wind Sweep Country.

June Temperature Lowest Known There in 600 Years.

Vesuvius Is Active and Part of Population Is Badly Scared.

Rome, July 11.—A terrific storm is raging throughout Italy, and in many places the country has been devastated and the crops destroyed. It is accompanied by remarkably cold weather for this time of year. The temperature in Rome at noon today fell below 60 deg. Fahrenheit. Such weather in the middle of June has not been recorded in Italy since the year 1313 A. D., when superstitious people attributed it to the repetition of the No. 13.

People Flee From Floods.

Messina, July 11.—A violent tempest in the vicinity of the Straits of Messina, accompanied by heavy rainfall, has caused enormous damage in this region. Crops have been destroyed and floods have compelled the population to leave the huts in which they have been living since the great earthquake of a few years ago.

Earthquakes at Cosenza.

Cosenza, Italy, July 11.—Hurricanes, accompanied by slight earthquake shocks and underground rumblings, have terrified the peasants in this region for the last two days. This is especially the case in the isolated villages where the people have not recovered from the fright caused by the earthquake which occurred at the end of June.

Temperature Near Freezing.

Naples, Italy, July 11.—Extraordinary falls of rain and hail have flooded the surrounding country for the last two days. Torrents of water mixed with mud and ashes from Vesuvius have inundated the villages along the Gulf of Turin. Owing to a strong cold wind from the north, accompanied by hurricanes, the temperature today fell almost to freezing. Snow is reported to have fallen in the Alps.

POPE BENEFITS BY COOL WEATHER.

Rome, July 11.—The pope's physicians today dissuaded him from taking his usual drive and walk in the gardens of the Vatican owing to the violence of the storm and the heavy rains. His holiness continues perfectly well and the exceptionally cool weather helps to keep him in good health.

The pontiff is deeply concerned about the situation in the Balkans. He expressed regret today that both Bulgaria and Roumania, the two most advanced of the Balkan nations, should be involved in a fraticidal war.

Railway Mail Service Changed.

Washington, July 11.—Important changes and transfers in the railway mail service, affecting superintendents and chief clerks in various districts, principally in the South, were made today by Postmaster General Burleson.

MULHALL AWAITS TURN TO TELL LOBBY STORY TO SENATE COMMITTEE

COL. MARTIN M. MULHALL.

Washington, July 11.—Col. Martin M. Mulhall, former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, sold to a New York paper recently for $10,000 all his correspondence with the officials of the association and with members of congress and others with whom he had business when he was in the association's employ. He is to appear before the investigating committee at Washington today.

Wool Men Are Called on to Explain Fund of $20,000.

Champ Clark Denies Having Had Dealings With Lamar.

Says He Never Spoke to Morgan or Sanctioned Use of Name.

Washington, July 11.—Martin M. Mulhall, whose published charges of his activities as a lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers have named many congressmen as having been susceptible to influences of a "lobby," was ready today to begin his testimony when the senate investigating committee assembled.

Inasmuch as some witnesses in the wool tariff phase of the inquiry were waiting to be heard, Mulhall was forced to wait.

Winthrop L. Marvin, secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, put in a synopsis of a statement showing the financial operations of the association. He was questioned about a special $20,000 fund raised several years ago. He said he had no record of how that fund was collected or disbursed. He believed E. F. Green of Boston, who helped raise it, could tell how it had been spent. No record had been kept, but he was certain the money had been spent in printing and traveling expenses.

Gift of $5,000.

William Whitman, former president of the association, took the stand after Marvin. Whitman explained a $5,000 gift made to S. N. D. North, secretary of the association, in 1897, and a clerk to majority members of the sen-

EARLY PEACE IS PREDICTED

Roumania's Entrance Into Balkan War Alters Situation.

American Red Cross Is Asked to Aid Relief Work.

St. Petersburg, July 11.—A distinctly hopeful view is expressed today by the Russian press and in official circles in regard to the Balkan situation. Peace is regarded generally as imminent on account of the crippling of the Bulgarian army and the severe losses sustained by Servia. The Russian Red Cross society has decided not to send any detachments of doctors, nurses and ambulance men to the front.

Roumania's Action Helps.

London, July 11.—The Roumanian declaration of war on Bulgaria is expected here to assist in bringing an end to the carnage in the Balkans by forcing speedy action on the part of the powers, who have been invited to intervene.

The object of King Charles of Roumania in assuming the part of a belligerent is to strengthen Roumania's claim to participate in the ultimate sharing out of territory in the Balkan peninsula. For the present Roumania, it is thought, will probably content herself with occupying the strip of Bulgarian territory from Tutukai on the Danube to Baltchik on the Black sea including the city of Silistria. She has coveted this for a long time.

The Roumanian army took possession of the city today without Bulgarian resistance.

Protest at Paris.

Paris, July 11.—The Bulgarian legation here has received instructions from Sofia to protest as energetically

MAY SIT IN SALOONS, BUT MUST NOT DRINK

Wisconsin Attorney General Passes on Sunday Closing Law.

Madison, Wis., July 11.—It is no crime to sit around a saloon on Sunday, provided nothing is sold. An opinion today by Attorney General Owen to District Attorney James Kirwan of Calumet county, makes this clear.

Application had been made to Kirwan to arrest saloon keepers who keep open their places of business on Sunday. No business was done save letting people sit in the saloon, out of the sun. The attorney general holds an offense has not been committed and that the law only contemplates forbidding traffic or business in places that are kept open on the first day of the week.

Numerous other questions involving the Sunday law are also asked and answered. The attorney general rules that unless the operation of a canning factory is a work of necessity, the owners are open to prosecution and the burden of proof would be upon the defendant to show it was a work of necessity. Saloon keepers of Chilton made application for the arrest of the president of a canning factory for running on Sunday.

The attorney general holds that keeping a cheese factory open for business on Sunday is not a work of necessity, nor is the sale of wearing apparel.

KATY LINES SUED UNDER TRUST LAW

Judgment of $15,000,000 Is Asked in Texas Court.

Austin, Tex., July 11.—Judgment for $15,000,000 against the Missouri, Kansas & Texas lines is asked in a suit filed in the district court. Violation of the Texas anti-trust law is alleged.

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas of Kansas, the same organization in Texas, the Dallas, Cleburne & Southwestern Railway company, the Denison, Bonham & New Orleans railway and the Texas Central railway are made defendants.

The state charges that by its coalition with other railroads, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas of Kansas has created a monopoly in Texas and has so routed passengers and freight as to compel their transportation over the controlled lines.

HAS HEART CUT OUT AND HER PETS KILLED

California Woman's Wishes, Expressed in Will, Are Obeyed.

Berkeley, Cal., July 11.—Mrs. Adelaide Sherwood Soule, widow of Prof. Frank Soule of the University of California faculty, feared being buried alive and in her will, just filed for probate, stipulated that within twenty-four hours after her death her heart should be cut out and her body should be held seven days before interment. Mrs. Soule was fond of animals, and provided in her will that within twenty-four hours after her death all her pets should be chloroformed and held under water twenty-four hours.

Mrs. Soule died July 3. Mrs. Sarah Manchester, administratrix under the will, had the dead woman's heart removed and the body is being held. The pets were killed.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

Florida Mob Takes Vengeance for Helping Murderer.

Blountstown, Fla., July 11.—A negro known as "Kid Tempers" was taken from the jail here shortly after midnight last night by a mob, and lynched. The negro assisted another negro, who had killed a deputy sheriff of the neighborhood, to escape by giving him money and keeping him in hiding.

BRYAN TO GO ON SIX WEEKS' TOUR.

Washington, July 11.—Secretary Bryan will leave here July 19 for a six week's lecture tour. His engagements are principally in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. In his absence John Bassett Moore, counselor of the department, will be acting secretary of state. Mr. Bryan expects to return about Sept. 1.

WOUNDED BRIDE LEAVES HOSPITAL.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Marguerite Curl, the bride of a day who was shot by her husband, who then committed suicide in a local hotel May 17, left the city hospital today after having lingered between life and death for several weeks. She will return to her home in Kansas City.

Curl was being sought by Federal officers for alleged misuse of the mails when the couple entered the suicide pact.

MAKING HIM WALK THE PLANK.

NO ORDERS TO REDUCE RATES

Bulletins on the Two-Cent Fare Have Not Been Received.

Duluth travelers are wondering when they will begin traveling on the railroads of this state for 2 cents per mile.

The travelers are no more in the air regarding the time of the reduction of the present rates than the local officials of the various roads that were affected by the Minnesota rate decision.

The bulletin ordering the reduction may come tomorrow; and again, it may not come for some time.

When the mandate of the courts is given to the railroads the rate will go into effect. Local passenger officials of all the roads that will be compelled to reduce their tariffs 1 cent per mile, have heard absolutely nothing and have not the least idea when the reduction will go onto effect, and in the meantime the public is wondering.

It was generally expected that the new rate, or the restoration of the old rate, would become effective upon July 12, which would be tomorrow. It may be installed tomorrow, but no local passenger official knows anything about it.

BUSINESS MEN VISITING COAST.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—Fourteen directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, including President Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, arrived here today to investigate commercial and industrial conditions on the coast. The committee will remain here two days and will then go to San Francisco and thence to Portland.

VETERANS REACH HOME WITH COMRADE'S BODY.

Tacoma, Wash., July 11.—The Washington special train bringing home the state's quota of veterans from the Gettysburg reunion, has reached this city with the body of Col C. S. Rugg who died on route. Col. Rugg claimed to have fired the first shot on the historic field.

Col. Rugg spent twenty-six months in Andersonville prison, said by his comrades to have been a record period.

WEATHER—Showers or thunder storms tonight and probably Saturday.

RESERVE LINE TO BE MARKED

Hunters Will Have No Good Excuse for Law Violations.

Game and Fish Commission to View Duluth Hatchery Sites.

Hunters will have no good excuses for violating the law by hunting in the Burntside forest reserve near Ely after the state game and fish commission carries out plans it now has under consideration.

George J. Bradley of Norwood and T. O. Ofsthun of Glenwood, members of the game and fish commission who have been attending the bankers' convention here, were joined today by D. L. Durkin of Frazee, another member of the commission, and E. W. Cobb of St. Paul, superintendent of fisheries. They left today for Ely to look up additional places for taking pike spawn and also to plan for the marking of the lines of the forest reserve.

"The hunters really haven't been given a fair deal up there," said Mr. Bradley this morning. "The lines of the reserve have not been marked and men have had no means of telling whether they were in the reserve or not. The result was frequent unintentional violations of the laws, which will not recur when the lines are marked. It is a big task and all of the work cannot be done in one year, but we hope to have part of it done during the next fall and winter."

Tomorrow the party will return to Duluth and make an inspection of the fish hatchery sites along the French river. The last legislature made an appropriation of $1,000 for the purchase of a site, but the site has not yet been definitely located.

George Wood, the deposed range game warden, was in Duluth this morning in conference with members of the committee. He is seeking reinstatement, but his chances of obtaining it are said to be slim. While the members of the committee ascribe to his efficiency, they declare that his disregard for regulations makes his retention in the department impossible.

GOOD MONEY IN HOG RAISING

Nicollet County Man Says Farmers Are Prosperous This Year.

"Hog raising and stock growing have been taken up largely by the farmers of Nicollet county during the past ten years," said M. J. Hedren of Lafayette, Minn., who is here attending the coal dealers' meeting, at the Holland today.

"There seems to be good money in hogs," he said, "and it just happens that those we raise down our way usually top the markets. Dairying is also succeeding among many farmers and I'm glad to say that the stock down there is first class. The stock farms for the most part are small, from eighty acres up, although there are a couple that occupy a half section each.

"Our wheat crop this year will be fair, probably running from fifteen to twenty bushels to the acre. The whole crop was in danger a month ago, but the drouth was broken on June 24. The dry spell thinned out the wheat somewhat, but altogether the crop is fairly satisfactory. A peculiar situation exists in Nicollet county. I've lived there forty-seven years, only left the farm for the elevator business eleven years ago. and in all the time there were only two years when we raised good wheat crops on heavy straw. Usually our best yields come on the thin stems. The exceptions I mention occurred in 1901 and 1910."

TAKES LARGEST WHEAT CARGO

The largest cargo of wheat ever loaded at the Head of the Lakes was taken out last night at 10:20 on the William P. Snyder, the vessel loading 464,000 bushels. The boat is bound for Port McNichol, Georgian Bay, her cargo having been loaded by the Ames-Brooks company for export.

Once before the trip that started last evening the William P. Snyder carried a cargo of 418,000 bushels, this trip being made early in the spring. The steamer Willis L. King delivered 425,000 bushels at Buffalo last spring, but the cargo packed out last night by the Snyder is the largest on record and wipes off the slate the former record of the King.

Not only will the Snyder hold for the time being at least the grain tonnage record of the Great Lakes, but if the crew of the boat has its way the boat will also possess the unloading record.

The attempt will be made to break all records in the matter of unloading the boat, and it is believed that the vast load will be removed from the hold of the Snyder in less than two days.

The Snyder is carrying the big cargo at the rate of 1¼ cents.

Outside of the immense tonnage record of the Snyder, there was little other activity in the grain loading line. Also there is comparatively light movement in both coal and ore just now.

CASH PAID IN.

Cash for the $100,000 of certificates of indebtedness recently subscribed by the public at the "bargain counter sale" engineered by Finance Commissioner Fred J. Voss, has all been turned over to City Treasurer Grant E. McLean. Each of those who subscribed has been furnished with a receipt which will be exchanged about Sept. 1 for certificates. The securities offered by the city return 5 per cent to the purchaser, payable semi-annually. The proceeds are to be used for improvements of the water and light department, including a pumping station at Woodland, a reservoir for the middle system and a new pumping outfit at Lakewood.

TWO NEW COMPANIES ARE INCORPORATED.

Two new concerns filed articles of incorporation today with the register of deeds.

The Steel Plant Realty company, organized to engage in a general real estate business, and particularly in steel plant suburban property, is incorporated for $25,000. The men forming the corporation are A. C. Campbell, S. H. Eckman, S. J. Bigelow, F. A. Eckman, W. A. Kennedy and E. D. Carter. S. H. Eckman is president, Mr Campbell, vice president and treasurer, and E. D. Carter, secretary. The principal place of business will be in this city.

The Ogama Iron & Land company, also organized to engage in a general land business, is incorporated by John B. Arnold, Duluth; Ghent B. Smith of Superior and H. B. Arnold of Virginia. The company is capitalized for $50, divided into 5,000 shares at $10 each. The headquarters of the concern will be in Duluth.

Favors City Manager.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—That a city manager should be employed to handle the business of a municipality is the contention of Mayor M. F. Murphy of Grand Forks, and he bases that opinion on twenty-five years' service as a city officer—the past three of which he has been mayor.

Brakeman's Case Up Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—The case of John P. Doane, brakeman, charged with assaulting and robbing Stanley Plischke and Jack Leddy, sons of wealthy Chicagoans, and then throwing them from a swiftly moving freight train Wednesday, was continued in district court yesterday until today. Max R. Whitney, also a brakeman, who was arrested, was discharged. The boys are being held under $00 bail as witnesses.

British imports of wood pulp last year amounted to 2,073,000,000 pounds.

PROTECTION FOR INFANTS

Dr. Webster Says Expense of Welfare Work Is Justified.

City and Masonic Order Employ Nurses and Furnish Certified Milk.

Speaking of the infant welfare work in Duluth, Dr. H. E. Webster states that the results secured last year have more than justified the expense.

The city has engaged a nurse to work in conjunction with the nurse and physicians of the Masonic order and is supplying certified milk for two stations, one at the Monroe school in the West end and one at the Masonic temple, Lake avenue and Second street. The product is being sold at 7 cents a quart, less than cost by 3 to 6 cents.

Many mothers with infants do not know the benefits to be derived by taking advantage of this opportunity to secure pure milk and get the advantage of the instructions of the nurses. Any names sent to the health department will result in an early visit from one of the nurses engaged in the work.

Country Is Awakening.

"The country is awakening to the self-evident fact," said Dr. Webster, "that it is much better to conserve what we have than to reach out for less desirable stock. For years these United States have made strenuous effort to induce immigration to its shores. Millions and millions of dollars have been expended along these lines and no thought or at least little was given to the health conditions surrounding these people, once they had passed the ordeal of Ellis island.

"Six hundred thousand people die every year in this country from preventable diseases, of this number 200,000 are infants between 1 and 6 years of age. Until within the last decade no systematic effort was made to save these infants. We are glad to note this is now all changed and an organized effort all along the line is being made to cut down this awful waste of human life.

"We in Duluth, fortunately, owing to our delightful summer climate, have not been shocked with the apalling death rate of less fortunate communities, but we have had a great many more fatalities than we are entitled to; we have therefore made an effort to meet the condition, by acting in harmony with the Masonic order, who at their own expense engage a nurse and two physicians to carry out this noble work. We have also engaged nurses and supply certified milk at less than cost to all those who apply for it. The success of this department, working with the said order, last year was so phenomenal that the expense is justified beyond a doubt.

"All mothers who have babies who are in need of our attention may receive advice and certified milk by making application."

GOPHER WILL LEAVE AUG. 7

Minnesota Naval Militia Will Participate in Perry Celebration.

Milwaukee and Chicago to Be Visited on Two Weeks' Cruise.

The naval reserves of Minnesota will leave on Aug. 7 for their annual cruise on the Gopher, and will take part in what will probably be the most noteworthy cruise that the reserves have had since the Minnesota divisions have been organized. The First and Second divisions of Duluth, and the Third division with headquarters at Pine City, will occupy the Gopher for two weeks, and during that time will take part in the Perry centennial celebration at Milwaukee.

Leaving here Aug. 7 the Gopher will meet nine other ships of the naval reserve fleet at South Manitou and the fleet will proceed down Lake Michigan to meet the Niagara, Perry's flagship which will be towed by the Wolverine and escorted by the fleet, to Milwaukee. At Milwaukee all of the naval reserve fleet will take part in the celebration maneuvers.

During the celebration there will be the annual naval reserve rowing race, and the Gopher crew expects to capture the Sherman cup. It was won the first two years by the Duluth men, but last year was lost to the crew of the Essex of Cleveland. Should the Duluth crew win it this year it will then permanently possess it. Gig and other races will also take part, and there will be other aquatic sports. After visiting Chicago, the fleet will disperse.

The Second division needs more men and will receive applications each Friday night at the Armory.

EXPORTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

An increase in exports from the Duluth district of $1,966,904 during the fiscal year just ended over the previous one is shown by the annual report of the customs department. The imports decreased $91,259, mostly because of a falling off of Canadian cereals. The following table gives a comparative view of the business of last year and the year before:

EIGHT-HOUR LAW HURTS ROAD WORK

Federal Law Provision Will Hamper Gopher Scenic Highway Work.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—The eight-hour day for all laborers employed on Federal government work may play havoc with the plans for the proposed Minnesota valley scenic highway.

Recently Paul D. Sargent, acting director of the bureau of public roads in the department of agriculture, submitted several changes in the contracts to be made by the eleven counties and municipalities through which the highway is to pass with the successful bidders for the work. One of these provided that no laborer must work more than eight hours a day.

C. Louis Weeks, assistant attorney general, wired Mr. Sargent, asking if this could not be changed, as all the contractors who had bid expected that a ten-hour day would be in force.

Mr. Weeks received a reply that the eight-hour clause cannot be waived under any circumstances. This is because the government is appropriating $25,000 towards the road and the eight-hour law must be observed on all government work.

DROWNS CHILDREN TO SPITE HUSBAND.

Nashville, Tenn., July 11.—Mrs. James Yates, wife of a farmer, who with Florence Farris, her 15-year-old daughter by a former marriage, was placed in jail at Union City, Tenn., late yesterday, charged with murder, has confessed to drowning her two stepchildren, Ligon Yates, 12 years old, and Ida May Yates, aged 10, according to a dispatch from Union City.

In the alleged confession Mrs. Yates is reported to have declared her husband and stepchildren mistreated her and that she acted in a spirit of retaliation.

President, Graham Taylor, president of the school of civics and philanthrophy, Chicago; secretary, W. T. Ross, secretary Missouri state board of charities, Columbia.

Father John A. Ryan, Associated Charities, St. Paul, was elected a member of the executive committee.

CASE REMANDED.

Cloquet Action Involving Lot of Logs Sent to State Courts.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—Error is found in the proceedings of the trial court in a decision announced by th Federal circuit court of appeals yesterday in the case of G. A. Burns vs. the Cloquet Lumber company involving an action for the replevin of 1,500,000 feet of logs. The case is remanded to the district court of Minnesota for a new trial.

Judge Sanborn and Willard prepared the decision from which Judge Carland dissents objecting to the portion of the opinion that holds it was an error not to submit to the jury the question of whether the lumber company cut and converted the logs to its own use in good faith.

The Cloquet Lumber company is alleged to have cut the logs from Burns' property in St. Louis county in 1892. Burns was awarded judgment for $18,952 in district court.

GUARDSMEN OPEN CAMP IN RAINSTORM.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—National guardsmen of North Dakota pitched their camp at the Rock Island Military reservation yesterday in a driving rainstorm, and settled for their first night out on a water-soaked field that will not be dried out till some time today. Several of the companies made marches of ten miles through the rain and mud to reach the camp, and the result has been to give the militia men some real army discomforts right on the jump. Today the routine of camp life began, Adjt. Gen. A. I. Berg is at the head of the encampment.

COAL DEALERS END SESSIONS

Delegates Leave for the Range on a Special Train.

Only Two Changes Are Made in the List of Officers.

With the adoption of resolutions and the election of officers, the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers association closed the business session of its convention this morning. At 1 o'clock about 200 visitors left the Union station in a special train for Hibbing, where they will see the mines of the Oliver Mining company in operation. They will return at 10 o'clock tonight and an hour later most of them will start for home.

Only two changes were made in the officers of the organiaztion when the nominations committee reported today. A. G. Young of Waterloo, Iowa, becomes a director, taking the place of W. G. Weart of Cedar Rapids, who died some time ago. F. C. Potter of Cooperstown, N. D., success his business partner, Senator Maynard Crane, as a director. Senator Crane, former president of the association, is retiring from active business.

Important subjects were toucher on in the resolutions adopted today. The investigation of the interstate commerce commission into the methods of weighing carload lots was approved and legislation was urged compelling the acceptance of destination weights in the matter of coal shipments. Another resolution protested against the law suggested by the American Railway association changing the demurrage rules by permitting a charge of $2 per day for all excess periods between Sept. 1 and Feb. 28.

The association went on record as favoring an honest advertising law and also the taxing of mail order houses.

Amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law defining the rights of small merchants and business men to organize was approved. The suggested change gives the business men in the same line power to organize to prevent monopoly and ruinous competition.

Science of Salesmanship.

The session this morning was largely attended and the talk by Dr. Stanley G. Krebs, head of the Wanamaker trade school of Philadelphia, proved exceptionally entertaining. His subject was the "Science of Salesmanship."

"Temperaments of all persons are divided in only two classes," said Dr. Krebs, "the quick and the slow. You can tell the type instantly. The slow man moves slowly, his every action is deliberative and he thinks slowly. Remember that when you're trying to sell him. Don't make your points too fast because the slow thinker doesn't grasp them, and they become jumbled before he has a clear idea of what you are talking about.

"The fact that he takes his time and needs it doesn't mean that the man is dull or unintelligent. He was simply born that way and the salesman must let him set the pace and talk accordingly.

"Just the opposite is required when dealing with the quick temperament. That man walks briskly, his hands move the same way. State your selling points in exactly the same fashion. If you talk slowly to a man with a quick temperament you irritate him and if you speed up with a slow thinker you have the same effect.

"Now there's nothing scientific about phrenology, palmistry or reading your man by the stars. But salesmanship is a science. You can tell by the way a man wears his clothes what he is like. That is you can detect the men who wants to be different, the vain man and the level-headed man. The latter wears his hat squarely upon his head, the hale fellow well met, who is simply waiting openly for you to state your point, has his on the back of his head. The man with the determined will shoves his hat down on his forehead till it almost covers his eyes. You can get him, but he wants to see what you've got."

William H. Lesser, mechanical engineer of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal company, gave a lecture last night on "The Anthracite Coal Industry." He explained the geology of hard coal, mining methods, hauling and preparation for marketing. He explained how the first aid to the injured was applied at the mines. Fifty of these aid crews have been organized by the company. The Philadelphia & Reading, he explained, had established a school for its employes, realizing the advantage in having intelligent miners and engineers in raising efficiency and decreasing accidents.

Thirty dealers were initiated as members of the KoKoal last night, a fraternal organization made up of coal dealers.

HELP BUILD THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

"No indeed, this isn't my first visit to Duluth," said W. D. Campbell of Edgely, N. D., who is prominent in the coal convention here. "Why about twenty-two years ago I worked as a carpenter on the First Presbyterian church at Third avenue east. Had bought a farm near Edgely some time before and thought I would come here and work at my trade long enough to get the money to clear off the small indebtedness. I worked a year, but hadn't a cent.

"I'll tell you right now I'd rather make 10 cents a day working for myself than $10 a day working for somebody else. I still own that farm although I am in business in Edgely. The crops this year are beginning to look good although three weeks ago we had a very poor prospect. The late spring with much wet weather was followed by a mighty hot sun and continued dry weather until grain was fairly cooked in the ground. Rains have changed the aspect, however, and we should have a good half crop this year.

"Edgely is a growing town in a growing section. Two railroads, the Milwaukee from Aberdeen, S. D., and the Southwestern from Fargo have their terminals there. In addition a railroad is being built north from Edgely to Winnipeg. Forty-two miles have been laid on this line, called the Midland Continental. Besides this Edgely is to be a freight division point on a Northern Pacific extension. That company has fifty acres in the town for development. Altogether Edgely is quite favored by the railroads."

FARGO "HARRYS" ARE BOTH HERE

For the benefit of the unbelievers it can be stated that Harry Alsop and Harry Sherwood, both of Fargo, N. D., are right here in Duluth attending the coal dealers' convention. They have attended every meeting of the association in years and they are about as fine a pair of entertainers as you would want to meet any place.

Yesterday the report got around that the two Harrys were missing this time. Great was the sadness when the news got abroad.

"Funny I haven't seen them," said one big salesman who sees that Duluth is kept on the coal map out North Dakota way.

"No," said another, "we have had two executive sessions of the Inside Koal Klan and they didn't show up. They're officers and charter members, too. First time they ever missed one of those installations sessions."

It might be stated here that Mrs. Harry Alsop and Mrs. Harry Sherwood are with their husbands on this convention trip.

SCREENINGS

Verona, N. D., is glad to claim Claus Tiedeman as its own. He sells coal out there and just now is having the time of his life at the convention in progress here. Claus is about the cheeriest person in his section of a cheery state. The Verona man is noted, however, for a very florid face. It's rosy red in the summer and a deep carmine in the winter, and almost any soubrette in the land would envy his complexion.

Yesterday an old acquaintance met him in the Spalding lobby.

"Hello, Claus, old boy," he said. "Glad to see you. Gee whiz, what's happened to your face? Been fishing?"

"No," said the coal dealer, "but if I wanted to start I'd begin right here. There's a big bunch of suckers in this neighborhood."

Then Claus smiled the smile that's helped to make him famous.

Alva T. Le Mar of Pittsburg was caught in the convention jam at the Spalding yesterday. For a few minutes he didn't know whether he was a coal man or a music teacher. He was positive he was no banker.

But the fact that he came from Pittsburg made him an easy victim for the coal man. Somebody slapped a badge on him and wrote his name on the card: "I'm Alva T. Le Mar of Pittsburg; Hoo R U?" Le Mar got along very well until some one began to talk to him about coal production in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania. Then he came out and confessed all.

"I'm no coal man, but I'll probably be one shortly if I don't shake this bunch," he said. "I came here on a fishing trip. Been up on the Canadian Northern. Got something to show for it, too."

Then the Pittsburg man bared his right forearm and showed as pretty a mess of mosquito bites as it is any one's pleasure to see.

ARE HOPING FOR BETTER WEATHER

Though the weather at noon was far from promising, the Lark o' the Lake committee announced that it was going ahead with preparations for this evening's performance at the boat club, in the hope that conditions might moderate, and the fireworks and hydro-aeroplane exhibitions be made possible.

In the event that these exhibitions are prevented by rain or wind, holders of grand stand tickets will be given tickets for a postponed performance tomorrow evening. The Third Regiment band will be on hand for a concert, and if it is impossible to have an outdoor entertainment, dancing will be enjoyed in the club ballroom.

WILL TALK TO ZIONISTS.

Local Members Will Observe Anniversary of Dr. Herzl's Death.

"Herzl and the Lesson He Taught Us," will be the subject of the address to be delivered by Benjamin Horwitz, Ph. D., post-graduate of Columbia university, at the Adas Israel synagogue, Third avenue east and Third street, Sunday, July 27, at 8 p. m.

Although more than two weeks remain before the commemoration of the ninth memorial of the death of Dr. Theodore Herzl, founder of Zionism, nothing is being overlooked by Ohave Zion Gate, No. 19, Duluth, to make the affair the most impressive of its kind ever held in Duluth. Already the committee in charge has almost completed its work. Judging from the discussion of the coming event among local Jews, a record-breaking attendance is confidently expected by the officers of the Gate.

Much interest is also being taken in the speaker of the evening, Dr. Horwitz, who is the son of Rev. and Mrs. E. Horwitz, 221 East Third street, and who is spending the summer with his parents. Dr. Horwitz is an ardent Zionist, having followed the movement almost from the moment when it began to take hold on American Jewry. Besides having obtained his degree in philosophy, Dr. Horwitz, at the age when many enter college, has won the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts.

DIES AT MESABA.

Moses Gibeau Passes Away After a Brief Illness.

Word was received here this morning of the death of Moses Gibeau, 69 years old, at Mesaba, following a short illness.

He is survived by his widow, four daughters and four sons. They are: Mrs. L. Gagne, Mrs. James Fink and Amelia Gibeau of Duluth, Georgeina Gibeau of Mesaba, Fabien of Monmouth, N. D., Moses of Douglas, Alaska, Louis of Mesaba and Napoleon of Duluth. Mr. Gibeau was a resident of Mesaba for the past twenty-two years, and was very well known on the range.

The body will be brought here tomorrow morning, and the funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning from the St. Jean Baptist church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Interment will be at Calvary.

ADVENTISTS AFTER PERMANENT HOME.

Bismarck, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seventh Day Adventists of North Dakota are casting about for a permanaot home, and the city that obtains the denomination will secure annually the big camp meeting maintained by the organization. The camp meeting held in Bismarck this year was attended by about 500 persons, while with the permanent establishment of a camp, it is anticipated by those at the head of the church that from 3,000 to 4,000 would participate.

In the city that is chosen as the church center a permanent home for the several state officers and missionary workers will be established. From the state offices about $75,000 is disbursed annually.

AITKIN BROTHERS LOSE THEIR SISTER.

Aitkin, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. and J. N. Marr received a telegram Tuesday announoing the death of their sister, Mrs. J. S. I. Wilson which occurred at her home in Haileybury, Ont., after a prolonged illness with tuberculosis. The brothers were summoned to Mrs. Wilson's bedside recently and returned home last week.

Mrs. Wilson has visited here upon several occasions and is well remembered by Aitkin people. She is survived by her husband, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, two daughters and a son.

PROGRAM OF LARK O' LAKE

Flight By Hydro-Aeroplane a Feature—Jannus Will Return.

Industrial Parade Will Show Extent of Duluth's Business Interests.

Unless weather conditions again interfere the Lark o' the Lake festivities planned for tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night bid fair to surpass anything in air and aquatic sports that Duluth has ever attempted. In addition to this the industrial parade will present a pageant that has seldom been equalled.

This evening, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night Aviator Earl Wymark of St. Louis, who has arrived with his hydro-aeroplane, will give flights. Aviator Tony Jannus will be back with W. D. Jones' flying boat, the Lark, Monday. This craft was swamped in the Chicago-to-Detroit race a few days ago and Jannus was put out of the contest. He has had the flying boat repaired and it will be here for the exhibition next week. It will be part of the program also, for Jannus to teach "Bill" Jones how to manage his craft.

This evening there will be a program of water sports and fireworks just off the main house of the boat club, and the Third Regiment band will furnish the music. Tomorrow there will be canoe and shell races and other water sports with the Third Regiment band interspersing selections.

The industrial parade promises to be more than usually fine. The various business houses of the city, the wholesalers and manufacturers, will have numerous floats and gaudily bedecked horses by the score in the parade. There will be automobile floats, and the city fire department and police with their auto and horse-drawn equipment will be out in full.

The parade will assemble at Seventh and Eighth avenues east at 7:30 and will be over in time to allow the visitors to attend the theaters, shop, or take a boat ride.

North Dakota Contractors Busy.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—The contractors of this state have not been so busy recently acquiring new jobs as in the completion of those secured earlier in the season. The larger contracts have already been let and some of them practically completed. In Fargo and other larger cities of the state some of the earlier contracts are now ready for the roofs.

Fargo is doing considerable additional paving in the residence districts.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Case of Becky."
EMPRESS—Musical tabloid.

FRANCES STARR AT THE LYCEUM

Belasco Production of Psychological Drama Is Interesting.

After all David Belasco is the real hypnotist in "The Case of Becky" which opened before a big audience at the Lyceum last evening, and the audience is the hypnotized party, not Becky.

The audience is hypnotized into being convinced that Edward Locke's version of a psychological clinic is a thrilling drama, by the clever stagecraft of the immortal David. Incidentally charming little Miss Frances Starr is some hypnotist herself, but of that more anon.

Imagine, for example, what an utter failure "The Case of Becky" would have been if Belasco had allowed Dr. Emerson to attempt to hypnotize Balzano by the mere use of his hands and his staring eyes, as our old friends of the long hair and dirty collar used to do back in the town hall. But Belasco's hand is not that of the tyro. He introduced a completely equipped laboratory, with mysteriously sparking electrical apparatus. The average citizen knows about as much about electricity as he does of hypnotism. He was given an ocular demonstration of the former mysterious force. What is easier than to believe what the stage magician wanted him to believe about the other mysterious force. White tables that looked like a hospital operating room—and everybody knows what wonders are accomplished in an operating room. Great blue flashes of electricity. Mysterious light. The electric pinwheel. There you are. You're hypnotized. How much better and more convincing than the old Svengali methods of Trilby days. No fluttering fingers and hissing through clenched teeth for David. Get up-to-date. Electricity is the secret.

But don't forget the beefsteak. Dr. Emerson gorged his victim with a choice dinner. Well David set before his audience a sumptuous repast of artistic talent. Then Snap! "The Case of Betty" is a play, isn't it? Sure, it's a play. You thrill with emotion just as the master of stagecraft ordained.

MISS FRANCES STARR.

But ot return to Miss Starr, Belasco's thoroughly delightful young star. To use the language of the baseball writers in speaking of a pitcher—she "has everything," if "everything" is youth, beauty, charm, personal magnetism—back on the hypnotic theme again—and the "Divine spark." She has the finish and technique of a Mrs. Fiske, and the youth and attractiveness of an ingenue. Miss Starr should go much farther and do better things than "Becky" interesting as she made the role.

An old friend is back in the role of Prof. Balzamo, in the person of Charles Dalton. Mr. Dalton was seen here in "The Thief." He is an actor of intelligence, force and finish. His handling of the part of the prince of egotists was superb.

The cast is a small one, containing but seven persons, one of them Thomas the electrician, having merely a "bit." That much overworked term "all star cast" is about the only phrase that describes it. Albert Bruning had a long, trying and difficult role as Dr. Emerson, and he played it convincingly and conscientiously.

Eugene O'Brien makes an excellent juvenile lead, and Harry C. Browne with his infectious laugh, is thoroughly likable as Dr. Peters. The only other feminine role, aside from Miss Starr's, is that of Miss Pettingill, the nurse, by Mabel Norton, and played effectively.

"The Case of Becky" as a whole is amusing never; thrilling occasionally; interesting always. It will be repeated tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

NEW TABLOID AT THE EMPRESS

One of the best of the tabloid musical comedies yet presented at the Empress theater, is "The Girl From Luxemburg" which opened at the Empress last evening for the remainder of the week.

The company contains a good looking chorus, several well staged ensembles, and mony good musical numbers, all of which are presented in lively fashion. It is a clean, bright and entertaining little musical comedy.

The title part is taken by Miss Vivian Francis, a pretty and sprightly young woman. She has several song numbers, in some of which she is assisted by Arthur Uttry. The "I Love You" number is especially pleasing.

Arthur Clamage is the principal comedian. He has been seen in Duluth before in musical comedy, but probably never to better advantage than in his present role. His parody on "Terrible Eyes" is amusing in the extreme, and scored heavily with last night's audiences. Joe Barrett also carries a comedy role well and gets his full share of laughs.

A good specialty is introduced by two graceful young women and two men known as the "Barbary Coast Four." They give the "Texas Tommy" dances with all its variations, much to the delight of the audience.

The chorus is a pretty and hard working collection of young women.

The motion picture film "Love and Horses" opens the evening's entertainment. The scene is laid on the Mexican border, and it tells of a dramatic rescue of some stolen horses with an incidental love theme.

The bill will continue for the remainder of the week with a daily matinee, and two performances each evening.

AITKIN WEDDINGS.

Saskatchewan Man Takes Bride in the Minnesota Village.

Aitkin, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles E. Scriven of Saskatchewan and Miss Doris M. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Turner, were married Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. A. L. Richardson performing the ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Scriven were both popular young people, the bride having been employed as bookkeeper for several years in the First National bank, and the bridegroom being an Aitkin county farmer until two years ago, when he went west. After a wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Scriven departed for Saskatchewan, their future home.

Nathan A. Gilbert and Miss Hannah Leaf, both of Crow Wing county, were married Tuesday at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. A. L. Richardson officiating.

Harvey L. Starry and Miss Alice Porter, both of Esquagamah, were married last week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Porter, Rev. C. C. Sutton officiating. The bride was a teacher in the Aitkin county schools, and the bridegroom a farmer in Little Pine township, where the young couple have gone to housekeeping. Besides immediate friends of the families who attended the wedding were Miss Coit, Englevale, N. D.; L. Hake, Fellon, Minn., and Mrs. S. R. Chord of Brainerd.

"SOME WIND"

George Foster of the Standard Grain company, is one of the star raconteurs of the board of trade and springs his tales unexpectedly. This morning he dispersed a gathering that was talking of heavy winds by telling of a cyclone he was in once. Said he:

'You may not believe this, but the wind blew so strongly that it stripped the feathers from a hen and forced them into a pine board—and the next day the board laid an egg."

Incredulous laughter greeting this statement Mr. Foster sought to back it up.

"Laugh if you want to," he said; "one or two of the feathers that missed the board were shot into me, quills first. And that very night I was plucked in a shell game."

Enjoin Fargo Gas Company.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After weeks of bitter opposition before the city commission, residents of the Fifth ward have secured an injunction against the Bylesby company, which seeks to increase the size of its gas plant. When the plant was originally established it was in an isolated section. Later residences were built on three sides of it. The new comers protested against the odors and also against the danger of an increased storage capacity. Two ordinances were enacted, but these were not entirely satisfactory to adjoining property owners who have sought relief in the courts.

David Burbank, of Barnard, Vt., who learned to dance when he was seventy-six years old and who is now eighty-eight, says that his only regret is that he did not learn sooner.

DULUTH—SUPERIOR—VIRGINIA

PERFECT MILK IS POSSIBLE

Half of Duluth's Dairies Can Get Below 100,000 Bacteria Mark.

Duluth's Supply Best in State But Can Yet Be Improved.

Although Duluth is recognized as having the best dairies of any city in the state, there is much room for improvement.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, medical inspector of the health department and in charge of the monthly bulletin, estimates, after an analysis of the records of the seventy odd dairymen in Duluth, that but thirty-one of them can produce milk containing less than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. The other forty would have to show much improvement before they could come into that class.

To have only dairies in the 100,000 bacteria class would be an ideal condition. To comply with the requirements of the state law, milk must not show more than 500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. That thirty-one of some seventy dairies can attain the higherd standard speaks volumes for Duluth.

The health department under various administrations has conducted a persistent educational campaign among the dairymen. A new ordinance which is being drafted will establish a classification of milk and provide for the sale of both raw and pasteurized milk.

Speaking of the local situation, the bulletin says:

"The sanitary control of the city's milk supply is one of the most important functions of this department.

"Although the local milk supply is very good, it can be improved upon. A careful analysis of the records of our seventy odd dairymen shows that thirty-one of them could produce milk that would contain less than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter. There remains, then, about forty dairies where considerable improvement would be necessary before they would come into the 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter class.

"No essential changes have been made in the requirements of the department relating to the production of milk since 1908. During this time, however, a persistent educational campaign has been conducted. Now we believe that the consumer has been sufficiently aroused to demand, and the producer adequately instructed to provide, whatever is the most sanitary in milk supply. A new ordinance is being drafted which will contain the essential features of the old ordinance and in addition establish a classification of milk and provide for the sale of both raw and pasteurized milk and all milk products.

"Another feature of the milk problem which should be solved is that of distribution. For example, an investigation conducted in Rochester, N. Y., has shown that it requires sixty-one milkmen traveling thirty-six miles to supply between 300 and 400 families, while by scientific management it was shown how it could be done by one distributer traveling three miles.

"This is something that the milk dealers themselves ought to get together on. The department will aid in this work in every possible way."

HE BUYS AND SELLS BANKS

Council Bluffs Man Attending Convention Has Odd Business.

One of the busy men attending the meeting of the bankers' convention is R. W. Walters of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Mr. Walters is in the city making acquaintance of the bankers. He is and he isn't a banker, according to the way he tells it. In other words, he buys and sells banks.

Mr. Walters is secretary for the Charles E. Walters company of Council Bluffs. He says that the business of buying and selling banks is always good. Business throughout the entire country is good, he says, and from the way he says it—with one of those winning smiles—you have to believe him.

WIDOW OF STRIKE VICTIM BRINGS SUIT.

Charleston, W. Va., July 11.—Mrs. Maude Estep has brought suit for $10,000 against the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, the Pelican Creek Collieries company, the Imperial Coal company, the Christian Collieries company and Quin Morton, a coal operator. Mrs. Estep seeks to recover damages for the death of her husband, Francis Estep, who was killed by shots from an armored train during the strike riots in the Paint and Cabin Creek section last February.

PORTLAND BANK DECIDES TO CLOSE.

Portland, Or., July 11.—The First Trust Company of Portland has closed its doors and asked for the appointment of a receiver. The refusal of the state commissioner of corporations to issue it a permit under the new laws that require trust companies to have a capital of $100,000, is said to have been the cause of the company's decision to liquidate. Officials stated that trustees appointed by the stockholders were now winding up the company's affairs. They said creditors would be paid in full.

NEW HAVEN ROAD BLAMES ENGINEERS.

New York, July 11.—The New Haven road has issued a statement in regard to the report of the interstate commerce commission on the Stamford accident, in which the road declares that the commission failed to state that "employment of the inexperienced engineman was practically forced on the New Haven road by the engineers of the company."

"In the fall of 1912," the statement reads, "an order was issued to the effect that spare engineers with less than two years' experience, or two years rating as engineers, would not be allowed to run through passenger trains. This order was protested by the engineers on the ground that the company had not given the engineers thirty days notice before amending existing rules. "The engineers offered the rule which is now in effect."

LOSES FIGHT FOR POSTOFFICE JOB

MRS. HELEN D. LONGSTREET.

Washington, July 11.—Controversy over the postoffice at Gainesville, Ga., was settled when the senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of Mrs. H. W. J. Ham to succeed Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, widow of the Confederate general. Senator Townsend of Michigan had held up the confirmation of Mrs. Ham pending the printing of hearings held by a sub-committee on the failure of Mrs. Longstreet to obtain reappointment. The hearings were printed Wednesday. The subcommittee reported that Mrs. Longstreet had administered her office efficiently.

Fertilization and Cultivation.

July is always a busy month for the gardener. In order to insure quick growth and good results, the hoe and the cultivator should be kept busy. It is the time when grass and weeds seem to thrive the best, and they not only crowd the growing plants but rob them of the food needed to bring them to maturity. If the garden is kept clean now, it will be an easy matter to have it so for the rest of the season. Then too, the heavy rains have packed the soil so that the surface is hard and crusty. Break this crust and pulverize the surface so that the moisture beneath may not escape by evaporation.

Summer fertilization is a good thing for most plants if you are equipped with the proper fertilizer. Never use horse manure at this time unless it is several years old and well rotted. Even then, cow manure is much better. If hen manure is used, it should be thoroughly pulverized and mixed with fully twice the quantity of garden soil before it is applied; then apply sparingly and hoe in thoroughly. Sheep manure may be applied in the same manner with very good results. In fact, it is one of the best of fertilizers when used judiciously. Sheep manure can be procured from any of the large packing houses in 100-pound sacks. One of the very best methods for supplying fertilization to growing plants is by means of liquid manure. Get a good tight barrel, bore a hole about one inch in diameter near the bottom and drive in a plug. Now fill the barrel half full of good stable manure and cover with six or eight pails of water. Let this stand for about three days and then draw off the water by removing the plug from the vent. This liquid should be reduced by adding an equal quantity of water, and applied at the roots of the plants, using care not to wet the foliage. Do not use mineral fertilizers now. They will burn out your crops unless very carefully handled. Roses, sweet peas and asters all respond quickly to the liquid manure treatment, as will also lettuce and spinach. Bone meal is excellent for corn and many other crops, if used sparingly and thoroughly hoed into the soil about the plant.

Just as soon as the strawberry bed is through fruiting, it should be thoroughly cleaned out and hoed, so that the runners will have a chance to develop new plants for next year's fruiting. If plants are to be set out in August or September or next spring, those plants must be grown now. The old fruiting plants are worthless for setting, and the new runner plants must be given every opportunity to develop a strong root system. Hoe your corn thoroughly now, so that it will root deep and grow fast. Corn seems to take a jump after each hoeing, and your crop depends on rapid growth now.

Many of the hardy perennials may be made to yield a second crop of flowers late in the fall if they are not cut back after the first blossoming season. This is true of Columbine, golden glow and larkspur. In fact, I have had the new Hybrid Columbines and Shasta daisies in almost constant bloom from July until frost by keeping the old flowers out off and the plants properly trimmed.

Be sure to stake and trim your tomato plants if you want fruit to set and ripen. Cut out all suckers coming from the root and pinch out the little shoots in the axils of the leaves. Many of the best growers allow but one main stem for their tomatoes, but on some plants, two main branches may be left with good results.

The hoe and the pruning knife are the gardener's best friends at this season of the year. If he uses them judiciously, a bountiful harvest is almost assured.

CLAIMS X-RAY IS TUBERCULOSIS CURE.

Denver, Colo., July 11.—Successful treatment of tuberculosis by means of X-rays was announced by Dr. J. D. Gibson of Denver in a paper read before the National Society of Physical Therapeutics, a branch of the American Institute of Homeopathics. Dr. Gibson declared that he had used his treatment in more than 400 cases in the last twelve years and had been successful with 85 per cent of the patients. He gave the assembled physicians a detailed account of his method, and a description of the results obtained.

The institute will hold its convention in 1914 at Atlantic City, in 1915 at Portland, Or., and in 1916 in Dresden, Germany.

N. E. A. ENDS CONVENTION

Swain Is Elected President By Unanimous Vote.

Taft Made Honorary President of School Peace League.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 11.—The closing session of the fifty-first annual convention of the National Education association opened this morning in eight sectional meetings. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, who has been in attendance at the various departmental meetings, will close the convention tonight with an address on the national bureau of education.

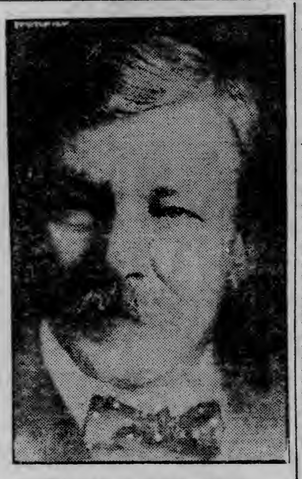

Joseph Swain, president of Swarthmore college, was elected president of the National Education association by unanimous vote. Grace M. Sheppard, state superintendent of Idaho schools, was re-elected treasurer. Durand W. Springer of Ann Arbor is continued as secretary, his selection being by appointment. Directors were elected for all the states, Hawaii and the Philippines. Edward Fairchild, the retiring president, was made a vice president.

Previous to the election of officers of the national association, the National Council of Education met and elected the following: Robert J. Aley, president University of Maine, president; W. B. Owen, Chicago, secretary; David B. Johnson, president Winthrop college, South Carolina, member executive committee.

An innovation in the report of the committee on resolutions at the general session was that it took the form of a declaration of principles, twelve phases of education being treated in separate reports.

The religious education association announced that it had been decided not to hold sessions in Salt Lake city. It was denied that the cancellation was due to fear of religious controversy.

William Howard Taft was elected honorary president at a meeting of the American School Peace league. Among the active officers elected were Randall J. Condon, Cincinnati, president; David Starr Jordan, vice president, and F. E. Spaulding, Newton, Mass., treasurer.

EDWARD FAIRCHILD,
Retiring President of the N. E. A., Who Becomes a Vice President.

ALLOWED TO BRING BRIDE FROM CHINA.

Mar Gon of International Falls, a love-sick Chinaman, was given the permission of the United States government yesterday to go to China and bring back with him the lady of his dreams; and Immigration Inspector Brown McDonald gave a fatherly blessing. Mar Gon gave proof to show that he was born in San Francisco and was given the papers necessary to permit him to return to this country after the balm of matrimony has been applied in the Celestial republic. Gon runs a restaurant at International Falls.

PERRY'S SHIP READY FOR ITS LAKE CRUISE

Carnival Is on Day's Program at Erie Celebration.

Erie, Pa., July 11.—Fraternal day, to be followed by Carnival night, made the program for today's observance of the Perry centennial celebration. The parade was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The work of preparing the rebuilt Niagara for the trip through the Great Lakes is being rushed. The interior has been overhauled, the ship's flag, with Lawrence's words "Don't Give Up the Ship," has been flung at the masthead. It is said that the Niagara will be towed out of the harbor at sundown tomorrow night.

Holding a gavel fashioned of wood and iron taken from the Lawrence and Niagara, flagships of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's fleet at the battle of Put-in-Bay, Secretary of the Navy Daniels yesterday pledged himself to the crowd about him to give the gavel to his son so that he might better emulate the example of the great naval hero of the lakes. The incident came at the close of a demonstration by thousands of persons, assembled for what proved to be the most important day of the Erie celebration of the Perry centennial.

Mr. Daniels spoke of the importance of initiative and the value of the example set by Lawrence, Perry and John Paul Jones, telling the story of Perry's achievement in creating his fleet and winning his victory.

After his address Mr. Daniels and his party reviewed the the naval parade.

BANKERS ARE SUED BY STOCKHOLDERS.

Chicago, July 11.—Former directors of the Jackson Trust & Savings bank are made defendants in a suit by stockholders for the restoration of $212,303.65 which the directors are charged with having paid into the bank for "doubtful securities" during a run on the bank, and withdrawn by them when the run was over. Joy Merton, Benjamin Demuth, William R. Morrison, L. T. Dickson and Gilbert C. Prior as trustees were named as defendants.

MAIL ROBBER IS GIVEN FREEDOM

Negro Convicted of Kansas City Robbery Gets Out on Technicality.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—A man shall not be compelled to serve a double sentence if it can be shown that the crimes charged against him were committed simultaneously and were prompted by one criminal motive, according to an opinion announced yesterday by Judge Sanborn of the Federal circuit court of appeals. The decision of the district court of Kansas was reversed and the release from Leavenworth prison of Charles A. Stevens, colored, convicted of robbing the registered mails, was ordered.

Stevens was convicted of stealing a pouch of registered mail from a car at Kansas City, June 6, 1908. The conviction was on two counts and he was to serve five years for each count. One of the stolen letters contained $12,500 which he embezzled, according to testimony.

The ruling, it is said, clears up an important point of criminal law. It was held that Stevens is being restrained in prison upon a judgment of a Federal court, which is beyond its jurisdiction, and that Stevens should be freed by a writ of habeas corpus and that he is not barred from this relief by the fact that he could have obtained his release by a writ of error.

Stevens served five years in the Federal penitentiary and then petitioned for release, urging that his crimes named in the indictments were one continued act. The lower court refused to grant him release.

History of Case.

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—Charles A. Stevens, alias Charles Savage, colored, was arrested here July 25, 1908, charged with stealing a mail pouch containing $50,000 at the union station here on June 6 of the same year. The registered sack containing the money was received here from Los Angeles.

A few days after the robbery the postoffice inspectors learned that Stevens was spending money lavishly in Denver. They failed to catch him there and followed him through ten or fifteen cities without arresting him. He returned to his old haunts here and his arrest resulted.

Several weeks ago the citizens of Leavenworth were aroused by a report that many $10 and $20 bills were being found there near the home of a relative of Stevens. For more than a week the neighborhood was searched and in all several hundred dollars were found. It was reported that this money was a portion of the sum Steveps was accused of stealing, but the rumor never was verified.

MISSING MAN FOUND IN CHICAGO.

Mike Bongarzone, tuberculosis sufferer, who after he was picked up by the poor authorities in a tenement house at Eleventh avenue west and First street last May, mysteriously disappeared just before he was supposed to leave for Chicago, has turned up again.

Charles Shogran, clerk of the poor commission, received a letter from Thomas Finn, chaplain at the Cook county hospital, Chicago, which stated that Borgarzone was dying and requested at the sum of $26 which the sick man had left with the clerk of the poor commission be forwarded to Chicago. The money has been sent.

ADJOURN IN SEPTEMBER

Hammond Thinks Currency and Tariff Bills Will Be Passed.

Widespread Satisfaction With Wilson Administration; Mulhall Charges.

The tariff and currency bills should be passed and congress ready to adjourn in September, is the opinion of Congressman W. S. Hammond of St. James, representative from the Second Minnesota district. Mr. Hammond arrived in Duluth this morning to address the convention of the Minnesota Bankers' association.

"The tariff bill is now up to the senate and should go to conference about the middle of August," said Mr. Hammond. "I do not believe it will be in conference long and I think it will be passed by both houses and signed about the end of August. By that time the currency bill should be through the house and up to the senate, and my present opinion is that the extra session will adjourn in September.

"Of course any estimate of time may be upset by unforeseen developments. How long the tariff bill will remain in the senate is a question, but I think the middle of August is a conservative estimate."

In discussing the currency bill, Mr. Hammond did not go into details of the measure now up for consideration.

Bill Will Pass.

"The currency bill will be passed by the house and senate and signed by the president of the United States," said Mr. Hammond. "It will be drafted and passed by the men commissioned by the people of the United States to provide that legislation. The administration and congress want the advice and experience of the bankers, but they will not allow the bankers to write the bill. The Federal reserve board should be representative of the people of the United States. If seven good men are selected—and I believe there is little doubt of that—neither the bankers nor the people will have any reason to complain.

"I do not believe that the bill should specify either that bankers shall be represented on the board or that they shall not be represented. Neither should the bill provide for lawyers, or doctors, or merchants or undertakers or any other class of citizens. The board is to act for the people of the United States and should be representative of the people, and not of any business or profession.

"The people of the United States have elected the Democratic party to power and the party pledges are being carried out. Advice and constructive criticism are being sought, but the outside influences that have so long governed in legislation are not controlling the moves of the administration or of congress. The men commissioned by the people are doing the people's work.

"Everywhere I go I hear expressions of approval of the course of the administration. Men who voted for Taft tell me they are well satisfied with President Wilson. I believe the course of the administration thus far has satisfied the people generally, and that being true the administration is a success. Of course there are some people who are dissatisfied, but generally they are the people who were unable to get protective duties on what they wanted in the tariff bill, or were unable to get offices they sought. The dissatisfaction in almost all cases is personal."

The Mulhall Charges.

Mr. Hammond touched briefly on the Mulhall charges and the investigation to be made by a house committee.

"I do not believe the investigation will develop very much that is new, but it will have a great effect in informing the people on the small effect the lobby has in the present congress," said Mr. Hammond. "I believe too the investigation will show that the lobby had a smaller effect formerly than many people believe. The impression that Washington is filled with men looking for bribes, or trying to turn shady tricks to the advantage of themselves or their friends, is all wrong. There are some tricks turned, and efforts are made to turn others, but generally the members of congress are faithful to their trust and are conscientiously working for the welfare of their constituents and the country.

"The revelations as to the impersonation of congressmen by others are of great import. They indicate the possibilities for crookedness, not on the part of congressmen but of others, and they show how easily a man's reputation may be ruined. The men who received telephone messages from the impersonators were certain that the congressmen impersonated were crooks and only such revelations as have been made would disabuse them of their conviction."

Mr. Hammond will leave this afternoon for St. James and will then proceed to Washington.

this morning was an address on "Currency Legislation," by Congressman W. S. Hammond of the Second Minnesota district. Mr. Hammond pointed out that the law is subject to amendment until its final passage and that congress and the administration are anxious to have the suggestion of bankers, but he stood firmly for the right of the representatives of the people to pass final judgment on the bill. Congressman Hammond's address is given elsewhere in this issue of The Herald.

The resolutions adopted provide for the enlargement of the committee on agricultural development and education to eleven members, one from each congressional district, and one at large, to be selected by a committee consisting of the president and vice president of the association and the chairman of the executive council. Each district member of the committee will be required to name four additional bankers in his district to serve with him on a sub-committee on agricultural development and education in that district.

The resolutions provided for Minnesota representation at a conference of the committees on agricultural development and education of the state bankers' associations of the country at Kansas City, Aug. 26 and 27. Joseph Chapman, the chairman of the agricultural committee and three others to be appointed by the president will attend.

Resolutions were adopted on the death of Lou A. Huntoon and George C. Power, who died during the last year.

The 1-cent letter postage bills now before congress were indorsed.

The resolutions urge Joseph Chapman of Minneapolis to become a candidate for the vice presidency at large of the American Bankers' association and indorse him for the office.

The customary resolutions of appreciation of the hospitality of Duluth citizens were passed. Following is the resolution on the currency legislation:

Currency Resolution.

"Whereas, we, the Minnesota Bankers association, recognize that a proper national currency and banking law is most imperatively needed in the United States, therefore, be it:

"Resolved, That we do hereby approve of the earnest enedavors of congress to enact such a law and that we believe the welfare of the country that a proper act be put into effect at the earliest moment consistent with due consideration of the subject.

"Resolved, further, That this association heartily commends the efforts and proposals of the currency commission of the American Bankers' association for the improvement of the terms and provisions of the banking and currency bill lately introduced in congress, and resolved further that the executive council of this association be, and it is hereby requested, to carefully consider the bill and all amendments thereto, particularly with respect to their application to, and effect upon, the commercial and agricultural conditions in Minnesota and the Northwest, and to submit their recommendations to the members of congress from this state."

The committee on resolutions consisted of George F. Orde and James A. Latta, Minneapolis; O. W. Lundsten, Hutchinson; J. B. Galarneault, Aitkin; H. Von der Weyer, St. Paul.

There was only one contest in the election of officers. J. J. Ponsford of Watertown and S. H. Lockin of Red Wing were the candidates, and Mr. Ponsford won handily. He succeeds A. G. Wedge, Jr., of Bemidji.

The election of J. S. Pomeroy of Minneapolis to the presidency succeeding D. C. Armstrong of Red Wing was in accordance with the established custom of the association. W. D. Willard of Mankato was elected vice president without opposition, succeeding Mr. Pomeroy, and putting him in line for the presidency next year. George H. Richards of Minneapolis was unanimously elected secretary.

The elevation of Mr. Willard to the vice presidency left an additional vacancy in the executive council to be filled. Mr. Willard's term would not have expired until next year. C. H. Draper of Wells was elected to succeed him. The other members of the executive council whose terms expired were L. Whitmore of Wabasha, succeeded by A. C. Gooding of Rochester; F. L. Stone of Benson, succeeded by J. F. Millard of Willmar; W. L. Brooks of Bemidji, succeeded by C. L. Conger of McIntosh; and J. H. McGilvra of Milaca, succeeded by John H. Hines of Carlton.

At the meeting of the members of the American Banking association held last evening, W. A. Shaw of Clearwater was chosen for indorsement for vice president for Minnesota; J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin was indorsed for member of the executive council succeeding George F. Orde of Minneapolis and George F. Orde was selected as the Minnesota member of the nominating committee.

Trip to Steel Plant.

The weather man did not smile on the bankers today and the closing day of the convention was attended by rain and chilly weather. Despite the unfavorable conditions, the special train to the steel plant was run this afternoon. The inflexible rule of the steel corporation, under which no women are admitted to the plant, kept the women of the party out of the tour of inspection, but many of them accompanied the train and were entertained at the Spirit lake branch of the boat club. If the weather continues unfavorable up to the time for the return, the trip will be made by train instead of by boat as originally intended. It is expected that a sufficient number of the bankers will remain over until tomorrow to make up a party for a special train over the ranges, going up over the D., M. & N. and returning on the D. & I. R.

Interest was keen and the Lyceum theater was crowded this morning for the closing session of the convention. George M. Reynolds' talk on currency legislation yesterday was from the bankers' viewpoint, and Mr. Hammond's exposition of the congressman's viewpoint was heard with interest, not only by the delegates to the convention but by many Duluth people. After the address, Mr. Hammond and Mr. Reynolds met on the stage and talked for some time on the subject of the pending legislation.

W. D. Willard of Mankato this morning submitted the report of the Blue Sky law committee of the association. He reviewed the efforts made to have an effective blue sky law passed at the last session of the legislature.

The appreciation expressed to Duluth citizens and bankers on the entertainment provided was not all included in the resolutions. The bankers were really delighted with their reception in Duluth and the entertainment provided for them here. The attendance was the largest in many years, and the number of women guests was particularly large. The boulevard drive last night was taken under inauspicious circumstances on account of the cold weather, but nearly every visitor took it and gained an impression of the beauty of the boulevard view in fine weather. The steel plant trip today was similarly under poor weather conditions, but the delegates would not hear of calling it off on account of the personal discomforts attendant upon it.

The local committee consisting of W. G. Hegardt, J. W. Lyder, H. S. Macgregor and David Williams was always on hand and they were assisted by other bankers, Mayor Prince, the Commercial club officials and citizens generally in providing for the entertainment of the visitors.

LOVER EXONERATED OF MURDER OF GIRL

Letters From Miss Crispell to Johns Are Made Public.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 11.—The coroner's jury late last night exonerated Herbert Johns, a mine worker, who has been under arrest in connection with the death of Alice Crispel, the 18-year-old daughter of a farmer, whose body was found last Monday in Harvey's lake. The jury found that the girl had been murdered, but declared the guilty party is still at large.

Johns was present at the inquest and was identified by several witnesses who saw him with the girl on the night of July 4. He was not allowed to testify by his counsel, and was returned to jail, although he will probably be released today.

The jury in its finding said:

"The evidence in this case fails to show any motive for crime on the part of Herbert Johns, and we feel certain when we consider the evidence, which showed the deceased was not liable to take her own life, that a crime had been committed."

Scores of letters that passed between Alice Crispel and Herbert Johns have been made public. All are filled with love sentiments and some show that the girl and Johns had troubles. The girl in several missives to Johns told of having quarrels with members of her family.

County Detective McKelvey said Johns admitted to him that both had been drinking on the night of the Fourth of July, which was the last night the girl was seen alive.

District Attorney Bigelow and the county detectives held a conference behind closed doors and went over the correspondence that passed between Johns and Miss Crispel. Many of the letters, the detectives said, are unprintable.

The belief is gaining ground that Miss Crispel was afraid to go home after she left Johns last Friday, because her father had previously punished her for remaining out late at night.

SAYS THAT "TRUST" PAUPERIZED TOWNS

A. B. Jarvis Accuses Tobacco Men Before Congressmen.

Washington, July 11.—The Imperial Tobacco company, the so-called "tobacco trust" in Kentucky, has pauperized hitherto prosperous towns in the tobacco belt, according to testimony of A. B. Jarvis today before the congressional tobacco commission. Jarvis is an independent at Henderson, Ky.

Not only were growers at the mercy of the "trust," he declared, but what few farms were going had been rented by the "trust" at its own prices.

GETS $25; MUST PAY WIFE $40.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Dorsey, a porter with a salary of $25 a month, has been ordered in police court to pay to his wife $40 a month. If he fails to do so, he will be sent to the workhouse for sixty days. According to Mrs. Dorsey, the man has given her only $12 for her support in the last three months. Dorsey said that unless he is given an increase in wages he will search for a higher salaried position.

ate finance committee. The gift was made after the Dingley bill passed congress.

Many prominent wool manufacturers and others not connected with the association contributed to the fund.

Speaker Clark made a statement relating to the use of his name by David Lamar and Edward Lauterbach. He testified he had never had anything to do with Lamar, Lauterbach or any of the men mentioned by them.

J. Pierpont Morgan, he said, he saw at a Gridiron dinner in Washington several years ago, at which Former President Roosevelt and Former Senator Foraker engaged in a joint debate.

"It was the hottest debate ever heard in this country," said the speaker.

Statement by Clark.

Speaker Clark put in this statement:

"Ledyard says that Lauterbach told him that he was in communication with me through Senator Stone. Lauterbach, who acknowledged on the witness stand that he had lied, said that Lamar gave him the information. Lamar confessed the whole tale was a lie to force Morgan & Co. to take Lauterbach back into their employ. All of them disclaim any acquaintance or communication with me.

"Senator Stone justly and properly characterized the Lamar-Lauterbach tale as a lie. He and I never in our lives conversed about, or in any way mentioned to each other, Morgan & Co. or the Steel trust investigation.

"I never spoke to John Pierpont Morgan or any member of his firm in my life; never communicated with him or them in any manner whatsoever, and never authorized anybody else to do so. I was, to my best knowledge and belief, never intrduced, even casually, to him or any of them. To my best knowledge and belief I never saw any of them except Mr. Morgan himself, and that was across the large dining room of the New Willard at a Gridiron club banquet.

Once Met Lauterbach.

"I was several years ago introduced to Lauterbach here in Washington in the presence of several gentlemen, and passed the usual salutations with him. That was all. I never saw him before or since, and never communicated with him in any manner whatsoever about any business matter whatsoever.

"I had never heard of Lamar, and know only by seeing his name in the newspapers that there is such a man as Lewis Cass Ledyard. It seems to me that when Mr. Ledyard found out that Senator Stone's name and mine were bandied about by Lamar, the pseudo Palmer, and Lauterbach he ought to have let me know."

The speaker was not sworn and the committee did not ask him any questions. He left the room when he finished reading his statement.

Grand Jury After Lamar.

New York, July 11.—The Federal grand jury continued its investigation today into the case of David Lamar under that section of the United States statutes which provides punishment for the impersonation of an officer or employe of the government.

Paul D. Cravath, an attorney, who testified before the senate lobby investigation committee in connection with Lamar's activities in the so-called Union Pacific conspiracy, was one of the witnesses under subpoena to appear before the jury today. Other witnesses, it is said, will be United States Senator Stone and Representatives Palmer and Riordan, whom Lamar confessed before the committee that he had impersonated in telephone conversations with Lewis Cass Ledyard and others.

EARLY PEACE IS PREDICTED

as possible to the French government against the "unjustifiable proceeding" of Roumania in invading Bulgarian territory.

Greeks Capture Town.

London, July 11.—Greek troops today occupied Demir-Hissar, thirteen miles northwest of Seres, after a brilliant victory over the Bulgarians who had been in possession since they won it from the Turks in the recent war, according to an Exchange Telegraph company's dispatch from Athens. The Bulgarians fled, abandoning their field guns, ammunition and provisions.

A telegram to the same agency from Constantinople says it is announced by the newspapers that Midia, the town on the Black Sea, which was to form the eastern end of the future frontier line between Bulgaria and Turkey, is in flames.

Allied Armies Meet.

Belgrade, July 11.—The Servian and Greek campaign against the Bulgarians and Macedonia is regarded by the Servian military authorities as concluded since the defeat of the Bulgarians in the recent fighting. The Servian troops joined hands this morning with the Greek forces which had just taken Strumitza.

Ask American Aid.

Washington, July 11.—The American Red Cross has been appealed to for aid in relieving the sick and wounded in the Balkan war. The American consul at Saloniki cabled the Red Cross society as follows:

"Ten thousand wounded soldiers in Saloniki. American missionaries wish to open hospital and appeal for funds. Urgent [illegible] doctors."

FOR ACTION ON CURRENCY

Congressman W. S. Hammond Favors New Law at Extra Session.

Avoids Discussion of Details of Bill at Bankers' Convention.

Congressman W. S. Hammond of St. James, representative from the Second Minnesota district, spoke on "Currency Legislation" at the convention of the Minnesota Bankers' association this morning. He said in part:

"In addressing this distinguished audience upon currency legislation, it may not be amiss for me to say in the beginning that I do not profess to be an expert upon banking and currency matters, nor have I devoted so much time to the consideration of the questions involved in legislation affecting our monetary system as to other questions connected with the fiscal and economic policies of the national government.

"Neither does it seem to me advisable to attempt a discussion of the details of the so-called Glass-Owen currency bill, because that bill and other measures are now being studied by congressional committees. The committee on banking and currency of the house of representatives has made no report to the house, itself, nor will it make a report prior to July 14 and, perhaps, not even then. The bill, as reported, may differ very materially in detail from the one introduced and will be subject to amendment in the house after it is reported and before its passage.

Immediate Need For Legislation.

"Naturally we ask ourselves the question—is it desirable, at this time, to have currency legislation, and, if so, is congress prepared to take up a matter of so great importance and dispose of it within the next few months? In my opinion, there should be legislation at this session of congress and I doubt if we would be better prepared to deal wisely in the premises if such legislation were postponed and more time given for study and deliberation.

"The result of the election of 1912 was to place the Democratic party in control of the executive and legislative departments of our government. Shortly after the fourth day of March the president called an extraordinary session of congress for the primary purpose of revising the tariff, and up to this time both national legislative bodies have been engaged in that work.

"In compliance with the pre-election promises and declarations of the Democratic party, very material reductions in tariff rates are contemplated and because of them and the impossibility of determining in advance just what rates will be effective in the various schedules when the tariff bill is finally enacted, it is claimed in some quarters that certain interests will be injuriously affected and all business more or less unsettled. There is no disposition to accept the statements of those who oppose legislative enactments that do not make for their own pecuniary profit, as accurate, or to treat very seriously their prophecies of dire calamity to follow such enactments, and the present administration is thoroughly well satisfied that business disaster ought not and will not follow placing upon the statute books a tariff law written in the interests of the consumer as well as the producer, and designed to protect the buyer as well as the seller of merchandise.

Should Follow Tariff Law.

Nevertheless, we know that three years ago, in the midst of apparent prosperity, there was a money panic that affected the whole country; and we all know that short crops or, over production of manufactures may, at any time, develop business depression and hard times. Should a money panic or industrial depression follow the tariff law, although in no way connected or produced by tariff changes, those predisposed to connect the two, would be very easily convinced that in some way the tariff law produced the undesirable conditions and so the law, itself, be discredited.

"We have not forgotten that many professed to believe that the panic of 1893 was the result of the reduction of tariff rates in 1894. How much easier, business depression after 1913 resulted from the reduction of tariff rates in 1913. Every effort should be made to give the proposed tariff legislation a fair trial, and to prevent the recurrence of another situation like that presented in 1907. Therefore, it is well that the tariff legislation be followed by currency legislation that will clear the way for a fair trial of the proposed new customs rates.

"Again, there is a universal demand for changes in our monetary and banking laws. Those who advocate no changes are few and far between. It is a common saying that we have the worst system in the world. And experienced bankers, scholarly economists, strong business men and learned statesmen, are united in condemning the present system. So if we can better it, surely we ought to do so, and the sooner it is done the more will it be to the advantage of all of the people of the United States.

"There always have been, there are now, and there always will be people, who so highly estimate the value of their specialized knowledge in some line or upon some subject, that they doubt the ability of those whose knowledge upon such subject is general, to deal wisely in the matter. So there are those who urge that congress should take more time to legislate concerning currency questions. If it be necessary for legislators to acquire that intimate and special knowledge possessed by many scholarly bankers. It will require years of patient endevor before proper preparation for legislative work be obtained. Moreover, it is doubtful if legislation by specialists would prove so satisfactory and so wholesome for the country, as a whole, as that prepared by others.

Long Study of Subject.

"Four years ago congress established a national monetary commission comprised of nine senators and nine congressmen, for the purpose of investigating the monetary system of this country and of the other great countries of the world. Sub-committees of that commission visited Europe and discussed with economists and bankers in France, England, Germany and other countries, the conditions prevailing in those countries. After more than three years of study and investigation the commission made its report to congress and, in connection therewith, collected and provided material, which has been published, making a splendid library upon the monetary systems of the world. Congressmen have access to the work of this commission and most of them have availed themselves of the privilege.

"Since 1907 much attention has been given to banking and currency matters, not only by the committees of congress, but by the members, themselves, and by bankers and economists throughout the country. Much has been written and there has been a vast amount of discussion. Now, while the springs of knowledge are inexhaustible and one can always learn more of a subject, it does seem that congress ought to be fully as well prepared after six years of study and effort, to deal with this matter as it would be in six years and six months. These are the reasons why it seems to me that congress is prepared to act and should act now.

Elasticity to Be Supplied.

"One of the principal defects in our currency system is that it is non-elastic. It should be elastic so that it may expand when the needs of the country demand expansion, and contract when the volume of money is greater than is necessary for the transaction of business. Of course, elasticity is not a cure-all for all untoward conditions that exist. Ninety-five per cent of the commercial transactions of this country are accomplished by checks and drafts which circulate as money, and with that 95 per cent there is all the elasticity that can possibly be; but at times there is an exceedingly great demand for the other 5 per cent of our exchange medium.

"We have, in round numbers, something less than three and a half billion dollars of money. One-half of this amount is gold. We may import and export gold, to be sure, but we cannot do so to the extent necessary to supply the elasticity required in a country producing, for instance, nearly nine billion dollars worth of crops annually. We have some $750,000,000 worth of silver and some $350,000,000 of greenbacks and treasury notes. These amounts are fixed. They do not materially increase or decrease. And the balance of our money is national bank notes, based upon government bonds, and the expansion of this kind of money is limited by the amount of bonds outstanding.

"Now, while it is of more importance to provide for elasticity of credits than elasticity of cash, nevertheless, if a means be found to furnish the actual money in sufficient quantities when the demand for money comes, and to retire it from circulation when the demand no longer exists, I think it will have its indirect effect upon credits, so that by finding the way to do one thing directly, we will succeed indirectly in doing much to accomplish the other.

Good Securities Exist.

"It is not proposed to furnish this extra volume of money by using the printing press alone. Better to have conditions as they are with good money than to have other conditions and plenty of money not so good. If there were no other good securities but the bonds against which our national bank notes are issued, we would be in a sorry plight. But, fortunately, we are not so circumstanced.

"The laws provide that individuals may join themselves in corporations or associations for the purpose of doing banking business. These individuals, when so organized, are permitted by law to receive deposits of money. They are authorized and expected to loan out the money so deposited with them. The depositors understand that loans will be made out of the funds deposited.

"Suppose the bankers loan out this money on the very best securities obtainable. Suppose their judgment infallible, so that no mistake is made in the valuation of the securities accepted as collateral. Then these gentlemen associated in business have, according to the law governing their institutions, carried on their business with the highest skill, with absolute integrity, and with perfect judgment. They have done what they were expected to do and what the law authorized them to do, and have done all in the very best possible manner. Suddenly the depositors demand, not the securities, not the paper into which the bankers have, as intended by all parties, converted their deposits, but the money itself. The bankers may not be able to reconvert their paper into money and so be unable to meet the demands of their depositors, and we have a remarkable situation. Men who have done nothing wrong, who have made no mistake, and who have proceeded according to law, who have not lost a dollar entrusted to them, and who are possessed of ample capital, are forced to commit acts of bankruptcy. If, by the provision of law, the banker is required, to convert his securities into cash at the demand of his depositors, then the law should provide a way by which that reconversion may be made.

Details Not So Important.

"This is one thing it is hoped may be accomplished by the legislation proposed at this session of congress. The details are not of so much importance. The government now issues notes against government bonds. It is proposed that the government shall issue notes against other securities of unquestionable value, and inasmuch as it matters less who presents the securities than that the securities be absolutely good, it is proposed that money may be issued upon them, whether they come from the state banks or national banks.

"If, then, the national banks and state banks in a particular region may be grouped or associated, their financial standing assured, their securities subject to careful scrutiny, and a plan evolved of advancing cash upon their securities when desired, under such restrictions and rules and interest charges that will not make it burdensome to the bankers to convert them into money for a short period of time but more expensive and more burdensome the longer that time is extended so that the banks will have sufficient inducement to return to the government the money advanced and recover their securities, money elasticity will be secured, legislation worth while will have been effected, and a great step taken toward the prevention of money panics.

The Platform Pledge.

"In the Democratic national platform adopted at Baltimore last July was this declaration:

"'We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent unemployment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or dominion by what is known as the money trust.

"'Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it.'

"It may be taken for granted that an attempt will be made to square the needed legislation with this declaration; that there will be no central bank but rather regional banks under the supervision and control of the government; that means will be provided to furnish sufficient money for the needs of business where there is the greatest demand for money; and that, while bankers and the business men will share in the benefits and advantages of the new legislation, it will be designed for the benefit of no one class of our citizens, but for the advantage of the country as a whole. It will not be a cure-all, for it cannot prevent industrial depressions, but it will go a long way to check money panics. Later, I trust that the banking laws may be revised and that congress, assisted and advised by the bankers of the country, may so amend them that they, in connection with the proposed currency legislation, will insure conditions under which the country can proceed on the road of prosperity and advancement without fear of panics or disaster arising from a vicious monetary system."

Relief for Settlers.

Washington, July 11.—The senate passed a bill no longer to require continuous residence on public lands entered where insufficient water for domestic purposes exists, and also the Borah bill authorizing specific improvements on homestead entries in lieu of cultivation of a certain acreage annually.

MUST NOT INJURE SHADE TREES

Telephone Companies Are Liable for Damages Done By Wires.

Telephone companies must have a proper regard for shade trees and in the construction of new overhead lines must exercise care not to injure them.

The supreme court holds that where cables and wires work damage to trees growing on the boulevard of a public street, the telephone company is liable to the owner of the abutting property.

In sustaining the Ramsey county district court on this point, the higher court said:

"A telephone company having the right to construct and maintain a line upon the boulevard of a public street must exercise due care not to injure trees growing thereon and upon adjacent property."

The case at bar was that of the St. Paul Realty & Assets company against the Tri-State Telephone & Telegraph company.

To Stop Scaling of Psoriasis

This Troublesome Skin Disease Promptly Checkes by a very Simple Attention.

A lady in Lexington, Ky., says that before she began using S. S. S. psoriasis broke out at frequent intervals where she thought it cured. But by getting her blood under control by the influence of S. S. S., the disease entirely disappeared and there was never again the slightest sign of it.

There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from the fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin, is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 182 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

West End

"WHITE WAY" IS BLOCKED

Out of Town Property Owners Refuse to Sign for Improvement.

Failure of a Few to Agree Hold Up the Entire Plan.

The "white way" project may fall through for a year or two, owing to inability to get all the property owners to sign the petitions. It is likely that this system of lighting West Superior street between Eighteenth and Twenty-second avenues west may not be realized for at least two years, according to statements made by some of the merchants.

The drawback is said to be some of the property owners, a few of whom will not pay the small cost of installing the required standards. Most of those who have refused are out-of-town owners, who have held the property for years and have no improvement on their lots.

The business men generally are willing to pay the added expense connected with cost of maintenance. This, it is said, will amount to about $17 per year for each 25-foot frontage. This cost will also fall on the vacant property, and it is claimed that it is almost impossible to get any of the owners whose lots are bringing in no return to agree to the outlay.

A. B. Anderson, chairman of the West End Commercial club's committee, has done a lot of work in connection with getting signers for the new scheme of lighting, and has now about 85 per cent signed up. It is probable that 5 per cent more may sign, he said, but the others have refused outright.

"It is almost absolutely necessary that we have all the property owners agree to the improvement," said Mr. Anderson. "If the improvement could be petitioned for in the same manner as other street work, then there would be no difficulty. This is a special improvement which will require all the property owners to sign, as well as require all the merchants to agree to pay the cost. With the exception of one or two of the latter, all have agreed to this, but there are still some of the out-of-town owners of vacant property who refuse to consider the cost connected with installing the standards."

It was proposed to place ten standards in each of the four blocks, five on each sde of the street. Each of these were estimated to cost about $112.

HILLSIDE CLUB TO HOLD MEETING.

The West End Hillside Improvement club will hold its monthly meeting this evening at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The club will discuss a number of improvements for this section of the city, among them being proposed street improvement, lighting and sewers.

The club will also discuss the proposed public bathing place which is contemplated for the hillside. This bathing place will be arranged on Miller's creek above the newly completed concrete bridge at Fourteenth street. It is intended to build a dam at this place and to fix up the creek bed. The superintendent of parks has the plan in hand.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hagen, 2205 Water street, left yesterday to spend a few weeks visiting relatives at La Crosse, Wis.

The Tabitha Society of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church entertained last evening at a social at Lincoln park. A program of music followed by refreshments was given.

Clarence Nelson, 2212 West Second street, left last evening for a short visit to relatives in the Twin Cities. He will also visit his former home at Haywarden, Iowa.

Rev. E. C. Bloomquist, who is visiting at the home of his parents, will occupy the pulpit of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church Sunday at both services, in the place of Rev. C. G. Olson. Rev. and Mrs. Bloomquist are on their way from Connecticut to Seattle, Wash., where the pastor has accepted a call to a church.

SCENE AT CREAMERY PICNIC.

Staples, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hundreds of farmers living in this vicinity with their families attended the creamery picnic held here a few days ago which proved both unique and successful as it brought them together to discuss their milk and other business matters. Addresses were delivered by business men and by representatives of the Minnesota school of agriculture. New milk routes were established and new methods of caring for cream discussed while the latest methods of butter making were explained. Staples butter is all shipped to New York, where it brings top prices. Farmers are installing blooded stock and the creamery industry is on a solid basis in this section.

Calgary, Alta., July 11.—Eight high officials in the Alberta government land titles office at Calgary were arrested yesterday following the disappearance of large sums of money during a period from 1906 to the present. The men are Barrieau, Dulmage, Burdette, Phelps, Herdman, Elbridge, Sawyer and Wilson. Nineteen names have been submitted to the government for action. Many valuable records have disappeared.

DELAYS TRIAL FOR FUNK CONSPIRACY

Chicago, July 11.—Because Judge Windes refused to sit at the trial of Daniel Donahoe, attorney, Isaac Stiefel and Aileen Heppner, under indictment on charges of conspiracy resulting from the filing of a $25,000 alienation suit against Clarence S. Funk, the case was continued indefinitely. Judge Windes explained that he had been personally acquainted with Attorney Donahoe and that his neighbors were personally interested in the outcome of the alienation suit.

CONGRESS WILL HEAR THE WOMEN.

Washington, July 11. — Chairman Henry of the house committee on rules told a delegation of women suffragists headed by Mrs. Helen Gardener, the authoress, that the committee would give them a hearing next December on the question of adding a committee on woman suffrage to the standing committees of the house.

The delegation included the wives of Senator Shafroth of Colorado and Representative Baker of California, Stone of Illinois and Taylor of Colorado.

Mr. Henry said the committee could not under the present program take up the matter at this session, but would be glad to hear the suffragists between the first week of December and the Christmas holidays.

Consideration in the senate yesterday of the proposed constitutional amendment to enfranchise women was prevented by objection from Senator Thornton of Louisiana.

TELLS WHAT LEGAL MARRIAGE IS

Cohabitation Is Not Conclusive Evidence, Says Supreme Court.

Cohabitation as husband and wife is evidence of marriage, but not conclusive evidence. It may be rebutted by the conduct of the parties.

The supreme court so holds in a decision handed down yesterday in an appeal case from the Pipestone county district court.

The court in its syllabus defines marriage as follows:

SAY THAW HAS $30,000 COMING.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Attorneys for Harry K. Thaw, now confined in Matteawan hospital, N. Y., have petitioned the Orphans' court here asking that the court require the Fidelity Title & Trust company, trustee for Thaw under the will of his father, William Thaw, to pay to Harry Thaw the sum of $30,000. The petition asserts that in the last five years Thaw has not been paid his share of the income on the estate, which is asserted to be that amount.

ENTER PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Men Charged With Bringing Woman, Barred By Authorities, Into Country.

Defendant Given Verdict in Damage Action in Federal Court.

Lou Wilson and John Gagne, who were indicted by the grand jury in the Federal court Tuesday on a charge of bringing into this country an alien woman who had been barred by the immigration authorities, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Morris this morning.

The two men are from International Falls and according to the indictment brought Tchtima Moszuk, alias Tilly Ostaff, alias Eufemia Ostoff, by launch from Fort Frances, Ont., into International Falls. It is claimed that the Moszuk woman is an immoral woman and had been previously barred from entering the United States by the immigration authorities at the Minnesota border.

F. J. McPartlin of International Falls appeared for the two men this morning. Their case will be heard next on the calendar, which will probably be tomorrow morning. Mr. McPartlin was this morning admitted to practice in the United States court.

Verdict for Defendant.

The jury trying the civil case of Frank Drescher against Elmer E. Whitney of Marshfield, Wis., this morning returned a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff, through his guardian, Maurice P. Moriarity, sued Mr. Whitney for $15,000 alleged damages as the result of an accident that occurred at the latter's sawmill last winter, when Drescher lost his right arm. E. L. McMillan appeared for the defendant and E. S. Thompson and E. C. Fors for the plaintiff.

The case of the United States against Andrew Natwick, who is charged with introducing liquor at the Indian reservation at Grand Portage, Cook county, was started this morning. Natwick was indicted by the grand jury during the last term of court, he pleading not guilty at the time.

The motion to remand the case of John Wedin versus the Pittsburg Coal company to the district court will be heard next Wednesday. John Jenswold will appear for the plaintiff and Abbott, Merrill & Lewis for the defendant corporation.

The hearing in the chancery cause of the Hansman Manufacturing company against the town of Princeton has been set for the September term.

FILL NEARLY COMPLETED

City Engineer Says Street Railway May Be Extended This Year.

Favors Subway for Crossing of Northern Pacific Tracks.

The Eighty-first avenue fill will not prevent the Duluth Street Railway company from extending its lines at least to a short distance this side of Smithville this year, according to City Engineer John Wilson.

The engineer said this morning that the fill will be completed by Aug. 1. The surface will then be graveled, the funds for that purpose having already been appropriated by the city commission. This will take but a very short time.

The delays at the fill and the recent rains have not been without benefit. The loose earth has settled and the two or three slides which have been due to the rather uncertain foundation have greatly eliminated danger in that direction for the future. When the gravel surface is put down the early part of next month, it will go on a fill in much better condition than would have been possible had the job been completed a couple of months earlier.

The street car tracks now extend on West Third street to Seventy-first avenue. The engineer asserts that no obstacle stands in the way of their being laid to the Eighty-first avenue fill, an approximate distance of ten blocks, at present. When that has been done the work on the fill should be finished, which opens the way to continue the line on to Smithville.

Favors Underground Crossing.

The manner in which the tracks of the Northern Pacific will be crossed at that point is still undecided. Three or four methods are available. That most favored by the city engineer is crossing under the tracks at Gogebic street, taking advantage of the gulch over which the railroad passes at that point. The total estimated cost of grading the route and constructing the subway is $19,982. Of this, $11,372 is figured for the grading from the point where the route branches from the main road to Kimberly avenue, where it again gets to what is termed the main line. The cost of the subway is given as $8,610.

The engineer states that an underground crossing can be made at Smithville, where the road now crosses the tracks. This would necessitate a considerable cut or depression of the road this side of the tracks, and a large amount of filling on the other side, as the railroad crosses the road on the side of a hill. The estimated cost of this work is $29,000, of which $18,000 is for the grading and $11,000 for the subway.

The least desired is a grade crossing, as it is so located that it would be much more dangerous than the ordinary grade crossing, deadly enough in any event. Coming down the hill it is impossible to get a clear view of the railroad tracks in either direction for any material distance. Even with the grade crossing the grade would have to be depressed, thus increasing the danger as it would tend further to obstruct the view of the railroad tracks.

Past Smithville the engineer said that there is nothing outside of some minor fills of washouts, which can be quickly made, to prevent the laying of street car tracks from Kimberley avenue right into New Duluth.

Benefits May Be Assessed.

The city engineer expressed the opinion this morning that it is not entirely fair of the property owners to expect the city to bear the burden of improving the roadway. He said that the improvements are a direct benefit to the property in that vicinity and that the extension of the street car lines because of the improvements will further materially increase the value of the lots along the route. He pointed out property in other parts of the city is assessed on the basis of benefits and that on that basis the property which will be benefited by the improvements along the proposed street car route should be assessed for a substantial part of the cost.

Many people in the city believe that the Northern Pacific would be obliged to pay for a subway under its tracks at New Duluth were the matter taken to the courts. Others assert that the company should take the initiative in securing an underground crossing to eliminate an unusually dangerous grade crossing. They point out that a single serious accident would be likely to cost the railroad much more than the $8,000 to $11,000 which the subway would cost, not to mention the lives which might be lost.

AMERICANS AND CANADIANS WIN

Will Compete for Right to Challenge for Davis Cup.

Nottingham, Eng., July 11.—The American team won the doubles by 3 to 1 from the German team, in the Davis cup semi-final here today.

The United States representatives consequently enter the final round where they will meet the winners of the Canadian-Belgian series.

The scores in the double matches between the United States and Germany were: 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 6-6.

Folkestone, Eng., July 11.—The Canadian team won the doubles match from the Belgians and thus qualified to enter the final round in which the United States and Canada will compete for the right to challenge the English team for the Davis cup.

MOTORISTS START ON LONG JOURNEY

Twenty-Eight Cars Leave Minneapolis for Glacier Park.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—In a heavy downpour of rain twenty-eight cars left here shortly before 9 o'clock in the American Automobile association's reliability run to Glacier park. The distance is 1,300 miles and is to be made in nine days. The first car to leave was the pilot, followed fifteen minutes later by the pacemaker, occupied by the committee in charge. The first car in the list of entrants was driven by L. W. Hill of the Great Northern railway.

A fully equipped hotel railway train is the feature of the tour. The train is preceding the line of automobiles and will make stops at noon for dinner, and at night will be the home of the tourists. One car of the train contains a complete newspaper plant from which a newspaper will be issued each evening during the trip. Half a dozen newspaper men are included in the party.

GLENN MARTIN LEAVES CHICAGO

Chicago, July 11.—Glenn L. Martin, after many delays, left Chicago in his hydro-aeroplane at 7:50 o'clock this morning on the 900-mile race around the lakes to Detroit. Martin was accompanied by Charles Day. Both are Los Angeles men.

He made a pretty start and took the air quickly. He planned to dip into the harbor at Michigan City, to touch at South Haven and to make Macatawa Beach, over a course of 150 miles by night.

Macatawa Bay, Mich., July 11.—Beckwith Havens left here at 5:30 this morning on his flight to Manistee. His departure was made easily. Francis also got away from South Haven early in the morning and he stopped here for a few minutes. Francis left here at 8:10 and proceeded north.

Michigan City, Ind., July 11.—Gleen Martin landed in the harbor here at 9 o'clock, carrying Charles Day in his machine. They ascended again at 9:45 and headed for Macatawa bay.

Muskegon, Mich., July 11.—Two flying boats, presumed to be the Havens-Verplanck craft and the Roy Francis boat, passed Lake Michigan park early this forenoon. Neither made a stop here. The aviators were headed north and flying at a high rate of speed.

YOUNG FARGO DRIVER.

Jimmie Smith, Aged 10, Clever at Holding Ribbons Over Nag.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The youngest professional driver of race horses in the entire United States is claimed by Fargo in the person of little Jimmie Smith. He is 10 years old and as small for his age as he is young for his occupation. His father, J. T. Smith, owns several race horses and a livery stable here and presented Jimmie with a pacer, Grace Red. The boy conditioned and drove the horse this spring in training and entered her in the Aneta races. He won two events. His extreme youth and his small size made him a great attraction and he contrasted most humorously when compared to the veteran and heavyweight drivers with whom he competed for first honors. He is expected to drive some of his father's horses in addition to his own through the North Dakota circuit this summer.

Testing Sunday Baseball.

Mad'son, Wis., July 11.—The first test of whether or not Sunday baseball will be permitted in Madison will come next Sunday. The Cantwells, an independent baseball team, have scheduled a game with the Belleville team. Last Sunday's game was called off when a team from Oregon, Wis., refused to risk arrest. This was the beginning of a crusade by District Attorney R N. Nelson to enforce the Sunday closing law. Although Nelson originally aimed to close only the saloons, the chief of police has applied the rule against all Sunday amusements.

MAKING MAP OF ALL POLES IN CITY

John W. Schneider, electrical inspector in the division of public affairs, has started work on a map showing in detail the location of all poles and the underground electrical conduits in the city.

The poles of the various companies are indicated by differently colored circles and in showing the location of the conduits the same system is used. In that way one can easily locate the poles and conduits of any company as well as their number and extent in any locality. The inspector is doing this work when his other duties afford him spare time.

The inspector is making his chart at the request of Mayor Prince, head of the division of public affairs. The mayor states that the map will aid the city in getting rid of unnecessary poles as well as be useful in furthering the campaign to have all overhead wiring placed underground. This is particularly desirable in the business sections and the more thickly-populated residence districts.

Two Reported Missing.

Chief Troyer has received requests to locate Godra Lycitt, 20 years old, who is wanted by his mother, Mrs. James Lycitt of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Thomas Gilbert, 39 years old, who is wanted by his wife at Watertown, S. D.

The Lycitt boy left his home several months ago and is reported to be in Duluth. His mother heard that he was at one of the local hospitals and wrote to Chief Troyer for information.

Gilbert left his wife and seven children nearly four months ago and in her letter Mrs. Gilbert wants her husband brought back to Watertown. She is unable to care for the family herself, she writes.

JACKALS.

The trouble-makers who, in the hope of benefitting the Republican party by discrediting the Democratic party and Democratic public servants, are searching with a fine toothed comb for flaws in the Wilson administration, have landed on Secretary Wilson of the new department of labor.

They have dug up his "record," and are holding it up in exaggerated glee, hopeful that the unthinking will find in it something discreditable to the secretary and therefore to the Wilson administration.

Secretary Wilson was once a miner, and always a staunch union man. Somewhere around 1894, it appears, he was arrested for contempt of court, charged with the violation of an injunction against strikers.

The judge, however, acquitted him; and in those days they were less careful of justice in cases against workingmen than they are now.

But then he was arrested on a charge of conspiracy in helping to bring about the strike. That landed him in jail, where he stayed until he could get bail. The strike ending, the conspiracy charge was dropped.

There seems to be nothing whatever in the record thus disclosed except proof that Secretary Wilson, as a union labor man, was loyal to his fellow workers.

And that, it is not improbable, is one reason why he was placed in charge of the department of labor.

The jackals will have to bury their snouts deeper than this to dig up anything that will hurt the Wilson administration.

Minneapolis streets are being blockaded by bees every once in a while, and St. Paul finds it hard to keep the cabbages from choking its principal thoroughfares. Lots of trouble in these country towns.

THE BANKERS AND THE BANKING BILL.

Duluth has had great pleasure in entertaining the conventions of the coal dealers and the music teachers; but it has itself been particularly entertained and interested and instructed by the discussions of the bankers of Minnesota.

While not all bankers have nicely rounded paunches and mutton chop whiskers on well-fed cheeks, except in cartoons, still they have an air of substance and well being which distinguishes them and makes it comfortable to have them around. And that they are exceedingly useful to have around everybody in business knows full well.

The banker is a much larger factor in business and industrial life than many people imagine. As a class, bankers do much more than take your money and lend it out. They are builders and advisers. They are pushing good roads, immigration, agricultural development and the like. In the country they finance enterprises like purchases of blooded sires to improve stock. Recognizing broadly that what profits the community profits them, they are active and enterprising in all public works.

As was to be expected, Mr. Reynolds's talk on the banking bill was an extremely able statement of the banker's side of the question. It was fair, withal, and open-minded and not hidebound, though not lacking in positiveness. If everybody approaches the problem in the same spirit there will be no difficulty in reaching the highly desirable result of an agreement on a bill that will best serve all interests.

The interests of the banks should be carefully conserved in any currency and banking legislation that may be adopted, and the advice and experience of the bankers should be consulted freely. Mr. Reynolds has contributed to the discussion an intelligent and temperate statement which we are sure will have its due weight with congress.

It is especially pleasing to note the absence from Mr. Reynolds's speech of any trace of the mistaken notion that the management of the nation's finances is exclusively a private prerogative. Plainly, he does not relish government control through the Federal reserve board, though welcoming regulation from that source. He would much prefer to see the bankers given larger representation on the board, and so long as the majority of the board is unmistakably representative of the public interest we can see no reason why this request should not be granted. The bill as it came before congress was, as President Wilson and its other sponsors have said, open to debate and discussion and improvement. Already many changes have been made, and there will be yet more.

But it should be forgotten by nobody that the first essential is the public welfare. Cash and credit are to be mobilized so that they will be effective to their maximum capacity; but the process is not intended for the benefit of the banks, any more than for their harm. It is intended to make the banks, and the resources which are entrusted to them, more useful to the public. What is to be done is to be for the best interests of all—bankers, merchants, manufacturers, laborers and professional men.

Therefore it would be as wrong to let the control rest in the hands of one class as another. Control should be by the government in the common interest; though that does not mean that the controlling board should not have the fullest possible benefit of banking experience in its councils.

President Wilson's insistence is upon fundamentals like control in the public interest. His viewpoint is that of the common good; and we are sure that he and those who are working with him will give full weight to every practical suggestion, not affecting adversely the fundamental essentials, that qualified bankers like Mr. Reynolds may offer.

Calumet News: "It's Cool in Duluth" is a mighty good slogan this time of the year. The Duluth papers are losing no time making the most of it, but of course during the winter they find other things to talk about.

Sure—in the winter we "talk" about how Lake Superior keeps the cold off, and how coal is cheaper here where it comes all the way by water instead of part of the way by rail.

THE GROWTH OF EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

But four years ago there were only four states in this country that had conceded to women their right to the ballot. These states had a combined population of 1,644,034.

Today women have the right to vote in ten states, with a combined population of 13,370,232.

This, of course, includes Illinois, where the right to vote is limited to the presidency and municipal offices, and does not extend to state and county offices created by the Constitution.

This is an amazing rate of growth, and it takes no prophet to predict that the years will not be many before this tide of equal suffrage covers the whole country.

In 1910 the number of states had grown from four to five, and the population under equal suffrage to 2,786,024. In 1911 one more state was added, bringing the population up to 5,163,573. In 1912 three states were added, and the population grew to 7,731,641. This year Illinois made the total of states ten and the population 13,370,232.

No great calamity having befallen any of these states or the womanhood thereof, the coming of equal suffrage to all the states may be anticipated with confidence.

It begins to look as if even the Balkan states have had enough of war. Evidently fighting each other is a different proposition from fighting the Turks.

THE NEW BALKAN WAR.

Victorious, happily, over the Turks, the Balkan states have turned against each other, and have been waging one of the most destructive wars in history. Fighting has been furious and extraordinarily fatal, and the spirit in which it has been waged has been savage and bloodthirsty.

What is it all about?

Briefly, it is a bitter quarrel over the fruits of victory; but there is quite a bit of history behind it.

In 1878 a treaty was forced out of Turkey by Russia in which the sultan conceded the independence of Roumania, Servia and Montenegro, and by which the principality of Bulgaria was cut out of Turkish territory. The boundaries of Bulgaria as thus outlined included not only the present Bulgarian kingdom but nearly all of Macedonia and most of Thrace.

Later, by the treaty of Berlin, the powers handed back much of this temporarily Bulgarian territory to Turkey. Bulgaria thought it was robbed, and has never ceased to think so.

By the recent war between the Balkans and Turkey Bulgaria won back its Thracian territory, and the allies regained most of Macedonia. Bulgaria finds, however, that Servia and Greece propose to keep the important parts of Macedonia which their troops won from Turkey; hence Bulgaria's motive for fighting. Bulgaria claims that Greece should be satisfied with its important gains in Epirus and the islands in the Aegian sea that rightfully fall to it. As to Servia, Bulgaria points to a treaty between it and that state by which Bulgaria was to have Macedonia.

There is no such treaty with Greece, however, and the Greeks are laying claim to all that their troops gained in Macedonia, regardless of Bulgaria's prior claim. Bulgaria can only assert that Macedonia ought to remain intact, that its large Bulgarian population, which caused Russia to make it a part of Bulgaria by the treaty of 1878, is still there, and that Bulgaria seeks to liberate the region, not to dismember it.

This, in brief, is the occasion for the rapid and disastrous warfare in which thousands upon thousands have been slain.

A Fond du Lac, Wis., man has found a bicycle that was stolen from him a year ago. It's to be hoped that the thief at least paid for the wear and tear on the tires.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CONSUMPTION OF LIQUOR INCREASING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Every year when the report of the internal revenue department comes out, the newspapers contain editorials commenting on the increase in the consumption of intoxicants, and either explicitly or by inference attribute this increase to the prohibitory laws prevailing in some states and counties and towns of others. One might as well attribute the increase in crime to the larger number of churches.

It is perfectly true that the use of liquor is increasing; it has risen from about four gallons per capita in 1850 to about twenty-three in 1913—over five times as much, if the tax paid the government tells the truth. As it is unlikely that tax is paid on any not made or imported, the total is probably correct. It is equally true that the evils this use of liquor causes are steadily rising. How long will it be till the sober and industrious cannot take care of the wrecks?

The causes for men's drinking should be remedied where possible, but the one effective thing that can be done is to remove the drink.

If men and newspapers of influence would unite in saying this instead of shielding law breakers by talking about the weakness of public sentiment, the day of our deliverance would be near. MARY J. JAQUES.

"FREE LANCE" REPLIES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Under date of July 7 in the open column under the caption "Does Hickenization Mean Prohibition?" a typographical error occurs, viz., "In this epoch of crime" should read "In this epoch of time," and your publication of this note will make clearer the intent of the writer. Your adoption of the above title to my letter taken together with your editorial note may be somewhat misleading. The writer simply gave his own conviction regarding this one department of reform that is sweeping this country and the world in general, and am quite sure if the editor will take the trouble to inquire he will find that my convictions are shared by a great many reputable citizens of Duluth. Neither the editor nor the writer has any authority to place the stamp of prohibition upon legitimate efforts to enforce the law. If we have undesirable laws then enforcement will make their repeal apparent. The editorial on the same page, "A Disappointing Parallel," does not take into consideration the increase in population through immigration with reference to the consumption of liquor. The last paragraph, however, opens up a momentous question. Does prohibition prohibit? Without hesitation the writer would reply, it does not. It might be possible to entirely prohibit the manufacture and importation of all intoxicating liquors, but this is a large question and cannot be treated within the scope of a 200-word letter. I greatly appreciate the courtesy and spirit of fair play which prompted you to publish the letter above referred to, although it transgressed your rules as to volume. Very truly, FREE LANCE.

The Persistent Skeptic.

By Congressman Heflin of Alabama: I am reminded of a story of old Uncle Johnny. A friend said, "Uncle Johnny, they are going to build a railroad through this settlement," and Uncle Johnny replied, "My judgment is they will never build it."

But his friend said, "They are surveying now just a few miles from here," to which Uncle Johnny observed, "There is a sight of difference between road surveying and road building."

"Well, Uncle Johnny," said his friend a few weeks later, "they are digging dirt over on the hill now," and the old man replied, "Dirt digging and road completing are two powerful different propositions."

Finally his friend said, "Uncle Johnny, they have got the road made; they have finished the track and the train has arrived; the engine is out there on the track now. Go and look at it."

Uncle Johnny went out and looked at it; cold and lifeless the engine stood; and when they asked, "What do you think of it now, Uncle Johnny?" he said, "They'll never budge 'er, Why," he says, "I don't see any traces or singletrees, and besides that, it ain't a fit track for mules, nohow."

"But, you see," his friend said, "they are going to run it with steam. They will unite the forces of wood and water and fire, and send it down the track pulsing like a thing of life." But Uncle Johnny said with conviction, "They'll never bulge 'er."

At last, when they had got steam up, the engine went down the track, whistle blowing and sparks flying.

"Well, Uncle Johnny," said the man, "what do you say now?" And he replied, "By golly, they'll never stop her!"

Strength Going to Waste.

A Father's Letter to His Daughter

From the Missouri Farmer.

Our Darling Sweet Girl: It scarcely seems possible that twenty-one years have passed since that 30th day of April, when about 10:30 on a bright morning the doctor said, "Mr. Jordan, here's your girl," and no one but a supremely proud and happy father can know just how glad I was, because you would soon be the playmate of your little brother, and both would be the greatest joy of a pair of doting parents.

And how you grew! And how well do I remember your laugh when yet so young! I never knew you to cry when you would awake from your sleep, but always awake laughing, and it did seem that the whole world looked so good to you, the flowers, the birds, the pigs, chickens and especially all the young things seemed to appeal to your young life.

I remember one day as I was coming in from the field I saw a little rabbit and threw a clod at it and killed it. I took it to the house, and as I came near you came running to meet me as you always did, to be carried back, and as you came I showed you the little dead baby rabbit, and so long as I live I will never forget the woeful look on your face, and your little heart was fairly broken when you said, "Oh, papa, why did you do it?" I count that the hardest question I was ever asked, as no answer could have been given that in your child mind would have justified my act in taking the life that did me no good and that caused your baby heart to hurt so.

I presume it may have been your love for all the creatures God has put in the field or grove that led to the day dream of what you would be when this day should come. Your mother and I dared to picture a sweet girl, loved by all as you loved all in your childhood, and no greater joy rests in our hearts today than to know that you and your life are so nearly all we had dreamed you might be.

Some days you would get mad, a little, but it did not amount to much, did it? Those little "pets" could always be kissed away.

And your sweet young life has added so much sunshine to your mother and me, that we count that that alone would make life worth while, and we know that when you go from our home to one of your own you will shed the same sunshine there, and you may some day go, as that is in accord with the nature of things; and we hope that "the man of your choice" may be as worthy of your pure love as you are worthy of ours.

We dread the day when you must go, but while your sweet presence will be away, the sunshine your life has turned into ours can never be dimmed. When you leave our fireside, you do not dream of how we will miss you, but we shall be happy and content so long as you are happy.

May all of your dear life be one of usefulness, and if so, it should be full of happiness. Mother, and I are on the downhill side of life, but our cares have been so few, and our greatest pride has been our boy and girl, and if you both live a life of honor and usefulness, then our fondest dreams have come true and we will be content.

Wishing you all the happiness that we can, and bestowing all our deepest love, we are forever and forever,

FATHER AND MOTHER.

The American Woman's English.

New York World: What American women speak the fearful and wonderful language which British writers of fiction put in their mouths? Prof. Lounsbury asks the question in the current Harper's with reference to the conventional type of American woman in English novels, who is represented as fond of saying "jest lovely" and "jest elegant," who "guesses" and is always "fixing" something, who substitutes "limb" for "leg" as a refinement of speech, always talks through her nose and combines in her utterance all the time-worn peculiarities which the British traveller long ago discovered and faithfully reported to his countrymen."

Where is this extraordinary feminine dialect to be heard anywhere in America? Certainly not in Kansas City or Kankakee, nor yet on the lips of a Tallahassee girl, and obviously not in Boston. It is never heard from New York women nor from the multitude of visitors who throng the town from all parts of the country. Apparently it is a purely imaginative feminine dialect, a novelists' Volapuk or Esperanto formed on Josh Billings principles and employed by British writers as one of their stock "properties."

As a matter of fact, women always speak a language with greater correctness than the men of their class.

At Gettysburg.

American Magazine: It was July 1, 1863, and on Cemetery Ridge was posted this sign:

"All persons found using firearms in these grounds will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor of the law."

For the failure to enforce it you must blame old John Burns, for he was the constable of Gettysburg, but the majesty of the law was himself blazing away with a borrowed gun.

The Bank of the Ready Smile.

There's a bank whose issue is good wherever
The sun in radiance reigns;
Whose payments, be sure, are suspended never,
Whose strength no panic strains.
A steadfast reliance, this stronghold of treasure,
Worth any golden while,
It lends of its wealth without stint, without measure—
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

Why borrow where all that's to loan is trouble?
Why discount days in despair?
Why let your grief draw interest and double
At usury rates unfair?
Let not the evil more evil be earning,
Under despondency's guile—
Keep books with the house of the cheerful returning,
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

If to protest your promises seem to be going,
Don't push them along;
Seek the security sure to be showing
Where courage is strong.
Vanishing balances may be but seeming—
Fruit of discouragement's wile.
Cash in your gloom, they'll change it to beaming—
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

Dollars may be of the sorriest vintage,
Squeezed from grapes of toil;
Dollars piled fresh from the gambler's mintage
Still may burn and soil.
Wealth that Hope from its deep heart offers,
And nothing may defile,
Blesses in grateful, glowing coffers
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

Getting the News

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Probably no one ever got a job on a newspaper by a less customary method than Ben F. Allen.

Allen is today an able political writer and Washington representative of a great Ohio newspaper. He is big, not only professionally but physically—so big and self-possessed in manner that one cannot think of him as lacking a job. Yet he once had such dire difficulties getting himself connected with a newspaper that he was almost discouraged into giving up the effort and taking a place in a bank or shoe store.

When he finished college, Allen was intent on writing for the press. He believed he had a message, or something like that, and that the place for him was in the world of journalism. But his trouble was that he could not find any city editor who shared his faith in his own abilities. There was one paper in particular on which he had set his heart. It was the paper that had been at the breakfast table in his own home ever since he could remember, and he would readily have sold his soul for a place on the staff of that journal. He went eight or nine different times to see the city editor, and each time was rebuffed. The city editor thought Allen looked too much "college." Not being a college man himself, the city editor was annoyed by the sight of stalwart young men who looked as if they might know a great deal about football formations. Besides, his staff was full.

However, the assistant city editor, who had been sitting near by listening to Allen's offers of his services, felt sorry for the young applicant. The assistant city editor was John M. Siddall, now associate editor of the American Magazine, and even then a man of unusual resourcefulness. He followed Allen out of the city room one day, called him to one side, and whispered to him that he would guarantee to get him a job if he would only follow instructions. Allen said he would do anything.

"Well, your part may be a little irksome and tedious," Siddall warned him, "but it will be worth trying. Now, listen. Every afternoon at 1 o'clock the city editor gives out the assignments to members of his staff. They report here promptly at that hour, I want you to report promptly at that hour, too—only not here at the office. You are to report at that cigar store over yonder across the street. The others report here and you report there. That ought to be simple enough."

"But what am I to do at the cigar store?" inquired Allen.

"Nothing whatever," replied Siddall. "Just report on the dot and remain there for two or three hours every afternoon."

"What's the joke, anyhow?" Allen asked him.

"Quit asking questions now," admonished Siddall, "and do what I tell you."

Siddall seemed so much in earnest about it that Allen took a chance on following out the scheme, and day after day he might have been seen in front of that cigar store smoking large black cigars, and pacing to and fro, nervously, like a woman waiting for a train. It was a discouraging task he had let himself in on, and at the end of the second week he was about to give it up, but he happened to meet Siddall on the street, and the latter urged him to stick right along.

"And be sure," added Siddall, "to show up there promptly at 1 p. m."

On the twentieth day of Allen's afternoon appointments with Destiny something happened.

When Siddall walked into his office to go to work, he found the city editor with a woebegone face, looking for all the world like a cab horse with a secret sorrow.

"We're up against it," remarked the city editor, lugubriously.

"How?" asked Siddall.

"Oh, nothing," said the city editor, "only that I've got the heaviest assignment book we've had in months, and three men are off—two sick and one suddenly called out of town. What we're going to do goodness knows; I don't."

"Well, the only thing I see to do is to get hold of some extra help," suggested Siddall, calmly.

"Oh, ye-eh Fine idea! Extra help. But where in the name of the eternal Sam Hill are we going to get it?"

"I can get a man—a fellow by the name of Allen—to take some of the smaller assignments," said Siddall. "He's been wanting a job."

"Ah, you couldn't ever locate him in time," protested the city editor.

"Just leave that to me," Siddall insisted, as he stepped out of the little office. He grabbed the office boy, led him to the front window, and pointed to something across the street.

"See that big slob in front of the cigar store?" said he. "Hustle right over there, tap him on the shoulder, and tell him Mr. Siddall wants to see him immediately."

The office boy had scarcely had time to beat it across the street when Allen came bounding into the office with the exuberance of a collie pup.

"Now you know why you have been reporting to the cigar store ever day," said Siddall; "I'm about to get you a job."

He introduced Allen to the city editor, and it was arranged that the big chap should have a day's trial.

Siddall called him aside for a final word of warning.

"Listen carefully to what the man tells you," he said, "and write all your assignments down on a piece of paper. Don't ask him any questions about how to get the stuff. Just listen, and don't say a word. Then come out here in the hall and I'll show you how to go about covering the assignments."

That was Allen's first few minutes in the field of journalistic endeavor. Although that was fifteen years ago, he has never been off the payroll of that same newspaper clear up to the present day. And in that period he has risen from humble cub to one of the successful political writers of the country.

Short Directions for Busy People.

Life: To find a needle in a haystack—sit down on it.

To remove stains from a character—marry money.

To enjoy yourself at your wife's dinner—stay away.

To hold a book properly—consult a bookmaker.

To keep creases in trousers—remove the girl from your lap.

To plant a garden—hire a planter.

To rest quietly in a strange bed—close all the windows and turn on the gas.

To cure a cold—make an application of about fourteen days. If cold continues, double the dose.

A Credit.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Still Panning Him.

Albert Lea Tribune: Prof. Taft recently told his law class at Yale that the primary was a bad thing. It was Prof. Taft as a candidate for renomination for the presidency who was so badly smote right and left in the preferential presidential primaries last year. It is hardly to be expected that he would see anything good in the primary at this time. His experience last year seems to have knocked all progressiveness out of him.

Versatility.

Red Wing Republican: President Wilson is a very versatile man. He can and does write his messages on the typewriter; he can take any address given in excellent shorthand if he desires to do so; he reads his own messages to congress; he is an author as well as an orator; he goes to the capitol when he wants to talk with the senators and congressmen; he can dance; he can sing; he is a baseball fan; he is a good listener; he does not smoke nor drink; he has broken more precedents than any of his predecessors, Roosevelt not excepted. What more could the American people ask of their president?

Speedy Progress.

Mankato Free Press: The world do move. The supreme court of Pennsylvania handed down three decisions in one afternoon that gave the corporation such a jolt that it is doubtful if they will recover their bearings for some time. On the same day the legislature of that state enacted into law a public utilities bill which is regarded as the most drastic in the community. Surely the powers of the corporations is on the wane.

There's Work to Be Done.

Winona Independent: If congress doesn't take a recess in September, it is believed that at least the clerk, stenographers and pages will attend the sessions.

A Great Change.

Stillwater Gazette: No doubt there are nearly 90,000,000 people in the United States who are pleased that we were on the safe and sane band wagon. If it had been otherwise, the Fourth of July victims would be numbered by the thousands instead of a very small number.

Old Style Is Best.

Preston Times: The Red Wing training school has again adopted the chastening rod as a means of enforcing discipline. It is recent history, largely political, how a hue and cry went up because Supt. Whittier permitted the bad boys to be whipped, and the new superintendent has tried a year or so of moral suasion with the result that the school has become well nigh demoralized. Perhaps the Miss Nancys and the political agitators will keep hands off after this and permit those in immediate charge to prescribe such punishment as in their judgment is necessary.

Another Blow.

Anoka Union: The express companies received another heavy blow by the C. O. D. parcel post service being put in operation.

Fame or Notoriety?

Redwood Falls Gazette: Senator Stebbins of Rochester has at last achieved fame. In a moment of factitiousness he called certain developers "windjammers." Immediately every paper of the state hops to and gives the senator more space than he ever had in his life. Bet he's tickled pink, too—it all came so easy.

Irish Home Rule

Chicago Record-Herald: The British house of commons has passed once more the home rule bill for Ireland by the full majority still commanded by the Asquith government, and that majority remains large in spite of a few reverses at by-elections. The measure goes to the lords again to be rejected again, for no compromise has been so much as hinted at by the tory leaders whose word or sign the upper house obeys almost blindly. The Marconi affair is generally believed to have aroused tory hopes of victory and to have prevented an understanding in relation to home rule.

After rejection of the bill by the lords, what? The answer depends on circumstances and the chapter of accidents. Since the Asquith government still has a majority of 110, its expectation of life for a period sufficient to pass its major bills—home rule, Welsh disestablishment, abolition of plural voting—over the lords' vetoes does not seem unreasonable. If it lasts two years more, it will carry out its present program and go to the people on new issues—notably, land and educational reform. If it has but one year of life, the home rule bill alone will become law under the parliament or veto-restriction act. Defeat before next spring would wipe out every feature of the program.

Lloyd-George has assumed the aggressive again, believing that the Marconi incident is closed and bound for oblivion. The social insurance act, another source of weakness, is being improved and amended. The liberal party, indeed, has almost recovered its spirits and confidence and scoffs at the prediction of an early dissolution of parliament. It may be justified in its cheerfulness, but in politics the expected frequently happens. Who knows what the partisan struggle will bring forth next?

Self-Evident.

New York Times: During a lull in the dinner conversation the hostess turned to the famous traveler and author, who was the lion of the occasion, and said:

"I enjoyed reading your book so much. Now, tell me honestly, did you really encounter all those wonderful adventures you narrate?"

"No, indeed," replied the traveler, in a burst of confidence. "If I had I'd never have lived to write about them."

Not for Self Alone.

Christian, is your burden heavy?
Have you pain or sorrow known?
Hear my message; toil and trial
Are not meant for you alone.

Not for self alone the pathway
That your shrinking feet have trod;
Comfort others as you also
Have been comforted of God.

Not for self alone the music
Christ is making in your heart;
Some one listens for your singing—
Sing, the listener may depart.

Not for self alone, beloved,
Are the simple, common things;
What helps you may help another,
Breathe your thought and give it wings.

Not alone to make us better,
Brighten our own altar fires,
But through all the Father trains us
For the service He requires.

Maynard and the Music Box.

Popular Magazine: Harry Maynard used to be a member of the house of representatives until the voters of his district laid him prostrate on the ground, and put upon his recumbent form the marks of many iron boots, thus effectively retiring him to private life. The last time he was in the national capital he was explaining in a jocular manner that an extra session of congress would not be necessary.

Congress reminded him, he said, of a pianola of which he had heard. A man was preparing to go on his vacation, and was unfolding his plans to his neighbor in the next apartment.

"We will be gone a long time," he said, "and we are thinking about taking our pianola with us."

"I would," replied the neighbor. "The Lord knows it needs a vacation."

"Well," replied Col. Stillwell, as he eyed the prospect, "I don't care much for soft drinks and I have a decided aversion to milk. I guess I'll take a chance on classifying myself as an old-fashioned standpatter."

Professionally Considered.

Washington Star: "The Declaration of Independence is a wonderful document," said the patriotic citizen.

"Yes," replied the legal expert. "It's one of the ablest documents I ever saw. And the most remarkable thing is that with all the ability it represents, nobody appears to have received a cent for drawing it up."

STRAWBERRY SEASON ENDS

Market Offers Last Chance for the Delicacy This Year.

Good Line of Green Vegetables Available at Low Prices.

Like the daffodils, strawberries hasten away too soon, and about tomorrow you may bid them goodbye. It may be that they will be available a day longer or maybe two, but that will be the finish. The annual crack of doom for the strawberry is about to sound; and, to again preach the matter of putting up some for the winter months, those who have not had the forethought or ambition to do so will soon be regretting it.

With the end of this week, practically the end of the season for strawberries and cream, strawberry shortcake and other things that make the early summer worth living, will have passed away until another year has passed. The last of the Bayfield berries is on the market now, and after that choas is come again. There cannot be a lower market and those who wish, during the next two days to get some berries to preserve, will have their last chance now.

There are other delicacies about which it is desirous of urging the public to grab off as fast as they can and get them in gem-jars or tins at once. Chief among these are currants and red raspberries. The end of their brief season is at hand also, and the price will not be lower than it is at this time. The quality is also very excellent. Soon they will be off the market.

Still another thing is the sour cherry. Some people had the forethought to get hold of the early crop, which went off the market some weeks ago. The second crop will be here during the coming week. The receipts will be light owing to the fact that weather conditions have been unfavorable, and those wishing to preserve them will have their last chance, and not a very extensive one at that. Housewives are advised to buy early if they wish to put up these cherries for the winter months for there will not be a third crop.

Fruit Prices Low.

In other fruits the season is still robust. Fancy California plums, blue and red, are selling at a lower price than formerly, and the market bids fair to remain steady for a few days at least. The plums are in good demand because of the superior quality they possess. Bartlett pears are still ruling at a high price and will be so for at least a week or ten days, for the receipts have been light. Peaches, of fine quality, are plentiful and cheap.

Western black cherries are now on the market and possess exceptionally good quality. Cases containing twenty-four quarts are selling at $3.50 and are bargains at that.

Lemons are in ample supply and are selling at reasonable prices. Oranges, too, have had a decline and are of good quality.

Watermelons and cantaloupes remain steady as to price and fine as to quality. Ben Davis and Winesaps box apples are offered at a lower price than for some time, and the quality is tempting.

The complete line of green vegetables offered just now is selling at a very reasonable price considering the unfavorable weather in vegetable growing communities. Duluth head lettuce is now on the market and is of unequalled quality. Tomato prices rule stronger at shipping points but at Duluth the prices remain the same as they have been. Because of the lateness of the Minnesota crop of potatoes there is an advance in price in the East and West. Home-grown cabbage is coming into the market, and the price of new cabbage is lower. The demand for California onions is heavy, and at lower prices.

Butter, eggs and poultry remain unchanged as to price, the summer standard having been reached for the most part. Poultry, of course, had an advance recently and as receipts still are light the price has not been reduced.

Meat is much higher and bids fair to stay higher, and perhaps rise a trifle more. Just now a famine in beef and veal exists in Duluth, and yesterday neither could be obtained in the city.

GET THE SMILING HABIT

Gertrude Barnes Makes Public Her Secret of Beauty ---Down-Dropping Lips Make the Face Hard and Disagreeable, the Actress Says.

Lillian Lauferty in the New York Journal: "Smile and curl up your mouth corners," said merry Gertrude Barnes.

She had just finished doing five character songs in characteristic costumes. She had run the gamut of emotion from the naughty little "enfant terrible" through the stranded show-girl longing for the "old Kentucky home" to the mirth-mad exponent of "Row, row, row." And all this earnest and successful effort to please her audience left her cool, buoyant and ready to give the whole world of girls the kindly benefit of her study of how to have "a sane mind in a healthy body."

Once Was Afraid to Smile.

"Expression is important for character as well as to aid the search after beauty," said pretty Miss Gertrude, with laughing earnestness. "I used to be afraid to smile all I wanted to for fear I would get those heavy lines from nostril to lip; and then suddenly I became aware of all the hard-looking faces one sees—and the chief reason for the hardness was down-dropping disagreeable looking lips. I decided at once to take a chance on the lesser evil, and began curling my mouth up at the corners, even when I was not particularly anxious to 'look pleasant, please;' now as a result there may be lines around my mouth, but they are lines of pleasantness—aren't they?" she added anxiously. "And sometimes when I am ready to feel cross my mouth keeps on smiling—and I recover."

Merry good nature and kindly interest in life happened to be among the greatest charms of Miss Barnes' animated, expressive face, and very pleasing is the twinkle that reflects from big brown eyes to the merry dimpled corners of her this-is-a-fine-old-world mouth.

"You may safely go on smiling," I said, "but how about all the other expressions you bring in rapid succession to your face—don't they make lines?"

A Bread Nevr One.

"Not lines that stay," answered Miss Barnes. "You see, I have a few methods of keeping my skin in good condition. They are cold water, sunburn and tan."

"Sunburn and tan!" I exclaimed. "I thought they were fatal to the fine texture of the skin."

"Perhaps they are fatal to the old, worn-out outer layer they destroy. But they give the fresh new layer waiting underneath a chance, and they help give strong, firm flesh, good, healthy flesh, without which fine-textured skin is just impossible. And sunburn and tan come from plenty of sunlight and fresh air, which are the best things in the whole world for the health and beauty seeker. So there you are in a perfect circle, when you have added plenty of cold water—and served up a fine, healthy skin on a background of strong, firm flesh that can throw off the little lines you make temporarily by twisting your face around into any extreme of expression you choose.

The Praise of Cold Water.

"Cold water—cold water—cold water! Won't you sing its praises very earnestly, please? And tell all the girls not to be afraid of the charm of expression—they may indulge in it all they like if they have been sunburned and tanned and cold-watered, with good massage-like splashes that make the skin strong enough to throw off the little temporary blemishes of lines and wrinkles.

"Oh, my circle is not complete yet," laughed the cheery star, "I have a little more to say about fresh air. Go out into it all you can, and hunt and ride if you can. Riding is wonderful for the muscles of the limbs; hunting develops the muscles of the waist—but if you can do neither swim. Anyone can swim if she just chooses to learn how—and it is a most wonderful, inspiring, lung-filling, flesh-hardening form of exercise."

FORMER SING SING WARDEN INDICTED

Mismanagement and Neglect of Duty Charged Against Kennedy.

White Plains, N. Y., July 11.—A 100-page indictment charging mismanagement of the Sing Sing state prison, neglect of duty, failure to investigate complaints, and containing other allegations, has been filed by the Westchester county grand jury against John S. Kennedy, whom Governor Sulzer recently removed as warden. Kennedy surrendered himself in the county court, where he gave bond in $1,000.

The charges are in substance the same as those set forth in a report made to the governor by George W. Blake, a special prison investigator. Upon receiving this report Governor Sulzer directed the grand jury to investigate. Kennedy also asked for an inquiry.

Kennedy gave convicts insufficient food, withheld from solitary prisoners the required daily medical attendance, did not properly clothe and shoe convicts, furnished them with unclean bedding and with damp blankets seldom washed, and compelled prisoners to wear clothes worn by other convicts withiout fumigating the garments, the indictment charges.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS FIRES ARE OUT.

Mount Tamalpais Summit, Cal., July 11.—The forest fires on Mount Tamalpais are out. Here and there linger a few smouldering embers, but after four days and three sleepless nights of fighting, Mill Valley, Larkspur, Corte Madera and Muir Woods are definitely beyond the return of danger. Beyond the destruction of timber, the property loss has been slight. It has been definitely established that there was no loss of life.

SENATE VOTES FOR N. Y. C. INVESTIGATION

Senator Norris' Resolution Is Adopted Without Debate.

Washington, July 11.—An investigation of the financial operations of New York Central lines by the interstate commerce commission is proposed in a resolution passed by the senate. This action was taken without debate when the resolution was introduced by Senator Norris of Nebraska. The resolution, if concurred in by the house, would direct the commission first to investigate and report on the issue by the New York Central & Hudson River Railway oompany of $167,102,400 worth of 4 per cent mortgage bonds for the purpose of taking up 3½ per cent Michigan Central bonds amounting to $19,507,400, and New York Central 4 per cent debenture bonds amounting to $97,188,000.

The commission would be asked to report whether the issue of the 4 per cent bonds for 3½ per cent would not be an unwarranted and illegal capitalization of the railroads concerned, whether the purpose of the consolidation of the New York Central, the Lake Shore & Michigan Central would not be unwarranted and unlawful, and whether the increase in interest is necessary even if the consolidation is unobjectionable.

Senator Norris had prepared data which he declared showed that the 3½ per cent bonds in question do not expire for eighty-five years, and that the exchange of 4 per cents for 3½ per cents dollar for dollar would saddle onto the lines as additional permanent debt, upon which shippers must pay rates, a sum equivalent to $46,713,620. He was prepared to call attention to the recent request of New York Central upon the commission to be allowed to increase freight rates, and had figures to show that the fixed charges of the New York Central amounted to 59 per cent of the road's income as compared with about 26 per cent for the Union Pacific and 29 per cent for the Pennsylvania.

PANAMA WANTS ITS CANAL RENT PAID

Washington, July 11.—Panama wants the first installment of the $250,000 annual rental the United States promised to pay for the isthmian canal zone, and financial agents for the little republic, in their urgent applications for the money, virtually have suggested that the American government has defaulted in its obligation.

Secretary Bryan has held up the payment, which was due Feb. 26 last, and for which congress provided in the emergency deficiency bill. No explanation has been forthcoming from the state department, but it is understood the secretary is inclined to make no payment pending the outcome of negotiations with Colombia regarding that country's claim for indemnity for the separation of Panama. In the tripartite treaties negotiated by Secretary Root for the purpose of reconciling Colombia for the loss of Panama, it was proposed to turn over the canal zone rental to Colombia for a period. This convention was signed by the United States and Panama, but Colombia refused to ratify it, and Panama now insists there is no reason for withholding the rental.

Both Panama Minister Morales and Colombian Minister Betancourt called at the state department yesterday.

Woman's Realm

Club women of the state are interested in the arrangements fer the women's part of the state fair this year.

The Minnesota State Federation of Women's Clubs will begin making state fair plans early in August. The federation will have a state fair committee, made up of the vice presidents of each district in the state, to cooperate in seeing that interests of every section of Minnesota are represented.

The committee includes Mrs. Albert R. Hall of St. Paul, Mrs. V. C. Sherman of Minneapolis, Mrs. George J. Allen of Rochester, Mrs. C. E. Comant of Wells, Mrs. J. C. Clark of St. Peter, Mrs. Martin Mollitor of St. Cloud, Mrs. M. E. Matthews of Marshall, Mrs. C. C. McCarthy of Grand Rapids and Mrs. F. L. Hampson of Ada.

The women will arrange to have a reception committee to meet the women visitors to the fair each day, and also a committee of young girls to meet the younger visitors.

The girls of each county who win a prize at their county fairs for bread-making this year will participate in a contest at the state fair. There also will be contests in sewing and dress-making under the auspices of the state agricultural school.

The Minnesota Press association branch of the International Congress of Farm Women will be hostesses at the woman's rest cottage, and will be in charge of the baby health contest, a mothers' day program and other features. Miss Mary A. Whedon of St. Paul is chairman of the state fair committee of the association, and other officers are: Dr. Ella S. Webb of St. Paul, chairman of the baby health contest; Mrs. Sallie M. Moses of Minneapolis, chairman of the rest cottage reception; Mrs. Margaret Baker of St. Paul, chairman of neighborhood clubs; and Mrs. Mary L. Bigelow of Minneapolis, chairman of mothers' day.

The women of the state will, for the first time, be represented on the board of fair managers this year. The three agricultural divisions of the state will be represented. Mrs. Gilbert Guttersen of St. Paul will represent the central division; Miss Jessie Walkup of Pipestone the southern, and Mrs. F. C. Correll of Big Falls the northern.

This auxiliary to the fair will have an assisting committee which will arrange to establish headquarters and place exhibits of interest to women, including pure foods, weights and measures, new household inventions and practical demonstrations.

The St. Paul Housewives' league also has extensive plans for the state fair and will take advantage of the opportunity to meet and discuss with the housekepers of the state needed legislation to insure honest weights and measures, and protection of food products from insanitary conditions.

LADY SACKVILLE'S SISTER IS BARE-LEGGED DANCER

FLORA SACKVILLE WEST.

Flora Sackville West is the sister of the Lady Sackville, who is being sued by the Scott heirs for a part of the fortune of Sir John Scott which he willed to her. It will be recalled that in the testimony, Lady Sackville referred to Lady Franklin as being her inferior socially because she was the mistress of Knole, one of the historic family seats of Great Britain. The proud Lady Sackville is a sister of this Flora Sackville West, who is earning her living doing bare-legged dances in London music halls while Lady Sackville is enjoying an enormous income, much of which was provided by the late Sir John Scott. A brother of these two is a carpenter in the village near Knole. All three were illegitimate children of Sir Lionel Sackville West, who was at one time minister at Washington. The oldest married her cousin who was the heir to the title and in order to confirm his claim to the title that she might enjoy it, she brought into court her birth certificate proving the illegitimacy of herself and her brother and sister.

MUSICIANS END CONVENTION

Two Concerts, Business Session and Election of Officers Bring Sessions to a Close.

Two concerts yesterday afternoon and evening by state musicians proved to be of interest and afforded much enjoyment to the members of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association at the convention meetings held at the Spalding hotel.

In the afternoon Harry Phillips of Minneapolis, baritone, opened the program with a group of four Brahms songs which were well interpreted. Mr. Phillips has a big voice and an understanding of technique which made his numbers most acceptable.

Mrs. Wilma Anderson-Gilman of Minneapolis played twice on this program her first group including Brahms Intermezzo, Op. 117 No. 2 and Rhapsodie, Op. 119 No. 4, which were received with the greatest enthusiasm. She has a wonderfully fine mastery of technique and an artistic understanding of her work and her interpretation of these two numbers was pronounced perfect by her hearers. Her last number was "Fantasie, Op. 49" by Chopin, which was followed by an insistently demanded encore, a mazurka by Chopin.

Mme. Katherine Von Ewertsen, who is the possessor of a soprano voice of clearness and sweetness, sang a group of three numbers which were well received. They were "La Circa" by Pinchieilli, "Er Der Rerrlichste Van Allen" by Schumann, and "Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak, every one of which were artistically given.

The closing number was a group of Brahms waltzes, "Liebeslieder Walzer, Op. 52" for pianoforte duet and mixed quartet, which proved to be the gem of the concert.

Margaret Gilmore MacPhail and Donald Ferguson in the piano work were wonderfully fine and their work was as much a factor in the success of the numbers as the singing of Martha Cook, soprano, Eleanor Nesbitt Poehler, contralto, J. Austin Williams, tenor, and Harry Phillips, bass. This group of songs has not been sung in Duluth before and the hearers were delighted with them and the handling given by the artists.

Evening Concert.

The progam given at the evening concert proved a source of mixed disappointment and delight for the audience.

The trio composed of Maximilian Dick, violinist; Edith Adams Dick, violoncello and Franklyn W. Krieger, pianoforte, gave the first number, playing the Arensky trio in D minor which has been played here so exquisitely by the Duluth trio. Their ensemble work was good. although the pianist was inclined to dominate the work instead of making his part a factor of the whole. The tone quality of the violin and cello was especially good.

Mrs. Dick and Mr. Krieger played the Strauss sonata in F major, in three movements with good interpretation and in the closing number the Schubert trio "Walzermaerchen" was shortened, only the last two movements being played.

Owing to illness Mme. Genevra Johnstone-Bishop was unable to sing and the audience was delighted with the substitution of a solo number by Mrs. Eleanor Nesbitt Poehler, contralto, who sang a group of charming numbers. Mrs. Poehler has been heard in Duluth before and was then much admired, but her work last evening so far surpassed her former work that she was heartily encored. Mrs. Margaret Gilmore MacPhail was delightful in her accompaniments for Mrs. Poehler.

The quartet with piano duet given in the afternoon was repeated in the evening to the manifest delight of the audience.

Violin Round Table.

The violin round table was also an event of yesterday afternoon of worth to those who attended. William MacPhail, who was chairman of this meeting, read a paper on "The Place of Chamber Music in the Violin Curriculum," which was well handled.

"Chamber music," he said, "is the name applied to all that class of music which is especially fitted for performance in a room, as distinguished from concert music or dramatic music. Works of this description form a very considerable portion of modern music both in value and amount.

"Chamber music offers very little in the way of financial returns, and brings very little in the way of popularity. People go to concerts as they go to the theater, to be amused and entertained, not to be educated. The composer of chamber music never found this form a profitable one, consequently when he wrote in this form he had something to say for the sake of music. He was wont to express his deepest feelings and innermost thoughts in this mode; that has come to be the most serious and highest form of music.

"What we violinists need at the present time is a higher standard of general musicianship, an education that includes the head and heart as well as the fingers; a little more of art for art's sake."

Other speakers of the afternoon were Otto Meyer, Gustav Flaaten and Edward H. Fowler.

The picnic luncheon which was to have been served at Fond du Lac this evening was served this noon at the ball room of the hotel and part of the delegates took the boat ride up the river this afternoon despite the rain.

The address of the secretary, Donald N. Ferguson, was given this morning at the final business meeting and work on the constitution revision adopted. The association voted to establish the official organ to be known as the "Minnesota Music," which will appear bi-monthly. The committee on arrangements for this publication consisted of William MacPhail, chairman; Miss Isabel Pearson of Duluth and Miss Welnman of Minneapolis.

Minneapolis will be the place of meeting next year.

NO SPOTLIGHT FOR HER

Maude Adams Off the Stage Is Just Like Any Ordinary Woman —She Doesn't Have a Press Agent Nor Chase Publicity With a Grabnet.

Frederic Dean in Good Housekeeping: The dominant motif of Maude Adams' life is minding her own business. She's an actress, and holds to the old-fashioned notion that her place is behind the footlights and not on Fifth avenue; that she appears to better advantages in the breeches of Peter Pan than in smart Parisian frocks; and she prefers a romp with her big St. Bernard, Meta, down at Sandygarth farm, to the most select social function.

So far, she has rigidly adhered to the mode of living she set for herself when she first began to hide behind her art and foreswore all temptations to be dragged into prominence save upon her mimic stage.

Miss Adams is never seen on the street, in the park or in the shops. Her name is never mentioned among "those present" at matinees, Professional Women's league bazars, Actors' Fund benefits or the many other gatherings to which stage folk flock. Since she was graduated from John Drew's company she has never entered a theater other than the one in which she is at the time playing.

A Rule Was Broken.

Yes; once last season she went to the New Amsterdam. Mr. Frohman had seen "The Pink Lady" and was sure the principal comedy character would please her. Miss Adams promptly bought a seat in the gallery and enjoyed the play with the other gods—who, unluckily for them, had no inkling of her identity.

A color scheme of dull gray or black is almost invariably adhered to by Miss Adams when on the street. Over her head she sometimes throws a shawl but prefers a little round cap, and her entire getup is distinctly severe. Her style in dress has hardly altered since 1900. She knows absolutely nothing of the prevailing modes. The sheath gown and pannier skirt are unknown quantities in the algebra of her wardrobe. As for jewelry, if she possesses any, she seldom, if ever, wears it.

Society Does Not Interest Her.

She cares as little for equal suffrage as she does for dinner gowns, and she couldn't tell the names of the boxholders at the Metropolitan Opera house if her hope of heaven depended on its correct recital.

But with every detail of her art she is on delightfully intimate terms, and, curiously enough, it is the mechanism of the stage—the intricacies of the stage carpenter and scenic artist—that interest her most and upon which she is peculiarly well informed.

The members of Miss Adams' companies are generally fond of her, and, once a new production is safely launched, she is the meekest member of the organization, and is never above accepting advice and suggestions from the others. The source of the suggestion is seemingly of no consequence to her, if only it have value.

The man who hauls the baggage into the theater may with safety offer counsel. The callboy runs no risk in commenting adversely on the dramatic effect of a certain scene, and should the second violin suggest to Miss Adams that her dress in the last act did not harmonize with the color scheme of the backdrop, she would thank him and cheerfully take the matter under serious advisement.

No Name on Her Office Door.

Business pertaining to her productions is transacted in Miss Adams' own office in the Empire theater building, in New York. No name is on the door, and but a few of the daily passers-by suspect the identity of the occupant of this particular suite. Here she selects the members of her company, gives orders to scenic artists and costumers and attends to the thousand and one details that go to make up the daily routine of preparation.

Miss Adams possesses a personality that is startlingly sensible and sincere, but it is her capacity for portraiture, the gift of receiving and assimilating and representing individual character, the craftsman's sense of material and the craftsman's delight in the use of it—plus the mannerisms of the woman—that give her portraits a rank with those of Thackeray and Rembrandt; with Maeterlinck's Melisande and the Carmen of Breslen-Gianoli; with the best of Cissy Loftus' mimicries of yesterday and the truest Scot in Harry Lauder's repertoire of today.

A Paradox in Her Life.

Paradoxically, her exclusiveness has made her the best known actress on the American stage. True, we of the street know nothing of Maude Adams' mode of living; what she has for dinner, what she reads, or whether she prefers dumbbells or punching bag. But we do know that she eats well, reads the best books and exercises with some potent body-builder—else her voice would be less musical, the interpretations of her lines would be less illuminating, her characters less convincing as living personages.

WEAKNESSES OF HEROES.

Indianapolis News: Col. Gore-Browne who won the Victoria cross at the defense of Lucknow, and who passed intrepidly through all the scenes of carnage in the hand-to-hand fighting which occurred against the rebels, could not in cold blood endure the sight of a cut finger, nor could he bear to see any animal being led to a slaughter house. Lord Roberts, the stanchest soldier of them all, could not endure the presence of a cat. On one occasion, in the battles outside Cabul, the members of his staff were astonished to see their leader shivering and scarcely able to speak. They soon found the cause, for a large cat had appeared on the wall against which the fearless general was standing. The cat was driven away and Lord Roberts became himself again. It was once said of Lord Roberts that the one army that he certainly could not defeat would be an army of cats.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

An Important Duty for the Modern Mother.

The mothers of this nation cannot much longer blind themselves to the important problem of eugenics, and the necessity of instructing their children in sex matters.

One of the most prominent women in the country, a woman who is widely known socially and for her philanthropic and sociological activities, only the other day wrote:

"Every woman should study eugenics. Such knowledge should not be withheld until women have reached motherhood. At heart and soul we are all mothers. The instinct of motherhood is in us, and if it is not exercised toward children of our own, its influence at least can be extended to those who actually are mothers."

This woman, with others whose names are household words throughout the country, have joined in a movement to bring home the plain truths of this new science to every woman in the land. The movement is one of the most important launched in this nation at any time, for it aims to destroy one of the greatest evils which menace our race.

The science of eugenics is the science of being well-born. It means the instruction of youth in the vital relationship of sex, and impressing upon them the great importance of keeping their minds clean and their bodies sacred against all the temptations of the world.

Eugenics aims at the improvement of the human race. By guiding children in the reading of proper literature, the forming of proper friendships and associations and the acquisition of certain tastes, it seeks to prepare son or daughter for the sacred duty of parenthood. How many young people approach that state without the slightest serious idea of what it all means, and totally unfit to discharge the great obligations that it imposes!

Surely every good mother should study this question, and bring to bear all the light that modern thought has brought to this age-old problem. The responsibility for social purity begins with the parent, in the home. Boys should be made to feel that their "sowing of wild otas" will not be condoned, and girls that they must preserve their modesty and womanliness against all the forces which seek to destroy them.

Conscientious study of this subject by mothers will be the means of working a great reform.

EFFICIENCY "C. E." THEME

Movement to Better Church Work Launched at Convention.

Dr. MacDonald Says Churches Are "Social Apostates."

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—A campaign for efficiency and expansion was launched at today's session of the International Christian Endeavor convention. Plans to increase the society's membership and to harmonize the work were advocated at each of many meetings in the various churches of the city. Addresses on efficiency were delivered by prominent delegates.

"From my point of view as a newspaper man, the churches of America, alike in the Republic and the Dominion, have in the past been in danger of losing the national outlook and becoming mere denominations of the intellectual and the well-to-do."

This was the assertion of Dr. J. A. MacDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe and one of the Canadian delegates to the convention, in his address today on "The Problem of Capital and Labor as Related to the Churches."

"All over America," said Dr. MacDonald, "there has grown up an industrial absolutism more baneful and much more arrogant than that of any Stuart queen; but where is the church of John Knox that will stand against tyranny and oppression for the will of God and for the rights of men?

The Church's Lack.

"What does the comfortable church of the well-to-do know about the problem of work or of wages? How can it hear the passionate cry of the children of America, a million of them—some say three millions—caught in the cruel wheels of our vast, heartless industrial machine? How can it measure the agony of women whose only alternative is starvation or shame?

"Why? Because of the church's social apostasy. Once again the church has become the conserver of vested interests and worships 'the God of things as they are.'"

As a remedy Dr. MacDonald urged a return to the mode of living established by Christ and practiced by the primitive Christians, "when Jews, Romans, Greeks and barbarians did live together happily and did work together hopefully through all the relations of industrial service in everyday life."

Likes "Confessional" Plan.

The confessional in a modified form for Protestant churches was advocated last night in an address at the interchurch Y. P. S. C. E. convention here by Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, who said that for years in his Congragtional church at Topeka, Kan., he had devoted two hours every Sunday afternoon to learning of the tribulations of his congregation.

"A man, for example, comes and tells me of his troubles with his wife. Or he is out of a job. Or he is ill. I try to advise him. Frequently I can direct him to employment. Sometimes estranged husbands and wives are reconciled."

A RELIC OF SPANISH RULE.

Christian Science Monitor: One of the characteristic landmarks of Havana is a bell tower built into one of the old walls. It is among the most ancient of the existing remains of Spanish builders, and, towering above the houses near, is a picturesque reminder of older times, in a city that is rapidly taking on the air of modern civilization.

A RECIPE FOR GOOD HUMOR.

Washington Star: Fred R. Whipple of New York, a poet and philosopher and a lifelong friend of James Whitcomb Riley, was talking to Fred Emory of the Associated Press one evening.

"You're the happiest man I ever saw," said Emory. "Why don't you publish your recipe for good humor?"

Whipple took an envelope from his pocket and wrote, and this is the secret of his smile:

"Take twenty-four hours; mix thoroughly with the milk of human kindness; and spice of life to suit the taste, a little discretion, some common sense; knead with the hand of friendship and bake in the open hearth of love; do not allow it to cool too quickly by trouble, or become sour by affliction; serve with generous sauce and a bright smile."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

DRAFT DEALS ARE CHARGED

Grand Forks Automobile Dealers Accused of Swindling Some Banks.

Vollmer and Droskins Alleged to Have Stung Several Concerns.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—New charges may be lodged against C. J. Vollmer and Isadore Droskins, local automobile dealers who were captured at Vancouver, B. C., and are expected here tonight in the custody of Sheriff Benson and State's Attorney Burtness.

The State bank of Ayr, N. D., and the Great Western Bank of Osnabrock, N. D., are considering steps to recover small amounts which it is charged that Vollmer and Droskins realized by drafts, Droskins drawing the drafts on Vollmer on a Grand Forks bank in which he had no deposit, and which drafts have not been taken care of. The Osnabrock bank charges it was worsted for $25, and the Ayr bank has a $50 draft to liquidate.

Cut Quite a Dash.

Vollmer made Grand Forks his home about a year, and during that period was successful in cutting quite a dash. He set himself up in the automobile business with C. R. Verry of Park River, and the latter charges him with taking two automobiles, valued at about $4,000, without his permission. Other charges are made by Max Rabinovich, a local jeweler.

BELONGS TO FAMILY.

La Moures Retain Federal Job in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—National and state administration may change but representatives of Jud LaMoure's family continue as customs collectors in North Dakota. This is emphasized by the fact that a Washington telegram announced the retention of Jud LaMoure, Jr., as collector at Pembina. Mr. LaMoure's position had been eagerly sought by a number of Democrats to whom the $3,000 salary looked attractive and the announcement that he would continue was a matter of surprise and disappointment to many of the office seekers.

The official is a son of Former State Senator LaMoure, a pioneer resident and one of the political warhorses of old territorial days and of the early history of the state.

FARGOANS TAKE TO WATER METERS.

Fargo, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargoans are being educated into the use of water meters indirectly rather than directly. The proposition to establish them has generally been combatted because of the added expense of the installation of the meters. Many property owners strenuously objected. When the city commission took hold of the affairs of Fargo, it was discovered that the new filtration system, established last December, was running behind about $2,000 per month. The former water rates were sufficiently high, even excessive, for the quality of the water furnished, but was inadequate for supplying the pure water that is now running through the mains. An increase of about 25 per cent was made. As a result there are now applications being made for meters and within a few months it is anticipated many of the heaviest users will put in meters.

LATE FROSTS HURT BLUEBERRY CROP.

Couderay, Wis., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chippewa Indians on the Couderay reservation and other settlers report that this year's blueberry crop will be one of the smallest for many years in this section. The failure of the crop is due to several heavy frosts during the middle and last part of May while they were in blossom.

Hundreds of settlers and in particular the Indians in Northern Wisconsin will feel the blueberry crop shortage keenly as the berry sales annually netted them thousands of dollars and many depended on it solely for their living.

PECULIARLY AFFECTED BY THUNDER STORMS.

Hancock, Mich., July 11.—Miss Lucy Sepalla of Dollar Bay, 13 years of age, during the last few thunder storms has lost the power of speech and laughter for a certain length of time.

A short time ago she was about to telephone to her sister who lives at Houghton, and just after she took the receiver from the hook, deep thunder was heard and the child was struck speechless and could not utter a sound. A few days after the thunder her voice was restored and this experience has been repeated with successive storms.

TAKES POSITION WITH CROOKSTON FARM SCHOOL

WILLIAM DIETRICH.

Crookston, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Dietrich, a graduate of the Wisconsin agricultural college, formerly assistant professor in the Illinois agricultural college, has accepted the post at the head of the animal husbandry college of the Northwest School of Agriculture and Experiment station here. Mr. Dietrich is looked upon as a valuable addition to the faculty, as he is a man of wide experience and an authority in his special line of work. He is the author of many bulletins and circulars, and has a score or more now in press and in preparation. His book on "Swine," 300 pages, published by the Breeders' Gazette, is regarded as an authority on the subject, and his "A Course in Swine Husbandry," published by the Correspondence College of Agriculture, Fort Wayne, Ind., is also regarded as a standard work. Mr. Dietrich is already at the helm and makes the faculty exceptionally strong.

NEARLY KILLS WIFE.

Oneida Indian Ties Woman to Tree, Trying to Kill Her.

Appleton, Wis., July 11.—Angered because his wife left him to return to her former lover, with whom she is said to have lived six years before her marriage to him, Martin Christjohn, an Oneida Indian, is said to have tied the woman to a tree and after executing a war dance about her in full Indian war regalia, started to behead her. Two white men rushed upon the scene and unarmed Christjohn, but not before he had inflicted probable fatal wounds.

NOT A SUICIDE.

Mill City Police Believe Staples Man Did Not Kill Self.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—James Hill, who was reported from Staples to have committed suicide, is alive and probably in Minneapolis, the police believe. His wife declared last week he had threatened to kill her.

Hill was seen on the doorstep of the home of G. L. Hastings, where Mrs. Hill is staying.

Mrs. Hill, who is but 19 years old, says her husband was a Kentucky feudist and he said he wished to leave Kentucky because he had killed a man there.

GETS DRESS BY FRAUD.

Truck Farmer's Daughter Accused of Swindling Mill City Store.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—Posing as the wife of a well-known business man, Hilda Johnson, daughter of a truck farmer living a few miles north of this city, bought a silk dress at a local department store to wear to a party on July 4. She went to the party, wore the dress and yesterday was arrested on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. She is in jail awaiting hearing.

To Direct Corn Show.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—Prof. C. P. Bull of St. Paul, agronomist at the state college of agriculture, has left for Dallas, Tex., to become director of the national corn exposition. The position will require his residence in the South for about a year.

On July 31 Prof. Bull will address the Texas Corn Improvement association at College Station on "Crop Improvement."

The national corn show will be held next winter, but the date has not been determined yet. It is the largest exposition of its kind in the country.

BROUGHT BACK FROM WILLMAR

Thomas McLaughlin Alleged to Have Sold Another's Property.

Aitkin, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Haugen returned Monday from Willmar, bringing Thomas McLaughlin, who was indicted at the May term of court charged with disposing of property to which he had no title.

A bench warrant was issued for him as he was not in the county at that time. McLaughlin operated a sawmill near Hill City at one time for J. E. Greenfield.

LEADER AT DEFENSE OF FORT RIDGELEY DIES

Col. Timothy J. Sheehan Succumbs After Several Weeks' Illness.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—Col. Timothy J. Sheehan, well known pioneer and war veteran, died at his home here this morning after an illness of several weeks. He was 78 years old.

Col. Sheehan had lived in Minnesota since 1857, and distinguished himself in battles with Indians as well as in the Civil war. He was commander in the famous defense of Fort Ridgeley, Minn., in 1862, when the fort was besieged by Indians for eight days. He gained the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Civil war.

COL. TIMOTHY J. SHEEHAN.

FALLS ON PITCHFORK.

Farmer's Son Near Karlstad Receives Perhaps Fatal Injuries.

Karlstad, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Peter Thompson farm east of here Monday, Henry Thompson, son of Peter Thompson, who had been working in the hayloft of the barn, lost his footing and fell to the ground, his body striking the end of the handle of a pitchfork with such force that it was driven into his body about eleven inches. As there was no one around when the accident happened, he had to pull the handle out himself, and managed to get to the house, and the doctor was at once sent for. His condition is still serious.

BURGLAR COOKS MEAL WHILE FAMILY SLEEPS.

Appleton, Wis., July 11.—While the family slept peacefully on the second floor early yesterday a burglar entered the home of M. Stilp in this city, cooked a substantial meal of potatoes, meat, coffee and bread, also served himself side dishes from the ice box, and, after eating heartily, made his way out of the house without interference.

Killed Blasting Stumps.

Bayfield, Wis., July 11.—George Andrews, logger, loaded six stumps with dynamite and lighted all the fuses. One of the fuses appeared to have failed, and after waiting a minute, Andrews went to relight it. As he leaned over the stump the charge exploded and killed him instantly.

A. O. U. W. CASE IS IN FEDERAL COURT.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—Collections of $250,000 by the Minnesota grand lodge, A. O. U. W., alleged to be fraudulent under the guaranty and fraternal aid law, has brought the officers and directors of the lodge into court to answer to suit brought by the supreme lodge to recover this money. The case is before Judge C. A. Willard in the United States district court.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker are very much pleased with Itasca county and plan to make their home either in Cohasset or Grand Rapids.

INVITED TO SEND TEAM.

Virginia and Rainy Lake Fire Fighters Asked to Gilbert Meet.

Gilbert, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Barrett, ex-Mayor Cosgrove, R. T. Dukelow and General Superintendent T. A. Flannigan of the Republic Iron & Steel company went over to Virginia as representatives of the Gilbert Commercial club to interview the officials of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company relative to having the company send a running team from its fire department to participate in the tournament to be held here Aug. 18, 19 and 20. They were assured that a team would be present and are now only awaiting the arrival of the rules governing the various races. These rules have been completed and are now in print. As soon as proofs have been read they will be sent to the various teams to enter the contest. At the present time the entrance of at least five teams is assured and the probabilities are that that number will be doubled making it the largest amateur tournament ever held on the range.

RURAL TEACHERS TO BE BENEFITED

Proposed Training Department in Virginia Schools Will Prove Boon.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—P. P. Cosgrove, superintendent of schools, proposes to have the newly authorized normal training department for rural school teachers conducted in one of the rooms of the Roosevelt school, and he believes there will be little expense other than the salary of the director, Miss Izzetta Sabean of Hayward, Wis. Those wishing to take the teachers' training course must have two years or more of high school work. It is expected many will take advantage of the training school to qualify for teaching in the county schools and will desire to earn money teaching with which to continue their studies in the high school or in college. The department is intended to be of benefit to young men and women who perhaps could not afford to complete the high school course and take the state normal school training, and on this account would be required to leave school and take up some vocation other than teaching.

IS SAVED FROM WATERY GRAVE

Eveleth Man Is Going Down Last Time When Rescued.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.) — Walter Parkinen nearly lost his life while in swimming at Ely lake. He ventured out into deep water and being unable to swim went under. He was alone and according to his story had gone down twice and was making a frantic effort to attract help when he was discovered by Andrew Alfors, who came upon the scene and succeeded in rescuing him as he was going down for the last time.

TO BUILD SCHOOL.

Duplaise Bros. of Duluth Secure $42,600 Aurora Contract.

Aurora, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for general construction of a ten-room grade building for Aurora has been awarded to Duplaise Bros. of Duluth. The contract price, with alterations and additions made by the board is $42,600. The contract for the four room grade building for Mesaba was awarded to John Knuti of Aurora for $13,129.

Bids were received for repairing the present grade building at Aurora, but as the work amounted to approximately $17,000 the bids were all rejected. The present building is an eight-room frame building and the board considered this amount too much to expend for repairs.

HINES' BOYS OUTING.

Sons of Chicago Millionaire Enjoying Life at Cusson.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Hines, Jr., and Ralph Hines, sons of Edward Hines, millionaire president of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, are up from Chicago and together with Sammy Cusson and Howard Grace are spending a vacation period at the headquarters camp of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company at Cusson, the guests of Frank Gillmor, superintendent of operations in the woods.

To Oppose Citizens' Ticket.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Those being mentioned for the ticket which will oppose the "Citizens'" school ticket, on which are R. J. McGhee, W. T. Irwin and Carl R. Johnson, are A. B. Holley, James Mahoney, J. L. Kimball and Mrs. E. N. Simons. These have only been talked about informally and have not been indorsed by any gathering of electors. Since the women may vote at the election on the 19th, a large vote is expected.

HOPING TROLLEY LEAGUE WILL LAST

Chisholm Fans Are Worried Over Baseball Aggregation Going to Pieces.

Chisholm, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Hreald.)—Local ball fans are worried over the future of the Trolley league because of Gilbert dropping out and the statement that Hibbing will not carry out the schedule permitting so many of the games to be played in the smaller towns.

Chisholm would like to see the schedule finished, having recently added strength to its team. An effort is being made to get the officers of the league together so that some definite action can be taken. Chisholm would not object to having a number of the balance of her games played at home, but is willing to be fair and carry out the schedule as near as can be done at this time with some of the teams dropping out.

MUST STERILIZE MILK CONTAINERS

Chisholm Dairymen Given Warning to Guard Against Bacteria.

Chisholm, Minn., June 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Health Officer W. R. Schmidt and the health board have declared for stricter sanitary methods in handling milk and ordered dairymen to have their bottles more cleanly it being claimed much bacteria germinate because the containers are not properly cleansed.

None of the dealers have conveniences for steaming bottles and a cleansing in soap and hot water is about all that many of them have been getting, but when they were shown that as high as a million colonies of bacteria had been discovered in a single cubic centimeter they were astounded. Milk has proved the best breeding grounds for such bacteria and the fact that the bottles were washed simply mislead the consumer. It has been shown that much care has been taken in protecting the milk at many of the creameries and in the handling but with the one big loop hole 'the bottles' all the care and painstaking was with no avail.

Village To Furnish Solution.

A hypochlorite solution is being prepared and will be dealt out by the village to dairymen which will permit them at small expense to sterilize their bottles so that no bacteria can exist after the solution has been applied to the water used in cleansing. The same applications can also be applied to milk palls and other utensils which will go a long way toward better conditions in the handling and sale of milk here which is a much needed change.

City Physician W. R. Schmidt is also going to begin the enforcement of more sanitary methods of handling and selling of fruits and vegetables that come into the markets here and any shipments that come here under adverse conditions will be dumped.

EATON MINE TO SHIP.

Property Said to Be Getting Into Shipping Shape.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eaton mine near Kinney, which is being developed by the Robinson-Hoar Iron Mining company, and in which a number of Virginia people are interested will be a shipper within the next month or six weeks. It is expected to ship 20,000 tons from the property this season. The shaft has been sunk and drifting in the ore body is now in progress. The company has about 100,000 tons of ore in sight and will begin hoisting ore in a short time. Its product may be marketed to the Zenith Furnace company in Duluth and it is planned to work the mine during all of the coming winter, stockpiling ore for next season.

ACCURATE DOCTORS' FIGURES AGREE

Mr. Joseph Justice, a Chicago business man, 409 W. Randolph street, was declared by two physicians to have Diabetes. One of the physicians was his family doctor and the other was an M. D. in the Columbus building. To make doubly sure he had two analyses made and to show how accurate the physicians were, both reports showed four-sixteenths of one per cent of sugar.

Justice put himself on Fulton's Diabetic Compound and cut out sugars, sweets and starches. He began to feel better after the third week. Improvement was continuous and on the disappearance of the symptoms he went to a third physician, an eminent Chicago specialist.

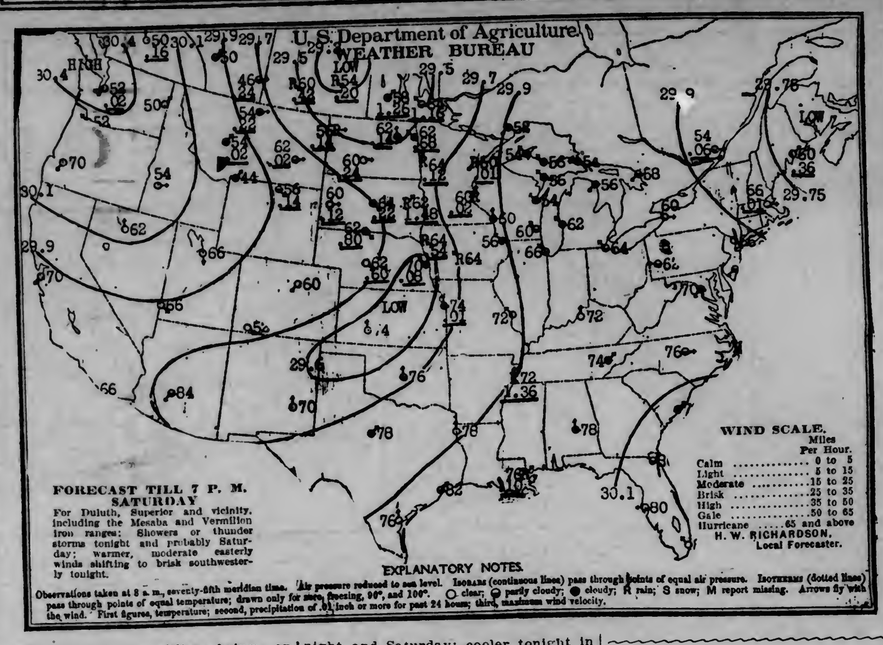

The doctor's charge was $20.00 for 25 minutes, but he writes that the examination was worth ten times what he paid for it. The doctor reported him strong and healthy and his analysis disclosed no trace of either sugar or albumen.

Mr. Justice knew that the careful tests before and after made this a record case and kindly gave us the details.

If you have Diabetes and are over fifty you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Showers or thunder storms tonight and probably Saturday; warmer, moderate easterly winds shifting to brisk southwesterly tonight.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

RAIN

After being on his good behavior for several days, the weather man lest loose a northeaster yesterday, and today the convention delegates have a chance to see Duluth's climate at its worst. They have also seen it at its best, so they cannot complain of monotony.

Hope of better things is held out today, and the weather may clear tomorrow, the wind shifting to the southeast.

A year ago today it was raining.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and will set at 8:02 making fifteen hours and fifty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Disturbances centered over Saskatchewan and Kansas caused showers throughout the Northwest and the Missouri and Mississippi valleys. Heavy rains fell over Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Hot weather continued Thursday in Central South Dakota, Colorado, Utah, Kansas and Southern states generally. Indications favor showery and warmer weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

GAME IS POSTPONED.

Eveleth Benedicts and Bachelors to Play Later.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A change of dates in the Trolley league baseball schedule has forced the Elks to postpone their game between the married and single members. The opposing sides will take advantage of the delay to get in some practice and when the game does come off, which likely will be the Sunday following, they will make the occasion all the more interesting. Already some good wagers have been made on the outcome of the game. The Mohami team will come here from Virginia Sunday for a game with the Eveleth Trolley league team.

SURPRISED EVELETH.

Marriage of Percival Pryor Proved News to Eveleth People.

Eveleth, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An item in a Duluth newspaper concerning Mr. and Mrs. Percival J. Pryor was the first intimation received in Eveleth by his friends or relatives that Percy had entered the rank of the benedicts, although it was reported a ceremony was performed somewhere either on the range or in Duluth July 3 that made Miss Sadie Kenworthy of Zim and Percival J. Pryor of Eveleth husband and wife. Since early in the spring Percy has been employed at Wakefield, Mich. He came home to spend the Fourth, so he said, but it now appears he had another errand. The young couple went back to Wakefield.

GRAND RAPIDS PAIR FOOL THEIR FRIENDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.) — Miss Mildred Shipman, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Shipman, and Leo J. Betz, all of this place, were quietly married in Bemidji Wednesday afternoon at 3 at the Presbyterian parsonage, Rev. Mr. White officiating. The young couple slipped away, fooling their friends.

NEW LOCOMOTIVES FOR D. W. & R. RY.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thirteen new locomotives built at the factories of the American Locomotive works will go into service on the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific about the first of September and will replace engines now in service which are the property of the Canadian Northern. The engines will be of the ten-wheel consolidated type equipped with superheating apparatus and will be among the finest in service on any road running into Virginia. They are about the same type as the 2100 series now in service on the Virginia division and will be a big addition to the motive power equipment of the D., W. & P.

SWEDISH LUTHERANS TO HAVE CONFERENCE.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conference meetings will be held in the Swedish Lutheran church, which has been closed for a number of months, Monday and Tuesday evenings. The conference on Monday evening will be in Swedish, and the subject of discussion will be "Can a Person Be Held Responsible for His Own Condemnation?" Rev. Dr. Krantz of Duluth will be the speaker of the evening. The services on Tuesday evening will be in English, and the speakers will be the Revs. Ryden and Thoren of Duluth. It is expected that a dozen clergymen will attend.

HIBBING TO FIGHT SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to Village Attorney Scott the village of Hibbing will fight the personal injury suit case brought by Anton Petrich and his wife. The case is the outgrowth of Mrs. Petrich having been hit and knocked down by a ball batted by a boy, who, it is alleged, was wrongfully playing baseball in the streets. They seek to recover $7,500 for injuries. Negligence on the part of the Hibbing policemen on duty will be charged.

EXTEND TIME TO FILE APPEAL BOND.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hughes allowed counsel for Joseph Backus additional time from Thursday in which to file appeal bond in the injunction against the city bond issue, as it developed the bond must be filed in St. Paul.

Joins City Attorney Morgan.

Virginia, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—James J. Giblin has been successful in passing the bar examination at St. Paul and has taken a position with the office of D. D. Morgan, city attorney. He will have charge of the city legal work during the absence of Mr. Morgan and family on a visit to Mr. Morgan's old home at Youngstown, Ohio, soon.

WONDERFUL HOW RESINOL CURED ITCHING HUMOR

New York, N. Y., May 19, 1913:—"I was taken with a terrible itching and burning in my hands. They would crack and bleed. I could not do my work. I had to walk the floors at night. I tried —— and —— but no relief, until I used Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment—then I could go to sleep. The Resinol treatment is something wonderful, for if you could see my hands, you would never think that they were ever sore—they are so nice and soft and I can do all my work now." (Signed) Mrs. Wm. Sutherland, 135 East 71st St.

For 18 years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for eczema, ringworm, pimples, dandruff, wounds, burns, sores and piles. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. Trial free; Dept. 5-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

ROAD TO BE BUILT.

Gilbert People Assured of Highway to Vermillon Road.

Gilbert, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. M. Campbell and Herman Bodas returned Tuesday from Duluth where they attended the meeting of the county commissioners. They were assured that the last link connecting Gilbert with the Vermilion road would be constructed at an early date. This will bring much farming territory immediately tributary to Gilbert and will also make the route from the territory tapped shorter to Virginia and Eveleth than over the present roundabout way.

GILBERT MAN DIES.

John Bronley Expires in Minneapolis From Blood Poisoning.

Gilbert, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word was received of the death of John B. Bronley, who was taken to Minneapolis to undergo an operation for blood poisoning brought on by an injury. Mr. Bronley was about 50 years of age and had resided in Gilbert for several years. He leaves a daughter and two sons, all living in Minneapolis. One son, John F. Bronley, was also a Gilbert resident for about five years, having been in the employ of the Oliver and Republic Iron & Steel company.

BURIED AT ISHPEMING.

Body of Gilbert Woman Taken There for Interment.

Gilbert, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The burial of Mrs. Louise Binney, wife of Capt. Joseph Binney of the Elba mine took place yesterday in the family burial plat at Ishpeming, Mich., her former home.

Mrs. Binney had been ailing for some time and was confined to her bed about two months ago, her death occuring Sunday morning, the immediate cause being heart trouble. Short services were held at the family residence Tuesday, Rev. George S. Turner officiating and Ed Helps of Eveleth, being funeral director. A large number of people attended the funeral and extended their sympathy to the bereaved family. Many large floral offerings were presented, among them being those from the Mining Captains' Association, from the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows and friends. Mrs. Binney was a woman of pleasing personality and made many friends. She leaves four children besides her husband to mourn her loss, also a sister, Mrs. George Argo, a brother, Rev. Mr. Stevens of Milwaukee, who arrived Monday and Joseph Binney, a nephew. All the relatives named accompanied the remains to Ishpeming for burial.

In the evening at the usual hour there will be a union meeting in the Presbyterian church. The subject will be, "Gallia, the Indifferent." There will be held union gospel meeting every Sunday afternoon at 3 and prayer meeting every Thursday evening as usual.

An attack of rheumatism does not guard the patient against a subsequent attack. On the contrary a person who has had rheumatism is more liable to be attacked than one who has not.

Thin blood is a condition always present in rheumatism. On the other hand rich, red blood resists rheumatism. Build up the blood and the rheumatic poisons will be driven out.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills begin at once to send purer, richer blood to nourish and soothe every muscle, every ligament and inflamed joint covering. Our new book, "Building Up the Blood" is free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, 50c per box, six for $2.50 or by the THROWN FROM BOX CAR.

Iron Range Switchman Has Close Call in Two Harbors Yards.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—George W. Wilkenson sistained a painful injury Tuesday while switching in the local Iron Range sorting yards. He climbed on a boxcar to release the hand brake and then started to walk to the center of the car and just as he was doing so the cars were coupled onto with more violence than necessary and Mr. Wilkenson lost his balance and was thrown off the top of the boxcar. He struck on his side on the deck of a russel log car and then fell to the ground. It is considered very fortunate that he escaped with so little injury and without even breaking a bone. He is now able to walk about, but it will be some time before he will be able to return to work.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF BLIND-PIGGING.

Hibbing, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accused with having operated a blind pig Mary Medich was arrested yesterday. WINONA PIRATES GRAB FIRST GAME OF SERIES

Visitors Come From Behind and Win By 9 to 3 Score.

Up to Fatal Eighth Duluth Had the Game Nicely Won.

(BY BRUCE.)

Wobblyitis seized us yesterday in the eighth inning and clamped the clammy hand of defeat upon our brave athletes. After triumph upon the road and visions of riding the prostrate form of our enemy in the dust of defeat, we collapsed in the eighth and the initial game went to the Corsairs by the count of 9 to 3.

Up to the eighth round the count remained true to us by the standing of 3 to 1. Our score was bunched in the third round and the one run of the Pirates was shoved over in an unguarded moment of the fifth.

Mr. P. Rhodes was serving up nice brenkers, the team was going nicely and everything seemed lovely. Then came the hideous eighth with its four runs and followed the equally nightmarey ninth with another four runs, and our goose was thoroughly basted and then artistically cooked.

The great Doc Miller was guilty of an inexcusable error in the eighth round, and Elmer Smith also helped the other side on to victory by playing a fly like a young lady newly beginning attempting to spear a high ball (tennis) with her left hand.

Aside from these comedy efforts, Percy was swatted hard, but saddest twin of it—had the two players in question got the two balls previously mentioned the side would have gone down in this inning scoreless.

All of this is mentioned simply because this pastime was one we wanted and was, moreover, gentle reader, one that looked like it belonged to us up to the time of the blowoff.

In the first the visitors got one hit, a double from the trusty bat of Archibald Cleveland Collins, the handsome and aristocratic looking left fielder of the visitors. Then the Davis gang went hitless and very grouchy to the fourth when Davis doubled. Two errors and Meyer's single gave the visitors their first and what we believed would be their only score in the fifth. No more hits until the eighth-blooie, blooie! Then quite enough.

With McGraw gone in the first O'Brien and Smith singled and then the next two men proved easy. Schreiber and Moll singled in the second and then Wilke, Rhodes and McGraw went down.

O'Brien Starts It.

With the veterans back from Gettysburg, the mind of Darby O'Brien is again on the game. He singled to start the third, and Smith and Milan beat out a bunt. Miller was perfectly safe when Bell kicked his offering around the dust in the immediate vicinity of the box. Menlece fouled out to Meyers and then Schreiber singled past second and two scores were in. Elmer Miller was run down between home and third when Schreiber drew a throw. Moll came through a minute later with a double, counting Schreiber with our last score of the game.

We might as well get through with it: Bell surprised a large number of people, including himself, by singling past second in the eighth. Connell hit out to Smith and that worthy misjudged the hit and it went for two bases. To prove that it was misjudged, it is only necessary to state that Connell never got a real two-base hit in his life. Murphy sacrifice flied to right and Bell was in. Archibald Cullington Collins, the handsome outfielder, hit to the great Miller and he promptly dropped the offering. Davis singled and Connell joined Brother Bell on the bench. Joe Fautsch sacrifice flied to McGraw and Archibald Collins was home. To play the thing safe Dvoldt hit one in the vicinity of the tin litterature in center field and one more run was in, Davis, the hardy old man, formerly of Pittsburg and Pawtucket, counting. Crooke went out O'Brien to Rhodes and the inning was over.

Schreiber doubled in our eighth and the other three failed to nick the delivery of Bell.

After Meyer had lofted to Smith in the ninth, Bell was hit on his wish bone. Connell walked, thus protecting his batting average. Murphy singled and Bell was in. Collins flied to the great Miller and Connell was in. Davis doubled, his fourth wop for the matinee, and Murphy crossed the little white square. Joe Fautsch, just to show that the manager of the team could not have all the glory and credit, doubled also, and old man Davis was home once more.

Wilke singled in our half of the ninth and was promptly forced at second by Percy Monahan, the man with the walk. That was all.

Mr. Connell played yesterday with a sponge in his mouth. He is one of the few players in the minors that perform thusly. The sponge serves to keep his throat dry and does not in the least interfere with his talking. It does seem, however, to affect his batting average. But Mr. Connell says that he is not expected to bat very much, as the other members of the team are doing the hitting.

Permit us to remark upon the shoestring catch starred in by Mr. Murphy, one of the catchers of the visitors. O'Brien hit one to right and Murphy came tearing in and then dived slightly in advance of the place the pellet was expected to light. He came up with the ball, and the grand old player was robbed of a hit he had counted upon. Life is filled with sorrows and disappointments.

Major Bob Unglaub's Minneapolis team will play here Saturday and Sunday.

RANGERS NEARLY WIN FROM SOX

Superior yesterday defeated Virginia at Hislop park by the count of 5 to 4, the lowly visitors giving the Red Sox a very bad scare in the final round. Rhoades busted a homer with two on, and the chances looked good for victory, but Chicken curbed the rashness of the rangers and another loss was recorded. Rube Waddell started for Virginia but left the game in the fifth round.

Winning Streak Broken.

New York, July 11.—Chicago broke New York's winning streak yesterday, the champions dropping a close game, 3 to 2. Prior to yesterday's game New York had won fourteen straight, while Mathewson was stopped yesterday after winning seven straight. The New York club announced yesterday that its 1912 pennant would be unfurled next Tuesday, July 15. Score:

Lose Eighth Straight.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 11.—Brooklyn lost its eighth straight game yesterday and dropped into the second division. The Cincinnatis kept up their heavy batting and knocked Rucker and Wagner off the mound, besides using up Hall and Kent. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	2	1—5	11	0

Reconstructed Team.

Philadelphia, July 11.—A reconstructed team of Philadelphia players, composed largely of substitutes, gave Pittsburg a hard battle here yesterday, but lost, 3 to 2. Chalmers was touched up for four hits in the first inning, but after that the visitors could not get a safety. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	1—2	10	2

Batteries—McQuillen and Simon; Chalmers and Howley, Killifer. Umpires—Brennan and Eason.

Boston Takes Series.

Boston, Mass., July 11.—Boston won its fourth straight game from St. Louis yesterday, 3 to 1. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Perdue and Harmon, with the former having the better of it, although the locals profited greatly by St. Louis' errors. The visitors' only run was made on Kopetchy's single and Evans' two-bagger. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0—1	6	3
Boston	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	x—3	8	1

Batteries—Harmon and Wingo; Perdue and Raridan. Umpires—Klem and Orth.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Yankees Finally Win.

Chicago, July 11.—Manager Frank Chance won his first game in Chicago yesterday as head of the American league club of New York, which defeated Chicago, 2 to 1. The run which won the game for the visitors was scored on a sacrifice fly by Rollie Zeider, the former utility infielder of the local club, who figured in the trade for Hal Chase. Hartsell and Pecklnpaugh singled and Knight was purposely walked. Zeider then flied to Collins and Hartsell then scored the winning run. Score:

									R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Warhop, McConnell and Smith; Russell and Schalk. Umpires—Evans and Sheridan.

Allows Two Hits.

St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—The pitching of Rube Foster was too much for the home team and Boston again won from St. Louis, 6 to 2. The young right hander did not give a hit up to the ninth inning in which the locals tallied their runs. Manager Stahl denied rumors coming from Boston that he and President McAleer of the club were at outs because of the slump of the champions and as the result of which one or the other would get out. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2—2	2	3

Batteries—Foster and Thomas; Baumgartner and Agnew. Umpires—Egan and Dineen.

Tigers Score Victory.

Detroit, Mich., July 11.—Although outhit yesterday, Detroit defeated Washington in a splendidly played game, 4 to 2. Hall pitched great ball, striking out ten men and giving only one pass. He made two wild pitches, one of which helped Washington to a tally. Hughes, for the visitors, was unsteady, especially in the first inning, when two of his bases on balls developed into runs. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
Detroit	3	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	x—4	5	0

Falkenberg Pitches.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 11.—Cleveland, with Cy Falkenberg on the mound, stopped Philadelphia's sensational march toward the American league pennant yesterday. Cleveland won, 4 to 1. The Athletics escaped a shutout in the ninth inning when McInnis singled and scored on Lapp's double. Falkenberg outpitched both Plank and Houck, holding his opponents to seven hits. Score:

									R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	1	1	0	0	0	0	2	x	—4	6	1

Batteries—Falkenberg and Carisch; Plank, Houck and Lapp. Umpires—McGreevy and Connolly.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Colonels Take Both.

Columbus, Ohio, July 11.—Louisville, by scores of 10 to 1 and 5 to 3, took yesterday's double-header from the Columbus club, that has won but one of its last nine games. Powell pitched splendidly in the first game, Burch's muff with two out in the ninth costing him a shutout. The score:

First game—

									R.	H.	E.
Louisville	0	1	1	0	0	0	8	0	0—10	13	1

Batteries—Eayers, Turner and Smith; Powell and Severold, Wheeler. Umpires—Westervelt and Irwin.

Second game—

									R.	H.	E.
Columbus	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	0	0—3	8	3
Louisville	0	1	0	0	0	4	0	0	0—5	8	1

Leaders Win Another.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—Young "Cy" Young, recently discarded by Minneapolis, pitched fine ball for the league leaders and they won an easy victory by a score of 7 to 1. Karger allowed only ten hits, but they were well bunched, especially in the first when singles by Randall and Lewis, a pass to Blackburne, Clark's triple and Scott's error gave the home club four runs. Clark's third base play was a feature. The score:

									R.	H.	E.
St. Paul	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—1	6	2

Batteries—Young and Hughes; Karger and James. Umpires—Murray and Connolly.

Win in Eighth.

Kansas City, Mo., July 11.—Nine runs scored by Minneapolis in the eighth swamped the local association team after Kansas City had started off with a lead of six in the first three innings and Minneapolis won, 12 to 6, breaking the locals' winning streak of seven straight games. The score:

									R.	H.	E.

Batteries—Gilligan, Mcgridge, Comstock and Smith; Covington, Morgan and Krichell. Umpires—O'Brien and Chill.

Indians Are Blanked.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—Indianapolis lost the third straight game to Toledo here yesterday, 5 to 0. James, for the visitors, allowed but three singles. Kirke, Toledo's left fielder, got a home run and three singles in four times at bat. In attempting to slide home, Catcher Livingston struck his head on the ground and was knocked unconscious. He was unable to continue in the game. The score:

									R.	H.	E.
Indianapolis	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0	8	2

Batteries—James and Krueger; Willis, Merz and Casey, Livingston. Umpires—Johnstone and Handiboe.

DULUTH BOAT CLUB'S BANTAM FOUR

VAN VREISEL, STROKE; SPERRY, 3; WILLIAMS, 2; STANLEY, BOW.

DULUTH TO HAVE CRACK CREWS AT THE REGATTA

Enthusiasm and more of it is being visibly and volubly expressed in the coming regatta. The great series of boat races will be held under the auspices of the Northwestern International Rowing association, and under the direct management of the Minnesota Boat club. The races will be rowed on the Mississippi, as the song goes, and will finish in front of the fine big clubhouse of the St. Paul organization. According to the general belief the regatta this season will be the best in years.

Duluth will enter a senior and junior eight, a junior, bantam and senior four, and a lapstreak four if this race is rowed at the regatta.

The senior eight is made up of most of the men who won the junior eight race at Winnipeg last July and then went to Peoria in August and gave the Winnipeg senior eight so close a race for the national championships, in addition to winning the national intermediate eight championship of the United States and Canada.

Kent, Thorburn, Beschenbosel, Lathrop, Quimby, Mahan and Grant rowed in the senior eight of last season. Thompson is the only man missing. Robbins, one of the men who sat in the winning eight of the Syracuse crew, will row at seven, and he is one of the best sweep men that Duluth has ever had at the club.

The junior eight is made up of the Moore brothers, P. Moore rowing in last season's champion bantam crew; Horak and Rheinberger, two of the other bantams, and Osman, a high school football star; Morrison, McNarry and Hoover. This eight has really shown wonderful form and is picked to give a great account of itself in the junior eight-oared race that will be rowed as the last event of the first day of the regatta.

There is the possibility that this crew may also enter the senior eight event of the second day, though this is not at all official as yet.

In the junior four boat there is Horak, D. Moore, Rheinberger and Phil Moore. This boat looks great. In workouts it has showed the qualities of last season's winning bantams and more finish and greater power. This is one of the crews that the hopes of the club will be banked upon.

It is believed that Kent, Robbins, Mahan and Quimby will compose the senior four. This should be a formidable quartet, though the boys have not had the advantage of rowing together a great deal as yet.

With these crews and the bright prospect of witnessing the greatest regatta in the history of the N. W. L. R. A., it is very probable that a large number of the club members and interested outsiders will take advantage of the special rates and make the trip to the regatta.

Today it was announced that the special looks altogether likely, and it is probable that there will be more than 100 enthusiastic followers of the crew making the trip to St. Paul.

BRONKS COME SATURDAY FOR THREE-GAME SERIES

Minneapolis, with Horace Leverett, Comedian Nick Allen, the great Bob Unglaub, the Handschu brothers, products of the state university, and Ray Patterson, the latest acquisition from the American association, will be the opponents of the White Sox, starting with the game of tomorrow. The Unglaubs will play three games with the Dooks.

Winona, Duluth, Superior and Minneapolis are bunched for the lead and every game counts. With Sherrin, Patterson, Leverett and Handschu as the twirlers, Unglaub has one of the best staffs of the league. Sherrin and Handschu have never been seen in action here. One of these men will work in one of the games with the Sox.

Dr. J. A. McCuen met Brackett at the train yesterday with an automobile and the injured pitcher was immediately taken to the office of the club official. After a careful examination Dr. McCuen announced that Brackett would be back in the game perhaps at the end of ten days. The injury is not as grave as first feared and it is not probable that the club will be without the services of Brack for the greater part of the remaining season.

Minneapolis will be battling us while Winona is playing a series of three games with Grand Forks. It's a cinch that the Unglaub people are more formidable than the Flickers, and we will have to go some to retain our present relative position with the Corsairs.

After Grand Forks the Pirates journey on to Winnipeg. Then the Davisites hop back to Virginia and play three games with the Rangers, which should prove pretty soft picking for the league leaders. St. Paul is here while Winona is at Winnipeg and we should take that time to climb. Winona returns here on July 21, 22 and 23 for three games, the three games here ending the swing around the circuit of the team that at the present time is playing some grand baseball.

It will be seen by the above statement of itinerary that the Corsairs, traveling at their present rate of progress, don't stand a very great chance of being torn down from their perch.

We neglected the opportunity yesterday, and with Superior and Duluth past the leaders of the procession have encountered two of the hardest propositions of their swing around the circuit.

Right here is where it might be a good place to show one of the worst moves that the Northern league has made since it started.

Winnipeg is the best baseball town in the league and one of the best in the country. Conrad released Charley Jones, or at least the fans around the circuit were given to understand that he did, because he stated "he could not afford to pay a man a huge salary who didn't produce results."

Well, Jones was signed by Winnipeg, and there was an immediate brace in the playing of that team. What was the result? It was simply that upon one of the pool days 10,000 people attended two baseball games at the Peg.

But no; this Conrad can't stand to see any one get away well. Jones is taken away from Winnipeg, because Conrad says he is the property of the St. Paul club. The result may possibly be a slump upon the part of the Peggers, and when a team slumps, it is a general rule that the attendance is liable to decrease.

As a baseless act, devoid of reason and one grain of common sense, the howl of Conrad strikes the limit.

Winnipeg has come through handsomely on all pool days, and then a man who wanted to take his team out of the league, who let his manager go because he couldn't afford to longer pay his salary, olaims ownership when Jones has just gotten the Peggers into their stride.

This is one stroke of fine business—'tis not.

FINALS IN RICH SWEEPSTAKES

Preliminaries Run Off on Thursday in $5,000 Grand Circuit Event.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 11.—As winner of the fastest of the three preliminaries of the $5,000 Tavern "steak," Dago F. naturally is the favorite in the finals of that event, which is the feature race of today's program. Eulabel and Amy were the winners of the other divisions, with Fan Patch, Castle Dome and Princess Louise second in each instance.

The championship trotting sweepstakes, in which the speediest trotters of the "Big ring" are entered, is the other big event of the closing day's races.

Anvil and Dudie Archdale, E. F. Geers, Memphis; Grace, Beau Ideal Stock farm, West Park, Ohio; King Brook, W. H. McCarthy, Terre Haute, Ind., and Ross B., J. H. Richford, Peoria, Ill., are the entries for the trotting feature of the meeting.

Anvil, Dudie Archdale and Ross B. share about equally the choice of the betting. Dudie Archdale was returned winner in the race in 1911.

The 2:09 trot and the 2:19 trot are the class races for today. Eva Cord and The Wanderer are expected to furnish a thrill for the spectators in the fast trot.

An exhibition by Uhlan, C. K. G. Billings' trotter, against his record to wagon of 2:00, was promised for today but the chilly breezes caused his owner to reconsider.

With apparent ease, Marigold, with Tommy Murphy driving, carried off the Ohio stake, yesterday's big event of the Grand circuit meeting, in straight heats. The stake, which is for 2:10 trotters, was worth $5,000.

The veteran "Pop" Geers, who until yesterday had not won a heat, took first in the championship pacing sweepstakes and the 2:15 trot. Stettbrino Lad, a strong favorite in the 2:14 pace, rapaid the confidence of his supporters by taking the event in straight heats. The real contest was between Ellsworth Boy and Isaac B. Rodney seemed to be able to land Stettbrino Lad in front with ease. In the third heat Murphy nosed out Isaac B. with Strathstorm and captured fourth money.

The biggest field that has faced the starter so far scored for the Ohio stake. A dozen horses were given the word for the first heat.

LITTLE FALLS EASY WINNER

Little Falls, Minn., July 11.—Little Falls defeated Glenwood on the local grounds Wednesday evening in the first of a two-game series, by the score of 12 to 2. Sullivan was on the rubber for Little Falls and held the visitors to four scattered hits. Keihn started on the mound for Glenwood and was found for twelve hits and ten runs in four innings after which Halbert took up the mound duties and held the locals to four hits and two runs.

The features of the game was the fielding of Harsted at short for the locals and a home run by Ahles, also of the locals.

Score by innings—
Little Falls .....2 0 2 6 2 0 0 0 x—12

Summary: Two-base hits—Sellseth. Three-base hits—Reque. Home runs—Ahles. Stolen bases—Krey, Brandell, Ahles, Qually, Sullivan. Sacrifice flies—Reque. Hit by pitcher—By Keihn, 1; by Sullivan, 2. Passed balls—Sellseth. Struck out—By Sullivan, 6; by Halbert, 6; by Keihn, 3. Base on balls—Off Sullivan, 3; off Keihn, 2; off Halbert, 1. Double plays—Reque to Harsted to Qually, Jenkinson to Peterson. Left on bases—Little Falls, 5; Glenwood, 4.

AVIATORS READY TO RESUME FLIGHT

Chicago, July 11.—Three aviators who were windbound with their flying boats in different ports along Lake Michigan yesterday were in readiness to resume the long cruise from Chicago to Detroit.

Beckwith Havens of Fishkill expected at Manistee and continue to lunch at Manistee and continue to Charlevoix where he intended to spend the night. Roy M. Francis of San Francisco, who broke a propeller when his machine rammed a log Wednesday evening, has made full repairs and is due to leave South Haven early today. He hoped to overtake Havens.

Walter E. Johnson of Bath, N. Y., whose machine was washed ashore near Robertsdale, Ind., in Tuesday's storm, said his engine was again in perfect condition. A strong wind which whipped up the waters of the lake on the east shore prevented him from getting away yesterday.

Glenn Martin of Los Angeles notified the Aero Club of Illinois to have its officials at the foot of Peck court early for the start. He declared that unless he has a strong wind against him he will establish a world's over water record by flying a nonstop 200 miles into Charlevoix.

Macatawa Park, Mich., July 11.—Aviator Beckwith Havens, who reached here Wednesday night in the Chicago-to-Detroit hydro-aeroplane cruise, had not left at 6 o'clock last night because of the high wind. Roy Francis is still at South Haven, awaiting a new propeller to replace the one broken Wednesday night when his boat struck a log.

Chicago, July 11.—A storm on Lake Michigan interfered with the plans of Glenn Martin and Walter Johnson to start yesterday to catch up with Havens and Francis in the Chicago-Detroit hydro-aeroplane cruise. Martin, whose machine has been reconstructed after an accident Monday, waited all day for the high waves to go down, but at dark, announced he would try to start tomorrow morning.

Johnson, who reached Robertsdale, Ind., was ready to start and planned to join Martin when he appeared off Robertsdale. Johnson will wait today for Martin.

JOHNSON'S DEPARTURE WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Chicago, July 11.—Assistant District Attorney Parkin, who had charge of the prosecution of Jack Johnson for violation of the Mann law, declared last night that nothing could be done at present to compel the forfeiture of Johnson's bonds.

The negro is under a $30,000 bond, which he signed personally for indictments on which he has not yet been tried. He is also under a bond of $15,000 signed by a real estate dealer, which gave him his freedom pending the hearing of his case.

"An investigation probably will be made by the department of justice to determine whether anyone instigated Johnson to make this move of leaving the country," said Mr. Parkin.

"If Johnson was induced to go by a second party, an attempt will be made to punish the offender."

Paris, July 11.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight prize fighter, accompanied by his wife and his nephew, arrived in Paris yesterday afternoon from the United States by way of Montreal. The pugilist drove to a number of hotels before he was able to find accommodations.

Johnson said he intended to make Paris his headquarters in the future, and that never on any account would he fight again in America. He added that he had arranged for a number of fights to take place in Europe in the autumn.

TENNIS SEMI-FINALS.

Nottingham, Eng., July 11.—Maurice E. McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett, representing the United States, were ready to meet Friedrich Wilhelm Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschroth, representing Germany in today's doubles tennis match in the semi-final round for the selection of challenger to meet England for the Dwight F. Davis International cup.

Folkes, Eng., July 11.—The second day's play in the Davis lawn tennis cup semi-final between Canadian and Belgian teams was by many English experts regarded as a foregone conclusion in the Canadians' favor after their fine showing of yesterday.

R. B. Powell and B. P. Schwengers of Canada were selected to meet A. G. Watson and W. H Du Vivier of Belgium in the doubles

Decides Against Protest.

New York, July 11.—President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league has refused to uphold the protest filed by the Chicago club in the game with St. Louis at Chicago on Sunday, July 6. President Lynch's findings yesterday states:

"This game was played under an agreement to stop play at 5 o'clock and was forfeited to the visiting club by Umpire Eason for the reason that the Chicago club employed tactics designed to delay the game."

Motor Cyclist Killed.

Macon, Ga., July 11.—Martin O'Brien, a local motorcyclist, was killed yesterday when the machine he rode in an amateur

SAY TRAIN IS TOO SLOW

Steel Plant Employes Want Assistant Conductor for Return Trip.

Claim Speed Is Held Down to Give Time for Collecting Fares.

Train service between West Duluth and the steel plant is said to be very unsatisfactory. The employees of the plant claim that in returning home the train crawls along at a very slow speed getting into West Duluth about a half hour late every evening owing to insufficient number of employes used in collecting the fares.

Recently the Northern Pacific Railroad company put on an assistant to the conductor on the train going to the plant. This was done on account of request made by the officials of the steel company, who claimed that the men were unable to get through the turnstiles at the company's gate in time to go to work at 7:15 a. m. This provision has enabled the train to arrive at the steel plant on schedule time.

The men now want a similar assistant on the returning night train. The train is now pulling eight coaches and between 600 and 700 men take it at the plant. In order to get all the fares from these passengers, they claim that the train is purposely being operated at slow speed.

"Although we quit work at 5:45 p. m. we are unable to get home until an hour and a half later," said one of the employes last night. "Many of the men are dissatisfied with this condition and this is especially true of the single men some of whom have threatened to quit unless better service is given. If the Northern Pacific will not give us the service we need, then the steel company should take some step to compel them to do so, if the company wishes to retain its employes. The company's officials did take some such step regarding the morning train because it brought the men into the grounds late but because the men travel home on their own time in the evening no attention appears to have been paid to this feature."

FROM QUEEN OF CARNIVAL TO CELL IN COUNTY JAIL

Two years ago she was Miss Dudie Dellborn, "queen of the carnival." She and her maids of honor rode in a chariot at the head of the big parade which featured the Fourth of July celebration for 1911 at West Duluth. She was happy as a 15-year-old girl could be, and why not, for she had a key to the city.

Today she is a wife and mother, charged with the crime of forgery. As Mrs. Dudie Trudeau, she was yesterday bound over to await the action of the September grand jury on a charge of having passed a forged check for $25 on a merchant at West Duluth, the offense being one of many, the police say.

She requested the county attorney's office today for an application to plead guilty to the charge on information. A hearing was to have been held at 11 o'clock, but none of the district court judges was available and the matter will go over until tomorrow.

Mrs. Trudeau became a wife a year ago and a mother four weeks ago. With her husband, she resides at the home of her mother on Wadena street. When she waived examination in police court yesterday afternoon, she was bound over to the grand jury but was released on her own recognizance.

As Dudie Dellborn, she secured the highest number of votes in the popularity contest and was elected queen of the West Duluth carnival which was showing in the western end of the city Fourth of July week two years ago.

According to the police, the young woman has forged a number of checks and passed them on various merchants in the city, particularly at West Duluth.

She is believed by the police to have passed worthless paper on Solberg & Bergland, West Duluth clothing merchants, the Twin Ports Trunk company and Mrs. Beaudin, an up-town milliner. She is also suspected of being the girl who passed bogus checks on S. W. Hill and J. J. Moe of the West end a short time ago.

MRS. DUDIE TRUDEAU.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO HOLD MEETING.

The West Duluth Commercial club will meet this evening at the club rooms, 319 North Central avenue. Considerable business is expected to come before the meeting owing to the club not having held a session for three weeks.

The principal subject will be that of highways. Members of the club will advocate that the club take active steps in urging the city to get the highway between West Duluth and New Duluth put in good shape so that traffic may be resumed over the road without difficulty and so that the street railway company may lay its rails.

The members will also discuss the progress being made in building the road to Proctor. The city recently authorized the payment of $500 for certain property required in getting the right-of-way.

SWITCH TOWER FOR CANADIAN NORTHERN.

A switch tower, which will cost about $6,000, will be erected by the Canadian Northern railroad at Forty-sixth avenue west. It will be one of the most modern towers of its kind in this section of the country. The work on its construction has already commenced.

The tower will be provided with a concrete basement into which the various rods and chains required in turning switches and converting signals will lead. The superstructure will be two stories high and built of brick. An iron stairway will be provided for reaching the upper story.

The tower is being built to handle all the switches required to connect the Canadian Northern railroad tracks with those of the Northern Pacific. It will also control every switch on the branch line running to the company's dock at the foot of Forty-eighth avenue. A train will be able to leave the main tracks near Forty-third avenue and be given set switches to the farthermost end of the dock from this tower.

Signal posts, warning trains for several blocks, will also be operated from the tower. The tower will do much to do away with the danger of any collision of trains on the two roads. Dhen in full working order it will control sixty-four switches and signal posts.

SHOE DEALERS PLAN PICNIC

Shoe dealers of Duluth and Superior and their families as well as the shoe clerks and their families will picnic on Sunday at Zenith Island. Arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd of people at the place and provisions have been made to take the shoe dealers to the island by boat leaving the Sixty-third avenue slip every half hour of the day.

The members of the committees in charge of the affair are: R. L. Biddin, P. Brooks, D. W. Smith and M. J. Buckwheat of this city, and C. O. Johnson, F. Green, W. Schiller and J. Mears of Superior.

A feature of the picnic will be a ball game between the local and Superior shoe dealers. Another game will also be played between the clerks of each city.

FISHERMEN MUST GET NEW PICTURE

Same Photograph of Big Catch Has Been Used for Three Years.

This isn't just an ordinary fish story; it's a really, truly, honest-to-goodness fish story.

Annually for the last three years The Herald has published a fish story to the effect that a party of prominent West Duluth fishermen, including Frank Wade, Andrew Carlson, Leon Chapman and Arthur Jacoby returned this morning from the most successful fishing trip of the year with the biggest and best catch which has been seen in West Duluth this summer. In addition to getting the longest string of pike, every one a whopper, which has been taken from the local waters this year, they also broke the record for the number and size of the sturgeon taken. The performance is all the more remarkable when it is known that it is most exceptional to catch sturgeon on a single line. All the members of the party were warm and loud in their praises of the excellent fishing which is to be had up the St. Louis this year. They declare that it is far and beyond any fishing which it has been their great pleasure to enjoy for years past. They went up yesterday and camped a short distance below Fond du Lac. The only complaint which they had to make was against the mosquitoes. Roundly did they condemn the pesky little biters. So bitter were their unpleasant recollections of the bump-raising stingers that one could sense their gorge rising as in vehement, picturesque phrases they recited that they almost—almost—ate them alive. Fortunately, however, a slight breeze was blowing. The gentle zephyrs were what saved them. Out on the river the mosquitoes did not bother them much, which enabled them to devote their undivided energies to hauling the finned beauties whose size are only feebly portrayed in the picture." The above story was always accompanied by a picture showing a tremendous catch.

Long has it been suspected that the fishermen have had a secret which they zealously guarded. When nobody else could get fish they have always been able to return with a string bigger and better than anybody else. Indisputable proof was always given by the picture.

Some have said that have a specially treated set of hooks. One expert has ventured the assertion that they magnetize the steel in such a manner that when the hooks are dropped into the deeps of the river the fish just can't help grabbing them, fighting with one another to get there first.

But alas and alas. T'isn't so at all. It's kind of a shame to tell it, but the secret is too good to keep. Did you say that the picture had a kind of a familiar look? Right-o. This is only the third year in a row which it has appeared. And some unkind soul has been so mean as to venture that the original string cost a five-spot of the good and lawful coin of the realm.

Isn't it awfully, awfully easy to come back with the record catch several summers one after another, now that you know how it's done? And don't you feel terribly sorry for the brave fishermen who will chance being almost eaten alive by the billions of mosquitoes which swarm the banks of the otherwise peaceful, picturesque and gently-flowing St. Louis, just below Fond du Lac?

Notice is hereby given the fishermen that they must get a new picture.

Plan Trip to Norway.

A number of West Duluth people are to leave the latter part of this month for a trip to Norway. They will be gone about three months and during their stay abroad will visit their former homes as well as other European points.

Among those who have made arrangements to leave are Mrs. Gust Holm and two children, Oscar and Hjordes, 421 North Central avenue; Mrs. Annie Dahl, and children, Arnold, Karl and Mary, of North Fifty-seventh avenue west and Mrs. Thomas Olsen and daughter, Ruth of 229 North Sixtieth avenue west.

Mrs. Nels Sorenson who has been visiting in Norway for the past three months and two children returned home today.

Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church will entertain tomorrow evening at a musical and literary program at Dormedy's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. Following the program the women will serve refreshments and also hold a sale of fancy articles. Mrs. John Rennell is in charge of the program.

Hunter-Olson.

Mrs. Almira Hunter and Charles Olson, both of the West end, were married last evening at the parsonage of the Central Baptist church. Rev. Milton Fish read the service. Mr. and Mrs Olson will make their home at 15 North Twentieth avenue west.

Masonic Picnic.

Masons of West Duluth will hold their annual picnic at Fairmont park on Saturday afternoon, July 26. The affair will be held jointly by Euclid Lodge No. 168, A. F. & A. M., and Euclid Chapter No. 56, Order of the Eastern Star.

A program of sports and entertainment is being arranged by the joint committee of the two lodges. The ladies of the chapter are taking care of the refreshment part, while the men's lodge will provide other forms of amusement.

Judge Harry W. Lanners is chairman of the joint committee. The other members are: J. O. Winton, James Medland, Andrew Dunleavy, Charles Futter, Mrs. J. D. Hoar, Mrs. Thomas Burnside, Mrs. George Murray and Charles Comfort.

IN WEST DULUTH COURT

James Kelley and James Alexander drew ten days each in the county jail when arraigned before Judge Lanners this morning. Kelley and Alexander were charged with trespass. They were said to have been trespassing on the property of the Northern Pacific Railroad company at New Duluth. The men took the jail sentence in default of a fine of $10 and costs.

Dave Jones acquired a load of "wet goods" larger than he could carry last night. He pleaded guilty to having been drunk and was fined $5 and costs or the alternative of five days in the county jail. He took the latter.

James Carr appeared this morning before Judge Lanners and pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He was fined $5 and costs. Sentence was suspended because this was his first offense, and he was placed on probation for a year.

COHALAN DECLARES HE WAS BLACKMAILED

Accused Judge Testifies Before Legislators at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., July 11.—Daniel F. Cohalan, one a Tammany sachem, friend and adviser of Charles F. Murphy, the present Tammany leader, and now a supreme court justice in New York, took the stand today before the legislative committee appointed to investigate charges that he had taken money for using his political influence to get city contracts for John A. Connolly of New York. The charges were brought by the grievance committee of the New York Bar association, of which Cohalan has been a member since 1904.

Justice Cohalan acknowledged that he had received some of the money which Connolly testified the Victor Heating company had paid him. Later the company brought action to recover $3,940. He settled the claim in full, although he denounced the action today as "blackmail and robbery" under the circumstances, he said.

"I now think I made the greatest mistake of my life."

DULUTHIANS IN LONG AUTO TRIP

Three Duluth men are in the long automobile trip which started today from Minneapolis to the Glacier National park.

They are Dr. J. D. Park, Victor Anneke and J. F. Stafford. A telegram was received today by H. J. Mullin from Dr. Park, which was as follows: "Arrived at St. Cloud safely. Have car No. 20. Perfect score to date. Roads bad because of heavy rains."

WATCHES THIEF ROB HUSBAND'S POCKETS

Minneapolis Woman Obeys Spouse's Order—Costs Him $50.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—While her husband lay quietly in bed early today, Mrs. Frank Wiltberger watched a burglar ransack the room and depart with $50 taken from Mr. Wiltberger's trousers. When Wiltberger awoke his wife told him of the robbery. He say that he had long ago warned his wife, should she ever discover a burglar in the house to remain perfectly quiet. She followed his instructions to the letter.

MOVING PERMITS ARE NOW READY.

In today's issue of the police bulletin Chief Troyer calls the attention of all the police officers to the new moving ordinance and the permits that are now ready for distribution. The notice follows in full: "Your attention is called to the fact that moving permits are now ready at police headquarters for any persons engaged in the business of moving household goods, baggage or other personal effects. All officers are instructed when they see persons moving to ascertain whether or not they are equipped with the proper permit. After moving companies have shown that they are using the permits it will of course not be necessary to stop every man you see transporting goods to ascertain whether or not he has a permit for that particular case; but wherever an officer suspects that a man might be transporting goods without a permit such an investigation should be made; and all persons attempting to transport goods for others without permits should be arrested; and any officer ascertaining that any person has transported goods for others without having secured a permit should report the fact to this office, so that a warrant may be issued for the offender. This applies to all persons transporting goods for hire, whether they are licensed or not."

SHORT WEEK SHOWS IN BANK RECEIPTS

New York, July 11.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say: The comparison of bank clearings this week is affected by the fact that only five days are included, against six in the same week in the two preceding years, so that the total at all leading cities in the United States amounts to only $2,198,667,869, and compares with $3,042,218,739 and $2,701,327,527 respectively for the corresponding weeks in 1912 and 1911, thus showing losses of 27.7 and 18.6 per cent. The falling off at New York is 32.4 per cent compared with last year, and 22.9 per cent as compared with two years ago, while the total of the outside cities is 18.6 per cent less than in 1912 and 12.6 per cent less than 1911.

ADVANCE OF SURGERY.

The steady advance in surgery in the treatment of wounds received in warfare is shown in the statistics of three wars. In the American Civil war the mortality of the wounded was 13.2 per cent, in the Franco-Prussian war, 11 per cent; in the Russo-Japanese war, 5 per cent.

SAYS HE LIKES TO SEE FIRES FOUGHT

Pittsburg Boy, 15 Years Old, Admits He Committed Arson.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Desire to be a hero and his fascination for watching firemen at work was the reason for his starting numerous fires given in the confession of Raymond Raab, aged 15, who is charged with arson. Raab enumerates the fires he started, one of them being the library office building, which was destroyed with a $50,000 loss last December.

Raab was arrested last night, and under severe questioning confessed. Yesterday, in the same apartment house he tried to destroy Tuesday, he ran an elevator to the sixth story, placed paper in the shaft on the greased upright guides, and after lighting these, called the fire department.

MURATORE.

Lucien Muratore, the chief tenor at the Paris opera, is to marry Lina Cavalieri. America had never heard him till he came to this country with the beautiful Lina last winter. Their joint concert tour was not a success financially or artistically. The American public did not like the quality of Muratore's voice and it found that Cavalieri's singing had gone off.

SAMARITANS PLAN PICNIC

Unique Program in Prospect for the Annual Outing.

The sixteenth annual picnic of the Modern Samaritans will be held at Lincoln park Thursday, Aug. 7. The local councils are sending invitations to all the members in the jurisdiction to participate as guests, and expect a large number of visitors. All kinds of entertainment will be furnished. The sports committee expects to put on an Indian war dance and will get some blanket Indians from the reservation to put on some of their games in competition with the members. The secretary has written to two of the warriors and expects to have them take part in a wrestling match. A prize will be given to the ugliest man on the grounds and the handsomest quarter-bred Indian baby. The committee is working on a novel program.

India's cotton crop is estimated at 4,397,000 bales of 400 pounds, the yield of 21,911000 acres.

HARRISON IS BOUND OVER

Alleged Swindler Held in $1,000 Bail for Grand Jury.

Adolph Hoffman Tells Story of Game By Which He Lost Money.

George Harrison, who Tuesday morning made a spectacular dash for liberty when brought up in municipal court on the charge of swindling Adolph and Arthur Hoffman of Pine City, Minn., out of $158 during the month of June, was this morning bound over to the fall term of the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

In his story to the court Adolph Hoffman, one of the brothers, who had been swindled out of $118, told of meeting Harrison at the union station on June 12.

"Harrison told me his name and I told him mine," said Hoffman. "When I told him I was from Pine City he said his uncle ran the drug store there. We talked quite a bit and after a short time went out on the street. While walking down Fifth avenue, toward the dock, we ran into a small man, wearing blue eyeglasses, who suggested that we all match coins. I refused and Harrison and this third man matched a couple of times.

"Then the third man went across the street to change a $20 bill preparatory to match coins. When he returned we went back of some boxes and there Harrison and this third man matched coins. I did not match at all, but they told me to take my money out and when I did, Harrison snatched it, slipped it to the third man, who ran away and then Harrison took me over to Superior, telling me not to say a word as the police would arrest us both for gambling.

"Harrison kept me in Superior till late at night and then told me it would be all right to return to Duluth, get my grip and go home. He bought my ticket to Pine City and even paid for the repair of my watch, which I had placed in a jewelry store earlier in the day. I left at 11:10 o'clock that night for Pine City."

According to his story, Hoffman met his brother at Pine City on June 24 and there learned that the latter also had been swindled in the same manner. Together they had lost $158 and they then resolved to return to Duluth and apprehend the swindlers, if possible. A week ago Tuesday they arrived here and immediately began their search. While Arthur was walking down Fifth avenue that morning he thought he saw one of the men who swindled him. He walked up to the man and told him to come to the station. The man pulled a knife and ran away. Arthur told his brother of the incident and the brother went to the Fifth avenue dock in the hope of meeting the man again. While there he saw Harrison and calling Officers Rickette and Monahan, had him arrested.

Both Hoffmans had been working near Cloquet during the spring and had come to Duluth on their way home. They live on a farm three mile from Pine City with their parents.

AERIAL BRIDGE OUT OF COMMISSION

The aerial bridge went out of commission shortly after noon today when one of the motors broke down. Men were put to work at once to find and repair the trouble. Commissioner Merritt, head of the utilities division, said this afternoon that if it is apparent that the trouble cannot be remedied in a reasonable time a boat will be chartered to transfer passengers acorss the canal.

THOMPSON GUILTY UNDER MANN LAW

Negro Is Convicted on All Counts in Chicago Court.

Chicago, July 11.—Convicted today on all counts in the "white slavery" indictments against him, George Thompson, the negro, who took a 15-year-old white girl from Indiana to Michigan to marry her, faces a long imprisonment and a heavy fine. A motion for a new trial will be heard on July 24.

Thompson is 44 years old. He claimed that he had taken the girl to Niles for the purpose of marrying her, at her suggestion. The maximum punishment on each indictment is five years imprisonment, or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Superior

Soldiers to Camp.

Company I, Third Wisconsin National Guard, will leave this evening for Camp Douglas, where it will join the other companies of the regiment for its annual ten days' camp. The company will leave at 8:15 o'clock. Capt. E. Rossiter will be in charge of the company.

Held on Gambling Charge.

Andrew Erickson, proprietor of a hotel known as the Superior Kitchen, was arrested yesterday on a charge of running a gambling house. He will appear in court tomorrow morning. The complaint was made by Charles Exness, who states that he lost money in the place.

Jailed for Assault.

Joe Kolancel drew a 90-day sentence in the workhouse yesterday afternoon as the result of an assault committed on Louis Schmidt, a local contractor. Kolancel is alleged to have badly beaten and scratched as well as torn the clothes of Schmidt. The assault is said to have been made in order to forcibly collect some money which Kolancel claimed was due him from the firm of Schmidt Bros.

BRYAN INSISTS ON OPIUM FIGHT FUND.

Washington, July 11.—Secretary Bryan told the house appropriations committee today that it was vitally important to appropriate $20,000 toward expenses of the international opium congress at The Hague. He declared the United States would be derelict in its fight for suppression of the opium evil if it did not appropriate for the participation in the conference.

FORBIDDEN TO SELL PROPERTY

District Court Issues Injunction Against Mr. and Mrs. Shea.

Under the penalty of being in contempt of court—a circumstance for which he once served a number of weeks in the county jail—Andrew James Shea, better known as "Jim" Shea is forbidden by an order of the district court from selling or anyway disposing of any property which may be held either in his own or his wife's name and not exempt under the bankruptcy laws.

At the instance of I. K. Lewis, trustee of Shea's bankrupt estate, Judge Bert Fesler yesterday issued an injunction against Shea and his wife, Mrs. Abbie A. Shea, which restrains them from selling any property which was at the time of Shea's adjudication in bankruptcy an asset of his estate, but which has since been transferred to his wife. Attorney Lewis, as trustee, is plaintiff in an action brought against Shea and his wife in district court in which he seeks the transfers annulled and the property assigned to him in order that claims against the bankrupt estate may be satisfied.

On Saturday last, the defendants, Shea and his wife, were cited to show cause, if any, why a temporary injunction should not issue pending the trial and final determination of the lawsuit started by Trustee Lewis, restraining them from in any way disposing of property owned by either of them. Mr. Lewis contended that unless the injunction were granted, the property would be assigned to a third party and a judgment against Shea would be ineffectual. Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell appeared as attorneys for the trustee and John B. Arnold and H. W. Dietrich for Shea and his wife. The court yesterday signed the order for the injunction, which ties the property up until the action comes to trial, and is determined.

The real fight in the case is between Attorney J. L. Washburn and Shea, his judgment debtor to the amount of several thousand dollars. The litigation started back in 1909 when Mr. Washburn obtained a judgment against him for $21,748. Shea, it is claimed, evaded the payment of the debt by going into bankruptcy after he had first assigned his property over to his wife. The case has been fought in the Federal courts and at one time went to the circuit court of appeals. At one stage of the fight, Shea was sent to jail until he paid over certain money to the bankruptcy court.

The present action is one in which it is sought to compel Mrs. Shea to transfer certain property to the estate, it being claimed that Shea assigned the property to his wife merely to defraud his creditors, chief among which is Mr. Washburn.

Among the property which the trustee wants turned over to the estate is the title to certain land in section 28, 51-14; a judgment of $20,332.83 against the Cedar Island Lake Iron company; 100,000 shares of the Cedar Island Lake Iron company's stock and other personal property and money.

Fewer But Better Horses.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fewer horses, but better horses, are owned by Grand Forks county farmers this year than last year, the change to higher grades of stock being reflected in the reports of assessors. These indicate that there are about 1,000 less horses owned in the state, but notwithstanding that fact, their total valuation is about 2 per cent greater than the total of last year.

TRUSTEES' SALE

I will sell at public sale, for cash, subject to the approval of the Court, all the stock of merchandise, accounts receivable, furniture and fixtures, and all other assets of the estate of the Park Rapids Co-Operative company.

ADMISSION 50c.

FEAR OUTBREAK IN CUBAN CAPITAL.

Havana, July 11.—Fear of popular excitement following the announcement of the indictment of Gen. Ernesto Asbert, governor of Havana province, for homicide in connection with the death of Gen. Armando Riva, chief of the Cuban national police, caused the government to take rigorous precautions against the possibility of an outbreak. The military guards of the city were largely increased and troops of cavalry patrolled the streets.

President Monocal today signed a decree suspending Gen. Asbert from his office as governor of Havana province.

OBITUARY

Aubrey Boucicault, actor and playwright, died in New York, July 10. Mr. Boucicault was a son of Dion Boucicault, a well known English actor, and was born in London in 1868.

C. A. Booth, 74 years old, for fifty years editor of the Monroe Sentinel, died at his home in Monroe, Wis., July 10. He is survived by a widow and five children. He was one of the best known Grand Army veterans of Wisconsin.

Dr. Davis Stewart of Sharon, Pa., a Gettysburg veteran, 71 years old, who was taken to the Harrisburg, Pa., hospital after the semi-centennial last week, died yesterday from shock due to a fall that broke his hip.

Jonkher Leonard Henri Ruijssenare, who was secretary of the International arbitration tribunal in 1911 and subsequently a member of the committee of the Carnegie foundation, died in The Hague, Netherlands, July 10. He was 63 years old, and had a brilliant career in diplomacy.

Burton E. Baker, inventor of X-ray tubes and other machines of that type, died at his home in Hartford, Conn., July 10, following an illness since last September, since which time no less than nine operations were performed in a vain effort to save his life. He virtually was a victim of constant exposure to the X-rays. Dr. F. H. Humphreys of London has come to this country several times to consult with Baker.

Edward M. Patch, one of the earliest settlers of Minneapolis, Minn., died July 10 at Portland, Or. Mr. Patch, who was 93 years old, moved to St. Anthony, now Minneapolis, in 1847.

Dr. Hugh Scott, founder of Chicago's first training school for nurses and a member of the Chicago board of health for four years, died at his home near Fond du Lac, Wis., July 11, aged 81. Dr. Scott was graduated from Edinburgh university in 1885. He practiced medicine in Chicago for twenty-six years.

NEW HAVEN ROAD IS BLAMED AGAIN.

Hartford, Conn., July 11.—The immediate cause of the fatal wreck at Stamford on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, June 12, was the "limited experience" of Engineer Charles J. Doherty in handling the big Pacific type of engine he was driving, in the opinion of the Connecticut public utilities commission in its report on the investigation of the wreck, made public today. This inexperience caused Doherty, the report says, to under-estimate the speed of his train in attempting to apply the brakes at Stamford.

The commission finds also that the railroad company was at fault in not having made proper precautions to see that a properly qualified engineer was placed on the train.

SHERIFF'S EXECUTION SALE—

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of and under the seal of the District Court of the State of Minnesota, in and for the Eleventh Judicial District and County of St. Louis, upon a judgment duly rendered in the Municipal Court of the City of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the twenty-ninth day of May, 1913, in an action therein, wherein Zenith Furnace Company was Plaintiff and Camiel De Caigny Defendant, in favor of said Plaintiff and against said Defendant for the sum of One Hundred Ten and 70-100 Dollars, a transcript of which said judgment was thereafter and upon the twenty-fifth day of June, 1913, duly filed and docketed in the office of the Clerk of said District Court in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, which said execution has to me, as Sheriff of said St. Louis County, been duly directed and delivered, I have levied upon and will sell at Public Auction to the highest cash bidder, at the Sheriff's Office in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County of St. Louis, on Saturday, the thirtieth day of August, 1913, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all right, title and interest that above named judgment debtor had in and to the real estate hereinafter described, on the twenty-fifth day of June, 1913, that being the date of the filing and docketing of said judgment as the Office of the Clerk of the District Court in and for said St. Louis County, Minnesota, or any interest therein, which said judgment debtor, Camiel De Caigny, has since that day acquired. The description of the property being as follows, to-wit:

DECLINES ALL ALONG LINE

Weather Favorable to Bears in Wheat and Flax.

Inactive Market as a Whole Decidedly Heavy Throughout.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 11.—The decline in wheat increased toward the close and the net losses were: July, ⅝c; September, 1c; July durum, ¼ct and September, ⅝c. Cash wheat is ½c under September.

Oats closed ⅝c under yesterday, corn closed 1⅛c off and rye and barley are unchanged.

September puts, 90½@90⅝c; calls, 91¼c.

Not a great deal of activity marked the course of wheat in the Duluth market's session today, and the weather map controlled the situation, the prices declining from the opening. The bullish government report prevented a heavy decline, but there was a gradual say, chiefly because of the fact that reports from the Northwest on both sides of the border, report good rains, cooler weather and satisfactory development of the crop; and because, also, of the continued light receipts. Despite the bullish government report there is a very decided weakness to the market, indicating some influence that cannot very well be measured.

July spring wheat did not start into business for some time after the market opened, and did not have an opening figure. Toward the end of the session it was quoted at ½c lower than yesterday's close. September was active from the start of proceedings. It opened unchanged but soon started to drop, the decline coming slowly, so that in the last hour of trading it was off only ½@c. Very little activity in durum put July down ⅛c and September ⅝c lower than yesterday's close.

Flax Falls Off.

Flax opened strong this morning on a heavy demand and for a time the price climbed. July opened at an advance of ⅛c and gained ½c over yesterday, and in September and October, both of which were unchanged, gains of ¼c were registered. As soon as orders were filled and the demand was withdrawn, a sag ensued and the close came with July ¼c off, and September and October each ½c under yesterday.

THE MARKET GOSSIP.

A wire from Aberdeen, S. D., says: "From Minneapolis to Milbank all crops are fine; to Wautay fair; Bristol to Groton, very poor, but show big improvement; west from Groton, much territory that looked like a total loss before rains now promises 8 to 10 bu. Oats poor; corn and flax excellent. Good rains today.

It is estimated that stocks on hand at the Head of the Lakes tomorrow night will show decreases as follows: Wheat, 700,000 bu; flax, 225,000 bu.

Modern Miller, St. Louis, says in its issue of today:

"The weather continues favorable for winter wheat harvest. Heavy rains and wind storms which prevailed over a small area did some damage to wheat in the shock, but this was nothing more than occurrs more or less every year. The cutting of the crop is about completed and threshing is well under way. The quality of the soft winter wheat is uniformly good, and hard wheat is turning out better than expected. The movement to market continues free, but it is evident that a further decline in price would cause a holding policy.

The following is from Fargo:

"The crops from here to Grand Forks by way of the Great Northern, judging from a car window, will perhaps, with favorable conditions from now on, make half a crop, but from Grand Forks to Minto we consider them almost a total failure. No amount of rain will make a crop, or will make a crop that will pay to harvest."

Broomhall's estimated wheat shipments for the week exclusive of North America, 5,200,000 bu against 6,584,000 bu last week. Of the total Europe will take about 4,500,000 bu. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom will aggregate about 4,000,000 bu. Total shipments last week 11,152,000 bu and last year, 9,376,000 bu. Broomhall predicts a good decrease on passage.

• • •

G. M. Lecount wires from Paynesville, Minn.: "From Pipestone here crop is spotted. Some fields show a good stand growth but generally stand is thin and uneven and straw is short. Everything is improving since the rains, however, and West Central Minnesota will have a fair crop. Some rye already harvested and early barley is turning yellow."

The Van Dusen-Harrington company has just issued another crop letter, which follows:

Grain crops in North Dakota have improved during the past week because of good rains followed by favorable temperatures.

In South Dakota the rains have bettered the prospects for wheat in the northern, eastern and southern parts of the state where conditions all along have been favorable for a fair crop. In the northern part of that section, in the central part of the state where the loss has been serious, our agents advise they may get a half crop. In the southern part of the damaged area the conditions are no better.

Crop conditions in Minnesota have been more nearly normal so far this season, than in the other two states, and they are better today than they were one week ago. We have some reports of rye cutting in southeastern and Southern Minnesota, some of which should be on the market in a week or ten days. Barley cutting has also been done in Southern Minnesota.

We cannot hope for better than an average wheat crop in the three states, and must have favorable weather to secure that.

Corn is the banner crop this year in all three states.

Local Forecaster.

‡—Not included in district averages.
‡—Maximum of yesterday, minimum of last night.
*—Highest yesterday.
†—Lowest for twenty-four hours, ending at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time.

Note—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average precipitations from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

New York Grain.

New York, July 11.—Close: Wheat—July, 96⅝c; September, 95⅝c; December, 98¾c.

Holiday in Liverpool.

Liverpool, July 11.—King George is visiting this city today and all the exchanges are closed. The cotton exchange will also be closed tomorrow.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 11.—Cotton showed continued irregularity during today's early trading, with near months influenced by the diminishing local stock. Business was not active enough to cause anything more than narrow fluctuations and after opening steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 3 points prices held within a range of 2 or 3 points.

Spot close: No. 1 quiet; middling uplands, 12.30; gulf, 12.55. Sales, 400 bales.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: July, 12.03; August, 12.05; September, 11.64; October, 11.42; November, 11.32; December, 11.34; January, 11.28; February, 11.29; March, 11.38; May, 11.40.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market is slightly better in tone, shipments being made to points in Northern Minnesota and Michigan of light draft and delivery horses. Mules and common classes were without call. Receipts comparatively light. Values as follows:

Drafters, extra	$180@240
Drafters, choice	135@180
Drafters, common to good	100@135
Farm horses and mares, extra	140@185

Barley—Receipts, 60 cars; year ago, 8; shipments, 50. Market steady; demand only fair. Prices unchanged.

Flour—Mills booked some good sales again today and the market was fairly active for this season. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 60,567 bbls.

Bran—Prices unchanged.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Easier Owing to Rains on Spring Crop.

Chicago, July 11.—General rains in the spring crop belt tended today to ease wheat. Holidays in Liverpool and Paris exerted a similar influence as of late much bullish activity has originated across the Atlantic. Besides there were favorable Harvest advices from Russia. The opening was the same as last night to ¼c off. September which started at 89c to 89⅛c, unchanged to ⅛c lower, declined to 88⅝@88¾c.

A further drop ensued, higher ocean freights having checked exports. The close was weak with September 1⅛c net lower at 88c.

Improved crop conditions made corn prices weak. September opened ¼c to ⅜c down to 61½c to 61⅝c and sagged to 61¼.

There was an additional setback later because of predicted showers. The close was weak at 60¼@60⅜c for September, a net loss of 1½@1⅝c.

Oats suffered from lack of support. September started ⅛@⅜c to ⅜c off at 40c to 40@40½c and fell to 39⅝c.

Steadiness of the hog market upheld provisions. First sales ranged from 5c lower to a like advance with September options as follows: Pork, $20.97½; lard, $11.75; ribs, $11.82½.

Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red, new, 88@89½c; No. 3 red, new, 87@87¾c; No. 2 hard, new, 88¾@89c; No. 2 hard, 89½@90c; No. 3 hard, 87@89c; No. 1 northern, 92½@93½c; No. 2 northern, 91@92c; No. 3 northern, 90@91c; No. 2 spring, 91@92c; No. 3 spring, 90@91c; No. 4 spring, 82@90c; velvet chaff, 89@93c; durum, 88@93c.

WALL STREET CLOSE HEAVY

Sales Are Few in Number But They Pull Prices Down.

Weakness in Bond Market Prevents Ready Absorption.

New York, July 11.—The course of stocks during the morning made it apparent that factors now bearing upon the market had spent their force. Although a sagging tendency was noticeable, declines were so small as to deprive the movement of significance, and traders expressed the opinion that little in the way of activity could be expected until some new influences were brought to bear. Continued uncertainty over tariff and currency legislation, threatened strikes of employes of Eastern railroads and disturbed conditions in Europe tend to discourage speculative ventures at this time. Large losses by the banks from sub-treasury operations and gold exports foreshadowed another unfavorable bank statement, which was reflected in stiffer rates for day to day accommodations. Call money opened higher at 2¼ per cent.

Bonds were easy.

The drift of prices was downward when trading began today. Reading, Lehigh and Erie were fractionally higher but the other active issues sold off. With the exception of Canadian Pacific, which declined nearly a point, losses were limited to small fractions. Chesapeake & Ohio at 51¼ and New York Central at 95⅝ touched new low records for the year.

Shorts showed no inclination to take advantage of the lower opening to obtain stocks, and when offerings became more abundant prices went still lower. Declines, however, were largely restricted to inconsiderable fractions, though there were unmistakable evidences of liquidation in a few shares.

Pressure against the copper group had its basis in a further decline in copper metal abroad because of unsatisfactory trade conditions arising from the Balkan disturbances. Smelting showed relatively more weakness than other leading stocks, but the whole list continued under the spell of light professional selling. Southern Pacific increased more than a point to 90⅝.

When the drive against Southern Pacific failed to provoke selling of the general list, bear pressure desisted, but the list showed little recuperative power, prices remaining at the lowest.

The market closed heavy. Weakness of government bonds and sales of large blocks of New York city issues at concessions, operated against any recovery in stocks. Sales were of inconsiderable amount but the market was unable to absorb even these except on a lower basis.

London Stocks.

London, July 11.—American securities opened steady and about unchanged. A decline followed, but most of the list advanced on covering before midday. The improvement was checked by the unfilled order statement of the steel corporation and fears of a labor trouble. During the rest of the session the trading was quiet and price changes were limited to small fractions. The closing was quiet and steady. Money was in good demand and discount rates easier.

CITY NOTICES.

ORDINANCE NO. 345.

An ORDINANCE GRANTING TO THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, THE RIGHT, PRIVILEGE AND AUTHORITY TO CONSTRUCT, LAY DOWN, MAINTAIN AND OPERATE A RAILWAY TRACK IN, OVER AND ALONG TRAVERSE STREET IN THE CITY OF DULUTH FROM FORTY-FIRST AVENUE WEST TO FORTY-FIFTH AVENUE WEST.

The City of Duluth Does Ordain:

Section 1. That there be and hereby is granted to Northern Pacific Railway company, a corporation of the state of Wisconsin, its successors and assigns, the right, privilege and authority to construct, lay down, maintain and operate, by steam or other motive power, and with engines and cars, a single spur railway track, the center line of which is described as follows: Beginning at a point on the main line of said Northern Pacific Railway company and the westerly line of Forty-first avenue west, thence running in a general southwesterly direction, crossing Traverse street and Forty-second avenue west, to the northeast corner of block 64, Oneota, according to the recorded plat thereof; thence westerly, on the southerly side of said Traverse street, crossing Forty-third and Forty-fourth avenues west, to the east line of Forty-fifth avenue west, all in the city of Duluth.

The work of the construction of said track shall be done in a workmanlike manner and said street shall be obstructed no more than is reasonably necessary, and, by the acceptance of this ordinance, as hereinafter provided, said railway company hereby agrees that upon the removal of said track, it will restore said streets and avenues, to the extent affected by this ordinance, to a condition satisfactory to the division of public works of the city of Duluth. And said railway company shall save and hold harmless said city from any and all damages by reason of the construction, maintenance and operation of said track in, upon and over said street and across said avenues.

Sec. 2. The said railway company shall, and by the acceptance of this ordinance does agree that it will, when directed to do so by the city of Duluth lay proper plank crossings over said track where such track crosses any of the avenues herein named, and that it will pay the proportionate cost to the city of Duluth of any and all street improvements on said Traverse street as to any property now or hereafter owned by said company on said Traverse street, between Forty-first and Forty-fifth avenues west, whether such property be used for railway purposes or any other purpose, and any and all assessments now or here after levied or assessed on said property for street improvements. Said company's proportionate share of such cost and the amount of such assessments shall be determined by the division of public works of the city of Duluth. All provisions of the city charter of the city of Duluth with respect to street improvements and assessments therefor, except as herein otherwise provided, shall apply to said property in all respects the same as if said property was not used for railway purposes or otherwise exempt from the payment of assessments for street improvements.

Sec. 3. The right granted by this franchise is temporary and shall be subject to revocation by the city of Duluth at any time, and such right shall be so exercised by said railway company as not to materially interfere with the improvement or use of the streets and avenues affected thereby, for public travel thereon.

Sec. 4. All existing ordinances granting to said Northern Pacific Railway company the right to maintain and operate a spur track upon said Traverse street, between said Forty-first and Forty-fifth avenues west, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. Before this ordinance shall become effective, said Northern Pacific Railway company shall file with the city clerk of said city its acceptance in writing, agreeing to the terms of this ordinance.

Sec. 6. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication and acceptance by said railway company as hereinbefore provided.

Passed June 30, 1913.
Approved July 2, 1913.
Attest: W. I. PRINCE, Mayor.
C. S. PALMER, Citly Clerk.

SENATE LOBBY HUNTERS QUIZ MULHALL AND HEAR ABOUT POLITICAL PLOTS

House Committee Gets Promise of Help From J. A. Emery.

Former Lobbyist Says Manufacturers Had Employe in Union's Office.

Tells of Helping Elect Aldrich—Paid Helpers $60 a Week.

Washington, July 12.—Under subpoenas to appear at the same hour before two separate congressional committees in session at distant ends of the capitol, Martin M. Mulhall, who is testifying as to the alleged "lobbying" activities of the National Association of Manufacturers, today faced a puzzling situation. The tangle was the result of a clash of authority between the senate and house investigators.

The senate body insisted that it had prior rights in the examination of Mulhall, who began his testimony last night. As the senate subpoena antedated that issue by the house committee, and the witness was in the custody of a senate deputy sergeant-at-arms, the upper house was in a position to enforce its ultimatum.

When the senate committee met it was provided with a mass of correspondence and documents dealing with the alleged "lobby" Mulhall charges was maintained by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Senate Got Witness.

Both committees met at 9 o'clock, but Mulhall and J. H. McMichael appeared at the senate committee room and were placed under guard of an assistant sergeant-at-arms.

The house committee, minus its expected witnesses, went into an executive session to plan further action. The senate committee, fearful of further attempts by the house to get hold of Mulhall or his voluminous "lobbying" correspondence, held a short executive session and issued ironclad instructions to the officers of the senate that any attempt by the house to take the witness must be resisted.

While the senate retired for its executive conference, three employes from the sergeant-at-arm's office, three senate clerks and a page boy kept guard over the original and duplicate papers on the committee table, and watched the witnesses to prevent the serving of any house subpoenas upon them.

Senator Reed called to a 10-year-old page boy:

"Here, boy, keep watch of those papers, and if anybody tries to get them, shoot him."

Emery Promises Help.

The house lobby committee, being unable to get Mulhall, held an open session at which James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of

RAILROAD MEN MEET TO RATIFY VOTES

Prediction Is Made That No Strike Will Be Called.

New York, July 12.—Union leaders representing 100,000 trainmen and conductors on forty-five Eastern railroads gathered in New York today to ratify the strike vote taken recently and to plan and submit to the roads on Monday next their ultimatum with reference to the 20 per cent wage increase which the roads have refused to grant.

The vote showed 94 per cent of the employes are in favor of enforcing their demands with a strike. Ratification of this today was to be purely perfunctory, but those who have followed the situation predict that, notwithstanding the unique stand taken by both sides, there will be no walkout. Some sort of Federal intervention is expected provided no basis for negotiations can be reached.

HAS AEROPLANE THAT CANNOT BE UPSET

Christopher Lake Invents Flyer With "Inherent Stability."

New York, July 12.—Christopher J. Lake, one of the inventors of the even-keel submarine boat used in the United States navy, has reported to the Aero Club of America that he and his son, Simon Lake, have evolved a type of aeroplane with "inherent stability." He declared that he had tested the new flyer at an altitude of sixty feet and found that when it was brought in an inverted position it easily recovered its balance and made a safe and easy descent.

"The machine has such great longitudinal stability that the weight of a man moving about the plane would upset the machine only to a small degree," he said. "I believe the day will come when men can walk about with absolute safety while flying in aeroplanes."

TRAMP SCHOONER SUNK BY STEAMER.

San Francisco, July 12.—The steel lumber steamer Francis H. Leggett, outward bound, early today crashed into the four-masted tramp schooner J. H. Lunsman, anchored off Quarantine, and sank her. Capt. Weithunat and the crew of the Lunsman were rescued. The Leggett was not damaged.

The Lunsman was just arrived from Australia with a cargo of coal. The vessel may be raised.

Seven Killed By Explosion.

Paris, July 12.—Seven men were killed and nine injured by a boiler explosion at Chatenay on the Seine this morning.

DENIED NEW TRIAL; IS IN DEATH HOUSE

CHARLES BECKER.

New York, July 12.—Charles Becker's application for a new trial on the charge of murdering the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, was denied by Supreme Court Justice Goff today. Counsel had sought to reopen the case on the ground of new evidence.

Justice Goff, who was the trial judge in the Becker case and in the case of the four gunmen, also convicted, in denying the plea, held that the former police lieutenant had had a fair trial before him. If relief comes to Becker now, it must be through the higher courts. For months he has been in the death house at Sing Sing.

ST. PAUL GETS THE TEACHERS

Chosen as N. E. A. Convention City After Stormy Session.

American Schools Are Criticized By Thomas J. Jones.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 12.—After a stormy session, St. Paul, Minn., was selected over Atlantic City, N. Y., as the 1904 convention city of the National Education association by the board of directors here today. The board also recommended that next year's board of directors name Oakland as the 1915 convention city.

With a general session in the Tabernacle last night, the fifty-first annual convention of the National Educational association and affiliated societies came to a close. Dr. Philip Swayne, president-elect, spoke briefly upon the program for the ensuing year. Thomas Jesse Jones of the United States bureau of education pleaded for more Democracy in education.

Critices Our Schools.

"While we have proclaimed belief in the education of all people with almost boastful pride," he said, "we have clung with blind tenacity to a form of education both traditional and aristocratic."

His theme was one upon which special emphasis was laid by speakers at department meetings during the day.

Speaking on "Morality and Wages," Irene E. McDermott of Pittsburg said that education must be looked to in order to increase efficiency so that employers would raise wages voluntarily. Education where a minimum wage would not.

The secondary department elected these officers:

Oliver S. Wescott, Chicago, president; I. M. Allen, Wichita, vice president; E. C. Roberts, Everett, Wash., secretary.

The music department elected Agnes Benson, Chicago, president; Lucy K. Cole, Seattle, vice president; Glenn H. Woods, St. Louis, secretary.

Departments Elect.

The department of special education elected the following officers:

Dr. H. M. Gressman, Plainsville, N. J., president; John B. Curtis, Chicago, vice president; W. A. Taylor, Godding, Idaho, secretary.

The physical department elected Baroness Rose Posse, Boston, president; W. J. Monlaw, University of Chicago, vice president; Orson Ryan, Midvale, Utah, secretary.

A new department, the class room teachers' department, was organized today and the following officers elected: Mary Raoser, Salt Lake, president; Mary O'Connor, Buffalo, vice president; Mrs. Mary H. Adkisson, Denver, secretary.

GRANDMOTHER GETS PERMISSION TO WED

New Wisconsin Law Makes Bother at Neenah Wedding.

Neenah, Wis., July 12.—The new Wisconsin marriage law providing that at least one of the contracting parties to every mariage must have the consent of one of the parents, caused trouble yesterday when Mrs. Elizabeth Schatzmann, 54 years old, a grandmother, sought to marry Fred Wellard of Appleton, 56 years old.

The local justice required that the new law be enforced, Mrs. Schatzmann brought her mother, Mrs. Philipina Thebe, 81 years old, into court to consent to the marriage.

RUSSIA TO BE PEACE MAKER

All Warring Balkan States Empower Her to Act.

Bad War News Is Kept From the Bulgarian People.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 12.—All the belligerents in the Balkan war have given Russia full power to find a way to end hostilities.

War News Suppressed.

Vienna, Austria, July 12.—A message from Sofia says that the populace of the Bulgarian capital is in ignorance of the actual military and political situation in the Balkans. The government has suspended the newspapers so as to prevent unfavorable news from spreading, while the war office continues to issue reports of the success of the Bulgarian armies in the field.

Until last evening the inhabitants of Sofia knew nothing of the action taken by Roumania, whose troops have crossed the Bulgarian frontier and occupied considerable territory.

Greeks Hold Seres.

Saloniki, July 12.—The Greek troops have fully occupied the town of Seres, recently in the hands of the Bulgarians, and martial law has been proclaimed there.

The number of Greek residents massacred by the Bulgarians before they left Seres was 200, including most of the prominent citizens.

JOHNS IS DETAINED FOR GIRL'S MURDER

District Attorney Accuses Him Despite Coroner's Findings.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 12.—Counsel representing Herbert Johns said today a writ of habeas corpus for his immediate release probably would be asked. Johns is in jail here in connection with the death of Alice Crispell, 18 years old, whose body was found in Harvey's lake last Monday. At a hearing last night before an alderman, Johns was held without bail.

There is friction between the coroner and the district attorney over the case. A jury sworn in by the coroner rendered a verdict exonerating Johns from any connection with the death of the girl. District Attorney J. H. Bigelow was dissatisfied with the verdict and successfully made out a prima facie case at last night's hearing.

Several witnesses testified last night that there had been much beer drinking on the night of July 4, and that both Johns and the girl had become ill.

TRIES TO HOLD UP FASHIONABLE HOTEL.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 12.—A masked bandit attempted to hold up the night clerk at a fashionable hotel at Manitou early today, shot and killed the night watchman and escaped to the hills. A posse is in pursuit.

Flying to Paris.

Johannisthal, Germany, July 12.—Edmond Audemars, the Swiss aviator who recently flew from Paris to Berlin, started on his return flight to Paris at 4:30 o'clock this morning. He made a landing at Hanover to obtain a fresh supply of fuel and resumed his journey at 8:05 a. m.

BIG DRAINAGE WORK PLANNED

Government to Survey Project for Reclaiming Red Lake Lands.

Secretary of Interior Lane May Come to Look Over Scheme.

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Halvor Steenerson was here this week making arrangements for a surveying party that will arrive here shortly from Washington, D. C., to commence surveying in the neighborhood of Red lake.

Last fall Congressman Steenerson and two companions went over the reservation and around Red lake to make a thorough inspection and investigation of the land and conditions in that locality with a view to securing some large drainage projects to render that country suitable for people to live in and farm. On the strength of this trip, Mr. Steenerson got congress to make an appropriation for a Federal drainage survey of the reservation lands in the vicinity of Red lake. This survey will be conducted by the department of the interior. Employes of the geological survey will do the work and a party is at this time being made up at Washington to commence operations as soon as all necessary arrangements can be made. The work will probably be in charge of Alfred P. Mead, who made a survey of Mud lake basin some years ago.

Object of Survey.

The object of this survey is to ascertain that these lands can be properly drained and made available for agricultural purposes. If this is found to be feasible, a bill will be introduced in the next session of congress for an appropriation to carry on the drainage work. The bill will also provide for other matters in connection with the reservation, such as the disposal of the matured pine, etc.

If this immense drainage project matures it will include the deepening of Red Lake river from the lake down to where the dam at this city backs water. It will also likely include the building of a lock at the outlet of Red lake to regulate the flow of water in the river so as to prevent the flooding of lands and insure a certain amount of water in the river at all times.

It has also been said that the war department will make a survey of Red lake with a view to locating harbors.

It is quite possible that Secretary of the Interior Lane and other officials from Washington will visit this country next September to look over the section in which it is proposed to carry on this work.

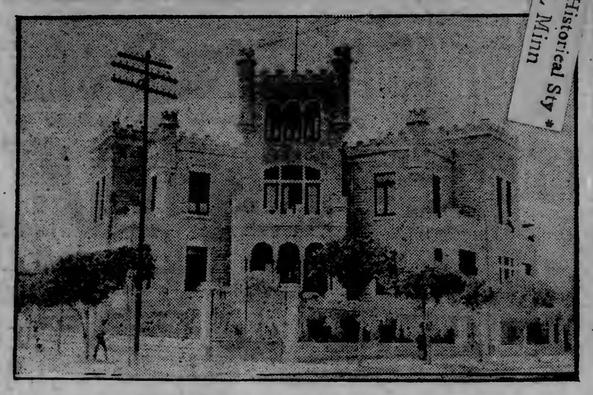

ONE LOAF OF BREAD WILL FEED HUNDREDS

New York Bakers Send Monster Product to Strikers.

Paterson, N. J., July 12.—The strikers of the Paterson silk mills received today a single loaf of bread which will suffice to feed several hundred of the destitute. The loaf is ten feet long and weighs 180 pounds. It was made by Local No. 100 of the bakers' union in New York, to carry in the parade of the union members yesterday in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the union. The loaf was so large that it was carried in a special wagon. A cake weighing 150 pounds, and a fifty-pound roll, which were other features of the parade, also were sent to the strikers here.

PERRY FLEET READY TO SAIL FROM ERIE

Vessels Will Visit Several Ports About the Great Lakes.

Erie, Pa., July 12.—In tow of the naval training ships Wolverine and Essex, the reconstructed Niagara, flagship of the fleet with which Perry won the battle of Put-in-Bay, is scheduled to leave Erie harbor today at sunset. Her departure will mark the close of a week of festivity, the first of a series of celebrations at ports of the Great Lakes in commemoration of Perry's victory.

According to the program as arranged by the Perry interstate centennial commission, Fairport, Ohio, is to be the first port of call, the little fleet being scheduled to reach there tomorrow morning. After a stay of ten days the ships will go to Lorain and Cleveland. The voyage is to extend to Lake Superior, and after many ports have been visited, the Niagara will return to Erie, her permanent home.

An industrial parade today will mark the close of the celebration here. One of the largest crowds since the celebration began is expected to witness it.

Took Woman's Home.

Sandusky, Ohio, July 12.—An appeal to President Wilson to ask Governor Cox of Ohio to investigate an alleged injustice being done Mrs. Mary L. Chapman in the appropriation of her home for a site of the national Perry memorial at Put-in-Bay, is made by Mrs. Chapman's brother, E. A. Foster. Foster sent a message to the president saying:

"Won't you kindly ask Governor Cox of Ohio to investigate what appears to be a wrong being done Mary L. Chapman of Put-in-Bay by the Perry Centennial commission? A nation's disgrace may be averted."

Mrs. Chapman was awarded a price of $7,000 for her land by an Ottawa county jury after the Perry centennial commission had condemned the land as a site for the memorial. She claims that she previously had refused an offer of $14,500 for the land. Her home is situated on it.

SHIPMENTS ARE REFUSED

Efforts Made to Compel Lake Lines to Accept Butter and Eggs.

Formal Complaint Has Been Filed With Interstate Commerce Commission.

Efforts to obtain the installation of refrigerator facilities on the lake boat lines for the transportation of butter, eggs and poultry, have been formally taken up with the interstate commerce commission by Bridgeman-Russell company and the traffic commission of the Commercial club.

The formal complaint has been filed at Washington and the date for a hearing is to be held soon.

The complaint alleges that the companies have repeatedly refused to accept shipments of butter, eggs and poultry and have declined to provide facilities for their shipment. It charges the belief of the complainant, the Bridgeman-Russell company, to be that the lake lines have adopted that attitude in pursuance of an agreement with their controlling rail lines to force the traffic over the all-rail route at a much higher rate than would be reasonable for lake and rail transportation.

Figures are given as to the production of eggs, butter and poultry in Minnesota, and the complaint alleges that a large volume of the production would move by lake and rail if facilities for its transportation were provided. It states that 80 per cent of the butter and 85 per cent of the eggs and poultry produced in the Northwest are available for shipment during the season of navigation, and fully 50 per cent of the entire production is now shipped to points in the East by the all-rail route.

The Eastern railroads are included as defendants in the complaint, on account of their control of the lake lines and because of the fact that they make joint rates with the lake lines for the transportation of merchandise.

The question of the transportation of butter, eggs and poultry is now before the interstate commerce commission in the form of a protest filed by the Bridgeman-Russell company against a tariff of the boat lines placing those products on the list of prohibited shipments. The tariffs were suspended and a hearing was held at Chicago last Tuesday before an examiner. No decision is expected before the close of the season of navigation and in the meantime the formal complaint will be pushed.

Members of the traffic commission of the Commercial club believe that if the action is successful and the lake lines are compelled to provide facilities for the shipment of butter, eggs and poultry, Duluth will become the greatest market for those products in the country outside of Chicago. The lower rates which would naturally be effective on the rail and lake route would divert a large part of the traffic now moving by the all-rail lines to this port for trans-shipment.

SERIOUS RIOTING OCCURS IN BELFAST

Factions Fight Each Other and Unite Against the Police.

Belfast, Ireland, July 12.—Somewhat serious rioting occurred here early this morning at the opening of the celebration of the "Twelfth," the Orangemen's July festival. Many windows were broken and a number of policemen and civilians were injured, two of them so severely that they had to be taken to a hospital.

Rival factions of Nationalists and Unionists first fought each other furiously, and then when a large body of police appeared and endeavored to separate them, joined forces and attacked the policemen.

The fight raged along the streets for over an hour and a half. Sticks were freely used by the civilians, who threw showers of stones accompanied by an occasional shot. The policemen drew their clubs and charged, and hand-to-hand fighting went on till about 5 o'clock, when the crowds dispersed. Only one arrest was made.

"INVASION OF MEXICO" IS CHARGED

United States Warship Is Said to Have Aided the Rebels.

Secretary Garrison Orders Demand for Release of Prisoners.

Chihuahua Reports Scarcity of Food, With Prices Rising.

Mexico City, July 12.—An anonymous letter containing threats to blow up the United States embassy was received by Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson today, and immediately referred to the Mexican foreign office for investigation.

Aroused by inflammatory articles in the papers, students left their class rooms to parade the streets in manifestation of their feeling toward the United States. Some of the students carried a banner with the inscription: "Mueren Los Yanquis"—"Death to the Yankees." There were also numerous small standards inscribed with derogatory sentiments.

A squad of police forced its way through the crowd as it gathered in front of the palace, wresting the banners from the students and dispersing the agitators.

President Huerta sent a message to them saying that if they wished to send a committee to him he would receive it, but he would sanction no demonstration.

Say Americans Aid Rebels.

Much space is devoted by the newspapers here to articles in support of charges that American citizens are aiding the rebels. Alleged specific instances are given, the material for which, in part at least, has been supplied from official sources.

Among the charges brought is one that an American warship at Guaymas threw its searchlights on the city during the recent fighting, thus enabling the rebels to take better aim.

El Pais makes the greatest display of these charges, which fill several columns. The newspaper insists that the house should recognize "the invasion of Mexico by America."

It is probable that the anti-American sentiment expressed in the press and by the public may become a subject of international discussion. The American ambassador is giving this matter his attention. The embassy has had some difficulty in transacting business with certain departments of the Mexican government, and recently the ambassador felt it necessary to demand the removal of one official because of what he regarded as his impertinent attitude.

Ambassador Wilson has made a full report to Washington on the anti-American articles.

Demands Release of Americans.

Washington, July 12.—Secretary Garrison has ordered Col. Edwin P. Brewer of the Fourteenth cavalry, at Fort McIntosh, Tex., to demand the release of five Americans together with 350 cattle and thirty horses held by Mexican revolutionists at Hidalgo, Mex. Secretary Bryan requested the action.

The attention of the state department was called to the imprisonment of the Americans and the seizure of their property, by Consul Garrett at Neuvo Laredo, Mex. When Consul Garrett demanded the release of his countrymen, the revolutionists told him they must await orders from Piedras Negras.

So great is the lawlessness around Tamapico that the better class of Mexicans have joined Americans in organizing vigilantes under commission of the Federal military governor of San Luis Potosi. Already fourteen bandits have been hanged.

Rebels Leave Chihuahua.

Chihuahua, July 12.—Rebels, who have been menacing this city for several weeks, have withdrawn. Divided into three columns, they have taken quarters at Aldama, Mapula and El Charco. Reliable estimates place their total strength at not more than 1,500. Unconfirmed reports reaching here are to the effect that Gen. Pasqual Orozco, with 100 Federal irregulars, reached Jiminez on Monday en route to relieve the Chihuahua garrison. It was also reported that the rebels have ceased operating the Parral branch of the National railroad. Parral is quiet, but its inhabitants still are at high tension.

Federals claim they have recruited 600 volunteers in this city. Provisions are scarce and command extraordinary prices.

GRAND DUKE LUDWIG IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Morganatic Wife Admits Faults Charged By Aged Husband.

Munich, Bavaria, July 12.—A decree of divorce was granted here today to the 82-year-old Duke Ludwig of Bavaria against his second morganatic wife, who when she was a ballet girl at the Bavarian court opera was known as Antonie Barth.

The court threw the entire blame for the quarrel on the wife, who admitted her fault. She is forty years younger than Duke Ludwig. They were married in 1892, after the death of the first morganatic wife, who was also an actress, of the name of Henrietta Meidal.

RAIN IS DOING SOME GOOD WORK, ANYWAY.

CITY PAYROLL INCREASING AT RATE OF $75,000 YEARLY

Would Alone Require an Additional Tax of 1½ Mills.

An Analysis of Some of the Reasons for the Increase.

Figures are frequently dry things but the stories which they tell are often vitally interesting.

As they pertain to the finances of a city they delve right into the heart of the body corporate. They appeal to every taxpayer inasmuch as they reach him on a tender spot, namely, his pocketbook.

At the meeting of the city commission last Monday afternoon Commissioner Hicken made the statement that the people might as well be informed now as any time that more money will be needed next year for the conduct of the city affairs.

For years past the finances of the city have been strained. They are in no better condition at the present time than they were before. From present indications they will not be any better next year. Demands for improvements which will cost large sums are coming from all directions. Undoubtedly many will have to be disappointed.

Expenses Increasing.

Expenses have been increasing at a rapid rate and not one of the smallest nor one of the slowest to increase has been the payroll. The payroll for June, 1913, was $58,111,41. The payroll for June, 1912, was $51,911.55. The difference shows that the increase of the roll of last month over the same month a year ago was $6,199.86. At that rate the increase in the payroll for a year would be $74,398.32. On a valuation of $50,000,000 it would require a tax of 1½ mills to meet that additional expense alone. June is a heavier month than some of the others, but that is as true of the June a year ago as of June this year. During June some employes were dropped but others have also been added.

The city is now paying Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health, $100 a month. He drops into the office for an hour or two a day. A liberal estimate is an average of an hour and a half a day, it being understood that he is not employed to give his whole time to the work.

In addition to that he has the title of registrar of births and deaths. For each birth and death which is certified by him to the state he gets 25 cents, in round numbers this amounts to $900 a year, or $75 a month. For this the health director does nothing, except, perhaps to sign his name to a receipt for the state's monthly stipend. The work of the registrar is done by a young woman clerk, however, who is paid $60 a month by the city, while the health director collects the fees. A legal opinion was given under the old charter that the health commissioner is legally entitled to the fees. Whether or not the same will hold true under the present charter has not been the subject of legal opinion.

The two bring the pay of the health director to approximately $175 a month. And for part of the work for which he collects compensation the city is paying a clerk $60 a month.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, medical inspector, is paid $125 a month for his work in the health department and $75 a month for his services as police surgeon, or $200 a month. Of this sum a raise of $50 was authorized by the commission. Dr. Murphy puts in his whole time for the city and no doubt exists that he fully earns all he is paid.

Two Physicians.

To the two physicians the city is thus paying in effect, $375 per month, not to mention the $60 per month for the clerk who takes care of the births and deaths for which Dr. Webster gets an average of $75 a month. This is the fault of the old system of conducting the health department which has not been changed by the commissioners.

Taken the year through the staff of the health department will average forty persons and the annual payroll will run about $30,000. A business which has a payroll of $30,000 a year is quite an institution by itself and it is not a rash assertion to venture that the head of a business of that magnitude would get better results and increase its efficiency if he devoted all his attention to it instead of handling it as a sideline in connection with his regular practice.

Since last June some salaries were increased by the old council. The trend has been upward and generally speaking the commission has continued the boosting policy, although barely three months old. Raises and new positions have been recommended by individual commissioners and approved by the council as a whole, but at no meeting thus far has there been any general discussion of any policy to be followed in this regard. As far as the commission has gone the development has been along the lines of one-man power in each division and not government by the commission as a whole, only partially illustrated by the salary proposition. Of course, the payroll cannot help but be higher with each of five commissioners, the attorney and the assessor drawing $4,000 a year, or an aggregate of $2,333.33 a month, but that still leaves a difference of about $3,900 a month. No comparisons of salaries and no comparative statements of expenses have been asked for or discussed by the commission while most of the time only casual references have been made to the actual condition of any of the funds.

The Increases.

An idea of the increase in the more important of the department payrolls for June, 1913, over June, 1912, may be gained from the following:

Department.	June 1912	June 1913
City officers	$2,935.83	$ 4,133.32
Aerial bridge	345.50	437.70
Water and light, maintenance	3,363.08	3,920.37
Water and light, office	5,275.00	5,548.38
Engineer	1,856.00	2,363.83
Health department contagious diseases	1,093.30	1,326.00
Health department, office	1,548	1,607.02
Public works, maintenance	9,862.82	12,519.21
Park	3,041.50	3,244.21

Health Department.

Since the inauguration of the commission no material changes have been made in the organization of the health department, which is included in the safety division under the direction of Commissioner Hicken. The efficiency may have been somewhat improved but the old plan has been continued. Under the old form of government the health department was not considered to be producing the best results for the money expended, great as was, and is, the urgent request of the department for more money to further extend activities which are recognized as necessary.

Incidentally the pay roll for the health department for last month is $291.72 greater than it was in June a year ago. At that rate the increase is $3,500 a year. Two inspectors less are employed this month than in June. They were on the regular health department pay roll, which is liable to be variable and which does not show much of an increase. The contagious disease pay roll, has but one more name on the list, but shows an increase of $232.70, or $2,792.40 a year. The extra name is that of the assistant plumbing inspector, who was hired under the old regime at $100 a month. The attention of the council was not called to the creation of the new position nor to certain raises in the health department, as has been customary, and they were approved in the resolution annually passed by the council fixing salaries of city employes. A casual examination of the daily report filed by the assistant plumbing inspector does not indicate that he overworks himself, but spends a lot of time "returning from such-and-such-a-place," or "at the office." And the inspections and tests must be long-winded affairs, judging from the few which are made each day. There is nothing to explain why the assistant plumbing inspector should be at the office so much when the inspector puts in so much of his time there himself. The assertion has been made by those who should be familiar with the situation that the two plumbing inspectors do not accomplish much more than one did before and that the purpose for which the second man was added has not been attained.

Cover Same Ground.

Examinations of other daily reports show that variously-labeled inspectors often cover practically the same territory at different times. To intelligently read the reports and so, to lay out and apportion the work that a degree of efficiency warranting the salary expenditure will be reached requires more than an hour or two spent haphazardly in an office each day.

Somewhat similar analysis of other departments in the city might bring as good or better results than are now being obtained, for the same or less money. The commission has only been in office three months, however, and before the year is over it may have things on a better and more efficient working basis, more satisfactory to themselves as well as to the public.

BIG DAMAGES FOR TIMBER TRESPASS

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—The largest verdict in the history of the state in a timber trespass case was affirmed by the Minnesota supreme court yesterday and as a result suit probably will be instituted at once by the state against the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company for treble damages for 792,782 feet of timber, alleged to have been unlawfully cut in the course of the transaction involving the present case. The verdict was for $14,756.33 and $306.38 interest.

In December, 1903, the Brooks-Scanlon company purchased the timber at a public sale on certain state property in St. Louis county. Simon Clark, surveyor general of logs and lumber for the Duluth district in 1905 reported the scale showed 5,036,930 feet had been cut and the company paid $28,397.37 at $7 per 1,000.

In 1908, one W. E. Stack, formerly in the employ of the company, reported to the state auditor that more timber had been cut than was paid for.

Result Is Ordered.

He ordered a re-scale under the law and the scalers found, by what is known as a "top and stump" scale, that 7,927,820 feet had been cut. Of this amount 792,782 was of timber less than eight inches thick, to which the company was not entitled by the terms of its original contract.

The lower court deducted this amount from the total excess found in the re-scale and gave the state judgment for 2,108,048 feet at $7 per 1,000. The supreme court affirms this in an opinion written by Chief Justice Brown. The law provides that treble damages must be paid for timber unlawfully cut. In the case of that eight inches in thickness, and the state will bring suit separately on this item.

FIRE HORSES WILL HAUL GARBAGE

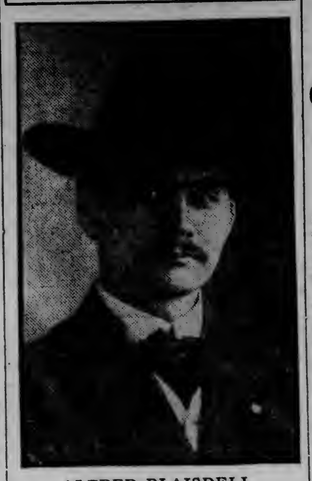

Commissioner Hicken and Dr. H. E. Webster, health director, hope to have the new garbage wagon which arrived several days ago in commission early next week.

Arrangements are now being made to secure a team of horses from the fire department, which are no longer fit for the strenuous service required in that line of work. The driver will be given special instructions to watch them so that they will not respond to long training and dash down the street when fire apparatus comes along in response to an alarm. The old cart is being fitted with a pair of trucks and will be started as soon as possible. The new wagon will probably go to the West end but the location of the third has not yet been determined. The garbage collection is now on a fee basis which makes the service self-sustaining, not causing any additional expense to the city.

Big Dental Clinic.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—The annual convention of the National Dental association closed here last night with a public clinic attended by 1,000 dentists and scores of patients, who offered themselves for treatment. Fifty authorities on dental subjects conducted the clinic, which was said to have been the largest in the history of the association.

NORTH DAKOTAN WILL LOCATE IN MONTANA

ALFRED BLAISDELL.

Minot, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alfred Blaisdell, former secretary of state of North Dakota, will leave the state soon for another field. He anticipates locating in Montana but has not chosen any city yet. Mr. Blaisdell served as secretary two terms, and was twice a candidate for United States congressman from the state.

HAD BAND TO THEMSELVES

Oarsmen Only Guests at Lark o' the Lake Program.

Oarsmen and then some more oarsmen last evening danced the turkey trot and Tango to the tune of a lonesome band and the wail of the wind.

A. T. Banning, Jr., is enthusiastic and persistent—also, he has some stubbornness in his makeup.

When it rained, continued to rain and then rained some more, yesterday he grew determined. "I'll run off this Lark o' the Lake concert tonight if there is no one there but the band and little me," he declared. And then he made good on the proposition.

The oarsmen, be it known, sleep over at the club so they couldn't help being among those present. The band was paid to come, therefore it has a legitimate excuse. Young Mr. Banning had promised that he would run off the contest, and he was making good. That accounts for his presence. This is a sketch of the plot.

Well the band struck up a lilting tune and then it struck up another one. No one came. The oarsmen, besweatered and attired in mackinaws, drifted in, attracted by the music as moths and other "bugs" are attracted by the light.

Oarsmen are jolly and jovial cusses, having lots to eat, etc., and the boys joined arms and danced the turkey trot, the bunny bug, the Texas Tommy, the Boston, Tango and others—others that are tabooed upon more auspicious occasions. But there were no ladies present so it didn't matter.

But, anyway, Mr. Banning had his way and he led the concert, thus showing that as a promoter he is a man of determination and one who balks not at mere obstacles such as a deluge and harsh winds.

According to Mr. Banning, a good time was had by all.

Jack, the boatman, said it was a great program.

NO REFUNDS FOR FORTUNE TELLERS

Clad in their characteristic loose garments of flaming red, the three fortune tellers whose licenses were revoked at a meeting of the council the early part of the week, appeared at the city hall this morning to ask for the return of the unused part of the licenses. Each of them paid $50 for the privilege of forecasting the future for the credulous.

They waited about the hall until noon but were not successful in their quest. When the council revoked their licenses no provision was made for returning any of the license money to the licensees. The commission is opposed to allowing persons of that kind to operate in the city and it is probable that the ordinance authorizing the issuance of licenses to them will be repealed or so amended that they will be effectively barred from the city.

ELECTRICAL STORM DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Leavenworth, Kan., July 12.—Three persons were injured and much property damaged by a severe wind storm that visited this vicinity last night. Lightning struck the library building at the National Soldiers' home near here, damaging the building considerably.

Seeks Shelter; Killed.

Lees Summit, Mo., July 12.—Mrs. F. C. Waters, was killed and her two children were seriously injured when lightning struck a barn in which they had taken refuge on a farm near here during a storm.

Several Buildings Struck.

Kansas City, Mo., July 12.—Several buildings were struck by lightning when a rain, hail and electric storm struck here late yesterday. Lightning struck the Twelfth street bridge across the Kaw river and cut off all electric lights in the Argentine district of Kansas City, Kan. The bridge caught fire on the Kansas side and the approach was damaged slightly.

Part of Morgan's Holdings.

New York, July 12.—A partial list of the late J. P. Morgan's enormous stock and bond holdings was made public here when the executors of the estate applied for the transfer from the state comptroller to themselves of about 100 lots of various securities. Among these appears only one share of United States Steel, a preferred certificate worth today about $104, and two shares each of Northern Pacific and Illinois Central. The more imposing items are 2,188 shares of New York, New Haven & Hartford stock and 6,200 Southern Railway common. Incidentally, it is not stated that the present list comprises the decedents' full holdings in any specified security.

HALL URGES QUICK ACTION

Claims for Refunds Must Be Made to Interstate Commerce Commission.

Every claim made under the supreme court decision in the Minnesota rate case for refunds on shipments made between Duluth and other Minnesota points must be submitted to the interstate commerce commission.

Also every day marked off the calendar decreases the volume of the claims, and those who expect to obtain refunds must take action immediately to protect themselves.

The importance of filing claims immediately with the interstate commerce commission was pointed out today by G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the interstate commerce commission.

The same condition does not apply as to claims for refunds on shipments between other points in Minnesota, but all business between Duluth and other Minnesota points, except on the two iron range railroads, is interstate and comes under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. The interstate commerce act provides that claims for refunds must be filed with the commission within two years of the time at which the claim accrues. Consequently all claims on shipments made between July 1, 1911, and the date on which the old rates were restored following the Sanborn decision, and July 12, 1911, are already outlawed and every day adds to the number.

The mere filing of a claim with the interstate commerce commission stops the running of the statute of limitations, so the course to be followed afterward is not the most important point at present. The filing of the claims is the first essential.

When the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission first ordered the Minnesota rates into effect, the railroads voluntarily extended them to Duluth, although the Minnesota commission could not have enforced an order to that effect. After the Sanborn decision, the old rates between Duluth and other points in Minnesota were restored and undoubtedly the refund will be paid on shipments made during the last two years. However the railroads have no authority to make the refunds unless ordered to do so by the interstate commerce commission, or they would be in violation of the interstate commerce act.

"People holding freight bills for shipments to Duluth from other points in Minnesota or to other points from Duluth should make up their claims and present them to the interstate commerce commission immediately," said Mr. Hall today. "Every day is valuable, as claims not filed within two years are outlawed. The filing of the claims to stop the operation of the statute of limitations is the important thing now. Other steps necessary may be taken after the claims are filed.

"The traffic commission stands ready to furnish blanks and information for the filing of claims to anybody, whether members of the Commercial club or not."

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CONRAD HAS HAD ENOUGH

St. Paul Magnate Is Ready to Drop Out of Northern.

President John Burmeister of the Northern league today wired H. A. Blume, president of the Duluth Baseball association, that Conrad was ready to quit at St. Paul and that league action was necessary for the transfer of the team to LaCrosse. Burmeister asked that the magnates give a mail vote on the proposition of the transfer of the team. President Blume refused to accede to this, stating that there are some very important matters to consider and that he would, for one, insist that there be a regular meeting of the directors of the league.

There is some talk of extending the schedule until Sept. 8 and also of dividing the season in two; in other words, of starting a new race.

President Blume and the directors of the Duluth Baseball association will strenuously oppose any such move. It is generally believed that the local club directors will be supported in this contention by Winona, Minneapolis, Winnipeg and Superior.

St. Paul, Virginia and another club may favor the beginning of the season anew, but the idea is not at all relished by the clubs that have been up in the fight and have an excellent chance at the present time to jump into the lead.

It is very probable that there will be a meeting of the directors of the league called for sometime the present week.

BRADY WINS AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., July 12.—Jimmy Brady had a big advantage over "Kid" Barrick of Boston, in a twelve round bout here last night. Brady had fought nine times here in the past year, beating all his opponents and claiming the featherweight and lightweight championship of Canada.

JACKSON AND M'DONALD

Chicago, July 12.—Joe Jackson, leading the American league batters with an average of .406, has made 108 base hits so far this season, according to the unofficial figures published today. Tris Speaker, the Boston slugger, has 104 hits, but his average of .378 places him third in rank, Cobb being next to Jackson with .396. Cobb has played in fewer games than Jackson or Speaker. Caldwell, New York, ranks fourth in the American league with .375; Eddie Collins, Philadelphia, is fifth, with .355; Henriksen, Boston, is sixth with .351.

C. McDonald, the Boston third baseman, is far out in front in the National league with an average of .422. Earl Yingling, the Brooklyn pitcher, is second with .409 in sixteen games. Crandall, New York, with .353; Cravath, Philadelphia, with .347; Hyatt, Pittsburg, with .340, and Daubert, Brooklyn, with .345, round out the first half dozen in the older league.

"Home Run" Baker of Philadelphia leads the American leaguers in number of round-trip hits with eight. The same number is credited to Cravath and Luderus, Philadelphia, leaders in the National, among the home run hitters.

Stolen bases credited to Milan, Washington, now number 46. Moeller, Washington, is next in the American league, with 32. R. Meyers of Boston leads the National's base stealers with 26. Lobert, Philadelphia, and Marsans, Cincinnati, are next with 22 each.

JOHNSON DROPS OUT OF RACE

Chicago, July 12.—Walter E. Johnson of New York abandoned the hydro-aeroplane race to Detroit today after an unsuccessful attempt to get a new start from Robertsdale, Ind., where he has been delayed for three days. Only three flyers remain in the contest—Roy M. Francis and Beckwith Havens, who were at Pentwater, Mich., and Glenn Martin, who was at Lake Harbor, Mich., at the last report.

Just as the sun was coming up this morning, Johnson launched his craft into the lake and started his engine at full speed. Headed right into the face of the rising sun, he failed to notice a piece of floating wreckage which obstructed the flying boat's path and one of the pontoons hit it before Johnson had attained sufficient velocity to rise into the air.

Two of the water-tight compartments were punctured and rapidly filled with water. Johnson immediately headed about and returned to the beach. He had no facilities for making the necessary repairs and decided it was useless to attempt to continue the race.

THREE WANT GARY SALOONS

A general rush is developing to secure a transfer of a saloon license to Gary.

Last Monday C. N. Inforzato again put in his application for a permit to sell intoxicants at 1504 Commonwealth avenue. He wants a transfer from Charles Peterson at 513 West Michigan street. Joseph Sharabon wants a transfer from 415 West Michigan street to 1504 Commonwealth avenue. It is stated that John Orlich of Gary will ask for a transfer of W. F. McDonald's license on Lake avenue south to the same number on Commonwealth avenue.

None of the applications will be acted upon at the meeting to be held next Monday afternoon, but they will come up at later meetings. When Inforzato made his first application the council refused to grant the transfer by a vote of 3 to 2, Commissioner Hicken and Mayor Prince alone voting for the resolution. The others voted against it on the representation of New Duluth residents that the sentiment of the community is almost unanimous against having another saloon placed in their suburb.

The meeting Monday promises to be quiet, as thus far only routine business is scheduled for transaction. Another petition will be presented to have Raleigh street opened from Fiftieth avenue west to Central avenue, a distance of five blocks. It is stated that the street would give needed access to the mills and manufacturing establishments in that part of West Duluth. The effort which was made some time ago to have the street opened was unsuccessful. A number of appropriations of a lesser character will be advanced.

WEST DULUTH W. C. T. U. PREPARES ITS PROGRAM FOR COMING YEAR

The West Duluth Women's Christian Temperance union will hold nineteen meetings during the season of 1913-1914, according to the calendar now in the hands of the printer. The program has just been completed by the general committee and will be ready for distribution on the day of the picnic next Thursday.

One of the features in making out the program is that three of the meetings will be held at the West Duluth public library. In former years the organization has been unable to hold its meetings at this institution. Since the building of the new library consent has been given for holding some of the W. C. T. U. meetings in this place.

The subjects to be taken up at each meeting, the leaders, place where the meetings will be held and the women who will assist the hostesses are as follows:

Sept. 4—Subject, "State Convention Reports;" leader, delegates; place West Duluth public library, Central avenue and Elinor street; hostesses, Mrs. A. Melin, Mrs. E. Merritt, Mrs. N. F. Keeler.

Sept. 18—Subject, "Guarding Children From Bad Literature;" leader, Mrs. W. F. Marcus; hostess, Mrs. H. Stewart, 5207 East Superior street; assistants, Mrs. J. H. Larkin and Mrs. J. S. Rollins.

Oct. 2—Subject, "Progress of Vigilance;" leader, Mrs. M. E. Allen; hostess, Mrs. Grace Merritt, 4611 Oneota street; assistants, Mrs. E. Ward and Mrs. G. Riddle.

Oct. 16—Subject, "Educational Value of Bible Study;" leader, Mrs. J. E. Goodman; hostess, Mrs. A. Jaques, 1205 East Third street; assistants, Mrs. R. West and Mrs. F. Spurbeck.

Nov. 6—Subject, "Temperance Relating to Health and Heredity;" leader, Mrs. W. C. Ives; hostess, Mrs. G. L. Shoup, 122 North Fifty-third avenue west; assistants, Mrs. F. Cashen and Mrs. W. F. Marcus.

Nov. 20—Subject, "Problems of Working Girls;" leader, Mrs. T. J. Davis; hostess, Miss Jessie Mauck, Bethel Rescue Home, 432 Sixth avenue east; assistants, Mrs. E. Roe, Mrs. R. Ross and Mrs. T. Hancock.

Dec. 4—Subject, "Helping the Poor;" leader, Mrs. C. R. Keyes; place, public library, West Duluth; hostesses, Mrs. B. H. Smith, Mrs. E. D. Abbott and Mrs. J. A. Beatty.

Jan. 2—Subject, "The Boy;" leader, Mrs. Alfred Jaques; hostesses, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, 5617 Highland street; assistants, Mrs. W. A. Pond and Mrs. George Jewell.

Jan. 15—Subject, "Map Meeting From Dry Country;" leader, Mrs. Leigh Gunther; hostess, Mrs. David Adams, 2314 West Second street; assistants, Mrs. George Stevens and Mrs. J. Gibson.

Feb. 5—Subject, "If This Were a Dry City;" leader, Mrs. Joseph Cochran; hostess, Mrs. W. A. Pond, 1231 North Fifty-seventh avenue west; assistants, Mrs. F. Lynch and Mrs. S. Huston.

Feb. 19—Subject, "Do Laws of Any State Discriminate Against Women?" leader, Mrs. Helen Stewart; hostess, Mrs. T. B. Jones, 610 North Fifty-sixth avenue west; assistants, Mrs. J. MacMillan and Mrs. Stickney.

March 5—Subject, "Work Day;" Children's home, Fifteenth avenue east and Fifth street; picnic luncheon, 1 p. m.

March 19—Subject, "The One Just Out of Prison;" leader, Miss Jessie Mauck; hostess, Mrs. Joseph Cochrane, 630 North Fifty-sixth avenue west; assistants, Mrs. C. G. Weaver and Mrs. M. Everet.

April 2—Subject, "American Citizens Who Cannot Vote;" leader, Mrs. T. F. Olsen; hostess, Mrs. J. O. Johnson, 5613 West Eighth street; assistants, Mrs. W. Towner and Mrs. H. Olson.

April 16—Subject, "Temperance and Missions;" leader, Mrs. J. T. Culbertson; hostess, Mrs. W. C. Ives; assistants, Mrs. George R. King and Mrs. J. E. Goodman.

May 7—Subject, "Mothers' Day;" leader, Mrs. Mabel Merritt; place, public library, West Duluth; hostesses, Mrs. T. F. Olsen, Mrs. W. H. Keeler, Mrs. A. Gray and Mrs. A. G. Macauley.

May 21—Subject, "What Can We Do for Law Enforcement?" leader, Mrs. George R. King; hostess, Mrs. O. T. Strand, 5803 Huntington street; assistants, Mrs. M. E. Allen and Mrs. G. W. Smith.

June 4—Subject, "Self Control in Dress;" leader, Mrs. George Little; hostess, Mrs. T. J. McKeon, 213 South Seventeenth avenue east; assistants, Mrs. J. Rankin and Mrs. F. Hansen.

June 18—Department day; hostess, Mrs. Florence Merritt, 2105 East Second street; assistants, Mrs. Ruth Merritt, Mrs. C. Norris, Mrs. J. B. Wanless and Mrs. L. Beemer.

PROBLEMS FOR NEW DULUTH CLUB

City Will Be Asked to Put Road in Shape for Car Tracks.

The extension of the street railway lines to New Duluth and the condition of Grand, Zimmerly and Commonwealth avenues will be the principal subjects of discussion at the meeting of the New Duluth Commercial club to be held Tuesday evening. The meeting will be held at the Maccabee hall.

Residents and business men of New Duluth will ask the city commissioners to have the work of placing the three thoroughfares, making the only connecting link for traffic between the suburb and the city, in condition so that the street railway company may lay its rails this fall. The business men claim that the street railway is necessary to the welfare of the suburb, and that the growth of the suburb is being retarded by not having this means of communication.

The club will also pass resolutions asking the Northern Pacific railroad for better transportation facilities. The members want a later train arriving from the coty, and also a later train from the suburb to the city. They say that it is impossible to get to their homes without walking or hiring a rig, if they should happen to miss the train leaving Duluth at 5:20 p. m.

SHOE DEALERS WILL HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC.

Shoe dealers of the Head of the Lakes will hold their annual picnic tomorrow at Zenith island. The dealers, their clerks and families will take ferry boats at the Sixty-third avenue slip to the park. The boats will be run every half hour.

A program of sports and games has been planned by the committee. This will include games between the dealers and the clerks of the two cities.

FORMER DULUTH PEOPLE INJURED.

J. J. Lauermann, former shoe merchant in West Duluth, who for the past three years has made his home at Santa Rosa, Fla., and Mrs. Lauermann were victims of a runaway accident early last week, according to information received by West Duluth friends yesterday. Mr. Lauermann sustained a broken collar bone, three broken ribs and a number of other injuries, while Mrs. Lauermann was more fortunate being only slightly bruised about the body.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauermann were riding in a carriage near their home at the time of the accident. The horses became frightened by a piece of paper which was blown across the road. Mr. Lauermann is expected to fully recover from his injuries.

Visiting Pastor.

Rev. Ralph M. Crissman of the First Presbyterian church of Dixon, Ill., is spending his vacation in Duluth, a guest of Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. Fifty-eighth avenue west and Ramsey street. Rev. Mr. Crissman will assist Rev. Mr. Staub at the services in the local church tomorrow. Special music will also be given by the choir. Miss Mabel Melin will sing.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mrs. William Little and daughters, Ruth and Ethel, 626 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, have left for Iron River, Wis., where they will spend a few weeks visiting relatives.

Harry White, 220 North Fifty-second avenue west, is recovering from an accident in which he crushed his foot at the rock crusher last week.

Miss Vivian Nichols entertained last evening for members of the U. C. club at her home.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bethel Swedish Lutheran church will entertain this evening at a social at Dormedy's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. A program of music will be given.

Walter Hermann of Omaha, Neb., is spending a few days visiting in this end of the city.

GREAT INTEREST IN EXETER FARMS

Whirlwind Advertising Campaign Is Having Effect in Land Sales.

The whirlwind campaign of advertising for Exeter Farm Lands, which has been in operation for the past week, has awakened in the minds of every man and woman in Duluth and vicinity, the great physical and financial advantages to be gained by settling at Exeter Farms—that beautiful and conveniently located farm suburb of Duluth. The campaign has been of such a nature that all doubt as to the present and future conditions has been removed.

This land can be bought for cash and on easy terms at very reasonable prices, and the Alliance Real Estate company, which has the land for sale, is doing everything in its power to encourage and aid all those who wish to have a home of their own with a farm that will raise money-making crops, thereby giving a healthful occupation and an increasing bank account.

Special cars and automobiles will be run to accommodate the big crowds who have already expressed a desire to inspect these lands tomorrow during the big sale from 10:30 a. m. until 5 in the afternoon. Everybody should go to Exeter tomorrow if only to see what other people are doing in the way of farm and home locating.

Hygenol face powder is perfumed with the delightful odor of the red rose. It leaves a smooth, velvety feeling, and defies detection when properly applied. Sold by Lyceum pharmacy.

Recruit for Navy.
Carl Walter Johnson of 318 Eighth avenue east left this morning for Minneapolis, where he will be assigned to one of the battleships as a yeoman. He passed the examination at the local recruiting station last Tuesday and yesterday received word of his acceptance.

Given Stiff Fine.
Frank Bruska this morning pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was fined $100 and costs or sixty days in the county jail. Bruska was arrested last night by Officers Hartz and Sears on the complaint of Ben Meltz.

Case Is Postponed.
The case against Emil Mork, 531 West First street, who was arrested Tuesday on the charge of having tainted meat in his possession, was postponed to next Wednesday afternoon. It was scheduled for yesterday afternoon. Mork pleaded not guilty to the charge whe narraigned last Tuesday.

Rates Not Raised.
The officers of the local homestead of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen have just been informed of the result of the fourth quadrennial conclave of that society held in Oklahoma City, Okla., June 10 to 14, inclusive. The society's rates were not raised, either upon its old or new members. The age limit for entrance for benefit membership was reduced from 50 to 45 years.

Plowboy Replaces Bridge.
The steamer Plowboy was chartered by Commissioner Merritt, head of the utilities division, to transfer passengers across the canal yesterday afternoon. The bridge went out of commission about 1:30 p. m. when one of the coils burned out. Repairs were started at once and the bridge was again handling passengers at 9 o'clock.

Sunday School Picnic.
The Episcopal Sunday schools of Duluth will hold a picnic at Chambers grove, Pond du Lac, Thursday, July 17. The steamer Columbia will leave the Lake avenue dock at 9 a. m., Twenty-first avenue west at 9:45, returning at 6 p. m.

Placed on Parole.
Mortimer Brown was placed on a six months' parole by Judge Cutting yesterday, after he had pleaded guilty on a charge of having stolen a raincoat, valued at $15, from the Zenith dye works. John Kuklinski, who also pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge, having been accused of stealing a mackinaw and pair of overalls from Mike Sink, was placed on a similar parole.

Thanks Police for Aid.
Chief Troyer this morning received a letter from Mrs. Mary Walsh, police matron, wife of the late James E. Walsh, former detective, who died last week at Virginia, thanking the police department for the assistance given her following the demise of her husband. Mrs. Walsh is now at Stillwater, where the funeral of Mr. Walsh was held last Tuesday afternoon.

Drunk Too Often.
For being drunk a second time Morris Cuttle this morning drew a twenty-day sentence in the county jail. Cuttle was arrested by Patrolman Clendenning last evening.

Committed for Vagrancy.
James G. Rowe, 42 years old, arrested last evening by Detective Toewe on a charge of vagrancy, pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was fined $50 and costs or sixty days. Rowe was also suspected of stealing a suitcase, but the owner of the case has been found and the second charge will not be pressed against him.

Off for Lake Trip.
Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, Harry F. White, third assistant county attorney, and George Cook, son of Postmaster Cook, expect to leave tomorrow on the lake freighter William P. Snyder, Sr., for a vacation trip down the lakes. Mr. Forbes will visit relatives at Philadelphia and will spend some time in Atlantic City. Mr. White will visit his old home at Cambridge Springs, Pa.

Prodigal Looked for.
The police have been asked to locate Walter Pettalkow, 17 years old, who ran away from his home at Cedar Rapids, Ia., last month. His photograph has been received by Chief Troyer from the authorities at Cedar Rapids.

Drunk But Blank-Minded.
George McGivern did not know that he had accosted two girls late last night, when told of the fact in police court this morning. He admitted that he was drunk, but did not remember having attempted to speak to any women. His case was continued to 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. McGivern was arrested by Patrolman Harling at the request of the girls' father, who was with them at the time.

BROKE HIS ANKLE KICKING BURGLAR

But the "Burglar" Was a Dream and W. C. Sargent Really Kicked Foot of Bed.

A very sad accident befell William C. (Bill) Sargent, prominent real estate and insurance man and one of Duluth's well-known citizens, last night.

As a result of the most unfortunate affair, Bill, beg pardon, Mr. Sargent, is tortuously making his way about the city today with the aid of a pair of crutches. He is suffering from an injured ankle.

So if he couldn't move the upper part of his body the only recourse left was his feet. Almost imperceptibly but none the less surely he drew them under him in such a manner that he could knock the unsuspecting burglar off his feet and give him an opportunity to overpower him before he recovered his equilbrium. In the stillness of the room his every tiny movement and the every nervous tweek of the bed springs sounded like the rattle of musketry to him. Still the burglar stood there, making no move. In what seemed to him an eternity "Bill" had his body bunched as a bundle of springs. Then he let his feet fly like a battering ram, straight at the burglar's head.

And then the would-be captor of the burglar woke up.

The burglar was a dream but the shooting pains in his ankle were the real thing. In his sleep he had aimed at the head of the villain who had dared invade his bedchamber. In actuality he kicked the foot of the bed with such terrific force that he broke his ankle.

EBERHART IS GUEST OF GOVERNOR SULZER

Albany, N. Y., July 12.—Governor Eberhart of Minnesota and his staff, returning from the Gettysburg celebration, visited Albany last night. As guests of the Albany chamber of commerce, the visitors were given an automobile ride about the city and later visited the state education building and the capitol, where they were welcomed by Governor Sulzer. Governor and Mrs. Eberhart were dinner guests of the governor and Mrs. Sulzer at the "people's house."

Gets Boy's Case Appealed.
New York, July 12. — Governor Adolph O. Eberhart of Minnesota has succeeded in having carried to Washington on appeal the case of 15-year-old Alois Lermer, an immigrant boy at Ellis island. Lerner is detained, the immigration authorities explain, under a law that denies admission to a minor unless attended by parents, guardians or relatives. Since his arrival here he has been a hospital patient, suffering from a wrist wound he is declared to have inflicted upon learning he was to be detained.

"NOTORIOUS CROOKS" ARRESTED IN ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Police here today arrested Frank Harris, William Carlton and Albert Calef, who officials declare are well known to the police of the large cities of the United States. When arrested, while on their way to the state capitol, the men had with them John Carbert, a wealthy farmer from Milford, Sask.

Padded money rolls and other paraphernalia are said by the police to have been found on each prisoner.

HOMEOPATHS END MEETING.

Denver, Colo., July 12.—The sixty-ninth annual meeting of the American Institute of Homeopathy held its final session last evening and adjourned to meet in Atlantic City in July 1914. A committee of six was named to confer with the founders of the American College of Surgeons at Washington, D. C., to seek representation for the homeopaths in that institution.

LARK STILL TWITTERING

Up to the present time the committee has not been able to present a single program as planned. The first two carnivals were spoiled by the rain, and but a part of the program was given in each case. Last evening the third one was scheduled, and the weather conditions were worse than at the first two. Only a band concert was given and this was heard by nobody but oarsmen and the chairman of the committee.

This afternoon it is again raining, and the fun at the boat club will be dampened.

Tonight every effort will be made to hold the industrial parade, which will be preceded by a band concert and followed by fireworks at the boat club. Unless it is actually pouring rain at the time, the parade will take place. More than 100 decorated teams and trucks have been promised, and Duluth's industries will be shown as never before by the line of march. The fire department will also be out in force. The committee members have been working most industriously on the plans for a week, and they are determined to show what they can do if the weather permits.

"The weather has been an awful handicap to us," said a committee member this morning. "We haven't really had a chance to show yet what we can do. Every program we have attempted to date, and that means eight, including the one this afternoon, has been demoralized by the weather. The only fair afternoon we had was so windy it was impossible to hold water sports, and the flying boat was wrecked.

"The new hydro-aeroplane is a dandy and if it gets any chance to fly this afternoon or this evening, it will give an excellent exhibition."

WILL PLAN WITH NORTHERN COUNTIES

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Robinson Bosworth, acting secretary of the State Anti-tuberculosis association, will carry on an active campaign in the northern counties of the state among county boards, urging the appropriation of funds for country tuberculosis sanitaria.

Dr. Bosworth will leave tonight for Duluth. Sunday he will meet with members of the county board of Itasca county at Grand Rapids, Minn. The county has decided to build a sanitarium. He will submit detailed information and plans.

At Hallock, Kitson couuty, Dr. Bosworth will meet a joint session of the county commissioners of Kittson, Marshall and Pennington counties. The three probably will build a sanitarium jointly. Becker and Clay county commissioners will meet with Dr. Bosworth and Dr. B. M. Hall of Minneapolis, Tuesday at Moorhead. Wednesday, at Fergus Falls, an inspection will be made of the sanitarium now being built by Otter Tail county.

BAND CONCERT AT FAIRMONT

The third open-air band concert will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at Fairmont park, West Duluth, the weather permitting.

The park is at the end of the West Third street car line.

The program will be rendered by Duluth's famous Third Regiment band. The two concerts which have already been given have been enjoyed by large audiences and if the weather man is not unkind, Fairmont park will undoubtedly be one of the most popular places in the city tomorrow.

The 100 new chairs which have been purchased by the city at the direction of Mayor Prince have been placed in the park to help accommodate the crowd.

RAILROADS ASK TIME TO CHANGE RATES

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representatives of Minnesota railways today asked Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith to give them seventy-two hours after the United States supreme court mandate in the Minnesota rate case is received here, to put into effect the state passenger, commodity and merchandise schedules.

It is probable the attorney general will insist that forty-eight hours will be sufficient. The mandate is expected here early next week.

GETS INSURANCE, BUT NO DAMAGES.

Seattle, Wash., July 12.—In dismissing the suit of Mrs. Mary A. Meese against the Northern Pacific railway for $75,000 damages, because her husband was killed by a railroad locomotive while he was working in a brewery yard, United States District Judge Cushman made a ruling that fixes the railroad's responsibility toward third parties in connection with the killing of a workman. Meese was employed by the brewery and was insured by the state, which collects a fund from all breweries. Judge Cushman held that Mrs. Meese was entitled to collect $4,000 from the state's insurance, but not from the railroad or the brewery.

STATE TO SELL BONDS "OVER THE COUNTER"

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the success of Duluth and St. Paul in selling city paper over the counter, the state board of control today decided to dispose of $700,000 worth of state educational building certificates in the same manner. The bonds bear 5 per cent interest and run for three years. Definite plans for the sale will be made next week.

THEY LIKE "SINBAD."

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—Authorities of the Stillwater, Minn., prison, who are seeking the return of Charles Price, 68, known as "Sinbad, the Sailor," to complete a sentence of thirty years, who was sent to the Milwaukee house of correction Monday for thirty days, may be asked to allow him to remain in Milwaukee another sixty days to help out on the house of correction farm.

Price violated his parole from the Minnesota prison and was arrested in Milwaukee.

"We need just such a man on the house of correction farm" declared Inspector Momsen. "We are just getting things in shape for ornamental plants and fruit trees. I would like to have Price for an additional sixty days."

PASS EXAMINATIONS.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—A civil service examination was held in the state labor bureau June 30 under a new law, the successful candidates to hold office during good behavior, beginning Aug. 1.

The result announced Friday shows the old employes have exceptional merit as all of them who took the examinations have got some sort of a job as a result.

Under the law, the commissioner of labor, William F. Houk, makes the appointments from among the three who received the highest mark. Experience in the department work seems to have controlled.

The examining board consisted of Mr. Houk, Julius Moersch and W. M. Gebbart.

There have been some changes in the designation of departments and, as a result, in titles. Miss Agnes L. Peterson will head the new bureau of women and children. She defeated Clara M. Luther of Minneapolis for this place. The old superintendents of the free employment bureaus have been retained including Capt. John H. Wilson and Mrs. Mary B. Rosing of St. Paul. Hugh Jennings, formerly superintendent of all bureaus, found his place abolished so he went in as head of the Minneapolis branch and the former chief there, James McCutcheon, passed such a good test that he had to be chosen assistant manager in Minneapolis.

Hurley Saloon Licenses.
Hurley, Wis., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town board granted liquor licenses to Col. Howard for the Hurley hotel building; Frank Wiercinski for the building formerly occupied by McDonald & McPhail; G. Di Yulis for the White Bear building; Nick Dahl for the west half of lot 4, block 4. Sam Jacobson was refused a license.

Miss Rose Toutant of Sioux City is the guest of F. Leuren.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Reid and family are occupying their cottage on the Manitowish river.

Mexican War Veterans Adjourn.
London, Ohio, July 12.—With an election of officers, the national encampment of Mexican war veterans closed, after a two-day session. Capt. John A. Fisher of Chillicothe, Ohio, was re-elected president and Miss Jessica R. Smith of Fayetteville, N. C., was elected secretary. Next year's encampment will be held in Chillicothe, Ohio, as most of the living survivors are Ohioans.

Ironwood Bars Sunday Shows.
Ironwood, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ironwood council this week declined to repeal the ordinance recently passed prohibiting moving picture shows on Sunday by a vote of 10 to 5. It is said prosecutions will follow violations of the ordinance.

Mr. and Mrs. James Larson of West end, Duluth are visiting Mrs. Larson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson.

LATEST HAPPENINGS IN AUTO WORLD

GOOD ROADS WORK LAGS

Auto Owners Complain of Neglect of Public Officials.

Minneapolis Man Leaves Duluth for Home in Driving Rain.

The facts regarding the number of tourists who come to Duluth in autos during the summer months, which were published in this column last Saturday, has been the cause of a great deal of comment throughout the city both among auto owners and among those who are not so fortunate. They regard as unfortunate the fact that no greater interest toward development of such an important feature as tourist business, is not shown by public officials, and that no more aggressive spirit by such officials is displayed to obtain good roads.

All moves toward good roads between here and the Twin Cities or between Duluth and the range cities that have been made have been left to the Duluth Auto club. That club has done well, but, as one of its officers said, it cannot do everything; and in the meantime a spirit of inertia seems to have permeated the officials whose function it would be to take the initiative.

There are numerous roads hereabouts that need fixing but much would be forgiven if the main roads were attended to.

Frank A. Mannen of Minneapolis, formerly a well known insurance man of the Head of the Lakes, showed nerve yesterday when he started out in his auto for his home in Minneapolis in a driving rain with a prospect of grief-giving roads all the way down ahead of him. Mr. Mannen and his wife have been touring the East in their motor, and arrived with it on one of the lake steamers yesterday. Mr. Mannen called at the Interstate Auto company's garage to get fitted out with Michelin tires for the trip. He said the Mrs. Mannen wanted to accompany him in the auto to Minneapolis, but he persuaded her to take the train. In view of the weather reports to the effect that rain was falling almost every inch of the way a story of Mr. Mannen's experiences on the trip down would be interesting.

The Interstate Auto company has just finished the work of placing a hydraulic lift in the front part of D. H. Clough's big truck, and it is being used for the purpose of lifting the front of the huge steel body, thus making it a dumping body for cement work. Mr. Clough is very well pleased with his new rig.

J. N. Johnson, Minneapolis representative of the Michelin and Batavia tires, was here this week, visiting with J. T. Peacha, Jr., manager of the Interstate Auto company, local agent for these tires. Mr. Johnson says that he has placed over 600 Batavia tires in Minneapolis this season and as yet has not had a complaint of a blow-out. Mr. Johnson is the oldest—in point of continued service—tire agent in Minneapolis.

His experience with the Batavia is interesting for the reason that while the Interstate handles both makes, the Batavia has not taken hold here as well as he expected. The Michelin has given such excellent satisfaction that it is a difficult and almost impossible job to get an autoist who has adopted it to switch to anything else. Mr. Peacha says: "He knows that the Michelin will stand so while he will admit that the Batavia is doubtless a good tire, he feels that the Michelin is good enough for him, and he 'sticks.'"

O. H. Griggs of Virginia came down in his "Six-Sixty" Kissel from Virginia Thursday in a try against time. He made the distance, about seventy miles, in two hours and thirty minutes.

• • •

S. D. Ives of the Esmond hotel, has just returned from an auto tour down through the northern peninsula of Michigan and through the lower too, as far as Detroit, and back again. Before starting out he had his machine fitted with chemical rubber fillers, and left his repair tools at home. During this trip, which is considered a severe test of the filler, he suffered no tire trouble and no delay. He will leave for Minneapolis next week on another auto trip.

R. N. White of the Board of Trade, will be back Monday from an auto trip to Chicago, Peoria, Ill., and Milwaukee, after having his tires filled with chemical rubber. News from him at Milwaukee was to the effect that he had not the slightest bit of tire trouble all of that distance. Many prospective users of the filler are awaiting his return to hear his indorsement.

During the past week ten auto owners of Northern Wisconsin have had their tires filled by the Chemical Rubber company of Duluth.

The Superior fire department tested out the filler on its chemical truck a few days ago, running ten miles at an average speed of from 50 to 60 miles an hour. The firemen who took the ride are all for it, and are urging its use in the department. They claim that they fell less "throwback" than when air is used in the tires.

The fame of the filler is spreading. The tires of F. A. Rockwell of Fargo, N. D., shipped in to be filled, will be completed today.

Len McNamara, the well known automobile man, and local agent of the Studebaker, is now located in a new garage built for him at 320 East Superior street. The building is up-to-date in every particular for the use Mr. McNamara has for it.

Charles G. Obermeyer, local agent for the Cartercar and the Metz car, with showrooms at 123 First avenue west, has sold several cars on the range this week. The new Metz car is a pretty, effective and simple one and is worth looking over.

Duluth auto owners' attention is directed to another industry which has started here and which may prove to be of interest to them. It is the Duluth Auto Painting company, which has opened its place of business at 213-215 East First street. The firm is formed by M. A. Murray and Ed Forney, both well known in the city. They have as foreman of their shop, G. N. Leader, who has had thirty-two successful years' experience in vehicle painting and high-class work of that kind. The company has 7,000 square feet of space and is in shape to handle business quickly. Its plant is well equipped and up-to-date, and it is believed that it will fill a long felt want.

"Service is a question of the very highest importance in determining automobile or truck values," says J. T. Peacha, Jr., of the Inter-State Auto company, Duluth agents for the Kissel Kar.

"No matter how high class the car, or how apparently right its price, it is at least a doubtful value unless there is accessible service behind it. Before purchasing a car, buyers should find out just what is going to be done to simplify its care and keep the cost of its up-keep where it belongs. The acceptance of verbal promises is not good business for, even assuming perfectly good faith, misunderstandings must occur.

"Every buyer of a Kissel Kar receives a written guarantee that is simple and specific, but more important still is the physical evidence of ample facilities to carry it out. No evasion or hedging is morally possible and the buyer can see with his own eyes just how well the Kissel branches are equipped to insure performance.

"At these branches—and the system extends to 200 agencies besides—complete stocks of duplicate parts are kept and adequate labor, skilled in Kissel Kar construction, is constantly ready to serve owners of Kissel Kars and Kissel Kar trucks. That is why there is substance in the Kissel Kar guarantee—why it is not a mere form, unenforcible because of insufficient local service. It is why Kissel Kar owners will tell you that their up-keep cost has been a most pleasant surprise and that they do not worry about expert attention when wanted."

"There is much misunderstanding of this used or second-hand car idea," said N. L. Hendersen, manager of the Electric Service & Repair company, Duluth agents for the Hudson car, today. "While it is true that there are 'lemons'—as they are popularly called—on the market, and also true that there are swindlers and scamps in the motor car business, as in every other business on earth, still as a general thing the man who purchases a used car from a reliable and responsible dealer gets the full value of his money.

"Contrary to the general idea a buyer is much more apt to get a square deal, and a good car, from a regular dealer than from the owner. A dealer has a reputation to sustain, he expects to continue in business, he hopes to make a permanent customer of the man who buys the car, and he must therefore treat him fairly. The owner's only interest is to sell his old car, and very frequently he never again sees the man to whom he sells it.

"Just now we have no used cars of our own make on hand that have been traded in as part payment for new ones, because used Hudsons command a premium everywhere and there is a waiting list for them at every dealer's. We have sometimes a few cars of other makes and these we sell accompanied by what practically amounts to a written guarantee of their value. This plan puts us in a very desirable business condition as it avoids our having a lot of money tied up in used cars, and at the time it assures the purchaser of a used car from us that he is getting a thoroughly reliable car backed by our guarantee."

One of the cars on the Pacific coast trip of Indiana automobiles is doing it on old fashioned grocery store coal oil. It looks to motorists like a dream coming true—a dream of cheaper fuel, a dream of fuel cost cut in two. From the consumers' point of view the progress of the kerosene car in the big trans-continental tour will be one of the most interesting features of the Indiana-Pacific trip. The consumer has seen the price of gasoline put up notch by notch, sometimes a little at a time, sometimes a whole lot. The price of gasoline has almost driven him to the market page to look up the price of hay.

The Hendersons of Indianapolis, makers of Henderson cars, are endeavoring to put a kerosene trail across the map—to pioneer the proposition of an economical filler for the motor car fuel tank. Henderson cars are equipped with the new Harroun carburetor, which burns kerosene, motor spirits or gasoline. There are two Henderson cars in the tour. One of them is traveling on gasoline — the other on kerosene. They are trying to establish two records: One, that of crossing the country on kerosene for the first time in history; the other, that of making the trip from Indianapolis to Los Angeles on less gasoline than any other car that ever went over the route—frr the Harroun carburetor is said to be a wonder at spreading a gallon of oil out over a long stretch of road.

This trans-continental drive will be a final test—not a first test—for the Harroun carburetor. Ray Harroun, winner of the first international 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway, is the inventor of the kerosene carburetor—being a technical motor car engineer as well as a race driver. He has worked two years on the carburetor and has already proved it the first successful kerosene carburetor in the world. The carburetor has been given many exhaustive tests. Harroun drove it a second 500 miles on the Indianapolis speedway, and the Hendersons have had it as optional equipment on all of their 1914 models for several months where it has shown up successfully in everyday use.

Harroun himself is driving the kerosene Henderson in the trans-continental tour. The car is a De Luxe four-cylinder touring model. R. P. Henderson, vice president of the Henderson company, is driving the other Henderson car, the gasoline burner, a new Henderson six-cylinder touring model. The kerosene tourists will reach an altitude of 11,000 feet, which is pretty much of a strain even for gasoline—but they expect to hop right over the mountains with their kerosene car without any trouble. Henderson cars have dash fuel tanks that give positive gravity drain on any grade—one reason that the kerosene carburetor has worked so well on them.

"American road builders must show the Old World, even France, how to build modern highways," asserts George C. Diehl, chairman of the A. A. A. national good roads board, and member of the advisory board of the New York state highway department. "I make this statement with positiveness because even a hasty compilation of statistics will indicate how much greater the volume of traffic is on American main arteries of communication than on the most traveled European roads," comments Mr. Diehl. "When an American traffic census will have been completed, the figures adduced will prove conclusively that the building of these most important roads must hereafter be attended with greater thoroughness, and for two reasons: to obtain economic maintenance, and to meet adequately the increased use.

"A comparison of roads and automobile travel in France and the United States supplies some statistics of value which also will serve to correct some misinformation that has found its way into print. France has 38,000,000 people, 365,000 miles of roads, and 75,000 automobiles; one automobile to each 520 people, and one automobile to a trifle less than every five miles of roads.

"The United States, with 90,009,000 population and 2,200,000 miles of roads has 1,040,000 automobiles; one automobile for every 87 people, and one automobile for a trifle more than every two miles of roads.

"New York state, with 9,000,000 population and 80,000 miles of roads has more than 106,000 automobiles; or one automobile to every 85 people and one automobile to every three-quarters of a mile of road in the state.

"To be sure, France has most excellent roads. It has been building them for the last 150 years, and with the constant repair which has been given the more important roads since the time of the first Napoleon the foundations are deep and strong and solid as the rock of ages. But the multiplying traffic is wearing out the surface of the French roads just the same as it is the roads of heavy travel in this country. An official statement a year or two ago, stated that the annual maintenance cost on French roads is three times as great as it was ten years ago.

"These facts ought to convince the people of this country of the absolute necessity of building main roads which will wear, even at a higher first cost. There is and can be no economy in constructing roads which will require constant and expensive repairs. The number of automobiles in use is constantly and rapidly growing. The usefulness of the motor truck is being further demonstrated every day. These factors of wear on roads emphasize the fact that roads must be built of materials and by methods which will stand the strain of an augmenting travel, not only today, but a decade hence."

Automobile dealers are beginning to realize more and more the value of their show windows. The practical possibilities of a window display were recently demonstrated in a unique manner by the Standard Motor Company of Baltimore, Cadillac distributers for Maryland.

This company drew the interested attention of hundreds of people by showing a complete Cadillac in the window of their show rooms, constructing the car by assemblying its parts taken from their repair shop. The purpose was two-fold to attract attention generally and to demonstrate in a practical and effective manner the accuracy with which the parts are made.

There are more than 400 mechanical operations on parts in a Cadillac car which are made so accurately that a variation of not to exceed 1-1000 of an inch is permitted.

Carl G. Fisher has turned over to The Lincoln Highway association all the subscriptions received by him for the original project known as the coast-to-coast highway. A certificate of audit was presented at the meeting here by a well known Chicago accounting firm showing that the amounts so far pledged are in excess of $4,200,000. As up to this time no organized effort has been made to obtain subscriptions the figure of $10,000,000 which has been established as necessary to establish the Lincoln highway will undoubtedly be reached in a comparatively short time. None of these pledges will be called for until the total is reached, and then the payments may be made during a period of three years while the actual work of building the highway is in progress.

Henry B. Joy, president of the Packard Motor Car company, has just returned from a motoring trip to the Pacific coast, made for the purpose of obtaining a preliminary survey of a transcontinental route for the Lincoln Highway association, of which he is president. Mr. Joy made the trip in his "prairie schooner," a Packard "48" chassis equipped with a special body containing a complete camping outfit.

The good roads tourists followed the route of the Forty-Niners across the plains and turned south in Utah, going through Salt Lake City and around the lower end of the Great Salt Lake. Fifteen and one-half days were consumed in a leisurely drive of 2,753 miles from Detroit to San Francisco. The country was found to be in excellent condition for touring. The garages of the west were surprisingly well equipped and there was no difficulty in obtaining the necessary supplies of oil and gasoline at points along the route.

La Crosse, Wis., July 12.—Because he caught cold as the result of missing a train at Walker, Minn., where he had been a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium, Henry Kindhammer received a check for $300 from the M. & I., a branch of the Northern Pacific.

ARMLESS MAN DRIVES AN AUTOMOBILE IN TEXAS

JUDGE QUENTIN D. CORLEY.

Judge Quentin D. Corley of Texas is probably the only man in America who, having no hands, is still an expert motor driver. He has rigged up his wheel so that with the aid of two hooks on the stumps of his arms he is able to guide perfectly and he is also able to shift gears without trouble.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

The new Kissel Kar "48-Six" is an intermediate type. That is, it is neither a "little" six, as little sixes go, nor a big six, but a machine having ample capacity for the handling of a luxurious five-passenger body, together with enough surplus power to afford the rapid acceleration that is so much prized in the largest and highest-powered cars. By way of further identification, it has a 48-horse power motor, 132½-inch wheel base, 36 by 4½-inch tires and a clean-lined angle body that the makers proudly declare, and with apparent truthfulness to be "without afterthoughts," but still complete in its appointments.

One of the most noteworthy individualities of this model is the design of the frame, which is reminiscent of the double-drop frames that have previously been employed to some extent, but accomplishing the same purpose more directly, at the same time affording opportunity for the employment of a straight sill for the body throughout the greater part of its length, thus accentuating the impression of low weight distribution and consequent stability. In addition to the not unusual "kick-up" of the frame at its rear end, the front is similarly raised to give ample clearance over the axles under all operating conditions.

The motor is built with cylinders cast in block, having bore and stroke dimensions of 3¾ by 5½ inches, respectively. The cylinders are of the L-head type, with valves on the left, only the carburetor and motor of the combined electric starting and lighting system being carried on the right. The Mea magneto and the water pump are driven from a transverse shaft carried above the two-to-one gears at the front of the motor. A pump-over type of lubricating system is used with ducts in the crank shaft for distributing oil to the moving bearings and the cylinder walls.

The power plant is a complete unit with the gear set, and is mounted on the main frame by means of side arms in the waist, in conjunction with a bearing in front and another in the rear which is supported by a cross-frame member immediately beneath the forward universal joint. The transmission consists of a leather-faced cone clutch and four-speed gearset, affording direct drive on third speed. The speeds are selectively controlled; the gears are of chrome vanadium steel, and the shafts are mounted on imported F. & B. annular ball bearings.

Both rear wheel brakes are equalized. They are of the external-internal variety, with shoes of 5-inch face, operating on drums of fourteen inches in diameter. The storage battery for the electrical system is carried in a special box on the right side of the frame under the tonneau floor, while double tire rack is fixed to the extreme rear of the frame. By this means both running boards are left entirely clear and the lines of the car are freed from any encumbrance.

The unusually complete equipment includes the Golde patent "one-man" top, with cover, glass front, full lamp equipment, shock absorbers, Warner autometer, tire irons, robe and foot rails, horn, jack, pump and tools. The car has the regular left drive and center control, and in addition to the double front entrance which this arrangement insures, is roomily and comfortably contrived with respect to the passengers' ease.

UNCLE SAM BAD GUESSER

Flax Estimate for 1912 Crop Short 5,000,000 Bushels.

More Flax Already Received Than Was Reported Raised.

If the government crop report, issued on Tuesday last, is correct as to flax, the last of the American crop of 1912 is now in Duluth and Minneapolis. Of course it is known that the last of the flax crop has not yet arrived and the natural conclusion to come to it that the government report on last year's crop is wrong.

The crop report stated that the crop of flax of 1912 amounted to 28,073,000 bushels.

Up to last night approximately 17,000,000, bushels of flax had been received in Duluth-Superior elevators since Aug. 1, 1912, which is considered the beginning of the crop year; and since Sept. 1, recognized in Minneapolis as the beginning of the crop year, approximately 12,000,000 bushels of flax had been received there. That makes a total of 29,000,000 bushels in round numbers, more than the government reports as the total crop output.

There is a question of how much flax is still in the farmers' hands. Some claim that there are several million bushels, and perhaps there are. At any rate, for the purpose of arriving at a comparison with the government report as to the crop of 1912, it seems fair to assume that 1,000,000 bushels are still in the country districts.

There are at least three mills that receive flaxseed for crushing, the seed being bought direct and not appearing in elevator receipts. At least 1,000,000 bushels are used by these three mills, they being at Superior, Wis., Sioux City, Iowa, and Portland, Or.

At least 1,500,000 bushels of seed from the crop of 1912 were used for planting or this year's crop; and it is believed fair to assume that about 500,000 bushels are still in transit and not yet reported at elevators. A recapitulation follows:

Received at Duluth, bu.	17,000,000
Received at Mineapolis, bu.	12,000,000
In farmers' hands, bu.	1,000,000
Used and not reported, bu.	1,000,000
Used for seed, bu.	1,500,000
In transit, bu.	500,000
Total, bu.	33,000,000

Assuming that estimate to be correct, the government crop report was short about 5,000,000 bushels of actual conditions—and perhaps more.

The government estimates that the seed's acreage this year is about 79 per cent of last year's and that the yield will run 8.7 bushels to the acre as against 9.8 bushels last year; indicating a total yield of about 21,000,000 bushels. The impression here is that the acreage will not be more than 70 per cent of last year's and possibly less than that, but the estimated yield per acre compiled from reports received here is pretty nearly identical with that of the government report.

At any rate, taking the estimated crop of 33,000,000 bushels of last year as a basis and assuming that the estimate of the government this year of 21,000,000 bushels, is correct, it will be noticed that there will be a reduction of one-third in the output of flax.

Admits Being Bigamist.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—With his wife, Mrs. Margaret McKenna clinging to him and promising faith and care and with the police attempting to drag him to a train, Michael McKenna, a well known railroad man here yesterday broke down in the Union station and confessed that he was a bigamist. Immediately after the confession McKenna was started on his way to Carrollton, Ill., where there is a warrant awaiting him.

Manufacturers, promised that organization's co-operation in the probe.

Chairman Garrett issued subpoenas for two men named Springer, at Baltimore, said to be relatives of Mulhall. The committee did not divulge any details regarding them. They will appear probably next Tuesday.

Chairman Garrett announced that witnesses would be allowed counsel, but that counsel could not cross-examine except by permission of the committee.

Manufacturers Want Lawyer.

Mulhall finally resumed the stand and took up the identification of his letters, which he began at last night's session. Before he could begin, however, James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, made a formal request upon the committee for the right of the association to be represented by an attorney. Robert McCarter, former attorney general of New Jersey, was presented as the attorney.

Chairman Overman said the committee would decide later whether Mr. McCarter should have the general privileges of an attorney for the association.

Mulhall identified more letters showing his relations with Marshall Cushing, secretary of the Association of Manufacturers. He testified he had an understanding with Cushing that he was to receive $100 a week and $40 a week for expenses for "general field work and lobby work in Washington." His arrangement with Cushing began in the summer of 1904, and he understood it to be permanent, although he had nothing in writing to bind the association.

Worked Against "Friend."

Mulhall testified further how he worked to defeat the late Senator McComas of Maryland, although he posed as the senator's friend. He said he had received 500 letters from Cushing directed against McComas.

"I turned them over to Carl M. Downs, secretary to McComas," he added.

"Do you mean you delivered these letters against McComas to his secretary?" demanded Senator Reed.

"Carl M. Downs was in the pay of Cushing," replied the witness, who went on to explain that he quarreled with Cushing because he was "buying out" the secretary of a senator.

Went to Help Aldrich.

A letter to Senator Foraker, Sept. 19, 1904, referred to a suggestion that Mulhall go to Rhode Island to help Senator Aldrich in his campaign. He testified he went later at the request of Aldrich.

"He asked me to get into touch with labor men there, to get their support."

Letters from C. E. Alden, then secretary to Foraker, and Arthur B. Shelton, secretary to Aldrich, showed that Mulhall's suggestion to go to Rhode Island had been the subject of some correspondence. Alden and Shelton knew he was employed by the association, and he had not tried to conceal the source of his employment, even from the labor leaders, he testified.

Mulhall resented any implication that he had tried to play "a double game" on the labor men, such as he frankly testified he played on McComas.

"In 1903 I took a paid-up union card and had no further connection with labor unions," he said.

To Help Beat Hughes.

A letter of introduction for Harry C. Kurten given by the Council of Allied Building Trades of Philadelphia, was offered in evidence. It was signed by Kurten as secretary. Kurten was engaged, Mulhall testified, in the fight against William Hughes, then a representative and now a senator from New Jersey.

"Were you sent to help beat Hughes by the National Association of Manufacturers?" asked Mr. Reed.

"Yes, sir."

"Why did they want to beat Hughes?"

"On account of his holding a union card, being affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and his activity on the floor of the house and with the labor leaders in Washington."

Kurten was given credentials, Mulhall said, so he could get into union labor meetings to oppose Hughes.

"Was Always Secret."

"The work of this kind was always secret," said Mulhall. "It was done under cover."

"Did you pose as a friend of the labor organizations and thus work against these organizations from the inside?" asked Senator Cummins.

"Not at that time."

Chairman Overman of the senate committee sent a formal notice to Chairman Garrett of the house committee at 10:30 o'clock that the senate committee would insist on keeping Mulhall as a witness until it had finished with him.

Chairman Overman assured the house committee that the senate investigators would release Mulhall later, subject to a house subpoena, and make available to the house committee's order "any and all papers now or which may come into our possession in connection with this affair."

Work in Rhode Island.

Mulhall identified a letter from James J. Ridge, outlining work done by Ridge among Rhode Island labor unions in 1904 in behalf of the Aldrich's candidacy. Mulhall testified giving Ridge $600 which he got from Cushing, secretary of the manufacturers, to help Aldrich in his campaign for re-election. In a letter relating to Ridge it was said, "The senator is well pleased with the work of your friend."

Attorney McCarter tried to have the committee keep out testimony by Mulhall relating to conversations between Cushing and others which he had not actually heard. The committee refused.

Reference to Taft.

A reference to President Taft came in connection with notations on the back of one of the Mulhall envelopes. The following names appeared: C. D. Firestone, Columbus Buggy company; Col. W. X. Morgan, Alliance, Ohio; John N. Taylor, East Liverpool; D. J. Sinclair, Steubenville; H. M. Hanna, Cleveland.

"These five names were submitted to me by Senator Foraker of Ohio to hand to President Taft at an interview I was to have with him at his summer residence in 1910, concerning the campaign in Ohio," Mulhall testified.

The committee did not develop the point furthtr.

Testifying about the campaign against Hughes, Mulhall swore he went to Paterson to aid Hughes' opponent. He hired six union men to work against Hughes, and paid them altogether about $1,800, which came from the National Association of Manufacturers, through Cushing.

Gave Republican Circulars.

The union men in the pay of the National Association of Manufacturers, Mulhall said, took possession of 75,000 circulars sent into the district by the American Federation of Labor to aid Hughes, and turned them over to the Republican campaign committee. He named the following as among the men he hired to work against Hughes: Michael Collins of Philadelphia, Jacob Cassilear of New York, William J. Ryan of the Electrical Workers' union in New York, and George Burk of Paterson.

Paid Voters Weekly Salary.

Mulhall thought that George Burke, who voted in Hughes' district, a deputy collector of internal revenue, was on his payroll in the campaign against Hughes.

"You bribed these men to vote against Hughes?" asked Senator Cummins.

"I don't know whether you can call it bribery or not—they were paid a weekly salary. That money was spent in legitimtae work—that's what they called it. It has been done by both parties for years. Ryan was on my list for about fifteen weeks altogether first at $40 and then $60 a week," said Mulhall. He added that Ryan was "on the list" to do general political work in labor ranks, engaged in "helping to beat Hughes."

Generally for Republicans.

Senator Reed asked if the National Association of Manufacturers "went generally into politics" and supported the Republican organization, or whether it singled out individual men throughout the country whom it supported. Mulhall said it "generally" supported the Republican ticket, and particularly opposed Democrats who were too actively opposed to its position on labor questions.

Efforts to control Senator McComas on labor legislation were further shown by another letter, Dec. 15, 1904, apparently to Mulhall and which he said was written by Cushing. It urged Mulhall to deal with McComas in the supposition that the latter wanted a Federal judgeship then in prospect.

Could Make Promises.

"He (McComas) needs to understand," the letter added, "that the industrial needs of the country are more thoroughly organized than ever before and that they will have none of him or his eight-hour bill. All the same, they are not vindictive, and if he honestly means to let up, you, of course, can promise to do anything you can do to remove any of the obstacles from the path of his ambitions."

Other letters from Cushing to Mulhall developed the extent to which Mulhall was working with various political factions in Maryland, either trying to "select a winner" or abate McComas' activity in support of his eight-hour bill. Many of the men he mentioned in his letters as opposed to the eight-hour bill, in the association's campaign against that measure, were "strictly honest in that position," he thought.

"Others pretended to be honestly opposed to it because you paid them to?" suggested Senator Walsh.

"Yes, that's it."

Spy in Union Office.

In a report Feb. 5, 1905, to Cushing, upon political developments in Baltimore, Mulhall quoted George B. Squires, a bookkeeper for the American Federation of Labor, on the support the labor forces were giving McComas and the fight they were making for anti-injunction and eight-hour legislation. Cushing had instructed him to "keep in touch with Squires" to find out what the American Federation of Labor was doing.

"Was Squires acting in good faith, or was he a spy in the union headquarters employed by the National Association of Manufacturers?" asked Senator Cummins.

"Not at that time, but later on he was acting as a spy for Cushing in the American Federation of Labor," replied Mulhall.

The campaign in behalf of Representative Charles B. Littlefield in Maine was taken up in other letters.

A Cushing letter to Mulhall June 9, 1909, said: "I guess it is better for you to stay out of the Central Labor union."

"A number of labor union workers engaged in the fight for election in the union," explained Mulhall, "and I was taking an active part in seeing that we got officers elected who were on our side politically."

"The work was all done from 'outside,'" he added.

Before Senators Last Night.

Mulhall took the stand last night before the senate committee, and subscribed to the oath with a smile. Senator Reed, designated by Chairman Overman to examine the witness, began by placing in evidence a list of the officers of the National Association of Manufacturers in 1907, and a list of the members of the association.

Mulhall, whose alleged correspondence has brought into the limelight the names of scores of men prominent in political life in the last ten years, was on the stand about two hours. The committee made only a faint impression on the huge pile of letters, but enough was read into the record to show Mulhall's alleged relations with Marshall Cushing, former secretary of the manufacturers' association.

These relations, the testimony showed, began in 1903 and Mulhall was first employed to work against an eight-hour bill favored by the late Senator McComas of Maryland.

Mulhall admitted frankly that he had worked to defeat the McComas forces in Maryland, while he was still posing as the senator's friend.

Mulhall told also of efforts to help the anthracite strike in the Pennsylvania fields in 1902.

Born in Baltimore.

Mulhall said he was born in 1850 and had lived in Baltimore more than thirteen years. He said before he went with the National Association of Manufacturers he was "principally in politics," and was connected with the Republican national committee.

"I refused a bribe of $5,000 and a life position in the naval service in 1892," said Mulhall. "That year I had charge of the Republican campaign in Albany and Renssalaer counties, N. Y. Previous to that I had charge of William McKinley's gubernatorial campaign in Ohio."

The witness said he first became interested in the National Association of Manufacturers in 1902, when he met Marshall Cushing, its secretary, in a Washington hotel.

Relations With Labor.

Senator Reed asked him about his relations with labor. He said the late Senator Quay of Pennsylvania sent him to confer with John Mitchell during the anthracite strike in the Pennsylvania fields in 1902 to get the "inside story." During that time, Mulhall said, he arranged for a conference between Governor Stone of Pennsylvania and three labor-leaders.

The first Mulhall letter introduced was addressed to Mitchell in February, 1902, relating to these meetings. A letter of March 18, 1902, from Mulhall to Mitchell, declared that the leaders of the Republican organization could do more for the miners' union "than any arbitration board in existence." A letter dated May 17, 1902, from Mulhall to Mitchell, told of a conference between Mulhall and Governor Stone at which Mr. Stone expressed sympathy with the miners.

"A Grand Stroke."

"I think you could make a grand stroke," the letter said, "if you would meet Governor Stone and make him your friend; he would be of great assistance to you in the event of an anthracite strike."

The letter dated Aug. 1, 1907, from Carroll Down, who was secretary to the late Senator McComas of Maryland, was put in the record by Reed. It related to the employment of two men in the treasury department in Washington.

Mulhall said he enjoyed close political relations with Senator McComas, and that the men for whom the employment was secured were officials of the molders' union in Baltimore.

Edward Booth, one of the men who was to get a Washington job, wrote to Mulhall about the work being done to keep up the Workmen's Protective association. Mulhall said this organization was Republican in politics. In it Booth said McComas seemed to be handing out the "same old jolly" and complained about the class of jobs he and Williams were to get.

Lamar Case Delayed.

New York, July 12.—Investigation of the Federal grand jury into the activity of David Lamar in the so-called Union Pacific conspiracy was adjourned last night until Monday, after four more witnesses had been examined under the United States statute which provides punishment for impersonating an officer or employe of the government.

Aside from the inquiry by the Federal prosecutor, it is learned that the county authorities are taking an interest in the case. District Attorney Whitman has assigned an assistant to watch developments with a view to placing the matter before a county grand jury.

J. Sargent Cram, a member of the public service committee; George F. Baker, chairman of the First National bank, and Margaret W. Kelly and Charles T. Eton were the witnesses examined yesterday.

SAYS HE LOST AND WAS ROBBED AT POKER

Employe of Swift & Co. Admits Shortage of $5,000.

St. Louis, Mo., July 12.—H. H. Boatright of Harrisburg, Ill., was locked in the East St. Louis jail today on a charge of embezzling $5,000 from Swift & Co. He was found by the auditor of the company at Clinton, Ia., after a chase over four states.

Boatright today admitted the shortage, but said he lost part of the money and was robbed of the rest while playing poker at Harrisburg.

Boatright was marooned in Harrisburg during the flood and said he lost about $1,500 while gambling there, and that after a lapse of consciousness he found the other $3,500 gone. He thinks he was drugged.

A Very Attractive Booklet Which Aids Tourists; Courtesy of the Glass Block Store.

Few booklets ever published have received more favorable comment than the one just published by The Glass Block Store. It has proven of great assistance to strangers in locating all the interesting sights of our city. The front and back covers of the book show a picture of the aerial bridge with one of the largest passenger boats entering the harbor.

The sixteen pages contain the very latest pictures of the city's beautiful parks and drives, with a two-page panorama view of Duluth, overlooking the lake and harbor. The booklet was designed and written by Mr. Moss, publicity manager of The Glass Block Store, and contains accurate information about every point of interest in Duluth. The printing was done by the Lane Printing company, 32 West Michigan street, and reflects much credit on the firm, whose artistic work is recognized all over the Northwest.

SECOND SERIES OF EXCURSIONS

Cheap Trips on Lake and River Offered By Herald.

On Monday morning will begin the next series of Herald excursions and from the interest shown already next week's trips promise to break all records. The weather man has acted kindly toward The Herald excursions thus far. The days have been balmy and the sun has smiled in its warmest fashion. So far the cold and rain has held off for the last of the week. And the outlook is that the same happy conditions will return next week.

The first excursion, on Monday morning, will be up the river to Fond du Lac. This is a delightfully long ride and for less money than it could be had in any other place in the country. Twenty-five cents is the fare for the round trip.

The Columbia is used on the river trip and the start is made from the Fifth avenue dock.

On Tuesday afternoon the Steamer America will take Herald readers to Two Harbors, a fine voyage along the north shore. Then on Wednesday comes that beautiful trip along the south shore of Lake Superior. All these excursions are offered at reduced fares. But to take advantage of these cheap rates you must buy your tickets at The Herald office. They may be obtained a week in advance.

"KID" TAYLOR CAPTURED

Notorious North Dakota Horse Thief Caught in Montana.

Williston, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Kid" Taylor, notorious alleged horse thief, has been captured in Montana. He served time in this state and after his release is charged with renewing his old-time activities.

CONGRESSMAN ENTERTAINED.

Luncheon and Dinner Given for W. S. Hammond By Friends Here.

Congressman W. S. Hammond of the Second Minnesota district, who came to Duluth yesterday to address the Minnesota Bankers' association, left last night for his home at St. James. He will remain there about two weeks, returning to Washington about Aug. 1.

Mr. Hammond was the guest of C. I. McNair of Cloquet at luncheon yesterday at the Kitchi Gammi club. About twelve people from Cloquet and Duluth attended. Mr. Hammond was also entertained by a party of Duluth friends at dinner at the Northland Country club last evening.

IN WATER LONG TIME.

Body of Minneapolis Brick Mason Taken From the Red River.

Wahpeton, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Floating in the Red river, probably for miles, the body of Owen Trainor, a brick mason of Minneapolis, was found in the river here. It was identified from a membership card in the bricklayer's union. His mother resides at 1716 Tenth street south, Minneapolis. The body had evidently been in the water for some time.

To Eliminate Danger Crossing.

Buffalo, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the dangers of the crossings on the Northern Pacific at this point are to be removed as a result of the inspection of local conditions by the state railway commission. Formerly the tracks ran on the level with the streets, but when the grade was reduced two or three years ago a cut from ten to twenty feet deep was made. All the crossings have been extremely dangerous and the railroad will be ordered to widen the inclines and cut down the sides so drivers can more easily see approaching trains.

ABANDONED FIGHT AGAINST EXTRADITION.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. J. Vollmer and Isadore Droskins made an unsuccessful fight to prevent being brought back here to face charges growing out of their departure from the state with two automobiles on which C. R. Verry of Park River had mortgages. They made application in Seattle, Wash., for a writ of habeas corpus, but before a hearing was held, decided to abandon the attempt at escaping in that manner.

The two automobiles were shipped from St. Paul to San Francisco, Cal., and advices received from there are to the effect that the cars were received yesterday. They probably will be sold there.

The accused are expected home tonight in charge of the local sheriff.

Grand Forks Event.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Former officers of Grand Forks county will hold a reunion here next Wednesday when the laying of the cornerstone of the new $200,000 courthouse takes place. The reunion is being planned by the present board, and they expect to make that one of the striking features of the day's festivities.

Governor L. B. Hanna will be present.

North Dakota Tennis Meet.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota tennis tournament will be held here Aug. 11 to 16. Fred M. Willson of St. Paul must defend his title as North Dakota champion.

Trafford Jayne and F. Stellwagen of Minneapolis are the present holders of the Red River Valley doubles, and will be compelled to defend that title.

H. G. Mayes of Winnipeg, a member of the Canadian team, is the holder of the Red River Valley singles championship.

Less Fargo School Taxes.

Fargo, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school taxes for Fargo will be almost a third less this year than last. The budget by the board of education is only $70,000 instead of $103,000 lastyear. The budget was the largest in the history of the city and was because of the construction of an expensive school building in the Fourth ward.

New Treatment Greatly Interest Fat Folks

(From The Family Physician)

They say that the advent of the boranium jujube as a flesh-reducer has resulted in an extraordinary demand on the druggists for these delicious edibles. They seem to have made a hit with the corpulently inclined not only because of their effectiveness, but because their use entails no inconvenience or hardship, no sacrifice of time or energy. Those who object to dieting, exercising, Turkish baths, strong internal treatment and other distasteful methods, find the eating of boranium jujubes a pleasant relief. These delicious jujubes are entirely harmless and will not injure the stomach or other organs, as do most obesity medicines. They are said to bring satisfactory results in most cases if but one is taken after each meal and one before retiring. As they can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket, this is another feature which appeals to many.

PASS ON THE MONEY BILL

Democrats of House Committee Make Only Minor Changes.

Chamber of Commerce Committee Approves the Measure.

Washington, July 12.—The administration plan for a government-controlled federal reserve board to administer the entire banking system provided for in the Glass currency bill, was indorsed practically without amendment by the Democratic members of the house banking committee. After some discussion they agreed on the salary of $10,000 a year for each member of the board. The bill was amended, however, to provide that the four members of the board to be appointed by the president should be distributed geographically throughout the country, and to require that they should devote their time to duties on the board.

Satisfied with the work of the conference during the last two days, the Democrats adjourned until Monday.

The conference considered terms on which state banks may become members of the regional reserve banks, and the division of earnings. The provision limiting shareholders to an annual cumulative dividend of 5 per cent was approved.

It was agreed that all net earnings of the reserve banks above the 5 per cent dividends to the stockholders, should be paid to the government, the 20 per cent surplus of each bank remaining the property of the government, so as to put the stockholding banks at all times on an equal basis.

Chamber of Commerce Reports.

The currency and banking committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which has been in special session for several days, has telegraphed a 4,000-word report on the administration currency bill to San Francisco for the meeting there next Monday of the chamber's board of directors. The committee approved the essential points of the bill, but suggested several amendments to "improve and strengthen it."

It recommended that the Federal reserve board which would control the system of reserve banks be increased from seven to nine, the original seven choosing the additional members; that the board itself elect a governor and vice governor, and that the directors of the Federal reserve banks be empowered to elect a Federal advisory council to sit in conference at stated intervals with the board.

That reserve banks be at least equal to private banking establishments was urged in the report as essential in order that they may have the "desired potency in the foreign exchange movements."

In this connection it was suggested that in the creation of the reserve banks a beginning be made in the present central reserve cities.

The committee also urged that the limitation of $500,000,000 on issues of Federal reserve notes was unnecessary and undesirable, and that the assumption of an obligation by the government to redeem the reserve notes was unnecessary and "might in critical times seriously embarrass the treasury."

MAYOR ISSUES ORDERS FOR ARREST

Three Men Charged With Violation of Building Ordinance.

Employes of the building inspector's office are now checking up buildings and dwellings which have been erected in the last few months to see that they conform to the plans which were filed at the time the permits were issued.

Thus far three have been discovered which have not been constructed as represented to the city officials. The owners are C. O. M. Sundberg, C. G. Anderson and George J. Drolet. Mayor Prince has directed that warrants for their arrest be issued.

The mayor says that some people labor under the impression that after they submit plans which comply with the building regulations, enabling them to obtain the necessary permit, they can go ahead building to suit their fancy. He declares that this is not the way the city is doing business.

ELKS ADJOURN.

Prizes Are Awarded for Competitions at Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., July 12.—The forty-ninth reunion of the grand lodge of Elks closed last night with a ball in the state armory attended by several thousand members of the order. Before leaving for Seattle, the Pacific coast lodge presented to Rochester lodge an $8,000 group of elk, mounted. The group consists of a big elk with mammoth antlers, a cow and calf. The presentation speech was made by Exalted Ruler Raymond L. Hodgson.

Prizes were awarded for the various Elks' competitions, as follows:

Competitive drill, Denver, Colo., first prize, $500; Battle Creek, Mich., second prize, $300.

Best band in line, Alexander's band of Wilkesbarre, first prize, $250; Elks' band of Battle Creek, Mich., second prize, $100.

Greatest aggregated mileage in attendance, Seattle, first, $250; Denver, second, $100.

Most unique uniform in line, Sayre, Pa., first, $300; Cleveland second, $200.

Most attractive float in the parade, Seattle, first, $500; Sayre, Pa., second, $300.

Best appearance in line, Buffalo, first, $200; Denver, second, $100.

SEEKS $900,000 IN OLEO TAXES.

Washington, July 12.—Commissioner Osborn of the internal revenue bureau has begun an investigation to determine whether there is due the Federal treasury $900,000 in oleomargarine taxes from manufacturers in Chicago and elsewhere, as recently reported by the Chicago grand jury. The grand jury's report criticized treasury officials of the previous administration for compromising for $100,000 a $1,000,000 oleomargarine tax claim by the government, and found indications of $900,000 still being due the government for taxes on the products at periods other than the dates covered by the compromise.

The question involves whether a certain cotton seed oil used in making the oleomargarine was colored or uncolored.

SOCIALIST EDITOR IS ORDERED FROM TOWN

Business Men of Bandon, Or., Tell Him Never to Return.

Bandon, Or., July 12.—Dr. B. K. Leach, a Socialist editor, was driven out of Bandon yesterday, following a notice served on him at a mass meeting of 600 citizens that his presence would no longer be tolerated. Leach was escorted by a committee to a boat, placed aboard, sent to Coquille, across the bay, placed ashore and directed never to return to Bandon. Sixteen automobile loads of business men went from Marshfield to Coquille, to meet Leach there and see that he kept going.

Leach was driven away because of violent utterances printed in his weekly paper. He attacked the American flag and supported the Industrial Workers of the World propaganda. Warnings that an invasion of Industrial Workers was imminent prompted the citizens to drive Leach out, the leaders say, as a "measure of precaution."

I. W. W. Organizers Acquitted.

Oregon City, Or., July 12.—Fourteen organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World, on trial here on the charge of rioting in connection with their activity in bringing about a strike of paper mill employes, were acquitted by a jury last night.

"A DREAM OF MANY LANDS"
HUNTERS PARK, July 16th, 8 P.M.
ADMISSION 50c.

TWO ARE EXECUTED.

One Dies for Assault and Second for Murder.

Sacramento, Cal., July 12.—Jacob Oppenheimer, whom criminologists have termed one of America's extraordinary convicts, was hanged at Folsom prison yesterday. Though he had killed two men, it was not for murder that Oppenheimer gave up his life. His crime was an attack on a fellow prisoner, and his is said to be the first case in this country of a felon being executed for simple assault.

Oppenheimer, when a messenger boy of 14 years, tried to kill his superintendent and was given a workhouse sentence. Later he was convicted for robbery and sent to Folsom prison for fifty years. A man named Ross, who had been the principal witness for the prosecution, later was himself sent to prison. Oppenheimer met him at the gate and murdered him.

For that crime Oppenheimer's sentence was lengthened to life imprisonment and he was transferred to San Quentin. There he attacked a guard and latter a fellow prisoner, and for the latter assault he was sentenced to death under California's law, enacted in 1907, making an attack by a convict on a guard or fellow prisoner a capital offense. An enemy, Francisco Quijada, a murderer, awaiting execution, was killed in prison by Oppenheimer.

His last request was that the women of California keep up their fight for the abolition of capital punishment.

Hanged for Murders.

San Quentin, Cal., July 12.—Frank Bauwerarts was hanged in the prison here yesterday for the murder of two women near Riverside a year ago.

Hayes Is Arkansas Nominee.

Little Rock, Ark., July 12.—George W. Hayes is declared by the state supreme court to be the Democratic nominee for governor of Arkansas. The decision was rendered on the appeal from the county chancery court's ruling taken by Former Congressman Stephen Brundidge, Hayes' opponent in the recent primary.

DULUTH YOUNG WOMAN IS A HUMAN ENCYCLOPAEDIA

MISS KATHERINE L. DEVINE,
"High Priestess of the Temple for Distribution of Facts."

Who is the best-informed woman in Duluth?

If you were asked that question you probably would hesitate, and then want time to think it over. But if you were to make your decision through of questions answered by a Duluth girl every day, figuring, too, on the scope of the queries, it wouldn't be so difficult to say.

The place is given Miss Katharine L. Devine, the question target in the Hanna information bureau. To her go the hundreds of tourists that visit Duluth daily, and each one of whom seems fortified with at least a score of questions. And she answers them all. Now the information that a bureau of this kind is supposed to dole out isn't found in the books you use in school. It is practical knowledge about a great variety of subjects and can't be acquired in a single evening or a single week.

Miss Devine is a shrewd, young business woman. She is accustomed to meeting people and it's almost a ten to one shot that she's got you sized up and knows about what you're going to say before you open your mouth. When she took the position at the Hanna bureau she realized that it meant study and lots of it. But she didn't attend any night school unless the one she heid in her own home could be called such. Then she was teacher and the entire class, too. No regular text books for her, but time tables, maps of rivers and lakes and railroads she tackled with avidity. So when the tourist season opened she was fairly well prepared.

At that Miss Devine never dreamed of the wonderful assortment or variety of questions that would be propounded.

Daily Routine.

Here is a brief outline of the daily routine:

Two simpering maids enter. They're all in white from their beplumed hats to the toes of their buckskin shoes. They come from some inland town and they're "just crazy to see Duluth." But they don't know how to start. To Miss Devine's desk they blushingly make their way. Now the high priestess of the Temple for the Distribution of Facts looks at them pleasantly. They may be years older than she, but she speaks to them in a kind, motherly fashion.

"How long will you be here?" asks Miss Devine.

"Why, we're leaving tonight," answers one, "but we have four hours, and we ought to see all of Duluth in that time.'

"That would be quite impossible," but I can outline a four hours' trip that will be of absorbing interest."

Then Miss Devine gets busy. She suggests a boulevard ride, a trip to the ship canal, the docks or the parks. In a very few minutes she has the four hours' itinerary finished. The young women depart pleased. And the surprising part of it is that so many return and tell Miss Devine what a splendid time they had, how every minute was put in to advantage and, better yes, that they're coming again.

Next comes a business man from a small town in Dakota. He has his wife with him. This is the unwritten rule of small business men in Dakota—elsewhere, too. He has four days here, and wants to go around and see things, but he doesn't care to sink too much money into the enterprise. Miss Devine figures accordingly. A popular boat trip on the lake or river, which is always a treat and never expensive, is suggested along with a program for every one of the four days.

The Dakota people enjoy themselves. They see more in four days than many Duluthians would in a decade and they go away happy. System is a great thing any way you take it.

Then comes a man from the big town—probably a large Eastern city. He doesn't hesitate about seeking an information bureau even though he pretends to know about everything worth knowing.

Wants Some Fishing.

"I want a few days' fishing. No, bass fishing, of course. I must leave here Thursday night. Or can I get a boat Friday morning? I have to be in Chicago by the steenth. Where can I get a guide? Are there plenty of fish there? Oh yes, of course. A train at 10 o'clock? Fine. Get the tackle there? Letter to So and So? Thank you I'll bring you a couple when I return."

He's off for a few days' stay at some lake.

Then there are other tourists who just delight in asking questions. They want the geological formation of the hills on which Duluth was built, the depth of the ship canal, the length of Lake Superior, the price of real estate and almost everything from pins to pianos and rat traps to runabouts.

Some want to know about licenses, hunting, dogs and even marriage. They want a good preacher to tie the knot.

Miss Devine has won the particular regard of bridal couples. From Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota they come. Her gracious way appeals to them. Perhaps she's the first person they've met on their short trip who hasn't stared at them and giggled. There's an instantaneous bond of friendship.

Only a few days ago Miss Devine looked over the book while a winsome bride was registering for tourists' enroll at the bureau.

"Don't look at her when she's writing," said the blushing bridegroom seriously. "She's awful shy. Why she can't comb her hair if I'm looking at her."

Hit With Newlyweds.

"Yes, the newlyweds seem to be particularly friendly toward me," said Miss Devine today. "I don't know yet whether they're looking for sympathy or not. At any rate I try to make them feel at home, and any one knows that's hard enough when you're dealing with bridal couples.

"While frequently the questions hurled at one here are enough to stagger you the work on the whole is very interesting. It gets you mighty close to human life. And the surprising thing, and by the way one of the real rewards, comes when the visitors take time to return here and thank you for the little service rendered.

"They go away with a better impression of Duluth because their time has been well spent. Many who travel extensively have expressed their wonder at other cities which have no bureaus. The fact that they are set adrift in a strange town by themselves doesn't appeal for any person realizes that a stranger doesn't know the best way to put in his time.

"We answer inquiries regarding Duluth from all over the country, from Maine to Oregon. Right now I might state that the bureau has plenty of literature about Duluth which we will be glad to furnish local people who wish to mail it to friends or relatives in distant cities. Autoists are coming in greater numbers each year and almost every day we receive requests by mail for auto maps. On all I try to impress the greatness of Duluth, and I feel we are getting results."

All of which shows that in addition to being a splendidly capable, gracious and practical business woman, Miss Devine is most loyal.

SIX KILLED WHEN ENGINE HITS AUTO.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—Carl Huffman, his wife and three children, and his aunt, Miss Missouri Huffman, were killed almost in front of the old San Gabriel mission, when their automobile was struck by a locomotive running at high speed. A fourth child, a little girl, leaped from the motor car just before the crash and escaped with minor injuries. Huffman, who was wealthy, formerly resided with his family at Carruthersville, Mo.

SLATED FOR JOB; KILLED BY AUTO.

Little Rock, Ark., July 12.—J. H. Harrod, 63 years old, slated for the United States district attorneyship for the eastern district of Arkansas, was killed, and Joseph Coates, aged 13, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by J. F. Madding, as they passed around the rear of a street car.

Madding surrendered to the police and later was charged with murder and assault. He was denied bail. The police, fearing violence, turned Madding over to the sheriff, who took him out of the city.

ACCIDENT DUE TO CARELESSNESS.

Washington, July 12.—Carelessness in repairing leaky gaskets caused the accident aboard the battleship Louisiana off Newport, R. I., recently, when the bonnet of a big sea valve came off and threatened the ship with scuttling. This was the report of the board of inquiry, and Secretary Daniels addressed letters to Lieut. Frank W. Sterling, engineer officer of the vessel, and Machinist Henry Lowell, admonishing them to be more careful in the future.

Wilson Threatener Is Sane.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Gulseppi Pomaro, the Youngstown, Ohio, Italian held by Federal authorities on a charge of sending a threatening letter to President Wilson, is declared sane in a report of Dr. A. B. Howard to Federal Judge William L. Day. At Pomaro's trial in June the jury was unable to agree.

WE CURE
WHERE OTHERS FAIL

We do not follow the old beaten path and administer medicines that have proven to be worthless. WE USE NO DOPE, WE DO NOT EXPERIMENT WITH YOUR TROUBLES, WE DO NOT TAKE INCURABLE CASES, for if we accept any patient we will guarantee that we can cure his or her case. WE CURE THE DISEASE, BECAUSE OUR METHODS ARE THE NATURAL HEALING METHODS. WE GET OUT THE POISON OF THE SYSTEM, which is the cause of the trouble. We GET THE HEALING REMEDIES INTO THE DISEASED ORGANS BY ELECTRICITY. You know what Duluth and all other big cities would be without electricity. Ours is the advanced method of treating disease. If you have tried all others and have found no cure, ELECTRO MEDICINE WILL CURE YOU, BECAUSE IT IS THE STRONGEST, THE SAFEST, THE PAINLESS, THE MOST NATURAL HEALING FORCE IN THE WORLD. IT WILL CURE YOU WHEN ALL OTHERS HAVE FAILED TO DO SO!

CONSUMPTION OF GLANDS

I am suffering from tuberculosis of my chesthone and of the glands where I had running sores for many months, and all the medicine, all the other doctors had given me did not help.

I have treated only for a few weeks with the Electro Medical Doctors, and have improved so rapidly that I really think their methods of treating my disease is simply wonderful. I am sure that I will be healthy again in the near future. I can not recommend these doctors high enough.

FEELS LIKE NEW MAN

Duluth, June 30,1913.

I have been suffering from Rheumatism and had taken medicines for it for seven weeks, but nothing did help me, till I went to the Electro Medical Doctors.

I had only taken two treatments that made me feel like a new man, though I will not say that I am cured, but it is a wonderful thing to feel like a new person after only the first two treatments.

At the Lyceum

No mere "black and white" illustrations of the Panama canal can begin to give a true impression of either its impressive magnitude or the kalideoscope variety of color. Color is everywhere, in the varying strata of the great Culebra cut, in the giant 105-ton shovel that lifts its great loads as lightly as if they were a feather, in the stupendous gates of the locks themselves with their colorful coat of red paint, in the granite walls of the locks in the waters of the Chagres river, the Spillway and the Gatun lake, the skies and the floating clouds in the tropical sunlight. All this riot of color is vividly shown by Kinemacolor. The effects of the canal on the commerce of the Pacific coast of North and South America will be incalculable. The Orient and the Occident will be comparatively near neighbors and South America will be brought to our very doors. Already the nations are planning to send great fleets of passenger and freight vessels through the canal, and the flags of all the world will soon be flying across the Isthmus. The great celebration to be given in San Francisco in 1915 to celebrate the opening of the canal will be one of the world's wonders and promises to surpass the beautiful "White City" that added so much fame to Chicago.

The site drawn for the exposition is one of beautiful possibilities and California with her noted enterprise and patriotism will undoubtedly build on a more magnificent scale than has ever been attempted before.

Through the medium of Kinemacolor the United States government has perpetuated the building of the canal and complete records have been made of the wonderous work in natural color motion photography that it may be handed down to posterity. Every detail of its making was supervised by Rear Admiral Colby N. Chester, U. S. N., which guarantees their authenticity and caused ex-President Taft to remark during their exhibition at the White House by Col. Goethals, "I gained more knowledge of the canal frm Kinemacolor then on all my trips to the Isthmus."

The New York Road company will show these government supervised pictures together with other of the world's happenings when it begins a six days' engagement at the Lyceum beginnin Sunday aftern ooluJyng beginning Sunday afternoon, July 13 and running continuously from 1:30 to 10:30 daily.

H. H. Frazee, producer of "Fine Feathers," wishes to deny the rumor that has been current for the past few days that there has been a change in the all star cast presenting this play, and which will appear at the Lyceum late this month. It is not surprising that some people should doubt the authenticity of an announcement that an original all star cast in an enormous success should be sent out West even before it had been seen in the large cities of the East outside of Chicago and New York; but such is the case with "Fine Feathers." It is coming here direct from the Astor theater, New York, with the entire cast in tact, including Robert Edeson, Milton Lackaye, Max Figman, Rose Coghlan, Lolita Robertson and Amelia Sumers. This is the first time that an original cast of stars has left for the coast—and "Fine Feathers" boasts of the most distinguished cast of stars ever assembled for a modern play. "Fine Feathers" is the work of Eugene Walter author of "Paid in Full" and "The Easiest Way," and this play is easily his masterpiece.

Direct from 150 nights of record breaking business at the Broadway theater, New York, Lew Fields' all star "Hanky Panky" company will come to the Lyceum theater for an engagement of two nights, commencing Monday, Aug. 4.

Max Rogers, (the surviving member ber of the famous Rogers brothers), Harry Cooper, Hugh Cameron, Clay Smith, Arthur Carleton, Christine Nielsen, Myrtle Gilbert, Virginia Evans, Flo May, and William Montgomery and Florence Moore are heading the company.

A travesty on the "Get-rich-quick" adventures of Rufus Wallingford occupies the mjaor portion of the action.

The book is by Edgar Smith, the lyrics by E. Ray Goetz and the music by A. Baldwin Cloane.

There is said to be a large ensemble and the costumes and scenery are announced as pretentious.

At the Empress

A program of varletics has been secured to play the Empress theater for four days commencing with the matinee Sunday, July 13. The top line feature will be Paul Kleist and his company presenting a spectacular novelty entitled "The Land of Dreams." This act is one continuous round of pleasure and enjoyment. The antics of Mr. Kleist who appears in clown costume are said to be very funny. The act is all in black and white. Only these two colors prevail and the striking appearance they make shows the art of stage setting. Many objects both small and large are seen to float and twist, turn and wiggle in mid air, and you soon believe as the program bills the act, that you are in the "Land of Dreams."

Thrills and many laughs are the order of things in the act presented by The Bluches, a duo of clever jumpers and comedy falls. A large tightly spread net covering the Empress stage about four feet from the floor is the cause of many feats in the line of jumps, falls and whirls in midair. The comedy element of the act is a great laugh getter.

Come prepared for laughter, when Norwood and Norwood, "The News Boy and The Coon" appear on the stage. Their act is said to be one long laugh.

Miss Frances Girard, comedienne, has voice, ability and personality. Furthermore she enunciates distinctly. She sings well and puts her songs over effectively. Her monolog is a clever piece of work securing many laughs.

In "Cleveland's Musical Follies of 1913," which comes to the Empress theater for an engagement of three days starting Thursday matinee, July 17, Harry B. Cleveland's idea of what the American playgoer wants and really hungers for is typified.

He says: "Why, oh, why, the problem play? Now, what the public really wants is something to make them forget the back yard or the stuffy office and think only of what might have been if what is, wasn't." Mr. Cleveland is a typical Parisian, and the cast of singers, dancers and bevy of stage beauties in his biggest success is expected to appeal strongly to seekers after the novel and unique in crisp entertainment.

In his big musical revue, "The Follies of 1913," Mr. Cleveland has used the highest grade slang, interspersed with songs and dances and a goodly supply of unique novelties. But, the whole has been Americanized to the tip of a graceful finger and the sting of objection entirely removed.

Tabloid Tablets.

"Merry Mary," a Woolfolk tabloid, closed its second season in Fargo, N. D., last week. The members of the company returned to Chicago.

Albert L. Webster, of the Webster Theatrical exchange of Fargo, N. D., was in Chicago recently to arrange for the production of tabloids at his theaters.

The Empire theater of Dubuque, is playing tabloids. G. Franklin White is manager of the house.

Boyle Woolfolk, the well-known tabloid producer of the Windy City, returned to his office last week, from a prolonged tour of the Northwest in the interests of his firm. Judging from his appearance, Mr. Woolfolk thoroughly enjoyed himself, in spite of the business interests, which kept him busy.

Boyle Woolfolk is now engaging players to appear in his tabs next season. The first three tabs to make their appearance next season will be "Buster Brown," "The Three Twins" and "Rockabye Baby." Thomas Whiffen, who played in "The Time, The Place and The Girl," the season recently closed, will play one of the principal parts in "The Three Twins."

Quinn and Mitchell, well known in some of the big-time vaudeville houses around the country, will appear next season in the "Funny Mr. Dooley."

London, England, has caught the tabloid fever, according to those in a position to know. A number of applications for manuscripts have already been received from managers on the other side of the big pond.

Hamilton Coleman, producing director of the Western Extravaganza company, is now rehearsing a little sketch, which is scheduled to make its first appearance at the Lincoln Hippodrome on Saturday, June 28. It is entitled, "Nina's Burglars, and there are five people in the cast.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Harrison Grey Fiske announces the production early in the coming season of a new comedy by Ferenc Molnar, which scored a marked success in Vienna, as "Der Leibgardist," a success which was duplicated in Berlin as "Der Gardeoflizier." The unique features of the play, which tells very humorouhly a story of the domestic relations of a famous actor and his actress wife, and its undoubted success abroad, made the competition for the American rights very keen, Mr. Fiske finally securing them from Hans Bartsch, who held them direct from the author. Molnar, who is the leading playwright of Hungary, is said in the new play to display his dramatic deftness and his cleverness in dialogue at an even higher pitch than in "The Devil," the only one of his plays with which the American audiences are familiar. In the new comedy one of the principal characters, after that of the actor, is a critic, who is "a friend of the family." There is no triangle involved, but the relations of the critic to the family give rise to many most amusing episodes.

The circumstances surrounding the American production of "The Devil" are doubtless still fresh in mind, the final result being the simultaneous Broadway production of two different versions. These complications were due to a lack of copyright agreement between the United States and Hungary, a condition which has since been remedied, so that the new play and Mr. Fiske's rights in it are completely protected.

Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robinson will dedicate the Shubert theater on West Forty-fourth street this fall, according to the announcement made by Lee Shubert on the latter's return from Europe. The English actor-manager will then make his farewell tour with Gertrude Elliott in a repertoire of Shakespeare plays and standard successes.

To write a comic opera in which all the characters shall be of the negro race is the task to which Miss Katherine Lorraine, one of the cabaret performers in Los Angeles, has set herself as the result of a letter received from an old negro mammy who nursed her when she was a baby.

Miss Lorraine hails from Memphis and was raised on a large cotton plantation, where there were many darky workers. Her old mammy was her favorite, however. The latter's two sons have been in the minstrel field for some time, but as the taste for minstrelsy seems to be dying out they decided to branch into the comic opera with a colored company.

Over in London Charles F. Towle is completing extensive arrangements for the American tour of the Stratford-on-Avon players from the endowed Memorial theater. The organization will begin its American invasion at the Princess theater, Toronto, on Oct. 27. The repertory includes "King John," "Henry IV," "Henry V," "Richard II," "Richard III," "The Taming of the Shrew," The Merchant of Venice," "Twelfth Night," "Romeo and Juliet," "As You Like It," "Othello, "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Hamlet."

The Shuberts have secured the American rights of "Panthea," and it is possible that Jane Cowl will play the title role.

It is said that George C. Tyler's plans for the American tour of Cyril Maude and Winfred Emery for next season have undergone a pronounced change. It is now unlikely that Maude will be seen in New York at all, but will confine himself to the cities of Canada. The reason is that the author of "Gen. John Regan," the drama in which Tyler expected to present the English actor here, objects to Mr. Maude appearing in it on the ground that it is totally unfit for his style and personality. As there are no other new plays in London available which are of the Cyril Maude type he may have to fall back upon a repertoire of his earlier successes, and they have all been done here by John Drew and other European stars. "Gen. John Regan" is an Irish play, and the title part is distinctly Hibernian in character, while Mr. Maude has won his fame in polite English roles.

It is intimated that William Collier is to transfer his allegiance from Lew Fields to Charles Frohman. Fields and Collier are very good friends, but there are others in the arrangement, it is said, for whom Collier does not care.

The announcement that Mrs. George Arliss is to appear in support of George Arliss in "Disraeli" next season recalls that actor's statement in his address to the graduates of a school of acting a year ago: "I am the despair of press agents. I have only one wife, and, to make matters worse, she is the same wife I had ten years ago."

Harrison Gray Fiske has engaged Julian L'Estrange, the English actor, for an important role in a foreign comedy which he is to produce early in the season. In order to accept the engagement Mr. L'Estrange relinquished a prominent part in a forthcoming London production.

David Belasco has engaged John Miltern for an important role in the play by Roland B. Molineaux, "The Man Inside." Mr. Miltern has sailed for Europe to remain until the beginning of rehearsals.

"La Demoiselle du Magasin," a comedy by Frantz Fonson and Fernand Wicheler, which has been current in Paris for six months, will be produced in New York City this fall by Henry W. Savage, who acquired the American rights. The producing rights of this piece have been sold for every European country except Turkey. "La Demoiselle du Magasin" is now housed at the Theater du Vaudeville.

"Pay Day" is the title of the comedy with which Wagenhals and Kemper will return to the producing field, and is expected to be presented at a Broadway theater in the fall. Lincoln J. Wagenhals returned from Europe last week, and he is now engaging people for the new production.

The first performance of a modern melodrama by a company of lilliputians will be given at the Eltinge theater late this month as a special matinee of "Within the Law." Helen Ware, the present leading woman in "Within the Law," is sponsor for the undertaking, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to charity. A. H. Woods has donated the theater and the American Play company the play. Lord Roberts, a midget actor known to vaudeville, has agreed to organize the split-size cast, and will himself act the role of Joe Garson.

Fred Hallen and Joseph Hart are again to be associated. Their reunion will not mean Hart's return to the stage, but it does bring the former costars together in the capacity of manager and star. Through an arrangement recently effected Hallen will star this saeson in a musical play under Hart's direction, and several manuscripts are now under consideration for this purpose. Mollie Fuller, Mr. Hallen's wife, will be an important member of the company. Hart will continue also to produce vaudeville acts as in the past.

It is now planned to open the new Sam S. Shubert theater in West Forty-second street, New York, on Oct. 6. The initial attraction will probably be "The Great Adventure," the American rights of which are controlled by Winthrop Ames.

One of the notable dramatic attractions to be seen in this city the coming season will be Messrs. Shubert's production of Edward Sheldon's latest play "Romance" which has just closed a long season at Maxine Elliott's theater, New York. This is the play which created so much comment when produced in New York on account of the dramatic love story detailed, as the chief figures in the story are an Episcopalian clergyman and an opera singer. Mr. Sheldon modestly asserts that "Romance," in his opinion, is the best play he has ever done. Theatergoers, of course, will recall his "Salvation Nell," "The Boss" and "The Nigger."

VIOLA ALLEN IN NEW YORK

Miss Viola Allen, the well known American actress, after the close of her theatrical season last spring, spent two months in Europe, and as usual she writes most interestingly of the things she saw and the people she met. Her comparisons of French and American dramatic art are the opinions of a wise and experienced observer.

Miss Allen spent the last two weeks of May in Paris, and the following are some observations she made while there:

"I must tell you that on Thursday last I saw the first production in French at the Odeon of an old Chinese morality play, 'L'Avise'—'The Miser'—translated and arranged for the stage by Madame Judith Gautier. And what was still more interesting to me was that Madame Gautier herself delivered a lecture before the performance on Chinese art and literature. Like everything else Chinese their ideas of dramatic art are so precisely opposite to our western standards that the play seemed almost childlike in its simplicity even though it contained great elemental truths, which in this instance were clothed in poetic language of great beauty.

"The Chinese stage has continued to fulfill its mission of giving moral lessons to the people, whereas the old English morality plays, written and presented for the same purpose, existed only until the spread of education and the printing of books became so general that it was no longer necessary to teach in that way from the stage. In China, however, when progress was shown, and, as during the reign of the Manchu, they obliged thestories of all plays to antedate the conquest, the morality drama naturally continued in vogue. In 'L'Avise,' of course, the dire effects of avarice are shown in graphic fashion, yet not without some comedy. The acting was excellent, and Madame Gautier intensely interesting. The loyalty of the French to their idols is wonderful, and it was beautiful to see, even after all these years of devotion, the enthusiasm with which the daughter of Theophile Gautier was received.

French and American Tastes.

"Another play that I enjoyed in Paris was 'La Semaine Folle,' a charmingly acted piece containing very strong scenes which, though apparently very convincing to the Parisian, would, I think, seem utterly without foundation to an American audience. It is curious what a prominent part a woman's dowry plays in the making of satisfactory marriages in Europe, while it is about the last thing the average American thinks or cares about. But of course the Old World conventions and circumstances differ entirely from those of the New World.

"'La Rue de Sentics' is another success which, though extremely well done, did not seem to me especially new either in theme or treatment, but the French dramatists and apparently the French audiences seem never to weary of the eternal triangle.

"A revival of 'Cyrano de Bergerac' was doing wonderfully well, and the repertoire performances at the Comedie Francaise were, of course, a joy and a delight to me. Although the enthusiasts for the establishment of a national theater always point to the House of Moliere as a model, I doubt if England or America could ever sustain an institution comparable to it. I find the love of the drama much more genuine in France than in America or England, and there is such a deep-rooted reverence and admiration for the dramatic accomplishments of the past that constant revivals of the French classics are imperative as well as profitable. We in America are suffering from an over-abundance of dramatic fare. We are neither proud nor satisfied with our own products. During the season in New York we are not content without importing plays and artists from all over the world, which is something never dreamed of or called for in any European city."

IN THE REALM OF VAUDEVILLE

Emma Carus is a big hit on Pantages time.

Inness & Ryan advertise a "brand new act."

Stella Mayhew goes on the Orpheum circuit.

Cameron & O'Connor are now on the big time.

Lew Welch is to offer "The Old Clothes Man."

Frederick Warde is to be seen in vaudeville.

The Curzon sisters may go into a production.

Carl McCullough is to make the Orpheum tour.

"Hags" Leighton goes with George Evans' minstrels.

Jean Weir is at the Fifth Avenue in New York city this week.

Clara Morton returns to vaudeville this fall after announcing her "retirement."

Lincoln Beachey made his vaudeville debut June 30 at the Palace Music hall in Chicago.

"When Women Rule," a skit from Lew Field's "All Aboard," is playing the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

Donez Halstead has purchased "The Training Camp," a sketch which gives opportunity for real prize fighters to appear on the stage.

Azalea Fontaine, formerly of Fontaine & Fisher, and Nellie Bergen, who has been doing a single, have formed a partnership and are offering a new act entitled "The Everglades of Florida," which is highly spoken of.

La Petite duo (Francis and Madeline Murray), scored the hit of the bill at the Auditorium in Chicago June 29, when a benefit performance was given for the fund to build and equip a hospital for actors.

Jones, Linick & Schaefer let people into the Colonial during the opening week for a penny each but Mrs. Caroline Kohl went them one better July 4 when admission to the Majestic, Chicago, was absolutely free to all who asked.

Joseph E. Bernard is in receipt of the manuscript for a new act which he will play next season. It was written by Willard Mack, author of "Kick In" and has the title "Who Is She?" Mr. Bernard expects the playlet to be a worthy successor to "The Newly Married Man." The new act will be something on the order of his present offering with a fine role for Mr. Bernard and a good part for his associate player. Joe Paige Smith will be Mr. Bernard's Eastern agent for the new act and James B. McKowen will be his Western representative.

Menlo E. Moore, a producer of vaudeville acts, can remain silent in four languages. That is the reason, perhaps, that his ventures are always successes. He can listen, he can feel the public pulse far in advance, and he can provide what is sought in the way of amusement. He is slight in stature, but big in brain. He was one of the pioneers in the moving picture business in Indiana. He opened a "movie" there eight years ago, the fifth picture house in that state.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR LICENSE TO SELL, MORTGAGE OR LEASE LAND—

State of Minnesota,
County of St. Louis.—ss.

In probate court. In the matter of the estate of J. George Scarlett, Deceased.

The petition of Alfred Scarlett, as representative of the above named decedent, having been filed in this Court, representing, among other things, that for reasons stated in said petition, it is necessary and for the best interests of the estate of said decedent and of all persons interested therein, to sell certain lands of said decedent in said petition described and praying that license be to him granted to sell the said land: It is ordered, That said petition be heard before this Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 28th day of July, 1913 at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted. Ordered further, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Herald, according to law, and by mailing a copy of this order to each heir and interested party at least fourteen days before the said date of hearing.

SATURDAY—Lark o' the Lake program at boat club in afternoon and parade in evening; dancing parties at Oatka and main houses of boat club.

Master Louis Gomberg, who was the mascot of the convention, has been invited by Otto Meyer of Minneapolis to appear in concert in Minneapolis with a 10-year-old pupil of Mr. Meyer's, who will make her initial appearance this year in a concert tour.

Interest in social circles is turned toward the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret McKindley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKindley, of 1022 East First street, to Walter Amundson, which will take place on Tuesday, July 22, at the new St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Miss Ruth Gibbons of Ardmore, Pa., who will be maid of honor, has been a guest here for a few weeks and Miss Leslie Brown of Lexington, Mass., and Miss Helen Gallup of Sandusky, Ohio, arrived today to be bridesmaids at the wedding. Otto Davies and Earl Maul of Minneapolis arrived today to be ushers and Edwin G. Sykes of Canton, N. Y., who is a cousin of the bride-to-be, has been here for a few days.

A large number of social affairs have been planned for Miss McKindley and Mr. Amundson, next week's affairs including a bridge-tea party on Monday afternoon at which Mrs. Homer Collins will be hostess at her home, 2526 East First street. Wednesday evening Fred Wolvin will be host at a dance at the country club and Friday evening Miss Dorothy Baker will give a dinner for the bridal party at the country club, followed by a large dancing party.

Last evening Miss Elizabeth Congdon entertained at a dancing party at her home, Thirty-second avenue east and London road, for Miss McKindley and Mr. Amundson at which there were forty guests and this afternoon Miss Marie D'Autremont entertained at a luncheon and theater party at the Lyceum.

Misses Marion and Wilhelmina Fitger of 629 East First street will entertain at a dinner dance at their summer home, "Elmhurst," this evening in compliment to their guests, Miss Evelyn McArthur of Montreal and Miss Dorothy Neal of Syracuse. Thirty guests will be included in the party.

Mrs. Hugh R. Burgo of 1732 East Third street entertained at an informal bridge party this afternoon for Mrs. Maurice Scroggins of Minneapolis, who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. H. McLean. Mrs. Arthur G. Hatch of 114 South Fourteenth avenue east will entertain at a luncheon for Mrs. Scroggins Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Tuohy of 1923 East Third street left this morning to be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Will Mayo of Rochester, on a trip down the Mississippi in the latter's house boat. Automobiles will be carried and motor trips will be taken along the way.

There have been a large number of events of wide interest during the past week in social circles. The wedding of Miss Virginia Frick and Howard Manley on Wednesday evening was attended by a large number of guests, and Monday and Tuesday affairs were given for the bridal party.

A luncheon at the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club on Monday, and a dinner party Tuesday evening at the Country club, were affairs given for Eastern visitors here on Steel company business; the weekly bridge and dinner dance at the Northland club on Thursday drew a large attendance, many parties being given by different hosts; picnic parties the first of the week crowded the Oatka and Spirit Lake houses of the Boat club, and a lawn supper Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keyes, 2029 East Third street, given by the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church, and a social tea Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Z. D. Scott by the Young Matron's club of the First Baptist church in compliment to Mrs. Sayles were social affairs in church circles. Social affairs in the nature of box and theater parties, automobile rides and luncheons have centered about Miss Frances Starr, who has been playing here this week in "The Case of Becky," ending with a matinee tea this afternoon at the palm room of the Spalding.

Three conventions have made Duluth a busy place during the week, the women of Duluth being particularly interested in the convention of the Minnesota State Music Teachers' association which was held here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Among the social affairs given for the visiting musicians was the reception Wednesday evening at the Spalding hotel ball room with a stunt program given by local people; an automobile ride Thursday morning followed by a delightful buffet luncheon at the Smith & Allen Music company store at which about 100 guests were served. Baskets of flowers made pretty decoration for the affair which was given by the music company in compliment to the visitors. A musical program of victrola and pianola music accompanied the luncheon. Yesterday the plans for a river ride followed by a picnic supper at Spirit Lake were upset by the rain, but a buffet luncheon was served in the Spalding ball room and a few of the musicians enjoyed the ride up the river and back without landing at Spirit Lake.

The closing session of the convention was given up to the transaction of business the following officers being elected yesterday afternoon:

Leopold Bruenner of St. Paul, president; Miss Ruth Alta Rogers of Duluth, first vice president; Mrs. Wilma Anderson-Gilman of Minneapolis, second vice president; Edward Towler of Minneapolis, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Mrs. Hattie Smith Fuller of Albert Lea, chairman of the public school music section, and Miss Harriet Benjamin of Rochester, auditor. The following committee appointed to arrange next year's program is: Charles H. Fisher St. Paul; William McPhail, Minneapolis; Mrs. Marie Meyers Ten Broeck of Minneapolis; Mrs. Hattie Smith Fuller of Albert Lea and Miss Isabel Pearson of Duluth.

Members of the board of examinations whose term expired this year were re-elected, with the exception of Willard Patton of Minneapolis, who is succeeded on the voice examination committee by J. Austin Williams of Minneapolis. Mr. Patton expects to take the examinations next spring, and so did not wish to serve on the committee again. The re-elected examiners will serve for three years. They are Miss Isobel Pearson of Duluth, organ board; Maximillian Dick of St. Paul, violin; and Mr. Bruenner, piano. Examinations will take place annually or semi-annually at the discretion of the executive board. They will be conducted in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Winona.

Events Planned

The members of the Magbiah club will have a picnic supper Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at Lester park, in case the weather is unfavorable the affair will be postponed until Thursday evening.

• • •

A joint picnic of the West Duluth, Duluth Scandinavian and Central W. T. C. U. will be held Thursday at Lincoln park. Festivities will begin at 2 o'clock. A literary and musical program is being arranged under the direction of Mrs. Alfred Jaques.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Steele announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Clara V. Breslin to Louis L. Chapman of this city.

Weddings

The following account of the wedding of a Duluth young man which took place Tuesday evening in Minneapolis will interest friends here.

"Last evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Arthur Inwood, of Pascal avenue, St. Paul, took place the marriage of Miss Eva Willoughby Brady and Edward Lincoln Kimball of Duluth. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom, Rev. Jeremiah Kimball of Duluth. The bride's only attendant was her flower girl, Kathryn Inwood, and the wedding march, Tonelli's arrangement of the 'Lohengrin' bridal chorus, was played by Margaret Inwood. The guests included Rev. and Mrs. Jeremiah Kimball and Miss Anna Kimball of Duluth. Miss Elizabeth Bowen of Minneapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brady of Wheaton, Minn.

Miss Erna Bartholdi of 514 East Fifth street entertained last evening at a kitchen shower in honor of Miss Gertrude H. Nisius, whose wedding to George C. Ketner of this city will take place next Tuesday. Hearts and flowers formed pretty decorations and at the supper served, covers were laid for twenty.

Miss Marie F. Miller of 827 East Fifth street was also hostess at a bundle shower on Tuesday evening for Miss Nisius at her home.

The wedding will take place at the St. Mathew's Evangelical Lutheran church at 7:30 o'clock, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 712 East Fifth street.

The wedding of Miss Signe Anderson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Anderson to Rudolph Abraham, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Abraham of 1431 East Superior street will be an event of next Tuesday.

Events of Interest

DULUTH GIRLS ARE OUTDOOR SPORT ENTHUSIASTS

THE BLUES.

THE REDS.

—Photos by McKenzie.

Duluth girls are lovers of out-door sports and summer and winter alike find them busy at some form of healthful exercise. The summer favorites are sailing and paddling, tennis, golf and motoring. There are large numbers of girls who excel in every one of these sports and links, courts and the bay and river are scenes of activity from the season's start to finish.

Swimming is rather limited on account of the coolness of the waters in lake and bay, but there are many who enjoy the pool at the Y. W. C. A. and there are many expert swimmers and divers among the matrons and girls who go there.

The war canoes have always held a fascination for the girls who are members of the Boat club and each season two crews are made up of paddlers in the contest for the racing championship. The girls part on the water sports programs of the Lark o' the Lake is always an enjoyable event which develops considerable interest.

There's many a girl too who can meet experienced sailors on their own ground (?) when it comes to handling a sailboat, and Ladies' day at the club is an event eagerly looked forward to by the girls who sail.

The golf enthusiasts have regular putting contests every second Saturday at the Country club and the tennis courts there are popular places. A tournament of the girls and women tennis players is being planned for later in the summer and the golfers are planning a contest.

Automobile racing has not been taken up by the girls of the city, though many handle their own cars with skill and excellent judgment.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Nation's Heroic Women Deserve to Be Honored, Too.

Just last week there was a great celebration at Gettysburg, Pa., on the field of one of the bloodiest and most momentous battles of the great Civil war. Thither thousands of veterans of that great conflict, wearing both the blue and the gray, met in reunion, after fifty years, to live over the scenes again, grateful that peace had been restored and the country united in the bonds of common brotherhood.

These old soldiers were sent to this reunion by a grateful government and generous states, and everything possible was done for them to make them happy and comfortable. This is all as it should be; but in reading of this event I could not help reflecting upon the fact that there were other heroes of that great war who deserve honor—even greater honor, if that were possible, than these brave men.

I mean, of course, the wives and mothers and sisters and daughters and sweethearts who were left behind to fight poverty, danger and lonesomeness, as well as terror lest their loved ones never return. The song or story has never yet been written that will pay the full measure of tribute to these heroic women.

I read that the widow of one Confederate general, who played a great part in that historic battle, went to this reunion, but without any invitation and with no provision made even for her comfort. She had to shift for herself while there until her husband's old followers found out her plight and made provision for her.

Not only in war, but in times of peace, are women as great heroes as men. There is scarcely a great man whom one could mention who would not admit that he owed much of his success to his mother or his wife, or to both.

Women's power and influence over men is as potent, perhaps, today as it ever was, but I, for one, tremble for the future. I fear we are very much in danger of losing it. When women go far afield from their own pursuits and from the sphere of home, they run the chance of losing the influence that has been theirs ever since the beginning of history in civilized countries.

As women we cannot be too careful lest we lose the influence that is rightfully ours, and dissipate our right to homage and to honor from the other sex.

MISS MILDRED WASHBURN AND MISS MARJORIE McKILLOP. DANCE OF THE CIVIL WAR.

Worked out in interesting detail a "Dream of Many Lands" in pageant form will be presented next Wednesday evening at Hunter's Park at the beautiful little natural amphitheater on the grounds of the R. M. Hunter home under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of the Glen Avon Presbyterian church.

The young people of the community from the college girls down to the little school children will take part in the pageant, which runs through eight scenes representing different lands with characteristic pictures. Quaint costumes have been prepared to make the pictures perfect and interesting dances and songs have been worked out.

Little Master John Mitchell in the role of a woodland elf will open the pageant with a prologue in which he is given magic power by the Queen of Mortals to behold the people of the nations of the world who pass in review before him that he may choose from them the land he likes best, his being the only speaking part of the affair.

The program as arranged, follows:

I. Prologue—The Woodland elf is given magic power by the Queen of Mortals so that he may behold the nations of the world and may choose, if he wishes, one of these companies of mortals to be his own.

II. France—Playtime in Brittany. Song of the fisher maidens. Dance, La Pastourelle.

III. (a). England—Scene under the greenwood tree, Sherwood forest. Robin Hood and his men lay plans for releasing a poor woman's son who has been caught poaching and taken to jail by the sheriff. (b.) Scotland. The well in the glen. The song of a passerby. The call of the hunt. (c.) reland—Fairy haunts. The fairy shoemaker busy at his task. The coming of "Humans." Dance of peasants.

IV. Holland—Early morning. The watch. Venders coming to market. Song of the flower vender. Balloon dance.

V. Germany—The soldiers bivouac. "When I come, when I come, when I come back again." The gypsy singer. The call to battle.

VI. Japan. Scene, before the gateway of the temple. A crowd of onlookers wait outside the temple for a wedding party. They sing and are amused by the dance of a ragged Jap and four little maids. The wedding procession. The ceremony at the temple gate—the lighting and uniting of torches.

VII. Greece—Scene, The Grove of Diana. Greek maidens dance of worship to Diana.

VIII. America—In seven periods. The children of the forest. The explorer. Puritans. Strife. Progress westward bound. Spirits of war. Age of prosperity. Pageant of resources. Agriculture. Ore. Coal. Cotton.

The closing scene is perhaps the most interesting representing America and the dances will typify various historical periods. The first will be an Indian scene in which Miss Winifred Morterud and Miss Edna Morterud will do a dance expressing the freedom and happiness of the Indian before the arrival of the white man to America. The second will be a dance by Mrs. Ralph Paddock of Chicago who will express the Revolutionary war spirit. Her costume will be dark smoke colored garments and following will be the dance of the Civil war period by Miss Marjorie McKillop and Miss Mildred Miller in blue and grey costume.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

GREEK FESTIVAL.

Society Will Give Entertainment for Benefit of Home.

A Greek festival will be presented here the last week in August under the auspices and business management of the board of directors of the Children's home for the benefit of that institution. Miss Blair, the Eastern dancing instructress who is teaching classes in Duluth this summer, will have charge of the affair, the cast for which will be made up of about seventy-five society people. The most beautiful and latest society interpretive dances will be given with exquisite tableaux effects, and the affair promises to be one of the big attractions of the summer.

Arrangements for the affair have only been planned in a general way, as the decision to take up the affair was only made at the regular monthly business meeting of the board of directors of the Children's home, which was held yesterday at the home.

Other transactions of the board were the appointment of Mrs. Gibson L. Douglas as an active member of the board of directors; the receiving of the names of Mrs. George Claypool, Mrs. N. F. Hugo, Mrs. H. F. Salyards and Mrs. Grieser as associate members, and it was reported that the proceeds from the baseball game between the Patrick and Board of Trade teams given for the benefit of the home netted a sum of $222.59.

The board of directors extends its thanks to the following for donations during the month of June: Mrs. Alice L. Billson, $25; Mrs. E. Stone, cake and cookies; Mrs. Torrence, seven dozen bananas; G. G. Munsey, eighteen pounds of lamb; Simon Clark, ten bushels of potatoes; Miss Allace Cowan, box of children's clothing; Miss Morrow, five spreads and children's clothing; Miss Ely, six pairs of shoes; Mrs. C. N. Thorpe, boys' clothing; Floan & Leveroos company, six straw hats; Trianon dairy, milk; Miss M. Sebenius, large basket of flowers.

LUNCHEON.

Garfield Circle, G. A. R., Will Entertain Two Harbors Circle.

Garfield Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will entertain at a luncheon Tuesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Memorial hall of the courthouse in compliment to the members of the John A. Logan Circle of Two Harbors, who will be in Duluth that day. A social hour will follow the luncheon and a short business session will close the afternoon's meeting.

Finish Term.

The Philathea class of the First Presbyterian church, upon completing the course in teachers training, will adjourn until the first of September, at which time a new course of study will be taken up. The class in the meantime will visit the other Philathea classes in the city and substitute for teachers who are on their vacations.

Invited to Superior.

The members of the Central W. C. T. U. have been invited to a picnic luncheon with the members of the Superior W. C. T. U. on Tuesday of next week at Billings park, Superior. The basket lunch will be eaten at noon.

Song Recitals.

A series of three song recitals has been arranged by the J. B. Culver Woman's Relief Corps No. 69, for Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Wednesday afternoon of next week at the Y. W. C. A. hall by Lucia LaCosta, vocalist assisted by Mable Woodbury, violinist, Marian Larkin, harpist and Curtis McAdams, pianist.

The programs promise to be of interest to music lovers and a large number of tickets have already been sold for the concerts. The concerts were first planned for Memorial hall but the place has been changed to the Y. W. C. A. as the hall there is larger.

Return for Summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Munsey and their daughter, Miss Edna Munsey, who has been appearing in vaudeville work in the East, returned to Duluth yesterday. Mrs. Munsey and Miss Munsey will remain here for a short rest and visit before returning to the East where the latter will resume her singing engagements.

Miss Munsey has been well received in her vaudeville work which has been a straight singing act and has just finished a few weeks engagement at Detroit, Mich. Mr. Munsey met them there and returned with them.

Piano Recital.

RAIN IS DUE THURSDAY

Retail Grocers Will Hold Their Annual Picnic Then.

The Duluth Retail Grocers' association will hold its annual picnic Thursday at Lincoln park. Preparations are being made for making this one of the "biggest and best" ever held by the association. The general committee in charge of the affair has planned a program which will outdo any former attempt, including band music, dancing, sports and various other features.

The groceries of the city will close on Thursday at 9 o'clock in the forenoon in order that all the employes may take in the affair. The employes and their "bosses" will begin gathering at the park shortly afterwards to spend the entire day on the picnic grounds.

Dancing at the pavilion will be a feature for the young people, as well as the old people who are still young. The Third Regiment band has been employed for the entire day to keep the crowd in a musical humor, while La Brosse's orchestra will furnish the strains for the dancers.

The sporting program will begin at 1 o'clock. This part of the day's program will include the following: A married ladies' race, 50-yard dash for boys under 14 years, pie eating contest, laughing contest (for city salesmen only), 100-yard dash for grocers only, 100-yard dash free for all, tug of war between grocers and wholesalers, 100-yard dash for grocers' clerks, singing contest for girls under 10 years of age, 50-yard dash for girls under 14 years, 50-yard dash for those under 18 years, 50-yard dash for young ladies wearing the hobble skirt, cracker eating contest for boys under 16 years, a ball throwing contest and a bread baking contest for women.

The committee has also provided for giving prizes for the grocer having the largest family on the grounds as well as for the largest family outside of the grocers who attend the picnic. This means not the largest in weight but numerically.

In addition to these various contests the committee has planned to have a ladies whittling contest, a fat man's race, ladies clothes pin contest, married ladies backward race, ladies walking race, nail driving contest and a committee men's race. The committee will also give a prize to the oldest married couple on the ground.

The committee in charge of the program consists of: A. M. McEwen, M. R. Busch, G. A. Hjerpe, George H. Schantenberg, George M. Peterson, J. E. Roos and David Olson.

EXCURSION TO FOND DU LAC TOMORROW AT 9 A. M.

The steamer Plowboy will leave dock at Twenty-first avenue west at 9 a. m. tomorrow. Fare, 50 cents; children, 25 cents.

ARE ENTITLED TO REPRESENTATIVE

West End Men Behind Candidacy of L. A. Simonson, Says E. H. Olson.

L. A. Simonson, 2102 West Superior street, is the unanimous choice of the business men of the West end for school director. The business men propose to boost his candidacy on the ground that he is the only candidate from the West end and that the West end has been without a representative on the board for a year.

"We are entitled to the same consideration on the board from this end of the city and Mr. Simonsin is our choice," said E. H. Olson of Enger & Olson this morning. "The West end people intend giving him their solid support. We also will support one candidate from the eastern end of the city and another from West Duluth. We expect the other sections of the city to use the same consideration in selecting their choice for members of the board."

The city west of the Point of Rocks is now represented by L. A. Barnes and W. M. Evered, both of whose terms expire this year. Mr. Barnes is a candidate for re-election. Mrs. T. J. Davis, who was appointed a year ago to fill an unexpired term also completes her term and is a candidate for reeelection.

WOODMEN TO HEAR SECESSION TALK

John L. Sundeen and Others to Address Meeting in West End.

Secession from the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America will be advocated by speakers at Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, on Tuesday evening. John L. Sundeen of Minneapolis, prominent in the movement to get camps of the state to secede from the parent organization, will be the principal speaker.

According to insurgent members of the lodge, the principal contention is the increased cost of insurance. They claim that by putting in effect the proposed rates the order will lose over half of its membership.

It is also claimed that the changing of the rates will force many of the old members out of the order. These old men, they say, were the early organizers, who now have attained an age where they are no longer able to get insurance in other organizations, and the benefit which they expected to provide for their family in their old age would be taken from them.

The insurgents and conservatives are said to be about evenly divided in Duluth camp No. 2341 of the West end. It is proposed to take a referendum vote on the subject some time this fall. A large number of the members will attend the meeting Tuesday evening.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF FRIDHEM LODGE.

The third annual picnic of Fridhem lodge, No. 43, Independent Order of Svithlod, will be held tomorrow at Lincoln park. The committee in charge has chosen the banks of Miller's creek above Twelfth street as the spot where the festivities will be held.

A good program has been arranged for the entertainment of the members and their friends. The picnic will be open to all and no admission will be charged. Arrangements have also been made to furnish the visitors with luncheon.

Gust Hjerpe, president of the lodge, will make the principal address of welcome at the opening of the festivities. Addresses will also be given by P. E. Bergstrom and Andrew Nelson. The musical part of the program will be contributed by members of the North Star male chorus and a part of the Zenith City band.

The sports program will include races for men, women and children. Among these will be 100-yard dashes, three-legged races and sack races. Pole vaulting and a tug-of-war will also feature this program. The members of the committee are Gust Hjerpe, Gunnar Grunlund, John Nordling and Gust Bergquist.

NOSE BROKEN BY FALL FROM WAGON.

Andrew Jentoft, 327 North Twenty-third avenue west, narrowly escaped serious injury by a fall from his wagon on Grand avenue between Central and Fifty-fourth avenues. As it was he sustained a broken nose and severe bruises about the head and shoulders.

Mr. Jentoft was returning to the West end after having delivered a load of wood at West Duluth. He was standing in the box of his wagon and, while trying to get into his seat, lost his balance and fell onto the pavement, narrowly escaping being run over by the wheels.

He was taken to the West Duluth police station and his son, Alfred, notified. Dr. Robert S. Forbes was called and administered treatment to the man. After remaining in the station for a short time he was able to be removed to his home.

PAINTING BY DULUTH ARTIST IS ADMIRED.

Rudolph Ronge, 19 North Nineteenth avenue west, has just completed a beautiful painting representing Christ on the Sea of Galilee." The painting has been placed on exhibition at the altar of the First Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Fifth street.

The painting is a masterpiece of artistic workmanship. It is a striking and very expressive illustration of that impressive Bible narrative, Christ walking on the sea rescuing Peter, who on account of his little faith is sinking. In the background are seen the other disciples in the small ship struggling with the heavy sea. The painting has been admired by all who have seen it.

Mr. Ronge has gained considerable reputation as a painter. He has placed on exhibition a number of times scenes from his brush. The artist will be remembered as the man who three years ago headed the Socialist ticket for mayor. He is well known in this end of the city.

W. C. T. U. Picnic.

Lincoln park will be the scene of the joint picnic of the three Women's Christian Temperance union branches of the city next Thursday. The West Duluth, Duluth Scandinavian and Central W. C. T. U. will join in spending the day in the park.

A musical and literary program is being arranged under the direction of Mrs. Alfred Jaques, secretary of the West Duluth union. She is being assisted by committees from the other unions.

The women will carry basket lunches and spend the entire afternoon at the park. Lunches will be served at 5:30 o'clock to the members and their friends.

Says Dogs Are Nuisance.

The barking of dogs by day, and their howling and growling by night are the cause of considerable complaint by residents in the vicinity of Twenty-first avenue west and Sixth street. The racket is said to be of recent origin and caused by the late establishment of a kennel by B. J. Pierce in the rear of his home at 2107 West Sixth street.

Pierce was arrested Thursday on a complaint sworn to by Patrolman David Olson, who owns the adjoining property. The complaint stated that Pierce is maintaining a nuisance which is keeping the neighborhood awake at night and worried by day.

The barking of the dogs is said to have been especially annoying to Mrs. John

ON THE IRON RANGES

MINNESOTA MOOSE NOT DISAPPEARING

Game Warden John Mattson Says Forest Giants Are Often Seen.

There are still many moose in Minnesota—that is the four-legged sort, often referred to as monarchs of the forest, according to John Mattson of Kelsey, formerly of West Duluth, a deputy state game warden, who is in the city today.

Mr. Mattson, who is keeping an eye open for law violators on the Mesaba range, says that he recently saw some of the lordly animals in the Sturgeon lake county, near Hibbing and more recently saw one south of Eveleth. Despite reports to the contrary the warden believes that hunters next fall will be able to kill their quota, one moose per hunter. "I have also seen quite a number of deer," said Mr. Mattson, "and I believe the deer hunting will be good."

He said that pot hunters are pretty well scared out of the range section although occasionally there may be some illegal killing of game. Mr. Mattson reports that the season has been quite favorable for all kinds of wild game and nimrods should not fear about this year's hunting.

BULL PUP PROVES UNDOING OF COLE

Row Over Dog Causes Arrest in Hibbing on Bemidji Charge.

Hibbing, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claiming ownership to a $150 English bull pup proved the undoing of George Cole, arrested here yesterday on a Bemidji charge. Cole escaped from the Bemidji police several weeks ago when he was allowed to leave the jail following the dismissal of a case brought against him for operating an unlawful road house, when it was shown in district court that the warrant causing his arrest was sworn out by Municipal Judge Crowell, under the jurisdiction of court commissioner, an office he formerly held, was not legal. Before another warrant could be secured Cole had made good his escape. He came to Hibbing, bringing with him the English pup. He had no sooner appeared on the street when the dog was claimed by another, and the matter was finally settled in the municipal court. News of the scrap reached Bemidji with the result that the Hibbing police were notified to arrest Cole. He was taken back to Bemidji by Deputy Sheriff Denly last night.

STIR UP NASHWAUK.

Aurora Firemen Boosters Arouse Interest in Coming Meet.

Nashwauk, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of Aurora firemen's tournament enthisiasts arrived here Friday afternoon in a drizzling rain, accompanied by the Aurora High School band. They stirred up considerable excitement while in the village, and a large crowd turned out and enjoyed several pieces played by the Aurora band. The party then left for Grand Rapids. It is expected that a large crowd from the Western Mesaba range will take in the big event at Aurora.

George H. Chalmers, who has been acting in the capacity as agent for the Great Northern, left the fore part of the week for Buhl, where he has accepted the agency for the same company. Mr. Chalmers has a wide circle of friends here and his capacity as agent here was well appreciated.

Sheriff T. T. Riley of Grand Rapids was a village visitor Friday.

S. George left Monday for his home in the southern part of the state, where he will spend a few weeks visiting relatives and friends.

CAMPING BY LAKE.

Young People Enjoying Outing on Shores of Lake Pokegama.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. W. C. Gilbert and Miss Katherine Gilbert are chaperoning a party of young people who are camping at the Marr cottages on Lake Pokegama for a week. The party includes the Misses Ruby Halvorson of Grand Forks, N. D., Helen Marr of Minneapolis, Myrtle Johnston, Margaret O'Connell, Helen Gilbert, Vona Claus, Gertrude Hooper, Gertrude Shook, Mary D'Anjou, Ethel Kremer and Ethel Benton of Grand Rapids; Messrs. Robert and Wayne Gilbert, David Kribs, Otto Littcke, Alonzo Powers, John Benton, Will Whaling, all of the Rapids, James Venner of Hibbing, Sylvester Strain of Duluth, and Eugene Patten of Castleton, N. D.

Edward Rankin, cashier at the Great Northern station, is on his annual vacation in Chicago and Winnipeg.

Judge of Probate Clarence Webster, and County Treasurer John McMahon have returned from a three days' fishing trip in the Marcell district.

Mrs. A. A. Kremera is entertaining her sister, Miss Thompson of Saginaw, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Wardell have returned from Iowa and Southern Minnesota. Mr. Wardell's health is much improved.

E. J. McGowan has been entertaining his brother, Peter McGowan of Superior, for a few days.

G. Herbert Swift, who is in charge of the Episcopal church for the summer, has returned from a week's stay at his home in Sauk Center.

Mrs. George Lothrop and her daughter, Mrs. Frank McMahon, have been in Duluth for a few days.

County Attorney R. A. McOuat has returned from St. Paul.

Edwin Murphy, son of Rev. and Mrs. Murphy, formerly of this town and now of Wadena, has been the guest of friends in town during the past week.

Miss Frances Winsor has been spending the week at Fond du Lac, where she is one of the guests at a house party, given by Miss Clara Schulte of Duluth. Miss Winsor will return on Monday, bringing Miss Schulte with her for a week's visit.

RAILROAD USING ITS NEW DEPOT

Canadian Northern's New Virginia Structure Is in Service.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent J. H. Elliott and other division officers of the Canadian Northern road, including the dispatchers are located in the new depot and the old library building is vacated.

It stands directly in front of the new building, cutting off the view completely from Chestnut street but will be moved a few rods. Then the grounds about the depot will be filled in and sodded making the depot and its surroundings one of the show places of the city. The new depot is of the type which has been adopted by the Canadian Northern and all the road's depots in the larger Canadian cities are similar in architecture.

THIRD TICKET IS BEING DISCUSSED

No Lack of Candidates for Positions on Virginia School Board.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. B. Holley, Edward C. A. Johnson and James Mahoney will make up the school board ticket in opposition to the "Citizens" ticket, indorsed a few days ago. It is announced that the new ticket stands for the elimination of everything pertaining to politics from schools and school board affairs and the highest officials of the schools. The "Citizens" candidates also stand for efficiency and ever that it is the other side which has introduced politics into school board affairs. There is also talk of a third ticket which will be entered as independent and neutral. In any event there will be much interest in the election to be held next Saturday.

WANT MORE MONEY.

Men Loading Pulpwood at Two Harbors Go on Strike.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—So far 4,820 cords of pulpwood have been shipped this season from this port to the Hammermill Paper company at Erie, Pa. The barge Santiago is now in port loading and it is expected to clear the first of the week with about 1,750 cords.

The work of loading has been delayed considerably this week because of a shortage of men. Contractor George Spurbeck, who has charge of the unloading and loading of the pulpwood, is paying $3.50 per day for men and nearly his entire crew demanded a 50-cent raise in pay this week. The demand was refused and the men quit. It is not anticipated that the work will be delayed long on account of the strike. There are still about 12,000 cords yet to be shipped.

SHRINERS' PICNIC.

Members of Aad Temple Are Again Going to Two Harbors.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of Aad temple of Duluth will again hold their annual picnic here. The exact date has not been decided upon as yet, but it will be undoubtedly during the first or second week in August. The Shriners held their annual picnic here last year and the memory of some of the amusing stunts which they pulled off lingered long on the minds of the many hundred people who met them at the dock when they arrived from Duluth on board the steamer Easton. According to local Shriners last year's capers will not be in it with what will happen here this year, as every endeavor possible will be pushed to make it the biggest day of fun and folly Two Harbors has ever had.

AURORA BOOSTERS VISIT RANGE TOWNS.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accompanied by the Aurora band, several automobile loads of boosters from the eastern end of the range made the tour of the range towns as far as Chisholm and Hibbing Friday advertising the firemen's tournament to be held at Aurora this month. Gilbert is also to have a tournament and there is much rivalry between the two towns as to which will have the largest crowds in attendance.

VIRGINIA PERSONALS.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Agnes Gallpeau of Calumet, Mich., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Anthony.

Mrs. Alice Giles of the postoffice force has gone to Ironwood on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Schoening are entertaining their niece, Miss May Rack, of Minneapolis.

Mrs. C. H. Rattinger and daughter are spending several weeks with Mr. Rattinger, manager of the Hotel Fay.

Miss Ruth Granseth of Duluth is the guest of Miss Geda Grande and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grande.

Miss Phoebe Greeley of Stillwater is visiting her brother, Douglas Greeley, of Virginia and her niece, Mrs. Fred Drotning, of Chisholm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Bolthouse, formerly of Virginia, now of Grand Rapids, Mich., spent a part of the week here.

Peter Western, former cashier of the State bank of Virginia, who has spent several months in Alabama, is expected home in a few days to spend two weeks at Virginia and at Ely, where he formerly resided.

Walter J. Markham is expected home in a day or two from Minneapolis, where he has been taking treatment at a hospital.

Miss Mary Fisher, sister of Dr. J. M. Fisher, has come from Missouri to join her brother here, and they will keep house at 504 Cedar street.

E. Z. Griggs, pioneer resident of Virginia, who now lives at Athens, Pa., and Tarpon Springs, Fla., is expected in a few days to visit his sons, O. H. Griggs and Richard L. Griggs.

Hibbing Man Buys Horse.

Hibbing, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Nutwood, a 4-year-old bright chestnut pacer, arrived yesterday having been purchased by James Wilkens. The mare is sired by Elderwood 2-4¼ and her dam is Elsie Nutwood 2-16¼.

SCHOOL DISTRICT GROWING RAPIDLY

No. 12, Ely and Winton Will Need More Buildings Soon.

Ely, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual election of School District No. 12 will be held next Saturday at the Central school building, the polls being open from 4 p. m. till 8. Two directors will be elected for three-year terms to fill the places made vacant by the expiring of the terms of Axel Anderson and A. J. Thomas. Mr. Anderson is the representative on the board from Winton. Both will probably stand for re-election. This district includes the five schools in the city of Ely, also one of the schools at Winton and the school at White Iron.

The past year has been very prosperous for the schools, the enrollment being the largest on record and shows a decided growth which will in the near future demand the building of a new school building here or the enlarging of one of the present buildings. A new school building is being built at Winton to cost over $20,000, and admirably suited for the work, provisions being made for domestic science and the manual training departments.

GILBERT VS. SCHLEY.

Rival Ball Teams to Contest at Gilbert Sunday.

Gilbert, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gilbert and Schley fire departments will meet Sunday on the diamond to decide the championship between the two teams, providing the grounds are dry. If the grounds are wet they will play water polo. The boys are all on edge and are ready to bunt the stuffings out of the sphere provided by our old friend Spalding. Each team is confidently awaiting the cry of play ball. The proceeds are for the tournament fund for the tournament to be held in Gilbert, Aug. 18, 19 and 20.

TOWER INTERESTED.

Much Discussion There Over Coming School Meeting.

Tower, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the chief topics of discussion here now is the coming school meeting when many matters pertaining to the needs of the schools will be discussed. So far Nels J. Benson is the only candidate for re-election. There is some opposition to issuing bonds for building purposes although the present building is one of the oldest in this section. The question of increasing the school year from nine to ten months is also being agitated and there are other important matters to be discussed.

JURY DISAGREES.

No Verdict in Case Against Alleged Illegal Hunter.

Ely, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in municipal court that heard the evidence in the case against C. De Chaney for an alleged violation of the game laws, failed to agree. Game Wardens James and Beattie allege that they visited De Chaney's place at Crane Lake Portage, about forty miles north from Tower on the evening of June 30, and found five quarters of deer in the defendant's ice house. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest, for having one quarter of venison in his possession. He was tried in municipal court, found guilty, and then he appealed the case to the district court. Another warrant was sworn out charging him with having another quarter in his possession and on this charge he was tried yesterday.

CLOQUET TEAM TO PLAY HIBBING NINE.

Hibbing, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hibbing Trolley league nine was to have played Gilbert Saturday and Sunday, but when word reached here that Gilbert had withdrawn from the league, steps were immediately taken to bring Cloquet here for two games. The first will be played this afternoon with Cunningham, who goes to the American league Aug. 1, in the box for the visitors.

Visiting in Virginia.

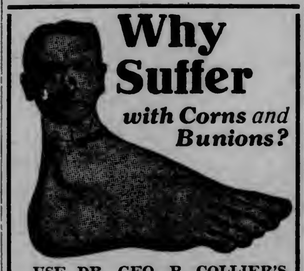

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. H. B. Sutheland, late of Duluth is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Crowe and will go to Grand Rapids to join her husband who has taken the pastorate of the Presbyterian church.

Virginia Alumni Meet.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school alumni association will meet at the Technical building tonight at 7:30 when officers will be elected for the year and a committee will be appointed to arrange for the annual banquet.

Repairing Ely Church.

Ely, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the improvements being made at the Methodist church there was no service held last Sunday and none will be held next Sunday. It is thought that by Sunday, July 20 the edifice will be ready for the continuance of the regular services. The church has been raised, a splendid basement provided, the building reshingled, the interior will be redecorated, re-wired, and other improvements made which will make it most complete when finished.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 90°, and 100°. ○ clear; ◑ partly cloudy; ● cloudy; R rain; S snow; M report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. First figures, temperature, second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

The weather man gave the Lark o' the Lake another jolt last night, and the conditions today do not promise any let-up for the street carnival. The convention visitors were drenched yesterday and their Duluth hosts were peeved. Showers or thunder storms are predicted for tonight.

Fair weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and it will set at 8:08 this evening, giving fifteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions: The barometric depressions centered over Manitoba and Lake Superior resulted in light to heavy and rather general rains throughout the Northwest and Lake region, Ohio, Mississippi and Lower Missouri vallyes, South Atlantic and Gulf states during the last twenty-four hours. The barometer is falling again in the Northwest and West, indicating unsettled weather conditions. Hot weather continued in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Northern Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Florida. Indications favor local showers at the Head of the Lakes this afternoon or tonight. Storm southwest warnings were ordered 10 p. m. Friday at ports on Lakes Huron, Michigan and Superior."

Central Forecasts.

Chicago, July 12.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Iowa—Fair and cooler tonight; Sunday fair.

Upper Michigan—Showers this afternoon or tonight; cooler in east and south portions; Sunday probably fair.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Sunday.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Sunday.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; slightly warmer Sunday in west portion.

South Dakota—Fair tonight; Sunday fair with slightly warmer in west portion.

Montana—Fair tonight and Sunday; warmer Sunday.

Upper Lakes—Brisk to high westerly winds. Showers this afternoon and tonight; Sunday probably fair weather.

TO HELP SETTLERS.

Wisconsin Loan Company to Aid Farmers Around Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. S. Webb, vice president, and R. L. MacPherson, attorney for the Wisconsin Loan & Trust company who have been looking over the farming country in this section where the company has made loans to settlers announced before leaving yesterday that $1,000,000 would be loaned to farmers in this section.

Mr. Webb said he found farming conditions above expectations. He said that this section of the state will undoubtedly become the garden spot of the northwest just as soon as the country becomes more developed.

Mining Man Injured.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Samuel Hoar, Jr., is being treated at his home here for injuries received in the Eaton mine at Kinney yesterday when he was caught between the skip and the shaft and had three ribs and an ankle broken. His escape from death is considered miraculous.

Wood Employed by Clubs.

Virginia, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—George E. Wood, former game warden, has almost completely recovered from an operation at a local hospital and resumed the prosecution of illegal hunters and fishermen in the employ of the gun clubs of the range.

BIG SUM INVOLVED.

Foreclosure Proceedings Are Taken Against Soo Power Company.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 12.—A decrease of foreclosure was ordered in United States court here yesterday in the case of the Real Estate company of Philadelphia vs. the Michigan & Lake Superior Power company, calling for payment by the power company of the sum of $5,285,000 in two days. In default of payment the property of the power company will be sold at public auction.

The trust company was appointed trustee in a mortgage written ten years ago and since that time the power company has made no payment. The court also orders the power company to pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from May, 1913 and costs.

John S. Lawrence of Grand Rapids, master in chancery, declared that in default of payment there will be a public sale of the power property within seven weeks.

ELBA AGAINST ELY.

Mesaba Range Team to Play Vermilion Range Nine.

Gilbert, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elba ball team will go to Ely to play the fast Ely nine tomorrow.

The Elba team has played nine games this season and lost but one. The reason for the one loss was because some of the regular players were out of the game.

ODD FELLOWS WILL HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Preparations are being made by Odd Fellow lodges of the city and surrounding country to attend the annual picnic to be given by the Head of the Lakes I. O. O. F. Picnic association on Aug. 7. The picnic will be held this year at Cloquet.

The committee in charge has made special arrangements to run a special train to Cloquet. The train will leave the city at 9 o'clock in the morning and will return at 9:30 p. m.

A program of sports which will include races, tugs of war, baseball and several other features is being arranged. The Cloquet lodge is also making plans for holding a number of water sports on the St. Louis river. This lodge has the co-operation of the Cloquet Commercial club, which has pledged that everybody in Cloquet will close up his place of business in order that they may attend the picnic.

The local contingent will take a band, and band music for concert and dancing will be enjoyed all day. A pavilion is being erected at the picnic grounds for dancing purposes.

It is expected that about 2,000 people will attend the picnic. These include members from Duluth, Superior and Proctor as well as many from the smaller towns along the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads. The committee having charge of the picnic consists of: Daniel Cameron of Superior, chairman; George M. Peterson, secretary; C. W. Towner of Proctor, J. H. Paul, L. A. Simonson and T. J. St. Germain of this city and W. T. DeLong of Superior.

WYNDMERE, N. D., FIRE.

Hard Work By Fire Fighters Saves the Peerless Hotel.

Wyndmere, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The firemen of this place had the hardest fight in their history to prevent the loss of the business portion of the town when a fire started in the Peerless hotel. The flames were finally controlled in the second building. The loss was about $10,000. The Lidgerwood fire department was appealed to and started across country with four horses attached to the apparatus. After they had gone six miles they were stopped by a telephone along a farmers' line as the fire had been controlled by the local department.

Healthy Shampoo for Oily or Too Dry Hair

(From Pilgrim Magazine)

Excessive oiliness not only gives the hair, a disagreeable greasy, matted, unkempt appearance, but interferes with its growth. Frequent washing is advisable, yet this often means too much alkali, borax or other substance leading to another dangerous extreme. It robs the scalp of its natural oil, causes hair to break, split or fall out. Perhaps the safest way to wash any hair, whether too oily or too dry, is with caxined oatmeal compound, using nothing in addition. This pleasant powder, procurable at any drug store, makes the cleanest, most convenient shampoo. It is not only very cleansing, but is said to promote a luxuriant growth of hair.

Put a teaspoonful of the caxined oatmeal compound into a teacup of hot water, stir well, pour onto the hair, rubbing it in thoroughly. Carefully rinse afterward. This leaves the hair light, fluffy and glossy. Those troubled with dandruff, itchy scalp, dull, lifeless, fading, straggly, brittle, harsh or oily hair, are strongly advised to try this.

To the Fishermen.

The "South Shore" evening train of Saturdays and Sundays stops at Lake Millecent, Cusson and Delta. The westbound morning train of Sundays and Mondays will stop at same points to pick you up. Low excursion fares authorized. Special Sunday morning train to Bibon and local points, returning in the evening. Leave Duluth 7:45 a. m., Superior 8:12 a. m., returning arrive Superior 8:40 p. m., Duluth 9:20 p. m. A golden opportunity for capturing the finny tribe.

FINE EXHIBITS ARE EXPECTED

Grand Forks, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Expecting record exhibits in the live stock, horse, poultry, agricultural and other departments, officers of the North Dakota State Fair association are completing final details for the big fair which will open July 22, continuing till July 26.

Indications are that the fair this year will break all previous records. Cattle entries are so great that several new barns will have to be constructed to care for them, while in the horse department at least one new barn will have to be erected within the coming few days.

Cut Out Carnival Feature.

One of the distinctive features this year is the elimination of the carnival feature. That a carnival "attraction" cannot be classed as an educational feature, and is not therefore entitled to a place on the fair grounds, is the opinion held by the officers of the association, and that fact was responsible for their decision to da away with the feature.

Race entries are more numerous than anticipated. Practically every event has filled, and for the events that did not fill special races will be created instead.

One day of automobile and motorcycle racing will be featured.

YOUR NERVES NEED

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

Especially recommended for physical and mental exhaustion, nervousness and insomnia.

BOOTLEGGERS ARE GIVEN SENTENCES.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pleading guilty to a charge of blindpigging, and admitting that it was his second offense, John Hansen was sentenced yesterday by Judge K. E. Leighton to six months in the state penitentiary. The sentence was imposed under a new law passed by the last legislature, and Judge Leighton was acting for Judge Butts, who is engaged at Bowbells.

Ed Johnson, pleading guilty to a charge of bootlegging, got eight months in the penitentiary, this being his first conviction.

William Glondford, captured near Sarles after he had stolen a horse, seeks immunity from punishment on the plea that he is insane, and an investigation has been ordered.

MIDWAY BRIEFS.

Midway, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. Olson of the firm of Enger & Olson, Duluth, was a Midway caller Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid Society and the Young People's Society of the Swedish Lutheran church were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Lackie on Wednesday.

Mrs. Erick Peterson of New York Mills, and Mrs. Johnson of Duluth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Stark recently.

Erick Johnson attended the funeral of Albert Siordal at West Duluth on Monday.

Miss Hilda Erickson visited for a few days with friends at Fond du Lac, Minn.

P. McDonnell has completed his grading job on the Spirit Lake Transfer railway. Anderson & Barnard are expecting to complete their job in four weeks. The laying of the steel has begun on the north end of the line.

The farmers are expecting to begin haying next week. A fairly good crop is anticipated.

MINISTERS LIABLE.

May Be Prosecuted for Marrying Couples on June Licenses.

Fargo, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of ministers in North Dakota are liable to prosecution for performing marriages ceremonies in July on licenses issued prior to the first of the month when the law became effective. At present certificates of physical examination by physicians are necessary requisites for marriage ceremonies. To avoid this many couples who wanted to be married this month secured licenses in June. Such marriages are held to be binding, but ministers who perform them are subject to heavy penalty.

To Dedicate North Dakota Church.

Oakes, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. J. N. Kindahl of Northfield, Minn, president of St. Olaf's college, will be in charge of dedicatory services which will be held tomorrow, when the United Norwegian Lutheran church at Clement is formally dedicated. The meeting of the Aberdeen circuit of the church will be opened at the same time. On Sunday, July 20, President Kildahl will speak at the dedication of a church at Cogswell, N. D.

WILL MAKE RADIATORS

Another New Industry Secured for Duluth By Industrial Bureau.

Factory Will Erect New Building and Employ Fifty Men.

A radiator factory, representing an initial investment of $50,000 to $75,000 and employing at the start fifty men has been obtained for Duluth by the industrial bureau of the Commercial club.

Dr. B. M. Rastall, secretary of the bureau, this morning announced that the plant of the Northwestern Radiator company now operating at Sauk Center, Minn., will be removed to Duluth. A reorganization has been effected under the name of the Minnesota Radiator company, and while Sauk Center people will retain the controlling interest, Duluth capital has also been interested and J. R. McGiffert of Duluth has been elected president of the company.

A site for a new factory has been obtained by a lease on a portion of the holdings of the Zenith Furnace company at West Duluth. In addition an option has been obtained on adjoining property which will very likely be purchased. Plans are now being made for the erection of a plant 75x200 feet over all. The plant at Sauk Center will be operated while the Duluth building is being erected.

The company expects to turn out about 500,000 feet of steam and hot water radiation in the first year, and to double the output the succeeding year. One half of the capacity of the plant has been contracted for, so the company will do a going business from the start. The Sauk Center plant is said to have turned out an excellent product and to have established a reputation which insures success for the Duluth plant from the beginning.

The active management of the Duluth plant will be in charge of George K. Olmstead, an experienced mechanical engineer, graduate of the University of Illinois. It is expected that the force of fifty with which the plant will operate at the beginning will be increased to 150 within a year. At the reorganization meeting of the directors yesterday, Mr. McGiffert was elected president and Mr. Olmstead secretary and general manager. Other Duluth people interested in the industry are C. A. Duncan, J. L. Washburn, Dr. J. J. Eklund, C. D. Brewer, Reiner Hoch, Charles Neimeyer, Julius H. Barnes, Ward Ames, F. W. Paine, Zenith Furnace company and Manley-McLennan agency.

Minnesota radiators, the product of the plant, will be sold principally in the Northwestern market. The Sauk Center people, who capitalized the plant in that city, decided to move to Duluth on account of the better market for raw materials available here, and the location of Duluth as a distribution center. None of those interested in the Sauk Center plant have withdrawn their interests and they retain the control.

The industry is the eighth obtained by the industrial bureau of the Commercial club in the ten months in which it has been in operation. Two or three other good prospects are in process of development now, and Dr. Rastall has high hopes of their being obtained.

TOO MUCH MOTHER-IN-LAW.

View of St. Paul Judge in the Case of Henry Ballinger.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—Tears filled the eyes of those present in police court yesterday when Henry Ballinger, gaunt and prison pale, related a story of his eighteen months sacrifice in the prison at Stillwater for his young wife and two children. When he completed his story, Judge Hanft decided "too much mother-in-law" had resulted in the charge of cruelty being placed against Ballinger by his wife.

Supt. F. A. Whittier of the state prison told how Ballinger labored extra hours in order to earn a few additional cents to send to his wife.

Ballinger was serving a term for arson and was paroled June 6. Conviction on the cruelty charge would have resulted in his return to prison.

"My mother-in-law occupies the house on my lot and we occupy the barn," said Ballinger. "Some one puts queer ideas in my wife's head and then we have trouble. I think we'd be mighty happy alone," he continued smiling at his wife through tear-dimmed eyes.

Before discharging the man, Judge Hanft recommended that the mother-in-law be ordered off the property by civil action.

ECZEMA ON BACK, ARMS AND CHEST

Broke Out in Pimples. Itching and Burning Seemed Unbearable. Hair Fell Out Terribly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Pierson, N. Dakota. — "The eczema started on my scalp. It finally went on to the back of my neck, then on to my back, arms and chest. It broke out in pimples first and then seemed to run together in some places, making a sore about the size of a dime. At times the itching and burning were so intense that it seemed unbearable. The more I scratched it the worse it became, and there would be a slight discharge from it, especially on my scalp, so as to make my hair matted and sticky close to the scalp. The hair was dry, lifeless and thin. My hair was falling so terribly that I had begun to despair of ever finding relief. My clothing irritated the eruption on my back. The affected parts were almost a solid scab.

"I tried using ——— at first, then I tried using ——— and after an hour or so washed it off with good ——— Soap. Neither of the remedies gave any relief only for the time being. I had been bothered with eczema for about a year and a half. Then I began using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I first bathed the afflicted parts with the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. I used them daily for two months and I was cured." (Signed) Miss Mildred Dennis, Apr. 30, 1913.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient when all else has failed. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

LIVE SPORTING GOSSIP

By BRUCE

MAN is a firm established institution and he has been going on thrivingly since the day Adam appeared in the Garden of Eden. Methuselah was the Marathoner of all time, in the mere matter of years, but he finally answered the call and was returned to the land of his fathers. This week seems to be the turning point in the careers of two great Methuselah's of the diamond. Honus Wagner and Napoleon Lajoie are about through with the big league.

This season will be memorable for the retirement of these two wonderful players, if for nothing more. Years have come to us out of the past, and their coming has given life to countless predictions of the passing of the two of the mightiest war club swingers of all time. And lo and behold the years passed and this triumphing twain ruled kings of the land of swat.

But time is insatiable; into its yawning maw passes all things of life, for the great stage has many exits, and its passages are crowded with those bidding a sorrowful adieu to the field where they gloried in the flush of youth.

It is typical of life that early we look to the downfall of the great, and when this fails to come about to meet our expectations, we then grow accustomed to the great ascendancy and are all the more shocked when the fall of the great comes; though as a matter of fact our surprise should be the less.

Baseball fans of this country have come to look upon Wagner and Lajoie as immortals; as players that should go on year after year. Followers of the greatest game have looked upon this great pair as immutable—something beyond the corroding rust of time. But, alas, the time has come for the end of the matchless activity of Wagner and Lajoie, sharing with Anson, Delehanty, Billy Hamilton, Joe Kelly, Hugh Duffey and Jesse Burkett the honor of being the greatest natural hitters the grand old game has ever produced.

Down the path of the years that have cleaved out modern baseball history Wagner has been the great prop of the mighty Pirates. Huge of arm, thick of chest and broad of shoulder, he has stood at bat in the thick of countless battles, a towering Nemesis to opposing pitchers.

Ungainly, awkward, in movements the very antithesis of the swiftly gliding and agile player, this man has stood during the passing of the years as the greatest of all shortstops and perhaps the greatest batter of all time.

Opposed to the freakish Wagner was the smoothly gliding Lajoie, whose very ease and gracefulness of effort robbed him of vast credit for his inimitable accomplishments. One of the greatest fielders, making the impossible almost seem easy and supremely natural, this great player has beckoned to the call and is all but passing out of the great arena where he reigned as one of the great stars.

Younger players are coming to the front. There are the Cobbs, Jacksons and Speakers; but it is doubtful if the charge of the years will produce two who can stand in the magic circle of .300 per cent season in and season out, weaving a magic record by the brilliancy of their deeds that threatens to stand the long test of time.

Pittsburg will never seem the same again with the passing of the immortal Honus, and Cleveland, too, will lack the rocket-like swats of Larry, whose smashing attack has won countless games.

Starting in 1897 Wagner has hit over .300 per cent for sixteen successive years, making a grand average of .343. Anson is the only hitter to ever approach this, and it may be years or never before it is ever even approached again.

DURING all of next week Duluth is to be the host of countless players striving for the highest honors of the annual state tennis tournament. More stars than have ever attended a single tournament in the history of play for the challenge cup will be here to contest for laurels. The brightest luminaries of this section of the country will make this meet notable by their presence.

For the past four years Duluth has been bringing interest back to the tennis game. For some years before the period of the reconstruction the net game had been grievously neglected around the Head of the Lakes. The boat club officials took up the game and constructed courts at a great deal of expense. Other clubs joined the movement and today this city can boast of a large number of enthusiastic devotees of the racquet sport.

This spirit led to the holding here of the state tournament two years ago. This year the play promises to exceed the brilliance of the tennis of 1911, for the promise has been made of more stars and a larger number of entries.

With Armstrong, Adams, Stellwagon, Wheeler, Jayne, McGhie and numerous others, not to mention our own Kennedy boys, Dinwiddie and others, the play beginning Monday morning promises to eclipse that of any other tournament in the history of the state cup challenge.

IT MAY be interesting for some of the fans around these diggin's to know that Biddy Dolan, former first baseman of hitting proclivities in various leagues that have thrived in our midst, and John Kading, who once played with Eau Claire, are now playing in the Federal league.

WALTER MILLER left yesterday for the Pacific coast. The little Duluth boy received a handsome offer to wrestle some of the stars of the coast country, and may possibly go to Cuba.

That the little fellow is recognized as one of the greatest of all the middleweights, is evidenced by his selection over any of the others. It is the truth that Miller is one of the few who can and does make the limit of 158 pounds for every match he wrestles.

ARTIE O'DEA, who was known in the halcyon days as the Duke of Duluth, was in our midst yesterday. The genial one remarked in passing that Elmer Smith reminds him strangely of Mike Donlin when that great player was a youngster. The resident of Virginia predicts a great and glowing future for the right fielder of the Sox.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Take Four Straight.

Philadelphia, July 12.—Pittsburg made a clean sweep of the series of four games here, the visitors winning yesterday, 7 to 2. The affair was devoid of interest owing to the Pittsburg team taking a lead of four runs in the first inning on three passes by Marshall, singles by Butler and J. Miller and an error by Lobert. Hendrix pitched in fine form and seldom had to extend himself to prevent the home players from scoring. Manager Dooin, owing to an injury to Luderus' arm, stationed Magee on first base in an effort to strike a winning combination. The score: R. H. E.
Pittsburg .....4 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 0—7 9 2
Philadelphia ...0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—2 7 3
Batteries—Hendrix and Simons; Marshall, Rixey and Howley. Umpires—Brennan and Eason.

Reds Win Series.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 12.—Cincinnati, winning again yesterday 5 to 3, took all four games of the series with Brooklyn. Benton pitched shutout ball up to the eighth inning, when, with Cutshaw out, Wheat was safe on Groh's high throw after a good stop. Daubert tripled, Smith doubled and Fisher singled, three runs resulting. Tinker tripled off Yingling in the second and scored on Groh's out. Devore singled in the third and advanced on Bescher's double, but on Marsan's grounder to Smith, was out at the plate. Marsans stole second and scored with Bescher on Dodge's single. Groh's single, Clark's triple and Benton's hit added two more runs in the fourth, and Yingling was replaced by Stack, who blanked the visitors during the remainder of the game. Miller was put out of the game for protesting a decision in the third. Devore made four hits in five times at bat. Tinker and Cutshaw starred in the field. The score: R. H. E.
Batteries—Benton and Clarke; Yingling, Stack and Miller and Fischer. Umpires—Quigley and Emslie.

Cardinals Score Final.

Boston, Mass., July 12.—Tyler had one bad inning yesterday and St. Louis won the last game of the series, 6 to 4. While running to third in the sixth inning, Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis team, was hit on the head and knocked unconscious by a ball thrown by Tyler. Huggins was revived and was able to walk to the plate unassisted, but immediately left the game. A doctor who attended him advised the manager to stay in this city and rest for a few days, as there was danger of the brain being affected if he exercised too much. When Huggins left the grounds after the game he said, however, that he would go to Philadelphia with the team. The score: R. H. E.
Boston .....2 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—4 6 5
Batteries—Burke, Sallee and Wingo; Tyler and Rariden. Umpires—Klem and Orth.

Cubs Are Swamped.

New York, July 12.—The Giants overwhelmed their old rivals, the Cubs, yesterday by 14 to 4. The locals hit Lavender, Pierce and Richie for twenty-two hits and drew seven passes. Including hits, passes and errors, thirty-two New Yorkers reached first base.

Chicago started with a four-run lead, but soon fell to pieces after Manager Evers was ordered from the field in the third inning for disputing Umpire Byron's decision calling Cooper safe on a steal. The score: R. H. E.
Chicago .....0 2 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—4 8 6
New York ....0 0 3 4 2 2 3 0 x—14 22 1
Batteries—Lavender, Pierce, Richie and Bresnahan; Tesreau, Fromme and Wilson, Meyers and Hartley. Umpires—Rigler and Byron.

AMERICAN ASSN.

One-Sided Game.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—The leaders bunched their hits in three innings yesterday and won a one-sided game with ease. Walker was not much of a puzzle, but Watson for the home club pitched fine ball and but for a lucky single by Hinchman in the third would have caused a shutout. The batting of Clark and Hughes featured, Hughes getting a single, double and a triple in four trips to the plate. Score: R. H. E.
St. Paul .....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 7 2
Batteries—Watson and Hughes; Walker and James. Umpires—Murray and Connolly.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Sox Hit Hard.

Chicago, July 12.—New York played a slugging game yesterday and defeated Chicago, 11 to 1. Buck O'Brien, the former Boston twirler made his debut in a Chicago uniform and was hit so hard that he had to retire in favor of White. With White pitching, the game became a farce, the visitors scoring seven runs before a man was retired. C. Smith was sent to the rescue and he had little difficulty in preventing New York from scoring. The locals were saved from a shutout when doubles by Chase and Bodie netted a lone score. Keating was almost invincible, Callahan's men getting five hits, only two of which were bunched. Cree hit the ball over the left field fence for a home run with the bases full.
Batteries—Keating and J. Smith; O'Brien, White, C. Smith and Kuhn and Schalk. Evans and Sheridan.

Senators Win Final.

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—Detroit's errors helped Pitcher Joe Boehling to his ninth straight victory yesterday. Washington winning the last game of the series, 5 to 2. In only two innings was the left-hander unsteady. In the second he hit Veach with the ball and Stanage solved his delivery for a three-bagger, giving Detroit its first run. Willett, who started pitching for Detroit, was ineffective.
Washington ...0 1 3 0 1 0 0 0 0—5 8 1
Detroit .....0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—2 6 4
Batteries—Boehling and Henry; Willett, House, Lake and Stanage. Umpires—O'Loughlin andq Hildebrand.

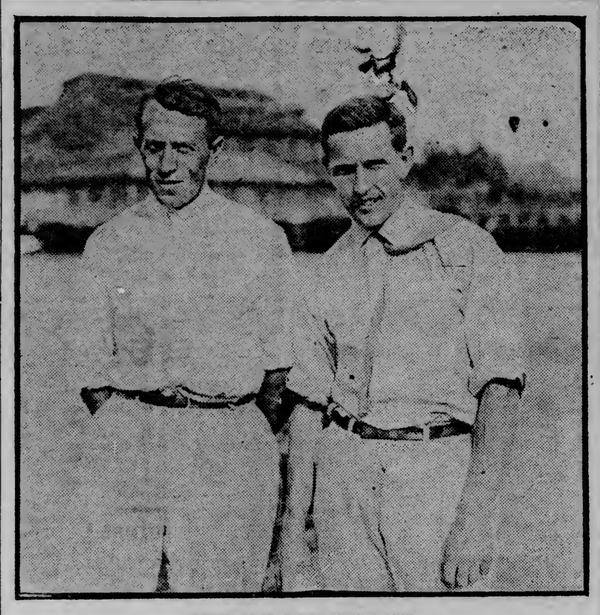

Early Lead Wins.

St. Louis, Mo., July 12.—St. Louis took a lead in the first inning that Boston could not overcome and won the final game of the series, 5 to 1. The visitors' tally in the first inning was the result of singles by Speaker and Lewis and Hamilton's error.
Boston .....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 7 1
St. Louis .....4 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 x—5 10 2
Batteries—Bedient, Leonard, Maloy and Carrigan; Hamilton and Agnew. Umpires—Dineen and Hamilton.

Easy for Athletics.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Philadelphia made it two out of three yesterday, defeating Cleveland, 11 to 5. Bender had Cleveland at his mercy until the seventh inning when he eased up and allowed hits which scored five runs. Kahn was driven from the box in the sixth, the Athletics having then scored eight runs. Blanding, who finished in the box, was poorly supported. Cleveland turned out three subs in the last three innings. Bates at third base, Lieboldt in center field, and Bassler catching. Flies to left field were numerous, Graney getting seven and Oldring six.
Cleveland .....0 0 0 0 0 0 1 4 0—5 8 3
Batteries—Kahler, Blanding and O'Neil and Bassler; Bender and Schang. Umpires—Connolly and McGreevy.

TWO FAMOUS CANOEISTS

NEWMAN AND BRITTON.

James E. Newman of the Winchester Canoe club has been chosen to defend the international canoe challenge trophy against Ralph H. Britton, the Canadian challenger, in a race off Bath Beach. Trial races were held last week and Mr. Newman proved himself the best of the eight United States candidates. Leo Friede was named the alternate. A gold medal was presented to Newman. Gravesend Bay, on which the race will occur, is famous for its eddies and currents and as neither Newman nor Britton is familiar with the course, the result may depend in some degree on favoring chance. Britton and Newman are both doing practice work over the course.

WORLD'S ATHLETIC OFFICIALS TO MEET.

New York, July 12.—Secretary James E. Sullivan of the Amateur Athletic union, yesterday received the tentative regulations for the government of international amateur athletics to be discussed in Berlin Aug. 21 next at a meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

The communication is from J. S. Edstrom of Sweden, president of the provisional committee, appointed at Stockholm July 17, 1912, to standardize the world's amateur athletics. The functions of the board will be restricted as follows:

"To draw up and agree to rules and regulations for international competitions in athletics.

"To register world's Olympic and national records.

"To draw up a common amateur definition for international athletic competitions."

CHALLENGER LOSES TO CANOE CHAMPION.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 12.—Ralph B. Britton, Genanoqua Canoe and Motor Boat club, lost the first international race for the canoe challenge trophy here yesterday afternoon. Britton was not only beaten by Leo Friede, defender of the cup, but also was disqualified for fouling a mark. The disqualification was not announced until after the contest had been decided, although Britton reported the foul at the end of the first round.

CLEVELAND MEET ENDS

Favorites and Outsiders Divide Honors on Final Day.

Second Week of Grand Circuit Racing to Be at Pittsburg.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—The first Grand Circuit meeting of the year came to a close yesterday with four trotting events that brought out a fine quality of sport.

As on Thursday, outsiders shared honors with the favorites. The Tavern "steak" conceded to Dago F., because of his form in the preliminaries on Monday, was won by Eutabel, an outsider. The 2:09 trot was won by Jean Arion, who had found little backing even for place, although Eve Cord, driven by Geers, was expected to win. In the last two events the favorites managed to break even. The championship trotting sweepstakes went to Anvil, a heavy favorite, because he trotted the two fastest miles of the year. Geers pushed Anvil around the oval in the remarkably fast time of 2:04¼ in the first heat and came right back in the next and concluding heat with a mark of 2:04¾. In the last event of the day, the 2:19 trot, Star Winter, the first choice in the betting, had little difficulty in performing up to the form expected of him.

The first event on the program was the 2:09 trot. Eve Cord, the favorite, got away to a poor start in the first heat. Derby Boy and Jean Arion fought it out from the first quarter, but coming into the stretch, Jean Arion took the lead and won handily. She repeated in the second heat, after Elizabeth had pushed her hard to the half. In this heat Eve Cord showed her superior speed and finished in second place, and in the next she finished first after Jean Arion had pushed her to the limit. However, her fine finishing qualities brought her nothing better than second money.

The finals in the Tavern "steak" race for 2:10 trotters, all drivers amateurs, the preliminaries in which were trotted on Monday, brought out some fine sport. Dago F. lived up to expectations by taking the first heat easily, but in the next Eutabel surprised everybody by nosing out the favorite in the stretch after Tipling had brought Dago F. under the wire with the whip. Only the heat winners took part in the third and deciding heat. Eutabel demonstrated that her showing in the second heat was not a fluke by taking the heat and race in a neck-and-neck combat with tired Dago F. in the stretch. Today the entrants in the local meeting move over to Pittsburg, where the second week of Grand Circuit racing is to be staged.

SAILING REGATTA AT PUT-IN-BAY.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—"The sail yacht regatta at Put-in-Bay, July 20 to 27 will be the greatest gathering of modern racing yachts ever seen on fresh water," said George H. Worthington of Cleveland, commodore of the Inter-Lake Yachting association, today, in discussing the program for the meeting. Twenty American and Canadian yacht clubs are members of the association.

More than 250 yachts are expected. The regatta is one of the events of the Perry centennial and is in the nature of a commemoration of Perry's victory over a British fleet in the battle of Lake Erie.

Prizes of $5,000 have been put up for the ten events, of which the most interesting will be the international races in Classes P and R.

A race from Rocky River, Cleveland, to Put-in-Bay, a distance of about fifty-five miles, will be the opening event of the meeting. Forty yachts are entered for this race, which will be held on Saturday, the 19th. The start will be made at 6 a. m.

On Sunday the yachts from all points

MARTIN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Muskegon, Mich., July 12. — Glenn Martin's steady nerve and perfect control of his flying boat in which he is making th Chicago-Detroit cruise, probably saved his life late yesterday when the machine developed carburetor trouble and he was forced to make a quick descent into Lake Michigan.

Martin, with his passenger, Charles Day, was flying about 700 feet above the water when the air valve dropped from the carburetor. Martin volplaned to the surface of the lake, making a perfect landing about 2½ miles from the shore. In a few minutes, he succeeded in starting his engine and reached the shore under his own power.

Martin said his machine was not damaged and that he will resume his journey toward Charlevioux today.

DULUTH CREWS LOOM STRONG FOR BIG INTERNATIONAL ROWING REGATTA

Close Analysis of Different Entries Gives Grounds for Belief That Zenith City Boys Will Make a Grand Showing at St. Paul Races.

(BY BRUCE.)

As the dope stands up to be measured by careful analysis, the chances of the Duluth, St. Paul and Winnipeg junior eights would appear very even in the first eight race of the regatta, which will occur upon the opening day of the regatta, Friday the 18th.

On paper it would appear as if the other two crews is this particular race had the edge on the locals.

Horak, P. Moore and Rheinberger are the only old men in the Duluth junior boat. All of these boys rowed in the bantam boat of last season and proved a winning combination with Cowan.

Hoover, Morrison, Osman, McNary and "Dug" Moore are new to the game, but so rapidly have these men developed under the tuition of Jimmy Ten Eyck that it looks as if Duluth has perhaps the best junior eight in the history of the club.

Against the Duluth junior eight will be sent the comparatively veteran eight of the Winnipeg Rowing club.

Veteran is used in the comparative sense. to be sure, as the Peggers are veterans only in the sense that they have the edge of experience on the local boys.

H. H. Phinney stroked last year's junior eight at the Peg, and he is back in the boat again this season. Sachs, Patterson, Harold Riley, a brother of Con, and Gemmill are all members of last year's eight who are rowing this season.

This bunch finished third at the Peg last July, trailing in far behind the winning Duluth eight and also rather far in the rear of the St. Paul eight.

As has been said before in these columns, St. Paul has but two of the men who rowed in her junior eight last season, Baer and Fitzpatrick being the only men who are left over in this boat.

Taking the dope from this angle it would appear that from the standpoint of experience Winnipeg will have the call on the other two.

Results to Date.

However, this is not the case precisely. Up here we are going somewhat on what the local junior eight is accomplishing, and what it has done through the spring and summer months has been quite enough to convince the majority of the followers of rowing that it has one of the best junior eights that has ever been developed here.

Swinging over to the senior eights, conversely considered the dope favors Duluth in the senior eight event.

According to the advices that come from Winnipeg the senior eight that will start at St. Paul has but two of the men who rowed in last season's eight, Wickson and Webb being the only members of the great Con Riley crew who are in the bunch that will row against us at St. Paul.

As the St. Paul junior eight will also start in the senior event, it can be readily seen, from the angle of dope, that the Duluth senior eight has reasons for being installed as the favorite in the sweepstakes event.

Winnipeg has a changed junior four and this is one of the events in which Duluth looks very strong. St. Paul's junior four looks strong and this event should result in a great race.

Bantam Fours.

Winnipeg's bantam four, which finished second last season, has but one of last year's men in the boat. Punshon stroked last season and he is back in the same position. Likewise St. Paul has but one banty who rowed in the boat last season. Duluth naturally has an entirely new crew, being the winners of last year, and the race under the prevailing conditions should be a hummer.

Dope has as many vagaries as the suffrage movement. It can't be depended upon at all times and all places. For instance, just to illustrate, it might be said that on paper our senior crew should lick the ever lasting daylight out of the juniors. But such is not the case; the juniors have been winning.

Yet, as has been pointed out above, the seniors are the favorites in the seniors' eight race, and on paper our juniors must give a point in experience at least to the Winnipeg junior eight.

In so far as one can dope this thing out, with the aid of figures, weights and old programs, the regatta of next week looks like one that is going to furnish some very pretty contests.

Our crews will leave here with the greatest confidence; not false confidence, to be sure, but with the belief that we have some of the best trained and most carefully prepared crews in the history of the club.

We have two eights, the senior and junior, and three fours, the senior, junior and bantam, that look mighty good. This is especially true of the bantam and junior fours.

If they beat us it will be for the simple reason that there are a lot of classy crews at the regatta.

The home boys are looking for some great races—for some crack crews to go up against—and they also expect to win.

Jimmy Ten Eyck says nothing. Years ago he read ancient history and was deeply impressed with the majestic reserve of the Sphinx. It is believed that he is satisfied with the material he is sending to this year's regatta, and win or lose, it is certain that Duluth will give a great account of herself at the big Northwestern International Rowing association races of next Friday and Saturday.

FAMOUS OARSMAN AS HE LOOKS TODAY

JAMES E. TEN EYCK, SR.

This is one of the most famous oarsmen in the world. Father of James E. Ten Eyck, Jr., coach of the Duluth Boat club crews, the elder Ten Eyck was a great star in the scintillating company of Hanlan, Gaudaur, Ward, Tiemer, Courtney and other famous scull men of some score of years ago. Mr. Ten Eyck is here on a visit and will go to St. Paul to witness the events there next week.

Owls and Moose.

The Owls and Moose team will contest for lodge baseball honors tomorrow afternoon at Desmond park. As both of the teams are evenly matched, it is expected that the game will be both close and interesting. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

STAGE SET FOR ANNUAL STATE TENNIS TOURNEY

Stars of the Northwest Will Play at Oatka Courts for State Championship---Miss Davis Will Defend Title.

With the preliminary round of the twelfth annual state tennis tournament under way today, everything is set for the formal start of play in the first round, Monday morning.

Arthur P. Barnes, director of the tournament, today stated that the largest number of entries in the history of any of the state tournaments has been received from the Twin Cities.

There will be over thirty players from Minneapolis alone, while St. Paul is expected to send up a large number of stars to share honors in the big event.

One of the features of the tournament should be the play between Miss Davis, the present state champion in the women's singles, and Miss Rees. Each of these very able players have won the state cup twice. As the present holder, Miss Davis will not be compelled to play up through the tournament. In the event of Miss Rees winning the tournament she will meet Miss Davis in the challenge round for the cup, the winner this year to become the permanent owner.

Fields of Coleraine and Shepperd of Winona are two of the stars that are coming from outside the Twin Cities. Miss Virginia Weatherby of Minneapolis is also coming. She is one of the star players of the state and is expected to give Miss Rees a great battle in the play up through the tournament.

With practically every star of the Northwest entered for play, the promise is bright for some brilliant matches in both the singles and doubles.

With class such as Armstrong, Wheeler, Jayne, Stellwagon, McGhie, Kennedy, Dinwiddie, and young Horace Warner to fight it out for the honor of meeting John Adams for the cup play, lovers of the game are assured of some exciting and brilliant work.

Every arrangement has been made for the comfort of the players and the spectators. The gallery has been arranged for those who care to witness the matches, and it is stated that the Oatka courts are in superb condition for play. Caretaker Frank Warner of the Interlachen courts has been giving his attention to the condition of the courts and as they were in pretty good condition before he started grooming them, the opening round events should find the surface in perfect condition.

The Draw.

Following is the draw for the preliminary round and first round:

THE TWENTY GREATEST SWATS OF BASEBALL

A Cleveland newspaper has compiled the twenty greatest hits, and has the hitters tell when, where and how they were made.

"Larry" Lajoie, Cleveland, July 1, batted for Jack Graney and hit Jesse Baker, the White Sox pitcher, for two bases, shooting three men across.

Sam Crawford's home run against Boston in 1909 that cinched the pennant for Detroit.

Fred Clarke tied the first game of the world's series between Pittsburg and Detroit in 1909 with a home run.

George Moriarity, for whom Delehanty was passed by Harry Krause, came up at Shibe park and cracked the ball to the scoreboard for three sacks.

George Stovall, playing for Cleveland, faced his brother, Jesse, who was on duty for Detroit. Brer George whacked a triple that saved his job, but bundled his brother to the minors.

Sam Crawford, in a game at Detroit against the White Sox, pickled a triple for three runs that would have been good for a homer.

Jim Delehanty, in the same game, hit a homer with two men on and a triple with the bases full.

Cobb, Crawford, Delehanty and Gainer, in a game against Washington with Long Tom Hughes pitching, each tripled in turn.

Frank Baker's two home runs against Matthewson and Marquard came pretty close to settling the world's series.

Otis Crandall, when he doubled in the ninth inning of the fifth world's series game and pushed two runs across, sewed up the game. The Giants won in the tenth.

Joe Jackson made the longest home run ever seen over the right field wall.

Big Bill Lange bumped one over the center field fence at Cincinnati, the ball breaking a pane of glass in a saloon and bursting a pinochle game in progress.

Buck Ewing hit one over the right field fence in the old Cleveland grounds that is one of the longest hits ever recorded there.

Heine Zimmerman made two home runs in one day over the left field fence in Cincinnati, the only time a ball has been knocked over any of the present fences.

Ed McKean, playing for Cleveland against Boston, hit a home run in the ninth inning with two on. He came up again with two again on and did the same stunt.

George Rohe, substitute third sacker of the Chicago White Sox, hammered out a triple in the final game of the Cub series and won the world's championship in 1906.

Joe Tinker, with a triple, won the famous "Merkle" game that was played off. Joe's hit came off Christy Matthewson.

Charley Hickman made Wee Willie Sudhoff cry when he lammed one over the fence with a man on and the score 3 to 2 against Hickman's team. This was for Cleveland against St. Louis.

Luderus, two home runs against Babe Adams, tying and winning the game.

TOURISTS COMPLETE FIRST DAY'S RUN.

Alexandria, Minn., July 12.—Despite a steady all day rain and heavy roads, the twenty-eighth automobiles in the American automobile association's reliability tour which left Minneapolis yesterday morning for Glacier Park, finished their first day's journey here last night after having traveled 144 miles.

The first stop was made at noon at St. Cloud, where luncheon was served.

While there were no serious accidents on the first day out, several narrow escapes were experienced. At one point the pace-makers' car containing members of the committee in charge was stalled in the mud for some time.

IN PROBATE COURT

In probate court yesterday, a petition was filed for the probation of a will of Anastasie Cote Boulamger, who died last year in Quebec. The portion of the estate in St. Louis county consists of two city lots in Duluth, the value of which is estimated at about $7,800.

The will of the late Johan Hanson, Hermantown farmer, was filed for probate. The estate consists of about $1,600, which will be divided among several sons.

The calendar for the coming week in probate court is as follows:

Appointment of Administrator—Estates of Gust Saarala, Jennie B. Johnson, S. S. Altschul.

Proofs of Wills—S. G. Armistead, Hulda Person, Alois Ebmer.

Petition to Convey Under Contract—Henry Biell.

Final Accounts—Anton Zelefski, Addie Jolicoeur, Francis P. Gormely, Anton Hanson, Mile Sebalj, Joseph S. Fay, Jr.

Petition to Sell Land—Charles Murphy.

July 15.

Claims—Isak Maki, Pasquale Madia, Paul Jazdzewski, William B. Andrews, H. H. Hoyt.

July 16.

Guardian's Accounts—Carl Erickson, Jr.; John Doe.

Petition to Release Funds—Nik Kasamic.

July 17.

Petition to Release Funds—Isabella E. Frazier.

FORMER POLICEMAN GUILTY OF MURDER

James Murphy of Minneapolis Is Convicted in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 12.—James Murphy, who shot and killed Mrs. Iras Matty Smith, a chorus girl, in her apartments in this city April 1, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. Sentence will be passed on July 15.

According to the testimony, Murphy, accompanied by his niece, Mrs. Estelle Moore, entered Mrs. Smith's apartments, where she was playing cards with Murphy's nephew, Morris Bohannon, of whom the older man was said to have been jealous. It was asserted that the shot which killed Mrs. Smith was intended for Bohannon. The trial of Murphy's niece, Mrs. Moore, on charges of complicity in the murder, will begin next week.

Murphy came to this city from Minneapolis.

Has Family in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 12.—James Murphy, who was convicted yesterday of killing Mrs. Irene M. Smith at Los Angeles, April 1, was at one time a Minneapolis policeman. He left here for the Pacific coast early last winter. His wife and several children are now living in Minneapolis.

COHALAN CLEARED OF ALL CHARGES

Albany, N. Y., July 12.—Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalen was exonerated last night from the charges of misconduct preferred by the grievance committee of the bar association of New York.

This was the culmination of a four-day trial before the senate and assembly judiciary committees. The findings were reached by a practically unanimous vote. A sub-committee of seven was appointed to formulate the report for submission to the legislature next Wednesday evening.

The charges which were the subject of inquiry were based on alleged dealings between Justice Cohalan and John A. Connolly, former president of the Victor Heating company of New York. They embodied alleged payments by Connolly to Cohalan for political influence in procuring the New York contracts for the Victor company; the giving of a $4,000 note to Cohalan in consideration of a promise to obtain for Connolly a political position, and the concealment, alteration and mutilation of legal records involved in these transactions.

Summing up in the case began at the conclusion of the testimony of the accused justice, who was called by the bar association's attorney. No witnesses were called by the defense.

Justice Cohalan's testimony embodied a sweeping denial of wrongdoing in connection with all the charges.

MOVIES TRUST CASE ADJOURNED.

New York, July 12.—The government has rested its case in the dissolution suit against the so-called moving picture trust, and the hearings were adjourned till Oct. 1, when the defense will present its case. More than 100 witnesses have been examined by the prosecution.

Failing to fix its own purchase price in its attempts to buy independent film exchanges, the so-called trust retaliated by cancelling film supply contracts with them, acording to evidence introduced by the government. J. M. Enser of Little Rock, Ark., who was connected with a film exchange in Denver in 1909 and 1910, purchasing films ununder a license from the Moving Picture Patents company, testified he came to New York in response to a telegram to see about selling his exchange.

"I met J. J. Kennedy of the General Film company and he said he wanted me to understand that he was a 'bad man,' and that after he once made an offer, he never made a second one," said the witness.

Enser said he was offered $14,600, but refused to sell, and subsequently was notified that his contract with the Motion Picture Patents company had been cancelled.

Spaniards Raze Moorish Towns.

Geutaean, Morocco, July 12.—Heavy losses have been inflicted on the Morocca tribesmen by the Spaniards. Six native villages were razed and large quantities of arms and ammunition captured.

FASHION IS A MINX.

Fashion is a tricky sprite. With the wanton mischief of a Robin Goodfellow, she has been trifling all these years with mere man, and trying to give him false ideas of the anatomical topography of woman.

It is clear that she has been playing with us, and trying to give us false and absurd ideas of how a woman really is constructed.

And now, suddenly and without warning, she strips away all pretense and with tight skirts, split and clinging so closely that man reels away in terror from the consideration of how much or little protection against the elements there is beneath, she shows us woman as she really is—and, presumably, as she has been all the time.

Small chance now for the youthful imagination which pictured woman as built from the waist down in the form of a solid pyramid with feet attached at the bottom. Fashion leaves no chance for such a childish error now.

One time, with the Grecian bend, Fashion showed us woman, distorted and misshapen, a cross between a camel and a sawhorse.

Another time Fashion introduced the bustle, and tried to make us believe that woman had a rear elevation like a depot platform.

Fashion introduced the rat, and brazenly informed us that a woman's head was shaped like a gloxinia bulb or a mass of twisted crullers.

Her next attempt was to have us believe women look like a slate pencil.

And now Fashion sweeps it all away and puts before us womankind looking like a collection of uncompleted statuary representing goddesses of the period when those ladies went about apparelled in their beauty and a pleasant smile.

From Paris come whispers of diaphanous skirts so filmy that they amount almost to no skirts at all—and Paris is where this mischievous sprite Fashion does most of her planning.

This is breathtaking. For one, we are ready to cry "Enough!" Fashion has told us all she should tell. She should leave us some of our illusions. At least she should stop short of the style that prevailed in Eden before Fashion, which then took the form of a serpent, introduced the fig leaf.

Occasionally even the commonest slang seems to apply better to a situation than the choicest fine language. Take that everlasting "We should worry," for example, and hitch it onto the news that Jack Johnson isn't coming back.

DIPLOMACY OF THE HEART VS. DIPLOMACY OF THE DOLLAR.

Since Woodrow Wilson became president this country has officially recognized the republic of China, and has refused to participate in a "six-power loan" deal by which China was to be forced to put itself under obligations to certain countries by borrowing money regardless of its needs and desires.

There was a great outcry, from those used to the dollar diplomacy of the Republican school of statesmanship, over the refusal to participate in this highhanded loan deal.

But there is good evidence that the Wilson diplomacy has gone much farther toward strengthening Chinese friendship for this country than dollar diplomacy ever could go.

The Herald has received a copy of the Christian-Evangelist containing an article by Dr. Elliott I. Osgood, author of "Breaking Down Chinese Walls," entitled "When the American Flag Floated Over Chuchow." It describes a celebration in Chuchow of the recognition of the republic by the United States, in which Dr. Osgood and other Americans participated.

American flags, made by the Chinese for the occasion, were flown everywhere. The people showed the greatest enthusiasm for this country, and the deepest gratitude for its attitude. In telling of the speech-making by Chinese, Dr. Osgood says:

> Over and over again we heard them tell of the righteousness and virtue and honor and freedom which characterize the American people. Nay, they did not hesitate to speak of Christianity, which has rooted these virtues in the hearts of our homeland people, and they urged upon one another the cultivation of these virtues that China may likewise take her place among nations.
> A member of the city council told how, when other nations had failed them, America had been their friend. Had not America restored to them the indemnity money which they had been in duty bound to pay for the Boxer ravages? Had not America withdrawn from the sextuple loan business by which European powers were humiliating China? Had not the American missionaries brought the same spirit of friendship in their opening of schools and hospitals and working for the civic uplift of their cities? Had not other nations seized pretexts to grasp territory and force opium upon China? America is the friend of China, and in this early recognition is showing a still greater friendship.

An ounce of Christian diplomacy that carries with it pure good will and fellowship is worth a ton of the dollar diplomacy that would crowd loans down the throat of an unwilling people.

The Wilson administration could do nothing more certain to breed Chinese friendship for this country, more certain even to make for profitable business, than its refusal to take part in the humiliation of the six-power loan deal, now, happily, only a five-power deal.

Another tuberculosis "cure" has been found. Seems as if that North Pole business set 'em all a-thinking.

AN OLD, OLD, STORY.

Bankers—especially Wall Street bankers—are severely critical of President Wilson's idea that the currency system ought to be under public control, because they say that means putting banking and currency in politics. They are very sure that the security of the Republic depends on keeping their business "out of politics."

To those who have observed recent tendencies there is something deliciously familiar in this viewpoint.

The railroads wanted their business "kept out of politics," and they and their mouthpieces were very certain, when the first move was made toward public regulation of railroad rates and service, that the downfall of freedom was at hand. But now public regulation of the railroad business is general, and it is accepted. There has been no downfall except that of railroad tyranny over business and politics.

The unfair public utility corporation wants public utilities "kept out of politics," and so it gets into politics to prevent public regulation of its affairs—always, in the end, losing its vain fight.

The phrase is meaningless except that it expresses the wish of those concerned in every enterprise organized for profit that it be let alone to gets its profits how and in what quantities it pleases.

If there is anything that ought to be under complete public control, it is finance, which is the lifeblood of commerce and industry.

If an efficient financial machine were created, as there would have been by the Aldrich bill, and turned over to private interests to operate, the System could let the people play with regulation of railroads and industry, and laugh. The System would be completely in control of the people's dollars, and it would be the real master of the nation.

It were as sensible to let those concerned in finance for gain manage unchecked the public finance as it would be to leave a cat alone in the pantry with the over-Sunday supply of cream.

If they carry the lobby investigation back to the McNamara cases, why not make it still better by taking up and settling the Billy Patterson matter?

THE LLOYD GEORGE ISSUE.

In three recent bye-elections in England the government has lost two seats and held the third only by a greatly reduced plurality in a strong Liberal community.

It seems to be conceded that the results of these elections are reflections of the recent incident in which David Lloyd George, the brilliant little Welsh democrat who is the real though not the titular head of the Asquith government, figured. For two years the trend of the bye-elections had been away from the government; but of late this tendency had been much less marked. Its revival, following closely on the heels of the Marconi incident, seems significant.

Lloyd George's only offense, in this matter, has been a failure to measure up to perfection. And perfection is expected of a popular idol, however unfair to the idol that expectation may be. The government having made a wireless contract with the British Marconi company, Lloyd George and others bought stock in the American Marconi company. This was less offensive than it would have been had they speculated in the shares of the company that benefitted directly by the contract with the government; but it was indiscreet, to say the least. Lloyd George was not guilty of anything prejudicial to the government; but he should not have done it.

It would be a great pity if this stalwart friend of the people should be deprived of his power of good to humanity by his thoughtlessness. He has done as much to advance democracy as any man now living; and if he is given a continuance of power he will yet do more.

We are interested, incidentally, in the comments of the Tory press of this country on the Lloyd George case. Obviously, it is jubilant over it. Though Lloyd George is not deeply stained with disgrace, he is touched by it; and those who oppose rising democracy the world over are glad.

It shows that there is world-wide kinship between the specially privileged whose privileges are threatened by the rising tide of democracy. Though those for whom the American Tory press speaks do not have to pay Lloyd George income taxes or land taxes or contribute toward old age pensions and the like, they are glad of his discomfiture, and are hopeful of his collapse.

But those who see in democracy the only hope for humanity, and who believe that unless the world comes into the control of the plain people who have been deprived of its good things the whole scheme of creation is a monstrous joke, will be sorry for what has happened to Lloyd George, and hopeful that the effect of it will be brief.

The "man of mystery" at Rochester, Minn., may turn out to be the missing lobbyist. Who knows?

BIG CARGOES.

Not so very many years ago a man burst into The Herald office, all out of breath, to report that the steamer Selwyn Eddy had broken the cargo-carrying record by carrying a hundred and twenty-one thousand bushels of wheat out of Duluth.

It was quite an item, and The Herald played it up, using it to reflect the magnitude of the lake marine traffic and the immense growth that had come to it.

Thursday of this week the steamer William T. Snyder, Jr., went out of the Duluth ship canal carrying a cargo of four hundred and sixty-four thousand bushels of grain—nearly four times as much as the Selwyn Eddy carried.

That's quite a bit of grain, and quite a cargo—the biggest yet.

It included the wheat raised on more than thirty thousand acres of land.

It took fifteen trains of thirty cars each to carry the wheat to the port where a single vessel took it aboard.

At ninety cents a bushel the cargo is worth considerably more than four hundred thousand dollars.

The owners of the vessel got nearly six thousand dollars for the trip.

Its cargo will make nearly a hundred and fifty thousand barrels of flour, or forty-five million loaves of bread.

Even lawyers occasionally overlook something. The statement is proved by the fact that Harry Thaw had a thousand dollars left to offer to Gen. Sickles.

"DEAR SIR" AND "YOURS TRULY."

Recently an Eastern firm discarded the customary civilities in correspondence. It held that addresses like "dear sir" and subscriptions like "sincerely yours" were meaningless anyway, and that they took up time and wasted money. So it dropped them.

Now it is reported that several German firms have requested their correspondents to discontinue the use of these civilities, and it is said that the practice is growing in Europe.

Has the world no longer time to be civil? What is it doing that it is so busy, and its time so valuable?

If there were a corresponding gain for the loss of courtesy, maybe it would pay. But is there any such gain? By dropping "dear sir" and "sincerely yours" something will be saved in stenographers' wages. It will be possible to get out more letters, too, very likely. Maybe the time and money saved would make a few people more wealthy.

But what's the good of being wealthy, if it has to be at the sacrifice of the ordinary amenities of human association?

The feverish industry which is reaching such a pace that it is thought worth while to save time in this way is concerned with money-making, solely. It isn't making humanity any happier, or its lot any easier. There is so much to do to these ends that cutting out superfluous motions would be well worth while in such a cause. But it is in no such cause as this that the civilities are being discarded. It is merely in the cause of making money for some individuals out of other individuals.

Mere money-making was sordid enough before. Maybe if all pretense of courtesy is dropped from it it will become so sordid that it will be less honored. That would be a gain, surely.

These little courtesies do not, perhaps, mean much. The loss of them might mean a great deal.

It is true that men write to "dear sirs" who are by no means dear to them at all, and sign themselves "yours" when the signers are anything but theirs.

A great statesman, philosopher and patriot once gave a new meaning to a commonplace fashion. Writing to William Strahan July 5, 1775, he closed his letter thus:

> You and I were long friends; you are now my enemy, and I am
> Yours,
> B. FRANKLIN.

But even that is better than no phrase of courtesy at all. Even men about to shoot each other used to preserve all the formalities of courtesy. Why should not men who are about to attempt to get each other's money?

Over four million Bibles were given away in the United States last year. Can't congress find something in that that ought to be investigated?

A CRIME, IF NOT A LEGAL CRIME.

Ferdinand C. Schwedtman, former secretary of the National Association of Manufacturers and signer of a number of letters to Mulhall that have now become famous, is quoted as saying:

> I admit all of the allegations save one. We paid the expenses of organizers in many congressional districts in the hope of electing men who were favorable to our principles. If that is a crime, then we are guilty.

In other words, an organized special interest spent money freely and maintained political agencies for the express purpose of electing to the people's lawmaking bodies men to serve that special interest.

Serving a special interest necessarily involves treachery to the interest of the common good.

No man in public life can serve two masters. He must serve the people, who pay his salary; or he must serve the special interest which brings about his election in the hope that his official acts will profit it at the expense of the people.

There may be no law against it, but there ought to be. Even if no statute so defines it, it is a crime, and a black one.

Both the special interest which thus seeks to debauch the public service and the public officer who accepts public service at the price of servitude to a special interest are guilty of treachery to the people and of corruption of free government.

If this is not legally a crime, then it ought to be made one. In fact, if not in law, it is treason.

The suffragist who fired a toy pistol in the house of commons evidently had her cap set for the whole membership.

AMENDING THE ERDMAN ACT.

Congress ought to lose no time in passing the amendments to the Erdman act for the arbitration of industrial disputes.

The employes want it done, the railroads want it done, the public wants it done.

The fact that a great strike on the Eastern railroads is looming ahead unless it can be averted should spur congress to immediate action.

The Erdman act as it stands provides for an arbitration board of three members. The amended bill provides for a commissioner of mediation and conciliation who, with two other officers of the government, will constitute a board of mediation and conciliation. When the efforts of this board fail, and arbitration is desired, the bill provides for an arbitration board of six instead of three; two to be selected by the railroads, two by the employes and two by the four thus selected. If the representatives of the parties to the controversy are unable to agree on the two additional members, they are to be chosen by the board of mediation and conciliation.

Great confidence is felt in the usefulness of the amended act. Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation, has made this optimistic judgment of its effects: "The railroads and the brotherhoods have joined hands in this proposition, and that may reasonably be taken to mean that we are to have no more strikes on the railroads in this country."

The bare possibility that the amended act may have such an effect as this should compel congress to act promptly.

Prof. Taft has got his weight down to 299. At least he evidently believes in the recall of avoirdupois.

A GOOD WORD FOR THE BOARDING HOUSE.

The boarding house usually gets into print through the comic press, the joke columns, or as a caricature in a novel.

A speaker who was recently praising the American home shot this question at his audience:

"Who'd fight for his boarding house?"

And nobody rose to reply that he would, if necessary.

Maybe nobody would. The boarding house is not the equivalent of a home, at its best.

But there are boarding houses, and many of them, managed by good women with warm hearts not yet extinguished by their burden of cares, who try honestly, according to their lights and capacities, to make the boarding house as near like a home to its patrons as it can be made.

The boarding house is not so bad as it has been painted, and we are glad to see the Christian Science Monitor appearing as its champion. That amiable and able journal says that it is safe to say that nearly everybody who has boarded cherishes pleasant memories of at least one boarding house; and it continues this:

> It may have been the first or it may have been the last boarding house in one's experience, or, possibly, it was one in between; but at all events it was kept by a patient, motherly woman as solicitous of the comforts of her guests as if they were all members of her own family.
> It maintained a table too good for the price, and the people around it were just like brothers and sisters and as deeply concerned in each other's happiness. It had cheery bedrooms, warm in winter, cool in summer. It had a parlor with a square piano that was kept in operation every evening until ten by excellent players. It had boarders who could sing and boarders who couldn't and who wouldn't try. It had engravings of "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers," "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence," "Abraham Lincoln and His Family," and "Washington Crossing the Delaware." It had plenty of plush-covered sofas and chairs. It had more applicants than the landlady could accommodate. It graduated scores of happy young couples who used to visit the parlor on Sunday evenings from time to time, and to its inmates it was as attractive a home as any on the street.

Now that's a fair word, fairly spoken. It's not purely imaginative, we are sure. There ARE such boarding houses. There ARE boarding houses kept by kind and motherly women who find time amid all their cares to think of the well-being and happiness of their guests, and who are happiest when the boarders feel most at home with them.

There are bad boarding houses, and good ones.

But, unfortunately, there are also bad homes as well as good ones.

Keepers of boarding houses are folks, just like the rest; only maybe they have had and are having a little more trouble than some. They deserve, as a class, more praise and appreciation than the joke columns give them, and we like to believe that they get more.

The president of Wisconsin university has pronounced in favor of simplified spelling "because it adds to efficiency." But would he stand for "Van Hyz?"

SUGGESTION FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I notice in a recent news item appearing in The Herald that the school directors failed to get a satisfactory bid for the $200,000 bond issue which is to be used for the building of schools now under construction. Is it necessary that these bonds be sold at once and that the entire money be forthcoming immediately for this purpose?

In the same story appeared the financial statement of the board. This showed that in two of its funds the board had on hand a sum exceeding $200,000, while another showed an overdraft. The difference gave the board something over $150,000 now idle in the banks.

In case the bonds are not marketable, why not dispose of a portion of the bonds against this balance, issue the bonds in small denominations, and keep them on sale where the Duluth public may at any time purchase a small part of them for investment.

The purchase of the bonds with the use of a part of this money that is on hand will save considerable interest for the board. As the money is needed it can be taken from these funds by the disposal of the bonds against the sum taken. In the meantime the board can advertise the sale of the bonds in small amounts and these can be sold from time to time as the requirements of the board call for the money. The scheme should save the taxpayers considerable in interest, as a large amount of the money is not needed until the latter part of this year.

THE MERRY GAME.

To the Editor of The Herald:

We're going to cut a melon great
In "Skinnem mining stock,"
And all who would participate
Should quickly buy a block.
We have four million more or less
Of golden plunks in view.
And we shall take great happiness
In giving them to you.

But,—merely to facilitate
This distribution rare,
We ask you kindly to donate
Just seven cents a share.
For seven cents, for seven cents,
A melon you will find,
The red will be our recompense
And you will eat the rind.

Rapid Growth of the 'I & R'

From the Kansas City Star.

The submission last week of an initiative and referendum constitutional amendment by the legislature of Wisconsin calls attention to the almost unprecedented growth of this movement to bring government closer under the control of the people.

Fifteen years ago only one state—South Dakota—had these instruments of popular government. And even there the provisions were defective. Today more than one-third of the state constitutions—seventeen, to be exact—provide these twin tools of democracy. And in four other states amendments are pending ratification by the voters.

Besides this, Governor Foss is attempting to secure favorable action from the "general court"—the legislature—of Massachusetts; the Progressives are working for the same thing in Pennsylvania; and down on the southeastern projection of the national domain Governor Trammel is urging the adoption of the initiative and referendum before the legislature and the people of Florida.

In Illinois, Governor Dunne is waging a spectacular battle for popular government and expects to force a legislature formerly boss-owned and ridden to allow the voters of the state of Abraham Lincoln to decide on a change from Lorimerism to "government by the people."

For, formidable as the words may sound, that is all the initiative and referendum mean. The initiative is the right of the people by petition to compel a vote on laws and constitutional amendments which may be desired, regardless of whether the legislature will or will not pass the legislation desired. And the referendum power affords the people the opportunity by petition to compel an obnoxious law to be submitted to the voters for final adoption or rejection. If the majority of the votes is against the measure referred, it is marked, "Vetoed by the Voters of the State," and is null and void.

Naturally, the bosses "view with alarm" the progress of the initiative and referendum. It seems to them an infringement upon their "vested right" to govern the people.

The public seems not to mind the bosses' discomfiture, however, but goes merrily on adopting these devices of popular government, in state after state.

South Dakota led off a decade and a half ago; Oregon followed four years later. And then the march began.

Nevada got the referendum, but failed on the initiative. Montana next swung into line with both in 1906. Oklahoma refused to harken to the admonitions of President Taft, and adopted a constitution containing these and other progressive measures in 1907. Then, away up in New England, Maine adopted this modern "town meeting" method of controlling public affairs.

In 1908 Missouri, by a majority of 30,000, decided it preferred self-government to "gum-shoe" and "strong-arm" methods of the control of its state affairs. Two years later Arkansas followed the example of its neighbor on the north, and adopted almost an exact copy of the Missouri amendment.

New volunteers among the state fell into line. Colorado joined the procession, and Arizona, concluding that real democracy was preferable to the old "purely representative" type, embodied the initiative and referendum and the recall, into its new constitution.

Two years ago California changed from a Southern Pacific to a progressive government, and deciding to prevent a possible return to railroad and Ruef rule, added the "I. and R." to its fundamental law.

Last year, on the day following Labor day, Ohio joined the ranks of progressive commonwealths, adopting the direct legislation constitutional amendment by a tremendous majority.

Following Ohio came Idaho and Washington on presidential election day. Nevada ratified an amendment for the initiative. And a little over a month ago Michigan again demonstrated its right to be called "Progressive" by giving an overwhelming majority to two amendments providing for popular government through the reserved powers of the initiative and referendum.

The amendment adopted in Utah, in 1900, needed legislative action to carry its provisions into effect. Seven successive legislatures have refused to pass the necessary enabling act. Another case where the "representative" did not "represent."

This year legislatures in Minnesota, North Dakota, Texas and Wisconsin have voted to let their constituents decide whether they, too, wish to add the names of their states to the list of self-governing commonwealths.

The Average Wife

New York World: Having become for the second time a happy husband, a farmer of Venango county, Pa., feels it incumbent upon him to write for the local paper some brief mention of his new partner. The lady, we learn, "is fat, fair and forty," tipping the scales at 170 pounds. She is a good cook, does not yearn to shine in society and has lived all her life in Oil City. As a crowning tribute, "She is just a plain, average woman, who always tried to make home the pleasantest place in the world for her family and friends."

We have here, in Venango county terms, the presentation of a type of woman from which the world receives much and of which it hears little. The average man, the batting average, the average yield of wheat, the average cost of living, and such things, occupy much space in the public prints, where averages are a staple theme. The average wife, however, escapes publicity after a fashion greatly gratifying, but when one pauses to think of it, not at all miraculous.

She is not a new woman. Seldom, therefore, does she make news. She does not parade with the suffragists nor smash things with the suffragettes. She walks softly most of her days, unhampered by muscle-binding skirts. She does not smoke cigarettes in her boudior nor dance the turkey-trot and tango in a cabaret restaurant. She can mix the elements of good home-made bread, but the component parts of a cocktail are to her as an unsolvable picture-puzzle.

It is because there are so many average wives around the country that we do not despair when we see and read so much of other kinds. They may be unchronicled, unquoted and unsung. They are, nevertheless, the feminine salt of the earth. The vote may in due time be thrust upon them, but it will not spoil them. They will never neglect the kitchen for the caucus nor the nursery for the nominating convention.

Tit-Bits: "Surely," the man exclaimed, "you don't believe that Jonah was swallowed by a whale?"

"I do," she answered. "When I get to heaven I'll ask him about it."

"But suppose he's not in heaven?" said the man.

"Then you ask him," the girl replied.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Battles Above the Clouds.

An old painter, depicting a famous battlefield, has touched the scene with his imagination by painting an innumerable host of angels battling in the air above the clashing armies. While men fought on earth invisible powers of the spiritual world fought in sympathy with them. Celestial forces greater than the combatants could know were enlisted in the struggle.

Is not the suggestion borne in upon us strongly as we study many of the crucial engagements of history? When it has seemed as though the progress of civilization were to be arrested some power greater than man has entered the fight and ordained its outcome. It is as though the resources of the universe had been rallied to sustain the right. We feel as the prophetess Deborah felt when, after the defeat of the heathen host, she exulted. "The stars in their courses fought against Sisera."

At 5 o'clock on the first day at Waterloo, Wellington felt himself beaten. The next day Blucher arrived instead of Grouchy and the tide turned against the French. Victor Hugo, the Frenchman, writes of Napoleon's defeat, "Was it possible that Napoleon should have won that battle? We answer no. Why? Because of Wellington? Because of Blucher? No. Because of God. It was time that this vast man should fall. Napoleon had been denounced in the infinite and his fall had been decided on. He embarrassed God."

After the first day at Gettysburg it looked as if the morrow might see a repetition of earlier reverses for the North with the army in full retreat to defend Washington. But it was not to be so. Although neither Lee nor Meade had intended to fight just where they did the course of events had brought the Union forces at the crucial hour to the curving slopes of Cemetery ridge, an almost impregnable position. Against it waves of most furious assault hurled themselves only to be hurled back as ocean surges from Gibraltar.

Who dares say that the choice of position those July days was the result of chance? Who can think that men alone were fighting the decisive battle? Have not both North and South come to see in it the hand of the Almighty, the plan of Him who ordained the American people to be one people from sea to sea, from the lakes to the gulf, with liberty and justice for all?

Any conflict waged on our planet between good and evil belongs to God before it belongs to man. The "power not ourselves that makes for righteousness" is more interested in the success of the good cause than we can be. The Constitution of this moral universe is against evil and oppression and injustice. The stars in their courses eternally fight against Sisera.

The thought girds one with strength for moral endeavor. He who strikes with a hammer finds all the force of gravitation adding power to his blow. And he who combats any of the gigantic evils under the sun has the support of infinite and invincible allies. Let the fact nerve the arm and cheer the spirit of each halting reformer to the end of time. May it encourage us all to believe in that "one far-off divine event toward which the whole creation moves."

Right is right since God is God
And right the day must win.
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin.

SCOOP THE CUB REPORTER — Carlisle Has It All Over Scoop's Grammer School — By "HOP"

THE MINORITY LEADER

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hard work will not kill a man, else Jim Mann would have been in the grave long ago. It used to be said that Allison of Iowa and Beck of Kentucky could do more work than a dozen average senators, and John G. Carlisle did more than either of them. But Mr. Carlisle systematized his work and he never worried. And that is the way Mr. Mann of Chicago works. It was remarked of a former prime minister of England that he was always in a hurry and always behind time. The statesman from Illinois, leader of the minority was frequently unprepared for a movement of the adversary and it is a tribute to his extraordinary parliamentary capacity—his marvelous dexterity in recovering from an embarrassing situation. Mann is never surprised. Williams is a genius; Mann is endowed with a high order of talent.

It is a curious fact that one of Mann's uncles was a partner of Champ Clark's father, and another uncle a partner of Oscar Underwood's father, in business. It is a pity that yet another uncle was not a partner of Victor Murdock's father in some walk or other. A characteristic story is told of Mann in Chicago. While a law student a position was offered him in line with the profession he had chosen. Though he was in need of the salary he confounded the chief of the firm by proposing that he would accept it if upon investigation he found that the concern was respectable and responsible. He got the place. When an Englishman prominent in political affairs was asked to account for the wonderful hold Lord Palmerston had on the British public, he answered: "It is due to his 'I-don't-care-a-dam-ativeness.'" And it is something akin to that which makes Jim Mann a great factor in public affairs in our country. Though a partisan he is independent, and above all, Jim Mann is a just man. That is the secret of his power.

I can say with as much truth as vanity, and that a good deal, that I predicted Jim Mann's success in congress before the first session of his first term was expended. I was not surprised when the now leader of his party in the national house of representatives voted against the tariff of 1909 as it was amended by a Mr. Aldrich in the United States senate. It was in keeping with that Palmerstonian "I-don't-care-a-damn-ativeness." Jim Mann's conscience has got to be consulted before Jim Mann acts.

Tom Reed appointed Mann to the committee on elections. And at that counsel board he was precisely what Henry G. Turner of Georgia had been—that is to say, he tried an election contest exactly as he would have tried, had he been on the judicial bench, the question of the title to a tract of land or a dispute over the ownership of a horse. It was amusing to observe Mann in committee. When he put questions it was with a view to overthrowing the cause of the one he had concluded to support. He was striving to see if his case was solid, and so it got to be that the newspaper boys would locate Mann's position in an election contest by "coppering" his seeming stand at the hearing.

And he is now leader of his party in the house of representatives, if he did vote against the Aldrichized Payne tariff, and a thoroughly capable leader he is, successor in that station to Lewis D. Campbell, John Sherman, Thaddeus Stevens, Robert C. Schenck, James A. Garfield, James G. Blaine, William McKinley, Thomas B. Reed and Nelson Dingley. A chapter on Republican leadership in the house of representatives ought to make interesting reading.

Of course, Mann is no such leader as Thad Stevens. There can be none such except the tremendous conditions exist that inflamed the human passions in the period of sectional strife and the carnage of battle. He is not the dashing leader Blaine was in the Forty-fourth congress, nor the magnificent leader Reed was in the Fifty-second congress, but in many respects Jim Mann is the most efficient leader minority ever had in the American congress, and much of his excellence is due to his ceaseless and untiring industry.

When Jim Mann takes his seat in the house he knows what is coming on that day and he is thoroughly prepared for it. He has read and studied the business that is coming up and he knows its every weak place. Above all he is a public servant more than he is a partisan politician. When Gen. Grant wrote President Lincoln that he would "fight it out on that line if it took all summer," no doubt he was resolved on that plan of campaign; but he did not fight it out on that line. He changed and changed and changed, and every time he changed Lee was there to confront him, having anticipated him, and finally Grant took Richmond in 1865 "on the line" that McClellan had pursued in 1862.

Mann is like Lee—the adversary finds him in front and ready to fight every time assault is ordered. Other leaders have been specialists—Stevens, Garfield, Morrison, Carlisle, Mills—leaving many tasks to lieutenants; but Jim Mann is universal. He studies—and is prepared for—everything. He is microscopic as well as telescopic. He reminds you of Cleveland in the White House. He insists on seeing to everything.

I rise to a personal explanation addressed to my Kentucky constituency. I absolutely repudiate Mann's action in preferring Caleb Powers for an important committee assignment over the protest of every Democratic representative from Kentucky. Mark you, my opinion of what was called "Goebelism" in Kentucky in 1899 has undergone no change. I utterly condemn it in general and in particular. I do not believe Powers had a fair trial and from my small knowledge of history and less knowledge of human nature, I am led to conclude that nowhere under the sun in any age of the human family the passions of man aroused as they were then, could any man have received a fair and impartial trial under like circumstances, and Powers had my sympathy—mayhap, my poor advocacy.

But somebody sent me his speech to the jury in his own behalf. I read it and found that Lawyer Powers had a fool for a client, and that Client Powers had even a bigger fool for a lawyer. He was indicted for conspiracy to commit murder. And he made a labored and turgid argument to show that knowledge that a crime would be committed did not constitute conspiracy. I laid the pamphlet down and ejaculated, "What the devil did he say that for?" A few days later I was in New York and related the thing to William Lindsay, one of the greatest lawyers in the world, and he remarked that knowledge was the soul of conspiracy. I have had no use for Caleb Powers or any of that set since.

Did you know—the G. O. P. having passed in its checks—that if the opposition to the Democratic party were to nominate Jim Mann for president he would give us a heap of trouble? Fact.

* * *

P. S. Since the foregoing was writ the Hon Mann has been moved to drop into some peanut politics, as Mr. Silas Wegg would put it. Ex necessitate rei the leader of the minority must have an issue and when the party for which he speaks is dead, the "paramount" must be fiat and made to order. The statesman who forged the thing for the Hon. Mann was the Hon. Kahn of California,

"Of a noble race was Shenken," and of a noble craft was Kahn before he entered the broad and expansive ocean of politics as practiced by the ex-G. O. P. He was an actor, and had his corporosity been a little bit more sylph-like today he might illustrate to us meaner mortals the glory of "The Bride-elect of Shakespeare's Genius."

"Her's were Greene's meadows, watered by an English stream. Her's Haywood's moss-grown manor houses. Peele's goddess-haunted lawns were her's, and her's the palace-bordered paved ways of Verona. She walked the air-built loggia of Lilly's dreams and paced the cloud's of Jonson's masques. She donned the ponderous sock and trod the measures of Volnone. She mouthed the mighty line of Marlowe. Chapman's massy periods and Marston's pointed sentences were her's by heart. She went abroad through primrose paths with Fletcher and learned Shirley's lambent wit. She wandered amid dark dry places of the outcast soul with Ford. 'Hamlet' was her's."

And why the devil didn't the shoemaker stick by his last? Answer that in a way that will correct it and you have solved the problem of life that has pestered all the sages and make death your bond friend.

Now this here question the Hon. Mann precipitated on the house of the American congress and sought to make paramount was a matter of morals, and here is what it was: Shall a man accused of crime he tried in September or in June? That is all it is, all it ever was—a matter of the calendar.

A great English statesman declared that when morality got into politics it consisted of triple qualities: "Enormous lying, inexhaustible boasting, and intense selfishness."

When the party that boasts of its morality went into political partnership with the church practices polygamy the Hon. Mann was as mute as a fish, but he raises Cain when a crominal prosecution is postponed in California from the summer solstice to the autumnal equinox.

As Anthony Chuzzlewit remarked at a certain convocation of harpists, "Don't you be a hypocrite, Pecksniff." The calendar is got into politics.

Can't Help But Admire Babies

Every Woman Casts Loving Glance at the Nestling Cuddled in its Bonnet.

A woman's heart responds to the sweetness of a pretty child, and more so to-day than ever before since the advent of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful external help to the muscles and tendons. It penetrates the tissues, makes them readily yield to nature's demand for expansion, so there is no period of pain, discomfort, straining, nausea or other symptoms so often distressing during the anxious weeks of expectancy.

Mother's Friend thoroughly lubricates every nerve, tendon and muscle involved and is a sure preventive for caking of the breasts.

And particularly to young mothers is this famous remedy of inestimable value. It enables them to preserve their health and strength, and they remain pretty by having avoided all the suffering and danger that would otherwise accompany such an occasion.

You will find this splendid remedy on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

The DOCTOR'S HELPS

By DONALD McCASKEY, M. D.
Member of Staff, General Hospital, Lancaster, Pa.; Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine

CONCERNING SWOLLEN GLANDS OF THE NECK; ALSO INSOMNIA.

A correspondent, "F. G.," asks:

"I would like very much to know the cause of swollen glands of the neck, and also your advice for the relief of the same. In addition, will you please tell me what causes sleeplessness and what is a practical method of relief? Can it be cured? A member of our family finds it utterly impossible to sleep at night."

In children any persistent irritation of the neck from the outside will produce an inflammation and eventually swollen glands. A rough coat collar may persistently rub and chafe the neck, a sweater may do the same. Quickly the tissues underneath react and the glands swell. The swelling subsides again shortly after the irritating cause is removed, and the local poisons from the inflammation have been removed.

The glands act as a filter. Their function is to prevent body fluids, heavily laden with impurities, from gaining access into the pure blood stream.

In adults, the most frequent cause of swollen glands of the neck is a low condition of vitality. It is in such physical states as this that the tubercular germs gain access to the glands and set up their poisonous effects. Oftentimes, merely the toxins from the germ which is located elsewhere in the body will irritate the glands through the medium of the blood. The point is that these glands enlarge most readily in those people who are run down and easily susceptible to tuberculosis. Another cause for the swelling is syphilis.

In childhood the application of a simple dressing of any pure ointment or grease will readily aid in reducing the swelling. A handkerchief wrung out of hot water and applied fresh every two hours to the glands will also be of great value. This wet, hot dressing should be kept in position by a neck bandage supporting and holding it in place. The system must be cleansed with a tablespoonful dose of castor oil. The simplest form of diet of toast, salt and scalding water poured upon it should be administered for several days.

In the adult, the glands should be painted with several coats of strong tincture of iodine three times a day for three or four days. If the swelling is not reduced, hot applications morning and evening for half an hour should be applied, and the neck kept well protected. If this treatment brings no reduction, you can rest assured that the glands will soon soften. They will break outward through the skin and discharge, forming an abcess. To avoid this, a surgical operation for the removal of the glands before they begin to soften is oftentimes valuable. It in nowise, however, insures a permanency of relief. But it is a good method and a good risk to take, if they are tubercular.

The other mode of treatment is to permit the glands to soften and then incise the skin with a sterile knife and drain the abscessed cavity. This wound must then be treated with the strictest aseptic care and should only be handled by your medical attendant skilled in aseptic surgery.

If the swollen glands are caused by syphilis, this latter disease must be treated first, and the glands will take care of themselves.

As regards the insomnia of the member of your family, it is a most difficult subject to describe and treat without knowing what is back of the trouble. Your letter gives no idea whatever as to possible causes of the sleeplessness. I shall take up in detail this trouble in a separate article, for there are many, many causes. Nobody can go wrong, however, to bathe both feet at bedtime in hot water, as hot as bearable, for twenty minutes, adding hot water every few moments, and making the temperature hotter and hotter until the veins stand out like whip cords and the skin grows livid.

TAXES AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Plan for Homes and Factories to Escape High Rents, Congestion aud Slums.

ALLEN T. BURNS
Secretary, Pittsburgh Civic Commission,
Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.

Pittsburg and Scranton are the first cities in the United States to cut the tax rate on buildings radically lower than the rate on land, following the plan which has attracted so much attention in the cities of Western Canada.

For a generation Pittsburg had suffered from a tax system which put a premium on holding land for speculative purposes. The holdings of old estates were classed as agricultural land and paid only one-half the rate charged against office buildings and workingmen's homes. The legislature of 1911 wiped out these old inequalities. The legislature of 1913 has turned the situation inside out to give an advantage to the man who improves his real estate.

The act will fix half the rate on land. This will work out as follows: To raise all present city revenues an average rate of 15 mills has been assessed in Pittsburg. A tax of 18 mills on land and 9 mills on buildings would raise present revenues at the present assessed value of land, which is practically twice that of buildings. An increase of 3 mills on land would raise the same amount as has been raised by the 6 mills by which it is proposed to decrease the rate on buildings.

To permit adjustment of investments and prevent hardships this change in rate will be spread over twelve years. The first year the rate on buildings will be reduced to 90 per cent of that on land, the third year 80 per cent and so on by reductions of 10 per cent every third year until 50 per cent is reached in twelve years.

The movement gained impulse from the report of the British Board of Trade on the cost of living in America which showed that workmen in Pittsburg pay higher rents than in competing cities; 19 per cent higher than in Philadelphia; 47 per cent higher than in Cleveland; 75 per cent higher than in Baltimore.

Inquiry disclosed that Pittsburg manufacturers were paying 60 cents to $1 per square foot per year for floor space while space in interior Pennsylvania cities competing with Pittsburg can be had for 20 to 30 cents.

In his Economic Survey of Pittsburg for 1912 Prof. J. T. Holdsworth figured that the average value of land per acre in Pittsburg was $19,090, a trifle less than in New York, but higher than in any of the other ten largest cities of America.

So it was that the Pittsburg Civic commission, the Real Estate Dealers' association and the Pittsburg Board of Trade joined in this tax campaign as the means which, to their minds, would get them three things:

Better houses for workingmen at lower rents.

Relief of manufacturers and other enterprises from prohibitive prices for land needed for building and expansion. Since this land is being held at impossible prices by speculators, the development and growth of the community is retarded.

Lower taxes as an inducement for developing the city and its business.

Charts and tables were prepared showing the effect of the new tax rates on various kinds of real estate, and especially on the land and buildings of the small industries which Pittsburg is especially keen to develop as subsidiary to steel.

The Thirteenth ward, which contains more homes than any other ward of Pittsburg, was made the basis of a calculation to the effect that the taxation on 3,982 homes would be reduced 15 to 25 per cent, 800 would be reduced 5 to 10 per cent, and 418 would pay the same as under the present system. 2,380 vacant lots would pay an increase of 20 per cent.

As a precedent for their campaign, the Pittsburg bodies cited the fact that Great Britain had recently levied new land taxes to force vacant land into use. Hamburg, Frankfort and Cologne have adopted this line of tax reform as a method of securing better housing—in some German cities workingmen's homes are entirely exempt—and the cities of Australia and New Zealand generally tax buildings at less than full rate. The plan, of course, is the one which has been urged for several years by the New York congestion committee, and which they failed to get the legislature to put before the people of Greater New York on a referendum.

From being one of the most backward cities in the country in the matter of taxation, Pittsburg thus leaps to the rank of the first large city in the United States to experiment along the new lines. The beneficiaries of the plan, in the words of its advocates, will be:

All renters—for the reduction in taxes on buildings will decrease rents to the same extent.

Manufacturers—they can secure cheaper land, and after building, taxes will be far less than in other cities.

Every property owner — if he has built an improvement worth more than half the value of his land.

Every real estate broker—real estate transactions will be stimulated.

The laboring man—building and industry will be increased and work more plentiful.

The city—homes and factories will replace slums.

NEW OFFICERS OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT CABINET

EDWARD SCRIVEN,
Vice President of Boys' Department Cabinet.

IRVING MOORE,
President of Boys' Department Cabinet.

HAROLD SMITHIES,
Secretary of the Boys' Department Cabinet.

LINCOLN'S UNUSUAL TACT.

Brand Whitlock in the American Magazine: My grandfather, Mr. Brand, did not go with his regiment to the West. He had been transferred to the commissary department, and he remained with the army of the Potomac until the close of the war, and it was on some detail connected with his duties in that department that in 1865 he went into Washington and had the interview with President Lincoln I so much liked to hear him tell about. It was not in the course of his military duty that he went to see the commander-in-chief; whatever those duties were they were quickly discharged at the war department, so that in the hours of freedom remaining to him before he went back to the front he did what everyone likes to do in Washington—he went to see the president. But he went in no military capacity; he went rather in that political capacity he so much preferred to the military, and he went as to the chief he had so long known and loved and followed.

It would be his old friend Chase who presented him to the president, but their conversation was soon interrupted by the entrance of an aid who announced the arrival in the White House grounds of an Indiana regiment passing through Washington, which, as seems to have been the case with most regiments passing through the capital, demanded a speech from the president. And Lincoln complied, and as he rose to go out he asked my grandfather to accompany him, and they continued their talk on the way. But when they stood in the White House portico and the regiment beheld the president and saluted him with its lifted cheer, the aide stepped to my grandfather's side and much to his chargin—for he had been held by the president while he finished a story—told him that it would be necessary for him to drop a few paces to the rear. It was a little contretemps that embarrassed my grandfather, but Lincoln, with his fine and delicate perceptions, divined the whole situation and met it with that kindness which was so great a part of the humor and humaneness in him, by saying:

"You see, Mr. Brand, they might not know which was the president."

New York is being urged to retire and pension aged city employes.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SEEKS SCALP OF OFFICIAL

Walker Councilman Asks Governor to Remove Mayor Chas. Kinkle.

Alleges Village Head Issued Village Warrant in Illegal Way.

Walker, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Kinkle, president of the village council, better known as Mayor Kinkle, who is serving his eighth term as village head is under fire. Proceedings have been brought to have him removed from office for alleged illegal action. The charges have caused a mild sensation as Mayor Kinkle is well known and has many friends.

Councilman Louis Krueger has petitioned Governor Eberhart to remove the mayor from office, owing to alleged irregularities.

The alleged procedure to which Councilman Krueger takes issue, is the issuance of a village warrant for $100 to Assessor John King for his services as assessor.

Excepts to Mayor's Action.

Several days after Mr. King received his warrant, the bill was brought up in the regular meeting of the council. Mr. Krueger declared that the bill was not only excessive but it had been paid without a vote of the council, and requested Mayor Kinkle to replace the amount in the village treasury and resign from office. Following his failure to comply with this request, Mr. Krueger prepared a letter to Governor Eberhart stating the case and asking for the mayor's removal. The case has naturally created considerable interest as both Mayor Kinkle and Councilman Krueger are among Walker's most loyal and progressive citizens.

BRINGS MESSAGE FROM MR. ARMOUR

President of National Woodenware Company Talks at Hill City.

Hill City, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.—C. P. Monahan, president of the National Woodenware company, a subsidiary of the Armour Packing company, which maintains a large plant here, was the guest of the Commercial club at a smoker Wednesday evening.

Mr. Monahan, after expressing admiration of this section and the great possibilities in store for Hill City, said that as the personal representative of J. Ogden Armour, the head of the great packing concern, he wished to convey to the people of the Hill City country Mr. Armour's feeling toward this community.

Interests Are Identical.

He said that the interests of the Armour company and the people here are identical, that if one prospers all will have a share in that prosperity, and urged a hearty co-operation on the part of all. Mr. Armour, he said, is anxious for the people here to know that he wishes to work in harmony with them for the development of the community and that he wants to have a hand in all movements toward that end.

Mr. Monahan praised the location of Hill City, saying that it is the most beautiful one in Northern Minnesota and that the prospects for development are almost unlimited. The wonderfully rich soil is bound to attract the farmers, and business will follow in their wake.

The smoker was a most informal affair being all impromptu. President Allin called on the following: Thomas Brusegaard, William Gausewitz, Prof. L. J. Ingraham, Rev. O. Sutter, J. S. McLain, J. H. Seaver, J. W. Fowler and J. J. Martin. Each took up the theme of co-operation from a different viewpoint and each urged that every one work together in harmony for the development of the community.

SAVED FROM RAINY.

Little Girl Is Nearly Drowned Thursday Near Baudette.

Baudette, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Falling from the top of the Gul Coutts boat as it was going up Rainy river en route to Clementson, Thursday, Marjorie Coutts, a young girl, came near losing her life. She was missed and when seen struggling in the water the boat put about, hastening to her rescue. The child was disappearing beneath the surface of the water the third time when a homesteader who was sitting on the top of the boat dived into the water, caught her by the hair as she disappeared and after a struggle, brought her to the boat. She was soon revived and is now all right.

MAY SUCCEED FATHER.

Movement in Carlton County to Have Miss Nilsen Appointed.

Moose Lake, Minn., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friends of Miss Nora Nilsen, daughter of the late county superintendent, N. G. Nilsen, are active in an endeavor to secure the appointment of Miss Nora Nilsen, the eldest daughter of Mr. Nilsen, to fill out his unexpired term.

Miss Nilsen is considered well qualified for the position. She has had several years of experience in school work and is particularly qualified for this position, as she was assistant to her father during the eight years he held that position. For the past few years she has held positions in the Minneapolis schools, is qualified under the state law. The appointment will be made by the county board at its regular meeting July 14.

Rev. Nils G. Nilsen, county superintendent of schools, died Thursday morning in Minneapolis from a complication of kidney trouble. He had served continuously as superintendent for eight years and was popular in all sections. He lived here and the funeral will be held here.

Mr. Nilsen's body was brought here yesterday for the funeral. Mr. Nilsen was born at Mo, Helgeland, Norway, but came of Swedish ancestors. He was but 7 years old when his parents emigrated to this country and settled near Grantsburg, Wis. He received a good education and in 1879 graduated from the Augsbury seminary at Minneapolis, at the age of 21, and had the degree of A. B. conferred upon him by the institution. After teaching at Little Falls and other places in Minnesota, he re-entered Augsbury seminary and took a three years' course in theology and was ordained a minister of the Lutheran church in 1883. He filled a pastorate of nine years duration in Grundy county, Ill. In 1892 he located in Moose Lake and was instrumental in organizing numerous congregations in this vicinity. In 1902 he was elected county superintendent of schools of Carlton county in which capacity he served for eight years. In 1910 he was defeated for the office by E. J. Colovin, but was re-elected again in 1912 by a large majority.

Mr. Nilsen was very active in school affairs throughout the county and had more schools placed on the state aid list than any other man that has ever occupied that position. In church affairs he was very prominent and besides his school work preached in several churches throughout the county every Sunday.

KILLED AT MARQUETTE.

Laborer From Chicago Run Over By South Shore Train.

Marquette, Mich., July 12.—James Burns, aged 42, of Troy, N. Y., who came here from Chicago to work on the extra gang of the South Shore, was found dead on the tracks in the yards here Thursday morning. It is said he had drawn his pay and had been in town several days drinking then started back to his work when he was struck by a train.

Undertaker Hager wired Murphy & Pennaman, Providence, R. I., for information. It is claimed that his brother-in-law is employed by them as a bricklayer. If no word is received, the body will be buried by the county.

Makes New Face in An Hour—the Latest!

(From Town Tattler)

You can now so transform your face, in less than hour, that you'll look like one fresh from the Fountain of Youth. Just cover the face with parafied plastoid jelly, let it dry, and wash it off in from 15 minutes to an hour. As it dries on the face you feel a delightfully soothing sensation, and your mirror shows a delicate girlish bloom mounting your cheeks. You also feel the facial tissue tightening—so suddenly it may startle you, though it is no cause for anxiety. Parafied plastoid jelly is entirely harmless, even if it gets into the eyes. The treatment seems also to put a sparkle in the eyes. It gives the face a beautifully rounded contour and fresh, healthy color.

The general rejuvenating effect of this peculiar substance is so marvelous that the drug stores are selling more and more of it every day. The new treatment is creating a sensation. Many ladies use it before going out to any social affair.

Doctor Gives Advice On Washing the Face

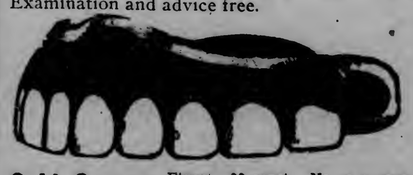

(From Beauty's Mirror)

The face should never be washed more than once a day, that in the morning, according to an eminent London physician. There's nothing like rain water for this, he says. If the skin is not over-sensitive, cold water is better than warm. Dashing it over the face with the palms of the hands, aids in toning up relaxed skin. The face should be dried with a soft towel and not exposed to the outdoor air for at least a half hour.

Never use soap, but at night smear over the face some presolated buttermilk paste, rubbing it in gently and removing in the morning with cold water. It is more cleansing than any soap and contains no alkali. Its value as a skin softener and whitener is well recognized, and of course this applies to neck and hands as well as the face. Any druggist can supply good presolated buttermilk paste, and it is far more convenient to use than a daily wash of buttermilk.

DULUTH LEADS ALL CITIES IN BUILDING INCREEAS

Zenith City Shows Greatest Percentage of Gain for Six Months.

Duluth Architects Are Engaged on Plans for Out-of-Town Buildings.

Duluth, according to the American Contractor of current issue, led American cities in the percentage of gain in building permits for the first half of the present calendar year, compared with the corresponding period of the previous year. The percentage of gain was 15.4.

Outside school construction work is occupying the attention of Duluth architects at the present time. In a number of the offices, the present temporary lull in local building circles has been practically offset by outside school building jobs.

Architect Anthony Puck this week let the general contract for a twelve-room brick grade school building at Aurora, Minn., to Duplaise Bros. of Duluth for $40,334. The heating and ventilating job was awarded to J. J. Doran of International Falls for $6,227. The plumbing to William Gausewitz & Co. of Hill City for $3,765 and the temperature regulator contract to the National Regulator company for $1,320.

The same architect awarded the general contract for a six-room frame school building at Mesaba to Knuti Bros. of Aurora for $13,129, the heating and ventilating job to William Gausewitz & Co. of Hill City for $2,308 and the plumbing contract to the same firm for $1,393.

Kelly & Williams, architects, are preparing plans for a $20,000 eight-room grade school building to be erected for a consolidated school district at Cromwell, Minn. The second floor of the structure will not be finished off. The basement will be arranged for manual training, agricultural and domestic science courses. It is expected that the plans will be out for figures soon.

The same architects are getting out plans for alterations at the Pine City high school. A new septic tank and system of plumbing is to be installed. Figures will be called for within a short time.

W. P. Allred, Jr., will have plans out next week for a two-room addition to the Little Fork school, which will be erected for the Koochiching county school board. Besides the addition, it is planned to make other alterations which will include the installation of a new plumbing system.

Good progress is being made by Contractor Richard Hanson in the construction of the addition to the First Presbyterian church, Third avenue east and Second street, which is being erected at the cost of about $25,000. The addition will be ready for occupancy some time in September. Holstead & Sullivan are the architects.

The Bowe-Burke company, contractors, broke ground this week for the new $10,000 church which is to be erected for the St. Elizabeth's Catholic parish of New Duluth. The church is to be erected on Grand avenue midway between New Duluth and Gary. It will have a seating capacity for 500, 350 on the main floor and 150 in the balcony. Holstead & Sullivan are architects.

Feiro & Curren, proprietors of the Excelsior laundry, Garfield avenue and Superior street, will erect a 2-story structure on the west side of Twentieth avenue west adjoining the Home laundry building. The new home of the Excelsior will cost about $8,000. Architect Vernon J. Price, who prepared the plans, this week opened bids on the work and found Danielson & Ramstad to be the lowest bidders. The contract for the work will probably be signed up next week.

Wangenstein & Giluison this week awarded the contract for the plumbing work for the new $80,000 hotel building to be erected for the Gopher Real Estate company at the northwest corner of Twentieth avenue west and Superior street to D. R. Black & Co., of this city. The same architects awarded the plumbing and heating contracts for the new hotel which is being erected at Moose Lake for the Duluth Brewing & Malting company to J. J. Doran of International Falls.

Kelly & Williams are preparing plans for an eight-room cottage to be built at Gull lake near Brainerd for W. A. Barrows. The same firm is also getting out plans for a 14-room boarding house to be erected for one of the mining companies of the Copper country.

The board of county commissioners will open bids at its semi-annual meeting to be held at the courthouse on Monday on the grandstand and agricultural building to be erected for the county fair association at Hibbing. The plans have been prepared by E. F. Broomhall, local architect.

Building permits of the week numbered twenty-seven and represented an expenditure of $72,670. The largest permit taken out was for the construction of a hollow tile residence for R. H. Draper, costing $25,000, to be erected on Second street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east. The week's permit follows:

To A. Stranburg, frame dwelling, West Eighth street, between Forty-second and Forty-third avenues	$ 1,500
To K. Breva, frame dwelling, Restormel street and Atlantic avenue	1,400
To A. Anderson, frame dwelling, Tioga street between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth avenues	500
To O. Magnuson, frame dwelling, East Eighth street between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues	3,000
To M. Kucza, frame dwelling, Boulevard and Lake avenue.	1,500
To Northern Pacific, addition to roundhouse, Garfield avenue.	10,000
To M. Grabowiski, frame dwelling, East Eighth street between Seventh and Eighth avenues	150
To C. F. Jolitz, frame shop, Fifty-sixth avenue avenue west between Bristol and Ramsey streets	150
To H. Mannina, frame dwelling, Boulevard	800
To P. Peterson, frame dwelling, West Fourth street between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues	3,000

STATE AS REAL ESTATE BROKER

Some countries in Europe have enacted laws looking to the solution of the problem of how best to encourage and assist the artisan to own his own home, and now the Argentine Republic, one of the most progressive and prosperous nations south of the equator, is considering such a law. A bill has been introduced in the national congress authorizing the expenditure, as an experiment, of $1,000,000 in the construction of dwellings for working men.

The administration of the fund is to be undertaken by a committee appointed by the chief executive of the nation. Each dwelling is to be detached or semi-detached with a small garden, and to be sold at cost price to workingmen, plus 3 per cent. Payments are to be made in monthly installments. Should the plan prove successful and the working class show any enthusiasm in the matter, further appropriations will be made to continue the movement.

One of the main reasons for the wonderful prosperity which has been attained in the Argentine Republic is illustrated in this scheme. The government is alert to every opportunity to enlarge the opportunities of the humbler class of its citizens to make themselves independent, at least so far as the comforts and necessities of life are concerned.

HOW TO REDUCE ELEVATOR SPACE

New Method Found Which Cuts Time and Doubles Capacity.

A two-story elevator, says Popular Mechanics, that increases the efficiency of elevator service while decreasing the amount of space required for shafts is the latest improvement in skyscraper equipment. Two cages are rigidly connected together, with floors the same distance apart as the floors of the upper stories of the building. The cages stop, therefore, level with any two adjacent floors. Starting and stopping is controlled by an operator in the lower A cage. An automatic locking device renders it impossible for the operator to start the cars, after they have been stopped in any position, until an attendant in the upper or B cage has released the mechanism, when a signal is automatically given the operator.

How System Is Worked.

At the main floor the cages load at A and B landings, each of which is reached by a short flight of stairs. Above the main floor, A and B floors alternate. On the directory board each office number has the prefix A or B, while conspicuous signs direct visitors to the proper landings.

An up-to-date elevator travels from one floor to the next in one and one-half seconds, while a stop requires from four to six seconds. Owing to the decrease in the number of stops and the consequent shortening of the time required for a round trip, the two-story elevator has a capacity 2.4 times greater than the single car.

It is estimated that thirteen minutes and twenty-one seconds would be required for emptying the Singer tower in New York city in case of fire or panic. With two-story cars operating in the same shafts, this time would be reduced to five minutes and thirty-four seconds.

CONVENTIONS AND RAIN AFFECT REALTY MARKET

Summer Quietness Evident in Marked Degree During Week.

Good Investment Opportunities Are Offered By Duluth Dealers.

WEEKLY REALTY RESUME.

	Number of Transfers.	Known Consideations.
Monday	28	$ 4,420.00
Tuesday	23	9,754.00
Wednesday	18	8,038.00
Thursday	23	7,575.00
Friday	25	66,722.50
Saturday	18	10,745.00
Total	135	$108,154.50

Duluth was too busy entertaining bankers, musicians and coal dealers this week to do much real estate business. The conventions and rain put a crimp in the week's trading. Summer is here too and it is reflected in the rather tardy condition of the market. The situation, however, is not "dead." One dealer declares that at the present time there are many opportunities to pick up good property of the gilt-edge kind at most reasonable prices. It is only the scarcity of investors with the courage of their convictions and who are willing to jump in and pick up some of the marked-down bargains that makes the market quiet.

Trading in residence properties has been fairly active and there has also been a rather gratifying movement in sub-division properties. The money market is not quite as tight as it was. John A. Stephenson, local real estate dealer, declares that applications for loans during the past week have been very good. "The loan business has been quite active," says Mr. Stephenson, "money is being placed and 6 per cent is the going rate."

At Gary, A. W. Kuehnow reports the sale of twenty building sites during the past week. The Home Realty company sold two good frontages. Mr. Kuehnow advises that four lots were sold to Thomas W. Sullivan of Summitville, Ind., for $7,400. The lots are located on the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Dickson street. The same purchaser also acquired an inside lot on Commonwealth avenue. Mr. Kuehnow also sold R. T. Kirkham of Indianapolis a Commonwealth avenue lot. It is understood that Mr. Sullivan contemplates improvement of the property next spring.

Subdivision properties are moving along briskly. During the last week, Stryker, Manley & Buck report a brisk demand for Ingleside Park acres. Among the sales were the following: Three lots to George Goss, two lots each to J. Longtin, R. Mowbray, E. P. Anderson and J. Graham and one lot each to A. Derby, S. Hrultsford, J. Doyle and F. B. Di Marco. At the present time, roads are being graded in the new allotment at Ingleside. The company expects to start its active selling campaign about Aug. 1.

E. D. Field & Co., report that they have received considerable inquiry for acre tracts at Riverside Suburban Homes near the experimental farm. A number of prospective sales are said to have been lined up.

Two new real estate and land companies filed articles of incorporation with the register of deeds this week. The Steel Plant Realty company is organized to engage in a general real estate business and particularly in steel plant suburban property. Its capital stock is $25,000 and its incorporators, S. H. Eckman, president; A. C. Campbell, vice president and treasurer; E. D. Carter, secretary; S. J. Bigelow, F. A. Eckman and W. A. Kennedy. The Ogama Iron & Land company has a capital stock of $50,000. Its incorporators are J. B. Arnold, Duluth; N. B. Arnold, Superior, and N. B. Arnold of Virginia.

Among the sales in residence properties during the past week are the following:

From William R. Wright to James Hopperton, southeast corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Huntington street, fronting fifty feet on avenue, consideration $750.

From Western Land association to Theodore H. Rud, fronting seventy-five feet on the southeast corner of Sixteenth avenue east and Seventh street, frontage on street, consideration $1,500.

From Charles I Spence to William M. Hubbard, fifty feet on the lower side of Cambridge street between Fortieth and Forty-first avenues east, consideration $1,575.

From E. M. Horton to Alice Wallace, property fronting fifty feet on the lower side of Jefferson street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth avenues east, consideration $1,800.

From Hugh A. McCurdy to Duluth Brewing & Malting company, lot fronting twenty-five feet on the upper side of Helm street between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues west, consideration $700.

From Gust C. Anderson to Fred C. Sarazin, house and lot fronting twenty-five feet on Devonshire street between Michigan and Winnipeg avenues, consideration $1,800.

From the Standard Investment company to Barbara Steiner, house on frontage of twenty-eight feet on the west side of Ninth avenue east between Seventh and Eighth streets, consideration $2,700.

From Helma Christopher to Owsley E. Carman, house and lot fronting twenty-five feet on the upper side of Fifth street between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues east, consideration $3,000.

EXPECT GOOD DEMAND FOR BUILDING MATERIAL

Grand Forks, B. C., July 12.—Lumbermen in the boundary district anticipate a heavy demand for building material this summer in view of the exceptionally promising crop outlook. Among the present and projected undertakings at Grand Forks are listed a canning factory, a department store, a moving picture theater, and railway machine shops and roundhouse, besides new dwellings and business blocks. Definite plans are also in hand for the erection of a pulp mill in the near future, or as soon as the necessary financial arrangements can be completed.

NORTH DAKOTA CROP CONDITIONS ARE FINE.

Fargo, N. D., July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota crop conditions have improved as a result of the requent heavy rains over the state during the present week. They have especially bneficial to late oats and barley and wheat. Corn and potatoes have also gotten the benefit. Wahpton has had between six and seven inches of rainfall in the last three weeks. There was a series of heavy downpours, but no storms or cloudbursts.

VALLEY CITY ROBBERY NETS YEGGMEN $25.

Valley City, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yeggmen who blew the safe of the Johnston Lumber company here only secured $25. The work evidently is that of professionals, the door being blown clean. Nitroglycerin was used. There is no clew to the men.

FARGO TO WELCOME GLIDDEN TOURISTS.

Fargo, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Glidden tourists will be entertained by the Commercial club this evening. There will be a luncheon Sunday evening at the same place, and if weather is favorable, points of interest around the city will be visited.

Wahpeton Man Killed.

Wahpeton, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.))—Falling against the arc machine, Chris Christianson, an employe of the electric light plant, was instantly killed. It is supposed he acidentally came in contact with the machinery while tightening a bolt. He was dead and lying against the machine when found.

TO ADVERTISE HOME CITY

Real Estate Men Will Have Opportunity at Winnipeg Convention.

An opportunity will be offered to each real estate board represented at the national convention of Real Estate Exchanges at Winnipeg this month to advertise its home city. On behalf of the Chicago board, a handsome silver cup will be presented to the exchange making the most interesting report. The cup will be up for annual competition.

Most of the real estate exchanges, not excepting Duluth, have originated and developed systems that have enabled them to give better service to their clients. Ideas have been interchanged to some extent and some of the systems in vogue in some cities have been adopted by others. The object of the competition at the national convention will be to give the members of the national association an opportunity to hear the various systems outlined in a practical way.

It is not only true in Duluth but in a number of other cities that the real estate exchange has taken an active part in civic and municipal development and has been of considerable benefit to the community. The program committee of the big convention has planned to give the delegates an opportunity to hear of these activities and has set aside one afternoon, July 28, when each board represented at the convention will be alloted five minutes—no more—in which to present an outline of the activities of its board, or tell something about its city.

Upham Will Speak.

N. J. Upham of the Duluth exchange will represent the local board and will be the speaker from this city. Mr. Upham will tell of the wonderful industrial development at the Head of the Lakes and of the prospects which are in sight for Duluth's future as a great steel manufacturing center. Mr. Upham is a vice president of the national association.

It is expected that the convention will call forth a number of interesting reports from every board. The judges will be: Col. Nathan William MacChesney, general counsel of Chicago; Andrew R. McMaster, K. C., associate counsel for Canada, of Montreal, and one other to be selected.

The rules suggested for this first cup competition are as follows:

The time for each speaker shall, under no circumstances, exceed five minutes.

Each speaker must be a member of the board which he represents.

The order in which speakers are called upon shall be determined by lot.

In making awards, the judges will consider both subject matter and the way in which it is presented.

In the event of no two of the three judges being able to agree on an award lots shall be drawn to determine which one of the boards selected by each one of the three judges will get the cup.

The name of the winning board and years in which the cup is held shall be engraved on the cup, and the cup held by the winning board until the next annual convention, when it shall again be competed for.

The cup shall not be awarded to the same board at two consecutive conventions.

These rules may be changed at any time by the officers of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges which officers shall have charge of all matters in connection with competing for, awarding and holding of the cup.

MILLER SURPRISES.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were two surprises here when it was announced that Attorney General Miller had selected John Carmody for assistant, one that he would name a Democrat and another that a former justice of the supreme court would accept the position. Mr. Carmody was appointed by Governor Burke to serve on the highest court when the legislature increased the body from three to five. He will soon locate at the state capital to assume his duties.

The Steel Corporation

Just at this time when the big work of the Steel Corporation is under way, Proctor is feeling the influence and will share in the development and "boom" now in sight for this region.

The same people own and control the railroad, shops and terminals here at Proctor that are building the Steel Plant on the bay below, and it is believed that the big Proctor shops will be used as an adjunct and auxiliary in the construction of the Steel Plant buildings and improvements.

Already the Railway Company has made the survey to extend a new ore road from the Yards to the Plant and another immense ore dock is being constructed on the bay.

These improvements will be direct feeders for Proctor, and with its two shop plants, yards and terminals, Proctor is really an important part of the Steel Plant. The position is such that when the street cars come from West Duluth, it is said, they will be extended from Proctor and make a "loop" around by the Steel Plant and back to West Duluth. Adv.

PROGRESS IN BUTTE FIELD

Second Section of Butte & Superior Concentrator Nearly Completed.

Duluth Men Involved in Receivership Proceedings in Montana.

Butte, Mont., July 12.—D. C. Jackling, the well known mining man and the directing mind insofar as the milling operations of the Butte & Superior Copper company is concerned spent a few days in the city recently accompanied by some of his expert mining engineers for the purpose of making an examination of the operations of the concentrator.

Mr. Jackling said that everything was proceeding very satisfactorily and that the second section of the concentrator would be in commission in about three weeks. In another month he said that all reconstruction work would be cleared up on the milling end of the company. Asked what percentage of saving in ore values did his investigation show he replied that during May it was slightly under 90 per cent and the month of June showed it to be better than 90 per cent. He declined to state whether the report put in circulation that the company earned over $60,000 during the past month, was true, saying that the stockholders are entitled to the first information as to earnings and that the information would be given by the directors to the stockholders in the regular monthly report.

Mr. Jackling was questioned concerning the dispute as to ground between Senator W. A. Clark, owner of the Elm Orlu and the Butte & Superior and while admitting that there was a question as to certain rights, he said that there would not be any trouble as it had been agreed that the matter would be amicably settled between the two interests. "Whatever the report is," said Mr. Jackling, "will be accepted by both sides. I cannot give any information on the subject at the present time, beyond making the statement that there will be an amicable settlement."

He refused to discuss the nature of the dispute. Mr. Jackling left the city with his experts for Seattle where a steamer will be taken for Alaska for the purpose of making an examination of the extensive holdings of Mr. Jackling in that part of the country.

The Anaconda Copper Mining company is developing the Southern Cross mine in the Georgetown district on an extensive scale. A man who came from the district says that for every carload taken out of the mine five carloads are exposed to view and that there is now in sight a great body of ore, the estimated value of which is about $3,000,000. The size of the ore shoot recently unearthed cannot be accurately estimated. There is a crosscut which has shown a body of ore twenty feet wide. There is being shipped to the Washoe smelter every week twenty-five carloads of ore. It is heavy with iron and is used for fluxing in the reduction works.

Although the Tuolumne company directors were compelled to postpone the ordering of the regular quarterly dividend, the officials declare that it is only a question of a short time when the directors will again meet and the earnings will be such as to warrant the usual 10 per cent payment. There are others among the mining people of the district who are of the opinion that the Tuolumne will not earn any more dividends, unless there is a great improvement over present conditions. It is reported that a rich body of ore has been opened on the 2,200-foot level and that it is eight feet wide, but there is not any report as to its extent. There is no doubt that the Tuolumne property is in a good locality but its holdings are so limited, many people do not think that even if it should run into a rich body of ore at depth that sufficient could be mined to make any returns of great value to the stockholders.

Capt. A. B. Wolvin, the principal owner of the Butte & Duluth company, says that he is treating 250 tons of ore daily and that he is turning out the pure copper from his leaching plant at a cost of 7 cents a pound. The company has a large force of men at work on the enlargement of the plant and in about two months the leaching plant will be in a position to treat 500 tons of ore a day. The larger the plant the greater the reduction in the cost of production, is the statement of Mr. Wolvin and he says that by the time the mill is in a position to treat 500 tons of ore a day he will produce the refined copper, ready for shipment to the Eastern market, at around 6 cents a pound.

Is there a curtailment of the copper production in progress? According to the official figures of the Anaconda company the production for June is 4,060,000 pounds less than that of the previous month and the only way to account for this large decrease in the output is that there is a belief that the market is oversupplied and that a curtailment is necessary. The figures cannot be obtained here from official sources, but an investigation clearly establishes the fact that fully as much ore went to the smelters in June as in May when the production was announced as 25,500,000 pounds. The figures for June as given out in New York are 21,500,000 pounds.

According to the latest advices there is little prospect of the railroad being completed into the Radersburg district just now. When it was announced some time ago that financial arrangements had been about completed for the continuation of the work June 15 was the date set for the resuming of the work, but not a move has been made up to the present time. The mines in operation in that district, including the Keating and the Ohio Keating are only shipping their highest grade of ore which amounts to about 100 tons a day as the wagon haul of twelve miles to the line of railway is too expensive to get any return from an average grade of ore.

In the course of another month the ore from the mines of the Anaconda company will be going to the Washoe smelter by electric cars. The equipment is all on hand and has been fully tested, while the entire system of about 114 miles, which includes the net work of tracks in and around the mines, has been wired. Tests made show that the electric locomotives can haul more cars with greater ease than the steam engines and the success of the electric road is already assured.

Crosscutting on the veins on the 500-foot level of the Butte & Zenith City property, five miles west of the city, is still proceeding and while Manager Newton reports going through some rather good mineralized ground no ore of a shipping quality has been encountered.

* * *

Some persons interested in both properties are agitating for a merger of the Tuolumne and Butte Main Range companies. Practically the same parties who control Tuolumno have large holdings in the Butte Main Range and it would not be surprising if a consolidation was brought about in the course of a few months. The Butte Main Range company was organized a few months ago and shaft sinking is going on on the property.

NEW EXTENSION OF SOO ROAD OPENING UP NORTHERN PART OF CUYUNA RANGE

Work is being pushed on the new extension of the Soo railroad from Iron Hub, and there is now less than a mile of grading to be done. The laying of the rails will be a short job, and the line will probably be ready for trains within a month, or six weeks at the latest.

The new line will open up several promising properties on the northern part of the Cuyuna range. It will run from Iron Hub north of Rabbit Lake, and between Rabbit Lake and the Mississippi river, to the property of the Iron Mountain Mining company. This is the present terminus of the line, but it will undoubtedly be extended later, and it is believed that it will ultimately be the main line of the road.

The new line will tap some manganese deposits. The Iron Mountain mine will be the only shipper this year. The company has abandoned its old exploration shaft, and is sinking a new three-compartment shaft, which is now within a few feet of the ore body. It will be anchored and the hoisting of ore will be begun within two or three weeks. The company expects to be in position to ship as soon as the railroad is in. Many inquiries for ore have been received, and test runs are now being made in several furnaces.

In addition to the Iron Mountain mine there are several other properties adjoining which have been drilled and on which some large deposits of ore have been shown up.

SCENES ON THE NEW EXTENSION OF THE SOO ROAD FROM IRON HUB, AND AT THE SHAFT OF THE IRON MOUNTAIN MINE.

EXPLORING AT INDIANA

New Drill Hole Being Driven From Bottom of the Shaft.

Decrease in Estimated Production of Lake Superior District in June.

Houghton, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indiana Mining company having failed to locate copper in commercial quantities in the several drill holes driven horizontally on the 1,400-foot level, is making a final attempt to pick up the copper-bearing felsite at greater depth.

The new drill hole, designated as No. 7, is therefore sinking vertically from the bottom of the shaft, and unless all calculations are wrong, should pick up the felsite bed at between 30 and 50 feet. The crosscut and drift on this bed at the 1,150-foot level is showing very little copper. The only rock drift in commission in this property is doing service on this level. All the work on the 600-foot level was stopped some time ago in order to facilitate exploratory work on the 1,150-foot level and at the bottom of the shaft, 250 feet below. The net results at this point have been distinctly discouraging, but as the campaign is little more than begun, important and more favorable developments may be expected. Only the immediate vicinity of the shaft has been touched in the preesnt exploratory campaign.

New Arcadian.

The New Arcadian Copper company has reached a depth of 750 feet in the new shaft, and is now cutting a station preliminary to crosscutting. The shaft which is sunk in the middle vein of three parallel copper-bearing beds, has shown more or less copper from grass roots to its present bottom, the exceptions being at the points where the shaft temporarily passed out of the vein and into the hanging wall contact. The shaft at 750 feet is bottomed in barren ground of this character. The crosscut which will be sent east and west across the formation, is designed to open up and explore the parallel veins, the first of which lies 150 feet east and the second 300 feet west of the middle bed. It will therefore be several months before the nearer of these two beds is reached. The hoist at this shaft has practically reached the limit of its capacity at 750 feet. The management has planned to deepen the shaft to about 2,000 feet, but before this can be done new and heavier hoisting machinery must be installed. Just how soon these improvements will be installed will depend altogether upon the results secured in the crosscuts.

Houghton Copper Company.

The Houghton Copper company is centering activity in the winze sunk on the Superior main lode, in which a depth of 500 feet below the sixth level has been attained. Copper ground has been in evidence in all but a few feet of the distance covered by the winze, and the bottom is looking exceptionally well. The winze is sinking at the rate of about sixty feet per month. Work on the sixth level is confined to drifting, the south drift at the moment being idle, and the north drift being in copper ground of fair average quality. The distance from breast to breast in this drift is now approximately 1,200 feet. The Houghton property is unusually small, as mining properties in the Lake Superior district go, but the showing is generally above the average and a small but unusually rich mine is promised with the further expenditure of more money and considerably more time.

The Cliff Mining company is preparing to diamond drill the area south of the Kearsarge horizon between which and the great eastern sandstone lies a copper bearing belt approximately two miles wide. A complete crosssection of this territory will be made. The operations of the company in the immediate past were centered entirely in exploratory work in the Kearsarge lode, in which considerable drifting and crosscutting was done at comparatively shallow depth, and with results altogether discouraging. The company is in fairly easy financial condition, having about $50,000 cash in treasury, but diamond drilling can be expected to eat this up at a fairly rapid rate.

Progress at Algomah.

The Algomah Mining company is pushing shaft work with commendable energy and good progress is being made. All other work in this property has ceased. The shaft, which has attained a depth of 365 feet. continues to show boulders of copper ore of the same grade as that opened at grass roots, a black oxide of copper carrying up to 20 and 30 per cent copper, the whole averaging around 3 per cent. The exploratory crosscut west on the 200-foot level, and in which work has now ceased, passed considerably beyond the probable strike of the Lake lode, which formation it very likely intersected without, however, showing copper in quantity. A limited amount of work centered in a narrow copper bearing bed, approximately midway between the shaft and the Lake bed, or what is presumed to be that famous formation, yielded very fair showings of copper within rather narrow limits, and several hundred feet of drifting was done before a final decision to stop this work was reached.

The output of the Lake Superior mines for June is estimated at 16,763,-551 pounds fine copper, which compares with 18,091,963 pounds produced in May, and with an output of 18,110,-016 pounds produced in June, a year ago. Detailed production by companies follows:

Tuolumne Mining Company Announces New Issue of Stock.

Butte, Mont., July 12.—The enlargement of the operations of the Tuolumne Mining company and the increase of its capital stock from $800,000 to $1,500,000 for the purpose of taking over the Butte Main range and perhaps other mining properties in which the Hickey interests have control is practically assured.

The Pilot-Butte will not be taken over, at least not for the present, according to a statement given out yesterday by J. J. Harrington, secretary of the Tuolumne company. That it will be purchased eventually by the Tuolumne was strongly hinted at by one of the large holders in both properties.

Economies in the operation of the consolidated properties is the main reason given for the move.

The purchase of the Butte Main Range will be made without the expenditure of any cash, according to the plans as far as perfected. A part of the $700,000 additional stock that it is proposed to issue by the Tuolumne company will be exchanged for Butte Main Range stock at an appraised value to be agreed upon at the meeting of the stockholders of both companies to be held on Aug. 18.

Letter to Stockholders.

The following circular letter to stockholders has been sent out by President Hickey of the Tuolumne:

"You will find inclosed a notice of a special meeting of the stockholders of the Tuolumne Copper Mining company, to be held on Aug. 1. The calling of this meeting was authorized by the board of directors of the company and is for the purpose of considering and voting upon the question of an increase of the capital stock from $800,000 shares of the par value of $1 each to 1,500,000 shares of the par value of $1 each. The proposed increase of stock is for the purpose of furnishing the means necessary to purchase valuable mining properties situated in the Butte district and believed to be of large value. The purchase of these claims by the company is believed by the board to be highly advantageous to the company, as the same will comprise an additional area of about forty acres of valuable mining ground, which can be worked economically in connection with the other mining property of the company."

"What basis of exchange will probably be used for the purchase of the stock of the Butte Main Range?" Mr. Harrington was asked.

"That is not settled and cannot be settled before the meetings of the two companies. Both meetings will be held on the same day. The Butte Main Range is capitalized at $1,500,000. Mr. Hickey and Mr. Sheehan are the only stockholders who are heavily interested in both companies. Only a part of the additional stock issue of the Tuolumne will be used, of course, to purchase the additional properties. The rest of it will be kept in the treasury of the company to be expended as the situation seems to demand. We may use some of it later for the purpose of erecting a concentrator or other development work."

"What other properties do you think of purchasing besides the Butte Main Range?"

"We are not ready to say as to that. It might interfere with the plans."

"Is the Pilot-Butte one of them?"

"No, it is not. I can state that."

Leonard-Colusa Not Considered.

"Are there any negotiations on for the purchase of the Leonard-Colusa extensions?"

"No, there are not. That property adjoins the Butte Main Range and if any such purchase is made, it will be later on. It has not even been considered."

P. J. Brophy, one of the stockholders heavily interested in Butte Main Range, said that of course the stockholders in that company believed they had a very valuable property there, but the basis of the proposed exchange of stock had not been decided upon.

Patrick Sheehan, who is interested with Mr. Hickey in both companies, said that economies in the operation of the consolidated properties would make it a paying proposition for the stockholders of both concerns. He said that the taking over of the Pilot-Butte would not be taken up at the coming meeting.

THE LOST ART OF EATING

Americans Ought to Pay More Attention to Preparation of Food.

Journal of the American Medical association: There is some truth in the assertion that neither states' rights nor slavery, but the frying pan, brought on the Civil war; for frying encapsulated the food in a layer of fat impervious to the digestive juices, and the resulting indigestion aroused the mutual enmities and the berserker rage of our fathers. America is pre-eminently the land of the deadly hot bread, the sinker, the flapjack, the Bingo frankfurter, the quick lunch, dyspepsia, with its consequent neurasthenia, and the stomach bitters, which often approximate whisky in alcohol content.

It would not be difficult to prove that "bad cooking has driven many a man to drink." Not only are our meats often badly cooked, but also vegetables are frequently boiled in a way which deprives them of their characteristic odor and their toothsomeness.

There would seem to be among our people, in larger measure than elsewhere in civilization, a contempt for the culinary art, as if it were beneath notice, or decadent, or savoring of the effete Old World. Yet what in life can be more essential than the right preparation of substances which are to keep the human machinery going, in order that the best may be got out of it, with fewest slowings down or interruptions.

In the Old World.

In the Old World the relation of zest and fragrance to food is held vital, and justly so. Great Europeans, indeed, have seriously interested themselves in such matters. It is a dictum on the continent that the saucier is born, not made. On numerous occasions the elder Dumas invited friends to dinner, personally prepared the most succulent dishes, and then, exchanging cook's attire for his dress clothes, regaled his cronies with the products of his "noble art." Montaigne wrote a notable book on the science of cooking, Frederick the Great praised his cook in verse—the former being much better than the latter.

Lord Bacon thought it no shame to bend his mighty intellect to the problems of the kitchen. The composer Rossini composed salads as symphonic in their way as his operas, and regretted that by reason of his neglected early education he could not have made cooking, rather than music, his profession.

Some Dietary Axioms.

In Brillat-Savarin's great work, "The Physiology of Taste," are axoms as profound—at least as entertaining—as ever Plato or Epictetus set down, for example:

"The education of the tastes and the appetite should be an index of the degree of civilization."

"Digestion, of all bodily functions, has most influence on the morals of the individual."

"A good dinner is but little dearer than a bad one."

"The most momentous decision of personal and of material life are made at table."

"The fate of nations depends on how they are fed."

"The man of sense and culture alone understands eating."

"The discovery of a new dish does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a planet."

Louis xviii invented a famous dish—which is perhaps the best thing he ever did for his people. The prince of Conde won international fame as an inventor of an improved bean soup. Richelieu, Colbert and Mazarin were celebrated for like achievements.

It does not follow that, in emulation, our chief magistrate should add to his already illustrious services by donning an apron and inventing an entirely original sauce princetonnaise; or that our genial secretary of state should aid our visitors from foreign courts to forget the episode of the unfermented grape juice, by evolving for their delectation a consomme a la commoner. But our fellow citizens and their nine-tenths, the doctors, and most emphatically our nurses, ought to make pure food well cooked a matter of serious national import.

A Badge of Distinction.

The only animal which cooks its food is man, and this is a badge of distinction from the brute. We cook food for at least four reasons; to sterelize it to make it nutritious, to render is more easily digestible and to improve or vary its flavor. The last of these is at least as important as any of the others. When the gustatory nerves tingle in response to the stimulus of some rare condiment or aroma, the saliva flows in joyous excitement and the digestive juices, by whose benign influences food is transformed into nourishment, respond in salutary and fullest measure. The simple and pleasant way to bring this about is to pay proper attention to the flavor of food.

SENATOR TILLMAN'S WONDERFUL THREE-YEAR FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Sixteen Simple Exercises of Physical Culture, Combined With Deep Breathing and Hot Water, Have Made a Well Man of Him.

New York Sun: If anybody doubts that a 63-year-old paralytic can hold death at bay; if anybody doubts that by a strenuous system of physical culture the lame and the halt can learn to pick up their burdens and walk, just let that person read the statements of Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina concerning his own restoration to health.

Three years ago Senator Tillman was stricken, and for weeks lay helpless in the shadow of death. His friends and family lost hope. His colleagues expected to be summoned to his funeral. The newspapers prepared their obituary sketches, making ready for what seemed the inevitable. This was back in 1910.

But the senator refused to yield. The same grim determination that marked his long political career led him to make another fight. And he won again, as he had won so many times when the odds against him were not so great. He won too by a system of exercise that is astonishingly simple, yet wonderfully effective. Moreover, he has gained thirty pounds—not ordinary fat, mind you, but thirty pounds of good, hard muscle.

He is back in Washington doing business at the old stand. He is chairman of a powerful senate committee. He can walk ten miles a day and do hard work. All this has been made possible through a combination of will power and well planned exercises.

"I didn't mean to let paralysis kill me," says the senator. "I proposed to get well and stay here a few years longer. I did both by a simple plan of physical culture, and here is my system:

"1. Before getting up in the morning, take the head off the pillow and stretch out straight. Begin by kicking backward with first one foot and then fifteen times each. During the other movements, where this and counting is required, I draw in my breath to the limit and hold it while the movement is on, from ten to fifteen times.

"2. Put the heels upon the bed with the knees drawn up, then throw the knees apart as far as they can be carried, repeating twenty times.

"3. Throw first one foot and then the other toward the headboard, keeping the knee joints as straight as you can. While still lying on the back, kick out with both feet as wide apart as you can and do the kicking with emphasis, so as to strain the muscles of the calf and soles of the feet. Elevate both feet at once toward the headboard and then the spine as much as possible by using the abdominal muscles to pull up the lower extremities three times. If the hands are placed under the small part of the back and the arms are used as a lever to help elevate the legs and feet it is very much more effective. If in an iron bed this can be facilitated by grasping the railing above the head with the hands and pulling up the legs and feet by the use of the muscles of the back and belly. This is very fine for reducing the paunch as it substitutes muscle for fat and hardens the abdomen.

"4. Fasten the feet under something and pull the trunk up to a sitting posture, drop back and repeat four or five times. This is very straining at first and one ought to go about it cautiously until the muscles have become accustomed to the strain.

"5. Throw the head back with the feet on the bed and lift the body clear so that the shoulders do not touch. This will form an arch. Repeat two or three times. This is enough in bed in the morning.

"6. Take a cold bath and rub down briskly, unless you do not like cold water or have not the facilities to do it. Put on underwear and take a light pair of dumbbells (3½ pounds), to give momentum to the movements. Begin to exercise the other muscles which have not yet been used.

"9. While standing flatfooted throw the arms down by the thighs backward. Straighten up and repeat ten times. Continue in the same motion, bend the trunk forward as nearly horizontal as you can maintain it and let the arms swing as near the floor as they can go. This limbers up the muscles of the back.

"10. Now keeping the knees stiff, try to punch the big toe of each foot with both fists. Repeat five or six times.

"11. Using the dumbbells, pass them by the belly while the other is extended as high above the head as possible, and as one goes down elevate the other. This will lubricate and loosen the joints of the shoulders.

"12. Throw both arms behind the back so as to bring both hands as near together as possible with the dumbbells clinched hard. Try this ten times.

"13. Still holding the dumbbells, throw one to the rear and the other to the front and twist the spine by first looking over one shoulder and then over the other. This is to loosen the spinal column and make the vertebrae twist each on the other.

"14. Swing the dumbbells backward, forward and downward until a circle is performed by returning them to the starting point. I do this five times backward and then five times forward with each arm alternately. This lubricates the muscles of the shoulder and arms, producing circulation of the blood.

"15. Any time you feel the need of it and think of it straighten up, elevating the hands above the head, then bend forward and try to touch the floor with the tips of the fingers, the knees being held stiff. By repeating this straightening up and bending I can usually go to the floor the third or fourth time. At first I could hardly go lower than my knees and then the muscles of my back felt as though I would wrench them apart.

"16. Catch hold of the bed or a chair and squat as low as you can and then straighten up six or eight times. If you have hold of the bed so that you can bend backward as far as possible each time that you squat and straighten up it will assist you in loosening the vertebrae and bending the spine backward throughout its length. This is an excellent thing to do, as it relieves the nerves from the pressure of the vertebrae. It is the use of this exercise which enables me to mount my horse, although I am so weak otherwise."

After detailing these exercises the senator went a little further and discussed their effect. He said:

"I practice these motions morning and night, before dressing and after undressing. It takes about ten minutes, not including the bath. I feel a very marked difference in my strength as well as otherwise.

"I have found that deep breathing adds very much to my strength. It has facilitated my return to health as far as I have climbed back:

"First by compression of the diaphragm drive all the breath out of the body that you can. This is what the doctors call dead or residual air and it remains in the lungs unless they are compressed. After you have exhaled all you can then hold the lips together and inhale to the limit. This is the best thing I have ever discovered for insomnia, as almost before you know it while you are counting the inhalations you are asleep. I never remember having done this more than ten times without going to sleep.

"Another aid to my restoration to health has been hot water. I drink all the water I can and as hot as I can bear it; and when I think I have taken enough I drink some more and still some more. The average stomach has become accustomed to cold water and will reject the hot at first unless it is very hot. After drinking it persistently it becomes very acceptable to the stomach and no nausea results.

"I owe my restoration to the health I now have to four things—careful diet, drinking hot water, deep breathing and physical culture exercises I have outlined."

Weekly Report to Stockholders.

MUTUAL IRON MINING CO.

Machinery has been unloaded from cars close to Armstrong lake and is being taken to the west end of the McComber property.

Surveying crew is at work platting the townsite of McComber on the east end of Armstrong lake.

Last report shows Drill Hole No. 1 on Lot 1, Section 9, 46-29, Cuyuna Range. to be down a depth of 35 feet in mixed sand and gravel. This is the property recently leased from the Shawmut Iron Co., R. B. Whiteside, W. C. Robinson, A. L. Ordean, H. H. Meyers and others, lying west of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs on the east shore of June lake.

There are now only 3,500 shares of the dollar stock remaining unsold. As soon as this is gone the books will be closed and no more of the treasury stock sold at this price.

Don't forget the picnic excursion to the McComber mine Sunday, July 20th, leaving Duluth at 7 a. m.

WHEAT LOWER ON WEATHER

Leading Cereal Drops a Cent and Over in Short Session.

Flax Holds Stronger Position But Also Loses Ground.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 12.—The short Saturday session of the grain market today, closing at 12 o'clock, resulted in a general decline in prices, and in wheat the decline was heavy.

Weakness developed at the beginning of the session and continued mildly until near the close when strong selling pressure set in and broke the market heavily. Weather was strongly in evidence. Reports from everywhere in the Northwest were to the effect that favorable weather is widespread. There have not only been ample rains but the weather is cool and favorable for the development of the crop. The indications are many per cent better for a good crop than they were when the bullish government report was issued last Tuesday and the rains have put the ground and stands in such good condition that hot weather, if not prolonged too much, would have but little effect for some time.

July had no opening figure, and when considered from the viewpoint of its activity, its decline of 1c for the day is rather sensational. September spring wheat gave evidence of weakness from the beginning. It opened ⅛c under yesterday and the sag soon started. The finish came with September 1½c under Friday. July durum was ⅜@½c off and September was ⅜o off.

Flax Slips Slightly.

Flax opened stronger than wheat did but the strength did not last. July flax was comparatively inactive but lost for the day ½c. September opened ¼c up but sagged back quickly and held steady around Friday's close until the end. October opened unchanged and lost ¼c net.

Oats lost ½c, rye and corn each gained ½c and barley dropped 2c.

September puts, 88⅝@88¾ asked; puts, 90c bid.

Le Count wires from Fairmont, N. D.; "From Paynesville to Elbow Lake to crop is good, but from Elbow Lake to Fairmont crop is not so good. All through this district there is lots of splendid wheat, but also many very short, thin fields. All show improvement since the rain. Rain again today; soaking wet and still threatening; weather very cool and favorable."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Downward on Rain in Northwest.

Chicago, July 12.—Plentiful moisture northwest turned the wheat market today downward. Absence of export demand was another influence against the bulls. Shorts who were taking profits did most of the buying. Opening prices ranged from ⅛c to ½c lower. September, which started at 87½c to 87⅞c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether, fell to 86⅞c.

Liberal country acceptances brought about a further setback. The close was weak, with September 1⅞@1¼c net lower at 86½@86⅝c.

Corn declined on account of fine weather and lower cables. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c off at 59⅞c to 60½c, and sagged to 59⅝c.

An additional decline ensued owing to sales on stop-loss orders. The close, however, was steady at 59⅝c for September, a loss of ⅝@¾c net.

Active liquidation by longs made oats weak. September started ¼c to ⅝c lowe rat 38⅜c to 39c and descended to 38½c.

An advance in the hog market lifted provisions. First sales varied from last night's level to 15c higher, with September options at $21.00 to $21.10 for pork, $11.75 for lard, and $11.85 for ribs.

REMARKS—Rainy weather prevailed generally; high temperatures continued in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

‡—Not included in district averages.
§—Maximum of yesterday, minimum of last night.
*—Highest yesterday.
†—Lowest for twenty-four hours, ending at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time.

Note—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average precipitations from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

London Stocks.

London, July 12.—There was a fair supply of money available today. Discount rates were easy. The close was steady. American securities opened steady and later advanced under the lead of Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific. The latter was taken by Berlin and Paris and advanced over 2 points. The closing was steady with prices from ¼ to 2⅝ higher than yesterday's New York closing.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 300; killers, steady; steers, $6.50@8.25; cows-heifers, $4.50@7.10; calves, steady, $6.00@9.75; feeders, steady, $4.30@7.25.

Shorts Retreat and Traders Take Long Side of Market.

Few Price Changes of importance Take Place.

New York, July 12.—There was no appearance of reviving interest in the stock market when trading began today, following the dullest day in seventeen years. Price changes were small, with a few exceptions. Canadian Pacific opened 2 points higher and Bethlehem Steel 1. The rest of the list advanced fractionally.

Limited quantities of stock were offered for sale, and when shorts bought they had to pay half a point or more over yesterday's closing figures to get supplies. Initial prices were bettered, but dealings were not large enough to produce any radical change in values.

The market closed firm. Partial retreat of the short interest, as indicated by the slow upward movement of stocks today was attributable to the Pacific tenor of foreign political news, said factory trade reports and word of the improved crop prospects as a result of recent rains. London was something of a factor in the torpid half day session, and inspiration for the dull and drifting upward movement came from the resumption of foreign buying of Canadian Pacific and other railroad stocks. When it became evident that the early rise was not bringing out the accustomed supply, traders showed a more general inclination to take the long side. Few changes of importance were effected, however. Railroad bonds showed a steady tone, but there was continued heaviness in government and municipal issues.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 12.—The cotton market was quiet this morning, and after opening steady at an advance of 2@3 points on scattered covering, prices showed very little movement. Weekly reviews of the new crop outlook were generally favorable, but these features seemed to promote very little selling, while optimistic trade advices from the West and the firm old crop situation were doubtless sustaining factors. Futures closed steady; bids: July, 12.06; August, 12.06; September, 11.66; October, 11.44; November, 11.34; December, 11.35; January, 11.30; February, 11.31; March, 11.38; May, 11.40.

TWO BROKEN HEARTED MOTHERS FACE THEIR BIGAMIST HUSBAND IN COURTROOM

Wife No. 1 Spent Nine Years in Sweatshop Supporting Children.

Wife No. 2 Overcome By Shock and Feeling of Disgrace.

First Wife Willing to Return to New York and Get Divorce.

MRS. EVA KOROTKIN, Wife No. 1.

MORRIS KOROTKIN, Bigamist.

Two broken-hearted mothers claiming a common husband faced each other for the first time in a Duluth court room yesterday afternoon, when Morris Korotkin, bigamist, admitted a story of a double life.

One was sobbing to herself, the other showing no emotion. One had a family of two sons waiting for her in a dingy and crowded tenement house in New York city, the other was a young Duluth woman. It was the latter who was crying—for her husband had been proven a bigamist and she was thinking of the disgrace.

For wife No. 1 who is Eva Korotkin, aged 40, New York city, nine years of waiting for the return of a wife deserter had terminated. Every hope she had ever cherished had been blighted and the story of broken promises, hardship and despair was reflected in the furrows of her face.

Wife No. 1 was a product of the New York sweatshops. Nine years of slavery in a big metropolitan factory for a meager wage with which to keep her own body and soul together, and to eke out existence for the two baby boys which a faithless father had deserted told on her. Her face wore a haggard expression and her hair was slightly streaked with gray. While in the court room she wore a shawl.

Wife No. 2, was formerly Miss Hattie Weinberg, a Duluth girl. She also was known by the name of Ethel Weinberg. She is 24 years old and the mother of two children, Sam, aged 2 years, and Rachel, 5 months. She married Korotkin under the name of Morris Sorkin in Duluth on June 15, 1910, and at the present time is residing at 314½ East Fifth street.

Korotkin is 39 years old and is engaged in the business of peddling second-hand goods. He was formerly half owner with his brother in a small store on West Michigan street. The business was discontinued and he took up the work of a peddler. In Duluth, he goes by the name of Morris or Max Sorkin.

Admitted Guilt.

When arrested yesterday afternoon, Korotkin had nothing to say as to the charge, except that he was guilty. After a hurried preliminary arraignment in municipal court he was brought before Judge Cant where he was allowed to plead guilty on information.

Wife, No. 1, with her nephew, an attorney, came to Duluth yesterday morning. After a consultation with the chief of police, Korotkin was located and arrested. Korotkin asked that his case be continued for sentence until this morning. The request was granted.

The New York attorney in addressing the court with reference to the case, said: "We have come thousands of miles to find this man and to prosecute him for his crime. He has bitterly wronged both of these women."

He also stated that he had no objection to the court paroling the prisoner and giving him an opportunity to pay over a sum of money to his first wife, in order that she might be better enabled to support herself and family in New York.

When the case came up this morning for sentence, another continuance until Monday was asked for and granted, although the attorney for Wife No. 1 objected. Friends of the convicted man told the court that they would be able to raise the money for him and give him a chance to make good under a parole, if the court should so dispose of the case.

According to Attorney Chamow, representing Wife No. 1, his client is willing to return to New York city if a settlement is made and to consent to the parole of the prisoner. She is not desirous, she says, of imposing any hardship on the second wife and her children.

Will Get Divorce.

It is also intimated that in case a settlement is made between Korotkin and his first wife that she will agree to return to her home in New York and apply for a divorce. In New York state the only grounds for divorce is adultery, and she would be able to obtain a decree on the showing of a bigamous marriage. This would enable Korotkin to legally remarry his second wife.

Wife No. 2, who made a demonstration in the courtroom yesterday, was not present at the proceedings this morning. When a reporter called at the Korotkin residence this morning, she was not there. A neighbor stated that she had left her children in the care of others and had not been at her home for several hours. Her husband did not know her whereabouts when he was brought before the court this morning.

It was one of Fate's cruel tricks that broke the triangle. But for the merest of accidents, the double existence of Korotkin might never have been detected. But fate evidently decreed that the wrongs should be righted and sent a broken-hearted mother half-way across the continent to avenge her wrongs.

Chance Remark.

A chance remark of a New York newsboy furnished the clew. Korotkin's oldest son is employed by a New York city news agency and while discussing with a fellow worker the subject of Western cities, the latter mentioned Duluth. The Korotkin boy started. Where had he heard of Duluth before? Oh yes!—he remembered now. He had heard his mother tell about getting a short letter from his father from Duluth a long time before.

Although his mother was under the impression from the letter received a few years ago that Korotkin was traveling West at the time he wrote and merely posted the letter in Duluth, he inquired further. He learned that his newsboy friend once lived in Duluth.

"Did you ever know any one there by the name of Max Korotkin or Max Sorkin?" he asked.

"Well, sure thing, I should say I did. Lived with him for several weeks. We boarded at the same place."

Needless to say the information was taken home to his mother in a hurry. Mrs. Korotkin took the news to her nephew, Allen M. Chamow, a young attorney of Brooklyn, and the last stretch of the long hunt for her husband was started.

Attorney Chamow got into communication with the National Desertion Bureau, which is a branch of the United Hebrew Charities. The story was told and assistance was asked for. The National Desertion Bureau took the matter up with the Temple society of Duluth, which through Courtenay Dinwiddie, welfare worker of this city, located Korotkin and unearthed the story of his double life. Word came back to Mrs. Korotkin and her attorney to come immediately to Duluth to press charges of bigamy against the man. They were advised that he was acting suspiciously and might leave town at any moment. As a matter of fact, however, the police say, Korotkin had no inkling that he was to be arrested for bigamy. He was taken completely by surprise.

Married in Russia.

Korotkin began married life nineteen years ago in Russia. Soon after his marriage he brought his family to America, settling in Brooklyn, N. Y. The first few years of wedded life were for the most part uneventful. Three children were born to the first union. They were Meyers, aged 18; David, 15; and another son, who died in infancy after Korotkin's second desertion.

Korotkin's first desertion occurred about ten years ago. He had some petty differences with his wife, and one day told her that he was going back to Russia and that he wouldn't return. It was about the time of the Russian-Japanese war and Korotkin's stay in his native land was not long. Fearing that he would be drafted as a soldier in the army, he wrote back to his wife, stating that he had no funds and that he wanted her to send him enough money to get back home.

Worked in Factory.

In the meantime the deserted wife had secured a position as a garment worker in one of the New York factories. She had saved a little money and had supported her babies besides. It was a part of this money that she sent him. He returned to the United States and to his home. But domestic troubles again broke out. Korotkin refused to work on the pretext that he was ill. His wife still had a little money left and she invested it by opening up a candy store.

A few months later the quarrels became more frequent. Korotkin, after refusing to support her or to contribute anything towards the rent of the place, took what money he could lay his hands on and deserted the second time.

Four years passed and a letter came from him. Yesterday, Mrs. Korotkin said the letter was from a Western state and then she recalled that it was from Duluth, Minn. Her children were sick at the time and one of the boys wrote to his father for some money.

"He sent back $5 to the children," related Mrs. Korotkin to a Herald reporter. "And then, and since that time and during a period of nine years we did not receive a single penny other than that."

Hard Battle.

In the big metropolis Mrs. Korotkin found the battle for existence a hard one, especially with two children to bring up and educate. After the second desertion she returned to the sweatshop and took up her old vocation, that of a garment maker.

The sad, strange story of the New York woman was related substantially as told above to a Herald reporter by Attorney Chamow of Brooklyn, N. Y., the nephew who came to Duluth with her to prosecute Korotkin on the charge of bigamy.

"This is not a very pleasant task for me to undertake," said Mr. Chamow yesterday, "but in order to do justice to the woman, I felt that it was my duty to represent her and do the best I could for her. She has passed her prime and has fought a hard battle."

GRAIN RATE IS BROKEN

Charters Now Being Made at 1½ Cents and Under.

Scarcity of Ore Drives Big Boats Into Grain Trade.

The grain rate from Duluth to Buffalo has dropped from 1¾ cents to 1½ cents, the lowest of the season. Three or four boats were chartered yesterday and today at that figure while big carriers are known to have been in the market at 1¼ cents.

When the gigantic William P. Synder, Jr., cleared Wednesday with 460,000 bushels of wheat, a cargo, by the way, that broke all grain-carrying records, it marked the end of the 1¾-cent rate. While small lots were being carried at the higher rate there was little chance to get it after the sudden drop to 1¾ cents. Now the Shenango, another big boat of the Shenango Furnace company's fleet is loading grain here and supposedly at the low rate.

Scarcity of ore is given as the reason for the big ships invading the grain trade. It is well known that big vessels carry grain only as a last resort and particularly at the 1¼-cent rate. Officers of the Shenango company explained today that there was no trouble at their mines at Chisholm and called it simply a temporary slump. The fact that this concern usually not only has enough ore for its own boats, but frequently charters outside tonnage, shows convincingly the scarcity of ore at this time. Other boats have been here for several days awaiting cargoes although officials of the United States Steel corporation won't admit any decrease in receipts.

Probably the present situation is simply the result of the Fourth of July holiday with a short Saturday and Sunday, another holiday, following. Splendid work was done at that time to get boats loaded and away and not one remained at a dock awaiting a cargo on the morning of the Fourth. The docks were pretty well cleaned at that time.

CHICAGO MAN HAS MANY JOBS

W. G. Edens of Chicago, who came to Duluth to address the Minnesota Bankers' association, remained in the city today. He will go to Minneapolis to attend a meeting of the finance committee of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias before returning to Chicago.

Mr. Edens is assistant secretary of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and secretary of the committee on agriculture and vocational education of the Illinois Bankers' association. He is also president of the Illinois Highway Improvement association and chairman of the good roads committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Edens, backed up by the organizations in which he is an officer, was largely instrumental in obtaining the passage by the Illinois legislature of the Tice good roads bill which provides for state and county co-operation in the building and maintenance of roads.

Mr. Edens was superintendent of the free delivery service in the postoffice department under appointment by President McKinley and visited Duluth frequently about ten years ago. He went with the Central Trust company about eight years ago.

OBITUARY

Capt. Charles F. Shoemaker, former commandant of the revenue cutter service, died at Woodstock, Va., July 11, 72 years old. He has been retired from active service eight years.

Hon. Redmond Barry, lord chancellor of Ireland, died July 11. Redmond Barry was born in 1866. He was a solicitor general of Ireland from 1905-09, and attorney general 1909-11.

GAVE WHISKY TO INDIANS

Prisoner Convicted of Taking Liquor on Grand Portage Reservation.

A jury in Federal court this noon returned a verdict of guilty against Andrew Natwick, who was charged with introducing liquor at the Indian reservation at Grand Portage, Cook county.

Hugh J. McClearn, attorney for Natwick, secured a stay until Oct. 15, when his motion for a new trial will be heard by the court.

Natwick was indicted by the grand jury during the last term of court on the charge of having introduced liquor into the Indian reservation. He pleaded not guilty at the time and the case was set for the present term.

Yesterday afternoon Natwick called one of the witnesses in the case a liar, because the latter had stated in his testimony that he saw Natwick give one of the Indians a drink. The defendant's temper got the better of him and he used the ugly word. Judge Morris reprimanded Natwick for his conduct and told him that another such incident would mean an extra charge of contempt of court.

Case Goes to Jury.

The case was given to the jury at the opening of court this morning and after being out nearly three hours, the members returned and asked Judge Morris to explain a puzzling point. They wanted to know if the finding of whisky on a person in the reservation was enough to convict him of introducing that liquor. The court ruled that the mere having in the possession is not enough, if the defendant can show how he came to have the whisky and what he was doing with it. A few minutes later the jury returned a verdict of guilty.

The case against Lou Wilson and John Gagne of International Falls, who were indicted by the grand jury Tuesday on a charge of having brought into this country an alien woman who had been barred by the immigration authorities, was started this morning. The two men pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday morning. F. J. MacPartlin of International Falls is appearing for the two defendants.

Judge Morris adjourned court shortly after noon until 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, when the above case will be continued.

The next case on the civil calendar is that of John Brennan against Thomas Keating.

Mrs. M. J. F. Hanson will be up for sentence Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hanson pleaded guilty to the charge of sending through the mails information of where an abortion might be performed. She was one of many caught in a trap set by the government.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

MORE IRON ORE—RICHARD CULlen, president of the Public Steel company, has returned from re-examination of the Public Steel company's property, west of the Pioneer mine at Ely, Minn. Mr. Cullen says the hematite iron ore indications on that part of the Public Steel company's property indicate the iron ore deposits to be at least 2,000 feet wide and over one mile long on the Public Steel company's holdings and that some of the hematite iron ore on the islands will go 40 per cent metallic iron at the surface. The Pioneer, Smith, Savoy and Sibley mines contain 300,000,000. With veins of ore 1,900 feet deep, 800 feet wide worth $175 per ton under the ground; add it up and 300,000,000 tons makes it $525,000,000,00, which is all adjacent to the east section line of the Public Steel company's property. Old miners who have been working the past fifteen years in the Pioneer mine claim the Public Steel company has more ore under its island in Long lake, west of the Pioneer mine, than there is in the Pioneer, Zenith, Savoy and Sibley mines and after my re-examination of the Public Steel company's property, west of Pioneer, I believe the old miners' statement to be true and if so then of course the Public Steel company has also 300,000,000 tons of ore worth $525,000,000. The Public Steel company deeds extend a mile and a half west in a southwestly course a mile and a half from west section line of the Pioneer mine, clean across the famous Chandler section 28, 63-12, and half way across the section west of it. The Chandler mine shipped the richest ore that ever went down the lakes the past twenty-five years. Looks as if the Public Steel company's iron formation, west of the Pioneer, is twice as wide as the Pioneer iron formation. The famous John Mallman wrote eleven years ago on the iron property held by the Public Steel company that the company's island west of the Pioneer mine, had some rich indications as was the then Pioneer, Zenith, Savoy and Sibley mines and could be mined just as cheaply as those operating at Ely, besides the company's lease holds 3½ section 16, 62-13, on which a lot of work has been done, showing this also to be a great iron property on which N. Lenner, Ph. D., St. Paul, in 1906, wrote as follows: "Soudan iron formation is found cropping out in different places, indicating the iron ore deposit to be a quarter to half mile wide running across the section." The famous Mallman also wrote very high of this half section. I commenced working in the iron mines and shipping iron ore to Cleveland forty-two years ago. I bought these lands fourteen years ago and I believe I know my business and I believe that when the Public Steel company gets $100,000 in its treasury to buy half a dozen Sullivan diamond drills to run day and night double shafts I believe that inside of six months from the time the drills start work that the Public Steel company, west of Pioneer mine, will have shown up the largest body of hematite iron ore that ever was or ever will be proven in the great iron state of Minnesota. Then we expect to sell the stock as high as $10 per share. Stocks selling fast at $1 per share. Office, McKay hotel.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

THE NORTON ACRE OUTLOTS

WILL BE PLACED ON SALE

MONDAY, JULY 21.

These acre tracts are exceptionally well located and have the very best loam and black muck soil, adjoining the city. They adjoin the Hartley celery and lettuce farm on the west.

The Howard and Gneseen road runs through the tract, and it is expected that an extension of the Hartley road will soon give easy access to the Woodland car line.

The tract contains 160 acres and is divided into 146 lots.

Every lot fronts on a good graded street, and is tagged with size, price and terms.

The acreage price is $150 per acre, and the lots will be sold on terms of $5 cash and $5 per month.

This tract has been platted by the Norton Estate and there is no promoter's profit for you to pay.

It is by far the best acre proposition offered and is an exceptional opportunity to secure a large garden tract close to the city, and offers in addition a sure investment, with the probability that in a few years this acre tract will be valuable city property.

Look at them.

MULHALL SAYS HE COULD HAVE GOT $150,000 FOR HIS LOBBY DOCUMENTS

Claims He Was Told His Former Employers Would Pay That.

Declares He Tried for Two Months to Give Them Away.

Defends Himself Before Senators Against Attack on Motives.

Washington, July 14.—Martin M. Mulhall, self-styled lobbyist for ten years for the National Association of Manufacturers, interrupted the senate lobby investigation today to reply to what he declared were personal attacks upon his character and his purpose in the expose in which he has become the central figure of the lobby inquiry.

He denied that he had tried to sell the great mass of papers and letters which recently were published and which now are in the hands of the senate committee. Later, he said, he proposed to introduce witnesses and letters to show that he had been engaged for months in "trying to give away" the great file of correspondence which has brought officers of the National Association of Manufacturers and labor leaders and congressmen into prominence.

Offered it to Magazine.

Mulhall's statement was made in connection with his request that he be allowed to read a letter he had written May 16, 1913, to Perriton Maxwell, editor of Hearst's magazine, urging him to have William R. Hearst make the mass of letters public through his publications.

This letter reiterated former statements that the writer did not want money, but wanted to get the lobbying documents published "as a service to the public."

"I have attempted for the last two months to give them away," Mulhall told the committee. "I never had in mind the question of the money I would receive for them."

"But you did sell them later to the New York World?" asked Senator Reed.

"Could Get $150,000."

"I would like to offer further letters and witnesses on that point," said Mulhall. "I did not sell them. I fell into the hands of a gentleman named Barry, who came over to look at the letters for Mr. Hearst. I have learned since that he is what is known as a newspaper tipster. The letters were given to the New York World, but later Mr. Barry came and wanted me to break the contract with the World, saying he could get $150,000 for the letters from the National Association of Manufacturers."

"I said the letters were not for sale; that the National Association of Manufacturers did not have money enough to buy them; that I had no proposition of blackmail in connection with them."

At this point Mulhall's statement was interrupted by the committee. He said he wanted Editor Maxwell and Louis Siebold of the New York World and other witnesses called in his behalf. Mr. Seibold is already under subpoena by the committee.

The house committee appointed to investigate the Mulhall charges was unable to proceed today owing to monopolization of the witness by the sen-

HEAVY RAIN FLOODS PORT ARTHUR AND FORT WILLIAM.

Fort William, Ont., July 14.—The heavy rains of the last three days have caused several feet of water in the avenues between Port Arthur and Fort William, and residents of that district are moving about in boats. Three and a half inches of water fell within twelve hours. Thousands of dollars damage has been caused to goods stored in basements.

KHORASSAN KNIGHTS MEET IN MILL CITY

Seventeen Special Trains Arrive With Loads of Delegates.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seventeen special trains, bringing delegates from forty states of the Union, Manitoba, British Columbia and Alberta, representing 150 temples, arrived last night and today for the biennial convention of the imperial palace, Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan, which will open here tonight. The sessions will continue until Friday evening.

The supreme lodge officers of the Knights of Pythias, with which the imperial palace is identified, have arrived, as well as those of the palace.

One of the important questions to come before the convention will be that of the official recognition of the subordinate order of the Knights of Pythias. This has never been done since its organization in 1905, and the presence of the supreme officers is to discuss and possibly take official action.

WEDDING BELLS WILL NOT RING

Ivan Sebalj Brings Sweetheart From Europe and Gets Chilly Refusal.

After paying for steamship and railroad tickets to bring his sweetheart to Duluth, Ivan Sebalj found there would be no wedding for him when she arrived here Saturday from the old country. The girl, Marica Tomaich, says she will live here with her brothers. Sebalj has appealed to the immigration authorities to have the girl deported, but his efforts have proven fruitless, as the young woman is to be cared for by her two brothers.

Ivan and Marica were sweethearts in the old country and several years ago the former left to seek his fortune in this country. He came to Minnesota and worked hard in the mines, saving enough money to bring his sweetheart here.

Two months ago he sent Marica a steamship ticket to New York and a railroad ticket to Duluth. For days and days Ivan waited for the arrival of the girl and finally was rewarded Saturday with the statement, "I don't love you and will never marry you. I have come to live here with my brothers." This is what the girl told Ivan when she stepped from the train.

AVIATORS' BODIES FOUND IN WRECKAGE.

Versailles, France, July 14.—The charred wreckage of an aeroplane with the incinerated bodies of two aviators lying in the ashes was found this morning near Nonacourt on the railroad from Paris to Granville.

The dead flying men were recognized as a man named Percin, who was experimenting with a new monoplane of his own invention, and his son, who had accompanied him as mechanic.

Young German Killed.

Muehlhausen, Germany, July 14.—A young German aviator named Dietrichs, was killed here today in his aeroplane, which overturned and he was crushed beneath the motor.

EBERHART'S PROTEGE IS ADMITTED AS IMMIGRANT.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary Wilson of the department of labor today ordered the admission to this country of Alvis Lermer, the young German boy in whom Governor Eberhart was interested.

"MAN IN CASE" TO BE GIVEN TRIAL

North Dakotan, Named By Woman Suicide, to Be Tried.

Minot, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—George F. Hart, former chief game warden, will be placed on trial here July 21. Hart was arrested on an adultery charge as a result of the suicide of Mrs. J. H. Griffith of Ryder, N. D. The woman is alleged to have made confessions implicating Hart, and as a result Dr. Griffith, the woman's husband, brought criminal proceedings against Hart.

Hart recently was removed from office as a result of the affair.

TWO DROWNED IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Fort Qu Appelle, Sask., July 14.—Eric Westman and A. H. Johnson, both of whom came here from Oklahoma about one year ago, are dead as the result of a sudden squall striking their sailboat and capsizing it in a lake near here. The men were thrown into shallow water, but became entangled in the weeds and were drowned.

Weston Passes Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., July 14.—Edward Payson Weston, who is walking from New York to Minneapolis, arrived here this morning, from West Chicago, a distance of thirteen miles. He left here for Marengo, his next stopping station at noon, thirteen miles away. He expected to make Marengo before nightfall.

Moorhead Contract Awarded.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract for the construction of the public building at Moorhead, Minn., has been awarded to J. W. Miller of St. Paul at his bid of $61,199.

McCUMBER RAILS AT THE DEMOCRATS' TARIFF BILL

North Dakota Senator Says Farmers Have Been Betrayed.

Smoot of Utah Offers Substitute for the Wool Schedule.

Washington, July 14.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota opened the Republican assault on the Democratic tariff revision bill in the senate today, "defending the farmers of the country" against the free listing or great reduction in tariff rates on agricultural products, and charging the Democratic party with "deliberately kicking the American farmer into the gutter."

"In this year, 1913," said Senator McCumber, addressing the Democrats, "you are about to commit a greater crime against the American farmer than has ever been perpetrated by any political party against any class of people during any period of recorded history.

"With violent hands you are about to strip him of every advantage which the changed conditions of home supply and demand were about to yield to him. You have declared that he is an outcast in the land which he has made, the only one of all the classes of American people who is not entitled to any consideration at your hands. You have insulted his sense of fairness, slapped him in the face and kicked him into the gutter."

"Conceived in Animosity.

The tariff bill, Senator McCumber declared, seemed to have been conceived in animosity against American industry, with the American farmer as "the special object of his hatred."

It is because of his past political affiliation that you ask vengeance for all your previous defeats? Or do you consider yourself to be the instrument through which Providence is to work its punishment because in the last political campaign he forgot the faith of his fathers and went chasing after a strange god, with cloven hoofs and branching antlers? If he is to be punished for his heresy, are you the proper person to inflict the punishment? You are the beneficiary of the farmer's infidelity to his own party last fall. And for you now to be his executioner, strikes me as being one of the most cold-blooded propositions I have ever heard of."

Virtue in Reciprocity.

It was the Democrats, Senator McCumber asserted, who told the farmer that he had been wronged by Mr. Taft because the former president sought to trade off his protection for reciprocal tariff reductions by Canada; and it was the Democrats who tried to convince the farmer that the Republican party was not to be trusted and that they, instead, should be entrusted with his interests.

The reciprocity proposition, the senator argued, had one virtue, in that it proposed to get something for surrendering nothing, while the Democrats proposed to trade away the farmer's interest in everything for "absolutely nothing."

"The reciprocity proposition," he continued, "subjected the farmer to the free competition of Canada only. You subject him to the competition of the whole world—all of Canada, Australia, Venezuela, Argentine, Cuba, the Philippines and every other country that may

WHOLE CHURCH GOES TO VISIT NEIGHBOR

People Like It So Well They Will Do It Some More.

Franklin, Ind., July 14.—A union service held by two congregations here yesterday was a subject for favorable comment today. It was brought about by a statement of Judge J. L. Barnett during service yesterday in the Tabernacle Christian church.

"We have been preaching Christian union for years; it is time we were taking some practical steps toward cultivating the spirit of union," declared Judge Barnett. He then proposed that the entire congregation go across the street to the Presbyterian church and worship as an evidence of good will and Christian brotherhood.

All of the 250 members of the congregation fell in with the plan, and, headed by the pastor, Rev. William J. Wright, crossed to the other church. They were given a hearty welcome. The two congregations joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds Our Hearts in Christian Love," and the Presbyterian pastor, Rev. W. B. Tyler, insisted on the Tabernacle pastor assisting in the service.

Both congregations were so well pleased with the plan that several of the leaders said similar visits to other churches would follow.

RAILROAD MEN MEET WILSON

Employers and Employes at White House Talk of Proposed Strike.

Amendment to Erdman Act Is Expected to Be the Result.

New York, July 14.—Labor leaders and railroad heads looked toward Washington today, hopeful of a favorable outcome of the conference with President Wilson. Officers of the National Civic federation, railroad representatives and officers of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors were to seek a solution of the crisis involving the demand for higher wages by 100,000 men on forty-five Eastern roads.

The roads having refused to arbitrate under the Erdman act in its present form and the employes having refused to modify their demands, apparently the only compromise possible lay in alteration of the law by increasing the number of arbitrators from three to six, thus removing the railroads' chief objection to the act.

Strike Is Authorized.

With a strike authorized by an overwhelming majority and ratified by general committees of both unions, Presidents Lee and Garretson of the trainmen and conductors, respectively, were authorized last night to defer calling a walk-out pending the outcome of the Washington conference. Both left for Washington last night.

In New York today there was to be a meeting of the managers' conference committee, at which yesterday's decision by the unions was to be submitted.

SAYS WISCONSIN HAS HONEST WEIGHT NOW

J. Q. Emery Makes Report on State Inspection Work.

Madison, Wis., July 14.—The fraudulent use of bottomless measures all over the state and the former prevalent use of liquid measures for measuring dry commodities, causing a shortage of 15 per cent, have been discontinued, and many thousands of inaccurate scales, weights and measures in common, every day use have been corrected or condemned and destroyed. J. Q. Emery, ex-officio state superintendent of weights and measures, thus summarizes the work of that department for 1912 in his annual report today to the governor. The law was passed by the 1911 legislature.

For the entire state from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1, 1912, there were 138,106 inspections. Of this number, 12,951 utensils were condemned for repairs and 21,179 condemned from further use. The per cent corrected was 72.6. The number adjusted was 9,221.

BULGARIANS SACK CITY; BURN CONSULATES AND CRUCIFY MANY PEOPLE

Reports of Excesses Are Confirmed By Dispatch to Saloniki.

American Tobacco Company's Property Damaged $1,000,000.

Food and Medicine Stores Destroyed—Situation at Seres Desperate.

Saloniki, July 14.—The sacking and burning of the town of Seres by the defeated Bulgarian army and the accompanying outrages on women and atrocities on men were fully confirmed today in a dispatch from a well known Greek correspondent.

The retreating Bulgarian soldiers, he telegraphs, opened a cannonade with four field guns from a hill above the town on Friday. At the same time bands of Bulgarian soldiers, led by their officers scoured the streets, first pillaging the stores and houses and then drenching them with petroleum and setting them afire until the greater part of the town was blazing.

The soldiers were accompanied by the notorious revolutionary colonel, Yankoff, who with other former officers of the Bulgarian army was very active in Macedonia in 1903.

Consulates Not Spared.

Even the foreign consulates in Seres were not spared, according to the correspondent. The Austro-Hungarian consular offices were plundered and burned, Vice Consul George C. Zlatko being carried off by the marauders, but subsequently ransomed. The Italian consulate also was sacked, but the consul bought off the incendiaries.

The Bank of Athens, the Oriental bank, the Palace of the Metropolitan, the Great Synagogue, all the schools and tobacco warehouses of the American, Austrian and German companies and the hospitals were burned after they had been pillaged.

The American Tobacco company suffered to the extent of $1,000,000.

Many People Crucified.

Many people were crucified, hacked to pieces or burned alive by the maddened Bulgarians, who committed incredible outrages on women of all ages, many of whom died from the effects.

The condition of those who escaped is lamentable. Rich merchants are dying of hunger, while wrecked mothers are trying to find covering and food for their naked and starving children.

The situation is desperate, as all the pharmacies were burned down and there is total lack of medicines for the sick and bandages for the injured.

The Greek authorities in Saloniki are rushing foodstuffs, clothing and medicines to the stricken town.

Turkish Army Advancing.

London, July 14. — The Balkan states appear again to be in the melting pot. There is no sign of peace at present. Greece and Servia have declined so far to agree to an armistice. The Turkish army is advancing by forced marches from Tchatalja and Bulair, apparently with the consent of Greece and Servia, to attempt the recapture of Adrianople and Thrace.

NERVE SAVES AERONAUT WHEN BALLOON TAKES FIRE.

Valley City, N. D., July 14.—Flames enveloped the balloon of M. A. Evans, a parachute jumper, yesterday when it had reached a height of only 100 feet, but the man clung pluckily to the craft until 600 feet from the ground, that he might safely release the parachute. He was uninjured. The balloon burst a moment after he jumped and came to earth a mass of burning fabric.

CHINA THREATENED BY NEW CIVIL WAR

Heavy Fighting Reported in Region Near Kiu Kiang.

London, July 14.—Heavy fighting is reported all around Kiu Kiang, province of Kiang Si on the Yang-tse-kiang, says a Pekin dispatch to the Daily Telegraph. The fighting is the result of the occupation of the city by northern troops. The outcome has not yet been learned, but should success attend the Kiang Si troops, who number 9,000, civil war, according to the dispatch, will be inevitable.

TWELVE DEAD AND 250 HURT IN COLLISION---PROBE STARTED

Helen Lane of Escanaba, Mich., Probably Fatally Injured.

Motorman in Disaster Near Los Angeles Has Disappeared.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Investigation was begun today to fix the blame for the Pacific Electric accident last night at Vineyard station where twelve were killed and nearly 250 injured. The curve in the tracks of the Venice short line at the scene of the accident partially is held responsible for the collision.

The motorman was missing today. His body was not found in the debris although it was thought certain that he had been killed.

Carrol Bartholomai, conductor of the last car of the stationary train said today that the motorman failed to observe his signals.

Of the dead four men remained unidentified early today, two Japanese and two whites.

The Known Dead.

The known dead are:

MISS EDNA ALTER, Pasadena.

OLLIE W. AXLEY, San Francisco.

MISS VERONICA MILLER, Los Angeles.

MERLE EVANS, Los Angeles.

WILLIAM TAYLOR, address unknown.

JACOB BARMAN, address unknown.

EDWARD MURRAY, address unknown.

P. R. Forrester, motorman of the wrecked train is missing.

The names of few of the injured were known early today.

Helen Hanc of Escanaba, Mich., was reported today as probably fatally injured.

C. B. Craig and his wife of Detroit were internally injured. Their condition is serious.

Miss Ingeborg Swendsen, Chicago; knee fractured.

L. T. Denton, Kansas City, leg and ribs broken.

Chicago, July 14.—Most of the buildings at the old Harlem race track were destroyed by a fire which swept that property today. The blaze was caused by lightning.

GETS REBATE ON CAR WIFE'S HAT WON'T FIT.

Paris, July 14.—Count de Kergorlay has just won in court an order granting him $200 rebate from an automobile manufacturer because the limousine he purchased from it had a roof too low to accommodate the high plume which his wife wore on her hat. The judge ruled that it was the duty of a manufacturer of cars of fashion to take account of the fact that long plumes are being worn.

ANNUAL REVIEW OF ARMY HELD AT PARIS

Presence of Native Troops From Colonies Adds to Interest.

Paris, July 14.—The presence of detachments of native regiments from the French colonies in Africa, Tongking, Annam and Madagascar lent unwonted interest today to the annual review at Longchamps of the garrison of Paris by the president of the republic on the occasion of the anniversary of the taking of the bastile in 1789.

President Raymond Poincaire was greeted on his arrival on the immense racetrack by one of the largest crowds which has ever attended the military spectacle. After the presentation by the president of the colors of the forty regiments on parade and the inspection of their escorts, all the troops marched past.

The native detachments were given the place of honor at the head of the column, and received a tremendous ovation. Another feature of the review which made a great hit with the onlookers was a detachment of military ambulance dogs, maching past in perfect order.

During the review five army aeroplanes darted here and there over the heads of the troops, while a military dirigible circled and maneuvered round the racetrack.

BOYS' CLUB HOUSE AT STURGEON LAKE

Duluth Y. M. C. A. Has Obtained Permanent Camp Site.

Contractor Berquist of Moose Lake has been awarded the contract for the erection of a club house at the Y. M. C. A. boys' camp at Sturgeon Lake. The structure will be a one-story, one-room frame building, 24 by 40, with a 17-foot brick fireplace. The porch of the clubhouse will be screened in.

B. C. Wade, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has purchased the necessary material and work has been started. The clubhouse will be erected on the site selected by Mr. Wade a few months ago, when a site of fifty-four acres with more than a mile of beach on Sturgeon Lake was purchased as a boys' camping ground.

The clubhouse will be surrounded by a grove of pine trees near the lake. Two hundred square feet of land will be cleared for the building and a lawn. The boys will sleep in tents, but will eat in the clubhouse.

The boys' department already owns one rowboat and two canoes in the line of watercraft equipment. An order was recently put in for six rowboats. A shoot-the-shutes has been erected at the lake.

The camp is two miles and one-quarter from the Sturgeon Lake station.

LINDBERGH ASSAILS GLASS MONEY BILL

Claims Suspicion It Would Create "a Monstrous Monopoly."

Washington, July 14.—Currency difficulties broke out along two different lines in the house with the introduction of resolutions directing investigations. The first by Representative Henry, proposes a renewal of the investigation of the money trust as an adjunct and aid to the banking committee in its consideration of the administration currency bill. The second by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, Progressive member of the committee, proposes an investigation to determine whether the Glass bill would not create a "monstrous monopoly controlled and operated by private interests."

Representative Henry's resolution would give the committee plenary, visitorial and inquisitorial powers over national banks and interstate corporations. In a statement accompanying his resolution, Representative Henry declared that it was introduced solely "with a view to aid an ex parte consideration of pending banking currency legislation" and should be hastened to "aid the banking committee to gain all the banking information concealed that would be of vast importance in solving the currency problem."

He declared that the recent bank failure in Pittsburg emphasized the need of knowing directly "how these great institutions use their office boys, stenographers, porters and dummies to wreck and loot banks and rob innocent depositors of their trust funds. We need to dig deeper into their manipulations, schemes and conspiracies in order to understand why they so greatly dread the eye of Federal scrutiny."

Lindbergh Attacks Committee.

Representative Lindbergh's resolution contained as a preamble an attack upon the methods of the Democratic members of the banking committee in considering the Glass bill in secret conference.

It proposes an investigation by "a committee of seven to determine whether the Glass bill would not create a government policy inconsistent with the Sherman law doctrine by fostering a monopoly to private control for selfish interests, the distribution of money and credit," and whether or not "it is constitutional for the government to provide a method by which to organize private interests into a compact mutual interest with the power or to control the distribution of money and credit."

Both resolutions were referred to the rules committee, of which Representative Henry is chairman.

DULUTH ENJOYS BEAUTIFUL SUNDAY

People Crowd Excursion Boats and Parks for Day's Outing.

After the rain and cold of last week, Duluthians were in proper mood yesterday to enjoy one of the finest days of this or any other summer. Although the maximum temperature was only 68 degrees it seemed much warmer. A delightful breeze was blowing from the southwest and the sun shone dazzlingly.

There was an early exodus for excursion boats and the parks and everybody got home without a ducking. More than 2,000 persons were in Fairmont park, West Duluth, yesterday afternoon to enjoy a concert by the Third Regiment band.

Lake Superior was as tranquil as a mill pond yesterday and many persons enjoyed their boating on the big water for the first time this season.

SAYS ALL HAVE HOPE OF HEAVEN

Objections to Preaching of Paradise Hereafter Not Sound, Says Preacher.

Heaven is not a popular topic with the business men according to Rev. George E. Silloway, pastor of the Grace M. E. church. In the outdoor sermon given yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Lincoln park, the pastor stated that the merchants would rather that the preachers tell how the poor should make mansions of their hovels than to be eternally preaching about heaven.

He said:

"Hard-headed business men of today don't want us preachers to talk about heaven. They want us to preach about dealing honestly with our fellow men, and to teach them how we can make pearly mansions out of the poverty stricken hovels of our poor.

"But even to materialistic business men, heaven is a reality, because subconsciously they are always hoping for it. Their desire to improve conditions here is merely to make this a heaven on earth to fulfill their hope that Christ will some time come into the world again, and transport us to heaven.

"'Hope springs eternal in the human breast.' Even the suicide has a hope—a hope of meeting something greater beyond—a hope of blotting out the memory of the past. The woman whose life is stained by awful depredations, who seeks death by leaping into the cold, dark waters of a lake has hope—the hope that somewhere beyond, she will wipe away the stain of her earthly life.

"The most tragic thing in a human life is for the heart to lose hope. Remember that the best of life is still coming. You have a right to hope for it, for God teaches us to hope."

SCALE EXPERTS MEET.

Ninth Annual Meeting of National Association at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—The semi-annual convention of the National Association of Scale Experts, was held here Sunday. Thirty-eight delegates representing five states and fifteen railroads attended. It was the eighth convention of the association.

The object of these conventions is to bring together those men who have become proficient in the work pertaining to weighing apparatus and machinery.

Railroads began recently to recognize the association and many sent representatives.

After a long argument, St. Paul was decided upon as the scene of the next convention, Jan. 13 and 14, 1914, winning over Chicago only by the vote of the president.

EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

TRADE ROUTES SHOWN ON SCREEN

One of the most interesting features of the Kinemacolor representation of "The Making of the Panama Canal" and "Actual Scenes of the Balkan War" in natural color motion photography which is at the Lyceum, is an "animated map", which shows how the great lanes of the sea travel will be affected by the completion of the Panama canal.

The effect is secured by "trick" photography, and the result is at once entertaining and instructive. There is thrown upon the screen a map of the North and South America about as they might look to an observer some hundreds of miles up in the sky.

As the spectator looks he sees two tiny steamers start from New York, both bound for San Francisco, one via the canal and one via Cape Horn. The steamer going by way of the canal wins the race with many thousands of miles to spare. The process is repeated with steamers routed New York to Valparaiso, New York to Yokohoma, etc., always the canal routed steamer having an immense advantage.

This animated map was prepared in England under the direction of expert hydrographers and the speed of the ship shown is regulated not only by the actual mileage traversed, but by a careful consideration of the drift of currents and the prevalence of the head winds.

This engagement of Kinemacolor will be a noted one in the motion picture and photograph world, as aside from the Balkan war and the canal that will be shown in detail, will be given the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson at Washington last March, Chief Justice White will be seen administering the oath of office, the West Point Cadets and all of the points of interest that marks this new world's pageant; the parade of the suffragettes the day before, and those who advocate women's rights will have an opportunity to discuss the manner in which they were received. The Durbar was produced by royal command to perpetuate forever the glorious ceremonies connected with the recent visit of their royal majesties King George and Queen Mary to India, and their crowning at Delhi to the accompaniment of most magnificent ceremonials.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE EMPRESS

After two weeks of tabloid shows a vaudeville bill holds the boards at the Empress theater the first half of this week.

The acts are all above the average and scored at the opening performances yesterday.

The headline act, "The Land of Dreams," is an odd one and introduces a number of very interesting features. There is some very good violin playing at the opening of the act, several dances, magic stunts and a concluding vision picture. The stage setting for the act is elaborate.

The vaudeville program is opened by the Bluches, who introduce a number of comic acrobatic and casting stunts. The act is rushed through at a rapid pace, giving the performers an opportunity to display their superior ability as acrobats.

Frances Girard has a repertoire of new jokes that scored a hit yesterday. The young woman introduces several comic songs and then concludes her act with a series of rapid-fire jokes.

Opening with a sidewalk conversation and ending with several popular songs, Norwood and Norwood, a newsboy and a blackface comedian, are the hit of the show this week. They are both possessors of pleasing voices, while their jokes and comedy stunts are all new.

Motion pictures are shown of the Alula railroad in Switzerland at the opening of the show. Another picture depicting the Bible theory that the way of the transgressor is hard closes the bill, which will continue until Wednesday evening.

GIVEN TEST IN THE "GYM"

Future Policemen Forced to Show They Are Physically Fit.

Fifty Candidates for Positions on Force Work at Y. M. C. A.

Over fifty men gamboled about the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. today endeavoring to show that they are physically competent to fill positions on the police and fire departments of the city.

The tests were given under the direction of W. E. Pugh, assistant physical director, and Reuben Johnson, secretary of the civil service examination.

The men were all in earnest and exerted themselves to the extreme to make good showings. The "fats" had it on the "slims" when it came to the weights, but the "fence rails" got even when it came to the running tests. The shorter, husky men averaged their way along without particular difficulty in any direction. Some of the big fellows displayed surprising agility, however, while others sometimes drew forth more than a smile when they entered the jumping and vaulting competitions. The standings of the men could not be determined on the spot but it is expected that most of them will pass the required standard of 70 per cent.

The men will take their written examinations next Wednesday at the high school. The firemen and the five applicants for positions as telephone operators at police headquarters will do their writing in the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, and the would-be policemen will hold the stage in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

Railroads

ONE MANAGEMENT FOR GOULD ROADS.

San Francisco, Cal., July 14.—The Western Pacific railroad, the Gould outlet to the Pacific, is to lose its identity as a managerial unit and pass under the control of the Denver & Rio Grande, thus establishing, through the Missouri-Pacific, one management for Gould roads west of the Mississippi river, according to an announcement made here.

GASOLINE MOTORS MAY BE ESTABLISHED.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Milwaukee road may put on a gasoline motor car service between here and Ortonville, Minn., as auxiliary to the present steam passenger service. At present the trains leave Ortonville in the morning, reach here at noon and return at 7 in the evening. If the new service is established it will run just opposite, leaving Fargo in the morning and returning in the evening.

ROADS TO ENFORCE NEW MICHIGAN LAW.

Marquette, Mich., July 14.—The new Michigan law against drinking intoxicants on trains goes into effect next Wednesday and the South Shore and other railroads announce their intention to strictly enforce the law, all employes having been ordered to see the law is obeyed to the letter.

NEW MANDAN AGENT FOR N. P. RAILROAD.

Mandan, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. D. Sterling, recently promoted to the Helena, Mont., agency by the Northern Pacific, will be succeeded by J. A. Cummins, who has been with the Soo, the Milwaukee and the Northern Pacific for many years and has a wide acquaintance over the state.

ARRESTED FOR CHANGING PLANS

George J. Drolet Charged With Violating Building Ordinance.

George J. Drolet of Gary was this morning arrested for violating the building ordinance. He pleaded not guilty and his case was set for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the cases of C. G. Anderson and C. O. M. Sundberg, who were arrested Saturday morning, will also be heard.

Mr. Drolet is building a carpenter shop, with residence rooms upstairs on lot 10, block 28, Gary, First division, and according to the complaint made out by Building Inspector S. M. Kielly, had changed the original plans approved by the inspector's office.

The warrant for Mr. Drolet's arrest was made out at the same time as the others, but he has been out of the city the past week, having returned early this morning. Court Officer Jensen made the arrest.

STATE LAND SALE NEXT WEDNESDAY

Much Interest Is Aroused Among Speculators and Settlers.

Considerable interest has been aroused among speculators and those seeking St. Louis county farm lands in the July sale of state lands which will be conducted at the courthouse Wednesday morning.

Theodore Nelson, manager of the land department in the office of State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson, will be on hand Wednesday to conduct the sale.

It is expected that there will be a good attendance and some spirited bidding. The sale will be held in the county commissioners' room at 10 a. m. Several hundred descriptions of state and school lands will be offered.

WILSON'S "NO" WINNING OUT

President Has Set Many High Standards for His Party.

Old Line Leaders Are Beginning to See as He Does.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 14.—A Washington dispatch to the News says: President Wilson's first four months in the White House have been strenuous. The story of the things he has refused to do, could those things be enumerated, would probably be even more interesting than a recital of the things he has done. Probably no president has said "no" with more frequency than he has. His largest task has been to coax the Democratic party up to his standard, and he is not yet through with that job.

A few days after Mr. Wilson was inaugurated, a Republican United States senator with independent proclivities, made this remark:

"The president's great task will be to make the leaders in the Democratic party see things as he sees them. Without intending to reflect on his party, I should say that he is head and shoulders above it. If he can bring it up to him, he will make the greatest president since Lincoln; if the leaders of the party bring him down to their level, the administration will not be a great success."

Resisted Party Pressure.

There probably has not been a day since March 4 on which the president has not felt obliged to resist pressure from influential men in, his party to have certain things done. Thus far his will has prevailed, and he has been able to have his way with a minimum of friction. Privately, Democrats have now and then criticized him somewhat severely, but they have had to admit that his position was the correct one, and this being the case, they have been compelled to nurse whatever grievences they may have felt in private.

The president had not been in the White House a month before he encountered a well developed movment to wreck the civil service system. The spoilsmen, with their "fair play association," were going to turn the merit system upside down. Before they heard from the president they made plans for a congressional investigation and fixed up a program for legislation. Just what the president's suggestion was has never been made public, but it was announced one day that there would be no congressional investigation, and that the merit system would not be disturbed. The "fair play association" has not been heard of since.

In the Consular Service.

A large number of Democratic senators and representatives felt that the consular system ought to be turned over to the spoilsmen. They gathered statistics to show that most of the men now serving as consuls and consular agents of the United States were appointed as Republicans, and then argued that these men ought to all be replaced by Democrats as soon as possible. The president listened attentively, and later announced that the merit system, as it affected the consular service, would not be disturbed. Thus far only four consuls have been appointed, and in each instance the man appointed was already in the service and was promoted.

If the spoilsmen could have had their way, the fourth class postmasters would all have been taken out of the civil service. That was the suggestion originally made by influential Democrats, who pointed out that the postmasters put under the civil service by President Taft were nearly all Republicans. Instead of following the wishes of the spoilsmen, the president, acting in conjunction with his postmaster-general and the civil service commission, worked out a scheme whereby all fourth class postmasters would have to undergo a civil servicee examination. These examinations are now being conducted in some of the Eastern states.

Scramble for Postoffices.

There has been no letup in the demand that first class postmasters be replaced with Democrats immediately. The president will not permit this to be done. His orders are that unless it can be shown that a Republican postmaster is neglecting his duty or is inefficient, he must be permitted to serve out the term for which he was appointed.

Some of the Democratic legislators who have gone to the White House within recent weeks have tried to make it appear that unless Republicans now serving as rural mail carriers are displaced by Democrats, the country will soon be in a bad way. One public man who is in position to know the president's mind with respect to this and kindred subjects is authority for the statement that such complaints greatly amuse the chief executive. The rural mail carriers are, of course, under the civil service, and the administration has no thought of disturbing them.

Bigger Things to Do.

It will readily be seen that so far as patronage is concerned the president has certainly had his way. It does seem to be true, too, that the Democratic statesmen and politicians have a good deal broader view of the subject than they had prior to March 4. There is really very little open "kicking" against the president's course.

It is regarded as significant that senators and representatives who go back home these days to give interviews for local consumption invariably relate that this administration has bigger things than patronage to deal with; that the "boys" who expected jobs must realize that the president has a large undertaking before him, and that he cannot waste his time trying to find places in the government service for Democrats. Undoubtedly a large number of Dmocratic statesmen have got the president's viewpoint and are really in sympathy with it.

Turns Down Machines.

In making appointments the president has said "no" to Democratic senators and representatives a good many times. He has never hesitated to say it when he thought it ought to be said. It is probably true that no president ever gave as much thought to appointments as Mr. Wilson gives. Practically every one thus far made has received his personal attention.

Recommendations made by senators and representatives have frequently been rejected. When the old Smith-Nugent machine in New Jersey wished to control some of the postoffice appointments in that state, the president said "no"; and he said the same thing when the Tammany organization in New York city sought to have a hand in the filling of the Federal offices in New York state.

A person who is familiar with the inside workings of things at the White House remarked that the public probably did not realize that the president had been compelled to put in a good part of his time giving negative answers to suggestions. "I think he feels that the worst of this sort of thing is over," said this man. "Slowly but surely the Democrats in the congress are beginning to realize what he is driving at."

MARINE NEWS

MOVEMENT OF ORE HEAVY

Good Dispatch at Duluth Docks After Period of Congestion.

Grain Rate Holds Firm With Little Demand for Cargoes.

A decided improvement in the movement of ore was noted today. The supply is increasing and although there is plenty of tonnage, conditions on the whole are better. Last week boats were compelled to wait for cargoes, but little difficulty is expected along this line during the next five days.

There is no wild ore in the market, but contract tonnage probably will be cared for with little delay. Water at the mines is given as the cause for smaller shipments at some of the range properties although a shortage of men also is reported. Shipments are just recovering after the virtual three-day-holiday beginning on the Fourth of July. Many workers were slow on getting back to their jobs following the layoff which added to the general cessation of operations caused by Independence day, closely followed by Sunday, made it that much harder to swing back into normal conditions.

Dispatch at Two Harbors.

Two Harbors has been right to the fore in quick dispatch of boats. Sixty-five thousand tons of ore are being received daily at the docks there.

Because of the renewed activity in ore movements, vessel men have not been so anxious to sail out after grain tonnage. The rate remained at 1½ cents today. Agents with small boats were insisting and getting 1¾ cents for little lots.

On the lower lakes vessels are having more or less difficulty getting coal cargoes. The summer slump is at hand and it will be only a few days before dispatch will slow down. Little wild coal is expected before next month unless shipments from the docks here become abnormally large.

Shipments From Cuyuna.

Employment of larger working forces by some of the operators on the Cuyuna range is reported, and it is now expected that the combined output from the district will be larger than was estimated a month ago.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron company anticipates raising its output to 1,000 tons daily within a month. A force of about seventy men is now employed, but that number will be augmented within the nex two weeks. Shipments are being made to Ashland and Manistique, and it is anticipated that 7,000 tons of ore will go forward to Buffalo this month on the company's contract with the Bethlehem Steel company.

The Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company plans to make its initial ore shipment to Ashland on July 20.

DYNAMITE MAY BE USED ON WRECK.

The wreck of the steamer Richardson in the outer harbor at Buffalo will probably not be removed this summer. The contractors, Hinckley & Sampson, who took it after two others had failed, have found it impossible to raise the vessel and have surrendered their contract and forfeited their bond to the government.

They have been working for some time. It is estimated that various firms have spent fully $75,000 in a vain effort to raise the sunken steamer, Lake men say that dynamite is the only method left and it is believed that the government will now take steps to blow up the wreck, which is a menace to navigation.

OLD BLOCKHOUSE WILL BE UTILIZED.

With the proposed erection in front of Marquette park, Mackinac Island the old bullet-riddled blockhouses of historical Fort Mackinac will be utilized after having been idle since the withdrawal of the American troops a number of years ago.

According to present plans the blockhouse will be used as a lookout for the life-saving station.

Two engineers from Washington were recently sent to Mackinac Island to locate a site for the new building, and the site in front of the fort was selected and approved by the park commission. The new station was cost $40,000, and instead of marring the beauty of Marquette park as was feared, it will be designed to enhance the picturesqueness of the place.

It is thought that the erection of the new station will be commenced about Aug. 1. With the recent completion of the two wireless towers at Fort Holmes, the new station will be of great value to the mariners when sailing near the many dangerous shoals in the district.

ASSESSMENT IS COMPLETE

Net Increase in Valuation Over 1912 Equivalent to $2,814,854.

Cold Storage Company May Be Ordered to Disclose List.

The increase of Duluth's assessment for 1913 over 1912 is equivalent to $3,414,854, according to the books in the office of City Assessor J. Allyn Scott.

This increase does not allow for the exemptions which will be made on the personal assessment. Under the law these exemptions are made by the county In the past between 6,000 and 7,000 exemptions of $100 each have been granted. The statute passed by the last legislature providing that only heads of families shall be allowed the exemption is likely to reduce this total considerably. But assuming that 6,000 exemptions are allowed, or $600,000 out of the total, the increase for purposes of taxation will be $2,814,854, a decidedly healthy gain. It is much above the gains which have been shown in other odd numbered years when the personal property assessment is made. On the basis of a rate of 16.1 mills, the rate for this year, the increase represents a gain in revenue for the city of approximately $45,000. With 6,000 exemptions allowed the assessed valuation of Duluth for 1913 is $51,963,283, as compared with $49,148,429 in 1912.

The total personal property tax for 1913 is $13,963,217 as compared with $12,057,315 for 1912, a gain of $1,905,902. The net increase in the assessed value of new buildings erected in the last year is $1,092,152. The increase in moneys and credits is $3,137,555, or the difference between $14,431,882 and $11,294,327, the totals for 1913 and 1912, respectively. Moneys and credits pay at the rate of $3 per $1,000, under a recent statute, or less than one-twelfth of other property, except grains. On tht basis of other property the increase in moneys and credits represents a gain of approximately $266,800. That is, at the full rate of axation, $266,800 returns revenue equivalent to that which is produced on $3,137,555 under the special rate, which is but one-twelfth of the full rate for this year. Grains pay under a special rate and the increased income from them represents what would be produced on an assessment of $150,000, according to the assessor. Putting all property on a common taxation basis for comparison the total gain is reached by adding $266,800 for moneys and credits and $150,000 for grains to the increases in the personal property and building assessments.

The latter part of May, City Assessor Scott asked the Northern Cold Storage company for a list of the goods stored in its warehouse. The company refused to disclose to the assessor the quantity, value or ownership of the property in its possession belonging to others. Copies of the correspondence were furnished the legal department with the request that the matter be taken to the courts for determination as to the status of the difference between the city and the company. Thus far the legal department has not appeared before the district court but it is expected that the court will shortly be asked to issue an order directing the storage company to appear to show cause why it should make the disclosure asked by the city assessor.

CHASING ANTELOPE AGAINST STATE LAW.

Carrington, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local people are likely to get in trouble because they have been chasing a stray antelope with dogs. There is a closed season for these little animals till 1920. One wandered into the country northeast of town and has been frequently seen. It does not seem frightened of men, but quicky disappears if dogs are seen.

AUTOMOBILE OVERTURNS

Duluth Young Man Injured While Driving Car in East End.

Thrown violently out of their automobile which turned turtle on Thirteenth avenue east yesterday morning, Knox Winton and an employe of the Winton family narrowly escaped serious injury. Young Winton suffered a deep cut on his right hand.

Winton, who is 18 years old, was driving the car when the accident happened. He is unable to say how the machine happened to turn turtle, except that he found himself suddenly on the ground, lying next to the overturned car.

The wind shield and one of the front wheels of the automobile were broken.

The young man is the son of Mrs. Lena M. Winton, 1509 East First street.

KEPT FROM ADVANCE BECAUSE HE IS JEW.

Albany, N. Y., July 14.—The contention of Samuel Litman of Brooklyn, that he was denied promotion in the National Guard because he is a Jew, is sustained in the official report of an investigation of the cause, made public after having been approved by Governor Sulzer. The report recommends that Col. Henry C. Barthman, commanding the regiment in which Litman, who was a sergeant, sought election as second lieutenant, be censured and "otherwise dealt with as his offense, in the judgment of the commander-in-chief, may warrant."

The governor has ordered that the recommendations be carried out.

English people are not used to eating peaches, as the English hot-house product sells for as much as $5 a dozen, and the peach grown outside sometimes at nearly $2.50 a dozen. Hence the market for American peaches in England is in its infancy.

HEARING DUE THIS MONTH

Proceedings Against Street Railway Company Will Come Up Soon.

Although no definite date has been set, it is expected that some time this month the quo warranto proceedings to test the validity of he Duluth Street Railway company's franchise in the downtown section of the city will come on for hearing before one or more judges of the district court.

The matter is now hanging fire on a demurrer which has been interposed by the street railway company to the writ which was issued at the instance of the city by Judge Dibell the early part of February this year.

The information in the proceeding has been signed by Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general, and the suit has been brought in the name of the state on his relation against the Duluth Street Railway company, defendant. The writ requires the company to come into court to show by what warrant or authority it assumes to exercise or claim any right, privilege, immunity or franchise under the legislative act of 1881, whereby the company claims to operate on some of the streets in the city.

While the attorney general lends his name to the proceeding, neither he nor his assistants are directly interested in the suit. The city is conducting the fight and has engaged the legal services of Davis, Kellogg & Severance of St. Paul and City Attorney Harvey Clapp. Henry F. Greene and Thomas Wood are attorneys for the street railway company and Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell will appear as attorneys for the Central Trust Company of New York, trustee for the street railway company's bondholders.

The action is brought merely for the purpose of testing the validity of the franchise and not any right which the company may have to operate on the streets of Duluth by virtue of ordinance, orders or resolutions of the city council. If the act granting the franchise were to be declared null and void, it would place the city in a position where it could impose regulations upon the traction company.

There is also an injunction proceeding brought by the bondholders pending in Federal court.

New year the new president of France will be elected. When the time arrives, which happens once in seven years, the two houses get together and indicate their choice in secret ballot. This does away with a lot of popular enthusiasm.

ARMSTRONG BEATS JAYNE

St. Paul Star Puts Veteran Rival Out in Straight Sets.

John Wheeler, Father of State Tennis, Wins His First Match.

Joe Armstrong this morning defeated Trafford Jayne in the first clash of two of the great stars of the tourney, the St. Paul youth beating the Minneapolis veteran 6-2, 9-7.

Armstrong won comparatively easy in the first set and then was forced to extend himself to take the second set of the match.

Jayne had the former state champion down four love and was outplaying Armstrong. At this point the recent winner of the bi-state tournament rallied, and using an effective drive, varying this occasionally with a clever chop stroke, brought the score up to four all. Jayne won the next and then Armstrong brought the score even again.

Again Jayne won and again Armstrong rallied and made it a deuce set. Jayne won the next game, and then Armstrong, playing some very clever tennis, won the next three games and the match.

While Armstrong played the driving game, it didn't seem to some of those on the side lines that the St. Paul man was playing in the form he exhibited at the state tournament here two years ago.

During a major part of the second set Jayne assumed the aggressive, and by some clever playing kept Armstrong on the defensive. The returns of Armstrong were not in many instances as accurate as he has shown upon former occasions.

Two Defaults.

The default of Abbott to Armstrong and Morrison to Jayne in the preliminaries resulted in bringing two of the greatest stars of the tourney together so early in the play. The result of the victory of Armstrong sent that player into the first round, the St Paul man being the first to advance this far.

The veteran Wheeler of St. Paul had little trouble in taking two love sets from Moffat of Duluth. The father of tennis in this section of the Northwest did not have to extend himself and the game merely served as a warm-up.

Bissonnette defeated Houghton of Minneapolis in the morning play, 6-0, 6-1, and Stellwagon, one of the steller lights of the Northwest, won from Kindle, St. Paul, 6-1, 6-0.

Frey defaulted to Fraker and Abbott also defaulted to Amundson. Courtney Dinwiddie also won by default from Franzen, the St. Paul man failing to put in an appearance. Lauren Kennedy was to have played Riebeth, Minneapolis. This was expected to be one of the feature contests of the early play, but the out-of-town star failed to put in an appearance and the match went by default.

The afternoon draw includes games between Beecher of Duluth and Robertson, the latter being secretary of the Minneapolis Tennis club; Warner, St. Paul, and Gardiner of Duluth; and Strothmin of Minneapolis and Davis of Duluth.

The draw for the doubles will be made late this afternoon. The draw in the women's singles and mixed doubles will be made tomorrow and play in both of these events is expected to start Wednesday.

Ward Burton of Minneapolis is expected here to play in the doubles. With Armstrong and Adams paired, the former state champion and the present state champion are expected to win this event.

The doubles should bring out some great tennis, as Burton and Wheeler will play together, according to the present arrangements, and Jayne and Stellwagon will be paired.

This should make a great contest for the right to play for the doubles championship.

NINTH INNING RALLY

Gives Little Falls Game Over Brainerd 6 to 5.

Brainerd, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the score tied, 2 to 2, for six innings, Little Falls started a ninth inning rally in its game here Sunday with Brainerd, Ahles driving a three-bagger to the fence and scoring Dominick, Brandell and Harstad, Little Falls winning by a 5 to 2 score. Cook pitched for Brainerd and allowed eight hits. Dominick twirled for Little Falls and allowed seven hits. About 1,000 spectators applauded the brilliant fielding of both teams. Bush of Brainerd speared Butler's fly when about to collide with the fence. Six Little Falls men got to first on errors. Score:

GRAND FORKS CLUB AGAINST EXTENSION.

Grand Forks, July 14.—Grand Forks is opposed to the plan of extending the season of the Northern league into September, and the local club will so vote in the present mail vote that is being taken.

COMISKEY GETS STAR OUTFIELDER.

Chicago, July 14.—Larry Chappelle, outfielder of the Milwaukee American association club today was sold to the Chicago Americans for a cash consideration, Outfielder Beal and a catcher yet to be named.

Aviator at Muskegon.

Muskegon, Mich., July 14.—Glenn H. Martin, the California aviator, was here today ready to continue his flight in the Chicago to Detroit flying boat cruise. Beckwith Havens and Roy Francis are still at Pentwater.

Martin wants the cruise called off unless the other two contestants will fly today. Havens is still having trouble with broken pontoons, it is said, while Francis is waiting for better weather.

HELD ON CHARGE OF GRAND LARCENY

Frank Connolly Accused of Stealing Typewriter and Raincoat.

Frank Connolly, who is said to have a record in the Twin Cities and to have once served a term in the state penitentiary, was this morning bound over to the fall term of the grand jury, charged with grand larceny. He waived examination when arrigned in police court this morning.

Connolly was seen loafing about the union station last Friday and when questioned by one of the officers gave a good account of himself and was allowed to go his way. A few minutes later a dining car employe for the Great Northern road came to Officer Danielson and told him that he had been robbed of a typewriter valued at $90 and a raincoat, valued at $10.

Officer Danielson and the car employe searched about the saloons on West Superior street for Connolly, whom they both suspected, and by chance found both the coat and typewriter with one of the saloonkeepers. The latter claimed that he had just bought the typewriter on the installment plan, having paid $2.50 down on a $10 sale.

The bartender pointed out Edward Harris, known as "Blackie," claiming that the latter was with the man who sold the machine. Harris, however, proved his innocence and was yesterday allowed to go.

Late Saturday evening Connolly was found in a Superior saloon, the local authorities having asked for his apprehension across the bay. He was brought over here yesterday and locked up on a charge of grand larceny.

APPOINTMENTS ARE APPROVED

Work Farm Commission in Position to Assume Duties.

Judicial approval of the appointments to the new joint city and county work farm commission was secured Saturday afternoon, when three of the five judges of the district court confirmed the selection of the five commissioners on the new board.

The judges who approved were: Hon. W. A. Cant, Hon. H. A. Dancer and Hon. Bert Fealer. The matter was to have been put up to Judge Ensign, but owing to his present illness it will go over until later. The papers will also be sent to Judge Hughes of Hibbing for his consideration and approval. A majority of the judges, however, is all that is required under the law.

It is expected that the work farm commission will hold its first meeting the latter part of this week. One of the commissioners is expected to return from a Western trip, after which a meeting will be arranged. The commission will be organized and will get into working harness immediately.

It is probable that the county board and the city commission will appropriate sufficient money from their general funds to take care of the financial disbursements of the commission until the 1914 levy is made and a fund provided.

The law provides that the county may levy one-twentieth of a mill on all taxable property in the county, which will amount to about $16,000, as its share of the fund from which the work farm will be established and maintained. The city will provide a fund for its half.

The members of the commission are: A. H. Crassweller, Thomas Olafson and Bishop James McGolrick of Duluth, A. P. Silliman of Hibbing and Fred B. Myers of Biwabik.

SPASM OF VIRTUE HITS SUPERIOR

Police Raid Three Hotels and Arrest Forty-Six Men and Women.

Forty-six men and women, many of the latter said to be under 21 years of age, were caught in the net of the Superior police by a wholesale raid of hotels of an alleged disreputable character early yesterday morning. The police took sixteen from the Leslie hotel, sixteen from the Arlington and fourteen from the Childs hotel.

The raids came as a culmination of investigations which have been going on quietly for the past week. Information sufficient to convict the places of being of a disorderly character was said to have been secured several days ago, but it is stated by police officials that by waiting until Saturday night the haul would be much larger and the lesson of a more severe character.

Simultaneous raids were made at the Childs and Arlington hotels. These were conducted by Detectives Maurice Galvin and Jack McDonald, assisted by Patrolmen McIntosh, Walker, Huber, Rankin and Peterson. Following this raid which took place at 2:30 a. m. the officers went to the Leslie hotel.

The appearance of the officers threw the inmates into a panic. At the Leslie hotel a man said to be a Duluthian, jumped out of a second story window, and the woman with him made good her escape. The man was later found badly injured and he was taken to the hospital where he refused to give his name.

All the inmates were bundled into the police auto and hustled to the police station where bail was fixed at $50 each. Up to this morning all but nineteen had been let out on bail. Nearly all of the women were unable to furnish the bail money.

The raids were conducted at the instigation of Mayor Konkel and pulled off under the provision of the Linley act of the legislature. This law provides that any place found to be conducted as an immoral resort shall be closed for one year, and the personal property found as well as the furnishings confiscated.

The inmates of the hotels crowded the cell room of the central police station to its capacity. Many of those arrested had to be placed in the corridors of the jail with special police detail to guard them.

The raid is one of the biggest, numerically, made in the history of Superior. In speaking of it this morning, Mayor Konkel said that he proposed that the law should be strictly enforced and that these raids were only the first of a series which the police would pull off within the next few days. He said that he intended ridding Superior of immorality if he had to have the city raided from one end to the other.

The prisoners who were unable to furnish bail will be brought before the court today. It is intimated that very few of those who were let out will appear to seek their bail money. All of those arrested are said to have given fictitious names.

Injured in Fall.

James Southerland, 1813 Fourteenth street, and John Wiggin, 802 Becker, were injured yesterday afternoon by a fall from the trestle work on Pittsburg Dock No. 5. The cuts and bruises received by the men are of a serious character and may prove fatal. Both were taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

Attend Convention.

J. M. Sarowski and L. B. Woods left last evening for La Crosse, where they will attend the annual convention of the National Association of Postoffice Clerks and Letter Carriers. The former is state president of the association.

ENGINEERS ARE COMING

State Association Will Hold Annual Convention in Duluth.

Between 200 and 300 Delegates Are Expected for Sessions.

Between 200 and 300 stationary engineers, many of them accompanied by their wives and daughters, will visit Duluth this week for the fourth annual convention of the Minnesota State association of the National Association of Stationary Engineers Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Minneapolis, St. Paul and Southern Minnesota visitors and delegates will come to Duluth over the Soo line, arriving early Wednesday morning. Other trains will bring convention visitors tomorrow evening.

J. B. Crane of Duluth, president of the state association, and a local committee consisting of John Smith, F. C. Rudd and E. F. Voss have made arrangements for the business meeting and the entertainment of the visitors. Business sessions will be held Wednesday morning and evening, Thursday morning and Friday morning and afternoon.

Wednesday morning the visitors will be welcomed by Mayor W. I. Prince, and the response will be made by G. E. McGrath of Chicago, president of the National association. President Crane will give his annual address and F. W. Raven of Chicago, secretary of the National association, will give a talk on the exhibit to be held in connection with the convention.

Wednesday afternoon the visitors will be entertained by the Duluth Commercial club with a boat ride up the river and around the harbor. At the Wednesday evening session, the committees will report and Whitney Wall of Duluth will speak on "Building Management and the Engineer."

At the Thursday morning session, papers will be read by representatives of the Winona, St. Paul and Duluth branches in competition for a prize offered by President Crane. The Winona paper will be on "Heating and Ventilating," the St. Paul paper on "The Isolated Plant vs. Central Station," and the Duluth paper on "The Engineer, His Duties and Responsibilities." Thursday afternoon the visitors will take street cars to the plant of the American Carbolite company and the Zenith Furnace to inspect the machinery. Thursday evening they will be entertained at a smoker at the Commercial club.

Friday morning there will be an executive session at which matters of interest to the engineers will be discussed. The suggestion that biennial sessions be held will be discussed. Friday afternoon officers will be elected and installed and the next convention city will be chosen. St. Paul and Minneapolis want the next convention.

The visiting women will be entertained on board the Pittsburg Coal company's yacht Pittsburg during the convention. Many of the visitors will remain over for the Lark o' the Lake entertainments Friday night and Saturday.

JUDGES WILL TAKE VACATION

One Member of Bench Will Conduct Special Hearings.

Of interest to attorneys is the announcement of the schedule of court sessions in district court for the coming six weeks, which was posted Saturday afternoon in the court rooms and in the office of the clerk of the court.

Beginning today and continuing until Aug. 20 only, one judge will be in attendance. He will take up at his convenience and at the convenience of the attorneys, such matters as would regularly come on for hearings at special term sessions on Saturdays.

The bulletin states that motions for a new trial or other matters to be heard by some particular judge should be arranged for at once, before the summer vacation season for the judges starts. All other matters may be submitted to the judge who may be holding court at the time such matters may be brought on for a hearing.

Judge Dancer is presiding this week.

AGED MANDAN MAN WANDERS FROM HOME.

Mandan, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wandering away while suffering a temporary aberration following an illness, D. S. Parkhurst, 73 years old, is missing. He was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. John Pollard. He left the house for a walk and when last seen was, north of the city. It is thought he might have gone as far as Oliver or Mercer counties in a hopeless search for his daughter's home.

OBITUARY

Daniel S. Newhall, purchasing agent for the Pennsylvania railroad and one of the most prominent cricketers of a generation ago, died in Philadelphia, July 13, after an operation. He was the eldest of seven brothers, all of whom were well known cricket players. He was born in Philadelphia in 1847.

A. J. Bollrath, president of the Enamelling Association of America and a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, died in Sheboygan, Wis., July 14. He was 64 years old.

A REAL MAN.

Indianapolis News: Jose Carlos de Carvalho, who recently came to this country to perfect arrangements with the University of Pennsylvania to lead an expedition of scientists to the head waters of the Amazon, is a rear-admiral of the Brazilian navy, and the most noted explorer south of the equator. In the undertaking at hand he represents his government. He became a world prominent figure in 1910, when he put down the mutiny in the Brazilian navy single handed. The sailors demanded instant reforms, locked their officers up and trained the guns of the fleet on Rio Janeiro. With his newly signed admiral's commission in his pocket, Carvalho went aboard the Sao Paulo alone, addressed the mutineers vigorously and to the point. The mutiny was over. Later he secured the navy reforms so badly needed.

"LON" WHITEMAN AND MOTHER MOVE TO ZION CITY, ILL.

Alonzo J. Whiteman, formerly of Duluth, but of late years and previously of Dansville, N. Y., has moved to Zion City, Ill., where he and his aged mother will make their home. He will enter the real estate business.

There likely are citizens come to Duluth at comparatively recent dates who did not know Mr. Whiteman. Mr. Whiteman was well worth knowing. In the heydey of the famous Duluth boom of the late 'eighties and early 'nineties, "Lon" Whiteman was one of the "prominent citizens." In law and business he was a leader and was admittedly brilliant. In politics he has been likened unto a meteor flashing across the Minnesota sky. He was elected state senator from Duluth and nearly everyone who knows his generous disposition and who have not forgotten that in the days of his prosperity he was one of the most publicspirited and enterprising men who ever lived here. He rebuilt the Whiteman paper mills which were burned in 1890, and he also built the electric lighting plant. He lived in Minnesota twelve years, where he held many positions of trust and honor, and where he still has many friends."

REBECCA E. WHITEMAN, Mother of Alonzo J. Whiteman.

served one term. Later he ran for congress and was defeated. His record in business and sporting circles in Duluth is too long for mention and has been reviewed many times.

Concerning his desertion of his native town, the Dansville Breeze says:

"Zion City is only an hour from Chicago and the ex-senator expects to go into a real estate office there, where his experience and ability should prove valuable to his employers.

"Reuben Whiteman came to Dansville in 1853 and for many years was one of our wealthiest and most respected citizens. His widow has lived on Elizabeth street over sixty years, and A. J. Whiteman was born here. Mrs. Whiteman is now in her 90th year, but is in very good health and her many friends hope she may live several years yet.

"The people of Dansville have always had a kindly feeling for 'Lon' Whiteman, and he will be followed to his new home by the good wishes of Safe Blowers Overlook $1,000.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Safe blowers early Saturday blew the safe in a saloon here owned by Oscar Johnson, securing $85 and overlooking $1,000 secreted in an inner drawer. The explosives were so expertly handled that the two big safe doors were shattered without even cracking a plate glass window three feet away.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Annual Election of Three Directors Will Be Held Saturday.

Next Saturday the annual school election for the independent districts of Duluth will take place and the voters will have six people to choose from for the filling of three places on the board of education.

The retiring directors are Mrs. T. J. Davis, L. A. Barnes and Walter N. Evered. Only one of these, Mrs. Davis, will be a candidate again, the other two refusing to try for re-election. Eight people in all were nominated but two have refused to be considered. One is Capt. D. E. Stevens, formerly a member of the board. He notified the board in time, so his name was not placed on the ticket. J. H. Cook was nominated, but has advertised that he does not wish to be considered by the voters. However, his name will be on the ticket. Those who will appear on the ticket, besides Mr. Cook, and their order of appearance are: Mrs. T. J. Davis, W. B. Getchell, J. R. McGiffert, Harry A. Hall, W. L. Smithies and L. A. Simonson.

MANY PAY TRIBUTE.

Funeral of Red Lake Falls Priest Is Largely Attended.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., July 14.—Impressive services were held at St. Joseph's Catholic church Thursday for the repose of the soul of the late Father E. Fayolle, for eighteen years local priest and one of the most popular churchmen in this section, who died Monday. The church was crowded, many coming from miles around. General regret is voiced on all sides over the passing of Father Fayolle. He was a native of France, aged 63, and was priest at Crookston seven years before coming here. Solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Father Theillon of Gentilly. Bishop Timothy Corbett of Crookston preached the sermon and Fathers Beyne of this city and Wurm, Tapin and Dufeault of Crookston assisted at the mass. All the priests of the diocese had been notified and most of them were present. The remains were interred in the church cemetery east of town, it being his wish that he be buried here, where he had made his home for so many years. It was the most largely attended funeral ever held in the city. The Concert band marched to the home and escorted the body to the church, where it was viewed by all those who wished. The remains were escorted from the church to the cemetery by the young ladies of the church, the Lady Foresters and the members of the C. O. F.

Rush City Continues "Dry."

Rush City, Minn., July 14.—Rush City will continue to be dry. At the last election there were 114 votes for license and 112 against. The supreme court held two of the license votes defective, making the vote a tie. It requires a majority vote to change the policy of a city, and Rush City will continue to be legally dry.

ENJOYED TWO DAYS' OUTING

Stirrup Club Members Spent Week-End at Lake Nebagamon.

The two days' outing of the Stirrup club at Lake Nebagamon which ended last evening was a great success.

Thirty members of the club made the trip Saturday morning and were entertained at the home of W. T. Wilke, city ticket and passenger agent for the South Shore line. Members of the Stirrup club met the Lake Nebagamon "Scrub" team Saturday afternoon and won by the score of 8 to 6. An old-time picnic and dance followed. Yesterday the members enjoyed cross-country walks and motorboat rides on the lake.

TO BOOST HIGHWAY.

St. Paul Men Conferring With Washington County Commissioners.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—St. Paul sent a delegation to Stillwater today to attend a meeting of the Washington county commissioners, at which the proposed Twin Cities-Duluth highway received consideration.

"We want the co-operation of Washington county in boosting the proposed highway to Duluth, and I am informed that the county commissioners are well impressed with the pain," said Mayor Keller.

DULUTH APPEALS TO AN ARTIST

Robert S. MacCourt, St. Paul artist, is deeply impressed with Duluth as a sketching ground for artists. Mr. MacCourt is spending a part of the summer here.

"Western scenery is too dramatic," he says. "Eastern scenery too lacking in variety. Here in Duluth an artist may choose almost any one of a dozen motifs to paint.

"He will find hills and sky, wooded interiors, open vistas, streams and waterfalls, boats and shipping and rocky shore lines equal to many found on the ocean."

New Rockford Pioneer Dies.

New Rockford, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Thomas P. Morris, who has resided in what is now North Dakota since 1869, is dead. BRIDGE AND ROAD LEVIES

County Board Will Discuss Appropriations for Year 1914.

Will Also Seek to Co-Operate With State Highway Commission.

Road and bridge levies for 1914 will either be fixed this afternoon at the semi-annual meeting of the St. Louis county board or at an adjourned meeting which may be arranged for today. The matter will be the principal business to come before the commissioners.

The county commissioners will consider a number of road projects which have been hanging fire for some time and will attempt to get into working harness with the state highway commission which has authority under a recent state law to work with the various counties in the building of a chain of inter-county roads.

Among the state highways particularly affecting Duluth and which may be considered by the commissioners at their meeting today are the following: Duluth to Moorhead, through Carlton, Aitkin, Brainerd, Wadena and Detroit; Duluth to St. Vincent, via Grand Rapids, Cass Lake, Bemidji, Crookston, Warren and Hallock; Duluth to the Twin Cities, via Sandstone and Pine City with a connection at Wyoming to the Chicago lake district, and from International Falls southeast to Virginia and Duluth.

Road Not to Be Built.

It is also believed that the county board will reject all bids for the building of the judicial road four miles long, which was ordered three years ago by Judge Martin Hughes of the district court. The bids were opened Saturday and it was found that after bridges were built and surfacing done, it would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Although the order for the highway was signed by Judge Hughes three years ago, containing the stipulation that the road should be completed by July 1, 1911, the order of the court directing the auditors of St. Louis and Lake counties to advertise for the bids was never served upon the officers and bids were not called for until recently.

It is now claimed that there is no necessity for the building of the road, and that the settlers who were along the proposed route have proved up their claims, sold their timber and have moved away. An attempt will be made, it is understood, to have the district court revoke its order in view of the fact that the construction of the proposed road would be a useless and extravagant expenditure of money.

report a confidence prevailing that the strike will not be called, or if such action be taken the tie-up will be of such short duration that no extraordinary precautions against famine are necessary.

In Boston, Philadelphia and this city the trouble would be met in a measure by water transportation, and also at some of the Ohio river points. The milk delivery would be the most serious matter, all points report, and officials of the unions declare that if a strike were ordered no special recognition would be given any special class of trains, that all would be affected alike.

Those at the Conference.

President Wilson, Secretary Wilson, Chairman Newlands of the senate interstate commerce commission, Chairman Clayton of the house judiciary committee, and Republican Leader Mann were to represent the government; Presidents Samuel Rea of the Pennsylavania, Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio, George W. Stevens of the Chesapeake & Ohio; W. C. Brown of the New York Central lines, and Frank Trumbull, chairman of the board of the Chesapeake & Ohio, were to represent the railroads. Presidents A. B. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors and W. G. Lee of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, were to represent the employes.

Seth Low, president of the Civic federation, which has indorsed the Newlands bill for amending the Erdman act to provide arbitration of railroad wage disputes in a manner satisfactory to the railroad men, also was expected to take part in the conference.

Formal Notice Given.

The conference committee of the railroad managers today received from the unions formal notification that the strike vote had been ratified yesterday. The statement recites that the general committee of the unions, meeting separately "have unanimously approved the strike vote" and have authorized Messrs. Lee and Garretson to fix the "hour at which these organizations will retire from the service."

The letter says that Lee and Garretson have at the "earnest solicitation of disinterested interests" been authorized to attend today's conference at Washington and adds:

"The local committeemen have returned to their homes under instructions not to return to the service pending further instructions, and we sincerely trust that a crisis may not be precipitated by an effort to compel any of those committeemen to return to service."

Most of the delegates who attended the convention that ratified the strike vote left the city last night. The general "committee of 1,000" is still here. Lee and Garretson expect to return to New York tomorrow morning. Before leaving they said that the hour for calling the men out in the event that no settlement could be reached was unknown to anybody except themselves.

Approve Newlands Bill.

The Eastern railroads involved in the wage controversy with the trainmen and conductors issued a statement this afternoon through the conference committee of managers saying that they were willing to arbitrate the questions at issue under the provisions of the Newlands bill now before congress, but were still unwilling to proceed under the Erdman act. This is the road's reply to the ultimatum submitted by the unions yesterday.

The statement says that the committee's policy has never changed; that it has consistently refused "to be coerced" through threats of strikes into paying railroad employes wages "out of all proportion to the duties performed."

The managers have been consistent in contending that the Erdman act does not protect the interests of all parties concerned.

"Should the Newlands bill be enacted into law, the committee will, of coure, be willing to submit to arbitration by a board provided in the Newlands bill all questions of rates of pay and working conditions of conductors and trainmen."

The reply is addressed to Messrs. Lee and Garretson, heads of the trainmen and conductors organizations respectively, and is signed by Elisha Lee, chairman.

Two Plans Proposed.

Washington, July 14.—Today's conference between the railroad men and President Wilson concerns chiefly two bills pending in congress for amendment of the Erdman act providing means for arbitration of wage disputes. It is understood that both the brotherhoods and the railroads are satisfied with the Newlands bill, already passed in the senate, but that the Clayton bill introduced in the house, largely at the instance of Secretary Wilson, is not so satisfactory.

The latter proposes that the secretary of labor should be included as one of the official mediators. There has been considerable objection to that feature. Chairman Clayton of the house judiciary committee, who was one of the participants in the White House conference, declared there was no disposition to press his bill against the Newlands bill if it was apparent that both the railroads and their employes favored the Newlands measure.

Clayton Not Insistent.

"All we want," said he, "is to get the best arrangement possible to meet the views of both sides. The house judiciary committee will determine its position at a meeting tomorrow in the light of this afternoon's conference. There should then be quick action by congress."

Acceptance by the house of the Newlands bill as it has passed the senate, which also has been approved by the Civic federation, would undoubtedly remove the possibility of a strike.

President Wilson on his arrival at 9:35 a. m. from Cornish, N. H., had before him a pile of documents on the situation which he said he would examine before the conference.

While the president has taken no stand in the matter, he let it be known that he did not regard as a serious obstacle the composition of the board of mediation, though he felt that it was a most important question.

With the exception of the threatened strike, the president had little pressing business before him and he prepared to devote practically the entire day to the situation.

McCUMBER RAILS AT THE DEMOCRATS' TARIFF BILL

want to dump its products into a market which belongs by rights to the American farmer."

"False and Demagogic."

He asserted the new tariff bill would injure the farmer, contending that he received too much for his products and must be compelled to sell them cheaper, and charged that the Democrats knew "that your claim that you are going to benefit the consumer, is false and demagogic in the extreme."

The senator submitted statistics seeking to show that the tariff did not affect the price of farm products to the consumer, and again addressing the Democrats, said:

"Your ears are closed to every appeal for justice for the tiller of the soil. You are reaching a point where your income is unable to keep pace with your extravagances, and you are asking the farmer to make good the deficit by reducing the price of his products.

"It never occurs to you that the proper place to begin economy is on the luxuries, the unnecessaries of life. You declare to him that the American people pay $1,500,000,000 a year for meat, and you say that is too much. He answers, 'They are also paying $2,000,000,000 a year for liquors. Cut your liquor bill in half and you will save enough to buy all your meat.'

"This Accursed Measure."

"The farmers may be slow, but he is quite sure," continued the senator. "Pass this accursed measure, and before 1914 he will be fully awake to the realization of the offense committed against him. Pass this bill, and unless this cut-throat policy which annihilated the Republican party in 1912 continues, there will not be a Democratic state in the whole North. It took the farmer sixteen years to forget the last Democratic policy. Pass this bill and the generation now living will never forget you."

Substitute By Smoot.

Senator Smoot, Republican member of the finance committee, introduced a substitute for the wool schedule of the Underwood-Simmons bill, proposing rates based directly upon the report of the tariff board and adopting in each grade the lowest rate. The schedule is lower than that introduced last year by Senator Penrose as a substitute for the Underwood wool bill, and is the lowest wool schedule ever introduced by a Republican senator.

As a substitute for free raw wool, the Smoot schedule divides raw wool into three grades and establishes rates ranging from 7 to 16 cents per pound.

Class 1 wools, made dutiable at 16 cents per pound if scoured and 15 cents per pound on cleaned contents if imported in the grease, including merino wools imported usually from Buenos Ayres, New Zealand, Egypt, Australia, Cape of Good Hope, Russia, Great Britain, Morocco, and down combing wools and Canada long wools.

Wools of class 2, made dutiable at 14 cents per pound if scoured and 13 cents on cleaned content in the grease, including all hair of the camel, goat, alpaca and Leicester, cotswold, Lincolnshire and similar long combing wools of English blood.

Wools of class 3, dutiable at 7 cents per pound if imported in their natural state and 14 cents if scoured, include donskoi, native South American, Cordova, Valparaiso, native Smyrna, Russian camels' hair, Bagdad, China lamb, Casto Branco and all such wools usually imported from Turkey, Greece and Syria.

Drawback of 99 Per Cent.

A drawback of 99 per cent is provided for on wools of class 3 used in the United States for the manufacture of carpets, druggets, mats, floor rugs, hassocks, are squares, etc., which would make carpet wools practically free of duty. The duty on wools or hair on the skin would be 1 cent less per pound, in every case, than on the wool content.

On manufactured goods and wools advanced beyond the natural state, the rates of the Smoot bill are correspondingly lower than present rates.

The schedule contains a provision that the rates on raw wool should be effective on Nov. 1, 1913, and on wool manufacture Jan. 1, 1914.

VOTE CONSOLIDATION.

Four Districts Surrounding Laporte Favor Joining That School Disrtict.

Laporte, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The proposition to consolidate the four surrounding school districts with the Laporte district was submitted to a vote of the electors Saturday afternoon and evening and carried by a vote of 74 for to 46 against. A meeting for the election of consolidated school officers will be held next Saturday and the work of remodeling the school building to add two new rooms and make other improvements will be started at once. They expect to have the building ready for occupancy this fall. Agriculture and domestic science will be taught.

SMEAR POWDERED STRYCHNINE ON FACES.

Velva, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto Bonning and Donald Dickinson, both 5 years old, were nearly killed when they smeared powdered strychnine over their faces and finally ate some of the poison, as it was half an hour before antidotes were administered.

"SEE MINNESOTA FIRST" PARTY

Visitors Will Arrive in Duluth From the Range Wednesday.

The "See Minnesota First" party on a four weeks' tour of the state under the escort of Prof. Lehnerts of the University of Minnesota, will arrive in Duluth Wednesday morning from the range and will spend the day here.

The party is at Hibbing today, and tomorrow will visit Chisholm and Virginia, viewing the mines and studying the geology of the district. Wednesday on their visit to Duluth they will make the boulevard drive, take a trip up the river and around the harbor on one of the steamers and visit other points of interest around the city.

Thursday the members of the party will make a trip to Grand Marais by boat and will return Friday, when the tour will end. The party is made up principally of students and teachers, and the topography and geology of the state have been subjects for special study during the tour.

PAIR BROUGHT BACK; PROTEST INNOCENCE.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maintaining their innocence, C. J. Vollmer and Isadore Groskins, charged with felonies, were returned here Saturday night. Vollmer gained freedom under cash bail, but Groskins went to jail.

Vollmer and Groskins were captured at Vancouver, B. C., after a cross-continent chase. They took with them two automobiles, on one of which C. R. Verry of Park River claimed to have a mortgage. After crossing the Canadian boundary line into the United States, after it was too late to fight, Vollmer for a writ of habeas corpus in Seattle, Wash., but he abandoned the attempt.

Plant Many Young Trout.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—H. A. Rider, executive agent of the state game and fish commission, has returned from a tour of Northern Minnesota during which he distributed about 30,000 young trout in 100 jars containing about 300 each. The distribution was in streams all the way from St. Cloud to Bemidji, tributary to the Mississippi river.

"TOUCH" WAS LAST STRAW

Wife Asked Husband for $100 to Spend With Another Man.

He Seeks Divorce and Custody of Their Two Children.

"Friend husband: Please send me another hundred. Am having a good time here with another man."

Without quoting the exact language, this was the short and impressive message which Frank Fier, aged 36, car cleaner in the Union depot yards, received from his wife the last time he heard from her. It was scribbled across a souvenir post card which had been posted at La Crosse, Wis.

Today in district court, Fier filed suit for divorce on the grounds of desertion. He claims that in September 1911 his wife grew weary of domestic cares and troubles and informed him that she had decided to journey to La Crosse, Wis., where she would visit with an uncle.

A few days after she arrived at La Crosse, Fier was surprised to receive request for the hundred especially when it was accompanied by the frank statement that it was to be spent in having a "good time" with a male friend.

Needless to say, the "touch" was not a successful one. Fier shortly before Christmas 1911 went to La Crosse himself to look up the whereabouts of his wife. He called upon the uncle and was informed that his wife had never visited at the latter's home.

Fier and his wife, Maggie Fier, aged 25, were married in this city about seven years ago. They are parents of two children, Joseph, aged 6 and Frank Jr., aged 5, who are with their father now. Fier claims that the moral character of the mother is bad and asks in addition to the divorce decree, that he be given the custody and control of the children.

Fier claims to be a sober, industrious man and represents to the court that he is able to provide a good home for the children. He resides at 13 West Ninth street.

The plaintiff claims that he knows nothing of his wife's whereabouts and his application to the court for an order allowing a service of the summons by publication has been granted by Judge Dancer.

NEW BRANCH OF LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEGION.

At the regular service of the Sunday school yesterday at the Union church, a branch of the Loyal Temperance Legion, a children's temperance organization, under the supervision of the local W. C. T. U., was organized with the following officers: Miss Margaret Tidball, leader; Miss Agnes Holt, first assistant; Miss Gertrude Longstreet, second assistant; president, Charles Grochowsky; vice president, William Thatcher; secretary, Rudolph Swenson; program, Clarence Thatcher.

The organization will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 at the K. P. hall. Other organizations of this kind already existing in Duluth are those of the First Methodist and the Seventh Day Adventist churches. A saloonless nation in 1920 is the slogan of the Christian Endeavorers of the country, and it is expected that this organization will do its part in this campaign.

AUTO VICTIM ABLE TO BE TAKEN HOME.

INJURED TO BE PAID.

Calumet & Hecla Mining Company Makes Announcement.

Calumet, Mich., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Six days after employes of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company are injured and until they draw pay under the employers' liability and compensation act, which is usually two weeks after disability, they will received $1 per day from the company if earning $30 per month and over and 50 cents per day if earning less than $30. This announcement has been made by the big mining company and is designed to see that employes are paid for six days after injury until the compensation act pays them, which is usually two weeks or more after disability.

Bury Ashland Pioneer.

Ashland, Wis., July 14.—The funeral R. E. MacDonald, a pioneer, was held Sunday. He came here with his family twenty-eight years ago from Mount Pleasant, Mich., and worked in various capacities as a lumberman. He leaves his widow and five children: William and A. P. Macdonald of Ashland, Mrs. W. A. Eaton of Chicago, Sister Eolgia of La Crosse and Mrs. Jack Shaw, Superior.

Woman's Realm

The marriage of Miss Belle Sherwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ely H. Sherwood of 1601 East Fifth street to Edward Manheim of this city will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. They will leave for a wedding trip down the lakes on the Huronic and will be at home in Duluth upon their return.

Saturday evening Miss Sherwood was the guest of honor at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Jean A. Aras, Mrs. W. O. Flodin and Mrs. D. C. Moore at the home of Mrs. Aras, 512 First avenue west. The gifts were all kitchen utensils of aluminum. Effective decorations were charmingly arranged, clusters of white peonies and pink roses being used. The guests were:

Mesdames—
E. H. Sherwood, John Dix,
James Thorburn, Sauve,
William Bloedel, Ray Pattinson,

Misses—
Dola Fink, Elizabeth Fink,
Rasalia Manheim, Gertrude Wallace.

PICNIC AT HALL.

Samaritans Will Eat Supper Indoors.

The picnic supper which was planned for this evening at Lincoln park by the members of Duluth council, No. 3, Modern Samaritans, will be held at the K. of P. hall, 118 West Superior street instead on account of the threatened rain. The basket supper will be eaten about 6:45 o'clock and an informal program will follow at the hall.

WOMEN WILL VOTE.

Working for Their Candidate for School Board.

The election of members of the school board, which will take place next Saturday in Duluth, is interesting citizens this week and the women especially are actively at work for favored candidates.

The election of Mrs. T. J. Davis to the board to complete the unexpired term of Wilson G. Crosby, who resigned, has proved most satisfactory to the women, and her re-election at this time is being sought. The members of the school board have all expressed themselves as much satisfied in having her as a member, as many matters come up on which a woman's opinion is needed, and they have heartily indorsed her for re-election.

The Woman's Council at its last meeting voted its official indorsement of Mrs. Davis for school board membership and the members declared their intention of working individually for her prior to the election.

Other candidates who favor progressive movements are being strongly indorsed by the women and there will probably be a large vote on Saturday.

AT PATRICK HOME.

Dancing Party for Visiting Girls.

Miss Isabel Patrick will entertain at a dancing party Thursday evening at her home, Twenty-third avenue east and Superior street in compliment to her guests, Miss Marjorie Hillis of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Martha Patrick of Maringo, Ill.

Dinner at Pike Lake.

Lawrence Gordon has invited guests to a dinner party to be given Friday evening of this week at Pike lake. There will be twenty-four in the party.

Informal Afternoon.

Miss Anna Saxine of 324 West Third street has invited guests to an informal afternoon party Wednesday at her home. There will be eighteen gutsts.

Series of Parties.

Mrs. C. J. Knox of 1107 East Fourth street will entertain at cards tomorrow, Wednesday and Friday afternoons of this week. Five hundred will be played at all of the affairs.

For Past Presidents.

Mrs. J. H. Sullivan of 323 West Third street will entertain at luncheon Thursday the members of the Past Presidents' club of the Woman's Relief corps. The hour set is 1 o'clock.

Picnic Party.

Mrs. George R. King of 104 North Twenty-eighth avenue west and Mrs. Fred Mooney were hostesses at a picnic outing at Pond du Lac today. There were ten in the party.

Lodge Affairs.

A program of numbers to be given in costume will be the feature of the "Bohemian Night" entertainment planned by the members of Court Eastern Star, No. 86, U. O. F. for tomorrow evening at the Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street at 8 o'clock. Members of Court Phoenix and North Star and all visiting Foresters have been invited to the affair. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. William Dutcher, Mrs. L. C. Todd, Mrs. Julia Wilson, Mrs. T. R. Hancock, Mrs. Alma Carter, Miss Irene Walker and W. M. Abel.

Progressive Rebekah lodge, No. 121 will entertain at a 500 party tomorrow afternoon at the I. O. O. F. hall, Mesaba avenue and West Fourth street, for members and their friends. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. James Beatty and Mrs. William Gagne.

PRIMA DONNA MARRIES AND WILL LEAVE STAGE

MARGUERITE WRIGHT.

Marguerite Wright, one of the pretty women of the stage, has become a wife. She has married Robert B. Smith of New York. And for the further information of those outside theatrical circles, it may be stated that Mr. Smith is a brother of Harry Smith who writes the more or less comic librettos and that he has done some work along the same lines himself. If Miss Wright had been a Gaiety girl she would probably have married an earl or a duke. But being only the leading member of the "Spring Maid" company on the road, she contented herself with a librettist. It adds an interesting touch to the romance to learn that Mr. Smith prepared the libretto for the highly popular operetta in which Miss Wright made her great success. Mrs. Smith will leave the stage.

LUCIA LACOSTA

In three song recitals, under auspices of Woman's Relief Corps, Tuesday, July 15, at 8:30 p. m.; Wednesday, July 16, at 3:30 and 8:30 p. m.

INN GUESTS.

Week-End Parties at Island Lake.

Among the week-end and Sunday guests this week at Island Lake Inn were Miss Margaret Clark, Miss Barbara McKenzie, Peter Elmon of Superior, George Clark, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schall, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hoff nd family, and the following Superior people, Mr. and Mrs. R. Elmon, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Elmon and Perry, Edna, Alfred and Emma Elmon.

For Guests.

Miss Cel Bogan of Lakeside entertained informally Saturday evening at her home for her guests, Misses Susan and Reta Lenze of Hubbell, Mich. Buttercups, daisies and ferns decorated the rooms and the guests were:

Misses—
Agnes Mackey, Katherine Conroy,
Genevieve Bogan, Margaret Byron,
Nettie Rock, Irma Bogan,
Blanche Ryan, Agnes Bogan.

For Visitor.

Mrs. R. M. Scott of 2321 West Third street entertained Saturday afternoon at 500 in hinor of Miss Alice Scott of Stillwater, who is her guest. The prizes were won by Misses Lillian McCarthy and Blanche Thurston. The other guests were:

Misses—
Ruth Fisher, Grace Lutes,
Dorothy Hopkins, Gertrude Riley,
Ila Whiteside, Ruth Lucore.

Bausmer-Miller.

Many Duluthians are interested in the marriage of Miss Ellen Bausmer of St. Louis, Mo., and Thomas Miller of Duluth, which will take place next Saturday at St. Louis. Miss Bausmer is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Anneke of Duluth and is well known in Duluth, having visited here a number of times. She is a violinist of note and has been heard in concert work here.

Mr. Miller and his bride will be at home in Duluth after Oct. 1.

Poppy Luncheon.

Mrs. Arthur Hatch entertained at a prettily appointed luncheon this afternoon at her home in compliment to Mrs. Maurice Scroggins of Minneapolis and a number of other visiting guests. Red poppies were used in decorating the table.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Foolish for Parents to Take Up Children's Quarrels.

The other day I saw a young mother—young in years, although she has three children, none of them under 7—rush to a neighbor's house with her third-born, a boy, and ring the door bell in hot haste. When the neighbor came to the door, the young mother showed her some marks on the boy's face which, she indignantly declared, had been made by the neighbor's little daughter, about the same age.

The young mother was angry, and her tone and attitude irritated the neighbor. As a result, the two were soon engaged in an undignified quarrel, each espousing the cause of her own child, to the disparagement of the other.

I laughed to myself, as I thought how foolish and childish it all was. Even while they were still indulging in hot words, the two children, the innocent cause of all the flurry, slipped off together and were soon at play again, forgetting that they had ever had any trouble.

So soon are childish differences forgotten; but, I reflected, the mothers, who are old enough to know better probably will be at outs for several days, if, indeed, they speak to each other for a year to come.

In the first place, of course, the young mother had had enough experience with children to know better than to rush post haste to her neighbor with her boy's tale of woe. What if the little girl had abused him, which might or might not have been so? She should have told her son never to pick a quarrel with other boys, and to be gentle with little girls; but never to allow himself to be unduly imposed on. And then let it go at that.

The mother who takes up her child's quarrel—I mean makes a habit of so doing—and takes little every day affairs of this nature too seriously, is likely not only to spoil her child utterly, but to make herself exceedingly unpopular in her neighborhood.

I have seen other mothes laugh with each other over their children's differences, and perhaps punish the one who is found really at fault, which, of course, is the proper way to dispose of the issue. Except in aggravated cases, where a child has been really abused or imposed upon in a manner that demands attention, the parent would best dismiss the matter, or else discuss it sanely with the other one involved.

METHODIST MINISTERS WILL HOLD PICNIC

The Head of the Lakes Methodist Ministerial association will hold a picnic tomorrow at Fond du Lac. The ministers, their families and friends will take the steamer Columbia at the Lake avenue dock at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The committee in charge of the picnic has arranged an informal program of sports and games. Basket lunches will be carried by the preachers.

MILL CITY BARBERS FIGHT WITH RAZORS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—In a fight with razors between two barbers in a shop on Fourth street south, Saturday night, Samuel Pappas, 24 years old, received a gash in his throat and lies at the city hospital in a serious condition. R. C. Bennett, who is said to have inflicted the wound, is held at the central police station pending the outcome of Pappas' wound.

Patrons who were being shaved leaped from their chairs when the fight occurred, and with lather dripping from their faces, ran into the street, led by those waiting turn, and pandemonium reigned until the police appeared on the scene.

Drake, N. D., Jail Break.

Drake, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taking advantage of an opportunity that offered when the police officer was absent from the room for a moment, V. R. Noble dived through a window to freedom, and no trace of him has been found. Noble was accused by John Osborne with robbery.

SWEDISH-FINNISH PICNIC ARRANGED

Visitors From Other States to Be Entertained in Duluth Sunday.

The first annual picnic of Swedish-Finnish American people living in Northeastern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Michigan will be held next Sunday at Fairmont park. Plans are being made to entertain large delegations from outside of the city.

The picnic will be an all-day affair. A program of music and sports is being arranged for the day. A number of speakers, among them Peter J. Youngdahl of Minneapolis, state superintendent of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, will give addresses.

Local Swedish-Finnish organizations are making the plans for the affair. It is planned to make the picnic of national significance and invitations are being extended to members of the nationality from other sections of the country.

In order to entertain delegations which will arrive in the city on Saturday, a dancing party is planned for that evening. This will be held at Dormedy's hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street.

SAVES CHILD FROM BURNING

West Duluth Boy Scorched While Saving Baby's Life.

Ernest Willie, 17 years old, 6032 Raleigh street, received severe burns about the hands and arms while rescuing a child from a fire Saturday afternoon.

The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Karas was playing with other children near a bonfire when his clothes took fire. Ernest Willie was delivering groceries for his mother and noticed the accident. Rushing to the child he smothered the fire at the cost of burning himself. The child and his rescuer were given medical treatment by Dr. D. E. Seashore.

W. C. T. U. PICNIC TO BE HELD FRIDAY.

The annual picnic of the West Duluth W. C. T. U. at Lincoln park which was scheduled for Thursday has been postponed until Friday of this week. The date was changed so as not to conflict with the Grocers' picnic at Lincoln park on Thursday.

Invitations have been extended to the Duluth Scandinavian and Central W. C. T. U. to join in the outing. Basket lunch will be carried and served at 1 o'clock. Following the luncheon musical numbers and short addresses will be given.

JOINT PICNIC AT FOND DU LAC.

Fond du Lac will be the scene of the annual picnic of the Sunday schools of the Episcopal churches of the city. The Holy Apostles of the West Duluth, St. Peter's of the West end, Trinity Pro-Cathedral, St. Paul's and the Park Point Mission will all take part.

The children, teachers and officers of the various schools will take the Steamer Columbia at the Lake avenue dock at 9 o'clock, and from the Twenty-first avenue dock at 9:45 o'clock. W. E. Le Quesne, superintendent of the Trinity Sunday school will be in charge, assisted by the rectors of the various churches.

A program of sports has been arranged. On this will be a baseball game between the boys of the churches of the eastern end of the city against those from the western end. Races and other forms of amusement will also be provided.

Fined for Fighting.

Louis Lemarie and Mike Degesare failed to agree yesterday and tried to settle their differences with their fists and weapons in the shape of clubs and stones. The fighting took place in front of their boarding house at Smithville. Officer L. A. Root was attracted to the scene and placed both under arrest. When arraigned before Judge Lanners this morning both pleaded guilty. Lemarie was fined $15 and costs, while Degesare was let off with a fine of $10 and costs.

Motor Boat Races.

The race committee of the Western Boat club will meet tomorrow evening to plan the motor boat races to be held Sunday. It is planned to hold three races for motor boats and also a canoe race. Three contestants are said to have entered in the latter event.

Infant Son Dies.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolfe, 218 North Fifty-fourth avenue west, died yesterday morning. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence. Interment was made in Oneota cemetery.

Birthday Party.

Miss Laura Albertson, 421 North Forty-second avenue west, entertained Saturday evening at a birthday party at her home. Games and music was played followed by luncheon. The guests were:

Miss Doris Reynolds, Miss June Cross, Miss Wilhelmine Swan, Miss Margaret Daly, Miss May Frohmader, Miss Adeline Daily, Miss Marie Stewart, Miss Louise Singleton, Miss Gladys Churchill, Miss Alice Atland, Miss Marion Adams, Miss Charlotte Williams, Miss Madeline Hartman, Miss Olive Eberhardt, Miss Esther Robertson. Messrs Howard Flowey, Earl Gilligen, Herbert Hammer, Roy Burns, Frank Armstead, Fred Mare, Dick Lauder, Bob Sykes, Jack Kremer, Lawrence La Flex, Fred St. Germaine, Lloyd Doherty, Bert Doran, Charles Douglas, Laverne Rich and Frank Burke.

Hibernian Picnic.

Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians will hold a picnic Wednesday at Fairmont park. Plans have been made to make this one of the most elaborate given by the Hibernians of the city. A lengthy progam of sports is being arranged. Dancing both afternoon and evening at the Labor pavilion will be a feature of the entertainment.

Annual Picnic.

Zenith camp No. 1027, Royal Neighbors of America, will hold its annual picnic Thursday afternoon and evening at Fairmont park. The women have planned to take basket lunches and serve supper at 6 o'clock. Relatives of the members will be asked to attend the supper. An informal program has been arranged.

DOES NOT WORRY ABOUT HIS BILLS

Prisoner Claimed to Be "Good Spender" When Without Funds.

George McGivern, who pleaded not guilty in municipal court Saturday morning to a charge of disorderly conduct, has had a rather varied career in Duluth, according to the police records.

McGivern went into a restaurant last winter, ate a hearty meal and then walked out without paying his bill, according to the records. At a later time he ordered a taxi-cab, rode several blocks and then jumped out, saying to the chauffeur, "I should worry about the bill."

The prisoner is charged with having accosted two women on Superior street last Friday night. His hearing has been set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

SHARED ROOM; LOST HIS MONEY

Taken in by James Baker and given lodging in a West Superior street hotel, Herbert Taylor ran out of the room during Saturday night and took with him $1.25 belonging to Baker.

When Baker awoke yesterday morning he found both Taylor and the $1.25 gone. It was all the money Baker had left in the world, he said. He met Taylor early Saturday evening and they had been together for several hours, when the latter said that he had no place to sleep during the night. It was then that Baker offered to share his room with the stranger.

Taylor pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was fined $46.12 or thirty days in the county jail.

Had Liquor in Suitcases.

Hannah, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—With two suitcases filled with liquor William Barker was arrested here. He was taken to jail at Langdon and his goods confiscated. As there was no direct evidence of sales, he was merely charged with vagrancy and sentenced to twenty days in prison.

Accuses Father of Forgery.

Carrington, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with forging his son's name to a check, A. W. Blasky, aged 71, is under arrest. The alleged forgery took place at McHenry, and his son is the state's principal witness, having refused to honor the check.

THE STEEL PLANT EXTENSION SHOULD BE MADE THIS YEAR.

Though the street railway company has announced that no work will be done this year on the extension of its lines to the steel plant, there seems to be no adequate reason why work should not only be begun this year, but completed.

The city has been exceedingly lenient with the street railway company in this matter—too lenient, indeed.

The extension should have been completed several years ago, and it would have been had the city taken as aggressive a stand as it should.

The only real stumbling block to the extension of the street car line is the fill at Eighty-first avenue. That fill, according to the city authorities, will be completed by Aug. 1.

There is nothing whatever to prevent the street railway company from beginning its work right now. It can build its line as far as the fill, working from this end; and it can easily begin at the other end at the same time and be ready to make the connection when the city's work is completed.

There is, therefore, no reason on earth why street cars should not be running to New Duluth before snow flies.

They will be running there if the city takes a firm stand and insists that the work be done.

The street railway company has been derelict in its duty to the city in this matter. That is in large part the fault of the city government, which has not been as insistent as it should have been.

But the commission government should not continue the sins of omission of the old government. It should insist that the company complete its line to the steel plant this year.

The street railway company has not condescended to give an explanation of its failure to perform a duty which has existed for several years, and it makes no explanation now. Presumably its real reason is that the volume of traffic will not be so large as it would like it until the steel plant is in operation.

But there has not been a time during the past three years when this line would not have paid.

Even before the steel plant was located at that end of the city and work begun on it, there was a considerable population out there, especially in summer, and there would have been a much larger one had there been street car service.

Since work on the plant was begun visitors would have added very largely to the traffic. And now a thousand men are employed there, and thriving settlements are growing up around the plant.

All this traffic, and all the business the downtown districts could have gained from it, has been shut off by the failure of the company to perform its duty to the community.

The street railway company should have its cars in operation to the steel plant this fall, and the city should insist that it does.

There is no excuse whatever either for the city's failure to insist or for the company's failure to comply.

The San Joaquin valley in California expects to produce 400,000 pounds of "Turkish" tobacco this season. Connecticut's "Havana" fields will have to look to their laurels.

SCHOOL ELECTION SATURDAY.

Saturday is the date for the annual election of the independent school district of Duluth, when three directors will be elected.

In this election women as well as men can vote. The possible vote, therefore, is somewhere around twenty thousand. If it is much more than a thousand it will exceed the average.

This is wrong, all wrong. Upon the results of these elections depends in a large degree the management of the most important public institution we have—the public schools. There ought, therefore, to be a great deal more public interest in them than there usually is.

Maybe this time it will be different. The Herald hopes so.

There are three places to be filled, and twice that many candidates. The candidates are as follows: Mrs. T. J. Davis, J. R. McGiffert, W. B. Getchell, W. L. Smithies, L. A. Simonson and H. A. Hall.

The Herald has no ticket to support in this campaign. It merely urges greater public interest and a large vote.

Yet it has a ticket, too—or part of a ticket.

Whatever is done about the other places, Mrs. T. J. Davis, who is now a member of the board,—the only present member standing for re-election,—should by all means be marked on every ballot cast.

This is because her service on the board has proved not only her own capacity, but the good judgment of those who said that the women of the community should be represented on the board. Mrs. Davis is the only woman member of the board, and by all means she should be returned to it as one of the three to be elected Saturday.

American windmills are finding much favor in Asiatic Turkey. Which is enough to start a flurry in the circulation department of the Congressional Record office.

AN OPPORTUNITY THE CITY SHOULD SEIZE.

The Northern Pacific railroad offers the city of Duluth an opportunity to create a lake front park that will be a noble heritage which generations to come will treasure.

It is Duluth's for the taking, and as it is a chance that will not come again, the city should seize it without hesitation—and it should act so quickly that there will be no possibility of its getting away.

It is an opening for the commission to do something for Duluth that will be appreciated so long as there is a city of Duluth.

There is not a large city in the country, no matter how liberal its builders were in the matter of park reservations, that does not wish that it had more park area.

A city without parks is a city unfit for human habitation. A city with few parks is a city inadequately equipped to make it habitable. Duluth needs and should get every foot of park area it can acquire.

And a lake front park will be something few cities can have—something Duluth will prize and advertise for generations to come.

F. A. Patrick, while a member of the now extinct park board, negotiated with President Elliott of the Northern Pacific railroad a deal whereby the city may acquire this property free of charge. The only considerations are that the property shall be used exclusively for park purposes, and that the city begin the work of making a park out of it within three years.

The proposal is that the city shall build a breakwater or retaining wall from the end of the north pier of the ship canal to the point of rocks at Fourth avenue east, and from there to Ninth avenue east; and that it then fill the space enclosed and make a park of it. The area thus created would total eighty-one and three-quarters acres, of which nine acres along the company's present right of way, but not fronting on the lake, would be deeded back to the company, leaving a park seventy-two and three-quarters acres in area.

The possibilities of such a park are enormous. It would be a boon for which countless generations would thank the first commission that ever governed Duluth.

It is too splendid a thing for Duluth to permit to slip from its grasp.

The city should act upon it at once.

Mexico's first button factory has just been started. Apparently that was one bet that the aged Porfirio inadvertently overlooked.

TEDDY THE TERROR PROPERLY REBUKED.

Col. Roosevelt recently made one of his war-like speeches at Newport, Mass., flaying those who advocate peace and pronouncing anathema on those who see no sense in engaging in the terribly comic world-wide contest to see which nation can waste the most money wrung from its hard-pressed taxpayers.

When we read the speech the wish that somebody had been there to make a proper reply to the war lord's extravagance was spontaneous.

And it turns out that somebody WAS there, and that the Colonel was properly answered and rebuked.

Joseph Walker, a former speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives and one of the Bull Moose leaders of that state, was down on the program following Roosevelt for a set speech. When he had finished, he said that he could not close without stating his opposition to the Colonel's views on the armament question. And state them he did, succinctly and very sensibly, in the following words:

> I am convinced that I owe it to my country, to the Progressive party, to myself, to make my position clear on the subject of this morning's discussion, and to warn the Progressive party against the danger of militarism, which today is raising its horrid head so high among the nations of the earth. I for one, am a firm believer in the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means alone. I am in favor of general arbitration treaties, under which all justifiable disputes, even those involving national honor and vital interests, shall be submitted to arbitration. I am in favor of submitting to arbitration the question whether a particular dispute is justiciable or not. I stand unflinchingly for the reign of law among nations. The time has come to establish treaties limiting and lessening military armaments. The time has come for the United States to show her moral courage by firmly refusing to be drawn into a wasteful and wicked rivalry among nations in building up their military strength. The time has come for the United States to take her stand on the principle, enunciated by Lincoln, that right makes might. I, for one, am ready to act upon the belief that no nation will attack the United States or infringe her rights so long as she herself pursues a course based on right and justice.

All praise to Mr. Walker for his courage in giving the warlike Colonel the answer he deserved, and for the splendid sentiment he proclaimed—a sentiment that is spreading among the hearts of men who love their fellow men and wish them well, the world over.

It is good, too, to hear that Mr. Walker's words were applauded to the echo by those who had just listened to Roosevelt's flamboyant jingoism, and that the Colonel, though dumb, was obviously discomfited.

And no doubt David Lamar was keenly disappointed and greatly surprised when his attempt to reform Wall Street fizzled out.

CIGAR MAKERS MAKE THEIR ATTITUDE PLAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

With your kind permission we would like to make a correction, through your columns, to the article which appeared in the News Tribune of Saturday, July 12, in which they start out to say: "Saloonkeepers of Duluth will have to handle more local union-made cigars if they want the backing of the union cigarmakers of the city in their attempt to circulate a petition for a referendum vote on the new ordinance regulating the sale of liquor, etc." They also state that the cigarmakers' union held a meeting last (Friday) night and purported to say what was done.

Now, in the first place, we held no meeting Friday night. In the second place, we can truthfully state that if we had to depend upon the cigar dealers of this city for our livelihood, it would indeed be a scanty one, for it is a well-known fact that the cigar dealers of this city do not patronize home-made cigars, but buy almost exclusively (with a few exceptions) out of town cigars. If it were not for the patronage received from the saloonkeepers (the men so intensely despised by Mr. Hicken and his followers) there would not be, we venture to say, five cigarmakers employed in this city. The number now employed, thanks to the despised saloonkeeper, is about fifty. And if the people of Duluth and our patriotic (?) cigar dealers would patronize home industry, there could be employed at least 500 cigarmakers in this city. Enough said. So much for the News Tribune's authenticity. Sincerely yours,

CIGARMAKERS' LOCAL UNION NO. 294.

Duluth, July 13.

PEOPLE ARE BACK OF COMMISSIONERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a word in regard to this little water and light squabble. I worked very hard for the adoption of the commission form of government, knowing from a thorough investigation what it could do for a city, when the commissioners chosen by the people were of the right sort.

But I also know from the experience of other cities (notably in the case of Houston, Tex.) what a bunch of commissioners who persist in playing politics can do with a city.

Each commissioner must be the boss of his own department, must be responsible for its administration, for its success or failure, and he must be allowed a free hand in its conduct.

But the commissioner does not own his department. If he did own it, he would have a perfect right to fill every position with his friends and relatives, regardless of their fitness for the position, since the loss in efficiency would affect him and him alone.

The people own every department of this city. The commissioner may be, and is, the boss of his department, but the people are the boss of the commissioner. They hired him; they pay his salary, and they pay the salary of every man he hires. They expect and demand that he hire only the most competent men he can find, and that when he has a competent man that he keep him.

And further, the people will not stand for the granting of special favors to anybody, particularly when those special favors mean the loss of the people's money.

Get this straight, Mr. Editor. The commission form of government is going to be a success here in Duluth. The people are going to back up the commissioners in every good thing they do, and help the commissioners to make the new form of government a benefit to the whole city. But the people are going to fire any commissioner who attempts to use his department as a means of rewarding his friends or supporting his relatives with the same promptitude that that commissioner would fire any one of his employes that proved equally incompetent or showed a like insensibility to his duties to the people who hired him.

We expect the commissioners to make mistakes—plenty of them—and we are perfectly willing to pass over mistakes of the plain, or garden variety, but we don't intend to put up with any return to the old system of political rewards, and with incompetency and politics in city business.

The people are going to run this city. Our commissioners have thus far shown that they realize that fact, and this little slip-up in this particular department should be a warning. Such things must not occur again. The people won't stand for it. The people are the boss, and I am

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

ENFORCING THE HOUSING ORDINANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Recently the new building ordinance has attracted public interest more and more and is now a cause for a great deal of discussion everywhere. It is true that laws and regulations should be respected and obeyed, but no rule should be enforced in any absurd and unreasonable manner. It is claimed by many that our new building ordinance, in its present form, is very difficult in several respects to comply with. As this is evidently true, common sense should be used in its enforcement. When a law-abiding citizen intends to improve his property and he in good faith presents a plan and gets a permit issued he ought to be encouraged instead of being embarrassed and persecuted. It ought to be the inspector's duty to inspect the work while it is in progress and call attention to any infraction of the ordinance whether by carelessness or ignorance. If the building inspector visited places where work is in progress and pointed out mistakes and advised alterations a great part of inconvenience would be avoided.

In the case of Mr. Sundberg at Forty-sixth avenue west and Third street we have a clear example what a too strict enforcement of rules will cause. He is now under arrest for such a slight infraction of the ordinance that no reasonable man would mention it. According to Sundberg's statement his attention was not called to it, although the inspector visited the place several times. Only the last time he was there did he say to Sundberg that it ought to have been different and not even then did he advise any alteration, but went away and had a warrant issued for his arrest. It is entirely wrong to handle a man in such a manner, especially as he has deserved better treatment. It should be considered that when he a short while ago took charge of the place it was a regular pesthole, but by hard work and much expense he has altered it to a place that is a credit to himself as well as the neighborhood and can stand the inspection of any man of sense and reason. Respectfully,

VICTOR JOHNSON.

AN APPRECIATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Following is a copy of a resolution adopted by the Mindegave society:

Be it resolved by the Mindegave society, That we would express our heartiest appreciation and sincere thanks to the press of Duluth who gave kindly notices and valued space in their columns to the Fourth of July program; to Mrs. E. D. Field and the band of children whom she so faithfully and skilfully trained to represent in living colors "Our Flag"; to the Normanna Singing society, the Orpheus Singing society and the Svea Glee club, both as individuals and as societies; to the Third Regiment band, both as individuals and as a united band; to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic posts; to the Willis A. Gorman post fife, drum and bugle corps; to the owners of automobiles who came and joined in the parade or sent their cars for the use of others; to the merchants who at considerable expense and much trouble sent their machines, and to one and all who contributed to the success and enjoyment of the day.

THE MINDEGAVE SOCIETY.

Who's Afraid in the Dark.

"Afraid in the dark? Not I," said the owl,
And he gave a great scowl,
And he wiped his eye
And fluffed his jowl. "Too-whoo!"
Said the cat: "Mi-ew!
I'll scratch anyone who
Dares say that I do Feel afraid. Mi-ew!"
"Afraid," said the mouse,
"Of the dark in the house!
Hear me scatter.
Whatever's the matter.
Squeak!"

Then the toad in the hole
And the bug in the ground,
They both shook their heads
And passed the word round;
And the bird in the tree
And the fish and the bee,
They declared, all three,
That you never did see
One of them afraid
In the dark!
But the little boy who had gone to bed
Just raised the bedclothes and covered his head.

In Home Owners Is the Nation's Strength.

J. Pease Norton in the New York Independent: To secure a high degree of national stability, it is important that the class of home owners shall steadily increase, not only in actual numbers, but also in a relative percentage to the total population of a country. A tenant class has been and, perhaps, is an economic necessity, but the strength of a nation lies in the number of the freeholders. The economic meaning of this truism is plain in a rational analysis. The small family group, with a homestead free of debt, is able to stand readily—at least, more readily—the time of pressure when work is short or sickness comes, because the rent collector and the possibility of ejectment are eliminated. The struggle in times of economic stress, hard as it may be, is for food only, and not for food and rent. Sociological statistics plainly indicate that a train of evil consequences starts from the ejectment of a family, especially when the wage earner is temporarily out of work.

The Contrary Sex.

Kansas City Star: Mark Twain used to say that he always took woman's part.

"For instance," he related, "I once strongly reprimanded a woman out in Hannibal, Mo. Here was the occasion:

"'So this is a little girl, eh?' I said to her as she displayed her children to me. 'And this sturdy little urchin in the bib belongs, I suppose, to the contrary sex?'

"'Yassah,' the woman replied, 'yassah, that's a girl, too.'"

Getting the News

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Angus McSween is the big insurgent of the writing forces in Washington. As correspondent for the Philadelphia North American, McSween nearly every day in the week dashes off a first page story or two, in which he fills the standpatters as full of javelins as Arnold Winklereid. One would imagine from reading a McSween article that he goes around the capitol wearing swashbuckler clothes and some reactionary he can pounce upon and slay.

The fact is that McSween is one of the most mild-mannered as well as one of the most kindly disposed of men. When he first broke into the newspaper business, years ago, he was fortunate enough to get hold of an exclusive inside story about a sensational murder, and he was properly elated. The story would be a "beat" for his paper, and he would be a great pet around the office for a few days. As press time approached and it became certain that no other paper would have the story, McSween's enthusiasm over his little feat grew and grew. Then, at the last minute, he happened to think that one of his competitors was a man rather well along in years. It occurred to McSween that an exclusive story might do him less good than it would do his competitor harm. So he hunted up the other fellow and told him the yarn in the nick of time for him to get most of it in the paper. That's the kind of a chap McSween is. But one day—

We're getting now to the tale we started to tell in the first place. When McSween was working for one of the Washington papers, some years ago, there occurred in a little Virginia town some scandalous doings involving a preacher and a number of society women. The town was close enough to Washington to make it of interest there, and McSween was sent there to the scene to get the facts.

On the train he fell in with a member of the congregation, who may be known as Jones. This man Jones told McSween all about the affair from the point of view opposed to the preacher. When he got to the town McSween then saw the preacher and got his side. In that way, after eliminating contradictory statements, he felt that he was in a position to tell the whole truth without favor or prejudice.

Certain statements in the story, however—some of the things McSween had learned from the man on the train—were extremely displeasing to most of the women of the congregation. They did not say the statements were untrue, but were greatly incensed that McSween saw fit to publish them.

In the course of a week McSween again went to the little town to attend a church trial and get later developments in the case, and it was then that he learned of the displeasure felt toward him in certain quarters.

A chap named Smith, a prominent member of the church concerned, made the acquaintance of McSween that day, and late in the afternoon beckoned to him mysteriously.

"Just follow me," said Smith, "and you'll find out something."

So McSween followed.

Smith led the way toward the railroad station, and into the baggage room, which had no windows except up toward the ceiling, and was lined about the wall with trunks. As they entered the place Smith closed the door and locked it, leaving the key in the door. That seemed funny to McSween, but there was still more for him to be startled at, for when he looked about him he found more than a score of austere-looking women glaring at him.

One of these stepped forward, with menacing strides to act as spokeswoman. She unfolded a newspaper containing McSween's article and asked him if he wrote it. He said he had.

"There is one statement here," she went on, "that reflects on nearly every woman in our church. Now, we don't think you made it up, but we want to know who your informant was. Unless you tell us where you got your information, you'll—well, you'll have to take the consequences." At which stage of her remarks she went through business of producing a little whip that she had concealed about her clothes. And the other women began to pull out hatpins and make ready for conflict.

It was a trying moment for McSween, locked in a room and entirely surrounded by women. There he was, one lone man, except for Smith, who was with the opposition. He turned a hurt look at Smith, who had entrapped him. Smith grinned defiantly and McSween vowed that he would get even with the man some day or else die unhappy.

The women were impatient and drew closer as McSween tried to argue them into agreeing that it would not be right for him to disclose a confidential source of information. They really looked mighty threatening with their whips and hatpins. You may think it funny for a man to be scared of a bunch of women, but just put yourself in McSween's position briefly and see if you would not grow nervous.

"We don't intend to talk any more about it," said the spokeswoman—the one with the cute little whip; "you'll tell us where you got your information or take the consequences."

"I'll never tell," declared the brave McSween.

As she spoke, McSween heard a train coming in. It was the last train back to Washington that night, and as there were no hotels or boarding houses in the little town, he was keenly anxious to make that train. Life in the town overnight, he felt, might prove irksome. The train paused there only three minutes, and there was little time to spare. McSween looked at the women, then at Smith, and at the locked door. If he tried to rush for the door the whole crowd would be on him. Nearer came the train outside and he heard it slow up for the station. Verily, there was need of haste. Yet the train had been in the station a full minute before McSween thought of something.

"Ladies," said he, speaking rapidly, "I am going to surrender. I am going to tell you who my informant was. I—"

"Who was it?" chorused the women excitedly.

"Why, it was this fellow Smith!" shouted McSween, pointing at the dumbfounded Smith, who, of course, wasn't his informant at all.

Then the women surrounded Smith, hurling poisoned obloquy and vituperation—and he too started to talk back in his own defense.

"You!" they screamed.

They were so busy with Smith that they never noticed McSween unlocking the door and leaping aboard the train just a minute before it pulled out.

McSween never heard how Smith finally made out with the wimmen folk. For all he knows the poor wretch is jabbering explanations in a padded cell even to this day.

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Resembles La Follette.

Superior Telegram: The Duluth Herald first suggested the training of chickens to eat bugs instead of digging the seeds up and destroying vegetation, and now it calls for the training of cutworms to attack weeds instead of the tomato vines. It offers training suggestions like Senator La Follette offering amendments to the tariff bill.

A Happy Medium.

Red Wing Eagle: The bankers assembled in Duluth outlined the kind of currency and banking laws they want. Of course the bankers know better than anybody else what they want. But since there are also a lot of other people with wants along the same lines, it is to be presumed that the happy medium lies somewhere midways between what the bankers want, on the one hand, and what the rest of the business world wants, on the other. Very likely the currency and banking laws now under consideration in congress are along this midway line.

Pleasing Prospect.

Brainerd Tribune: The commissioners elected in Duluth last spring for a commission form of city government already announce that they must have more money to meet expenses, and that the commission will be compelled to levy the maximum tax possible under the charter for city purposes for 1914. Pleasing prospect for tax-payers, isn't it?

Magic Duluth.

Little Falls Transcript: It is said that $20,000,000 will be spent by the United States Steel corporation on its plant in Duluth. Oh, Duluth! That we might be your little suburb! How much is $20,000,000 anyhow?

Duluth Owns Its Plant.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: James Peterson of Minneapolis, in a vigorous attack on Governor Eberhart's proposed public utilities commission, refers to the astounding difference between the gas rates at the Head of the Lakes. He says: "Duluth and Superior are neighboring cities. One is in Minnesota, and the other in Wisconsin under the public utilities commission. They both get their gas supplies from the same source. Duluth pays 75 cents per 1,000-feet; Superior pays $1.40 for the same.

Joke Out of Place.

Albert Lea Tribune: Referring to the incident over at Austin at the Southern Minnesota Development League meeting, where Senator Stebbins referred to Northern Minnesotans as "windjammers," The Duluth Herald well says, "the Stebbins incident is a good thing to forget. So is Stebbins." That is the best way to look at it. It is explained that the remark was a joke. Possibly it was, but that only brings out all the more strongly the fact that that kind of a joke was entirely out of place on such an occasion.

Merited Recognition.

Virginia Enterprise: A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, has been appointed superintendent of the new agricultural district formed of St. Louis, Carlton, Crow Wing and Koochiching counties. Mr. Hostetter's selection for this important position is but a just recognition of the fine work he has done for the agricultural development of Northern Minnesota, ever since he has been connected with the Duluth Commercial club. He is thoroughly interested in development work in Northern Minnesota and his new place will give him enlarged opportunity and considerably increase his influence as an agricultural booster.

The Hardy Human

Harper's Weekly: Man may with more or less discomfort endure the climate of any part of the globe whereon he lives.

On the other hand, plants and animals cannot exist in temperatures far higher or lower than those to which they have become accustomed. But man moves from one extreme to the other with, generally speaking, but small physical discomfort. Explorers visit the sands of Africa and the ice fields of the North, returning to their normal environments with in some cases a distinct improvement in physical condition. Man inhabits pretty nearly every part of the earth, with the exception of the immediate vicinity of the poles.

Men of science contend that the lowest temperatures at the earth's surface are not found directly at the poles, but at some distance to the south of the North Pole and at some distance to the north of the South Pole. Then, too, it is claimed, the greatest degree of heat is not, as might naturally be supposed, to be encountered at the equator, but at some distance to the north and to the south of that line.

The records and statistics show that the coldest place on earth is in Siberia. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the open air was 90 deg. below zero (Fahrenheit) at Werchajansk, Central Siberia, on Jan. 15, 1885. The highest temperature is set down at 124 deg. above zero (Fahrenheit), registered in Algeria, Northern Africa, on July 17, 1897.

These records of extreme heat and extreme cold afford a range of temperature covering the whole inhabitable world of 214 degrees, or two deg. more than from zero to the boiling point. People who inhabit these places of extreme heat and cold are found to be exceptionally healthy and live to a ripe old age.

In our own country the extreme range of heat and cold is not so great but one may live in comparative comfort in any section; yet the same conditions apply to animal and plant life here as prevail throughout the world. Animals and plants that survive the winters of the South could not endure the winters of the North.

The greatest of the extremes of heat and cold in the United States are found in the Western states, from the Dakotas and Montana southward to Texas and Arizona. The temperature in the Northwest in the winter months frequently drops to 30 or 40 deg. below zero and occasionally runs below 60 deg., while the heat of summer in the Central West and Southwest touches 100 deg. or more. Regardless of such extremes, the climatic conditions throughout the entire Rocky Mountain range are delightful for ten months of the year.

The most equable temperature throughout the year in our country is found along the sea coast. Nearly two-thirds of the entire population dwell in sea coast cities.

Epicurites.

Life: Rector—All my assistant clergy seem fond of dining out.

Rector's Wife—Yes, Mrs. Church Pillar refers to them as epicurates.

Cowardly.

Life: Asking permission of a girl before you kiss her is cowardly. It is putting the responsibility up to her.

He has a contract as leader until Oct. 1 and proposes to stick.

The Poodle and the Pup.

We're getting on in years, old dog, and life is not the same as when you chased the rodent, and your master chased the dame; our blood now courses slowly and we're prone to doze and nod, but life holds compensations as we near the Mother Sod.

The gambols of the puppy meet the patience of your eyes, and I view his human prototype of hatband, socks and ties—that hallowed gift of tolerance, the blessing of the aged, prevents the bloody murder which the evil one has staged.

We meet the insolence of youth, and, smiling, pass it by, while slurs of "Grandpa," "Pop" and "Dad" with other insults vie, for we see our troubles waning with the sinking of our sun, while all the griefs of puppydom have only just begun.

C. W. FOOTE.

An Expensive Drop.

Lippincott's Magazine: Hiram Jones had just returned from a tour of Europe.

"I suppose," said a friend, "that when you were in England you did as the English do, and dropped your H's."

"No," moodily responded the returned traveler, "I didn't. I did as the Americans do. I dropped my V's and X's."

The Gladdest Way.

What's the way to school, you say?
A boy's way, do you mean?
It's out of the yard and far away
Where the grass is fresh and green.
It's up a tree and out on a limb,
And down with a leap and cry,
And that's the way to school for him,
When I see him passing by.

What's the way to school, you say?
It's after a butterfly
That darts by many a zigzag way,
And up on a limb so high,
Where he guards a nest with robin's eggs,
And hard by a woodchuck's lair,
It's many a mile for bare, brown legs
Here, there, and everywhere.

What's the way to school, you say?
It's a scurrying rabbit's trail;
It's past a field, where the lambs are at play,
And a seat on the topmost rail
Of the pasture fence, and a leap from that
To a wagon rumbling by;
It's down the wind for an old straw hat
With a whistle and call and cry.

What's the way to school, you say?
It's the way of unnumbered boys,
It's an endless romp on a cloudless day
In search of a hundred joys.
It's over a meadow and through the flowers,
It's a splash through the wayside pool;
It's the gladdest way in this world of ours,
And that's the way to school.

Fourteen Farmers' Clubs.
Returning from a trip that took him to the farming sections of Gheen, Greaney and Cook, Fred Ward, county agricultural agent, declares that farmers' clubs are going to do the most effective work for the agriculturists of St. Louis county. Already fourteen of these clubs are in existence in this county. Potatoes and other crops are a bit backward this year, Agent Ward reports, but adds that an average yield is looked for.

Woman Is Arrested.
On the information of Humane Agent McKercher, Myrtle Hannigan, 21, was arrested yesterday morning by Sergeant Roberg, charged with being an immoral woman. She pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was fined $10 and costs or thirty days in the county jail.

Herald Excursion.
The Herald excursion tomorrow afternoon, will leave at 4 o'clock on the steamer America from Booth's dock at the foot of Lake avenue. The steamer goes direct to Two Harbors, returning slowly along the north shore by moonlight at 9 p. m. Lunch baskets may be taken or supper can be secured at Two Harbors.

Obstructed Street.
For obstructing a street near Lester Park with his popcorn wagon, Peter Chomes was arrested yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Setterquist. Chomes pleaded guilty in police court this morning and he was fined $5 and costs or five days. He paid the fine.

Poor Commissioner Arrested.
Charles J. Shogran, poor commissioner, was arrested this morning on the complaint of his wife, Amanda Shogran, who claims that he struck her on July 12. Shogran pleaded not guilty and his case was set for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mr. Shogran claims he is entirely innocent and will be able to show his wife is not responsible for her actions.

Backed Car Over Bank.
In attempting to turn his automobile from Woodland avenue into Eighth street to go up the boulevard drive, George A. Gray yesterday afternoon backed the machine over a 20-foot embankment, slightly damaging the car. It required three hours to pull the automobile back on the road. Mr. Gray, who was driving the car, was uninjured.

Change Their Plea.
George McLain and Gust Schroeder pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct in police court this morning, although they pleaded not guilty when arraigned last Saturday afternoon. They were found fighting by Officer Youngstrom. Schroeder claiming that McLain had attempted to pick his pockets. Sentence was suspended in each case.

Father Sues Son.
Father and son are at loggerheads in a lawsuit which came to trial this morning in Judge Dancer's room, district court. Christopher Amundson, father, is suing Alexander R. Amundson, son, on a promissory note for $4,500 given plaintiff by defendant in 1909. They were formerly in business together.

Charged With Vagrancy.
Recently released from the county jail after serving a sentence of thirty days, George Rollins was arrested again yesterday on a vagrancy charge by Detective Bradley and Patrolman O. Johnson. Rollins pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and his case was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Will Sentence Three.
Morris Korotkin, alias Morris Sorkin, charged with bigamy; Mrs. Dudio Trudeau, charged with forgery, and John Burke, charged with indecent assault, will face the district court for sentence this afternoon. Korotkin has already entered a plea of guilty and the other two prisoners have filed application for permission to enter similar pleas.

HEAVY SALE OF FARM TRACTS

Alliance Real Estate Company Swamped By Unexpected Crowd.

One of the biggest sales of sub-division properties ever consummated during one day was held yesterday at the Exeter farm tract which is being featured by the Alliance Real Estate company. The heavy advertising campaign of the opportunities at Exeter resulted in a land office business all day Sunday. In fact, it is estimated that 500 people had to be turned away.

"We had made preparations to take care of about 200 people," said George E. Lynott, sales manager, this morning. "And we found our hands full. We entertained about 250 people during the afternoon, and it is safe to say that at least 400 or 500 were turned away.

"Next Sunday, we will provide enough tallyhos and automobiles to take care of the crowds, no matter how large. Those desiring to make appointments during the wee kmay be nicely accommodated and will be shown over the property."

The Alliance company has a tract of 625 acres at Exeter farms, admirably fitted for truck gardening and home-crofting and within easy access of the city. It adjoins the city limits. About one-fourth of the acre tracts have already been disposed of.

NO CHANGE IN COAL PRICES

Pennsylvania Tax Has Not Yet Affected Local Market.

The price of coal, the kind used by the great army of general consumers, is exactly the same as it was last year, despite the threat following the action of the Pennsylvania legislature imposing a 2 per cent tax on all coal shipments outside the state. If the boost in prices is coming, the Duluth managers of the various big companies mining in Pennsylvania's great anthractie region don't know anything about it.

Right now egg and stove coal, which is burned in most households, is selling for $7.80 a ton, while nut coal remains a quarter higher. The price will gradually increase to Sept. 1, when egg and stove will bring $8 flat and nut $8.25. This scheme of the sliding scale has been in effect for the past five years.

Mrs. Tapson Dies.

Mrs. Mary Tapson, 47 years old, wife of Henry Tapson, 2110 West Fourth street, died yesterday morning after an illness of several months from stomach trouble. She leaves besides her husband, two sons, Leo and Bryan Allen. She is also survived by six brothers and three sisters. They are John and Ray O'Neil of Marquette, Mich., Ed Thomas and Owen O'Neil of Butte, Mont., and James O'Neil, and Miss Nora O'Neil of San Francisco, Mrs. Silas Robinson of Marquette, and Mrs. James Bishop of this city.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Interment will be made in Park Hill cemetery. Rev. B. V. Black will officiate.

DULUTH PHOTOGRAPHER ON CONVENTION PROGRAM

J. R. Zweifel, the well-known Duluth photographer, will leave Thursday for Kansas City to attend the annual convention of the National Photographers' association, and has already shipped the paraphernalia he will use in his demonstrations there. Mr. Zweifel, who has a national reputation in his profession, will have charge of the demonstration work of printing, in which the photographers of the country consider him an adept. The convention of this year, Mr. Zweifel says, will be much different from former years. Heretofore much of the program has been given to lecturing and less to actual demonstration. This year it has been planned to pay more attention to demonstrations than the other branch, it being believed that it wil prove to be of greater benefit to those attending.

Mrs. Zweifel and the children will go as far as Milwaukee to visit relatives there.

WOMAN FALLS OUT OF HOTEL WINDOW.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Joseph Mason, aged 28, of Milwaukee, Wis., is in a local hospital in a critical condition as the result of a fall from a first story window of a local hotel early today. According to her husband, who was with her, Mrs. Mason has been acting strangely for some time.

FEDERAL COURT DEFERS SENTENCE

Judgment Will Be Passed on Law Violators Tuesday.

Judge Page Morris in Federal court this afternoon deferred sentences in the cases of Mrs. Magda J. F. Hanson and Andrew Smith to 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, stating that he preferred to further investigate each case.

Mrs. Hanson was arrested last fall by the government postal authorities for misusing the mails. She pleaded not guilty at the time, but when brought up for sentence last week changed her plea to guilty. Mrs. Hanson is a midwife here and was arrested at the time the postal authorities made a wholesale arrest of alleged postal violators throughout the country.

Andrew Smith pleaded guilty last week to the charge of having perjured in a bankruptcy case. He will also be sentenced tomorrow.

At the opening of court this afternoon Judge Morris charged the jury in the case against Lou Wilson and John Gagne, who are charged with having brought into this country an alien woman refused admittance by the immigration officials at International Falls.

BLACK RUST STORY IS CALLED CANARD

Reports of Crop Blight in Cass County, N. D., Denied.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are unconfirmed rumors of black rust in wheat fields in some parts of Cass county, following the recent frequent rains. The rumors have been denied over the telephones from the localities which are alleged to have found black rust.

THE CAUSE OF WOMEN'S FATIGUE.

New York Herald: We might say that motion study is a developed analysis of our old foe, "steptaking." Wasted steps are the chief cause of the fatigue of the housewife. Besides the chief remedy of better arrangement, we have stepsavers like the kitchen cabinet, the dish cart, revolving "Lazy Susan" trays for the dining room table and other devices.

Chief among our list of labor savers is a washing machine, which, after an extensive national investigation, was classed 80 per cent high as a labor saver. The vacuum or suction sweeper, mangles, meat choppers, bread mixers, silver cleaning pan and many others have done much to abolish the drudgery of housework.

Fuel seems to be the largest item of expense in running the kitchen. Any device, then, which will save fuel should be considered seriously by the economical housewife. The fireless cooker, the three-decked steamer or cooker, teakettles with "insets" so that food may be cooked while the teakettle is used to heat water, lead our list of fuel savers. Others are the covered sad irons, the small hooded covers or ovens for one hole of a gas or gasoline stove and the small portable oven which saves using a larger oven.

"THANK-YE-MA'AMS."

Indianapolis News: "Thank-ye-ma-ams" otherwise known as waterbreaks, consisting of ridges of earth built across roads on steep grades, are to be abolished in Pennsylvania as a part of its road improvement measure. These waterbreaks were once a familiar institution throughout New England and other parts of the country, and are still surviving in many places.

TOM BROWN DEAD.

Indianapolis News: If schools boys of the present generation care anything like as much for Tom Brown as their forebears did, they will be grieved to know that the original Tom, at least as far as the fight with Slogger Williams went, recently died in England at the age of eighty-eight. Doubtless the original slogger (not slugger, as the dispatches have it) went to his reward long ago.

WORKING THEIR WAY TO EUROPE

Working a passage on a lake boat from Duluth to Ashtabula did not discourage W. E. Lauterbach, office secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and M. Dietrich, a friend from Iowa, from continuing on their four months' "tramp" around the world.

The pair started from Duluth about a week ago, and word which has reached Duluth friends is that they are well satisfied with their trip so far. They expect to work their way across the Atlantic on a cattle boat.

WILL TEACH TRADES TO MEN IN THE NAVY

Chicago, July 14.—Details of a plan for the vocational education of enlisted men in the navy were given by Secretary of the Navy Daniels here Sunday. Mr. Daniels stopped in Chicago on his way to the Pacific coast, where he will inspect naval stations and fortifications. The secretary said that recent exchanges with Japan had nothing to do with his trip, which, he said, was a formal tour of inspection to acquaint himself with the coast defenses.

"It is planned to give enlisted men in the navy the benefit of three hours a day regular schooling in a course that is along lines of the curriculum of the naval academy at Annapolis," he said. "It is the purpose so to train the men as to fit them for responsible positions in civil life when their terms of enlistment expire."

Drafting, electrical engineering, naval architecture, civil engineering and allied studies were mentioned by the secretary as among twenty trades for which the men might receive entire or partial preparation.

"A DREAM OF MANY LANDS"

HUNTERS PARK, July 16th, 8 P.M.

ADMISSION 50c.

PLAN TO BEAUTIFY PANAMA CANAL.

Washington, July 14.—The report of the fine arts committee which is charged with the preparation of plans for the beautification of the Panama canal, has been completed and probably will be transmitted to congress through President Wilson, Aug. 1.

The plans embody landscape effects to make artistic the approaches to the canal as well as the locks and country through which the great waterway has been cut. The preliminary report was drafted by D. F. Daniels, chairman of the commission, and Frederick Law Olmstead, who went to the canal zone as a special committee. Their recommendations were afterwards considered by the entire commission and embodied in the report.

The easy Resinol way to get rid of pimples

PIMPLES and blackheads disappear, unsightly complexions become clean, clear, and velvety, and hair health and beauty are promoted by the regular use of Resinol Soap and an occasional application of Resinol Ointment. These soothing, healing preparations do their work easily, quickly and at little cost, when even the most expensive cosmetics and complicated "beauty treatments" fail.

For 18 years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for eczema, ringworm, rashes and other skin eruptions, dandruff, burns, sores, etc. Stops itching instantly. Resinol Ointment (50c and $1) and Resinol Soap (25c) are sold by all druggists. For sample of each, write to Dept. 31-S, Resinol Baltimore, Md.

Garden Economy.

Many gardens look beautiful just now, but later in the season evidences of wastefulness are too evident. Head lettuce runs to seed if not used when at the proper stage of development. Care should be used in cutting to prevent this waste, and only enough to supply the needs of the family planted at one time. Now is a good time to put in a planting for the fall supply. Spinach is another vegetable which should be used when at the proper stage. If the family cannot use it all, the surplus should be canned for winter use. When canned and properly sterilized your winter supply will be as delicious as that used now. This is not only true, but we all need such greens as spinach during the winter months. There is still time to grow spinach for fall use and for canning. Put in some more where you have taken out your early vegetables.

A little fine manure should be hoed in around each of your cabbage and cauliflower plants, and the more frequently you hoe them the better results you will have.

In many instances currant and gooseberry branches are borne to the ground by the weight of the fruit. In order that the fruit may not rot or mildew, the branches should be raised by means of a rail on either side of the row. Drive in posts so that they stand about two feet high and nail the rail to the top of these posts in such a manner that the branches will be supported but not too badly crowded. This will not only save the fruit, but it will make it much easier to pick.

If you cannot use all of your green peas while they are still tender, can the surplus. Here is a recipe for the canning of most green vegetables. Thoroughly sterilize all cans and covers by carefully dipping or rolling them in water at the boiling point; pack each jar full of the fresh vegetable—with spinach and beet greens, it is well to wilt with boiling water so as to get in more. When the jars are full of the green vegetables add cold water until it comes to the neck of the jar and put on the cover without the rubber. Now take your wash boiler and fit it with a false bottom made of wooden slats cleated together. Set your jars on this rest in water coming at least half way up on the jar. Set the boiler over the fire with the cover on to hold in the steam, and allow the vegetables to cook until tender. Remove the jars one at a time by means of a towel; remove the cover, put on the rubber, fill with boiling water until it runs over, and seal. After the jars are all sealed return them to the boiler and hold at the boiling point for one hour and fifteen minutes. I have used this method for five years without breaking a jar or having any spoil. It means a supply of fresh vegetables for your table from your own garden during the winter months. I use both Mason and Easy Seal jars with equal success. The covers of the Mason jars will bulge in the sterilization process; but, if your jar is tight the bulge will come down leaving the cover slightly dished. In case it fails to do so, the can leaks and will not keep. The Easy Seal are somewhat easier to handle but no better for keeping product.

If you cannot use all of the beet trimmings now, they will can and keep just as well as the spinach. All of these things add to the variety in winter and they make the garden pay a double dividend.

Fruit when canned should be cooked only 20 to 25 minutes. It is not necessary to double sterilize fruit—the natural acids help to keep it, and the less it is cooked after being thoroughly done the better the flavor.

THIRTY-FOUR LIVES SACRIFICED TO SUNDAY CRIMES OR MISHAPS

Twelve Killed in Collision.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Twelve persons were killed and about thirty were injured last night when a Pacific electric interurban train ran into another one at Vineyard Station, a junction on the outskirts of Los Angeles.

First rports from the wreck were conflicting. As nearly as could be learned both trains were in-bound from Venice, an ocean beach town, sixteen miles from Los Angeles. They were crowded with homeward-bound residents of Los Angeles who had spent the day at the beaches and it is reported that many of the injured were severely hurt from being thrown against car seats.

A relief train has gone to Vineyard Station.

Railway officials said that, with trains running on a 3-minute schedule, one train, after stopping at Vineyard Station, began to back up, and ran into the train next behind, which was reported to be standing still. The two colliding cars were telescoped, with frightful results.

A relief train brought twenty-five wounded to Los Angeles.

Eight men Drowned.

Boston, Mass., July 14.—Grafton Morgan, first officer of the White Star Line steamship Cymric, and Capt. Arthur G. Ayres, superintendent of the Sailors' Haven at Charleston, with six men employed as freight handlers by the Boston & Maine railroad, were drowned in the outer harbor late Sunday afternoon when the sloop Alberta capsized. Six others of the party on the Alberta were rescued.

The yacht had been lying at anchor for a time when the party decided to head for the open sea. They had hoisted sail, when a sudden squall overturned the boat.

Train Hits Trolley Car.

Cambridge, Ohio, July 14.—Four persons were killed and a score of others hurt Sunday when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train, the Wheeling-Chicago express, westbound, crashed into a Cambridge & Byesville interurban street car at a crossing in East Cambridge. The street car was demolished. The dead:

FREDERICK RAINEY of Cambridge, Ohio.

DOLA FAIRCHILD, Cambridge, Ohio.

WILLIAM CARTER of Middletown, Ohio.

EDWARD McNEELY of Columbus, Ohio.

The accident occurred during a terrific rain storm. The conductor of the street car had gone to the crossing and signaled the car to come ahead. He is said to have seen the headlight of the on-rushing train, but believed it was a flash of lightning.

The impact came just as the street car reached the middle of the crossing, and none of the people on the traction car had a chance to escape.

Three Men Dead.

Jackson, Mich., July 14.—One man was killed and a dozen persons were injured, two fatally, in wrecks on the Michigan Central railroad near here Sunday. Engineer J. Martin of Detroit was buried beneath his engine and crushed to death when a train of empty baggage cars, running from Chicago to Buffalo, left the rails. His fireman, Clayton F. Cole, was terribly scalded and died after being taken to a hospital.

A few hours later two passenger trains on the Grand Rapids division collided head-on on the Grand river bridge, a few miles north of Jackson. W. J. Field, fireman, of Jackson, was terribly crushed and died a few hours later. The engineer was seriously hurt and several passengers were bruised. The tender and a baggage car went into the river and two coaches were wrecked.

Motor Truck Kills Woman.

Akron, Ohio, July 14.—Running at a speed which police say exceeded thirty miles an hour, John Evans, driving a motor truck, struck and instantly killed Mrs. Beryl Moore here Sunday. The big truck then ran across the sidewalk and up a steep bank and overturned, pinning Evans and Albert Mobley, who was riding with him, underneath. Evans probably sustained fatal injuries.

Two Hand Men Killed.

Detroit, Mich., July 14.—Struck by an interurban car a few miles west of Detroit Sunday night, two men were instantly killed and a third was so badly injured that he probably will die. The men were members of a band returning from a picnic. Alfred Dix, leader of the band, was one of those killed, but the others have not ben identified. They were walking in the road, and to avoid an automobile stepped upon the tracks directly in front of the speeding car.

Shoots Daughter and Kills Himself.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 14. — John Push, aged 60, a farmer of North Jackson, shot and perhaps fatally wounded his daughter, Alma, aged 19, Sunday afternoon and then shot himself through the heart. Mrs. Push and one of her daughters had gone to a neighbor's house after a family quarrel, leaving Alma and her father and the smaller children at home. Shortly afterward neighbors heard shots and found Alma with two bullet wounds in her back. She declared her father had shot her, but he was not at home. Coming back to the house after the doctor and sheriff had been summoned, Push shot and killed himself.

Farmer Murdered for $1.50.

Salina, Kan., July 14.—Samuel Johnson, 60 years old, shot and killed Henry Parohl because he alleged Parohl owed one of Johnson's sons $1.50 for work on the Parohl farm. Johnson then went to his home and cut his throat. He will die. The men were prominent farmers.

East Toledo Has $120,000 Fire.

Toledo, Ohio, July 14.—Fire Sunday destroyed a condiment plant owned by John W. Parbauer at East Toledo, causing a loss estimated at $120,000. The fire, said to have been started by sparks from a locomotive, spread to a granary, destroying it.

Man Hurt in Explosion.

Springfield, Ill., July 14.—Fire, which early Sunday threatened the destruction of Tallula, Ill., caused a loss of $25,000. Three buildings were destroyed and two others were damaged. Louis Van Fleet, who was burned in the explosion, is in a serious condition.

GOPHER TAKES SHORT CRUISE

Naval Militia Holds Target Practice at Bark Bay.

The U. S. S. Gopher, manned by sixty reserves of the First and Second divisions and forty reserves from Pine City, returned last evening from a practice cruise to Bark bay, preliminary to the annual maneuvers of the naval reserve fleet on the Great Lakes.

The men engaged in various drills, target shooting with the 1 and 3-pound rapid-fire guns and small boat practice. Commander Guy A. Eaton expressed himself as highly pleased with the efficiency displayed.

The Gopher weighed anchor at midnight Saturday, putting out in the face of a heavy sea and fog. No accidents or discomfort were experienced, however.

The new Marconi wireless system with which the boat has been recently equipped was given a thorough tryout yesterday. The wireless was found to be effective for a radius of 400 miles.

Lepine in Parliament.

Paris, July 14.—M. Lepine, ex-prefect of Paris, who recently retired from that office, has been elected Republican deputy for Montbrison.

RAIN AGAIN SPOILS SHOW

Only Small Part of Third Lark o' the Lake Program Given.

Industrial Parade Gets in Between Showers—Big Crowd Out.

The rain that has been marking the Lark o' the Lake events since their beginning, let up long enough on Saturday night to permit the parade to take place, and in spite of the further threats of more rain, a large crowd gathered to see the affair. That courageous crowd was well rewarded, for one of the best industrial parades ever seen in Duluth was given.

Over seventy vehicles took part, the decorations were most attractive and the display of manufactured goods of Duluth and of goods handled with Duluth as a center, was worth looking at and rather an eye-opener. At that, the threats of more rain kept many merchants and others from entering their floats in the parade. More than 150 floats had been promised, but the rain ruined the decorations on many of them.

One of the cleverest and most attractive things in the parade was the "Lute o' the Lake," but out by the Clyde Iron works. A boiler with full steam up and perched on a heavy truck, furnished the necessary steam for a home-made calliope. The musician who manipulated the keys or levers that operated the sounding pipes as on a regular circus calliope, was harmoniously terrible, but noisily wonderful. His attempts at music purposely shattered ethics and records tore the humid air to shreds and either made people cover their ears or dance with primaeval joy.

The fire department had almost its entire equipment out, under the watchful eye of Chief Randall, and made a splendid showing. There was also a platoon of police.

Many of the trucks bore remarkably fine displays, notably that of the Kelly Furniture company, the Duluth Universal Milling company, the Glass Block store, the three Silberstein & Bondy wagons, F. A. Patrick company, George A. Hormel company, Fitzsimmons-Palmer company, Duluth Paper & Stationery company, Fitger Brewing company, Duluth Brewing & Malting company, Duluth Van & Storage company, Kelley Hardware company, Freimuth's department store, Toben's meat market and the Clyde Iron works. Just as soon as the parade was over, the rain began again and put an end to the other stunts planned.

The fireworks display was postponed until the first clear night after tonight, and the bad weather caused a postponement of the aerial flights and other sports planed for Saturday evening. The afternoon program of races took place with the following results:

Division A, 28-foot sloops—Feather, Frank Lynam, first; North Wind, John Lynam, second; Zephyr, Roy McRae, third.

Division B—Merry Widow, Harry Trux, first; Agwinde, Walker Jamar, second.

Inland Lake Yachting association race, class B—Dixie, Duncan Frick, first; Allegro, C. O. Brewer, second; Spring Maid, Oscar Branstad, third. Class C—No starters.

Eighteen-foot catboats—Sylph, Jack Shenhan, first; O At Ka, Culkins and Manaji, Baker, did not finish.

Motorboat race—Little Bob, William Neville, first; Du Plais, Du Plais, second.

Ladies' war canoes—Reds, Capt. Kathryn Chamberlain, first.

Four-oared shell race — Won by Juniors, Capt. Phillip Moore.

Eight-oared shell race — Won by Seniors.

NO CHANGES IN LOCAL OFFICERS

No changes of the old appointees of the state labor bureau of this section of the state have been made following the civil service examinations recently held at St. Paul. The appointments for this district have been made from among the three highest. They are: Martin Cole, deputy labor commissioner; Andrew Herngren, factory inspector; Victoria Ericson, factory inspector; John Burke, manager state free employment bureau; Mrs. Agnes L. Atwood, assistant manager state free employment bureau.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING HUSBAND

Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, 50 years old, was arrested and held without bail Sunday, charged with having murdered her husband, J. B. Crawford, an Atlanta capitalist, four years ago. It is charged that Crawford died as result of poisoning. The warrant was sworn out by Charles Z. Crawford, following the issuance of a warrant Friday by the coroner of Carroll county after a coroner's jury had examined the exhumed body of Crawford.

Charles Z. Crawford is the principal litigant in a civil suit in which heirs-at-law of J. B. Crawford are seeking to set aside the will of the dead man, disposing of a $25,000 estate.

PEONY GARDEN IS ONE OF RARE BEAUTY

J. C. Congdon's peony garden, with its color scheme of orange, yellow and white and an occasional touch of the rare Japanese iris, is one of the city's beauty spots.

Mr. Congdon, a professional landscape gardener, has a lot 150 feet long and 100 feet wide devoted to a wilderness of peonies, about 2,000 in number.

The work was undertaken, he says, with the idea of civic betterment as much as to gratify his own personal desire for a large plot of flowers.

Reporters' Druggist Dead.

New York, July 14.—Charles J. Perry, a Park Row pharmacist well known to most newspaper men who have worked in or visited New York for many years, died Sunday after a short illness. He came to New York when a lad and worked himself up from an errand boy. All his business activities were confined to the newspaper publishing section of New York. Perry was a member of various clubs, including the Lotus and Press.

Wash Day Made Play Day

With an Electric Washing Machine, your entire week's washing can be finished—clothes thoroughly washed, wrung out on the line—in less time almost than it takes to "get ready" for the old-fashioned washboard and tub way. No need to spend the entire morning overseeing your laundress—in just an hour or two, at the most, your maid-of-all work can finish a big week's washing with an Electric. The cost will not exceed 10c a week

Let our representative call on you and explain how easy and at a small expense you can make the wash day easy.

Question

Henricksen Jewelry & Art Store, 332 West Superior Street, Duluth, Minn.

Dear Sirs:

Have you such a thing as a really reliable clock for a sitting-room—something that can be depended upon to tell the correct time? We now have three clocks, but no two of them ever alike, it seems to me. I'll go as high as $25.00 to get what I want. The room is finished in mahogany. Your truly,

Answer

Dear Sir:

The world is pretty nearly full of people who can sympathize with you. The homes in which the clocks are a unit on the time question are few and far between, and yet if there is anything, excepting a good baby, that makes for happiness in a home more than a good clock, we have failed to hear of it.

In many homes it is just about as much trouble to figure out the correct time as it is for the ship's officers to make their reckoning in mid ocean at the noon hour every day. The kind of clock you need, and which we can supply you, is this—"What time is it"—"8:16." "Sure?" "Yes, the clock says so" — that's final, "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

We send you herewith some illustrations of just such clocks in mahogany cases. The prices range from $10.00 to $175.00. As you will observe, some of them strike the hours only, whilst others strike the quarter and half-hour. Should you at any time wish them not to strike at all, just refrain from winding up the left side, which controls the strike.

Yours very truly,

Henricksen

PETITION BY WATER USERS

Urge Secretary of Interior Lane to Extend Time for Payments.

Patrons of Williston, N. D., Project Ask Government to Be Lenient.

Williston, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Secretary of the Interior Lane has been petitioned by the water users on the local irrigation project for an extension of time for the payment of arrearages for the use of the water. He has been wired and requested to stop here when en route west this summer, so a conference can be held.

Last month he ordered that all arrearages must be paid by July 21 or the water would be turned off. The water users protest against this on the ground of two bad years and the fact that much of the alfalfa had been winter killed. They want more time. They also contend that this is the worst season of the year in which to raise money, and that further if the water was turned off now the alfalfa fields would be irreparably damaged.

Want Semi-Annual Payments.

They request the annual fees be fixed so they can be paid 60 per cent in December and 40 per cent in May, and that the arrearages be spread over a ten-year period with 5 per cent payable in each May and December and optional for one payment on the part of those who might wish to do so.

It is insisted that some of the water users would be ruined if compelled to abandon their irrigated farms at this time.

AGED TIPPERARY MAN IS CALLED

John O'Brien, Formerly of Faribault, Dies at Donnybrook, N. D.

Donnybrook, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John O'Brien, the oldest resident of this district, died from falling from a chair as he was about to get into bed.

Mr. O'Brien was four months less than a century old, having been born in County Tipperary, Ireland, in 1813. He was a resident of Faribault, Minn., from 1855 till eleven years ago, when he came here, taking up a new homestead at the age of 88 years. He probably was the oldest homesteader the state has ever had. Six of ten children are still living, while his wife died twelve years ago.

To Arraign Horse Thief.

Williston, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Kid" Tailor, the notorious horse rustler, will be arraigned at Plentywood, Mont., tomorrow charged with stealing horses from I. N. Matthews. Williston officials are at Plentywood to watch the outcome of the hearing, and should the Montana authorities produce insufficient evidence to hold him, they will arrest him on charges growing out of alleged rustling in Williams county.

GOOD RYE CROP.

Harvesting Is Now Under Way in Morrison County.

Little Falls, Minn., July 14.—Rye harvest has started. It was reported in the spring that rye would be a poor crop because of the lack of snow to protect it in the winter, but the prophecies were not fulfilled and the rye crop is good. Peter Gregerson of Swan River stated that his rye was five and a half feet high and as thick as it could stand.

As a general thing the wheat crop is good, although a few isolated cases are reported where the stand is not good. The first crop of clover was not very heavy in Morrison county, but the prospects are that the second crop will be heavy. Corn has come on fast in the last few weeks.

POOR LAW DEFECTS.

New North Dakota Act Expected to Cause Much Confusion.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will have to be some manipulation of the new poor law to prevent the abolition of the county poor farms and hospitals. Under the old law the supervision of the poor was with the county officials. Under the new it is with the city, village and township officials, they each to pay 25 per cent of the cost of the care of the indigent and the county the balance. Under such an arrangement, there would be no place for a county poor farm.

There is a clause in the new law which says that in case the officials of the cities, villages and townships do not act the county must care for the poor and assess 25 per cent of the cost against the locality from which the patient came. It is proposed in Cass county to have the minor officials ignore the law and permit the care of the poor to continue as formerly. The only possibility of a failure would be that the local officials might not consent to the evasion of the provision of the new law. It is probable other counties will adopt the plan if it works well in Cass county.

CHILD STILL MISSING.

Perham Man Unable to Find Little One With Band of Gypsies.

Perham, Minn., July 14.—Charles Weigelt has returned after a fruitless search among gypsy bands for a child supposed to be his son, who was lost in Corliss towns this spring. Reports were received from Wadena that a gypsy band going through that place had a child in its possession which answered the description of the lost Weigelt boy.

Mr. Weigelt set out at once to trace down the band and was gone for several days. Following clews, he located a band at Eagle Lake, near Willmar, but the boy they had with them was not his son and did not answer the description in any way. Another band was reported in that vicinity, but search for the gypsies failed to locate them, although the country was pretty well scoured. Mr. Weigelt returned home after his effort to discover the whereabouts of the other band proved without result.

IS KILLED BY TRAIN.

Mill City Man Either Falls or Is Pushed From Car.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Ray McInerney, aged 21 years, son of Alderman Maurice P. McInerney of this city, either fell or was pushed from a freight train on the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad near Norwood, Sunday and was instantly killed. He was employed as a bookkeeper in his father's plumbing establishment here and his presence aboard the train is a mystery.

TAKE ESCAPED CONVICT.

Mill City Officers, on Pleasure Bent, Capture Former Jail Bird.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Chief of Police Martinson and Deputy Otto Wirtensopen, while on a pleasure drive in the country Sunday unexpectedly captured John Doesch, an escaped convict from the state prison at Stillwater.

Doesch was convicted of white slavery, and sentenced to the penitentiary from the district court here two years ago. For some time he had been a "trusty" at the prison, and three months ago, while employed as a cook for the family of Warden Henry Wolfert, made his escape.

Doesch was returned to Stillwater today.

OPIUM DENS RAIDED.

Eight Fargo Joints "Pulled," Twelve Patrons Being Captured.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—Twelve persons were arrested when eight alleged opium dens were raided last night by Federal officers. Several of those arrested were under the influence of the drug. Postoffice officials say opium is being received in the city through the mails. Other arrests may follow.

FLAX STRAW BURNS.

Plant of St. Paul Concern Heavily Damaged By Fire.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—A spectacular fire of unknown origin last night caused damage estimated at more than $60,000 at the plant of the Northern Insulation company in the midway district. Thousands of bales of flax straw, piled sixty-five feet high and covering an acre of ground, were destroyed by the fire which burned fiercely for six hours.

The firemen had difficulty in keeping the flames from nearby factory buildings. One fireman was overcome by smoke.

STREET CAR KILLS ST. PAUL PAINTER.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—Gottfried Soderberg, a painter, was struck by a street car here last night, and received injuries that resulted in death. It is said he became confused when crossing the track.

ORPHANED CHILDREN SENT TO VIRGINIA.

Lisbon, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—With their mother dying about a year ago and their father recently killed in an accident, the six children of Ender Enderson have been sent to the home of their grandfather in Virginia. They were left penniless by the double tragedy in their family. Their grandfather was unable to pay their fare but wrote he would take them if they could reach that point and local officials took the matter up.

BISMARCK MAY LOSE ITS WEATHER BUREAU.

Mandan, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bismarck captured the military post from Mandan some years ago and now Mandan may retaliate by taking the weather bureau. Director Chilcot of the agricultural department was recently here inspecting the progress on the buildings for the Northern Great Plains station. He announced that among other things a complete weather bureau service would be established. As Bismarck is only five miles from here it is unlikely two stations will be maintained and the Bismarck office may be closed when this one becomes operative.

LIGHTNING KILLS HOGS.

Hillsboro, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over one-third of the 100 young hogs that were sleeping under a canvas cover on the farm of Albert Vang, near here, were killed when lightning struck a tree to which the cover was attached.

Carrington Special Election.

Carrington, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special bond election will be held here to provide funds for bringing water from the springs three miles distant. There seems to be little or no opposition to the bond issue as the paramount necessity of promptly securing a water supply is generally recognized.

Wed on Lake Michigan.

Muskegon, Mich., July 14.—Cecil Heaps' new motor yacht, the Eileen, was the scene of a wedding when Miss Jennie E. Halvorsen of Chicago became the bride of Richard Ward Hillman of New York.

Drowns Swimming Lake.

Remer, Minn., July 14.—Roy Letourneau, an engineer employed by the Pine Tree Manufacturing company was drowned Thursday, while trying to swim across Knight's lake on a dare. He was 25.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Mandan, N. D.—While watching his brother-in-law remove cartridges from a revolver, George D. Saunders was shot in the chest and shoulder by the accidental discharge of the weapon. He will recover.

Sheldon, N. D.—Great progress is being made on the construction of the Owego-Sheldon telephone line. It was first planned to make it a one-wire affair, but that was found insufficient. The poles have all been erected and the wires are now being strung. In two weeks the line will be in operation.

Walhalla, N. D.—Charged with a statutory offense against a woman of this place, a half-breed named Richotte was arrested and held for trial at the next term of the district court.

New Rockford, N. D.—After being arrested on a charge of embezzlement while employed in a local tailor shop, Richard Wallis is said to have confessed.

New Rockford, N. D.—The sheriff captured Ernest Adams with 100 pints of liquor in his possession. He will be tried for bootlegging.

Ryder, N. D.—Another summer resort for North Dakota will be created at Rice lake, near here, an organization having been created for that purpose. A 500-acre tract of wooded land has been purchased by the corporation. The lake is one of the largest in the western part of the state.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A committee of the city council will visit the Fergus Falls, Minn., municipal abattoir within a few days to gain information which will be used in making decision on the question of whether or not the plan is feasible for Grand Forks. The council has practically decided to call an election for the purpose of voting bonds to construct the municipal slaughter house.

Wahpeton, N. D.—Wahpeton has had its share of building work this summer and a great many improvements are in progress on new business blocks and residences. The chief interest is in the $125,000 courthouse.

Minot, N. D.—The first passenger train on the new Drake to Fordville line was run Sunday, to the chautauqua at Devils Lake.

Fargo, N. D.—Murphy & Young closed a lease for the Hector building at 502 Front street for a term of five years and will continue in the clothing business at that place for that length of time.

Oakes, N. D.—August Olson, manager of the North American Storage company plant here, says that during the past three months he has bought 35,000 pounds of butter, 297 cans of cream and 8 carloads of eggs. For the butter he paid $13,600; for the cream $1,99584, for the eggs $7,350.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The brass memorial tablet, made from brass taken from the hulk of the battleship Maine, and which was presented to this city by the government, will be placed at the entrance of the city hall opposite the marble slab on which the names of the city officials are carved.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Supt. Y. G. Barnell of the Devil Lakes schools, will officiate as platform manager at Chautauqua during the remainder of the assembly, succeeding Mr. Clay, who left Friday to fill a chautauqua engagement at Winfield, Kan.

Litchville, N. D.—People here are complaining about faulty mail service—It is said that it takes four days for a letter to traverse a distance of only twenty-eight miles.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—Marquette Lodge, No. 108, I. O. O. F., are making preparations for the reception of Grand Master H. L. McNeil of Paw Paw, and Grand Secretary Fred A. Rogers of Lansing, who will appear before the local lodge next Friday evening.

Negaunee — Baptise Barasa has learned that his brother, B. Barasa, aged 65, was drowned in Italy on June 7. B. Barasa was a resident of this city for about twenty years and moved to Italy about fourteen years ago. Death occurred when he was crossing a stream on a plank near a vineyard which he owned.

Ishpeming—The body of Hercull Lard, aged 80, a farmer resident, who died near Rainer, Minn., was brought here for interment.

Calumet—Joseph Sotlich, aged 59 years, died at the Houghton County Anti-Tuberculosis sanitarium Friday night. The funeral was held Sunday. Mr. Sotlich, who was a native of Pubblicka, Austria, had been a resident of Calumet for thirty-five years. He was in the employ of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company for fifteen years and later worked for Joseph Wertin. Four children, three daughters and one son, survive.

Houghton—H. E. Lukey, pay clerk of the Isle Royale mine, announces that the first payment made by that company under the new law will be on Aug. 30, when the men will be paid for two weeks' work.

Marquette—The Marquette branch of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America observed the seventh anniversary of its organization and installed the following officers: President, W. Penhallgan; vice president, M. Mowick; recording secretary, A. Messier; financial secretary, F. Simms; treasurer, L. Larson; preceptor, J. Turnbull; warden, O. Hessell.

Ishpeming—The Bengal mine of the Pickands, Mather & Co.'s property started to ship ore last week. A temporary hoist is being used until the new head frame is completed, which will be done in a few weeks.

Marquette—City Comptroller Peter Primeau and two assistants are very busy at the city hall preparing the tax roll from the assessment books in order that it can be in the hands of City Treasurer R. P. Byrnes for collection by July 15.

Calumet—The superintendents and office employes of the C. & H. and subsidiary mines enjoyed their annual picnic and baseball game at Eagle river Thursday afternoon.

Houghton—Lou B. Winsor of Adrian, grand master of the Michigan grand council, and Arthur H. McCloud of Detroit, grand lecturer of the grand council, will be in Houghton July 24 to confer the degree of royal and select masters and to hold a school of instruction for David S. Kendall Council, No. 71, R. and S. M.

Hancock—Emil Grim died Thursday at the St. Joseph's hospital. He was 49 years old and is survived by a brother and two sisters, who reside in Hancock. Mr. Grim was an employe of the Houghton County Traction company.

Gladstone—A local firm was arrested by John Rowe, the dairy and food inspector, for law violation, and fined $25.

Laurium—Much enthusiasm has been created among local business men in the firemen's tournament in Red Jacket, July 23-26, and a big demonstration is planned by Laurium residents one evening during the convention.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—In response to many complaints from Milwaukee telephone subscribers and others, against the practice of granting "silent number" contracts to certain special subscribers, the matter will be made the subject of an inquiry by the railroad commission some time this month.

Waukesha—John Raht, aged 82 years, one of the best known farmers in the county, died Friday at his home on the Mukwonago road in the town of Vernon. A few hours after the death of Mr. Raht, William Wilke, aged 80 years, another prominent farmer living adjacent to the Raht farm, passed away.

Fond du Lac—August Schultz, aged 65 years, was injured about the head and back and sustained numerous bruises Saturday, when the bicycle he was riding collided with one ridden by Michael Wettstein. Both riders were going at a high rate of speed when their machines collided, throwing them to the street.

Manitowoc—William Hassemer, 18 years old, a Francis Creek boy, died at the hospital here from injuries which he sustained when kicked by a horse on his father's farm.

Ashland—Alex Wadday, a Pullman porter on a Northwestern train, was arrested here Saturday night on the telegraphic complaint of the conductor who caught him in the act of going through a suit case belonging to one of the passengers.

Marinette—While in a stupor John Hooper, 70 years old, a resident of Peshtigo, tried to hang himself in the county jail here with his suspenders. He was released before seriously injured. Hooper in his youth was a noted jockey.

Bayfield—The county board voted to uphold the county road from Bayfield to the Douglas county line, in taking the new cutoff via the new road leading from Bayfield past Turner's place, via the four corners over the regularly laid out and worked portion of the county road via the Squaw Bay, Cornucopia road to Port Wing and on to the Douglas county line.

Washburn—Contractors Koenig & Berglund has commenced work remodeling the Swan Johnson residence on East Fifth street and will put the place in first-class shape throughout.

Racine—The county board by a vote of 18 to 14 ordered contractors to begin constructing a new courthouse to cost $200,000. Over a year ago plans were adopted, but suits were brought to prevent the county from building.

Milwaukee — Morris Perlstein, said to be a wealthy Philadelphian, who claims he was held in the local police station here for two days without the right of calling an attorney and who finally notified friends of his incarceration by smuggling a note to them in a cup, was discharged from custody by Court Commissioner John J. Maher Saturday. Immediately after he was rearrested on a fugitive warrant.

Malden Rock—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McNaughton, near Paul Galle, was severely hurt when lightning struck the house. The building was shattered.

New Richmond—Little Archibald McEwen of Superior was saved from death by Boy Scouts Dwight and Vernon Kloster, at Shell lake where the families were spending a vacation. The little boy was playing on a log and got into deep water.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Hallock—Frederick Staf, an aged county charge, died at the poor farm and was buried at Greenwood cemetery. He died from complications resulting from old age more than anything else, being 84 years of age. Although he owned a home in Hallock, he had no children or relatives here to give him care. His aged wife survives.

Bemidji—Charles Martindale, age 65, committed suicide last Wednesday in the town of Battle, at the homestead of Robert Monterville. Mr. Monterville was a blacksmith and the deceased was making his home there, taking care of the crops.

Thief River Falls—The Minneapolis Bridge company, which received the contract from Pennington county last spring to build a steel bridge over Thief river at Squaw point, is preparing to commence construction work in the near future.

Milaca—The sum of $22,384.89 was paid out to the farmers of this vicinity for butterfat at the Milaca creamery during the month of June. This is the largest amount ever paid out at the local manufacturing institution during one month, and represents a neat sum for the farmers of this vicinity to receive from a single source.

St. Cloud—John H. Ley, the directory man, has started work on his seventh directory for St. Cloud. He has just finished one for Fergus Falls.

Wahkon—President A. M. Russell of the Russell Motor company, accompanied by his wife, came from Duluth and spent the Fourth at the Rex.

Perham—Fred H. Davies tendered his resignation to the village council last week and the council accepted it without dissent. This leaves but one member on the electric light and water commission, M. Goblirsch. The resignation of Mr. Davis ends a contest for the control of the plant which has been on for some time.

Roseau—Contractors Fawcett and Bergstrom began work last week on the Roseau city hall and power house. Excavation will be made for installation of pump and pressure tank. The ground floor will be used for electric light machinery, fire department equipment and for city hall.

Fosston—Six $1,000 bonds coming due July 1 were paid by Treasurer Frank Lohn, together with one year's interest at 6 per cent; the total amount taken from the sinking fund in the treasury being $6,360.

Red Lake Falls—The annual meeting of the school officers of Red Lake county will be held in Red Lake Falls at the courthouse, next Wednesday, July 16. This is to be a joint meeting of the officers and teachers of the county.

Crookston—Between 400 and 500 people attended the Methodist Sunday school picnic Thursday. The weather was fine and the dinner eaten in picnic style was enjoyed by all.

Roseau — Swedish Mission church building will be moved from its present location to the corner of block 10 on Pearl street and Ritchey avenue. The building will be remodeled and enlarged.

Red Lake Falls—The teachers' training school for Red Lake and Pennington counties opened here last Wednesday and is being held in the Washington school on the North side. Between fifty and sixty teachers have enrolled and the work is progressing very nicely under the direction of Conductor H. E. White.

Holdingford — Harry Sandkamp, a young son of Landlord Sandkamp of the Merchants, lacerated his left hand with a percussion cane. He had loaded the cane and was using it upside down when the accident happened.

Foley—John Donovan, county commissioner from the Foley district, died at his home near here Thursday night, five days after he had sustained a broken back in a fall off his wagon. Mr. Donovan was one of the most prominent farmers in Benton county. He was 50 years of age and had lived in the county practically all his life.

International Falls — George W. Horn, who assaulted a companion on the Big Fork river with a peavey, was indicted by the grand jury and upon his plea of guilty, a fine of $100 or six months in the county jail was pronounced.

Roseau—The village council has ordered a concrete sidewalk along the new courthouse front, Israel Sjoberg's residence and the block east to the main business street.

Kelliher—E. D. Johnson, who is looking after Wes Irwin's land interests in this locality, was here recently. Mr. Irwin now conducts the St. Louis hotel in Duluth.

DULUTH BEATEN TWICE BY UNGLAUBS BUSTERS

Sherrin Holds Sox to Three Hits in First Contest.

Errors Behind Woods Give the Final to Hustling Visitors.

We met the enemy yesterday and they are not ours. Col. Bob Unglaub, from south of the Mason and Dixon line, with the able assistance of his stock company took both games of the double header, the first by the count of 5 to 1 and the second by the count of 6 to 5, it requiring ten innings to decide a winner in the second bout.

Henry Clay Blancke opened on the firing line for the home defenders and was driven to the dugout in the seventh in favor of Woods of Bottineau. The North Dakota gent pitched nice ball during the ebb tide of the initial contest and also heaved pretty ball in the second.

Sherrin was in grand form in the first contest and held our heroes to three scattered hits. With the visiting twirler going like a house threatened with complete extinction by roaring and raging flames there was little chance for us to win.

In the first round of the opener the Millers counted one. With two down Doyle doubled and crossed the little old plate when Col. Bob smashed a long single to center. In the very next round two more came. Moll erred on McKibbon's offering. De Haven walked, and a passed ball and wild pitch in close succession accounted for two of the visitors' runs.

In the third the visitors counted one more. With one down Unglaub singled and went to second on a passed ball, stole third and second on Allen's infield out.

In the fifth we got our only score of the game. Miller and Menlece walked and then Schrieber came through with a single through the infield. This was the first hit gathered by Duluth.

The last of the visitor's score came in the eighth round. Doyle and Unglaub singled in this round. Allen lofted to center and then Doyle counted on a long fly to left from the bat of McKibbon.

Good Start Doesn't Win.

Patterson was on the mound for the visitors in the second game and pitched only fairly good ball. We scored twice in the opening round and got off to a nice start. McGraw singled and then O'Brien waited one into a double. Smith and Miller singled and both counted, after advancing on an error, when Menlece singled.

Both teams then went runless until the seventh inning. Unglaub lofted gently to Miller and the great Miller dropped the ball. Handschu hit a roller to Woods and that worthy fumbled the ball and both hands were safe. McKibbon singled, Unglaub was forced at the plate on De Haven's offering, and then Berger came to bat and wopped one over the fence and four runs were in. Patterson went down on an infield offering and Briere singled. Donnelly sent a long fly to Smith and Elmer, following the example of his illustrous confrere in center, dropped the ball and Briere was in.

We gathered three in the home half of the seventh. Miller singled and Menlece and Schreiber doubled, Schrieber counting on Moll's hit. The score was knotted until the tenth, when the visitors ungallantly scored the run that won.

Donnelly singled and thefted the second bag in the tenth. Doyle sacrificed the runner to third and Handschu singled, putting over the winning count.

Handschu mounted the mound in the seventh and discouraged the rally of the Sox.

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS ON PLEASURE JAUNT.

Hutchinson, Kan., July 14.—Five hundred motor cycle riders start from here today on a tour to the Rocky mountains. The riders embrace clubs from Kansas, New England, Indiana, Nebraska and the south. The tour is for pleasure.

Dr. B. J. Patterson, national president of the Federation of American Motorcyclists, is at the head of the trip. One division of young women riders, composed exclusively of Kansas girls, will make the tour. The cyclists will be sent away by Governor Hodges will leave Duluth about 8:30 a. m., July 18th, arriving at St. Paul in time for the races. It depends entirely upon the support of Duluth people who are interested in this sporting event and those interested and desiring to make this trip on the special should communicate with me at once. Arrangements must be made in advance.

DULUTH BOAT CLUB

SPECIAL

GRAND FORKS AND WINONA BREAK EVEN.

Grand Forks, N. D., July 14.—Grand Forks and Winona split the double-header of yesterday. The Flickers took the first game by the count of 3 to 2 and lost the second by the same score. Jarnigan yielded the visitors but three scattered hits in the initial contest, Joe Croake hitting the pellet out of the park with one runner on the paths. After the second inning the visitors secured but one single off the delivery of the local star.

In the second game errors figured largely in the run getting. Myers, the former twirler of the local club, was in his best form and held the home team to four scattered hits, but one these being of a very scratchy order.

The scores:

First game— R. H. E.
Winona .....0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 3 0

JOE MAITLAND LIKES MINOR BALL THE BEST.

Joe Maitland, former Duluth theatrical man, has been an interested spectator at the recent games at Athletic park. Joe says he would rather see the contests here than those at Chicago, in which city he is stationed at the present time. The former Duluth theatrical man says there is really more interest in the local games to him, and that the fan who believes that only sport can be seen from watching the big games, is greatly mistaken.

SCHAUER HAS LOWEST HIT PER GAME RECORD

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tigers Win Two.

Detroit, July 14.—By scores of 7 to 1 and 5 to 4, Detroit took both games of yesterday's double-header from Philadelphia.

Dauss was in fine form in the first, allowing but five hits. A pass to Collins in the eighth followed by singles by Baker and McInnis, scored the league leaders' only run.

The second game was hard-fought. The Athletics established an early lead, Detroit doing little with Bush until the sixth when a single by Crawford, a triple by Cobb and singles by Veach and High tied the score. Bush then retired in favor of Bender, who yielded what proved to be the winning run, the result of a triple by Vitt and Crawford's fly. The scores:

First game— R. H. E.
Detroit .....0 0 1 1 1 0 0 4 x—7 10 1
Batteries—Houck and Lapp; Dauss and McKee. Umpires—O'Loughlin and Hildebrand.

Second game— R. H. E.
Philadelphia ...0 1 2 0 0 1 0 0 0—4 5 1
Detroit .....0 1 0 0 0 3 1 0 x—5 7 1
Batteries—Bush, Bender and Schang; Willett, Lake and Stanage. Umpires—Hildebrand and O'Loughlin.

Collins Holds Sox.

Chicago, July 14.—Ray Collins of Boston held Chicago to three scattered hits yesterday and Chicago won, 3 to 2. Only one of the locals' runs was earned, that being the one Chase scored on a homer to deep left. The other runs were helped along by errors by Wagner, who threw wild to third in an attempt to catch Beall, who was are attempt to catch Beall, who was stealing in the initial inning, and again in the fifth when he fumbled Bodie's grounder.

The score: R. H. E.
Chicago .....1 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 x—3 3 1
Batteries—R. Collins and Carrigan; Scott and Schalk. Umpires—Evans and Sheridan.

Naps Lose Thriller.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 14.—Washington defeated Cleveland, 5 to 4, in a thrilling game yesterday. Cleveland used four pitchers in the desperate effort to win, and tied the score twice. Washington scored the winning run in the ninth on a pass to McBride by Kahler, Johnson's single and Moeller's single off Falkenberg.

The score: R. H. E.
Cleveland .....0 0 0 2 0 0 0 2 0—4 10 4
Washington ....0 2 0 0 2 0 0 0 1—5 14 1
Batteries—Cullop, Mitchell, Kahler, Falkenberg and Carisch; Johnson and Ainsmith. Umpires—Connolly and McGreevy.

Highlanders Even Up.

St. Louis, July 14.—New York evened up the series with St. Louis yesterday, winning, 3 to 2. The winning run was tallied on Wolter's single, Cree's sacrifice and a single by Peckinpaugh. Agnew hit the ball over the left field fence for a home run in the seventh.

The score: R. H. E.
New York .....0 0 1 1 0 0 0 1 0—3 9 0
St. Louis .....1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—2 7 2
Batteries—Ford and Smith; Mitchell and Agnew. Umpires—Dineen and Egan.

AMERICAN ASSN.

Leaders Win Both.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 14.—The league leaders won yesterday from Indianapolis in both games before the biggest crowd that ever witnessed a game in Milwaukee. The score of the first was 11 to 2, and the second, 3 to 1, the second game being called in the eighth because of darkness. In the first game Schardt was batted out of the box in the first inning when the home club hit for five runs. Harrington succeeded him and pitched well until he was taken out in the eighth, bringing in Kaiserling, who was batted for six runs. In the second game, Slapnicka and Ralph Works had a pitchers' battle. Slapnicka was supported better, however, and all three of the Milwaukee runs were helped along because of Indianapolis errors. The scores:

First game— R. H. E.
Indianapolis ..0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 5 3
Batteries — Young and Hughes; Schardt, Harrington, Kaiserling and Casey, Cotter. Umpires—Westervelt and Irwin.

Second game— R. H. E.
Indianapolis .....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1 6 4
Batteries—Slapnicka and Hughes; Works and Casey. Umpires—Westervelt and Irwin.

No-Hit Game.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Minneapolis took both games of a double-header from Toledo yesterday, 6 to 4 and 1 to 0. Jim Baskette pitched a no-hit game against the locals in the second contest. The big Toledoan twirled magnificent ball throughout. In the seventh inning of the second game, F. Delehanty was safe on Stumpf's wide throw and stole second. An infield out advanced Delehanty to third and he scored on Wheelan's sacrifice fly. Bill Burns also pitched splendid ball, allowing only four hits. The first game was won by Minneapolis in the eighth when Killifer doubled with two on bases. The scores:

First game— R. H. E.
Toledo .....0 0 0 0 3 1 0 0 0—4 8 2
Minneapolis ...0 0 1 3 0 0 0 2 x—6 7 4
Batteries—George and Devogt; Patterson and Owens. Umpires—Johnstone and Handiboe.

Second game— R. H. E.
Minneapolis ...0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 x—1 0 0
Batteries — Baskette and Devogt; Burns and Smith. Umpires—Johnstone and Handiboe.

Saints Lose Two.

St. Paul, Minn. July 14.—Louisville took both games of a double-header here yesterday. In the first Loudermilk held the home team to three hits and shut them out. In the second Laroy outpitched Jack Powell, but the latter scored the winning run in the eighth when Scott dropped Weinberg's hot line drive and he reached first, scoring on a single by Severoid and Powell's long sacrifice drive to left field. In the first game, Grover Loudermilk, in addition to pitching almost unhittable ball, made a double and two singles. The scores:

First game— R. H. E.
St. Paul .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 3 2
Batteries—Loudermilk and Severoid; Krieger and Miller. Umpires—Chill and O'Brien.

Second game— R. H. E.
St. Paul .....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 6 2
Batttries—Powell and Severoid; Laroy and Miller and James. Umpires—Chill and O'Brien.

Sixteen Hits.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—By hitting two Kansas City pitchers for sixteen safeties, Columbus defeated Kansas City yesterday, 6 to 4. Kansas City made four bad misplays and ran bases like bush leaguers. Miller got four hits out of five times at bat. The score: R. H. E.
Columbus .....0 2 1 0 1 0 0 2 0—6 16 3
Kansas City ...1 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 0—4 10 4

FRENCH AVIATOR HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Nancy, France, July 14.—The French aviator Le Compte, while making a flight near here yesterday, became entangled in telegraph wires. He fell with his machine on the railroad tracks as an express train came thundering along. The engineer was just able to stop his train in time to avoid running down the aviator who was not seriously injured.

DULUTH OPENS SERIES WITH ST. PAUL TUESDAY

"Spike" Shannon With the Apostles---Some Other Players on the River Team.

St. Paul comes tomorrow for a series of three games with the White Sox.

"Spike" Shannon, former manager of the Virginia team, is now part owner and the manager of the Saints, according to a dispatch from the Apostle city.

According to the genial Shannon, he is going to clean house and build one of the strongest teams in the league. It is very likely that several new faces will be seen in the lineup of the St. Paul aggregation when it takes the field here tomorrow afternoon for the opening game of the series.

Unless there is a continuance of the present schedule, there remain just about forty games on the card. It is probable, though by no means certain as yet, that the schedule will be lengthened and the season extended until after Labor day.

Every game from now on counts. The Northern league has one of the prettiest races of any circuit in the country. Winona, Duluth, Minneapolis and Superior are closely bunched for the lead. One game almost shifts the three teams that are at the present time battling for second place.

We should take the long end of the series with St. Paul, though it is said that there will be some new players with the Saints when they arrive. It is hinted at St. Paul that Shannon has signed a former big leaguer and that the presence of this player will add considerable strength to the down-river organization.

Sox Need a Pitcher.

President H. A. Blume and the members of the board of directors of the team believe that another pitcher is needed and efforts are being made at the present time to land one.

Duluth is strictly in the pennant hunt; the Sox played a wonderful game on the road, and while the boys have slumped slightly since coming home, it is expected that the team will strike its gait and will fight it out in the sensational four-cornered race that is being made for the pennant at the present time.

Smith's layoff has affected his playing, apparently. The clouting kid has not exhibited the form that made him one of the greatest outfielders of the league, since he has returned to the team. There is little cause to worry in the case of Elmer. Smithy is one of the real baseball players of the Northern—ranked as the best of the outfielders by some of the sharps—and he will be back there with bells in a couple of games.

The Sox are due to come strong for the remainder of the season. Four teams have an equal fighting chance for the flag. The Sox's chances are as good as any of the rest.

It is the ardent desire of O'Brien to grab three straight from the St. Paul traveling organization, and with the Sox themselves again, like Richard of old, there is little doubt but that we are due to bust our way to the front—Dooks, that is, play the kind of baseball they are capable of.

SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE WEEK-END

Lipton's Choice of an Amateur Skipper---Yale's Seventeen Straight Not a Record---Match for Sculling Title.

New York, July 14.—Sir Thomas Lipton's choice of the amateur yachtsman, William P. Burton, to command and pilot his fourth Shamrock in the 1914 races for the America's cup, probably will be regarded by many yatchsmen as a daring and risky innovation. In all previous races for the historic trophy, the competing yachts have been handled by professional skippers, and it is generally assumed that a professional yachtsman must know more about the game than an amateur.

It is not generally realized here, however, that far more opportunities are at the disposal of the English amateur yatchsman to obtain practice than exist for his American prototype, however, keen and enthusiastic he may be. Because of the great distances between important ports along the Atlantic coast a yachtsman has opportunities to participate in the races of but a few clubs.

In England, where distances between yachting centers are so much shorter, dates are so arranged that a yacht, by visiting various ports in succession, may engage in as many as three score or more races in the course of a season. That is probably thrice as many as a New York or Boston yacht has a chance to take part in. If not satisfied with the abundance of racing he gets in home waters, the British yachtsman also can engage in some of the races organized by continental clubs.

Mr. Burton began his yacht racing career in 1888. He always elected to sail his own boat and for some years contented himself with small boats, but for the last fifteen or sixteen years he has owned and raced larger craft. Altogether he has sailed in about a thousand races. It is safe to say that there are few if any professional American yachting skippers who have had anything like so extended an experience in yacht racing.

By the best English judges he is regarded as the cleverest helmsman, either amateur or professional, in English waters. He has repeatedly raced his yachts against those sailed by the most famous English professionals and has beaten them. In 1911, sailing his 19-meter Octavia against yachts of the same rating steered by professionals, he finished the season at the top of the class, with 37 prizes to his credit out of 57 starts.

Mr. Burton is a member of several yacht clubs and vice commodore of the Royal Harwich Yacht club, which confers on him the distinction of being ex-officio an honorary member of the New York Yacht club. He is a wealthy man and with ample means to indulge in his sporting proclivities which are not confined to yacht racing. In the county of Suffolk, where he resides, he has hunted for many seasons with his own pack of hounds.

While the seventeen straight victories scored by the Yale 'varsity nine of this season was an excellent stretch of playing, there remains no question regarding the fact that it was not an intercollegiate baseball record. Parke Davis, the Princeton athletic statistician, has shown that the Tiger team of 1897 scored seventeen consecutive victories. Now comes William F. Garcelon, graduate treasurer of the Harvard Athletic association, who goes Mr. Davis one better. Mr. Garcelon has prepared a record of the Harvard varsity nine of 1885, which shows that the Crimson team won twenty-six out of twenty-seven games played that season, ending with a straight run of nineteen games.

The team, which was captained by Samuel E. Winslow, now congressman from the Worcester district, Mass., consisted of the following players:

Catcher, H. T. Allen, '86; pitcher, E. H. Nichols, '86; first base, W. W. Willard, '87; second base, Clarence W. Smith, '86; third base, H. C. Beaman, '85; shortstop, F. B. Wiestlin, '87; left field, George W. Foster, '87; center field, Walter H. Edgerly, '86; right field, change pitcher and captain, Samuel E. Winslow, '85; F. M. Tilden, '87, ASBESTOS POCKETS.

Newark News: Philadelphia tailors are making asbestos pickets for smokers. On entering a street car now the smoker is not obliged to sit holding his smouldering cigar and braving the hateful stares of the other passengers. Instead, he slips the cigar into his asbestos pocket and carries it safely there until he leaves the car to go calling at his lady friend's home, when he lights it again. Thus the smoker is spared a great deal of cruelty at the hands of the unsympathetic public and also saved from having to waste the remains of his smoke. In a year the asbestos pockets will save thousands of dollars' worth of good tobacco, for, as every one knows, a cigar costs money.

SMALL PAY.

Price Collier in Schibner's: To the American the pay of the German troops, officers and men, is ludicrously small. A lieutenant receives for the first three years $300 a year, from the fourth to the sixth year $425, from the seventh to the ninth year $495, from the tenth to the twelfth year $600 a year. A captain receives from the first to the fourth year $850, from the fifth to the eighth year $1,150, and the ninth year and after $1,275 a year. Of one hundred officers who join, only an average of eight attain to the command of a regiment. A commanding general, or general inspector of cavalry or field artillery receives $3,496; a division commander or inspector of cavalry, field and heavy artillery, $3,388; a brigade commander, $2,566; commander of a regiment, or officer of the general staff of the same rank, $2,193. There are various additions to these sums for traveling, keep of horses, house rent and the like.

TO CLEAN OLD PAINTINGS.

New York Tribune: When cleaning oil paintings I cut a slice of potato dampened in cold water over the picture, wiping off the lather with a soft damp sponge and lukewarm water. I dry it and polish with a piece of soft silk that has been washed.

E. S. Litchfield, '87, A. D. Claflin, '86, manager.

During the twenty-seven game season Harvard scored 280 runs to opponents' 88. Fifteen of the twenty-seven games were won by scores running into double figures, while Tufts was the only team to secure a total which required more than one figure to express. The one defeat was administered by the Cochituates club by a score of 3 to 1. During the run of nineteen straight Harvard defeated Princeton four times; Yale twice; Brown three times; Tufts twice; Amherst twice; Dartmouth twice; Williams and Trinity once each.

The final details for the world's championship sculling match between Ernest Barry, holder, and Harry Pearce, challenger, have been completed, and the race will be rowed July 21, weather permitting. The famous four-mile 400-yard championship course on the Thames river, London, will be the scene of the struggle for individual titular honors. Both the champion and his Australian challenger are completing their training work, and on the showing made by Barry is quoted at 5 to 4 to win. A championship cup and a side stake of $5,000 goes to the winner.

The Putney to Mortlake course on which the race will be rowed is the longest of all world's championship courses. The African Zambesi course is 3½ miles; the Paramatta and Wanganui courses of Australasia being 3 miles, 330 yards and 3¼ miles, respectively.

The history of this championship event dates back to 1859, and since then there have been sixty-three races for the title. During this period of fifty odd years the greatest professional scullers of the world have in turn held the championship. Chambers won the title five times; E. Hanlon six times; Beach six, Towns five, and Arnst five, while many other scullers came in for a short possession of championship honors. Barry, the present champion, won his title from Arnst on July 29, 1912, after the latter had defeated both Barry and Pearce during 1910 and 1911.

The baseball fan frequently wonders what becomes of the old uniforms, bats and gloves that are discarded by big league clubs. Much of the paraphernalia is used until it is so worn or damaged as to be of no further value, but every club manager has on file applications for outfittings no longer suitable for the major circuits. Just at present the Indian team of St. Mary's Mission school at Omak, Washington, is proudly playing in uniforms formerly worn by the Athletics when they held the title of world's champions.

Manager Connie Mack was appealed to for some discarded suits early in spring, and in answer to the request forwarded not only uniforms but gloves, bats and balls as well. Perhaps Connie reasoned that in the role of a baseball Santa Claus he would have first call on any St. Mary's player who threatened to develop into a Bender or Meyers.

BAD WEATHER AT PITTSBURG

Rain May Interfere With Opening of Grand Circuit.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 14.—Weather conditions this morning cast some doubt over the possibility of opening the second week of the Grand Circuit at the Ohio river track on Brunots island today. Continual showers during the early morning made the track heavy.

The card for today is the Iron City stake for 2:05 pacers; the 2:12 trot in which Parra and O'Neill, who put up a great fight at Cleveland, will again meet, together with some half dozen other good trotters, and the 2:12 pace which will bring out ten or more pacers of stake caliber that are apt to furnish a mighty struggle.

The opening race is the 2:24 trot and what should be one of the greatest races of the season is looked for. Uneliff, who won the first heat of his race at Cleveland only to be beaten the next two, will meet the gelding, Creosote, Nat Ray's great trotter.

Other starters are Walter Cox's Judson Girl; Tommy Puhy's Mundy C.; Ed Geers' Bertha Cary, also a Cleveland winner; and Lon McDonald's sensational gelding, Star Winter.

DRAW IS MADE AT NORTHLAND

The qualifying round of the Northland club was played over the links of the club on Saturday. Despite the fact that the weather was not conducive to the best game, nor favorable to a large attendance, there were some very good games played and a very large gallery on hand to witness the playing of the qualifying round.

The first draw has been made through the playing of the qualifying round, and contains the names of the following players:

E. N. Whyte, M. B. Cullum; William Harrison, J. Q. A. Crosby; H. H. Myers, F. A. Brewer; C. Neimeyer, W. W. Walker; F. H. White, F. E. House; R. S. Patrick, R. G. Riley; C. E. Brown, D. Walker; E. P. Towne, D. G. Cutler.

New Flying Record.

Paris, July 14.—By his flight yesterday from Paris to Berlin, Le Tort becomes the non-stop record-holder. The distance covered was about 590 miles, which surpasses the flight made April 24, by Eugene Gilbert, who flew from Villa Coublay to Vittoria, Spain, a distance of 513 miles in eight and one-half hours.

PITTSBURG MAY BE CONTENDER

Pirates Start on Rampage That May Threaten Giants' Position.

New York, July 14.—The Giants held the center of the baseball stage during the past week, continuing the winning streak that has put them far out in front in the National league race, but as another week opens they face the possibility of serious rivalry from an old-time foe.

Chicago seems hardly to have the all-around strength this year to give the champions a battle, but the baseball world is fast waking up to the fact that Pittsburg has at last started on a rampage that threatens serious trouble for clubs ahead of them.

Before the season opened the Pirates looked to be a team whose pennant chances were bright. From one cause or another, however, largely through ineffective box work, they lagged far behind until July 4 found them in fifth place, several games short of the .500 mark. Meanwhile the Giants had fought their way to a commanding lead as Philadelphia and Brooklyn declined.

But the last ten days have seen a decided change. Clarke's men are now carrying everything before them. As the race stands today, the Pirates are but two games behind the Cubs and five and one-half to the rear of the Quakers. Far out in the distance, it is true, stand the Giants, to whom many have been ready to concede the flag.

The week in the American league was tame compared with the stirring happenings in the older organization. Cleveland got some satisfaction by keeping pace with the Athletics, each winning four out of six games. Washington and Chicago both fell off and Boston broke only a little better than even. St. Louis was the only team to hold its own with the leaders in games won and lost, New York splitting its wins and losses evenly while Detroit kept up its weak work by losing five of seven games.

Milwaukee in Clover.

Chicago, July 14.—Milwaukee apparently has a good chance to retain the lead it just gained in the American association, as Columbus, the former pace-maker, has started on a long journey around the northern end of the circuit, while Milwaukee will be playing on home grounds. The loss of Outfielder McQuillen to Pittsburg damaged Columbus' playing strength. Interest, especially on the part of Columbus and Indianapolis, is keen as to what President Chivington will do to Catcher Smith of Columbus and Infielder Flynn of Indianapolis as punishment for their fist fight in the presence of spectators a week ago.

"GUNBOAT" SMITH AND JIM FLYNN MATCHED.

New York, July 14. — "Gunboat" Smith" of California and Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, have been matched to fight ten rounds at Madison Square garden, Aug. 8.

Knocked Out of Ring.

New Orleans, La., July 14.—Frankie Russell of New Orleans knocked Johnny Lore of New York through the ropes in the eleventh round of their scheduled 20-round fight yesterday and Lore was counted out before he could get back into the ring. Russell officially was credited with a knockout. They are lightweights.

VULGARITY SHRINKS BEFORE TRUE BEAUTY

Nude in Art May Be Pure If Painter Has Nobility of Heart, Says Pastor

"The Holiness of Beauty" was the subject of a sermon by Rev. Mr. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday.

"Highest, truest art is religion," he said. "It is the expression of truth and goodness, and endeavors to communicate deepest and purest emotions. Hence the deeper the moral and religious life of a people, the higher will be their real art.

"The art of any country is the exponent of its ethical life. 'You can only have noble art from noble persons,' says John Ruskin. That does not mean that every artist must needs be a paragon of virtue, but that in his heart of hearts, out of which his art springs, there is a truly noble manhood. We may doubt that Raphael was a model man, but we are sure that he could not have painted the divinity of motherhood in his 'Sistine Madonna' had he not been deeply religious and noble at heart. We may shake our heads when we read Wagner's confessions in his auto-biography, but only a man who loved what is pure and holy could have given us 'Parsifal.' And as thus art flows out of what is best in the soul, so it quickens what is best in man. The worship of the beautiful makes beautiful within. In the presence of true beauty the coarse and vulgar departs. It then makes little difference what subject the artist paints. It makes, then, little difference if the figure of a woman is draped conventionally or if she stands in the purity of nakedness. If painted in the spirit of true art, such a picture will only arouse thoughts of beauty, and only the prudes, the sham-virtuous will be shocked by such a beautiful little painting as the 'Autumn Morning,' which had such difficulties passing the gates of our country. In 1901 at an international meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Boston the managers refused to hold a reception in the art gallery for moral considerations. Either these men were ignorant of the divine significance of art, or they were somewhat shaky in their morality. Beauty is akin to holiness and need never be feared. It will never drag us down, but lift us up and bring us nearer to the heart of the Master artist of life. The more we let the beauty of art and nature sink into our hearts, the nearer we shall rise to God."

Governor Hanna Made Veterans' Trip to Gettysburg Worth While.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to G. A. R. veterans, back from the Gettysburg reunion, Governor Hanna made a great hit with the old soldiers by his courtesy en route to Gettysburg and while there. The governor accompanied the special train and looked after the boys in blue all the way down and at Gettysburg he slept and ate with them.

When the tickets for the return trip were distributed the governor attached a new crisp $10 bill to each ticket for added comforts on the way home. Many of the veterans were so financially fixed that this sum was not personally needed, but they appreciated the thoughtfulness and courtesy of the executive.

GREAT GAME LOOKED FOR

Armstrong and Jayne Will Test Out New and Old Style.

Some Tennis Followers Predict Defeat of St. Paul Star By Veteran.

One of the feature games of the state tennis tournament opening for formal play today promises to be the meeting of Joe Armstrong of St. Paul, former state champion, and Trafford Jayne of Minneapolis, a vereran who has fought his way up through countless tournaments, the hero of innumerable contests, and one of the cracks of the Northwest.

With the bi-state championship at his belt, the brilliant Armstrong will make every effort to win the tournament here. The young St. Paul star won the bi-state at Louisville from W. S. McElroy of Pittsburg, Saturday, and will come here with laurel leaves, figuratively speaking, adorning his brow.

Armstrong plays the smashing, driving game. The method of Armstrong's game is to score by the smashing style, even at the risk of driving the ball out of the court. It is the new "all-or-nothing" game as played by McLaughlin and other international stars. Jayne's methods are the direct opposite. He plays a careful placing game, figuring to score upon the error of his opponent, and lobbing frequently.

Therefore when these two meet—the brilliant young star, typifying the style of tennis most prevalent in the East, and the steady cool veteran, spectators will see two radically different styles tested by two eminent masters of the racquet—and the test promises to be extremely interesting.

There are some of the sharps who are predicting the defeat of Armstrong at the hands of Jayne. At the state tournament here two years ago Armstrong won from the Minneapolis veteran. Last year, if information is correct, Jayne defeated the youth from down the river. Here the meeting promises to result in one of the great games of the tourney.

John Adams, the present state champion, is expected to arrive Tuesday and will enter the doubles with Armstrong. If Adams is anywhere near the form he exhibited in the play of last year, this combination should show some brilliant tennis.

In the few preliminary games that have been played, Serf, one of the visitors, defeated John MacGregor, 7-5, 6-3. Grady defeated Gude, 6-2, 6-2. Kinyon of Owatonna defeated Grogan of Minneapolis in love sets. Reibeth of Minneapolis defaulted to L. Kennedy of Duluth. Lafans, one of the stars of Minneapolis, also defaulted to Graff through his inability to appear.

With weather fair today the first day of the tournament promises to bring out some fine tennis. The courts are reported to be in excellent shape.

COAL PRICES HAVE RISING TENDENCY

The Black Diamond, the official paper of the coal trade, says that coal prices have a rising tendency. There has been disturbances locally at almost every point, and in almost every trade center in coal there has been disturbance of some sort. Fear of car shortage is a noteworthy feature. In its latest issue the Black Diamond says:

"Local conditions have disturbed about every coal market, but despite these things the tone of the trade is strong and prices are firm with a rising tendency.

"In New York the anthracite companies decided that they would add to the cost of coal the production tax recently assessed by the state of Pennsylvania. Instead of having this tax appear as a part of the price, the companies bill out the product at the old figure and then make a separate bill for the tax. This practice is to be followed by the retail dealers. This has disturbed conditions, but the persons to be directly influenced are the politicians rather than the coal producers.

"The lake trade is the center of activity, and the movement of coal over the docks has not been interrupted. Shipments by the lake are quite heavy, the receipts for June being heavier than the receipts up to July 1 last year.

"Local disturbances are noted in the Central and Western bituminous markets also. For example, in Chicago one of the big difficulties in the movement of coal is the shortage of labor available to the retail dealer. The retailers have been willing to take in coal, but have been unable to get the labor with which to unload the cars. For the last two weeks the weather has been so warm that even where labor has been available it has been working slowly.

"In Pittsburg the failure of four banking concerns caused a local disturbance that interrupted trade and gave the business situation a bad setback for a day or so. In addition, Pittsburg is struggling with a labor shortage, and had last week to overcome the effect of a double holiday."

Lupus Worst Form of Skin Diseases

Here is a Home Treatment that Overcomes even Worst Cases.

Lupus or any other Skin Disease will go Skulking Away if you use S. S. S.

A tiny pimple spreads to the side of the face and often covers the cheeks and bridge of the nose. It is very destructive to the tissues of the skin. No external treatments will overcome it, as the cause of lupus is from impurities in the blood supply. The only known method of cure is to get the blood supply under the control of S. S. S., the famous blood specific. Its action is quite remarkable and has direct influence upon the network of small blood vessels and glands in the skin.

Not one drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and insist upon having it. For illustrated book on skin diseases write The Swift Specific Co., 183 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. Do not allow some zealous clerk to larrup the atmosphere in eloquence over something "just as good" as S. S. S. Beware of all substitutes.

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD IN MINNESOTA COUNTIES

During the past week the state immigration office has received a number of reports from various counties of Minnesota concerning the condition of the crops. Improvement in farming methods is noted and seems to be widespread in the state with accompanying good results. Particular attention is given in the reports concerning alfalfa. Following are the reports received:

Chisago county—Everything 20 per cent above normal here, excepting hay, which will be a light crop. Farmers building silos and that spells success in this county. Alfalfa is being raised here quite extensively and is doing fine. Much improvement is noted here along lines of up-to-date agricultural methods, and the dairy business never looked better. The co-operative creamery at Rush City is paying to its patrons about $2,200 weekly.

Sherburne county—A decided change in the crop outlook here in the past ten days and the heavy rains have done much for small grains. The oats straw will be short, but I believe they will head out well. Rye, one of our largest crops, will be up to the average. Corn is our most important crop and is doing well. Alfalfa has never been raised here until recently, but some farmers are experimenting with success.

Mille Lacs county—The rye crop is ready to be harvested and is far above the average. Corn and potatoes are further advanced than usual and promise to be an excellent crop. Timothy and clover will be light. Alfalfa is only an experiment with us, but there are quite a number of small fields and they are looking fine. We feel well satisfied with the crop outlook in this vicinity.

Lyon county—Recent rains in all sections of the county have done much good and helped the crops which were suffering. Corn prospects could not very well be better. The dry weather last month injured the rye, barley and early oats; also some fields of velvet chaff wheat. The bluestem wheat stood the dry spell better. Some fields of hay will be short and hardly an average crop. I may safely say that the prospects in Lyon county could hardly be brighter.

Watonwan county—Crop conditions in Watonwan county good. The rye is ready for the binder and will make one of the best crops in the history of the county. Barley, spring and winter wheat and oats look good and corn is all of two weeks ahead of last year. Some alfalfa raised in this county.

Wilkin county—It is hard to judge how the small grain will be in this county this year. The early grain will be short and was damaged some by the recent heavy rains. Corn is doing extra well and is more than knee high now. Timothy, clover, prairie grass and pastures sufered some by dry weather, but have been materially helped by late rains. Very little alfalfa grown here.

Cook county—Crops are in fine condition up here. Potatoes and hay are our principal crop. Recent rains have helped things materially. There is but little alfalfa sown here and I am not familiar with how it is doing.

Kanabec county—Crops generally in this county promise more than an average yield. Timothy and clover will go from two to four tons per acre. Excellent crops of rye and oats. Corn acreages has increased in this county this year 100 per cent. The potato crop is unusually large and could not be more promising. The raising of alfalfa in this county is in its infancy, but those who have tried it report success.

Todd county—Crops in this county are looking fine. Plenty of rain and indications point to a bumper crop. Rye is especially good and stands shoulder high. Reports from numerous localities report than corn prospects never looked brighter. Small grains are a little backward but late rains are forcing it along. Nine creameries reporting to a Long Prairie paper this week show that these nine paid to farmers in May over $75,000.

Itasca county—All crops are normal, perhaps a little better than the average. There has been plenty of moisture and the warm weather of the past two weeks has given the corn and potatoes a good start. Hay is now being cut.

Anoka county—Anoka county will have a big corn crop this year. Oats and wheat injured some by hot weather. The first crop of alfalfa has been cut and went two tons to the acre and the second crop is coming along fine. Farmers are pleased with alfalfa here and will sow more next year. Most of the farmers going into dairying and blooded stock. They have organized a Gurnsey Cattle club and bought some blooded stock.

Douglas county—Small grain was injured some by hot weather last week. Corn and potatoes will be an average crop; rye a fair crop. Barley is fair, but oats will fall a little short. The flax looks well. The hay crop will be a little short. There will not be a heavy yield of wheat here this year. Some small fields of alfalfa being tried out in this county.

Dodge county—General condition of all crops are the very best, excepting hay which will be light. Corn was never better at this time of the year. Alfalfa raising in this county is yet in its infancy, but it has proven that alfalfa can be raised here with good results. There it quite a demand for farm labor here.

Crow Wing county—Corn and potatoes, small grains and grasses were never better, and the fruit is good. Recent rains have done much good and some fields of corn are now waist high. Considerable alfalfa is raised in this county and is extra good. Lots of new settlers coming into Crow Wing county this year.

Lincoln county—Prospects in this county are good for an average yield and corn is far above the average for this time of the year. Some alfalfa being raised here. Chris Hansen, near Tyler, sowed three acres about seven or eight years ago. He cuts twice every season and it goes two tons to the acre. He has sowed several acres more this year. H. B. Danielson, near Hendricks, sowed two and one-half acres four years ago. He cuts three times the season, which yields him from a ton and a half to two tons per acre. Mr. Danielson first planted Grimms, but this year he obtained seed from South Dakota.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, July 14.—Generally fair, except for local thunder showers, is promised by the weather bureau for the coming week.

"A disturbance now over the northern Rocky mountain region," says the weekly bulletin, "will develop eastward and will be attended by local thunderstorms that will occur Monday over the northern plains states, and will extend eastward over the central and northern portions of the country.

"Another disturbance should appear over the extreme Northwest about the end of the week, bringing with it local showers in that section. No other precipitation of consequence is indicated during the week except on the Atlantic and East Gulf states, where thunder showers will continue.

"Over the plains states and the great central valleys higher temperatures may be expected during the early part of the week, followed by some moderation after the middle of the week and by another rise over the Northwest by the end of the week."

LUMBER DAMAGED $700,000 BY FIRE

Michigan City, Ind., July 14.—Revised estimates of the loss in the burning of twenty acres of stacked lumber here owned by the Haskell & Barker Car company, placed damages at $700,000, fully covered by insurance. The fire, which for a time menaced the city, was checked by the aid of dynamite and with the assistance of fire companies from Chicago and nearby cities.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ARE BUILDING IN VIRGINIA

More Construction Work Going on in Range City Than Ever.

Many New Homes Going Up, Some on Ground Just Cleared.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Construction work is going ahead here at a more rapid rate this summer than ever before in the city's history. A view of the city from the roads coming into the city, over the surrounding hills, shows that there is scarcely a street in the city but has its quota of new residences standing out and easily distinguished from the older built places.

The city is reaching out to the southeast beyond the Missabe tracks and there are many new homes there. The North side has a large number of new homes in the district in which is located the new North Side school. West Virginia has many new houses and there are fifteen or twenty houses west of the Canadian Northern shops and yards, built where just a few months ago there was nothing but jungle. Improvements in new homes, business buildings, street and railroad work, including twenty blocks of white way installation, will aggregate several hundred thousand dollars.

New Bank Building.

The largest piece of construction work under way at the present time is the First National Bank building, which covers a site 50 by 120 feet and will be six stories high, two higher than any other downtown building standing at the present time. This building will be of reinforced concrete and will be as thoroughly modern, as regards elevator service and other conveniences, as any city skyscraper.

BOND CASE HAS BEEN APPEALED

Now Goes to Supreme Court, Early Decision Being Expected.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arnold & Pickering, attorneys for Joseph Backus, who has appealed from Judge Hughes' order denying an injunction to tie up the issue of bonds for the purchase of the local light and water plant, today filed a supersedeas bond for $500. This perfects the appeal from the ruling of the local judge to the supreme court.

Expect Early Decision.

Owing to the importance of the matter, it is expected the higher court will set the case for early argument. There is a possibility the case may be argued and decided before the supreme court takes its annual vacation.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Fred Doyle, aged about 30 years, who was killed by being hit by the northbound night express on the Canadian Northern, was brought here today. Doyle was a woodsman. The remains are in charge of Coroner J. H. Crowe, awaiting information about relatives.

ELY MAN ASSAULTED.

Set Upon By Two Men and Left in Unconscious Condition.

Ely, Minn., July 14.—The police have arrested two residents of the Slavic colony charged with being implicated in the assault upon Assistant City Engineer David Schwartz Saturday night, when two men set upon him as he was approaching his home and beat him into insensibility. The motive for the deed is not known. The unconscious man was found by passersby and taken to the hospital, where he was revived.

According to the victim, he was returning home after accompanying a party of friends a short distance, at the time of the assault. A short distance from the depot two men jumped from a clump of trees near the path and attacked him. The engineer tried his best to beat the men off, and succeeded for a short time, until one of the men, seeing that the tide was turning against them, picked up a large stone and knocked his victim unconscious. Passersby noticed the body lying near the path a few minutes later, and the injured man, still unconscious, was taken to the hospital.

Some believe that the men were robbers, but that they were either scared away by the approach of pedestrians or became frightened, believing that they had killed the engineer.

DEER RIVER NOTES.

Buying Additional Machinery for Electric Light Plant.

Deer River, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. D. Patrick has had a man here looking over lands with a view to buying for stave and barrel head timber. He returned to Minneapolis Wednesday and will report within two weeks as to his intentions.

W. A. Everton went to Duluth Thursday to purchase more machinery to add more power to the electric plant.

J. E. O'Connell and a party of Duluth wholesale men went to Marcell Thursday morning to fish.

The wild strawberry crop is a big one this season and other berries are now about ripening. Cultivated strawberries have been used from local gardens for the past month and they are better than any shipped in.

A. E. McGuire, while working on a machine at the Deer River sawmill, was struck by a piece of edging flying back and had his ear cut almost completely off.

Well drillers have been busy in this section for several weeks, making new flows and starting contracts for more work of that nature. During the past two years about fifty flowing wells have been found in the vicinity of Deer River, and drillers are daily finding new springs. The latest strike was made by Charles Lovelace on the Arnold Wright property. An unusually large spring was found at a depth of 110 feet, and will be made into a pump well. Many of the farmers have been equipped with surface flows at a small expense.

SUMMERS MAKES SWELL, LONG HIT

Puts Ball Over Two Harbors Fence, But Duluthians Lose Game.

Two Harbors, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before the largest crowd that has witnessed a ball game here this year, the Gophers added another to their long line of victories when they defeated the fast Y. M. S. team of Duluth, 9 to 4, in a fast and well played game.

The local boys were the more aggressive throughout the entire contest except, possibly, in the fourth inning, when luck was with the visitors and they scored their four runs so quickly that the local fans hardly knew how it happened. According to the official scorer it happened like this: B. Owens reached first on an error; Suk reached first on a misjudged play, he knocking an easy grounder to the pitcher, who threw the ball to third base instead of first or second, both runners being safe; Ahern struck out; Sloan singled, and the bases were filled with one man out.

Puts Ball Over Fence.

Summers came to bat and knocked the ball high and far over the right field fence and then followed the other three baserunners around the diamond as though the feat was done from force of habit. It was, however, one of the cleanest and longest hits made on the local field and Mr. Summers was awarded for his hit by a series of applause from the crowd.

The visitors started out strong the first inning but were checked by the great work of Pitcher Roberts. With the bases full and only one man out, he tightened up and struck out the next two batters, thus retiring the side. During the entire nine innings he allowed but six hits.

The local boys all played good ball hitting regularly throughout the entire game. Although the locals made six errors, justifiable blame could be laid unto the field rather than the men. The local diamond are not in the best of condition especially in the outfield and the infield is not much better, grass and bumps being frequent, obstacles which the players find it hard to overcome. The score:

BIG SAWMILL RUNNING.

Great Virginia Plant Again Operates After Short Shutdown.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The world's largest sawmill, that of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company here, after being shut down three weeks for repairs, is again running with full crews.

Two new band saws have been added to the sawmill equipment at a heavy expense, replacing a gang saw. The other three band saws are being used regularly, while the two reaws are an important part of the equipment at the mill.

From 1,300 to 1,500 men are employed regularly as heretofore. The day and night shift crews will be increased.

Several large orders are to be filled and the three mills will cut 1,000,000 feet a day. The annual capacity of the mill is 300,000,000 feet.

KINNEY MAN BURIED.

Funeral of Felix Makkala Is Held at Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Felix Makkala, whose death occurred at Kinney, was held Sunday from the Finnish Lutheran church under the auspices of the M. W. A. Service was conducted by Rev. Peter Keranen of Eveleth. Mr. Makkala was 30 years old and leaves a wife and daughter. He had come to the range only recently.

CHISHOLM APPEALS FROM AWARD MADE.

Virginia, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Zapanec has appealed to the district court from the decision of the Chisholm board of appraisers who valued his property at $1,900. His lot was condemned for schoolsite purposes. Zapanec claims his piece of ground is worth $3,600.

The land is to be used as a site for the new Chisholm high school, which will cost $200,000.

ARCHBISHOP VISITS INTERNATIONAL FALLS

International Falls, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul and Bishop McGolrick of Duluth spent two days here looking after the interests of their church in this section and expressed themselves as very much pleased with this section.

Aurora Defeats Mountain Iron.

Aurora, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora won yesterday from Mountain Iron on the local grounds, 8 to 2. Donculovich, who pitched for Aurora, was effective at all times. The Mountain Iron battery was strong, but their support was weak. The game was featureless.

BUHL MAN IS HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE

John Maki Bound Over, Charged With Taking Another's Watch.

Buhl, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Maki, who is accused of robbing John Berg of a gold watch worth $36.50, was bound over by Judge Barrett to the grand jury which will meet in August. He was unable to raise his bail and was taken to Virginia to be held in the county jail until his trial is called.

Dan and Eli Madich, brothers, attempted to give John Jarvinen a beating, and succeeded to some extent. Their blows resulted in Eli getting eighty days and Dan sixty. They were taken to Duluth by Deputy Sheriff O'Dea.

Peter Lesich did not celebrate on the Fourth, so took a post-celebration. He took a brick and hurled it against a window in the Farmers' Perhal building. The judge imposed a fine of $14.95, but Lesich was penniless. He was taken to Duluth to serve a fifteen-day sentence.

SIXTEEN INNINGS TO DECIDE WINNER.

Eveleth, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—It required sixteen innings to decide the winner in the ball game here yesterday between the locals and the Virginia Mohamis in the Trolley league, a two-base hit by Baker for Virginia winning the game for the visitors, 3 to 1. It was the best game here this season, being a pitchers' battle between Foster of the locals and Schrader of the Mohami club. Virginia succeeded in tying the score in the eighth inning and the contest went into extra sessions, finally being ended by Baker's two-base hit.

The batteries were: Virginia, Schrader and Burns; Eveleth, Foster and Murphy.

McKENZIE COUNTY TO HAVE RAILROAD.

Plaza, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement that the Soo has decided to resume construction of its line from this point into McKenzie county across the Fort Berthold reservation has caused much rejoicing in McKenzie where there is no railroad.

AURORA WILL VOTE ON BONDS TUESDAY.

Aurora, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., the electors of this village will vote upon a $10,000 bond issue for paving. The bonds are to be issued to the state of Minnesota at 4 per cent interest.

TOWER BRIEFS.

Tower, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. James Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its annual picnic on Wednesday on Lake Vermilion. The Vermilion Boat and Outing company will furnish transportation facilities.

The Commercial club has elected J. D. Murphy treasurer to succeed O. W. Akerson, resigned. Mr. Akerson contemplates returning to Minneapolis.

The launch Sally is now leaving at 1:30 p. m. for points up the lake, remaining over night at Goodwin's. The time of arrival at Tower is 10:00 a. m. A large party of young people attended the dance at Goodwill's. The Steamer Olive was chartered for the trip.

A heavy rain prevailed in this section Friday and Saturday. Sunday the sun shone and the day was delightful.

There are quite a number of houses for sale here at present, owing to miners having moved away or who are contemplating such action.

Grand Rapids Funeral.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Joseph Mitchell, who died here Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank McCormick, where he lived, aged 75, was held from St. Joseph's at 9 a. m. today.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Canada and for many years lived at Aitkin, coming here about two years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. W. C. Messenger of Ray.

Selling Lots in Townsite.

Coleraine, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A townsite company has advertised the sale of town lots on a small tract of land between Bovey and Taconite, only a mile and a half from these above named villages and a few rods from the now almost abandoned town of Holman, located on a forty which was exploited about six years ago.

Postpone Aitkin Farmers' Picnic.

Aitkin, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers' picnic that was to have been held Saturday on the fair grounds was postponed on account of rain.

Frank O'Neil is suffering with a broken leg sustained while engaged in a friendly wrestling match with a companion.

McGuire Building Bungalow.

Grand Rapids, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the North Central experiment farm, has broken ground at Pokegama lake for a story and a half bungalow, to be built of logs. The camp has been named "Shore Acres," and adjoins the O. J. Niles farm on the west.

A JURY OF PHYSICIANS

Doubtless many who have read our announcements have said: "They were not genuine cases of Bright's Disease." Then how about cases like this?

R. C. Pell, corner of Broadway and Battery streets, is the manager of one of San Francisco's big corporations. He had a son who had Bright's Disease. His was greatly swollen with dropsy and a United States Army surgeon was called in. He reported the case Bright's, and incurable. Although Pell had great confidence in the physician he called in another. After careful examination he corroborated the Army surgeon's report. They told him he could not raise the lad.

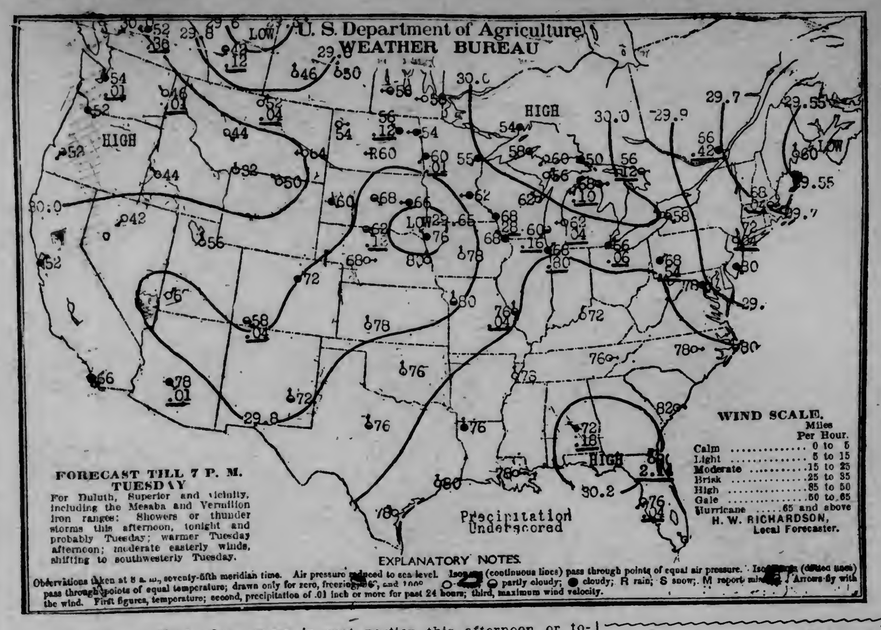

He thereupon put the patient on Fulton's Renal Compound. He began to mend and in six months was well; but the father could hardly credit it. He took a sample to a third physician. He reported it normal. To be absolutely certain he called in a fourth physician for a last analysis. He also reported it normal.

As to the permanence of the results obtained in this case, this was eight years ago and the patient, now a young man, is in business in San Francisco.

There is no escape whatever from the fact that Bright's Disease is being cured by Fulton's Renal Compound. If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. You can get it at druggists supplied by Leithhead Drug company.

For pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease, write Jonn J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. TUESDAY

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges: Showers or thunder storms this afternoon, tonight and probably Tuesday; warmer Tuesday afternoon; moderate easterly winds, shifting to southwesterly Tuesday.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., seventy-fifth meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing and 100 degrees. Arrows fly with the wind. Figures, temperature; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

RAIN

Nobody was gasping for breath yesterday, but Duluth had a beautiful summer day. In fact, some people had to move out of the sun, despite the fact that the highest temperature was only 68 deg. Today is gray and cool, but the weather man promises showers for tonight or tomorrow.

Rain fell a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:12 and it will set at 8:04 this evening, giving fifteen hours and fifty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Since Saturday morning showers or thunder storms occurred in Atlantic states, the Lake region, Ohio and Mississippi valleys, North Dakota, Western Canada, Washington, Arizona, Colorado and North Central Nebraska. Heavy rains fell over Southern Wisconsin. Hot weather prevailed Saturday throughout the Southwest and on Sunday over most of the Central and Southern states, temperatures of 100 deg. or higher occurring in Kansas and Nebraska. Indications favor showery weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, July 14.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours, ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Lower Michigan—Local thunder showers tonight or Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

Wisconsin—Thunder showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer tonight.

Minnesota—Thunder showers tonight or Tuesday.

Iowa—Thunder showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler tonight in west portion.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday.

South Dakota—Fair in west, showers in east portion this afternoon or tonight; cooler tonight in central and east portions; Tuesday fair and warmer.

Montana—Fair tonight, warmer in west and north portions; Tuesday fair and warmer.

Upper Lakes — Moderate, variable winds; thunder showers tonight or Tuesday, except generally fair weather on Superior.

WOUNDS HIS FRIEND.

Then North Dakotan Runs Away With Wounded Hand.

Tolna, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—While handling a revolver, Harold Anderson shot himself through the hand, the bullet going into the abdomen of Clifford Breckheimer. The latter will recover. Alarmed over his act, Anderson fled, and when finally found, hidden in a pasture near here, his hand was in bad condition from lack of care.

BASEBALL HERO IS FACING PENITENTIARY.

New Rockford, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the crowd was still gleefu over Ed. Walton's three-base hit that had practically won a baseball game for New Rockford against an opposing club, Sheriff George F. Fraher arrested the ball player, charging him with burglary in connection with the recent burglary of the New Rockford Hardware company. Soon after his arrest, he confessed being implicated. The booty has been recovered and Walton will go before Judge Butts to make a plea of guilty, facing a sentence of from one to five years for the crime.

FORMER EDITOR OF NORTH DAKOTA DIES.

Carrington, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. O. Fanning, who established the second newspaper in Foster county, died recently in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Fanning was but 18 years old when he began publication of the Foster County Gazette in 1893. J. Morley Wyard, now of Minneapolis, established the first paper several months earlier.

Fanning, after his work here, went to Brooklyn and continued in the newspaper business.

Given Bowpells Franchise.

Bowbells, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. M. Bearden of Graceville, Mich., has been granted a 20-year electric light franchise. There was considerable opposition on the part of local people, but the council was strongly in favor of the plan. It is proposed to have the plant in operation by October.

Many people cannot afford to have weak nerves. It would mean loss of livelihood. To everyone the loss of nervous energy is a serious matter. Every action uses up nervous energy which in health is steadily renewed by the blood.

As soon as the blood, for any reason, loses this power to constantly rebuild the nerves, a nervous breakdown threatens.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic for the blood and their tonic action strengthens weak nerves. They are sold by all druggists, fifty cents per box, six boxes for $2.50 or direct by mail. The booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," will be sent free upon request.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota, State Auditor's Office.

St. Paul, July 8, 1913.

Notice is hereby given, That on Aug. 20, 1913, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the state of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1st, 1914, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year; provided, the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

Pursuant to the order of the above named District Court, duly made and filed in the above entitled matter in said Court,

Notice is hereby given you, that the administrator of said estate has in his possession a certain sum of money received by him on account of the alleged wrongful death of said decedent, for the benefit of the heirs. An application has been made by said petitioner to the above named court for an order allowing and adjusting the fees and expenses of said administrator and all other expenses incurred in connection with the collection and distribution of said fund, determining the lawful heirs and next of kin of the decedent, and other persons entitled to share in the distribution of said fund as creditors or otherwise, and authorizing and directing the respondent-administrator to distribute said fund in accordance with such determination. Said application will be brought on for hearing before said Court, at a Special Term thereof, to be held in the County Court House of the City of Duluth, St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 30th day of August, 1913, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard at which time and place all persons interested in the distribution of said fund may assert their claims and will be heard therein.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto signed my name and caused the official seal of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Consulate to be hereunto attached this 25th day of June, 1913, at St. Paul, Minnesota.

EDGAR PROCHNIK,
Imperial and Royal Consul for Austria-Hungary aforesaid, as the Legal Representative of the Heirs of said Decedent Petitioners.
(Seal of said Consulate.)

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF PROVED HATCH COMPANY, A CORPORATION OF MINNESOTA.

Notice is hereby given that on the 12th day of July, 1913, the Hon. W. A. Cant, judge of the district court of the Eleventh Judicial District, issued an order of said court, which is now on file with the clerk of said court, citing all persons interested in the aforesaid corporation to appear Aug. 23, 1913, at ten o'clock a. m. at the court house in the city of Duluth and show cause, if any, why the petition for dissolution of said corporation be not allowed, and a notice of said order be published in the Duluth Evening Herald for three successive weeks.

DAVID DAVIS,
Attorney for Petitioner.
Dated July 12, 1913.

CONFLICT IN TWO VERDICTS

Juries Differ as to Where Assault on Rensaa Occurred.

Saloon Keeper and Sureties Endeavor to Set Aside Damage Award.

A new phase has developed in the fight which Gust Egdahl, saloonkeeper, and his sureties, are making in district court for a new trial in the Rensaa case, wherein a $7,488 verdict has been returned in favor of Mrs. Inga Rensaa and against Egdahl and his sureties as compensation for the loss of services of her husband, Delaus Rengaa, who was kicked and blinded in a saloon squabble.

Egdahl claims that the jury which convicted Matt Engel of the assault must have found that the assault did not take place in his saloon as was the opinion of the jury in the personal injury action, but that it occurred in the North Star lodging house above the saloon. Since the case has been tried, he claims that he has evidence to bear out this point and asks for a new trial.

Affidavits are Offered.

Today, Attorney John Jenswold, Jr., for Mrs. Rensaa filed notice of a motion to introduce the affidavits of Matt Engel and his wife, Josie Engel, in reference to what connection there was between the North Star lodging house and the saloon.

Josie Engel, common law wife of Matt Engel, in her affidavit swears that Egdahl owns the lodging house and that at the time the assault occurred, she and her husband Matt Engel, were simply acting as agents. This is also sworn to by Matt Engel.

It is also claimed by the Engels that Egdahl was fully informed why Engel left the city immediately after the fracas with Rensaa. Egdahl was told, it is claimed, that Engel left because he was afraid of being arrested.

Mrs. Engel claims that since Sept. 16 last, when she severed her connections with the North Star lodging house that Egdahl tried to get her back into his employ. The affidavits offered, it is understood, to show that Egdahl cannot hope to escape liability even in the face of the alleged contradictory verdicts of the juries in the civil and criminal cases.

BISHOP INTERCEDES FOR "WHITE SLAVER"

M. E. Church Official Urges Pardon of Boyhood Playmate.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty-five cases, the greatest number in the history of the pardon board of the state, today are before that body for action.

One of the important cases to be heard is that of Mathew H. McNabb, convicted last March of "white slavery" in connection with a young woman from Champaign, Ill.

A message was received today from Bishop E. Hughes of the M. E. church, San Francisco, asking that if possible, McNabb be pardoned. Bishop Hughes and McNabb were boyhood playmates.

POSTAL EMPLOYES GREET BENEDICT.

Over seventy-five employes of the postoffice this afternoon greeted Anthony J. Gruesen, when he returned from a wedding trip to Windsor, Ont.

Every employe in the postal department had a large horn and cowbell with which to greet the newly married fellow-worker and the reception was complete in every respect.

Mr. Gruesen and Miss Jennie Bellcperche of this city were married on June 11 and left the following day for a month's wedding trip with relatives of the bride at Windsor. They both returned this noon and will make their home at 420 Fourteenth avenue east.

THREATENS GIRL THEN KILLS SELF

Former Anokan, Spurned in Love, Takes Life Near Gorham, N. D.

Benfield, N. D., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Victor Olson, a young homesteader, living near Gorham, shot himself when his affections were spurned by 17-year-old Helen Hamilton. Olson loaded a small rifle and threatened to shoot the girl, but she jumped from a window and fled to the home of a neighbor.

When the latter went to the Hamilton home Olson was dead. He formerly lived at Anoka, Minn.

MORE FARGO OPIUM ARRESTS EXPECTED

Railroad Porter Supposed to Have Helped Bring Drug to Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., July 14.—More arrests are to follow the twelve made last night in raids made on opium resorts. Local officials have evidence that there has been a general headquarters locally from which a supply of opium was received in addition to packages coming by mail. A sleeping car porter from St. Paul is suspected of having been bringing the drug here. Postoffice Inspector Chase, and both county and city officials are interested in the prosecution, and hope to land the ringleaders in the affair.

TRAIN NEARLY FALLS INTO LAKE SUPERIOR

Toronto-Winnipeg Express Has Close Call at Rossport.

Winnipeg, July 14.—The Toronto-Winnipeg express on the Canadian Pacific had a narro wescape from destruction early today and traffic for twenty-four hours is tied up as the result of the sliding of ninety-five feet of way into the waters of Lake Superior at Rossport, 150 miles east of Port William, Ont. Large gangs of men are engaged in double-tracking the line at that point.

The last car of the express scarcely had passed over the track when a stretch of ninety-five feet, including telegraph poles, ties and steel, went into the lake.

ELY ASSAILANT IS FINED $100

One of Two Men Who Beat Up Schwartz Admits Guilt.

Ely, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city continues deeply roused over the brutal assault a few nights ago upon Assistant City Engineer David Schwartz, when he was set upon by two men near the Iron Range depot and knocked into insensibility. He is recovering at the Shipman hospital. Two Slovenians, known as Tony and Matt, were arrested. One pleaded guilty before Judge Jury in municipal court and was fined $100. The other will be tried tomorrow. It is believed others were implicated and the affair has aroused deep resentment.

NAMES COMMISSION FOR UNIFORM LAWS

Eberhart Picks Brown, Lees and Severance to Represent State.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart today appointed Rome G. Brown of Minneapolis, Edward Lees of Winona, and C. A. Severance of St. Paul, as Minnesota commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States.

EBERHART SOON TO START HIS CAMPAIGN

Plans Early Tour in Favor of Utilities Regulation.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart, who returned today from a trip through the East, shortly will commence his state-wide campaign for a public utilities law. A special session of the legislature to consider such a measure is to be called later in the summer.

Gustav Widdell of Mankato, a member of the governor's staff, injured in an automobile accident in Chicago yesterday, arrived with the party from Chicago today. His condition is not serious.

Objections on the ground that the committee was exceeding its prerogatives caused the senate special committee on public utilities, meeting at the capitol today, to desist from its determination to call on Governor Eberhart and ask him not to call a special session, or if he has not called it, to have it in January, instead of October.

The committee, after a long hunt for the resolution under which it was created found that it was specifically instructed to draw a bill for the regulation of all utilities, and that it was without the discretionary power given the house committee created under a similar resolution.

The committee then dropped both its resolution to the governor and its informal visit and decided to talk over the general subject of public utilities.

Senator Dwinnell advocated a series of hearings at which people who have studied the subject may come in and give their views. Senator Cheadle said that only people who are directly interested would appear. Senator Hackney said that if only those who were interested in utility plants would appear it was an indication there was no demand for legislation of this kind.

LONGSHOREMEN MEET AT BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., July 14.—Every important port on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and on the Great Lakes was represented at a convention of the International Longshoremen's association, which opened today.

THE MIRACLES OF THE CUB REPORTER

In Any Newspaper Story After an Impossible Series of Incidents in Which He Is Complete Master, the New Man "Makes Good" With a "Scoop."

New York Sun: "Here!" shrieked the city editor to Flinnagan, the cub reporter, his wild glance jerking around the city room in the way that city editors' eyes behave. (See any newspaper story in any magazine.) Now the city editor intended no discourtesy to Flinnagan, but he was a man who worked high tension, and this caused a certain vibrant tautness of nerves, a condition common in newspaper offices, the very buildings of which hum with the world's doings, beginning at the cellar, where the telegraph wires from all parts of the world pour their tales of death and victory and other momentous events through the foundations, to the very roof, on which the slender threads of the wireless expose their frail sensitiveness to the winds, picking therefrom tales which mark the progress and the failures of the human race.

Flinnagan, the cub, stepped confidently to the desk. The city editor spoke rapidly, excitedly. Such word as "diplomat of international fame," "secret convention," "foreign complications" and other terms to thrill the blood dropped from his lips.

"We depend on you," he finished. "Don't fall us."

He Will not Fail.

"Be at ease," replied Flinnagan as he started off.

J. Garrote had just lighted a cigarette when a well-dressed young man jumped into the driver's seat of his cab and threw in the clutch. J. Garrote leaped forward with an oath, then suddenly stopped and touched his cap in salute. Flinnagan had simply mentioned the name of his paper. It was enough.

But at the great hotel they told him that the diplomat had already gone. Where? Well, he left directions to have his mail forwarded to Washington. Flinnagan smiled.

"Then I guess I'll find him in Paterson," he said to the clerk as he turned rapidly away.

With a word of apology to the telephone central he tok her place and in confident tones assured his city editor that all would be well.

Running a Submarine.

It took but a moment to reach the foot of Forty-second street, North river. At the end of the pier a young lieutenant was just stepping aboard a submarine. Flinnagan spoke. The lieutenant acquiesced at once. No sooner had the lid been screwed down and the emergency can opener placed on its readily accessible hook, than Flinnagan started it down. Down and down he took it.

"Good heavens, man!" cried the lieutenant, "don't go down too far."

"I guess not," replied Flinnagan, easily, glancing into the reflector of the periscope. "Been running one of these things long?" he inquired. "I notice your bilex ditty valve is out of adjustment. Got to be careful about these little things when you're running a sub."

The lieutenant made no answer. As the fishlike craft came to the surface, like a whale coming up for air, the clang of a locomotive bell was heard. Flinnagan sprang ashore and ran swiftly down the platform. Already the Paterson express had gathered headway, but it required no great effort for Flinnagan to leap into the locomotive cab.

"I'll drive it, if you don't mind," he said to the engineer. "I'm in a hurry." And the engineer fell back.

Like the lieutenant, the engineer showed some anxiety as Flinnagan proceeded to get every ounce out of it; but he held his peace until they had dashed into Paterson half an hour ahead of schedule.

Then, amid the cries of the frightened passengers, the engineer, through chattering teeth, attempted to remonstrate. But Flinnagan was gone.

The telegraph instrument on the city editor's desk began to click in a clear, sharp tone, a tone that voiced the sending of a master hand. It was Flinnagan, using his paper's secret telegraph code, reassuring his distraught chief.

This done, Flinnagan hastened, behind the swiftest horse Paterson could provide, to Bayonne. Luckily a lean, gray torpedo boat was just shooting down the bay.

Using his lavender bordered handkerchief for a signal flag, Flinnagan, wigwagged the craft. It swung about and Flinnagan leaped aboard.

"I'll take the wheel, old chap," he said, and the commander of the craft stepped aside.

By Aid of Wireless.

Signalling to the engine room, Flinnagan drove ahead at a speed that made even the grizzled boatswain's mate look apprehensively toward the boiler. But on they sped.

Hull down to windward the great liner plunged toward Cowes. It must be stopped. Steering his vessel with one hand, Flinnagan reached for the wireless key with the other. The ether cracked as the Hertzian waves snapped on their way. As though in response to a psychic force the great liner was seen to hesitate like some huge, uncertain marine monster and come to a stop. Flinnagan's slim craft drew alongside.

At last the moment was at hand. As he seized a megaphone Flinnigan cast about in his mind for some medium of communication frought with no danger of general understanding. There might be some Russian Finns among the crew, but then, had not a man once taken a chance, and had he not been fished out of the river, moist but safe, just in the shadow of a great bridge? Flinnagin decided. He spoke rapidly in Russian.

A Story Without Words.

The diplomat had leaned over the rail. Indifferently he looked at Flinnagan and with scant attention. But as Flinnagan's words fell on his ear, surprise was visible on his face, then chagrin. Flinnagan smiled, for he knew how secret the diplomat had kept his mission and how it jarred on him to be discovered. But the diplomat's self-possession returned at once. Then he shrugged.

A shrug, that was all. But to Flinnagan that shrug was freighted with a world of meaning. He put up his notebook and pencil, with which he had been prepared to record the diplomat's answers in rapid yet perfectly legible shorthand, and waved the liner on.

A hydro-aeroplane swooped overhead, came gliding down and rested lightly as a swan on the water. A hurried word, and Flinnagan grasped the control levers, the aviator shifting over to the passenger seat. It took but a moment to reach the Battery.

As Flinnagan leaped ashore a trolley car was starting uptown. Jumping on to the front platform, the tireless and resourceful Flinnagan grasped brake and controller. The car clanged its way through the crowded streets. It took corners on four wheels, but there was no danger, as Flinnagan's quick eye had noted that it was an eight-wheeled car. With an exultant bound Flinnagan dashed into the office, dropped in front of a typewriter and began turning out page after page of clean, well-written copy. Triumph—the town was scooped.

Flinnagan, the cub, had "arrived."

WOMEN BRAVE.

London Standard: If Prussian statistics give any idea of the relative proportion, then women must be much fonder of life than men, for more than three men commit suicide for every woman who takes her own life. According to the Berlin correspondent of the Lancet, the number of suicides in Prussia showed a slight decrease in 1911, when twenty-one cases were registered for each 100,000 of the population, as compared with twenty-two in 1910. The actual number of persons who took their own lives was 8,422, of whom 6,394 were men and 2,028 were women.

KING IN DISGUISE.

Indianapolis News: A ruler who journeyed to the scene of his coronation in disguise was the king of Roumania. Prince Charles of Hohenzollern traveled to Bucharest in 1866 in defiance of the powers when war between Prussia and Austria was imminent. In Switzerland he had a passport made out in the name of "Karl Hettingen." At the Austrian frontier a customs official demanded his name and the prince had forgotten it. Happily Councillor von Werner, who accompanied him, had the presence of mind to create a diversion by insisting on paying duty for some cigars and meanwhile the prince consulted his passport.

STANDING ROOM ONLY.

Philadelphia Inquirer: There is no trouble about the matinee hat in Turkey, and in that happy country the cry: "Sit down, please!" is never heard from the back row in a theater. As a matter of fact no one sits down at the play at all. The first three rows of the audience lie in a reclining position; the next three rows kneel, and remain in that attitude throughout the piece; everyone else stands up. Another quaint point about the theater in Turkey is that a notice appears on the walls of the building to the effect that "It is strictly forbidden to laugh, for it is a tragedy that is being performed."

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

We, G. A. TOMLINSON, as President, and DAVID W. STOCKING, as Secretary, of THE SUPERIOR STEAMSHIP COMPANY, do hereby certify that at the annual meeting of the stockholders of THE SUPERIOR STEAMSHIP COMPANY, duly held at the office of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1913, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon thereof, pursuant to due notice given, as provided by the By-Laws of said corporation, at which said meeting 2444 shares out of a total of 4450 shares of the capital stock of said corporation issued and outstanding, were represented in person or by proxy, resolutions were unanimously adopted by the vote of all the said stock so represented as aforesaid at said meeting, amending the Certificate of Incorporation of the corporation to the extent and in the particulars hereinafter named, which said resolutions are in words and figures following, to-wit:

"RESOLVED (1), That Article VI of Certificate of Incorporation of THE SUPERIOR STEAMSHIP COMPANY be, and the same hereby is, amended so as to read as follows:

"'ARTICLE VI.'"

"'The government of the corporation, and the management of its affairs, shall be vested in a Board of three Directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation.

"'Members of the Board of Directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, or at any adjournment thereof, for a period of one year, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

"'The persons forming this corporation shall constitute its first Board of Directors.

"'The annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the first Tuesday in June in each year, at the hour of 4 o'clock in the afternoon thereof.

"'The Board of Directors shall hold, without any notice thereof, its first meeting for the year immediately after the election of the Directors at said annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof. At said meeting, the Board of Directors shall elect from its own number, a President and a Vice President, and shall also elect a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Board of Directors, all of whom shall constitute the officers of the corporation, and shall hold office for one year, and until their successors have been elected and qualified.

"'The offices of President and of Treasurer, or of Vice President and of Treasurer, or of Secretary and of Treasurer, may be held by the same person.

"'Any vacancies in the Board of Directors, or in any of the said offices, may be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

"'The Board of Directors is invested with complete and unrestricted authority in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and is authorized to exercise for such purposes, as general agent of the corporation, its entire corporate authority.'

"RESOLVED (2), That the President and the Secretary of this Company be, and they hereby are, authorized and directed to make, execute and acknowledge a certificate, under the corporate seal of this Company, embracing this and the foregoing resolution, and to cause such certificate to be filed, recorded, and published in the manner required by law."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the undersigned, have, pursuant to the foregoing authorization, hereunto subscribed our names, as aforesaid, and caused the corporate seal of said corporation to be hereunto affixed, in triplicate, this 27th day of June A. D. 1913.

CERTIFICATE OF AMENDMENT —OF— CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— THE INTER OCEAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

We, G. A. TOMLINSON, as President, and DAVID W. STOCKING, as Secretary, of THE INTER OCEAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY, do hereby certify that at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, on the 4th day of June, A. D. 1913, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon thereof, pursuant to due notice given, as provided by the By-Laws of said corporation, at which said meeting 2460 shares out of a total of 3000 shares of the capital stock of said corporation issued and outstanding, were represented in person or by proxy, resolutions were unanimously adopted by the vote of all the said stock so represented as aforesaid at said meeting, amending the Certificate of Incorporation of the corporation to the extent and in the particulars hereinafter named, which said resolutions are in words and figures following, to-wit:

"RESOLVED (1), That Article I of the Certificate of Incorporation of THE INTER OCEAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY be, and the same hereby is, amended so as to read as follows:

"'ARTICLE VI.'"

"The government of the corporation and the management of its affairs, shall be vested in a Board of three Directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation.

"'Members of the Board of Directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, or at any adjournment thereof, for a period of one year, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

"The persons forming this corporation shall constitute its first Board of Directors.

"'The annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the first Tuesday in June in each year, at the hour of 4 o'clock in the afternoon thereof.

"'The Board of Directors shall hold, without any notice thereof, its first meeting for the year immediately after the election of the Directors at said annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof. At said meeting, the Board of Directors shall elect from its own number, a President and a Vice President, and shall also elect a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Board of Directors, all of whom shall constitute the officers of the corporation, and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and qualified.

"'The offices of President and of Treasurer, or of Vice President and of Treasurer, or of Secretary and of Treasurer, may be held by the same person.

"'Any vacancies in the Board of Directors, or in any of the said offices, may be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

"'The Board of Directors is invested with complete and unrestricted authority in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and is authorized to exercise for such purposes, as general agent of the corporation, its entire corporate authority.'

"RESOLVED (2), That the President and the Secretary of this Company be, and they hereby are, authorized and directed to make, execute and acknowledge a certificate, under the corporate seal of this Company, embracing this and the foregoing resolution, and to cause such certificate to be filed, recorded and published in the manner required by law."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the undersigned, have, pursuant to the foregoing authorization, hereunto subscribed our names, as aforesaid, and caused the corporate seal of said corporation to be hereunto affixed, in triplicate, this 27th day of June, A. D. 1913.

RUST PUTS WHEAT UP

Black Scourge Reported From North Dakota Causes Advance.

Flax Uncertain and in Waiting Attitude—Needs Developing.

Duluth Board of Trade, July 14.—The scare of black rust that drove spring wheat up 1½c about the middle of the session, lasted until the close, confirming reports coming in later. July wheat gained ½c for the day, September advanced ⅞c, and July and September durum gained ¼c each. Oats advanced ⅝c and corn gained 1⅝c, while rye fell off ½c and barley remained unchanged.

September puts, 89⅜@89¾c; calls, 90⅝c.

This morning the wheat market opened steady and for the most of the early hours of the session remained practically unchanged from Saturday's closing price. July was quite inactive and September did not show much evidence of interest. Durum did not have a quotation for the first hour and a half.

At 11 o'clock J. A. Todd received a wire to the effect that black rust has developed near Fargo. This was the signal for a demonstration and spring wheat jumped 1½c at once. In the last hour that was the level they held no further advance being scored, and with the general tendency toward weakness. July durum was traded in to some extent at Saturday's closing price, but September remained motionless.

The coarse grains showed more activity, corn advancing strongly on reports of hot and unfavorable weather in the southwest. But generally speaking, the market was a quiet one.

Flax Levels Vary.

Flax acted most uncertainly today, some options making gains and others losing ground. November and December options are now cutting some figure but the market as a whole is in an uncertain and waiting condition. It is claimed that flax is very backward throughout the Northwest, and that unless the very finest of weather prevails right along to develop the crop rapidly it will be in danger of being caught by the frost. July gained ⅝c; October ⅛c and November ¼c. September close ⅛c off and December closed unchanged and nominal.

Samuel Hoover of the Hoover Grain company returned this morning from a trip to Thief River Falls, and will leave this evening for a trip of several days through North Dakota. Mr. Hoover says that the crop around Thief River Falls is in better shape than it was a year ago.

S. H. Jones received a wire this morning to he effect that Kansas reports heat to the extent of 108 deg. in several places, and Osborne county, Ill., says that the thermometer there registers 115 in the shade. When two prominent members of the Board of Trade read the telegram, they broke into profuse perspiration at the mere thought of such heat. Mr. Jones wired back to his informant that "It's cool in Duluth."

J. B. Beecher, for years with the Peavey Elevator company and later with the Butte & Superior Mining company, and H. J. La Bree, until recently with Van Dusen-Harrington, have formed a partnership in the grain business and have offices at 418 Board of Trade building. The firm, which is called Beecher & La Bree, has memberships in Duluth and Minneapolis.

Fargo: The good fields show some improvement but the poor fields are looking just as bad as ever. More wild oats are showing up every day. Ole Aslund of Halstad said that in examining the wheat fields yesterday he found worms working just above the first joint and heads turning white. The worms are about three-eighths of an inch long and fine as thread. He is cutting 25 to 30 acres and says there is not a farmer in that locality who is not cutting all the way from 25 to 100 acres of wheat for hay on account of wild oats.

Grand Forks: The crop between here and Larimore have been done a great deal of good by the recent rains. Early sown grain was badly damaged by the dry weather and stools killed, so that only the main stalk will mature. The late grain has received the most benefit, and stand and color is much better than early seeded and is making good growth. A good percentage of the wheat and some oats are headed out.

World's shipments: American, 5,322,000 bu; Russian, 824,000 bu; Danubian, 128,000 bu; Indian, 2,662,000 bu; Argentine, 360,000 bu; Australian, 1,072,000 bu; Austria-Hungary, 24,000 bu; Chili-North Africa, 30,000 bu; total, 10,432,000 bu.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Advance Though Damage Reports Are Discredited.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 14.—Wheat opened strong, shorts were forced to cover and prices advanced. Unconfirmed reports of black rust from Fargo, N. D., Comstock, Minn., and Ada, Minn., were not taken seriously. July closed ¾c higher than Saturday, September ⅞c higher and December ¾@⅞c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 355,000 bushels for two days.

Close: Spot, quiet; middling uplands, 12.30; gulf, 12.55. Sales none.

July opened 88c, high 88c, low 88c, closed 88c; September opened 89⅝@89½c, high 90¼c, low 89⅛c, closed 90⅛@90¼c; December opened 92c, high 93c, low 91⅞c, closed 92¾@92⅞c.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Weak, But Rallies on Good Buying.

Chicago, July 14.—Good buying on the part of leading houses rallied wheat today after weakness at the outset. It was said that country points were not selling freely at reduced prices. Besides, world shipments were reported light, with foreign stocks decreasing. The opening ranged from ⅝@½c ports heat to the extent of 108 deg. in lower to a shade advance. September, which started at 86¼@86⅜c a loss of ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c, rose to 86⅞c.

An additional upturn resulted from improved export demand and because of black rust said to have been discovered in Minnesota and North Dakota. The close was firm with September ⅞c net higher at 87@87⅛c.

Smallness of receipts made corn firm. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜c higher at 59¾@59⅞c to 60c and advanced to 60⅜c.

Crop damage advices from the Southwest caused a further advance. The close was strong, 1⅜c net higher for September at 61¼c.

Covering by shorts lifted oats. September started unchanged to ¼c higher at 38⅜@39c and went up to 39⅝c.

Provisions weakened with hogs. First sales were 2½@12½c off, including September options as follows: Pork, $20.90; lard, $11.72½; ribs, $11.70@11.72½.

STOCKS HAVE HEAVY CLOSE

Feature of Day Is Extreme Dullness of the Market.

Selling in Volume Fails to Develop Despite Traders' Efforts.

New York, July 14.—Except for the small decline at the opening and the subsequent recovery, prices on the stock market hardly varied during the morning. The aspect of the market which continued to command most attention was its almost unparalleled dullness. The total of the morning's tradings was not enough to furnish half an hour's lively business.

The possibility of a big railroad strike restricted business and resumption of gold exports was another deterring factor. Canadian Pacific was persistently heavy and Smelting lost a point. Louisville and Sears-Roebuck gained 2, and Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Western Union 1½. Otherwise there were no changes of importance.

Lower prices in London were reflected at the opening of the market here in a decline of all the active stocks. Canadian Pacific opened a point lower and Reading, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Lehigh and Amalgamated Copper a half. Trading was light and the list at no point was under heavy pressure.

Lower prices at the opening brought out a limited amount of buying orders. A quick recovery followed at the expense of bear traders, who covered hurriedly. Business became more active on the upturn, but speculation dropped off and finally came almost to a halt. Prices held steady with the exception of Canadian Pacific, which slipped back again nearly to its opening.

Weakness of Smelting and Amalgamated centered attention on the copper group during the noon hour. Smelting's loss was increased to 1⅝ and Amalgamated fell back a point. Otherwise, the list held steady, and although trading continued quiet, the market was characterized by a firm undertone.

Selling operations were widened and leading stocks eased off in sympathy with the copper shares, giving the market an appearance of heaviness. There was no urgent selling, however, and losses were limited to fractions.

The market closed heavy. The tactics of the room traders in offering down the favorite stocks failed to induce selling in volume and the decline was neither severe nor prolonged. Smelting rose fractionally above its low price. The remainder of the list grew steadier although falling to rally.

London Stocks.

London, July 14.—The American department varied little throughout the session. The close was dull.

Cotton Market.

New York, July 14.—The cotton market, after opening steady today at unchanged prices, fluctuated within a range of 2 or 3 points during the early trading. Liverpool was a shade better than expected, but private crop reports were generally favorable, and the census report on supply and distribution was considered about a standoff. Prospects for continued hot weather in the Southwest and further boll weevil complaints seemed to check selling on the reported favorable average progress of the crop.

Cotton futures closed steady. Closing bids: July, 12.14; August, 12.10; September, 11.68; October, 11.47; November, 11.36; December, 11.37; January, 11.32; February, 11.33; March, 11.39; May, 11.43.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

Wire trouble east of Chicago this morning, lasting through a large part of the trading hours, handicapped the markets in stocks, and as a result very little was done in Duluth. Quotations were few and there was no news sent in to tell how things were going. Stocks closed generally about the same as Saturday.

LOSING A JOB.

Chicago News: "I used to be a railroad man," remarked the stout commercial traveler to the thin station agent.

"They all did,' replied the agent.

The stout commercial traveler produced a cigar and handed it to the agent. "It was an easy job I had," he said then. "All I had to do was to get up and go to work at 6 in the morning, and after 9:30 at night I had no duties whatever. I was free."

"They are all about like that," declared the agent.

"I started in as baggage man," said the commercial traveler. "I had a system of my own. It was a very good system, but I used to get the tags on the wrong trunks every once in a while. I once sent a bride and groom in one direction and all their luggage in the opposite direction. After I had done that I asked to be changed to another station, because I knew the groom would come back. Then I learned to telegraph.

"They put me to work in a telegraph office that was away up in the air. You reached it by a flight of stairs that was like a balloon flight. The office was provided with a stove, but the coal bin was at the foot of the stairs. The coal bucket was about the size of a thimble, and I took sixty trips the first night carrying up coal to feed the stove.

"When I had orders for a train the conductor would refuse to come up after them, and I would refuse to take them down to him; so we compromised by my wrapping them around a lump of coal and dropping them down. I hated to carry coal up that mile of stairs and then throw it away like that!

"I soon asked for a different job. The boss said he'd send a man to relieve me. He did. The man got off the train and looked at the steps and then caught the train again before it got away.

"I had that job five years. Twenty-seven men were sent there to relieve me, but they all faded away at the foot of the stairs. Finally a man was unloaded there drunk, and he did not know where he was until the morning dawned, and by that time I had made my getaway.

"At the next place to which I went I was a hero. The town was swarming with pretty girls, and I got the smile habit. I couldn't have looked serious if I had tried. Girls were after me morning, noon and night. They came in pairs and quartets, sextets and whole choruses. I blossomed out in rosy ties. I got myself some gloves and carried a cane.

"The next thing I got was a black eye.

"A fellow came down to the railroad station and invited me out into the freight shed and offered to lick me. I licked him. A still bigger one came and I licked him. The fourth time I was embarrassed, because I couldn't devote all my time to fighting. I had worked to do. With this burden on my mind I lost some of my cunning and so got licked.

"From that time on there were half a dozen candidates for thrashings from me every day. All the girls wanted to be loved and all the young fellows wanted to be licked.

"Finally the superintendent of the road came

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis.—ss.

We, G. A. TOMLINSON, as President, and DAVID W. STOCKING, as Secretary, of THE MUTUAL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, do hereby certify that at the annual meeting of the stockholders of THE MUTUAL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, duly held at the office of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of June, A. D. 1913, at 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon thereof, pursuant to due notice given, as provided by the By-Laws, of said corporation, at which said meeting 3305 shares out of a total of 6250 shares of the capital stock of said corporation issued and outstanding, were represented in person or by proxy, resolutions were unanimously adopted by the vote of all the said stock so represented as aforesaid at said meeting, amending the Certificate of Incorporation of the corporation to the extent and in the particulars hereinafter named, which said resolutions are in words and figures following, to-wit:

"RESOLVED (1), That Article IV of the Certificate of Incorporation of THE MUTUAL STEAMSHIP COMPANY be, and the same hereby is, amended so as to read as follows:

"'ARTICLE IV.'"

"The government of the corporation, and the management of its affairs, shall be vested in a Board of three Directors, who shall be stockholders of the corporation.

"Members of the Board of Directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation, or at any adjournment thereof, for a period of one year and until their successors are elected and qualified.

"The persons forming this corporation shall constitute its first Board of Directors.

"The annual meeting of the stockholders of the corporation shall be held at its office in Duluth, Minnesota, on the first Tuesday in June in each year, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon thereof.

"The Board of Directors shall hold, without any notice thereof, its first meeting for the year immediately after the election of the Directors at said annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof. At said meeting, the Board of Directors shall elect from its own number, a President and a Vice President, and shall also elect a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Board of Directors, all of whom shall constitute the officers of the corporation, and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and qualified.

"The offices of President and of Treasurer, or of Vice President and of Treasurer, or of Secretary and of Treasurer, may be held by the same person.

"Any vacancies in the Board of Directors, or in any of the said offices, may be filled by the Board of Directors for the unexpired term.

"The Board of Directors is invested with complete and unrestricted authority in the management of the affairs of the corporation, and is authorized to exercise for such purposes, as general agent of the corporation, its entire corporate authority."

"RESOLVED (2), That the President and the Secretary of this Company be, and they hereby are, authorized and directed to make, execute and acknowledge a certificate, under the corporate seal of this Company, embracing this and the foregoing resolution, and to cause such certificate to be filed, recorded and published in the manner required by law."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We, the undersigned, have, pursuant to the foregoing authorization, hereunto subscribed our names, as aforesaid, and caused the corporate seal of said corporation to be hereunto affixed, in triplicate, this 27th day of June, A. D. 1913.

RATES ARE LOWEST

The Duluth Herald's charges for classified advertising are less per thousand circulation than those of any other newspaper in Minnesota.

For information as to contract rates and the probable amount of space your ad would take, ask for a "want" ad man, who will be pleased to call upon you.

Best results are gained from ads when definite information is given. When information is lacking the persumption is that desirable features are lacking.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

MORE IRON ORE—RICHARD CULlen, president of the Public Steel company, has returned from re-examination of the Public Steel company's property west of the Pioneer mine at Ely, Minn. Mr. Cullen says the hematite iron ore indications on that part of the Public Steel company's property indicate the iron ore deposits to be at least 2,000 feet wide and over one mile long on the Public Steel company's holdings and that some of the hematite iron ore on the islands will go 40 per cent metallic iron at the surface. The Pioneer, Zenith, Savoy and Sibley mines contain 200,000,000. With vein of ore 1,900 feet deep, 800 feet wide worth $175 per ton under the ground; add it up and 300,000,000 tons makes it $525,000,000,00, which is all adjacent to the east section line of the Public Steel company's property. Old miners who have been working the past fifteen years in the Pioneer mine claim the Public Steel company has more ore under its island in Long lake, west of the Pioneer mine, than there is in the Pioneer, Zenith, Savoy and Sibley mines and after my re-examination of the Public Steel company's property, west of Pioneer, I believe the old miners' statement to be true and if so then of course the Public Steel company has also 300,000,000 tons ore worth $525,000,000. The Public Steel company deeds extend a mile and a half west in a southwestly course a mile and a half from west section line of the Pioneer mine, clean across the famous Chandler section 28, 62-12, and half way across the section west of it. The Chandler mine shipped the richest ore that ever went down the lakes the past twenty-five years. Looks as if the Public Steel company's iron formation, west of the Pioneer, is twice as wide as the Pioneer iron formation. The famous John Mallman wrote eleven years ago on the iron property now held by the Public Steel company that the company's property was selected years ago, and that such a rich selection of iron properties could not be made now; that the company's island, west of the Pioneer mine, had the same iron indications as was over the Pioneer, Zenith, Savoy and Sibley mines, and could be mined just as cheaply as those operated at Ely, because the rock is a felt rock and will not leak; besides, the company's lease holds S½ section 16, 62-13, 320 acres, on which a lot of work has been done, showing this also to be a great iron property on which N. Lenner, Ph. D., St. Paul, in 1906, wrote as follows: "Soudan iron formation is found cropping out in different places, indicating the iron ore deposit to be a quarter to half mile wide running across the section." The famous Mallman also wrote very high of this half section. I commenced working in the iron mines and shipping iron ore to Cleveland forty-two years ago. I bought these lands fourteen years ago and I believe I know my business and I believe that when the Public Steel company gets $100,000 in its treasury to its credit in the banks to buy half a dozen Sullivan diamond drills to run day and night double shift, and put a couple of drills and mining machinery to work on S½ 16-62-13, I believe that inside of six months from the time the drills start work the Public Steel company, west of Pioneer mine, will have shown up the largest and richest body of hematite iron ore that ever was or ever will be proven in the great iron state of Minnesota. Then we expect to sell the stock as high as $10 per share. The Public Steel company does not owe to the extent of $1 in bonds, mortgages, judgments or notes, and has over 975,000 shares in its treasury. Stocks selling fast at $1 per share. Office, McKay hotel. All cashiers' checks, postoffice orders or sight drafts should be made payable to Richard Cullen, president and treasurer of Public Steel company. Send by registered letter to Hotel McKay.
